PERIODICAL
ML5
.M85

Shelf No
~~4055.12~~
v.24
1873.

FOUNDED 1852
SICUT PATRIBUS SIT DEUS NOBIS
BOSTONIA CONDITA A.D.
1630.
CIVITATIS REGIMINE DONATA A.D. 1822.
BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2022 with funding from Boston Public Library

https://archive.org/details/musicaltimessing3418unse

* 8055.10
V.34
1893.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND

SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY.

VOL. XXXIV.

LONDON & NEW YORK
NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.
1893.

B.M.
April 12, 1894
M. cord.

+8055.10
v.34
1893.

MUSIC IN VOL. XXXIV.

PIECES WITH SACRED WORDS.

No.
600.	I did call upon the Lord	Frank L. Moir.
601.	As it began to dawn	Myles B. Foster.
603.	Crossing the Bar	H. H. Woodward.
605.	Seek ye the Lord	Charles Bradley.
606.	O God, who is like unto Thee	Myles B. Foster.
609.	There were Shepherds	Myles B. Foster.

PIECES WITH SECULAR WORDS.

599.	To the Audience	Hamilton Clarke.
602.	Shine on, O Moon!	Michael Watson.
604.	Wanderer's Night-Song	Charles Wood.
607.	Two Cupids	A. Wellesley Batson.
608.	A Lover's Counsel	Frederic H. Cowen.
610.	In a drear-nighted December	G. A. Macfarren.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

INDEX.

—*—

LEADING ARTICLES.

	Page
1893	9
A new American Composer	586
Beethoven's Sketch Books ...	14, 530
Bizet's "Djamileh"	141
Cambridge Musical Degrees	10
Chicago Exhibition, Music at the ...	329
"Falstaff" and the Land of Song ...	137
"Falstaff," Dr. Mackenzie on ...	330, 397
"Falstaff." The Music of	202, 265
Folk-Songs in Symphonies	652
Franz Liszt's Letters	201
From my Study 11, 75, 269, 331, 395, 459,	588, 716
Gounod, Charles	649
Gounod: The Man and the Master ...	713
Legouvé's Reminiscences of Malibran...	335
London Street Music and The County Council	529
Mozart's Wife	143
Music and Manners	270, 334
Music in a French Cathedral	393
Music in Public Worship	73
Norwich Festival Novelties	521
"Of the Mastersingers' Gracious Art"	457, 526, 590
Orchestras in Theatres	78
Savage Music and its Lessons	651
Schubertiana	461
Sir Augustus Harris on the Opera ...	585
Some old Programmes	267
Stars and Salaries	79
The Allgemeine Deutsche Musikverein in Munich	463
The Music Hall in excelsis	16
The Music of Negation	207
Tschaikowsky, Peter Iltitsch	718
Wagner and Richter	208
Weber in London	399
Welsh Choral Singing	525, 612
Wingham, Thomas...	270

OCCASIONAL NOTES.

	Page
"Action" in Dramas	720
Amusia and Musical Faculty	337
Appreciation of elaborate and fully developed works	144
Art as a means of Prize-getting... ...	535
Bach's "Well-tempered Clavier," Used as a Problem in Higher Mathematics	273
Beethoven Supplement to THE MUSICAL TIMES	16
Bogus Bards	654
British Museum. Annual report on musical publications	720
Cambridge University Musical Society (First Concert)	402
"Canadian Degrees"	81
Chicago Exhibition. Cause(?) of the musical fiasco	719
Choirboys at St. George's, Windsor, and Musicians of the future	594
Coleridge (Lord Chief-Justice) on Music	338
Congregational Music	272
Cornelius's "Gunlöd" and Dr. Lassen's orchestration	720
Cowen's (Mr.) "Signa" in Milan ...	721
Critics criticised 145, 210,	211
Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts, French music at	17
De Reszke M. Jean) and Opera of the present day...	593
Difficulties in the present Musical Notation	592
Dvorák's Mass	144
Early English Music	145
Edinburgh Musical Degrees ... 146,	533
Effect of Music on Lobsters	17
Examination Fees, Amounts paid in ...	403
Extraordinary Copying of Musical Compositions on a Post Card (?)	273
"Falstaff" and "Die Kinder der Haide" in Berlin	401
"Falstaff": Enthusiasm at Dr. Mackenzie's Lectures	403
"Falstaff" and the Monthly Magazines	337
Feeling and Knowledge in Music ...	535
Floral trophies and the Portuguese Custom House	594
"Fondness for Music" and the possession of a Pianoforte	146
"Foreign" Operas in Paris, Difficulties in hearing	534
"Form and Design in Music"	402
Franz's (Robert) Letters	17
French music at the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts	17
Freny and Wagner	146
Gluck as a performer upon musical glasses	17
Gounod, Homage (?) to, and the performance of Bizet's "Djamileh"	721
Gounod's Music and the Pall Mall Gazette	654
Greek Music, A recent discovery of Ancient	719
Halévy's "La Juive." The revival of...	273
Hall, Mr. Marshall, and the "Ormonde" Chair of Music	211
Haydn's (?) "Liebes Mädchen hör mir zu" ("Maiden Fair, O deign to tell")	594
Ignorance of Music as a means to its greater enjoyment (?)	535
"Incidental Music" in Plays	654
Incorporated Society of Musicians ...	81
Increase of Musical Festivals	79
"In Honour of Music" at the Mansion House	721
Japan, Music and Musical Instruments of	534
Joachim (Dr.), An Anecdote	81
Leipzig Conservatory, Jubilee of the ...	209
Le Ménéstrel and Beethoven's A minor Quartet (Op. 132)...	273
Littleton, Mrs., Death of	212
Liszt's Death	211
"Luren," Performances on	465
Musical News notices of Crystal Palace Concerts 17,	81
Music and Politics	80
Musical Subjects. Treatment of, by Literary Men 337,	466
Musicians, The Worshipful Company of	466
New Musical Monthlies	654
New systems of Musical Notation ...	592
Novelties at Festivals	593
Organists and a "Living Wage" ...	721
Organists, Appreciation of...	594
Organists' Association for Wakefield and District	536
Organ Programmes, Curiosities of ...	80
Orlando di Lasso Anniversary	146
People's Singing Class in America, A ...	16
Pianoforte Playing as a means of warding off Paralysis	403
Prize-getting in relation to Art	535
Prodigies, The Lancet on	336
"Repeats" in Symphonies	210
Royal Academy of Music Club	466
Santley, Mr. Charles, Appreciation of, in Africa	595
Schubert's "Erl-King," Anecdote about	466
Some Criticisms of Musical Festivals ...	594
"Some Musical Haunts in London" ...	272
Sonata Form, The. Is it exhausted? ...	212
Stanford's "Irish" Symphony at the Philharmonic Society	338
Sterndale Bennett Society, The	536
Street Music, An Association for the better regulation of	654
"The Organ and the Pianoforte." Is the study of the two instruments compatible?	719
"The survival of the fittest" applied to music	653
Thematic coincidence in the Law Courts, A	465
Training Colleges of England and Wales. A Blue Book	535
Vibrato, The, Its use and abuse	145
"Voix parlée et chantée." By Dr. Paul Blocq	337

Page

"Wagner Choir," A 81
Wagner, Richard, and King Louis of Bavaria (Correspondence of) 211
Wagner's Letters to the Dresden Abendzeitung 402
Wagner's "Walküre" and the French Press 336
Wakefield and District Organists' Association 536
Wesley's "Wilderness" 273
What is Sacred Music? and The Methodist Times 146

LONDON CONCERTS, FESTIVALS, &c.

Associated Board, The 470

Bach Choir, The 22, 215, 341
Barnby (Sir Joseph) Lecture 26
Barnett (Miss Emma) Recital 409
Barrow (Mr. de Vere) Recital 472
"Becket," Professor Stanford's Music to 151
Bonawitz (Mr. J. H.) Recital 409
Bridge (Dr. J. F.) Lectures 155, 347, 731
Bright (Miss Dora) Concerts ... 279, 359
Buonamici (Mr.) Recital 409

Chapel Royal Concert 410
College of Organists (Annual Dinner) ... 348
Covent Garden Theatre (Promenade Concerts) 539, 599, 663
Crystal Palace Concerts 23, 150, 216, 278, 342, 407, 661, 728

Davies (Miss Fanny) Recital 409
Denhof (Mr. Ernest) Recital 472
"Design and Expression in Music" (Dr. Parry's Lecture) 153
Diémer (Mr.) Recital) 409
Dolmetsch (Mr.) Concerts 90, 169, 233, 356, 423, 485
Drury Lane Opera 277
Dvorák's New Mass... 217

Eibenschütz (Miss) Recital 220
Essipoff (Madame) Recital 345
Eussert (Miss Margarethe) Recital ... 409

Finsbury Choral Association 422
Frickenhaus (Madame) Concert 278

Gérardy (Miss Thérésa) Recital... ... 729
German's (Mr.) Music to "The Tempter" 600
Gresham College (Lectures) 155, 347, 731
"Grieg's Harmony" 349
Guildhall School of Music 25, 170, 219, 346
Guild of St. Cecilia, The 473

Hallé (Sir Charles) Concert 150
Hallé (Sir Charles) and Lady Hallé's Recital 170
Hann (Messrs.) Chamber Concerts 26, 611
Harris (Sir Augustus) Operatic Concerts 358
Henschel (Mrs.) Vocal Recital 423
Highbury Philharmonic Society 89, 220, 357
Hirschfeld (Miss Isabel) Recital... ... 472
Hulland (Mr. Edgar) Recital 409

Incorporated Society of Musicians' Annual Conference 87
"In Honour of Music" 732
Irving Amateur Orchestral Society ... 342

"Jane Annie" at the Savoy 343

Koczalski (Raoul) Recital... 409
Korbay (Mr.) Recital 472

Laistner Choir, The 345
London Chamber Concerts 170, 218, 360
London Gregorian Choral Association 411
London Institution (Sir Joseph Barnby's Lecture) 26

Page

London School Board Choir Competition, The 739
London Symphony Concerts 22, 86, 150, 215, 727

Mackenzie (Dr. A. C.) Lectures ... 88, 234
Marx (Madame Berthe) Recital ... 408, 472
Middlesex Choral Union 22, 343
Moberly's (Mr.) String Orchestra ... 342
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts 23, 86, 151, 217, 662, 728
Musical Artists' Society 346
Musical Association 42, 154, 220, 280, 348, 411, 730
Musical Guild, The... ... 26, 346, 410, 730
Musicians' Company, The... 473, 487, 731

National Co-operative Festival at the Crystal Palace 539

Paderewski's (Mr.) Recitals 26, 409, 729
Parry (Dr. Hubert) Lectures ... 89, 153
—— "Hypatia" Music 91
Philharmonic Society ... 215, 277, 341, 406
Plainsong and Mediæval Society, The 90, 348, 411, 473

Queen's Hall, The 739

Radio (Miss Caroline de) Recital ... 472
Richter Concerts 407, 470
Royal Academy of Music 24, 219, 279, 410, 471, 730
Royal Amateur Orchestral Society 25, 152, 342
Royal Artillery Band 278
Royal Choral Society 22, 86, 150, 214, 277, 340, 727
Royal College of Music 24, 153, 218, 347, 410, 470, 730
Royal Opera, Covent Garden 21, 150, 340, 406, 469

Saint-Saëns's "Samson et Dalila" ... 599
Santley (Mr.) New Mass 220
Sarasate (Mr.) Concerts ... 42, 103, 662, 728
Sauret (Mr.) Concert 278
Sawyer (Dr. F. J.) Lecture 349
Schönberger (Mr.) Recital 472
Siloti (Mr.) Recital 729
Simonson (Frida) Recital 409
Stainer (Sir John) Lecture 87
Stanford (Professor Villiers) New Mass 411
Stock Exchange Orchestral Society 25, 152
Stojowski (Mr.) Recital 409
Strolling Players' Orchestral Society ... 342

"The Foresters" at Daly's Theatre ... 663
"The Golden Web" 152, 218
"The Magic Opal" at the Lyric Theatre 91, 294
The Tonic Sol-fa Composition Club ... 280
Thursday Subscription Concerts 26, 152, 218
Tonic Sol-fa Festival 472

"Utopia" at the Savoy Theatre ... 663

Verne (Miss) Recital 406

Wagner Cycle at Covent Garden 406, 469
Wagner Society 348
Westminster Orchestral Society 25, 233, 342, 729

MUSIC IN THE PROVINCES AND ABROAD.

America ... 40, 102, 232, 292, 356, 611, 667

Belfast 601, 664
Birmingham 28, 92, 156, 601, 740
Bolton (Dvorák's "St. Ludmila") ... 27
Bonn (Beethoven Festival) 343
Brighton ("The Dream of Jubal") ... 27
Bristol 28, 92, 165, 228, 281, 349, 419, 475, 602, 664, 740
Bristol (Festival) 724

Page

Cambridge (The new Doctors at) ... 408
Carlsruhe (Berlioz Cycle)... 724
Cheltenham (Festival) 659
Chicago 421, 476, 549

Dublin 37, 166, 282, 419, 664

Edinburgh 37, 99, 166, 229, 283, 350, 420, 665, 741

Foreign Notes 44, 106, 173, 236, 297, 363, 427, 489, 553, 615, 680, 747

German Musical Festivals, Two... ... 343
Glasgow 37, 99, 166, 229, 283, 350, 540, 602, 665, 741

Hanley (Festival) 661
Hovingham (Festival) 660

Leipzig (English Music at) 412
Liverpool 38, 100, 167, 229, 283, 355, 420, 475, 540, 603, 665, 741

Manchester 38, 101, 167, 230, 284, 603, 666, 742
Milan (Cowen's "Signa") 726
Montreal 102

North Staffordshire (Festival) ... 661, 742
Norwich (Festival) 656
Nottingham 39, 101, 168, 230, 604, 743

Oxford 39, 230, 420

Plymouth ("The Dream of Jubal") ... 27
Pontypridd (Eisteddfod) 537

Salisbury ("The Golden Legend" and "The Revenge")... 412
Sheffield 284, 355, 604, 743
Swansea ("David and Saul," Jenkins) ... 155

Tewkesbury (Festival) 658

Westmorland Festival, A 279
Wilts and Hants 231, 291, 356, 549, 604, 666, 743
Winchester (Cathedral Festival) ... 279
Worcester (Festival) 598
Würzburg ("Kunihild") 227

Yorkshire 39, 101, 168, 231, 291, 475, 667, 744

MISCELLANEOUS CONCERTS, INTELLIGENCE, &c.

Adler, Mr. Moritz (Concert) 295
Albert Palace, Battersea (Sale of Organ) 550
Allen, Mr. Aldebert (Flute Recital) ... 745
All Saints', Tufnell Park 104
All Saints', West Dulwich 358
Anglo-German School of Music, West Norwood 358

Balfe Quartet, The (Concert) 104
Bauer, Mr. Harold, Miss Ethel Bauer, and Mr. Herbert Walenn (Concert) ... 41
Bechstein, Mr. C. 295
Belinfante, Signorina Estrèla (Concert) 485
Bennett, Mr. G. J. (Musical Degree) ... 170
Birkbeck Institution (Violin Class) ... 485
Borghi, Signora, and Mr. Sidney H. Brooks (Concert) 233
Borough Road New College 43
Bournemouth Winter Gardens (New Organ) 424
Brinsmead, Messrs. (Pianoforte for Princess May) 424
Bristol Industrial and Fine Art Exhibition (Musical Competitions) 611
Bristol Orpheus Glee Society (Prize Glees) 746
Brixton School of Music 170
Brousil, Miss C. A. (Pupils' Concert) ... 357
Budd, Mr. George (Concert) 424
Burghes, Miss Annie (Concert) 360

Page

Cambridge Archæological Museum ... 745
Capocci, Signor 104
Carver, Mr. and Mrs. (Concert) 293
Catford Choral Society 41, 357
Chaminade, Miss (Concert) 423
Chaplin, Miss Kate 104
Choir Appointments 47, 109, 176, 238, 301, 366, 430, 494, 557, 620, 683, 749
Christ Church, Lancaster Gate ... 43, 234
Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road 170, 294
Church of England Sunday School Institute 357
"Cinderella" at the Lyceum (Mr. German's "Shepherds' Dance") 746
Clapham Philharmonic Concerts 170, 233, 294
Clarence School of Music, The 745
Coenen (Mr.) Concert 732
Cohn, Mr. Isidor (Recital) 345
College of Organists 103, 486
Cowen, Miss (Matinée) 233
Cowen's new Opera "Signa" 20
Cross, Mr. Henry 361
Culwick, Mr. James C. 550
Cusins, Sir William (Concert) 423
Cutler, Mr. Edward (Matinée) 169

Dart, Mr. Henry J. B. 234, 668
"David and Saul" (Jenkins) at Swansea 155
Davies, Mr. H. Walford (Recitals) ... 357
Davis, Mr. Frederick W. 611
De Broc, Madame (Concert-Lecture) ... 234
Dunn, Mr. Sinclair (Concert) 360
Durham University (Banquet of Graduates in Music) 102

Earl's Court Exhibition 294
Elliott, Miss M. (Concerts) ... 346, 486
Emmanuel Church, Dulwich 668
Enequist, Mdlle. Mathilda (Concert) ... 486
Epping Choral Society 677
Eussert Miss M. (Recital) 345
Evans, Mr. Henry A. (Concert) 486

Facts, Rumours, and Remarks 18, 82, 147, 212, 273, 338, 403, 467, 536, 595 655, 721
Fowles, Mr. Ernest (Brahms Concert)... 424
Fry, Mr. Charles ("Hamlet" Recital)... 234

Gallrein, Mr. Alfred (Concert) 486
Ganz, Mr. Wilhelm (Concert) 486
Gear, Mr. George (Concert) 360
German, Mr. Edward ("Three Dances") 424
Glasgow Glee and Catch Club 424
"God with us" Mr. W. M. Wait's Christmas Cantata 43 104
Goldsmiths' Institute ("Rose Maiden") 424
Greenhill, The Misses (Concert)... ... 486
Grice, Mr. Robert (Presentation) ... 612
Grimaldi, Madame (Recital) 346
Guards' Chapel 295, 359
Guarnerius, Joseph (violoncello for sale) 170
Guest, Mr. John ("The Light of the World") 234
Guildhall School of Music... 745
Guilmant, Mr. Alex. (Recital) 43

Haddock, Mr. Edgar (Concerts) 421
Hampstead Conservatoire ... 42, 293
Hampstead Popular Concerts 745
Hanover Church, Regent Street (Harvest Festival) 668
Heale, Miss Lily (Concert) 360
Holy Trinity, Upper Tooting ... 424, 746
Horner, Mr. Burnham ("Life and Work of Dr. Arne") 361
Hornsey and Crouch End Orchestral Society 103, 359
Hornsey Parish Church 43
Hoyte, Mr. W. S. 677
Hulme, Miss Helen (Concert) 233

Incorporated Society of Musicians ... 42
Inverni, Madame (Concert) 485
Ivimey, Mr. John Wm. 746

Jackson, Mr. B. (Organ Recitals) ... 550
Janko Keyboard, The 295
Janson, Miss Agnes (Concert) 293
Jones, Miss Winifred (Recital) 41

Kauffmann, Miss Nellie (Concert) ... 360
Kipps, Mr. W. J. (Organ Recital) ... 424
Kiver, Mr. Ernest (Concert) 422
Koczalski, Raoul (Recital) 346
Kyrle Society, The 360, 677

Layton, Mrs. (Concert) 486
Liebmann, Miss Alice Maud (Concert)... 103
Lindo, Mr. Algernon (Concerts)... 294, 487
Little, Dr. H. Walmisley (Concert) ... 293
Loder, Mr. Charles (Concert) 360
London Academy of Music ... 423, 745
London Church Choir Association (Festival) 611
London Male Voice Choir, The 43
London Sunday School Choir, The 232, 422
Lothbury, Male Voice Choir 103
Loughton Choral Society 677
Lundberg, Mr. Lennart (Recital) ... 345

Macdonald, Miss Bell (Concert)... ... 234
Mackway, Mr. Richard (Concert) ... 42
Manns, Mr. August 104
Marx, Madame Berthe (Concert) ... 358
Marylebone Parish Church (Lenten Service) 153
Mascheroni, Signor Angelo (Concert) ... 424
Mason, Mrs. Marion, and Mr. John Josey (Concert) 234
Matthew's Girls' Club, Westminster (Concert in aid of) 360
Merchant Taylors' School (Concert) ... 358
Miller, Mr. C. E. (Recital) 43
Minshall, Mr. E. (Concerts) 233
Möller, Fröken Martha (Concert) ... 423
Morgan, Mr. T. Westlake 550
Mukle, Miss Annie V. (Concert)... ... 293
Mulder, Mr. Jan (Concert) 487
Mulholland, Mr. Haydn 677
Musical Artists' Society ... 104, 423, 486
Music-stool, A New (Messrs. Harrow's) 104

Nachèz, Mr. (Violin Recitals) ... 360, 424
National Art Training School 233
National Temperance Choral Union Fête 476
Naylor, Mr. E. W. (Lectures) 359
Neighbourhood Guild, The (Concert in aid of) 745
New Southgate and Friern Barnet Choral Society 294
Nonconformist Choir Union ... 422, 677
North-East London Institute 169, 233, 486
North-West London Philharmonic Society 232

Organ Appointments 47, 109, 176, 238, 301, 366, 430, 494, 557, 620, 683, 749
Owen, Mrs. Heseltine, and Miss Sasse (Concert) 356
Oxford University Degrees 744

Paddington Choral Association 293
Paddington Choral and Orchestral Association 41
Parratt, Sir Walter... ... ... 104, 424
Payne, Miss Madeline (Recital) 345
People's Palace 234, 487, 612
People's Palace Choral Society 170
"Peterkin" at the Royalty Theatre ... 612
Phillips, Mr. Charles (Concert) 358
Physick, Mr. Alfred (Organ Recital) ... 234
Plowitz, Mr. Theodor (Classical Concerts) 103
Popular Musical Union 234
Post Office Musical Society (Concert) ... 358
Prescott, Miss Oliveria (Lectures) ... 745
Princess of Wales (Statue of) 677
Putney School of Music 360

Racster, Miss Olga, and Miss M. Elliott (Concert) 486
Ravenscourt Choral Society 43
Rayleigh, Lord (Lectures) 170
Reeves, Miss Amy Louise (Recital) ... 232
Reeves, Mr. Sims 746
Regent's Park Sacred Harmonic Society 295
Rendall, Mr. H. W. ("The Lost Prince") 668
Roberts, Dr. J. Varley 746
Robinson, Mr. Henry R. A. (Concert) ... 423
Rockley, Mr. J. V. (Concert) 104
Rose, Mr. Algernon ("The Queen's March Past") 612
Rome, English Church in (new Organ) 746
Royal Academy of Music 42, 103, 104, 169, 361, 424, 487, 677
Royal Albert Hall (Organ Recitals) 295, 668
Royal Artillery Band (Concert) 359
Royal College of Music 486
Royal Victoria Hall 104
Royal Wedding, The (Musical arrangements for) 424

Santley, Mr. Charles 487
Schidrowitz, Miss, and Miss Zagury (Concert) 293
Schönberger, Mr. (Concert) 422
Sergison, Mr. de Manby 360
Sharp, Mr. Cecil J. (Concert) 360
Shinner, Miss Emily (Concert) 360
Simonetti, Mr. (Concert) 359
Slocombe, Mr. A. J. (Recital) 485
Smart, Mr. J. B. (Concert) 486
Smith, Mr. Braxton (Concert) 423
Smith, Mr. Hermann ("The Art of Tuning the Pianoforte") 611
Somerset House Orchestral Society ... 234
South Hackney Parish Church (Harvest Festival) 668
South Hampstead Orchestra 424
South London Institute of Music (Violin Classes) 103
South-West Choral Society, The ... 43
St. Agnes', Kennington Park (Harvest Thanksgiving) 668
St. Alban's, Holborn 170, 423
St. Andrew's, Fulham 43
St. Andrew's, Thornhill Square 295
St. Anne's, Soho 43, 153
St. Cecilia Musical Society 677
St. Columba's (Church of Scotland) ... 295
St. Frideswide's, Poplar (new Organ) ... 104
St. Gabriel's, Willesden Green 232
St. George's Boys' Brigade (Concert in aid of) 234
St. George's Glee Union 170, 233, 359, 424, 745
St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road 42, 104, 170, 294, 360
St. Leonard's College, Amhurst Park (Concert) 294
St. Luke's, Battersea (Organ Recital) ... 295
St. Mark's College, Chelsea (Cherubini's Mass in D)... 668
St. Mark's, Notting Hill 234, 677
St. Marylebone Parish Church 42
St. Mary's, Kilburn 360, 424, 668
St. Mary, Newington (Dedication Festival) 360
St. Michael's, Cornhill (Organ Recitals) 550
St. Michael's, Star Street... ... 234, 677
St. Michael's, Wood Green (Harvest Festival) 677
St. Mildred's, Bread Street (Harvest Festival) 677
St. Mildred's, Lee (Harvest Festival) ... 677
St. Paul's Cathedral 42, 104, 293
St. Peter's, Brockley ("St. Peter") ... 487
St. Peter's Choral Society, Brockley ... 170
St. Peter's, Cranley Gardens ("Crucifixion") 104
St. Peter's, Eaton Square... ... 42, 234, 485
St. Peter's, Woolwich (Concert in aid of) 357
St. Philip's, Battersea (Harvest Festival) 677
St. Philip's, Sydenham (Dedication Festival) 746
St. Saviour's, Brixton Hill 43

	Page
St. Silas's, Penton Street, Choral Society	295
St. Stephen's, South Kensington ...	294
Stedman, Mr. J. (Presentation)	43
Straeten, Mr. E. Van Der (Concert) ...	486
Streatham Choral Society	41
Strelitskie, Mr. Louis D. (Concert) ...	423
Stuart, Mr. Ralph (Recital)	345
Suter, Miss Alice (Concert)	234
Swinburne's Ode for the opening of the Royal College of Music	18
—— New Poem, "East to West" ...	82
Swiss Church, Endell Street ("Sois tranquille")	170
Talbot, Mr. J. D. (Lecture)	234
"The Year Book of Australia"	359
Thomas, Mr. John (Concert)	485
Thorne, Mr. E. H. 359,	611
Tonic Sol-fa College (Annual Meeting)	422
Trask, Miss (Concert)	357
Trinity College 41, 485,	550
Turnbull, Mrs., and Mr. D'Arcy Clayton (Concert)	294
Union Chapel, Islington ("Light of the World")	359
United Kingdom Band of Hope Union...	104
Veltrino, Miss Marian (Lecture)... ...	292
"Victoria" Fund, Concert in aid of ...	487
Waltham Abbey Church (Organ Recitals)	550
Walton, Miss Kathleen (Concert) ...	360
Warner, Mr. Harry E. (Concert) ...	293
Waterloo Oratorio Society ("The Prodigal Son")	746
Welsh National Festival at St. Paul's Cathedral	745
Wesleyan Chapel, Oakley Place ("The Messiah")...	294
Wessely, Mr. Hans (Concert)	359
Westbourne House School (Concert) ...	42
West Hampstead Choral and Orchestral Society	169
West Middlesex Choral Society ("The Messiah")...	294
Westminster Abbey (Old Choristers' Annual Dinner)	677
Westminster and Southlands Training Colleges (Concert)	295
Wigley, Miss (Concert)	294
Wilcox, Mrs. (Concert)	487
Williams, Miss Lottie (Concert)... ...	233
Williams, Miss Winifred (Concert) ...	358
Wind Instrument Chamber Music Society 103,	357
Woodford Choral Society...	677
Woodford Wells Musical Society ...	677
Woodside Park Musical Society 43, 170,	347
Brissler, Ferdinand...	601
Broadwood, Henry Fowler	474
Brodsky, Franz	419
Brückner, Gothard	28
Büchner, August	156
Burkhardt, Erdmann	28
Cafferata, C.	91
Cahen, Ernest	740
Catalani, Alfredo	540
Crawford, George Arthur	412
Cunha e Silva, José Narciso da	28
Cusins, William George	600
Czerwinski, Wilhelm	228
D'Alton, Helen	228
Debois, Ferdinand	349
Deetz, Marie	474
Delehelle, Jean Charles Alfred	540
De Meur, Charton	27
Dengremont, Maurice	601
De Valdemora, Francisco	228
Distin, Theodore	281
Dubois-Mayer, Adolphe	540
Dubrucq, Antoine Jean Baptiste ...	601
Dwight, John Sullivan	739
Edwards, Amelia M.	663
Ehrke, Paul	601
Eichberg, Julius	92
Erdelyi, Ignaz	540
Erkel, Franz	412
Ernst II., Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha	539
Fendrich, Johann Karl	475
Ferry, George	156
Fischer, Carl August	92
Freny, Rudolf	228
Fulcher, John	475
Fumagalli, Disma	228
Gatti, Nazareno	156
Ghislanzoni, Antonio	475
Giehrl, Josef	349
Grohé, Jeanne	281
Haddock, Thomas	663
Hanisch, Joseph	28
Harper, Charles A.	91
Heine, Georg...	474
Hellmesberger, Joseph	664
Henselt, Rosalie von	664
Herion, Abraham Adam	601
Hermann, J.	228
Herold, Henri	474
Heyblom, Alexis W. A.	601
Heynderickx, Max	475
Hill, Carl	92
Hill, Thomas...	663
Hinke, Gustav	540
Homeyer, Heinrich	92
Hopstock, Bruno	28
Horak, Eduard	28
Horn, August...	281
Hughes, R. S.	228
Itzel, Adam (jun.)	664
Jammes, Jean Vital Ismaël	412
Jesse, Paul	281
Jung, Carl	281
Jungmann, Albert	28
Kalliwoda, Wilhelm	601
Kalls, Edouard	349
Königsberg, Edouard	664
Labure, Paul	540
Lachner, Vincenz	156
Lagier, Suzanne	156
Lake, Ernest	228
Lang, Josepha	156
Lavainne, Ferdinand	92
L'Epine, Ernest	228
Le Roy, Charles-César	664
Lichtenstein, George	156
Lilienecron, Baron von	156
Littleton, Mrs.	212
Litzau, J. B.	475
Markhl-Wiswe, Elizabeth...	540
Matauschek, Josef	28
McKinlay, John	600
Meinhardt, August	156
Ménard, L.	28
Meyer, Wilhelm	474
Michalesi, Joseph	28
Millard, John...	540
Mittelhauser, F.	28
Monina, Fortunato	419
Murray, William	739
Nabich, Moritz	474
Nadaud, Gustave	349
Naylor, Sidney	228
Niemann, Oskar	419
Oliver, Antonio Melchior	92
Osborne, George Alexander	739
Otto-Alvsleben, Melitta	92
Pallerini, Antonio	28
Palmer, Percy	540
Pedrotti, Carlo	664
Plunder, A.	475
Price, Julius	228
Pyne, James Kendrick	228
Quidant, Alfred	664
Quidant, Jules	28
Radecke, Rudolf	349
Raff, Joseph C.	540
Ray, Stembridge	475
Rees, Carl	664
Riccio, Gaetano	740
Riccius, K. A. G.	474
Richardson, Thomas Bentick	281
Rose, George Thomas	228
Rubinstein, Alexander	664
Sahla, Wilhelm	281
Savoja, Pasquale	228
Schirmer, Gustav	540
Schletterer, H. M.	419
Schmidtlein, Marie	740
Schoegl, Friedrich	28
Schrammel, Hans	419
Schubert, Andreas	349
Schulz, F. A.	419
Schütky, Josef	419
Seelemann, Hugo	281
Sellenick, Adolphe Valentin	664
Servais, Madame	281
Sieberg Johannsen, Bertha	601
Sinsoilliez, Gabriel	156
Sjödén, Adolf	474
Spiess, Hermine	227
Superchi, Antonio	475
Talazac, M.	92
Tavary, Madame 664,	740
Thierfelder, Karl	419
Thurner, Auguste	419
Tiersch, Otto...	28
Tomlyn, Mary	749
Tonking, Isabel Susannah	601
Torricelli, Metaura	281
Uzès, Jules	739
Verrimst, M.	92
Vert, Honorato	349
Wachtel, Theodor	739
Walker, Bettina	156
Warnots, Henry	228
Waterson, J.	663
Weiler, George	349
Wilberforce, Charles	92
Williams, Lewis	740
Wingham, Thomas	228
Wittstatt, Bernhard	663
Wood, George	156
Woolhouse, W. S. B.	540
Woolf, Julia	739
Zanardini, Angelo	228
Ziegler, Charles	91
Zorilla, José	92

OBITUARY.

Albert-Bellon, Elise	28
Albrecht, C	474
Amadeo, Gaetano	281
Avenarius, Cæcilia	349
Bach, Otto	474
Backhaus, Ottomar...	475
Balart, Gabriel	475
Battanchon, Felix	474
Beck, Paul	601
Belagna, Joseph Antonio	740
Belic, Julius von Beliczay de	349
Bertolotti, Antonio	419
Bertuzzi, Pietro	419
Biagi, Francesco	28
Bial, Carl	92
Bickerstaff, William T.	349
Boisselot, Xavier	280
Boosey, John...	91
Bridge, John	600
Bridgman, Frederick William	91
Brindley, Charles	663

REVIEWS.

Page

"A Christmas Service of Song" ... 747
Alcock, Walter. The Song of the Egyptian Girl 352
Allitsen, Frances. Eight Songs ... 362
—— King and Slave 362
Arkwright, G. E. P. The Old English Edition. Nos. 1-7 550
Ashton, Algernon. Gigue, Elegy, and Scherzetto 173
—— Albumblätter für Pianoforte ... 489
—— Drei Klavierstücke 489
—— Fünf Lieder für eine Singstimme ... 489
—— Vier Lieder für eine Singstimme ... 489
—— Sonate (No. 2, G dur). Cavatine. Immortellen 613

Bach, A. Loewe-Album. Vol. III. ... 488
Balfour, Arthur J. Essays and Addresses 361
Barnby, J. The first Christmas ... 747
—— O Perfect Love 489
Barnett, J. F. Home 173
Beethoven's Symphonies in their Ideal Significance 297
Bendl, Karel. Twelve Songs, Set 2 (Stimmungsbilder) 362
Betjemann, Gilbert R. Sérénade Espagnol 426
Blakeley, W. Arthur. Tarantelle ... 614
Blumenthal, Jacques. Album of Twenty Songs 552
Brémont, Comtesse de. The World of Music 297
Burlington Music Books, The. Nos. 26 and 28 614

Carroll, Walter. Two Sonatinas, in C and D major 173
Cellier, Alfred. Three Pieces for Flute and Pianoforte 551
Corder, Frederick. Six Tenor Songs ... 426
Cowen, F. H. Summer on the River ... 362
—— Twelve Songs (Third Set) 551
Creser, William. Wedding March ... 489

Ellis, William Ashton. Wagner's Prose Works 171
"English County Songs" 552

Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, Catalogue of Music in the 235
Flaxland, G. Douze Pièces pour Piano 235

German, Edward. Suite for Flute and Pianoforte 551
—— Suite for Pianoforte 614
Glen, J. The Glen Collection of Scottish Dance Music... 552
Grossheim, H. Six Easy Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte 614

Hausegger, Friederich v. Richard Wagner und Schopenhauer 104
Haynes, Battison. Mozart's Flute Concerto in D. Arranged for Pianoforte 551
—— A sea dream 679
Henselt. The One Shilling Classical Album 614
Heritte-Viardot, L. The sweetest songs I ever sing. Revenge. Lullaby. The Daffodils 173
Heywood, John. The Art of Chanting 612
Hinton, Arthur. Sonata for Pianoforte and Violin 426
Hofmann, Heinrich. Kirmess 105

Jadassohn, S. Kinderfest (Children's Frolics) 614

Kirtland, J. S. R. Romance for Violin and Pianoforte 426
Kjerulf, Halfdan. Four Vocal Duets. Popular Songs 363

Lamberg, Joseph. Fileuse, Mazurka, Valse expressive 236
Libotton, G. Six Pieces for the Violoncello 426

Page

MacCunn, Hamish. Six Songs ... 297
Mascagni, Pietro. Sintomi d'Amore. Allora ed Ora 552
Mayer, Max. Bagatelles for the Pianoforte 614
Methodist Free Church Hymns with Tunes 296
Moody, Marie. Concert-Ouvertures in C, E minor, F sharp minor, D minor, A and C sharp minor 297
Moore, Graham P. Chromatische Etüden für Pianoforte. Heft 1, Nos. 1, 2, 3; Heft 2, Nos. 4, 5, 6 361
Mozart, W. A. Songs 614

Novello's Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices:—
Nos. 255 to 264 44
265 to 266 106
267 to 273 426
274 to 285 551
—— Part-Song Book:—
Nos. 627 to 638 296
650 to 655 44
639 to 645 552
656 to 669 678
—— Parish Choir Book:—
Nos. 86 to 101 105
102 to 126 295
127 to 133 488
134 to 138 552
—— The Orpheus:—
Nos. 230 to 242 105
243 to 254 488
—— Albums for Violin and Pianoforte:—
Nos. 31 to 33 361
24 362
—— Short Settings of the Holy Communion Office —
Nos. 19 to 24 105
25 to 27 678
—— Music Primers:—
No. 37. Musical Ornamentation. Part I. E. Dannreuther ... 172
—— Original Compositions for the Organ:—
Nos. 165 to 171 235
172 to 178 295
179 to 182 551
183 to 185 614
186 to 189 679
—— Octavo Anthems:—
Nos. 407 to 413 296
414 to 427 550
—— Short Anthems:—
Nos. 44 to 46 297
—— School Songs:—
Books 1 to 10 746
—— Two-Part Songs for Female Voices:—
Nos. 1 to 61 746

Parry, C. Hubert H. Summary of the History and Development of Mediæval and Modern European Music 677
Pascal, F. Twelve Christmas Carols ... 747
Philipp I. Edition Populaire française, M. Clementi, Gradus ad Parnassum. Résumé, choix de 36 Etudes 362
—— Recueil de douze Etudes de Virtuosité 362
Philips, Eugen, Romance for Violin ... 362
—— Cavatine for Violoncello and Pianoforte 362
Pitt, Percy. Bagatelles for Violin and Pianoforte 746
Pointer, John. Four Songs 363
Popper, David. Quatrième Gavotte à l'ancienne mode 173
—— Largo à l'ancienne mode 173
Poznanski, I. B. Ten Sketches for Violin and Pianoforte 679

Radoux, J. Th. Lamento pour Violin, Violoncello, and Pianoforte 362
Riviere, Jules. My Musical Life and Recollections 551

Page

Saunders, Gordon. Examples in Strict Counterpoint, Old and New 425
Sauret, Emile. Elégie et Rondo ... 614
Schartau, Herbert W. Christmas Holidays 679
Schlesinger, S. B. Five Miniatures ... 615
Schrattenholz, Leo. Romance for Violin and Pianoforte 362
Scots Minstrelsie. Vols. 1, 2, 3 678
Seiffert, Henri. Quatre Morceaux pour Violon 679
Shedlock, J. S. The Beethoven Cramer 487
Somervell, Arthur. Album of Seven Songs. Touch not the nettle. Turn to Me 679
—— On the River 363
Songs and Ballads of Northern England 235
Speer, W. H. Sonate No. 1, in D, für Pianoforte 361
—— Sonate No. 1, in D, für Pianoforte und Violine... 426
Spinney, T. H. Christmas Carols ... 747
Stainer, J. Seven Songs 362
Stanford, C. Villiers. Irish Songs and Ballads 234
Stern, Leo. Gavotte Ancienne 173
—— Sérénade 173
Stojowski, Sigismond. Concerto in Fa♯ 613

Taylor, Franklin. Progressive Studies for the Pianoforte 172
Tchaïkowsky. Twenty-four Songs ... 552
Ten Christmas Carols 747
Twelve Original Christmas Carols ... 679

Wagner, Richard. Leitmotives and Preludes, Bibliography of 488
—— Prose Works 171
Wareing, H. W. Six Pieces for the Violin 679
Weingärtner, J. Sonate für Violoncell und Pianoforte 361
Weismann, August. Thoughts upon the Musical Sense of Animals and Men ... 43
White, Maude Valérie. Infinite Love. Ich bin dein 363 —— Pictures from Abroad 235
—— Si j'étais Dieu. Douleurs Divines. In the Garden 679
Willeby, Charles. Masters of English Music 425
Wilm, Nicholai von. Schneeflocken ... 173
Wolff, Johannes. Romance en Ré and Mélodie for Violin 614

CORRESPONDENCE.

"A Daughter of Granada" (A Correction 238
A Musical Blackbird 619
A Part-Song Catalogue 107

Beethoven's Blunders (?) 491
Beethoven's Symphony, The Wrong Bar in 555, 617, 618
Byzantine Music 108

Congregational Singing 429, 493
Critics Criticised 237

Dr. Mackenzie's Lectures (A Correction) 299
Duke Ernest's Opera "Santa Chiara" 619
Durham University Degrees 108

Folk-Tunes, &c., in Beethoven 107, 175, 237
Franz, Robert 45

Motion and Music 46, 108
Musical Graduates' Union, The ... 46
Music in a French Cathedral 491, 556, 618

Palestrina's Music 429

Smetana's "Vltava" 429

	Page
Technique v. Taste	175
The "Eroica" and its Critics	174
The MS. of Mozart's Quartet in A major	237
Wingham's (Mr.) MSS.	365
Yellow-Hammer, The Song of the	556, 619

COUNTRY NEWS.

	Page
Aberdeen	299, 430, 493, 749
Abergavenny	299
Addlestone	108
Andover	108
Arbroath	300
Ashburne	365
Ashford	175
Ashton-under-Lyne	430
Bacup	682
Bandon	175
Bangor	175, 430, 557
Barnstaple	300
Basingstoke	46, 175, 749
Bedford	493, 682
Belfast	175
Berkhampstead	46, 175
Biggar	108
Biggleswade	300
Bishop's Stortford	300
Bishopstoke	493
Blackpool	619
Bodmin	300
Bolton	619
Bournemouth	493, 682
Brecon	493
Brighouse	363
Brighton	300, 365, 430
Broadstairs	300
Brockley	238, 300
Bungay	682
Burnley	682
Burton-on-Trent	365
Calcutta	238
Calverley	682
Cambridge	365
Cape Town	430, 493, 619
Cardiff	300
Carnarvon	682
Chapeltown	238
Chelmsford	430
Cheltenham	175, 365
Chepstow	300
Chicago	430
Chigwell ...	108, 175, 300, 365, 493, 557
Christchurch (N.Z.)	108, 619, 749
Cirencester	430
Cleethorpe	46, 366
Clifton	494
Cockermouth	300
Cork	108, 238, 366
Dalton-in-Furness	108
Darlington	238
Deal	175, 366
Demerara	300, 749
Denbigh	300
Devizes	494
Dornoch	682
Dover	300, 557
Driffield	366
Dublin	619, 682
Dudley	300
Dundalk	108, 366
Epping	175
Erith	300
Evesham	300
Exeter	109, 366
Eydon	175
Fenny Stratford	366, 557
Folkestone	494, 557
Great Berkhampstead	300, 557
Halesworth	619
Halifax	557
Hanley	619
Harrow	749
Hastings	175
Hayes (near Bromley)	46
Hayle	366
Hemel Hempstead	176
Hereford	176, 682
Hertford	366
Hingham	109
Hitchin	557
Hobart	620
Hornsea	494
Ilford	46, 176
Ipswich	46, 300
Keighley	620
Keswick	300
Kingston-on-Thames	366, 683
Kimberley	109
Lee	176
Leicester	749
Lincoln	683
Linlithgow	47
Liverpool	300, 430
Llandudno	683
Londonderry	47
Longwood	300
Loughton	47, 176, 366, 620
Ludlow	47
Luton	683
Madeley	47, 366
Maidstone	683
Malvern	620, 683
Malvern (Victoria)	176
Manchester	494
Martock	301
Melbourne (Victoria)	109
Middleton	749
Middlesbrough	366, 683
Milford Haven	301
Minehead	109
Moffat	494
Morecambe	176
Morpeth	683
Nelson	494
Newcastle-on-Tyne	109, 494, 683, 749
Newport (Shropshire)	176
Newry	301
Northampton	176
Norwich	301, 557
Omagh	109
Oundle	301
Oxford	620
Perth	683
Plymouth	27, 109, 557
Pontypridd	620
Port Elizabeth	494
Ramsgate	301
Reading	47, 109, 176, 430
Rhyl	301
Rochdale	47
Rochester	430
Romsey	683
Ryde	47, 301
Sandown	620
Sedburgh	47
Shalesmoor	620
Shifnal	238
Shrewsbury	301
Sleaford	749
South Myms	620
Southport	47
Sowerby Bridge	47
St. Albans (Manchester)	301
St. Austell	366
St. Germans	176
St. Neots	176
Stafford	683
Stamford	301
Surbiton	47
Suva (Fiji Islands)	301
Swaffham	301
Taunton	683
Tiverton	47
Todmorden	749
Totnes	176
Trent College, Notts	301
Tunbridge	109, 366
Ulverston	176
Uttoxeter	238
Wakefield	683
Warminster	238
Warwick	47
Washford	366
Waterford	176
Watford	749
Westport	47
Whitby	47
Wickhambreaux	683
Wimborne	301
Windsor	176, 494
Wingham	557
Woodhouse	366
Worcester	301
Worthing	176, 301
Wrexham	301

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 599.—Vol. 34. JANUARY 1, 1893. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

MONDAY, JANUARY 2, AT 8,

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH."

Artists: Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Madame PATEY, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS.
Organist: Mr. HODGE.
Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 18, AT 8,

E. M. SMYTH'S "SOLEMN MASS"

(First time of performance)
AND HAYDN'S "CREATION"
(Parts I. and II.)

Artists: Miss ESTHER PALLISER, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. BEN DAVIES, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS.
Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery Promenade, 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Lent Term begins January 12.
Entrance Exam. therefor, January 10, at 11. Entrance forms may be obtained from the Secretary, and should be returned by January 7.
Fortnightly Concert, January 28, at 8.
Lectures by the Principal, Wednesdays, January 18 and 25, at 3.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

KENSINGTON GORE.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D.
Hon. Secretary: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

EASTER TERM, 1893.

The Easter Term will commence on January 5.

ASSOCIATE.

Associate of the Royal College of Music (A.R.C.M.)—The next examination for certificate of proficiency with the above title will take place at the College, on March 27 to 30, 1893.
The list of pieces in which Candidates will be examined and other particulars may be obtained from the Registrar, at the College.
Application forms must be returned with the examination fee so as to be received at the College not later than February 13.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

Nine Open Free Scholarships will be competed for in February next.
Last day for receiving official forms of application, January 9, 1893.
Particulars and forms may be obtained from the Registrar, at the College.

GEORGE WATSON, Registrar.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

BEETHOVEN NUMBER.

AN EDITION DE LUXE

OF THIS NUMBER

LIMITED TO ONE HUNDRED COPIES,

PRINTED ENTIRELY ON JAPANESE VELLUM PAPER, IS NOW READY.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

President—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD:

THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD CHARLES BRUCE, Chairman.
A. C. MACKENZIE, Esq., Mus. Doc., Principal of R.A.M.
Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D., Director of R.C.M.

Professor JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.,
ALBERTO RANDEGGER, Esq.,
THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq.,
FREDERICK WESTLAKE, Esq.,
F. MEADOWS WHITE, Esq., Q.C.,
} R.A.M.

EDWARD W. HAMILTON, Esq., C.B.,
Sir WALTER PARRATT, Mus. Bac.,
C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., Mus. Doc.,
Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc.,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq.,
} R.C.M.

HONORARY TREASURER:
CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

HONORARY AUDITOR:
Sir CHARLES LISTER RYAN, K.C.B., Comptroller and Auditor-General.

SECRETARY:
GEORGE WATSON, Esq. Central Office, 52, New Bond St., London, W.

BANKERS:
BANK OF ENGLAND, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London.

SYLLABUS A.

LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING FORMS OF APPLICATION FROM CANDIDATES—

JANUARY 31, 1893.

THE PRELIMINARY LOCAL EXAMINATION (Paper Work) for CANDIDATES in PRACTICAL SUBJECTS will take place at the various Centres on February 22, 1893.

THE FINAL LOCAL EXAMINATIONS for CANDIDATES in PRACTICAL SUBJECTS will commence on and after March 28, 1893.

THEORY OF MUSIC EXAMINATION (Paper Work) for CANDIDATES entering for THEORY will take place at the various Centres on February 22, 1893.

SYLLABUS B.

LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING APPLICATIONS FOR REGISTRATION FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC—

FEBRUARY 27, 1893.

THE LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS will be arranged in Circuits, and will be conducted by a School Examiner appointed by the Board.
They will be held during four periods as follows:—

(a) December.
(b) March, April.
(c) June, July.
(d) October, November.

Schools and Teachers will, so far as is practicable, be allowed to select the period which they prefer for Examination, provided that they notify the same to the Secretary within seven days after receiving notice that their Applications to be Registered have been accepted.
NAMES OF CANDIDATES FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC can only be entered on Forms supplied from the Office, and must be sent with the Examination Fees as follows:—

For period (a) not later than December 1, 1892.
" " (b) " " " February 4, 1893.
" " (c) " " " May 13, 1893.
" " (d) " " " October 4, 1893.

Copies of either Syllabus may be obtained at the Central Office, 52, New Bond Street, London, W.

GEORGE WATSON, Secretary.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS ALICE ASHFORD (Mezzo-Soprano)
"Sang with remarkable sweetness and beauty of expression."—Denbigh Free Press.
"A rare treat was afforded by the fine voice and clear expression of Miss Alice Ashford."—Bedfordshire Mercury.
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c. 32, Gold Street, Northampton.

MISS ETHEL BARNES (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes.
Address, 32, St. John Street, Lichfield.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS MABEL G. BERREY (Soprano)
Oratorios, Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Care of Forsyth Bros., 267, Regent Street, London; and 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS LOUISE CESTRIA (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 45, Bridge Street, Chester.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
53, Robert St., Upper Brook St., Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.
Terms for Oratorios and Concerts, &c., and Press Notices on application.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Lyndhurst, Hendon, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 237, Katherine St., Ashton-under-Lyne.
Scotland and North of England in February and March.

MISS EUGENIE FAULL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 77, St. Agnes Pl., Kennington, S.E.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS HEROD (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Ballads, &c., address, Woodley, near Stockport.

MISS HONEYBONE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 41, Hampden Street, Nottingham.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ELLEN INGHAM (Soprano)
(Late Student, Royal Academy of Music, London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Albert Road, Colne, Lancs.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 75, Friern Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS LILY MARSHALL-WARD (Soprano)
MISS JESSIE MARSHALL-WARD (Contralto)
Address, 14, Peel Street, Nottingham.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS EDITH STEVENS (Soprano)
(Of the Crystal Palace Concerts).
Oratorios, Classical and Ballad Concerts, Beverley House, Barnes, S.W.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS GRETA WILLIAMS, A.R.A.M.
(Westmoreland Scholar, 1887; Bronze Medal, 1887; Silver Medal, 1888; Medal for Sight Singing, 1888; Certificate, 1889; Rutson Memorial, 1890; Certificate for Teaching Singing and Pianoforte, 1891.)
For At Homes, Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 22, Cromwell Grove, Shepherd's Bush Road, W.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS ETTA WRIGHT (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
Address, Brightholme, 28, Albany Road, Stroud Green, N.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS BOWMONT (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c., 51, Mercer St., Hulme, Manchester.
"Miss Bowmont, who possesses a rich contralto voice, was warmly received and most enthusiastically encored."—Southport Visitor, Dec. 6, 1892.
"'Messiah.'—Sedbergh Musical Society.—Miss Bowmont sang with much taste and feeling."—Kendal Mercury and Times, Dec. 16, 1892.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 76, Calabria Road, N.

MRS. HADINGHAM (Contralto)
Bedford House, Amhurst Road, Hackney, and Eva Villa, W'hampton.
"Mrs. Hadingham is the possessor of a contralto voice of genuine quality."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MISS MARY HUTTON (Contralto)
17, Maclise Road, Kensington, W.

MISS LUCIE JOHNSTONE (Contralto)
13, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park.

MISS MINNIE KIRTON (Contralto)
12, Upper Tollington Park, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c. 10, Springfield Road, N.W.

MISS RINA ROBINSON (Contralto)
For Oratorios and Ballad Concerts, &c., 67, Carleton Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MADAME LENNOX SCHLUTER (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.,
Care of Wheatstone, 20, Conduit Street, W.

MADAME LENA SEYMOUR (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, Banquets, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 24, Barbican, E.C.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, vid Leeds.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c.
46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. SADLEUR BROWN (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 28, Milner Square, N.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Opera, his popular Entertainments, or Concerts, and the "Balfe Quartet," address, 67, Berners Street, W.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor)
(Principal, St. Peter's, Eaton Square).
For Oratorio, Ballad, Operatic, Masonic Concerts, &c. For terms and vacant dates, apply as above.

MR. T. OLDROYD (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, The Cathedral, Rochester.

MR. JOHN PEARSON (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Cathedral, Canterbury.

MR. GEO. RILEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
Address, 36, Chetwynd Terrace, Leeds.

MR. CHARLES STRONG (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., and for Quartet Party, address, 129, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

MR. EDWIN WAREHAM
(Principal Tenor, Royal Italian Opera, Crystal Palace Saturday Orchestral Concerts, St. James's Hall, Albert Hall, and Principal Provincial Concerts).
NOTICES FROM THE LONDON PRESS.
"A tenor of whom we may expect to hear great things in the near future. . . . A fine tenor voice, and sings with great taste. . . . Brought down the house by the splendid rendering of his song. . . . The magnificent voice and thorough training of this gentleman will probably secure for him a high reputation."
Address, 43, Albany Street, Regent's Park, N.W.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. DAN BILLINGTON (Baritone)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. For terms, address, 34, Hanover Sq., Leeds.

MR. EDWARD MARLOWE (Baritone)
Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts. 25, Winterwell Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia, R.A.M.).
Address, 94, Hill Street, Garnethill, Glasgow.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone)
Address, care of Wood and Marshall, Bradford.
"ELIJAH."—"Mr. Thornton undertook the title-rôle, and was most conspicuously successful, the technical difficulties of the music were mastered with great power and skill."—Observer.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)
22, Ferndale Road, Clapham, S.W.
"'ELIJAH.'—Mr. Tufnail excelled himself as 'Elijah,' his perfectly trained voice giving every shade of the Prophet's supposed feelings, and never faltered throughout its trying ordeal."—Pembroke.
"BALLADS.—Mr. Tufnail met with excellent receptions for his songs, being encored each time."—Crystal Palace.
"BALLADS.—Mr. Tufnail acquitted himself with marked ability, and was doubtless the favourite of the evening. His vocal powers were heartily appreciated."—Crewe.

MR. JOHN BROWNING
(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass)
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., and for Quartet Party. 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass)
(Of Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, and Royal Albert Hall). For Oratorio and Concerts, address, 9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. CHARLES ROWCLIFFE (Basso)
MR. C. HUGH ROWCLIFFE, F.C.O.
For Sunday Engagements, Concerts, Banquets, &c., address, 76, Brighton Road, Stoke Newington, N.

MR. J. SKELTON (Bass)
Compston Place, Ambleside; or, 1, Dolbey St., Weaste, Manchester.

MR. VERNON TAYLOR (Bass)
(St. Paul's Cathedral, and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Ballads, Banquets, At Homes, &c.
"Mr. Taylor is the possessor of a magnificent voice and knows how to use it."—Musical Standard.
For terms, &c., address, 101, Shakspeare Road, South Hornsey, N.; or, The Cathedral.

MR. ALEXANDER TUCKER (Basso Profundo)
New address, St. Audries, Enfield, N.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead.
"Mr. Preston's reputation as an Organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of our representative English Organists."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.
"Mr. Preston is a local Professor, and a performer of the very first rank. It is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.
"He has established his right to be regarded as one of our representative English Organists."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

MR. THOMAS CHAPMAN (Accompanist)
TO CHORAL AND ORCHESTRAL SOCIETIES.
In cases where a complete Orchestra is not used, the Wind Parts of any work satisfactorily rendered on the Harmonium from the full score. Late engagements in C minor Symphony and "Prometheus" Overture (Beethoven), "Golden Legend," "May Day," and "Ancient Mariner."
Address, 35, Sutherland Place, Westbourne Grove, W.

MR. A. TOASE, A.C.O. (Accompanist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Choral Societies.
Address, 11, Eade Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS VINNIE BEAUMONT (Soprano) engaged in December: 1, Aylesbury; 4, Lincoln; 6, Brigg; 7, Redbourne; 10, Bury; 12, Rushden; 13, Hunstanton; 14, Retford; 15, Whitby; 19, Blyth; 20, Dunfermline; 22, Ayr; 25, Lincoln; 26, Rotherham; 29, Higham Ferrers. Point House, Brigg.

MASTER T. HOPKINS (SOLO BOY).—Testimonial from SIR JOHN STAINER, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Nov. 22, 1892: "I have been much pleased with the admirable singing of your chorister, Master T. Hopkins, and I congratulate you on having such an excellent exponent of your skill and ability as a trainer of boys' voices.
PRESS NOTICE EXTRACTS.—"Much artistic finish. . . . Voice sympathetic, beautiful quality."—Guildhall Concerts, Plymouth.
"Much sweetness and power . . . sang charming manner. . . . Beautiful finish, characteristic Mr. Blaxland's pupils."—Somerset Standard.
For engagements of all kinds. May be heard by appointment. Terms, &c., apply, Mr. Benham Blaxland, 11, Powis Square, W.

MASTER SYDNEY LOVETT (Soprano) may be Engaged for Church Festivals, Recitals, Concerts, &c. Press notices of his excellent rendering of the soprano solos in Spohr's "Last Judgment," at eight Churches during this Advent, and also of "The Hymn of Praise," &c., may be had of Mr. Kempton, Vicar-Choral, St. Paul's Cathedral, to whom application should be made for his services.

MISS JESSIE MOODY (Soprano). Open to accept Engagements for Concerts (Ballads), &c. Address, 30, Duke Street Chambers, New Oxford Street, W.C.

MISS LIZZIE SCOTT (Soprano) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. For terms, address, 38, York Road, Northampton.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER, Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Will take pupils. Agent, Mr. D. Mayer, 18, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MISS MARGARET HOARE requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 15, Mowbray Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MISS LILY HOWARD (Contralto Vocalist) is open to take Engagements, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 1, Arundel Road, West Croydon.

MADAME MINNIE LYNDSEY (Contralto) has a few vacant dates in January for Oratorios, Concerts, Public Dinners, Receptions, &c. Highly recommended for Classical and Operatic Recitals. Entertainments for charitable purposes attended for half fees. 2, Henwood Villas, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal Tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio, or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For terms and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS LANE (Accompanist) can undertake to play from manuscript. References: Miss Zippora Monteith and Mr. Isidore de Solla. 38, Beckenham Road, S.E.

TO PHILHARMONIC SOCIETIES and Others.—Mr. H. MANN is prepared to accept Engagements for Trumpet Obbligato in "Messiah." For references, &c., and vacant dates, 3, Penelope Crescent, Reading.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—Mr. and Mrs. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Bass and Soprano and Elocutionists) have REMOVED from Leeds to 81, Brecknock Road, London, N.

MR. EDWIN M. FLAVELL desires that communications be addressed 10, Oberstein Road, New Wandsworth, S.W.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—Mr. F. ST. JOHN LACY, A.R.A.M., has REMOVED to 22, Montpelier St., S.W.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—MR. DAN PRICE (Baritone, of Westminster Abbey) begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 37, Torrington Square, W.C., where all communications respecting Concert, Masonic, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons, should be addressed.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER, Pianist, L.R.A.M. (Perf. and Teacher); Pupil of Hy. Eyers, R.A.M., Prof. Heinrich Barth (Court Pianist, Berlin), and Woldemar Bargiel; highly certificated from the Berlin Königliche Hochschule für Musik (Principal, Dr. Joachim), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Special terms for schools. Highest testimonials. Prepares for all examinations. Address, 2, Colosseum Terrace, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS. — MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(PRINCIPAL SOPRANO, St. Peter's Church (Catholic), Seel Street, Liverpool).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Répertoire includes "Messiah," "Elijah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Creation," "Acis and Galatea," "Alexander's Feast," "May Queen," "Rose Maiden," "Bride of Dunkerron," &c.; also "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Imperial Mass" (Haydn), "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart), "Requiem" (Mozart); Haydn's, Hummel's, Mozart's, and Beethoven's Masses and Motets, Cherubini's Mass in C, "O fons amoris," "Alma Virgo," "Ave Maria," &c.

For complete répertoire, Press opinions, photo, &c., address, 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool; or, Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS ADA LEE

(Pupil of Dr. Hiles)

(SOPRANO).

"'JUDAS MACCABÆUS.'—BARNSLEY ST. CECILIA SOCIETY.—Miss Lee's singing was a genuine treat. She has a voice of rich quality and good range, and, besides possessing great facility of execution, she brings to bear considerable dramatic power. Her brilliant rendering of 'From mighty kings' and 'So shall the lute' stirred the audience to enthusiasm; and no less meritorious was her interpretation of the quieter solos 'Pious Orgies' and 'Wise men flattering,' the trills in the latter being executed with the same liquid clearness as distinguished her rendering of the florid runs in the first-mentioned solos."—Barnsley Chronicle, Dec. 17, 1892.

"Miss Ada Lee captivated the audience by her sweet, clear, and distinct vocalisation, the rapid passages being exceptionally fine."—The Montgomeryshire Express and Radnor Times, Dec. 13, 1892.

"'BOHEMIAN GIRL.'—Miss Ada Lee possesses a magnificent soprano voice. Nothing could have been finer than her rendering of the 'Gipsy Girl's Dream.'"—Northwich Guardian, Oct. 29, 1892.

"Miss Ada Lee's charming soprano voice completely captivated all present."—Nelson Chronicle, Oct. 28, 1892.

"Miss Ada Lee possesses a soprano voice which is beautifully clear, the ease with which she reached the highest notes being perfect. A pleasing feature also is her distinct articulation of the words."—Earlstown and Newton Examiner, Nov. 12, 1892.

"Miss Lee has a fine soprano voice, thoroughly cultivated."—Widnes Weekly News, Nov. 9, 1892.

Address, 45, Monton Street, Greenheys, Manchester.

MR. THEODORE FRANCE

(BARITONE)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.

Address, 8, Anley Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

LEEDS SYMPHONY CONCERTS, ALBERT HALL, LEEDS.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

CHOIR BOYS.

MASTER ERNEST HOWLAND,
MASTER HAROLD OHLSON, and others, for Solo work, &c.

Permanent Boys provided. Address, 83, Sistova Road, Balham, S.W.

MR.

WM. SWEETMAN

(BASS, CONCERT AGENT).

For Concerts, Oratorios, Pupils. 163, Grove Street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Vocalist," Liverpool.

MISS ALICE MARY SMITH

(HARPIST)

(Associate of the Royal College of Music),

11, Napier Road, Kensington, W.

Sole Agents, Messrs. Barth and Black, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present season.

ALREADY ENGAGED:—

Crystal Palace, Glasgow, Polytechnic, Kennington, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Salisbury, Bermondsey, Leamington ("Redemption"), Woolwich, Northampton ("Lobgesang" and "Bride of Dunkerron"), Bradford, Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Bristol, Clapton, Perth ("Elijah"), Belfast ("Messiah," two Concerts), Pollokshields, Dunfermline ("May Queen"), Paisley ("Redemption"), Dundee ("Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Greenock ("Acis"), Northampton ("Messiah"), Glasgow Choral Union ("Messiah"), Edinburgh Choral Union ("Messiah"), Nottingham (Ballads), Woolwich, Shoreditch, Newport (I.W.), Darwen, Banbury ("Messiah"), Balham, Richmond, Stratford, Yarmouth ("Samson"), King's Lynn, Islington, Bow and Bromley ("Acis"), St. James's Hall ("Joshua"), Mossley ("Judas"), Blackpool ("Messiah"), Biggleswade ("Creation"), Workington ("Messiah"), Burton-on-Trent (Ballads), Llanelly (Ballads), Accrington ("Sun Worshippers"), &c.

For vacant dates and terms, please address, 37, Torrington Square. Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W,

MR.

JAMES PORTLAND, P.C.Q.

(ILLUSIONIST)

Concerts, Conversaziones, At Homes, Drawing Room, Evenings for the People, &c.

Mr. Portland's Entertainment of high-class Magic makes a pleasing change in a programme of Vocal and Instrumental Music.

11, St. Paul's Road, Canonbury, N.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.

Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK

CONCERT AGENTS

A MUSICAL AGENCY UNDER PROFESSIONAL DIRECTION.

Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are sole Agents for—

THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,
THE WALENN STRING QUARTET, A MALE VOICE QUARTET,

AND

THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS

(Operatic Concert Party under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK).

Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, &c.

BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MISS FRIEDA GRIFFITHS

"A soprano who is rapidly making her way to the front."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS

"Possesses a powerful and pleasant contralto voice." — Lichfield Mercury.

MR. BOWYER BRISTOL

"Is a very welcome reinforcement to the ranks of our first-class tenors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS

"Has a strong and powerful bass voice."—Mid-Surrey Gazette.

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY.

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Applications for terms and vacant dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, N.W.; 169, Frederick Road, Aston, Birmingham.

THE BALLAD SINGERS

CONCERT PARTY.

MISS ADA LOARING

(Soprano).

MISS DORA BARNARD

(Contralto).

MR. SADLEUR BROWN

(Tenor).

MR. FRANK SWINFORD

(Bass).

MR. ROLAND HENRY

(Accompanist).

The above Artists can be engaged together, or separately, for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, &c., please address, The Secretary, 28, Milner Square, N.

MR. RICHARD MACKWAY'S

SCHOOL OF VOCAL MUSIC,

295, OXFORD STREET, W.,

100 Yards West of Regent Circus.

The School will be opened on January 23, 1893.

INCLUSIVE FEES (for Private Lessons and all the Classes), from TWO AND A HALF GUINEAS per term.

Classes will be held for Sight Singing, Theory of Music, Harmony, Study of Choral Works, and Italian.

Approved Students will be admitted to the Classes only at special terms.

Prospectuses, post-free, on application to Mr. Richard Mackway, at the School, or at 36, Priory Road, Bedford Park, Chiswick.

THE

MINNESINGERS QUARTET

(MALE VOICE)

For Concerts, Dinners, At Homes, &c. Special terms for Charities. Address, Arthur Carlyle, Neston, Perry Vale, Forest Hill.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

CONCERT AGENTS.

METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,

83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

CONCERT IMPRESARIOS.

PATERSON AND SONS'

EDINBURGH ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS.

6TH SEASON.

Musicsellers to the Queen,

27, GEORGE STREET, EDINBURGH;

152, Buchanan Street, Glasgow; and at Perth, Dundee, Ayr, Dumfries Paisley, and Kilmarnock.

ST. ANNE, Soho.—Two ORGAN RECITALS will be given at this Church in the first week in January (when, the Incorporated Society of Musicians hold their Conference in London): on Monday, January 2, at 8 p.m., by Mr. S. REAY, of Newark; and on Thursday, January 5, at 8 p.m., by Dr. MANN, of King's College, Cambridge. At the second Recital St. Anne's Choir will sing Bach's Motet "Be not afraid." No tickets required.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS begs to announce her CONCERT, at the Vestry Hall, Tooting, on TUESDAY, January 31, at 8. Vocalists: Miss Gertrude Vyner, Miss Isabelle Waters, Messrs. A. E. Hayne, E. and H. Aldous. Pianoforte: Mr. J. Percy Baker, A.R.A.M. Violin: Mr. Paul Parnum; and the Parnum Band. Tickets 2s. 6d. and 1s., from A. Marsh, Tooting.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The following are the Solo-Playing test pieces at the F.C.O. Examination, to take place early in January: Bach's Fourth Sonata (1st and 2nd movements); Merkel's Sonata, No. 6, in E minor; and Wesley's Fugue in G (St. Cecilia, No. XI.).

January 10, 11, and 12, F.C.O. Examination; January 17, 18, and 19, A.C.O. Examination. On February 7 Dr. F. J. Sawyer will give a Lecture on "Modern Harmony."

The College Library and Rooms open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:

The Right Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.

The Right Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.Mus. V.C.M. and A.Mus. V.C.M.) and of Associate and Licentiate Organist, Pianist, Vocalist, and Violinist will take place January 10, 1893. Names should be sent in by December 31.

Theoretical Local Examination, December 16.

Practical Local Examinations during December and January. Names should be sent in at once.

Particulars and advantages of Membership (Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d.), &c., on application to the Secretary.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., provides SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, &c. Mr. Bates's Leading Boy last month sang "Last Judgment" (five times), "Messiah" (twice), "Hymn of Praise," "Hear my Prayer," "Jairus' Daughter." Engaged for "Mors et Vita," "Redemption," &c. Testimonials, criticisms, terms, &c. Address as above.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.
Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.
Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.
The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

MR. ALFRED H. ALLEN (Member of the Incorporated Society of Musicians) is prepared to give CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS in MUSICAL THEORY. Devizes.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. (Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, London, and Durham); L.R.A.M., L.Mus., L.C.M. (1892), F.C.O., A.C.O. (1892), A.L.C.M. (1892), N.S.P.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M. (1892). FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained in last few years by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First Exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS. D.Mus. Lond., L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS, personally or by post, in the Theory of Music (including acoustics). Recent successes. 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.C.O. Pianoforte and Organ Lessons. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., personally or by post. Classes. Preparation for Examinations. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus., T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, HISTORY, &c., by Post. Pupils specially prepared for Examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. J. WARRINER prepares Candidates successfully for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, and receives Resident and Professional Students, on advantageous terms, if talented and able to teach. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

VOICES TRAINED (Altos included) and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE taught by Mr. W. A. FROST (of St. Paul's Cathedral), at his residence, 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Former pupils have at various times obtained appointments in open competitions at Westminster, York, Salisbury, Chichester (two), Norwich, the Chapels Royal St. James's and Whitehall, and several London churches. Boy pupils at St. Paul's Cathedral (two), the Chapels Royal St. James's and Savoy, and St. Andrew's, Wells Street.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—There will be a COMPETITION for at least Two CHORISTERSHIPS on Tuesday, January 24, 1893, at 12 noon, at the Organist's house. Candidates must be between the ages of 8 and 10. Apply for information as to references required, payments, &c., to Rev. E. E. Dorling, The Close, Salisbury.

TREBLE BOYS (aged 9—12 years), with good characters and promising voices, are boarded and educated free in return for SINGING in the Duke of Newcastle's Church at Clumber. Apply to the Chaplin, Clumber, Worksop.

HAMPSTEAD PARISH CHURCH.—A SOLO BOY WANTED. Apply to Mr. James Shaw, Organist and Choirmaster, 140, Fellows Road, Hampstead, N.W.

LICHFIELD CATHEDRAL.—The Dean and Chapter are desirous to appoint a DEPUTY CHOIR SINGER, of ALTO VOICE. To commence on March 25, 1893. Salary at the rate of £100 per annum. The highest testimonials as to moral and religious character, proficiency in voice, and knowledge of Church music will be required. Applications, stating age and occupation, previous training and present employment as a singer, may be sent, with testimonials in writing (in one packet), before January 20, 1893, to Charles Gresley, Esq., Chapter Clerk, The Close, Lichfield. A trial of voice will be required before an appointment is made.

ALTO REQUIRED, for St. John's Church, Wilton Road (adjoining Victoria Station). Communicant and good reader. Salary, £25. Apply, Hon. R. Strutt, 70, Eccleston Sq., S.W.

SALISBURY CATHEDRAL.—Two LAY VICARS REQUIRED, a TENOR and a BASS. Applicants should be under thirty years of age and communicants. Stipend, £90 each. Copy testimonials (which will not be returned), as to character and musical ability, to be sent to the Organist, C. F. South, Esq., by January 15.

£15.—WANTED, at once, a TENOR for St. Michael's, Chester Square, S.W. Sunday morning and evening, and Thursday evening rehearsal. Apply, at the Church, Jan. 10, at 8 p.m. Testimonials to be sent beforehand to the Organist and Choirmaster, Mr. E. W. Naylor, M.A., Mus. Bac.

BASS WANTED, for Bedford Chapel, Bloomsbury. Salary, £12. Write to Organist.

TO GLEE CLUBS.—ALTO (used to Glee Singing) desires to join a good MALE-VOICE GLEE PARTY. Address, Fred. James, 103, Union Road, S.E.

TENOR.—Good soloist, full Cathedral Service experience, seeks London ENGAGEMENT. Roberton, 168, Regent Street.

WANTED, ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (good Musician) for St. Martin's, Bedford. Fine Organ. Educational centre. £40. Apply, Rev. A. Hawkins Jones, Bedford.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Excellent testimonials. Would deputise. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGANIST and CH. requires APPOINTMENT. County or Seaside town. Highest testimonials; many years' London experience. Give whole time; teaching connection not necessary. J. E., 23, Hayter Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

TO LONDON ORGANISTS.—Gentleman, who has been an Assistant-Organist before, will be glad to act as ASSISTANT (hon.) at Church (of England) within about five miles of Law Courts. Write, G., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST.—A Young Man, pupil of a well-known Professor, desires APPOINTMENT (with or without Choirmastership). Salary not so much an object as a good organ. In or near London (S. or S.E. preferred). Address, H. J. D., 16, Lausanne Road, Hatcham, S.E.

TUNER.—VACANCY, chiefly out-door work. Address, stating age, previous experience, references, and salary required, Messrs. Harrison, Pianoforte Dealers, Birmingham.

TUNER WANTED (London). Three guineas a week offered for first-class man of good address, character, and education. Exact, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

GOOD TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED. Must understand Organs and Harmoniums. State age, salary required, experience, and references. Poulton, Great Bridge, Staffs.

WANTED, a first-class Out-door TUNER, by Forsyth Brothers, Manchester. Preference given to one accustomed to American Organ and Harmonium repairs. Apply, sending age, photo, references, &c., to Forsyth Brothers, 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, by a London firm. Must be thoroughly efficient and reliable. Apply to Makers, H. T. Q., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

SECOND TUNER WANTED. One who can play and competent to push Sales of Instruments. Must be quick, and one able to do Organs preferred. State wages required, including board and lodging. Abstainer preferred. Town near Wolverhampton. W. P. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of American Organs, Harmoniums, ordinary Repairs. Good references. Tuner Francis, Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER, by a Young Man holding excellent testimonials. Used to out-door work, and, though blind, can travel anywhere with safety. Apply, Fred. Slipper, 11, Lorne Street, Gibbet Street, Halifax, Yorkshire.

TUNER and REPAIRER SEEKS WORKING PARTNERSHIP in a Music Business (must be a going concern). Could invest £500. S., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER seeks a post as MANAGER or first TUNER. Good Salesman, and well up in giving estimates for exchange or repairs. Understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Good Repairer. Address, F. C. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AS MANAGER.—Wanted, by a first-class Tuner and Toner, POST as above, in Factory or Showroom. Understands marking off, part-making, fitting up, polishing, finishing; could keep storeroom and give out materials to different branches. Address, Foreman, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNERS, REPAIRERS, &c., requiring Tuning Hammers, Kits (guaranteed), or TOOLS of any description. Reeds, Fittings, Materials. Please send for my complete Price List. Karl Wagenhaus, 2, City Road, Hulme, Manchester.

YOUNG LADY WANTED. One who thoroughly understands the Music business. Must be a good Bookkeeper and Pianist. Apply, with full particulars, enclosing photo (which will be returned), references, and salary required, to G. H. Sherborne, 4 and 5, Derwent Place, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

REQUIRED, by Young Lady, ENGAGEMENT in MUSIC BUSINESS, or as Accompanist. Good Pianist and Sight Reader. Address, E. Kirby, Engine Court, St. James's, S.W.

YOUNG LADY, of good appearance and with good Contralto Voice, but unable any longer to bear the full expense of its development and cultivation, would be grateful if some one would kindly give her LESSONS, to be arranged for. Address, Miss E. J. Mearis, 13, Russell Road, Holloway, N.

TO MUSICAL STUDENTS.—BOARD and RESIDENCE on moderate and inclusive terms. A really good home, with every facility for practice. 18, Ampthill Square, N.W.

A WORKING PARTNER, with small Capital, can be received into the firm of a LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHER. Thorough knowledge of the Trade necessary. Would be required to travel. Address, X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, an APPOINTMENT in good London or Provincial Pianoforte Warehouse, as SALESMAN or MANAGER. Good Tuner and well up in all branches of the trade. Highest references. Address, Cecyl, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THOROUGHLY efficient ASSISTANT (married) requires permanent SITUATION. Eight years' experience. Well up in Catalogues and small goods. Exceptional references. T. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, to PURCHASE, a Pianoforte and Music Business. Must be well established, with good tuning connection. Particulars to A. L., Messrs. Novello and Co., London.

A GENTLEMAN wishes to PURCHASE a TEACHING (Piano, &c.) CONNECTION in London or country. Address, O. N., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour, upon a complete instrument—three manuals and independent C.O. pedals, &c., blown by engine. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

FOR SALE.—A very fine 2-manual and pedal CHAMBER ORGAN, specially built for owner (deceased), containing 22 stops—viz., 5 in Great, and (two slides prepared for) 10 in Swell, and 2 on Pedal, with the usual couplers, &c. The Swell contains 3 reeds, one of which (the Vox humana) is enclosed in a separate box. The pipes are nearly all pure tin. Hydraulic, with separate bellows. Price only £200. May be seen by appointment. Further particulars, apply, Lavington, Putney Heath.

NEW IMPERIAL PIPE ORGANS (Two manuals). Suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, practice, &c. From 40 guineas. Made in portable sections. ORGANS (new and second-hand), Two manuals, with 6, 9, 12, 17, and 26 stops. W. E Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS.—MESSRS. NORMAN BROS. AND BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich, have the following Second-hand ORGANS for SALE:—

No. 1.—Church Organ, 2 manuals, 25 stops, with Pneumatic Action to manuals and pedals; built in 1883. To be sold to make room for a large 3-manual Organ.

No. 2.—Two-manual Organ, CC compass; suitable for Church or Chapel. 17 stops; spotted metal front; square build; equal to new.

No. 3.—Church Organ. Two manuals, 11 stops, tenor C swell, in good condition; now in use near Exeter. Price £80.

No. 4.—Practice Organ. Two manuals; built in 1890. Great, 2 stops; swell, 4 stops; pedal Bourdon; 4 couplers. All modern improvements.

No. 5.—Single Manual Organ, suitable for small Church. Contains 8 stops, built by Holditch, £70.

No. 6.—Large Church Organ, by Bryceson, containing 2 manuals and 27 stops; width, 10 ft.; depth, 12 ft.; height, 17 ft., in excellent condition.

No. 7.—Church Organ. Great, 6 stops; swell, 6 stops; pedal, 1 stop; 4 couplers. Full compass throughout. Originally built by Messrs. Hill and Son.

Full particulars of any of these Instruments can be had on application to NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

ORGAN.—Two manuals (prepared for Choir Organ), 18 stops, 16-ft. Open Diapason on Pedals. Oak case. Must be sold. Eustace Ingram, Hereford.

THE HOPE-JONES SYSTEM.

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich, refer with pleasure to the following Organs completed, and in course of construction by them, on the Hope-Jones Electro-Pneumatic System. London: St. Frideswides Church, Poplar; Council Room of the E.C.U., 35, Wellington Street, Strand; Christchurch, Blackheath; London Office of the Hope-Jones Electric Organ Company, Limited, 4, Huggin Lane, Queen Victoria Street, E.C.; All Souls' Church, Clive Vale, Hastings; Sefton Park Presbyterian Church, Liverpool. Estimates for New Organs, and applying the Electric Action to Old Organs, sent free on application to

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD,
Organ Builders, St. Stephen's, Norwich.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d. post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

PRESIDENT:
The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN, P.C.
Warden: Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Studies: Professor BRADBURY TURNER, Mus.B.

CLASSES AND LECTURES.

The next term commences January 16, when new Students (Professional and Amateur) are received.

The following is a list of the subjects taught and Professors: Harmony, Counterpoint, Form and Orchestration, Composition, Musical Acoustics, Pianoforte, Organ, Solo Singing, Violin, Violoncello, Orchestral Practice, Sight-Singing, Flute, Oboe, and Clarinet, &c., Vocal and Aural Physiology, Voice Production (Lectures), Elocution, French, Italian, German, &c. There are evening as well as day classes.

Professors Higgs, Saunders, Turpin, and Turner; Messrs. Addison, Bambridge, Barrett, Bird, Bonner, Carrodus, B. Carrodus, Child, Clinton, Cole, Corder, Creser, Dubrucq, Edwards, Gibson, Goodworth, Hales, Hutchinson, Lazarus, Lewis, Lockwood, Malsch, Mann, Matthay, Ogbourne, Pearce, Pinsonnat, Radcliff, Reynolds, Ricci, Semple, Solomon, Swinford, Szczepanowski, J. Turpin, Tyler, Visetti, Walker, Warriner, Wells, and Woolhouse.

Prospectuses, with full particulars as to fees, &c., can be obtained Post-free from the undersigned.

By order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (LOW VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (LOW VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (HIGH VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (HIGH VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS EACH PART.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL,
JANUARY 18.

Will be Published on January 10,

MASS IN D

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY
E. M. SMYTH.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)
PIANOFORTE MAKERS
BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN
THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "BROADWOOD" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

THE WAGNER SOCIETY.
Annual Subscription, One Guinea.
Applications for Prospectus to be addressed to the Secretary, W. H. Edwards, 66, St. Mark's Road, North Kensington, W.

"RICHARD WAGNER'S PROSE-WORKS,"
Vol. I. now ready; price 12s. 6d. net, bound in cloth.
Translated by W. ASHTON ELLIS, Editor of "THE MEISTER" (The Society's Quarterly).

Both these publications are issued gratis to Members. Price to the Public, 1s. per part; Annual Subscription, post-free, to The Meister, 4s.; to the Prose-Works (six parts), 5s., payable to the EDITOR, care of Messrs. Kegan Paul, Publishers, Charing Cross Road, W.C.

THE
SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW
FOR JANUARY.
Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, Postage free, 2s.

THE
SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW
FOR JANUARY

Contains General Notes—On the Training of Children's Voices and How to begin Part-Singing, by W. G. McNaught—Sunday School Singing—Music Printing—The Local School Examinations of the Associated Board—Writing Exercises in Notation for Junior Pupils—The Staff Notation in Schools—Lecture on the Ear and Ear-Training, by Mr. A. Watkins (H.M.I.A.)—Reviews of School Music—School Concerts at Ipswich, Dulwich, Isleworth, Wimbledon, Clapham, Turnham Green, Sevenoaks, Hackney, &c.

THE
SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW
FOR JANUARY
CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC:—
"MARCH LIKE THE VICTORS."

Prize Vocal March, by ROLAND ROGERS, Mus. Doc., Oxon. Arranged for two Trebles, in both Notations, with Pianoforte Accompaniment. The Music separately, price 1½d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

JANUARY 1, 1893.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

The Title-page and Index for Vol. XXXIII. (1892) may be had on application gratis and post-free.

1893.

THE first number of THE MUSICAL TIMES for the year just departed opened with "A New Year's Greeting," in which occurred the following passage:

"This morning's bells rang in 'the new,' and from the facts of the year that has gone we turn to expectations of that which has come. We cannot see the road through it, but hope supplies the visual defect, and the new period of time seems big with possibilities of blessing. On every hand are cheery wishes; men face the future with higher courage, and imagination spreads before them a bright and brilliant scene. It may be no better than a mirage born of ardent longing. Its flowing waters may be rivers of sand; its fruits but apples of Sodom. But then they may not. It is possible that we shall drink of the streams and eat of the fruits, and so pass the year in thankful content."

The year in immediate view of which the foregoing words were written has come to an end. Its actualities are matters of history—of sad or joyous memory; its possibilities are exhausted. How did it deal with our readers? Have they drunk of the streams and eaten of the fruits and passed the time in thankful content? Fervently we hope so, but they are too large a body not to include within the year's experience every kind of human fortune. Some have passed away; others have known vicissitude; many, no doubt, remain as 1892 found them, and are now facing its successor with undiminished hope and unfaltering courage. Upon all, save those whom the things of Time concern no more, may hope and courage continue to exert their beneficent influence. We need much of both when contemplating a future big with that which is at once unknowable and unavoidable. The possibilities of the future are the most absorbing problem of our life. It is ever before us, and who can wonder that in all ages men have tried to solve it, fondly calling to their aid, and trusting in, agencies the most occult, pretensions the most absurd. Even the serene stars—huge suns moving along their destined path at distances from us which figures may express but no mind conceive—even they have been supposed to hold the secret of our individual destiny, and are still interrogated. We may be conscious that infinite Wisdom hides the future, and may feel, with Shakespeare:—

> O, if this were seen,
> The happiest youth,—viewing his progress through,
> What perils past, what crosses to ensue—
> Would shut the book and sit him down and die.

—but infinite anxiety is stronger than trust in a Providence which often works in ways too mysterious for our comprehension. Fortunate are we that the sense of anxiety is not large enough to benumb or crush, as conceivably it might, since we know not what a day may bring forth. But, whatever happens, hope remains, and hope feeds the flame of the courage with which we can "go forth to meet the shadowy future without fear and with a manly heart." That a double share of both may animate them through the period of time just entered upon is our New Year's wish for the readers of this journal.

In these columns we may not improperly contemplate the future of music, and try to argue from the known to the unknown—to light up the darkness of time to come with a torch kindled at the now extinct fires of time past. Is the outlook through these means such as contents us? A thousand voices answer discordantly, for views of the past and present widely differ. To some of us music appears to be on the "down grade," demoralised by license, confused by the maunderings of "philosophy, falsely so-called," and degraded by a love of change so strong and unreasoning as to account all change good, and regard the boldest innovator as the greatest benefactor. Others, again, rejoice that all the bonds of art are broken, that every man is a Beethoven so far as to dispense, in sovereign fashion, with rules which he does not care to observe; and that a musician doing whatever is right in his own eyes is not only an artist, but an artist in the act of asserting his highest privilege. These two parties take a very different view of the future. The first, perhaps, look forward disconsolately, only allowing themselves to hope that some regard for the art of the great masters may last their time. The second, it may be, see the Zukunft all radiant with the glory of an emancipated art, and pray they may live to hear music which in some mysterious manner shall satisfy the deep insatiate longings of their being. In all likelihood, the future of music will be neither so unhappy as some expect nor so radiant as the wishes of others lead them to anticipate. Changes in the fundamentals of art are slow, and must by no means be estimated by the tossings and whirlings of its surface. Look at the Atlantic in a storm, and you fancy that the great depths have broken up, and are about to convulse the world, whereas they are all the time so tranquil that the tiny fragile creatures which dwell there are conscious only of unbroken peace. The advance of music, depend upon it, is a movement apart from the conflicting practices, stormy disputations, and wild experiments of those who fancy they represent it. It is an advance, but has ever been a development on the basis of accumulated experience represented not only by the treasures of the far past, but also by the contributions of yesterday. Music knows how to absorb what is good in the new; it knows also how to reject what is bad. We may, therefore, be confident as to the future of our art. The greatest danger lies, perhaps, in the fact that it has become fashionable. "There is a certain artificial polish," writes Washington Irving, "acquired by perpetually mingling in the beau monde, which in the commerce of the world supplies the place of a natural suavity and good humour, but is purchased at the expense of all original and sterling traits of character." We would rather have music natural, even if it be somewhat rugged.

A word or two regarding the future of this journal, which, also, we are justified in contemplating with equanimity. There are no great changes to be announced, though changes may be made with the discernment of opportunities for improvement. Some new features, introduced last year, have proved acceptable to our readers and will be continued. The series of papers, "From my Study," has excited widespread interest, and called forth a large and valuable correspondence. The issue of an annual Supplement has likewise met with cordial approval. After the excellent reception given to the "Mozart" in December, 1891, the proprietors clearly saw their way to a series of such issues, and they hope and believe that the "Beethoven" is no unworthy successor. In the spirit of these improvements, THE MUSICAL TIMES will continue its course through 1893, asking now, at the outset, for the good word and favouring influence of its numerous readers.

CAMBRIDGE MUSICAL DEGREES.

We give the salient points of the Report of the Special Board for Music. The scheme may, of course, be considerably altered before becoming law:—

I. The Degree of Bachelor of Music.

The Board have had under careful consideration the exceptional position of the Mus.B. Degree involved in the fact that it is conferred upon persons who are not required to reside in the University. The various changes with regard to Musical Degrees which the Senate has sanctioned during the last fifteen years seem all to have tended in the direction of assimilating the procedure to that which obtains in other Faculties. The Faculty of Music has been provided with a Special Board like the rest; the subject itself has been made an avenue to the ordinary Degree; the candidates for Musical Degrees have been required to pass examinations in other subjects approved by the University; and they have also to be matriculated like other students of the University. It seems advisable that candidates for Degrees in Music should have enjoyed no less advantages of general education than those who graduate in other faculties. The Board are of opinion that the time has now arrived when the Degree of Mus.B. should be brought completely into line with the other degrees of the University and conferred only after residence.

They recommend—

1. That the regulations for the Degree of Mus.B. be as in Schedule A below.

II. The Degree of Master of Music.

As it is important that Bachelors of Music should have a degree to look forward to which should enable them to obtain the membership of the Senate for which their residence and examinations shall have qualified them, the Board suggest the revival of the old Degree of Master of Music. They are of opinion that this degree should not be conferred without examination, and they recommend the transference (with some modifications) of the present scheme of examination for Mus.D. to that for Mus.M.

On the assumption that the necessary steps be taken for the revival of the Degree of Mus.M. the Board recommend—

2. That the regulations for the Degree of Mus.M. shall be those for the Degree of Mus.D. amended as in Schedule B below.

III. The Degree of Doctor of Music.

The Board are of opinion that the present system of conferring the Doctorate in Music is unsatisfactory, as presenting a test which goes unnecessarily far in the technical direction, and gives insufficient encouragement to originality. They propose therefore to assimilate, as far as may be, the procedure for the Degree of Mus.D. to that for the Degrees of D.Sc. and D.Litt.; and they have closely followed the regulations for those degrees in framing the regulations here suggested for the Musical Doctorate. There is, however, one point in which the analogy must, they think, for the present remain incomplete. As it is of the highest importance to secure the very best musicians, both as holders of the Doctorate and as examiners in the Faculty, they propose that matriculation be the only requirement of those who enter for that degree.

They therefore recommend—

3. That the regulations for the Degree of Mus.D. be as in Schedule C below.

In order to obviate the inconvenience which might arise from too sudden a change in the procedure at present required of Candidates for Degrees in Music, the Board recommend—

4. That the existing procedure in the case of the Degree of Mus.B. be retained for seven years, the new system to run concurrently with the old.

5. That the existing procedure in the case of the Degree of Mus.D. be retained for three years, the new system to run concurrently with the old.

SCHEDULE A.

Regulations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music.

The Examination for the Degree of Mus.B. shall consist of two parts:

(1) Part I. An Examination in (a) Acoustics, (b) Harmony, (c) Counterpoint.

(2) Part II. A more advanced Examination in Music.

No student shall be admitted as a Candidate for Part I. of the Examination for the Degree of Mus.B. unless he has passed Parts I. and II. of the Previous Examination (or some other Examination accepted by the University as conferring exemption from them), and is in his second Term of residence at least; and no student shall be admitted as a candidate for Part II. of the Mus.B. Examination unless he has passed Part I. of that Examination, and is in his eighth Term of residence at least.

A student who has passed Part II. of the Examination for the Degree of Mus.B. shall be entitled to receive that Degree so soon as he has kept nine Terms of residence.

Subjects.

1. For Part I. of the Examination.

(a) Acoustics.

Sensation and external cause of Sound. Mode of its transmission. Nature of wave-motion in general. Application of the wave-theory to Sound. Elements of a musical sound. Loudness and extent of vibration. Pitch and rapidity of vibration. Measures of absolute, and of relative, pitch. Resonance. Analysis of compound sounds. Helmholtz's theory of musical quality. Motion of sounding strings. The pianoforte and other stringed instruments. Motion of sounding air-columns. Flue and reed stops of the organ. Orchestral wind instruments. The human voice. Interference. Beats. Helmholtz's theory of consonance and dissonance. Combination-tones. Consonant chords. Construction of the musical scale. Exact and tempered intonation. Equal temperament. Systems of pitch-notation.

No knowledge of Mathematics beyond Arithmetic shall be required for satisfying the Examiners in this subject.

(b) Counterpoint in not more than three parts including Double Counterpoint in the Octave.

(c) Harmony in not more than four parts.

2. For Part II. of the Examination.

(1) Composition,* both instrumental and vocal. (2) Counterpoint in not more than five parts including Double Counterpoint. (3) Harmony. (4) Canon in two parts. (5) Fugue in two parts, especially as to the relation of Subject and Answer. (6) Form in Composition as exemplified in the Sonata. (7) The pitch and quality of the stops of the Organ. (8) Such knowledge of the quality, pitch, and compass of orchestral instruments as is necessary for reading from score. (9) The analysis of some Classical Composition, both with regard to Harmony and Form, the name of which is to be announced by the Examiners at least six weeks before the date of the Examination. (10) The playing at sight from figured Bass and from Vocal and Orchestral Score. (11) General Musical History. (12) A general knowledge of the standard Classical Works of the great composers.

The Examinations for the Degree of Bachelor of Music shall be conducted by the Professor of Music, assisted by two or more examiners nominated annually by the Board of Musical Studies, and elected by the Senate, of whom one at least shall be a member of the Senate or have been admitted to the Degree of Doctor of Music in the University, or to the Title of that Degree.

SCHEDULE B.

Regulations for the Degree of Master of Music.

This Examination shall consist of Two Parts. Part I. An examination in the higher branches of Music; Part II. The Exercise.

No person shall be allowed to present himself as a Candidate for Part I. of the Examination for the Degree of Mus.M. unless he shall have kept by residence nine Terms at least, and two years shall have elapsed since the completion by inauguration of his Degree of Mus.B.; nor for Part II. of the Examination unless he shall have passed Part I.

The Examination for the Degree of Mus.M. shall consist of two parts:—

Part I. A written and oral Examination in the subjects specified below, to begin on the second Thursday in March.

Part II. The Exercise.

* This subject is introduced into the Examination as a substitute for the Exercise for Mus.B., which it is proposed to abolish.

Subjects.

Part I. The subjects of Examination shall be as follows:—

(a) Counterpoint in not more than eight parts.

(b) The highest branches of harmony.

(c) Canon of various kinds in not more than four parts.

(d) Fugue and Double Fugue in not more than four parts.

(e) Form and Development in Practical Composition.

(f) Instrumentation and scoring of Chamber and Orchestral Music.

(g) The Analysis of some Classical Composition, the name of which will be announced by the Examiners at least six weeks before the day for Examination.

(h) The Art of Music historically and critically considered.

Part II. The Exercise shall be a composition on a sacred or secular subject, written for the occasion; it shall occupy not less than twenty nor more than thirty minutes in performance, and fulfil the following conditions:—

(a) It shall comprise some portion for one or more solo voices, and some considerable portion for a chorus of five real vocal parts.

(b) It shall comprise some specimens of Canon and of Fugue.

(c) The whole (except some single piece for the Voices alone) shall have an accompaniment for a full Band.

SCHEDULE C.

Regulations for the Degree of Doctor of Music.

1. Any person who is not less than thirty years of age and who can be matriculated may be a Candidate for the Degree of Doctor of Music.

2. Such Candidate shall make his application in writing to the Chairman of the Special Board for Music, and shall send therewith not more than three works of his own (printed or otherwise) upon which his claim for a degree is based; such works to include either an Oratorio, an Opera, a Cantata, a Symphony for orchestra, a Concerto, or an extended piece of Chamber Music.

3. Such applications shall be treated as confidential and shall be referred to a Committee of the Special Board for Music, which shall consist of the Chairman of the Board, the Professor of Music, the University Lecturer in Harmony and Counterpoint, and the Examiners for the Mus.M. Degree and for Part II. of the Mus.B. Examination.

Then follow various details as to the duties of the Committee and the final announcement by the Vice-Chancellor.

The changes recommended are, therefore: compulsory residence for the degree of Mus. Bac.; the omission of an exercise for this step; an examination for the degree of Master of Music, and the admission of the holder of this degree to the Senate. No further literary tests are required than the passing of the "Previous" for the Mus. Bac. and Mast. Mus. The new Doctorate will be obtainable without any literary tests whatever, and is merely limited to men over thirty years of age.

There are some merits in the proposed system, but it has some obvious defects. It is certainly a step in the right direction that musical graduates should take their place as members of Senate. But, after due residence for the baccalaureate, why should not the Doctor of Music become a member of Senate? There is no necessity for this revival of the obsolete Master of Music.

But assuming that Masters of Music are made, in accordance with the recommendation of the Report, will it not be rather hard on them, after having resided three years and passed several important examinations in arts and music, that some more lucky friends should be admitted direct to the coveted Doctorate without passing any examinations either in arts or music?

Again, if the "Master of Music" is duly constituted, why not keep the Doctorate as an entirely honorary distinction? The proposed new Doctorate would be, after all, only a sort of half-honorary degree.

Then there is also in the Report that curious hint that the candidate for the Doctorate is to show some "original" work. If the Committee for granting the Doctorate under the new regulations is to limit its donation to original composers, their duties will certainly be very light! How many original composers has England produced during the last two centuries? How many have we now?

Of course if a Master of Music fails to get his recommendation for the Doctorate, he has labelled himself "unable to do original work" and, therefore, he is artistically inferior to the Doctor, although holding a higher status in the University. This would be awkward, surely!

Compulsory residence for musical degrees has always been an ideal of the old "'Varsity Don" both in Oxford and Cambridge; but it is impossible for us to acquiesce in a change which would shut out nearly all professional musicians from the degrees of the older Universities. How could a young professional throw up his work and go at the age of nineteen or twenty to pass three years in a University? Would the resulting degree be worth the trouble? We have one more fault to find. The Report speaks of compulsory residence as giving the advantages of "general education"; but, after all, this turns out to mean merely the passing of the "Previous"! We do not quite like the idea of a man becoming a member of Senate with no higher proof of general education: the examinations subsequently passed in music cannot be said, in our opinion, to educate generally. It seems to us that there are one or two alternatives which would vastly improve the recommendations of the Report. Here is one scheme:

1. Musical degrees to be in future granted to non-residents exactly on the present system.

2. But all Bachelors of Music who are also Bachelors of Arts to be allowed to proceed (after examination) to the degree of Master of Music, and take their place as such in the Senate.

3. That all Masters of Music have the privilege of obtaining the degree of Doctor by submitting their compositions to a Committee of the Board of Musical Studies—i.e., without submitting to the examinations, &c., required of those who are not graduates in arts.

Some scheme of this sort would not rob country professionals of their present privilege of taking Cambridge degrees—if they can get them; while, on the other hand, it would hold out considerable rewards and privileges to those musicians who have the time, ability, and means to become graduates in both faculties, arts and music.

FROM MY STUDY.

I have received the following letter from Mr. Arthur Cookson, of Christchurch, New Zealand:—

It may interest you and your correspondent, Mr. Stewardson, to know that the song "The Banks of the Sweet Dundee" flourishes here at the Antipodes. It happened that four of us spent a holiday last summer on the lonely road to the West Coast, and passed an evening in the company of one of the roadmen who favoured us with several ditties, of which the song in question was one. Where he came from I do not know, but I should judge that he had been in the Colonies long enough to lose most of any distinctive dialect he may have possessed. The song, however, remained, in company with "The ship that never returned," and one or two others of a similar character. Unfortunately it did not occur to me to note the melody down, although it remained so fresh in my memory that your article in the August number of The Musical Times brought the whole evening vividly back again. His version of the song seems to resemble the "curly tune" more than the variant quoted by Mr. Stewardson, and as regrets about lost opportunities will not bring them back again, I am living in hopes of being able to note the song on some future trip. It would certainly be interesting to see what effect a few years "roughing it" in the Colonies has on these old folk-tunes.

I am much obliged to Mr. Cookson for his interesting communication, and shall be glad to hear from him with regard to the point mentioned in his closing sentence.

Miss Maude Rowden (and others) may be interested to learn that the Christmas Carol which she kindly sent me (see THE MUSICAL TIMES of last month) is well known in the West of England. I have received two letters thereupon, the first from Mr. Ralph Dunstan, Mus. Doc., Cantab., who writes:

The carol "Hark, hark! what news the angels bring," to which you refer in the December issue of THE MUSICAL TIMES, is very widely known and sung in West Cornwall. My father, who is eighty years of age, has known both words and music from his infancy, and the carol is probably one of the oldest of the many West of England Christmas hymns. The words, as I have seen them as far back as I can remember, on the "broadsheets" printed at Helston, and in the "collections" printed at Redruth, Truro, and elsewhere, are in the first three verses practically the same as those given by your correspondent. I am not, however, familiar with verses 4 and 5; in Cornwall, it is customary to sing for the last verse a repetition of the words "Alleluia, Amen." The treble and bass as I have heard them sung hundreds of times are as below—inner parts being filled in ad lib.:—

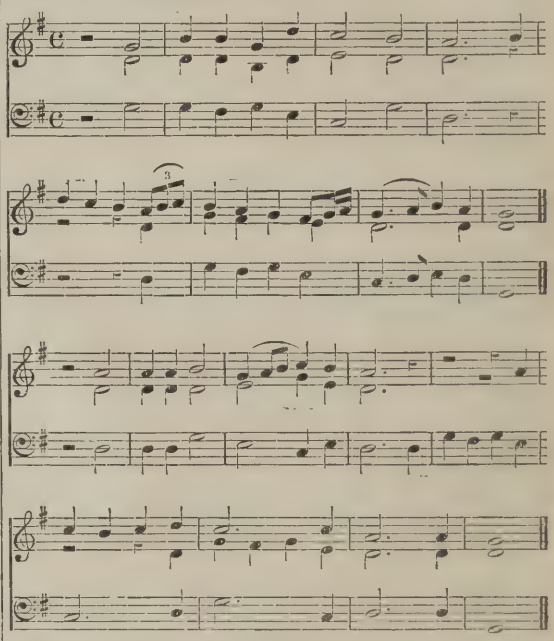
Hark, hark! what news the an - gels bring, Glad
Hark, hark! what news the an - gels bring,
tid-ings of, glad tid-ings of a new - born King.
Glad tid-ings of a new - born King.
(a)
Who is the Sa - viour of man-kind, In
Who is the Sa - viour of man-kind, In Whom we may sal-
(b)
D.S. ad lib.
Whom we may sal - va, sal - va - tion find.
- va - tion find, In Whom we may sal - va - tion find.

The peculiar divisions of the words, the change of rhythm, the imitative entries, the Doric cadence at (a), and the consecutive fifths at (b), are among the "points" of this setting.

The second letter is from Mr. Allan Wallis:—

I send you the version of "Hark, hark! what news the angels bring," as printed in the collection of William Sandys, F.S.A., published by Richard Beckley, Piccadilly, 1822, and as used in the West of England and Cornwall. It is altogether different from those you published in your last issue. The old version, as printed here, of "The Lord at first had Adam made" and "God rest you, merry gentlemen," is entirely different from the new as sung at present. They are here described as dating, with others, from the early part of the fifteenth to the end of the seventeenth centuries. The composers' names are not given. For carol singing commend me to a certain church near Torquay where they sing the very, very old ones as found in Mr. D. Gilbert's collection.

When I said, last month, that the "Hark" was new to me, I spoke not "by the card," or, rather by the book, since I have long had in my possession the collection mentioned by Mr. Wallis as that of D. Gilbert. It is entitled, "Some Ancient Christmas Carols, with the Tunes to which they were formerly sung in the West of England. Collected by Davies Gilbert, F.R.S., F.A.S., &c. London: Printed by John Nichols & Son, 25, Parliament Street, 1822." This book contains five stanzas of the poem, the first three being identical with the first three of those sent by Miss Rowden. The tune is harmonised in three parts, each having a separate stave. I give it here in a condensed form:—



The absolute freedom of the composer, or arranger, from the tyrannous laws of harmony might excite the envy of some modern musicians. Even they are not yet emancipated in the measure of their West Country forbear.

Mr. Wallis has sent me what I take to be the whole of the words of the carol (twelve stanzas), and I reproduce them here for the sake of completeness, and because of their quaint pietism:—

1.
Hark, hark, what news the Angels bring,
Glad tidings of a new-born King,
Who is the Saviour of mankind,
In Whom we may salvation find.

2.
This is the day, the blessed morn,
The Saviour of mankind was born;
Born of a maid, a Virgin pure,
Born without sin, from guilt secure.

3.
Hail, blessed Virgin, full of grace!
Blessed above all mortal race,
Whose blessed womb brought forth in one
A God, a Saviour, and a Son.

4.
A perfect God, a perfect man,
A mystery which no man can
Attain to, tho' he's e'er so wise,
Till he ascend above the skies.

5.
Arise, my soul, and then, my voice,
In hymns of praise early rejoice;
His fame extol and magnify—
Upon those errands Angels fly.

6.
As Angels sung at Jesus' birth,
Sure we have greater cause for mirth,
For why, it was for our sake
Christ did our human nature take.

7.
Dear Christ, Thou didst Thyself debase,
Thus to descend to human race,
And leave thy Father's throne above:
Lord, what could move Thee to this love.

8.
Man that was made out of the dust,
He found a paradise at first;
But see the God of Heaven and earth
Laid in a manger at His birth.

9.
Surely the manger where He lies
Doth figure out His sacrifice;
And by His birth all men may see
A pattern of humility.

10.
Stupendous Babe! my God and King,
Thy praises I will ever sing,
In joyful accents raise my voice,
And in my praise of God rejoice.

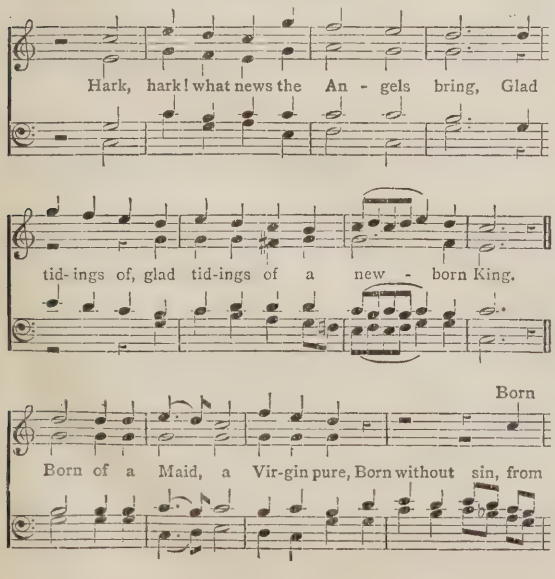
11.
My soul, learn by thy Saviour's Birth,
For to debase thyself on earth,
That I may be exalted high
To live with Him eternally.

12.
I am resolved whilst here I live,
As I'm in duty bound, to give
All glory to the Deity,
One God alone in persons three.

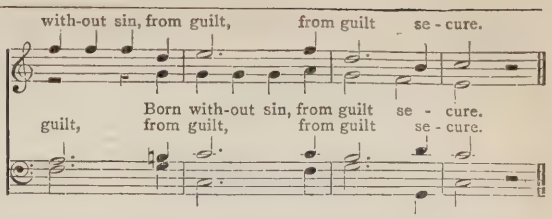
With reference to this carol, I have received a second communication from Miss Rowden, in which she observes:—

I enclose a copy of a tune sent me yesterday by Mr. John Manning, of Barnstaple, which he says he has never seen in print, and has written entirely from memory; he has seen a copy of it in an old manuscript book. It is an entirely different tune to the one I sent you before, and though the words are the same (Mr. Manning only sent me the first verse), the lines are arranged in different order, the third and fourth lines being the same as the third and fourth in the second verse of the Winwick version. I have also heard that both the words and the tune (as they appeared in THE MUSICAL TIMES) are known in three villages in Rutlandshire. A copy of the tune has been sent to me, and it very closely resembles the plain version copied from the old clerk's book; it has not got the runs nor the turns at the end of the lines that the Winwick modern version has. My correspondent has never seen either words or music in print. In Rutlandshire the Carol is called "Old Hark," and in Barnstaple "Little Hark," and in Winwick "The Hark."

LITTLE HARK.



Hark, hark! what news the An - gels bring, Glad
tid-ings of, glad tid-ings of a new - born King.
Born
Born of a Maid, a Vir-gin pure, Born without sin, from



It appears that the carol is of Western origin, and was probably taken North in the memory of some migrant Westerner, from whom it passed as a traditional piece.

On the same subject, Mrs. G. C. Robey, Organist of the Parish Church, Patcham, writes:—

I see noticed in your latest number of THE MUSICAL TIMES an account of a Christmas Hymn called the "Hark." A very similar hymn—indeed, some few lines are identical—is sung in Lancashire at Bedford, Leigh, at Christmas, and is called the "Old Hark," or, as it is pronounced there, "Th' owd 'Ark." The tune—which I have enclosed—was composed by Handel when staying at Bedford House, Bedford, Leigh. The date of this visit I am unable to state. The above information I have received from the Rev. T. Jackson-Smith, Vicar of Patcham, near Brighton, and formerly Vicar of Bedford, Leigh, Lancashire.

On the matter of Handel's authorship I should much like to hear from the Vicar of Patcham.

From Mr. Hunt, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Mary's, Godmanchester, I have received the following:—

I have copied, and enclose with this a slightly different arrangement of the "Old Hark" mentioned in your "Notes" last month. I also send the arrangement as now sung at Woodnewton, Wansford. Neither version is free from error, but I had some difficulty in deciphering the four parts as written in the old manuscript lent me. An old friend to whom the manuscript belongs says that the "Old Hark" was sung at Woodnewton at least fifty years ago, when his father played the fiddle in the village choir. At that time the singing was accompanied by strings, reeds, and brass. I am sorry that I cannot get the author's name.

A collection of "New Christmas Carrols: Being fit also to be sung at Easter, Whitsuntide and other Festival days in the year" (black letter, no date), now in the Ashmoleian Museum, contains a Wassail Song sung by young women, who, at Christmastide went from door to door bearing a decorated bowl filled with spiced ale. The effusion differs considerably from the one which, as a boy, I used to hear in the West of England. In that case, men were invariably the performers and carousers. There are, however, some points of resemblance between the two ditties. Thus the men, for example—

Come, butler, fill us a bowl of the best;
I pray that in heaven your soul it may rest.

And thus the maidens—

Well fare the butler's soul
That setteth this to sale:
Our jolly wassel!

Again the men—

Here's to our master and to his good roan;
Don't let us poor fellows stand on the cold stone.

And again the maids—

But here they let us stand
All freezing in the cold;
Good master, give command
To enter and be bold.

On the other hand, the gentle wassailers had no such minatory couplet as that with which the West Country song ended. The "you" is the butler—

But if you do bring us a bowl of the small,
Then down goes butler, bowl and all.

Another carol, of a benedictory nature, comes from the same source—

God bless the master of this house,
The mistress, also,
And all the little children
That round the table go.

And all your kin and kinsfolk,
That dwell both far and near;
I wish you a merry Christmas
And a happy new year.

I have never known these verses in active use, but remember a kindred composition, more ingenious in the matter of expected "tips":

Good master and good mistress,
A-sitting by the fire,
One ha'penny or one penny
Is as much as I desire.

I wish you a merry Christmas
And a happy New Year,
A pocket full of money
And a cellar full of beer.

The item of beer comes last, as representing, perhaps, the acme of felicitous possession.

We all remember Washington Irving's first Christmas night at Bracebridge Hall: "I had scarcely got into bed when a strain of music seemed to break forth in the air just below the window. I listened and found it proceeded from a band, which I concluded to be the waits from some neighbouring village. They went round the house playing under the windows. I drew aside the curtains, to hear them more distinctly. The moonbeams fell through the upper part of the casement, partially lighting up the antiquated apartment. The sounds, as they seceded, became more soft and aërial, and seemed to accord with quiet and moonlight. I listened and listened—they became more and more tender and remote, and, as they gradually died away, my head sank upon the pillow and I fell asleep." We shall all "fall on sleep" in our turn, and when we do, may our lullaby be nothing worse than Christmas music.

X.

BEETHOVEN'S SKETCH BOOKS.

By J. S. SHEDLOCK, B.A.

THE BIRTH OF A SYMPHONY.

(Concluded from p. 717.)

THE Berlin Library sketches of the Pastoral Symphony were probably made in 1807: the Museum book bears the date 1808. Musicians are now familiar with the fact that Beethoven worked by a slow and apparently almost painful process, and that, although a general likeness may be traced, there is almost always a marked difference between the first and the final presentations of a thought or the development of the same. Beethoven in his sketch books mixes up not only various works which were occupying his mind at one and the same time, but writes down ideas which must have suddenly occurred to him, and of many of which he made no further use. Now the Museum book is of special interest in that the composer seems to have had his mind almost entirely absorbed with the Pastoral Symphony. We say "almost," for on one page we meet with a sketch for the first movement of the Sonata for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 69). And again, towards the end of the volume (which, by the way, consists of sixty half sheets, with sixteen staves to the page), the "Storm" sketches are interrupted once by workings for the E flat Trio (Op. 70, No. 2). The volume contains also sketches for the Trio in D (Op. 70, No. 1), but these do not come between Pastoral sketches, for the volume concludes with them. We are not now concerned with the Trio sketches, but cannot help noticing the family likeness between the opening theme of the Symphony and that of the Finale of the Trio in D:—

Ex. 1.
(a) SYMPHONY.

(b) TRIO.

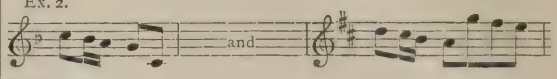
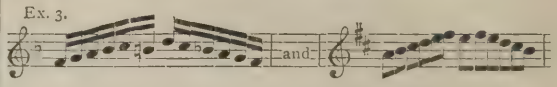
also—

Ex. 2.



and—

Ex. 3.



The very first sketch in the book shows that the consecutive fifths between the eleventh and twelfth bars of the opening Allegro of the Symphony were the result of second thoughts; the violin and violoncello parts of bars 9-12 are written down, but there are scratchings out in the twelfth bar, and the first violin note was originally c. On this page is written:

Man überlässt es dem Zuhörer sich selbst die Situationen aufzufinden. (The hearer is left to discover the situations for himself.)

This sentence has been quoted before, but we are not aware that the exact place in which it occurs has been mentioned. It stands here at the head of the Pastoral sketches. Schumann tells us in one of his letters that he generally wrote his music, and then added a superscription. Beethoven here starts with a definite programme scheme in his mind. In addition to the sentence he writes lower down on the same page:

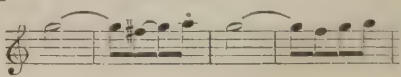
Sinfonie caracteristica oder Erinnerungen an das Landleben. (Characteristic Symphony, or reminiscences of country life.)

Here is possibly the first form of the long dominant passage—

Ex. 4.

In the final form it is seven bars longer: as a rule, Beethoven compressed. The following again may be compared with the corresponding passage in the score—

Ex. 5.



The difference is a small one, but none the less important. Any differences, merely as such, would have no interest or importance, but here, and in many other places, the composer only gives new and more finished shape to the same idea, just as nature transforms the embryo into the new-born babe; in both cases it is a process of evolution, not of arbitrary change.

Of course Beethoven sometimes made experiments, and nothing came of them; for instance, towards the close of the exposition he tried "Echo" effects, but without result.

The seventeen pages of sketches for the first movement show that Beethoven was not afraid of spoiling inspiration by working at his thematic material. Many examples have been given in these articles of the various stages through which Beethoven's themes passed before they arrived at maturity, but we must venture to add one more. The Andante sketches commence with—

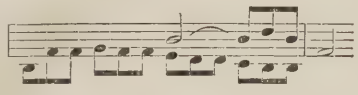
Ex. 6.

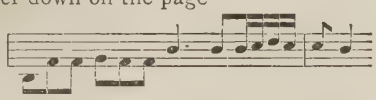
The bass indication is of interest: Beethoven seems to have felt that the accompaniment was to be a moving one. Then we have—

Ex. 7.



and lower down on the page—

Ex. 8.



Later on we find phrases, such as the beautiful one—which seem to have been born, as it were, note by note, for the sketches are all filled with scratching out and re-writing of notes.

Ex. 9.

Last month we spoke about "hints as to the connection of the various movements," and now we approach that subject, but not without a certain fear and trepidation. There are many things which one feels to be true, and yet the moment an attempt is made to describe those feelings in words, everything seems to become vague and uncertain. If my readers are anxious to discover whether Beethoven intended the movements of his Symphony to be parts of a whole—members of one organism—then they will gladly catch at any clue which may help them in forming an opinion. But if they will not read between the lines, and will only accept evidence which will bear cross-examination—visible signs—then they had better skip over this paragraph, for it is scarcely more than tentative. The first hint that we perceive is the appearance of sketches for a third movement, and a return to workings for the first movement, right in the middle of the Andante sketches. Does that not seem to show some connection of ideas? (By the way, the thunder of the storm—appears at the top of one page.) A proposed "Siciliano"—

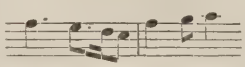
Ex. 10.



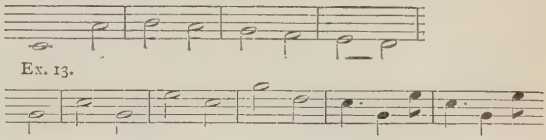
in which we trace a germ of the third movement, seems as if it were a distant relation of—

Ex. 11.

Of course, one might easily become fanciful, and in every group of notes see some intention. But in two places in this sketch-book Beethoven has not only altered a theme—in the one case by double augmentation so that it would be scarcely recognised again, and in the other by change of rhythm—but in both cases has placed the two forms side by side, showing that he was consciously working by metamorphosis. Here are the two—

Ex. 12.

Ex. 13.



We imagine that only few, in listening to the lovely oboe minim notes at the end of the storm movement, have traced their origin to the opening of the storm theme. In the matter of connection we would ask our readers to compare that oboe passage with the phrase from the third movement (See Ex. 17).

On one page the cuckoo notes seem to be indicated, but later on there are several "Ende" sketches, yet no sign of the birds. Here is one—

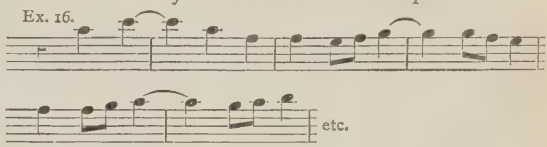
Ex. 14.

Here is a characteristic sketch for the third movement—

Ex. 15.

and here an early form of a well-known phrase—

Ex. 16.



The following shows that Beethoven evidently wished the small notes (of printed score) to commence on the beat—

Ex. 17.

All the "Storm" sketches, and there are many of them, are exceedingly interesting.* One gives nearly eighty bars of the movement from the commencement. The following presents a very good idea of a Beethoven sketch (see bars 49-37 of "Storm" movement, counting backwards from the end)—

Ex. 18.

* The Allegro non troppo in the "Prometheus" music, after the Overture, is itself a very early and very interesting "Sketch" of the "Pastorale" Storm. This has been pointed out by Sir G. Grove in the Beethoven article in his Dictionary of Music and Musicians.

The g flat of the sketch, in place of the less correct f sharp of the score, will not escape notice.

The opening bars of the Finale theme are as follows—

Ex. 19.  etc.

The rhythmical alteration (in printed score) of the fourth bar shows a later stage of development. Here too is a characteristic sketch (in pencil)—

Ex. 20.
The passage in the score to which it refers runs thus—

Ex. 21.
The last sketch in our book refers to the Coda—

Ex. 22.
Here, for the present, we bring these articles to a close.

THE MUSIC HALL IN EXCELSIS.

On the 10th ult. a dies nefastus in the annals of English music, the Royal English Opera House, re-baptised as the Palace Theatre of Varieties, and re-decorated in a style which might have satisfied Sardanapalus himself, threw open its doors to the delighted public, amid salvoes of eulogy, the echoes of which have hardly yet ceased reverberating. The vocabulary of gratitude has been so utterly beggared already in the attempt to do justice to the successive benefits conferred on an undeserving public by the genius of Sir Augustus Harris that, unless a few thousand new superlatives are speedily invented to keep pace with further developments, the Napoleon of impresarios may suffer seriously from the consequences of this monotonous iteration of his praises. His services in the cause of music—ancient and modern, foreign and English—are almost too well known to need recapitulation. What admirable judgment has he not shown in the selection of new operas by native composers; what refined and scholarly taste has he not displayed in the mounting and costumes of Gluck's "Orfeo"! But his last achievement crowns all. For let us calmly reflect on the situation. The music hall—so it has been repeatedly asserted of late—is the greatest modern engine of artistic enlightenment. Through it, and through it alone, can you appeal to "the great head of the people." Unfortunately for philanthropic and benevolent reformers, the world is not made up of the masses alone; there remain out in the cold—outside the pure, the elevating, and the exhilarating influence of the high kick, the Serpentine dance, the voce della bianca capella (or Whitechapel voice production), and other delights—the benighted classes, whom the Procrustean code of caste, the "futile decalogue of mode"—as a modern bard hath it—has hitherto precluded from freely participating in these educational advantages.

The "classes" have hitherto been dependent for intellectual and artistic nourishment upon such dry and meagre diet as is afforded by Popular, Richter, Crystal Palace, Henschel, and Oratorio Concerts. And yet they must not be denied the credit of having realised the measure of their deprivation or of having endeavoured to supplement their shortcomings by private practice. Of late years the number of aristocratic performers on the banjo has swelled to quite an imposing figure, and at the present moment there is hardly a single self-respecting family in "Society" (with a capital S) the spindle side of which has not attained to proficiency in the skirt dance. Still, the conditions and surroundings of the average music hall have hitherto rendered it practically impossible for "the classes" to frequent these resorts en famille otherwise than sub rosâ. It has been reserved, therefore, for the genius of Sir Augustus Harris to bridge over this gulf, and to devise a species of etherealised, spiritualised, and sublimated music hall entertainment at which the "masses" and the "classes" may meet and mingle on the common ground of their devotion to the great goddess Variety. Surely the natural regret that is evoked by the collapse of Mr. D'Oyly Carte's scheme ought to be alleviated, if not obliterated, by the consciousness that the "reign of seriousness" has been exorcised by the spells of the great wizard of Drury Lane?

Under the new and beneficent régime music in England bids fair to become, at one and the same moment, aristocratic, 'Arrystocratic, and Harristocratic. What more could the most exigent critic desire?

We have great satisfaction in stating that the musical public are giving our "Beethoven" Supplement a very cordial reception. The character of its predecessor, "Mozart," apparently inspired confidence, since orders were received in advance for more than 10,000 copies. Since the "Beethoven" appeared that number has been very largely increased, and, as copies cannot be multiplied indefinitely, those of our readers who have not yet secured the Supplement should do so without delay. Our thanks are due to many contemporaries of the daily and weekly press for friendly and appreciative notices, the value of which cannot be estimated. Our trust, however, has been, and is, in the variety and excellence of the contents of the Supplement. We spared no effort to make them worthy of acceptance, and it may be that few who admire the illustrations can form any idea of the labour involved in their collection and presentation. For all pains taken we have an ample return in the satisfaction and patronage of the public, particularly of those who are subscribers to The Musical Times, and whose steady support encourages us to renewed exertions.

In the letter from our American correspondent last month there is a passage worth more than casual notice. The writer, referring to Mr. Frank Damrosch, points out, as an evidence of his well-directed activity, that he is now engaged in organising a People's Singing Class on a large scale. This is intended "more especially for the benefit of the working people of this and neighbouring cities, having within his scope the ultimate plan of a great people's chorus, by whom may be given the choral works of the masters; 1,500 persons responded to Mr. Damrosch's suggestion, and have now organised permanently for the purpose intimated; the terms of membership are very simple, the fee trifling, and it would appear that we will, in a comparatively short time, thanks to the excellent idea of this enthusiastic worker, have a body of singers trained to the point of attempting successfully the great cantatas and oratorios, which have heretofore been left to the more exclusive use of the leading choral societies." Here is a new departure in popular musical organisation, and its future will be watched with interest not on the other side of the Atlantic alone. It may be wise to wait for the result of Mr. Damrosch's effort before considering whether the example is worth following in London. But, given an enthusiastic musician who can afford to take the lead in such an enterprise, and with ability enough to carry it on, we see no reason why a great People's Chorus should not be set up here. There are people enough, in all conscience, and experience among them goes to show that they are not lacking in qualities essential to the success of the experiment.

Some people are very difficult to please. Here, for example, is the Ménestrel falling foul of the Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts for the deliberate boycotting of French music, of which the managers are, in its opinion, guilty. As a matter of fact, we do not suppose that there are any concerts in the world at which the selection of the programmes is conducted on more catholic principles. So far from boycotting French music, Mr. Manns is constantly performing it—more often, indeed, perhaps than is justified by the merits of the works performed. To take the case of living composers alone, M. Saint-Saëns frequently figures in the programmes; the same may be said of M. Gounod. A Symphony by M. Widor was produced not long ago, and the compositions by M. Massenet are no strangers to the habitués of the Crystal Palace. Only a few weeks back we had a work by M. Wormser of Enfant Prodigue fame. On the 10th we had Saint-Saëns's Violoncello Concerto. The only explanation of this gratuitous and ill-founded charge that occurs to us is that the London correspondent of the Ménestrel happened to attend a Crystal Palace Concert at which no French music was performed and straightway, with true Gallic impetuosity, leapt to the conclusion that French music never was performed under Mr. Manns's direction. With infinitely greater truth might an English critic complain of the absolute neglect and ignorance of English music which prevails in France. But as we recognise it to be a matter of temperament as well as of misguided patriotism, we can well afford to hold our tongues. Let it never be forgotten that France had to learn from Germany, from England, and from America how to appreciate at his true worth her own great composer, Bizet.

Gluck is known to the musician as an opera reformer, and to the average amateur as the composer of "Che farò." But it may not be generally known that when he visited England in 1746 Gluck appeared as a performer upon the—musical glasses! The General Advertiser for March 31, 1746, contains the following advertisement: "At Mr. Hickford's Great Room in Brewer's-street, on Monday, April 14, Signor Gluck, Composer of the Operas, will exhibit a Concert of Musick. By the best performers from the Opera-House. Particularly, He will play a Concerto upon Twenty-six Drinking-Glasses, tuned with Spring-Water, accompanied with the whole Band, being a new Instrument of his own Invention; upon which he performs whatever may be done on a Violin or Harpsichord; and therefore hopes to satisfy the Curious, as well as the Lovers of Musick. To begin at Half an hour after Six. Tickets Half-a-guinea each." Perhaps some learned musician will enlighten us as to the advantage of "Spring-Water" over other beverages for tuning "Twenty-six Drinking-Glasses." Here is also promising material for an interesting acoustical question in an examination paper of the College of Organists, as water often contains organic matter.

The editor of Musical News should look after the gentleman who "does" the Crystal Palace notices for that journal. He recently described Brahms's Scherzo in E flat minor, played by Miss Adelina de Lara, as "a display waltz by Strauss-Tausig, of no artistic value"! True, the waltz had been announced in the book; but the pianist substituted the Scherzo, and, alas! the poor critic didn't know the difference; he "went for" the piece on the strength of its name. The week following he remarked of the Funeral March in the "Eroica" Symphony, "It is too long—at least, viewed as a balance (sic) to the other sections of the Symphony"! Perhaps this superior person would oblige by issuing an abbreviated version of the movement? And while he is about it, he might also abbreviate his notices, which, "viewed as a balance to the other sections of the" paper, are also "too long." Their constant violation of the laws of syntax is, of course, unimportant—in Musical News. By the way, on p. 553 of that journal there is a reference to "our insular friends on the other side of the Channel"! and on p. 554, in a quotation from Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar," the words "See my Pilot" are given as "Meet my Maker"!! It is well to remember that Musical News is intended more especially for students—of literature?

The extracts from letters written by the late Robert Franz to Mr. Schlesinger, which by the courtesy of that gentleman we are enabled to print in another column, will be read with the interest due not only to their value as the utterances of a man of genius, but to their intrinsic merits. Comment would detract from, rather than add to, their value, since the lessons they teach are such that he who runs may read. We cannot, however, refrain from drawing attention to Franz's remarks on the consumption of "trash-music" in Germany. The large consumption of that article in England is so often urged in proof of our inferiority as a musical nation that the assertion of Robert Franz with regard to musical taste in the Fatherland comes to us with the reviving freshness of a sea-breeze. As far as we can remember no German musician of rank has ever before admitted the existence of such a thing as the musical equivalent for "German silver." We shall be glad to hear what our friends on the Spree have to say on this, to us, interesting subject.

The fin de siècle lobster is evidently dissatisfied with the career which his ancestors had hitherto considered good enough for them. He no longer regards boiling—with the hope of attaining salad—as a sufficiently high aim in life, and in consequence is developing tastes which, carefully cultivated, may ultimately lead to his promotion from the tank to the concert platform—which, by the way, at some of our Aquaria is no great distance. A correspondent, in whose veracity we have implicit confidence, informs us that recently, on a pianoforte-organ commencing to play in front of a well-known fishmonger's in Newcastle-on-Tyne, a row of lobsters on the slab began to wave their feelers and claws, and ceased not to do so while the music lasted. He adds that quite a little crowd collected to admire the spectacle, but omits to say whether the sympathetic crustaceans moved in time to the music. Nor, unfortunately, is the name of the tune mentioned. Was it "Come unto these yellow sands"? or "Rock'd in the cradle of the deep"? or was it "Ta——"? No, the thought is too harrowing.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

We have received from Sir George Grove the following lines, which have been written by Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne, and are to be set to music for the opening of the new buildings of the Royal College of Music in the course of the coming summer:—

Music: an Ode.

I.

Was it light that spake from the darkness, or music that shone from the word,
When the night was enkindled with sound of the sun or the first-born bird?
Souls enthralled and entrammelled in bondage of seasons that fall and rise,
Bound fast round with the fetters of flesh, and blinded with light that dies,
Lived not surely till music spake, and the spirit of life was heard.

II.

Music, sister of sunrise, and herald of life to be,
Smiled as dawn on the spirit of man, and the thrall was free.
Slave of nature and serf of time, the bondman of life and death,
Dumb with passionless patience that breathed but forlorn and reluctant breath,
Heard, beheld, and his soul made answer and communed aloud with the sea.

III.

Morning spake, and he heard: and the passionate silent noon
Kept for him not silence: and soft from the mounting moon
Fell the sound of her splendour, heard as dawn's in the breathless night,
Not of men but of birds whose note bade man's soul quicken and leap to light:
And the song of it spake, and the light and the darkness of earth were as chords in tune.

A. C. Swinburne.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

This is from a correspondent at Dresden: "Raoul Koczalski, Court Pianist to the Shah of Persia, aged seven (he was born at Warsaw on January 3, 1885), has just completed a series of six Concerts at Dresden before a crowded audience, which on one occasion included His Majesty the King of Saxony. Here, as in the other great capitals where he has played, his reception has been most enthusiastic, the press and the public being unanimous in their applause of the youthful pianist. The facility and command over his instrument which the little Koczalski possesses are indeed astounding in a child of his years, but we were less impressed with these than with the exactness of his musical expression. It is the mark of genius, young or old, to say what it has to say with perfect distinctness and certainty, to know and to mean what it says, and to express it so as at once to be understood by all who have ears to hear. This quality the little Koczalski possesses in no small degree, and hence the astonishing effect which he produces on his hearers."

A certain Hampshire paper has a most wonderful musical contributor in the sense of "high-falutin'," and we challenge even the far West of America to produce his like. He lately went to hear Pachmann play the pianoforte, and came away to rave in language of which we give samples below: "As the Magician touched the responsive keys my mind began to waken and expand. I became etherealized (it so appeared), and walked through winding avenues of elms and oaks, cypresses and quivering aspens, in the moonlight, hearing above the murmurings of æolian harps the tuneful whispering of the evening wind. Then met together youths and maids, who talked of love and hope and dim futurity, until, like a pale ghost, the first faint gleam of dawn shone down and drove them wailing from the pathways. They fled, whereto I know not, nor shall ever know; but as they went their wailings developed into songs, which spoke of hope and peace and charms beyond the mortal universe."

"He touched the magic strings again, and so there floated out upon the air, harmonies—weird and wonderful. I could nigh see them, and at last I did. The forms, before diaphanous, warmed by a wealth of sound, sprang into sight, scarlet and glowing, but not to be described. Then came a pause, heightening expectation to the point of agony. A roar of rushing waterfalls pealed out, and at last grew faint, dreamily murmuring 'Art is eternal, but men die,' and so sighing and soughing, faded drowsily away."

"A single note, rich and full, rang out and clashed against the sky, to shiver into multitudes of sounds—star-sparkling, which sank down clearly through the air, dissolving as they fell, filling all space and matter with their subtler harmonies. It rang again—again—with richer strength, until it seemed the universal air might not sustain the wealth of melody. The senses strained and grew acute, breathing the air thus music-laden, and as they reached the acme of their rapture, the whole framework of harmonies died with startling suddenness, leaving me motionless and listening—but only to the echoes in my mind. When I glanced up again the Magician had departed, and I grieved I had once more reached to reality." Is this the new criticism?

Mr. Mell was a very mild, though down-trodden master at Mr. Creakle's school. Once he visited an old woman in an almshouse—his mother, in point of fact—taking with him a new boy, David Copperfield, who tells us all about it. "The old woman of the house said to the master, 'Have you got your flute with you?' 'Yes,' he returned. 'Have a blow at it,' said the old woman coaxingly. 'Do!' The master, upon this, put his hand underneath the skirts of his coat, and brought out his flute in three pieces, which he screwed together, and began immediately to play . . . I don't know what the tunes were—if there were such things in the performance at all, which I doubt—but the influence of the strain upon me was, first, to make me think of all my sorrows until I could hardly keep my tears back; then to take away my appetite, and, lastly, to make me so sleepy that I couldn't keep my eyes open."

Mr. Mell is the typical flautist—a man of meekness and resignation, who finds relief to his feelings, not in projects of revenge, or impotent railings, but in blowing into a tube which gives forth sounds that are the food of woe. Through the flute come the sad complaints of disappointed love, the gentle protests of weakness against the hard lot of having to encounter strength, the vague aspirations of poetic natures towards the music of the spheres. But all flautists are not worthy of the plaintive and tender instrument upon which they play. We have just met with good reason to be sure of this fact.

IN a recent number of THE MUSICAL TIMES, after stating that Professor H. Clay Wysham, of Berkeley, California, had given a Lecture illustrated by seven different varieties of flutes, we exclaimed, "Shade of Cherubini!" who, having been asked what was worse than one flute, promptly replied "two." This very mild and innocent pleasantry on our part has, we regret to say, evoked the Titanic wrath of Professor H. Clay Wysham, and it is doubtless fortunate for us that we are not discharging editorial functions in Berkeley (Cal.). But the post reaches a long way, and through it our angry Californian poured the vials of his wrath. The contents were quite hot on arriving.

WE cannot give the offended flautist's letter in full, and must be content to pick out a few plums. According to Mr. Wysham, we ought to be ashamed of our "meanness and ignorance." He takes it for granted that our "ignorance is as dense as a Hottentot's," and that we are "simply mean and malicious." He sends us some "literature" (from his own pen) with an injunction to study it as the beginning of our education. Our editorship, according to him, is of "third-rate calibre," and he threatens that, unless we acknowledge our error and injustice, "I shall show by the publication of an 'open letter' in a prominent London journal, and prove, too, that the exposing and deposing of men of your ilk in editorial work is the only hope for England to become a musical nation." Hoity-toity! There's for you—or, rather for us!

How can we associate the warbling flute, that solace of melancholy and minister of resignation, with wrathful Mr. Wysham? of whom it may be said, with Dryden, "Tempests and whirlwinds through his bosom move." Every flautist's crest should be a dove; but it seems that our correspondent would be more accurately represented by the quadruped known among the mountains of the Far West as "Old Abraham." As for acknowledging our error and injustice we cannot think of such a thing. It would be a crime to deprive London of the amusement derivable from a letter out of Berkeley (Cal.).

OPERA Recitals are not an ideally perfect form of art, but attacks upon them can easily be overdone. A writer in the Northern Echo, noticing a Recital of the "Cavalleria," says: "In place of the picturesquely attired peasants, kneeling in an attitude of devotion, we have a smug array of choristers, book in hand," &c. Well, what of that? The occasion was a presentation of Mascagni's music, and the audience knew they were not to witness an acted drama. The same "smug" choristers ("smug," according to Webster, is a North of England term for "affectedly nice in dress") represent Philistines and Hebrews in Handel's oratorios; they shout for Stephen's death in "St. Paul," and invoke vengeance on the Christian hosts in the "Walpurgis Night." Nobody complains of this. Let us learn not to distinguish between things that are essentially the same.

THE County Council of London should be praised rather than blamed for looking sharply after all places of public assembly. It is better to suffer some inconvenience through the locking of the stable door than to find the horse stolen. Nevertheless, there is such a thing as excessive, because unnecessary care, and we have a sample of it in the recent summoning of a publican for permitting recitations, he having no music or dancing license. Whether recitations come within the Act is a point for lawyers; we would only urge that, as given in public houses, they are not likely to attract a dangerous crowd. In the case just referred to, some twenty persons only were gathered. It may be assumed that they heard something better than ordinary public house conversation, and it seems to us that recitations should be encouraged rather than repressed.

THE Crystal Palace Saturday Concerts will be resumed on February 18. The novelties promised for the remaining half of the series are Dvorák's new Mass in D, Concert-Overtures by Professor Marshall Hall and Mr. F. Lamond, a Concerto for violoncello and orchestra by Mr. J. Klengel, a "Marche Solennelle" by Mr. E. German, and excerpts from Bizet, Moszkowski, and Nicodé. Dvorák's Symphony in G (No. 4) will be played (for the first time at Sydenham) on February 25. First appearances at these Concerts will be made by Miss Mary Cardew, a young violinist; Madame Duma, Miss Mary Harris, Mdlle. Laudi, Mr. Slivinski, and Mr. Edwin Houghton.

How many cooks are required to spoil the broth of an opera? The question is important with reference to a lyric drama called the "Golden Web," which the Carl Rosa Company have in hand. It appears that the original libretto was written by Mr. F. Corder, then made "funny" by a well-known comedian, and since almost entirely re-written by Mr. B. C. Stephenson. Here are three literary cooks. The original music was in process of revision by its composer, Goring Thomas, when that gentleman died, and a Mr. Waddington is now completing it. Here are two musical cooks—making five cooks in all. We are curious about the result.

THE musical critic of the North Middlesex Chronicle continues his efforts to amuse the readers of that estimable journal. According to one of his latest utterances, poor Mr. Bantock Pierpoint is, in point of Mephistophelian and cynical banter, "as to the manner born." The critic further complains that the chorus, in their demoniac capacity, did not exult over Faust "as if they themselves were actually suffering eternal torments in hell." Suggested: a course of study in the musical expression of eternal torments. The idea is a flight of the genius which dares all.

AMONGST the Vice-Presidents of the Windsor and Eton Choral Society are three musical Knights—viz., Sir George Elvey, who conducted it from its first foundation upwards of fifty years ago until he left Windsor; Sir Joseph Barnby, who conducted its performances of his "Rebekah" and 97th Psalm, and Sullivan's "Golden Legend"; and Sir Walter Parratt, who conducts not only the Choral Society, but also the Amateur Madrigal and the Amateur Orchestral Societies. Rarely does a town the size of Windsor possess three Societies of such excellence.

ENOUGH has been written in other pages than these about the squabble of the so-called "musical neighbours," Messrs. Christie and Davey. We shall not join in the fun. The publicity given to this affair shows what a small matter amuses a public which is never so happy as when Asmodeus takes the roof off somebody's dwelling and allows a peep inside. Our modern Asmodeus, by the way, is generally an interviewer armed with a Kodak.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Western Mercury is told that Mr. Paderewski "has in his collection many jewels of great price which have been sent to him by fervent musicians." Musicians, fervent or otherwise, do not give jewels to each other. The correspondent's reference is, no doubt, to the silly women who make themselves a laughing-stock at the pianist's recitals. Of them one can believe anything.

WHAT is the matter with the concert-going public, or, perhaps the term should be, ex-concert-going public? They will not be tempted save by a fashionable soloist, and enterprises are languishing on every hand. If the advance of frivolity has caused this, it is time something serious happened.

DR. A. C. MACKENZIE'S "Pibroch" has been played with immense success by Sarasate at Aberdeen, Edinburgh, Alnwick, and Inverness. By the way, Mrs. Henschel has been singing his "What does little Birdie say?" on her tour in the North.

WHY should not the efforts of an organ-blower be appreciated? A Dean Forest reporter saw no reason the other day, and duly recognised the services of that official. With him, at any rate, it was a case of "we" in the sense of the venerable story.

A DISTINCTLY precious example of the "Periphrasis" is furnished by a writer in the Liverpool Sentinel. He refers to "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" as "a certain famous ballad with an occult and abhorrent refrain."

THE temptations of St. Anthony as the subject of an opera! What would the Lord Chamberlain think?

MR. COWEN'S NEW OPERA.

THE end of this or the beginning of next month will (all being well) be marked by an event of much importance to the welfare and prestige, and therefore to the progress of English musical art. Mr. Cowen's new opera "Signa" is to be produced, under the most favourable circumstances, at the San Felice Theatre, Genoa. The work is to be mounted with all possible splendour, costumes and scenery being new, and the artists have been selected with the composer's own approval.

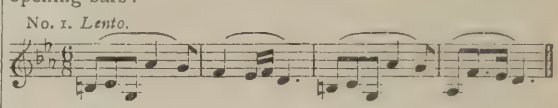
In congratulating English musicians generally, and Mr. Cowen in particular, on the welcome thus extended by Italy to a representative British composer, we need not attempt to conceal our regret that a work of such importance should not have been produced in the country which gave it birth, and in the language to which its music was originally written. It is not necessary now to discuss the conditions which have made this practically impossible; for, not being of exclusively home growth, the remedy for them lies not entirely in our own hands. They are of a nature, though, to give us pause and set us a-thinking, and at a more convenient season, perhaps, we may deal with them. At present the optimistic note is most fitting, and to that, accordingly, we tune. Mr. Cowen, as the composer of a "Scandinavian" Symphony—not without honour even in its own country—has already done pioneer service on behalf of English art—this, too, in the homeland of the Symphony. To-day he bears our "banner with the strange device" to Italy, carrying with him that which, though the latest, is also the first English example of this form to be produced in the land where, nearly 300 years ago, opera was born.

May fortune on him smile and luck attend him!

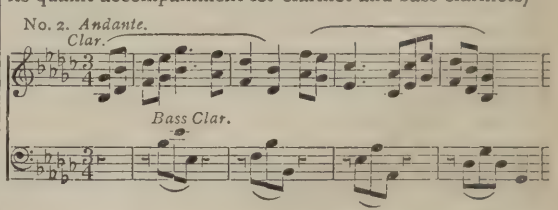
The plot of "Signa," based on Ouida's novel, as of course everyone who has read it would suppose, is simple, dramatic, interesting, and unhackneyed; the principal characters are strikingly contrasted, and the subtle quality known as "atmosphere" is not wanting. Under these conditions it is obvious that the libretto (begun by Mr. Gilbert à Beckett, finished by H. A. Rudall, and translated into Italian by Mr. G. Mazzucato) could scarcely fail to rise considerably above the average standard of such productions. In adapting the novel certain modifications have been made: the character of Gemma, for instance, has been considerably softened; and an impresario, Sartorio, takes the place of the painter, Istriel. The following is a sketch of the "argument":—

Bruno, a simple peasant of Tuscany, has concentrated all his affection on his nephew, Signa. Signa aspires to a different life than that of the fields; in him has been born the inspiration and passion for music. He has grown up in the village together with Gemma and Palma, and hesitates between the former, who exhorts him to follow his art and seek fame, and the latter, who endeavours to draw him towards a rustic life. Sartorio, going round the country in search of talent, sees Gemma as she is dancing one day in the village, and, struck by her grace and vivacity, takes her with him to Naples. Signa is torn between his duty to Bruno and his beloved art, but at last a feeling suddenly proves to him that the fascination exercised on him throughout his youth by Gemma has turned into a passionate love, and he too decides to go to Naples. Gemma responds to Signa's passion, but wearying of his too watchful and jealous love, her frivolous and pleasure-loving nature leads her to other futile and passing fancies. The poor boy suffers, languishes, follows her everywhere, and abandons art, fame, and future. Bruno, to whose ear reports have reached of the condition of his beloved nephew, comes to Naples, enters secretly into Gemma's house, and desires her to give up the boy entirely. Gemma refuses, and he, determined at all costs to save Signa, draws his knife and plants it in Gemma's heart. Signa enters, to find Gemma stretched dead on the floor; to Bruno, who exclaims triumphantly, "She claims thee no longer," Signa answers, "'Tis false! she claims me still," and, stabbing himself, he falls at Gemma's side.

The music of "Signa" is neither of the past nor of the future, but of the present. That is to say, Mr. Cowen uses, but by no means abuses, the freedom which modern musical developments have brought about. There is no Overture; only a short Prelude, the theme of which is derived from Signa's "Song of Liberty," and which appears again and again throughout the opera. These are its opening bars:—



The opening chorus is bright and lively, with alternating phrases for male and female voices. This is followed by a few bars of No. 1, sung outside by Signa, with detached phrases for Palma and the chorus, and leading to a duet for Palma and Signa, of which the following is the theme (note its quaint accompaniment for clarinet and bass clarinets)—



Another short chorus ensues, interrupted by the entrance of Gemma. Her air, in which the male voices join sotto voce, is characteristic of the fascination she exercises over Signa. The recit. parlante, in which she tells of her meeting with Sartorio, is accompanied by this dainty theme, divided among the wind instruments—

After Sartorio's entrance comes Signa's "Song of Liberty" (No. 1), with solo violin accompaniments, in which, towards the end, the chorus join, an imposing climax being reached at the words—

Let not the darkness conquer me,
But when the sunbeams break,
O spirits, let me wake
To life and liberty.

The entrance of Bruno gives occasion for some brusque, fiery music suited to his nature. This is followed by a short concerted piece, with chorus, of a rather sad character, the opening phrase of which is in the form of a canon—

No. 4. Molto Lento.

After the departure of Gemma and Sartorio, and the repetition of the second chorus, comes the final scene between Signa and Bruno, mostly of a dramatic character, but containing many melodic phrases of which this is one—

No. 5. Poco Lento.

The whole scene is of strong interest, and reaches a powerful climax as Bruno breaks the violin. The Signa theme (No. 1) is heard as the curtain falls.

Act II. begins with another short Prelude based upon the theme of Bruno's air immediately succeeding it, which occurs several times afterwards in the opera as the expression of his love and tenderness for Signa. The theme in the Prelude is scored for strings in unison, with wind accompaniment—

No. 6. Molto Andante.

After Bruno's recit. and air there is a short scene for him and Signa, followed by a chorus of a somewhat pastoral character, with a quaint introduction for oboe and cor anglais—

No. 7. Poco Allegretto.

Gemma's entrance is the occasion for another coquettish theme—

No. 8. Poco Allegro. leggiero.

in the orchestra. The remainder of the Act is dramatic rather than lyrical, and though there is no absolute concerted piece the end should be very effective.

The following is the first theme of the Prelude to Act III.—

No. 9. Tempo di Valsa. grazioso.

There is a rather long and fully developed opening chorus with dance, the first theme of which is somewhat in the style of a Tarantella. A little chorus of Flower Girls commences thus—

No. 10. Allegro.

this is worked together with short phrases for Students and Fishermen, and afterwards still further continued with the Tarantella movement. To this ensues a scene between Signa and the Students, in which considerable use is made of the following melody adapted from an Italian popular refrain—

No. 11. Andantino con moto.

The long Love duet which soon follows has many themes of various character. This is one of them—

No. 12. Lento espressivo.

Reminiscences of the opening chorus are now heard in the orchestra as the revellers cross the stage. There is then a short dramatic scene between Bruno and Gemma, followed by a sextet which should prove one of the most effective numbers in the work. The following are the three principal themes, characteristic of the different sentiments of Bruno, Gemma, and Signa respectively—

No. 13. Andante.

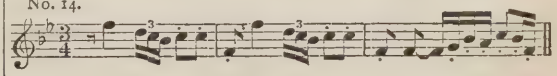
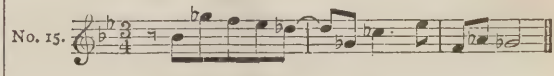
No. 14.



No. 15.



These are worked up to a big climax, and with a short resumption of the opening chorus the Act closes.

Act IV. opens at once with phrases of the Tarantella movement heard behind the scenes. Then ensues a short duet, interrupted at intervals by the Flower Girls' chorus (No. 10), also behind the scenes. The whole Finale to the Act is dramatic, containing many reminiscences of themes heard before and culminating in the theme of Signa's Song, now given out by full orchestra as the curtain falls.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

IN connection with Sir Augustus Harris's autumn and winter season, nothing calling for remark has happened, since the date of our last notice, save the production on Mr. Emil Bach's "Irmengarda," which took place on the 8th ult. This was a purely speculative affair, and probably the result of some friendly arrangement hors ligne, since Mr. Bach had never before appeared as a composer of opera, and "Irmengarda" itself is obviously the work of a novice. The mark of the "'prentice han'" lies upon both book and music. With regard to the first, the librettist was unwise enough to attempt the development of a two-act opera from a single incident, and not skilful enough to evolve a drama of sufficient interest and dimensions. The work is, therefore, padded out with processions and the like, which tend to obscure the story, though they make the stage spectacular. It cannot be denied that the one great incident of the plot is striking: the chief of a besieging army, willing to relieve the women from the horrors of a sack, gives them permission to leave the town, taking as much of their most prized possessions as they can carry; the offer is accepted and the women bear away their husbands! The librettist leads up to this position, as already described; but we need not enter into details. Enough that the book, while favouring stage show, is feeble.

Mr. Bach is said to be a pupil of Liszt, and, therefore, something quite in the van of "progress" was expected from him. There can be no doubt that, in some aspects, "Irmengarda" shows him well to the front—with all manner of free and, sometimes, ugly harmonies, with exaggerations of style and effect, needless modulations and rhythmic changes, &c. We see very good reason to believe, however, that these features are but concessions made as a matter of policy. The composer is much more happy, and seems far more natural and unaffected when comparatively melodious and simple. There is reason to believe that his taste and his training are somewhat at variance, and the sooner Mr. Bach decides which to follow the better for the homogeneity of his works. Our own opinion is that he will do well to follow the taste which dictated some of the bright and piquant melodies in "Irmengarda," and gave them an accompaniment which brightens instead of obscuring. In itself the new opera has no particular value. It is a mere balon d'essai, and we need not concern ourselves further with it. But the music shows that Mr. Bach has capacity such as may serve him well when he has determined upon a method and style. The artists who "created" the chief parts were Madame Giulia Valda, Miss Guercia, Mr. Guetary, and Mr. Dufriche. Mr. Armbruster conducted.

The performance of "Carmen" commanded by the Queen at Windsor Castle, on the 3rd ult., appears to have been most successful. The opera was conducted by Signor Bevignani, and the principal artists were Mdlle. de Lussan, Miss Esther Palliser, Mr. Dufriche, and Signor Cremonini, together with the orchestra and chorus from the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, including Mr. Stedman's choirboys.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The only performance at the Albert Hall at present calling for notice is that of "The Golden Legend," on the 7th ult., and of this little more than formal record is required. Sir Arthur Sullivan's work has now so thoroughly established itself in public favour that a full audience may always be looked for whenever it is announced, and the present formed no exception to the rule. To criticise Madame Albani or Mr. Henschel in parts in which they are so familiar as those of Elsie and Lucifer respectively would be superfluous, and it will suffice to say that both artists acquitted themselves with as much distinction as usual. Mr. Ben Davies was equally praiseworthy as Prince Henry, and Miss Clara Butt, of the Royal College of Music, whose remarkable performance in Gluck's "Orpheus" is noticed elsewhere, made a striking effect in the small part of Ursula. Her noble voice told well in the vast building, and after the ballad-like air, "Virgin, who lovest the poor and lowly," such a storm of applause broke forth that a repetition was inevitable. Sir Joseph Barnby's matchless choir was in its best condition, and sang magnificently throughout, the Evening Hymn being vociferously encored.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

The improvement shown at the first two Concerts—in the orchestral performances with regard to quality and in the audience with regard to quantity—was well maintained at the third Concert, which took place on the 1st ult. The Symphony was Raff's "Lenore," which was capitally played—the first movement especially. Admirable renderings were also given of the Overtures to "Oberon" and "Die Meistersinger," and of Elsa's balcony song from "Lohengrin," which was delivered by Miss Evangeline Florence with great charm of style. M. Gorski and Herr Carl Fuchs played the solo parts in Brahms's comparatively unfamiliar Concerto for violin and violoncello (Op. 102) with considerable taste—their performance, however, left something to be desired on the score of intonation. The power and beauty of the first two movements once more met with cordial recognition, but the humour of the Finale was less appreciated. Brahms, however, "jokes wi' deefeculty."

THE BACH CHOIR.

That the existence of this valuable Association is imperilled owing to lack of support is grave news, and we sincerely trust, for the credit of music lovers, that the appeal for fresh subscribers to the modest number of 300 will meet with a ready response. At the same time, it is scarcely fair to argue that because the Concert on the 16th ult. resulted in a very serious loss the name of Bach "spells bankruptcy," because on this occasion his name was not in the programme. The principal piece, and what ought to have constituted the chief attraction, was Verdi's "Requiem," composed in memory of Manzoni, and first performed in London, at the Albert Hall, in 1875, under the composer's direction, and with a magnificent quartet of principal vocalists. In some quarters the work aroused fiercely hostile criticism, on the ground that the Italian master's style was entirely opposed to that which we consider most appropriate in the treatment of a solemn religious subject. This may be granted at once. It is difficult, for example, to imagine a wider contrast in sacred music than that between the style of Croft's Burial Service and that of the "Manzoni Requiem." But surely in matters of art allowance should be made for difference in national temperament, and admiration found for the glowing sensuous beauty and profound pathos which distinguish many portions of Verdi's work. Evidently, however, amateurs are deficient in this catholicity of feeling, for after the first sensation had subsided, the "Requiem" ceased to attract, the attendance on the last occasion of its performance at the Albert Hall being as sparse, in proportion, as that in St. James's Hall last month. This, however, did not affect the efforts of the Choir, the rendering of the choruses being, for the most part, excellent. The experiment of placing some of the trumpets in the gallery in the "Tuba Mirum" was justified by results, the effect of this sensational episode being certainly enhanced. Miss Anna Williams, Miss Brema, Mr. W. Shakespeare, and Mr. Andrew Black were, on the whole, satisfactory in the solo parts, though, in one or two instances, a little more fervour might have been infused into their efforts. The "Requiem" was preceded by Mendelssohn's Overture "A Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage," and Beethoven's choruses with the same title, the latter having been twice performed previously by the Bach Choir. Dr. Joachim's scena "Marfa," the words of which are taken from Schiller's unfinished Tragedy "Demetrius," was rendered with fine declamatory emphasis by Miss Brema, this completing the programme.

MIDDLESEX CHORAL UNION.

A gallant effort has just been commenced to revive Oratorio performances in central London, of which no regular series has been given since the discontinuance of the Novello Concerts. Several causes have been in combination to render musical performances of this nature more and more difficult—the ever-increasing demands of high-class vocalists, the growth of large societies in the suburbs, and the want of a spacious hall contributing to the general discouragement. The last-named defect will soon be removed by the inauguration of the new Victoria Hall in Langham Place; but meanwhile the Middlesex Choral Union has lost no time in organizing itself, and, by performances in St. James's Hall, drawing attention to the fact of its existence. The undertaking is the outcome of some excellent Concerts given last season for charitable purposes, under the direction of Mr. James Shaw, the Conductor of the new Society, the good qualities of the choir being the subject of general eulogy. The scheme for the present season shows no desire on the part of the promoters to adopt a stereotyped policy. The first performance, on the 15th ult., consisted of Handel's "Joshua"; at the second, Dr. Hubert Parry's "Job" and Beethoven's "Mount of Olives" will be given; and at the third, Gounod's "Faust" in concert-room guise. The choice of "Joshua" to commence with had much to commend it, for the Oratorio, which is highly-esteemed in Germany, is very rarely heard here. Our Teutonic friends have a right to smile at us as a presumably Handel-loving nation, when it is recorded that the only performances of the work during the last half-century in England were—one by the Sacred Harmonic Society in 1847, a second by the extinct Hackney Choral Association a few years ago, and a third at the recent Gloucester Festival. There may have been others, but, if so, they have left no trace behind them. At Gloucester, the performance being in the Cathedral, the love music between Othniel and Achsah was necessarily omitted, but on the present occasion some of it was restored. The general impression left by the Oratorio is one of surging vigorous life. The choruses are its strongest features, some of them being in Handel's finest manner; but there are also some splendid airs, of which, perhaps, the most effective are "Haste, Israel, haste!" "Hark! 'tis the linnet"; "Heroes, when with glory burning"; "Shall I, in Mamre's fertile plain"; and "O had I Jubal's lyre." The new choir (the lady members of which were uniformly arrayed in white, with coloured sashes) at once obtained the favour of a fairly numerous audience, the voices being remarkably bright and fresh, and the attack and general precision almost unfailing. Considering that the force had only been working together for a short time, and that the music must have been unfamiliar, the results obtained were surprisingly good, and augured well for the future. A large amount of justice was rendered to the solos by Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. E. Branscombe, and Mr. Robert Newman; and Mr. James Shaw again proved himself an able and intelligent Conductor.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

At the seventh Concert of the Saturday series, held on November 26, Mr. Manns introduced a new work from the pen of Mr. William Wallace, a young Scotch composer who, if we except one year spent at the Royal Academy of Music, owes his musical education to his own unassisted endeavours. Mr. Wallace has taken for the subject of his Symphonic Poem the episode of the passing of Beatrice in Canto XXXI. of Dante's "Paradiso," but is careful to disavow the intention of treating the subject otherwise than emotionally. As Mr. C. A. Barry remarks in the programme-book, it would be described by German critics as a "Stimmungsbild," or tone-picture of certain moods or phases of feeling. The influence of Wagner is strongly reflected throughout the work, but at least Mr. Wallace must be acquitted of lapsing into any direct reminiscences. He handles his orchestra with decided ability, and the general effect of the work was that of an exceedingly ingenious and agreeable effort of discipleship. Miss Adelina de Lara gave a creditable rather than impressive reading of the solo in Beethoven's "Emperor" Concerto, and chose for her minor solos Paderewski's "Légende" and Brahms's Scherzo in E flat minor, both of which were rendered carefully and fluently. The purely orchestral portions were chosen doubtless with special reference to Mdlle. Giulia Ravogli, and included the fine Overture to "Iphigénie en Aulide," with Wagner's Coda for Concert use, and the Dances of the Happy Spirits from "Orfeo," in which Mr. Fransella's beautiful playing of the flute solo was a special feature. Mdlle. Ravogli sang "Che farò," which she repeated in response to an encore, and revived the fine aria "Non più di fiori," from Mozart's "Clemenza di Tito." Her delivery of the opening recitative was remarkably fine, but the aria itself lies in parts too low for her voice. The Concert concluded with a very fine performance of Schumann's Symphony in C (Op. 61).

At the ensuing Concert Mr. Manns introduced, for the first time at the Crystal Palace, the fragments of Mendelssohn's "Christus," an Oratorio which was mainly composed in the last year of his life, when his vital forces, already overtaxed by overwork, had sustained a terrible shock by the death of his favourite sister. Not unnaturally, the work shows symptoms of fatigue, though the trio for the Wise Men and the beautiful chorus "Ye daughters of Zion" are both in Mendelssohn's happiest manner. The trio in question was well sung by Messrs. Piercy, Fairbairn, and Salmond, and the choruses were excellently rendered by the Crystal Palace Choir. The Concert, which was opened by the graceful orchestral Prelude to Sullivan's Oratorio "The Light of the World," included a fine performance of the "Eroica" Symphony, and was concluded by a spirited performance of Mr. MacCunn's vigorous but unequal Ballad for bass solo, chorus, and orchestra, "The Cameronian's Dream." Mr. Norman Salmond contributed the air "O God, have mercy," from "St. Paul," in excellent style, but with occasionally defective intonation; and Mr. Henry Piercey was only moderately successful in the lovely tenor air from Gluck's "Iphigénie en Tauride." The programme was completed by Dr. Bridge's "Crossing the Bar," sung with great refinement by the choir.

At the Concert on the 10th ult. Dr. Mackenzie assumed the bâton, in place of Mr. Manns—who was fulfilling an engagement in Glasgow—and met with a very hearty reception. The programme, for the framing of which, we may add, Dr. Mackenzie was not responsible, included his scholarly "Twelfth Night" Overture and the picturesque Prelude to "Colomba." The Symphony was Haydn's in G major—the "Oxford"—and the orchestral portion of the programme was completed by the Overture to "Rienzi" and Saint-Saëns's Violoncello Concerto in A, the solo in which was played by Jean Gérardy with wonderful skill and intelligence. Later on he gave Dunckler's Fantaisie Caprice, and, for an encore, a piece by the inevitable Popper. In the absence of Miss Esther Palliser, who was disabled by severe hoarseness, Miss Ada Patterson acted as a substitute, making a favourable impression in songs by Spohr and Grieg.

Dr. Mackenzie's brilliant and exceedingly interesting "Pibroch," originally written for Señor Sarasate and introduced by him at the Leeds Festival in 1889, was given, for the first time at the Crystal Palace, at the Concert of the 17th ult., the solo part being rendered with great spirit, intelligence, and admirable executive dexterity by M. Emile Sauret. At the close of the work, which was conducted by the composer, Dr. Mackenzie and M. Sauret were both very warmly applauded. Another novelty, so far as the Crystal Palace audience were concerned, was the Overture to "Nordisa," which Mr. Corder has re-written for Concert performance. The Overture is somewhat patchy in its opening sections, but works up to a broad and sonorous climax. Mozart's vivacious Symphony in D (the "Parisian") was excellently played by the band, but the accompaniment to the fine air from Handel's "Semele," "Awake, Saturnia!" testified to the lack of adequate rehearsal. Mrs. Fisk, the vocalist, has a fine and powerful contralto voice, and though by no means a finished artist, has made considerable advance since her début in England last August. Besides the Handelian aria, she contributed an effective sentimental song, "Calm as the night," by Bohm. M. Sauret played two pieces of his own, a graceful Romance and a brilliant little Morceau de salon, entitled "Farfalla," in which the flickering motion of a butterfly's wings is imitated with much ingenuity. This was played with extraordinary agility and neatness, and in answer to a peremptory encore M. Sauret gave a very fine rendering of Vieuxtemps's "Rêverie." The Concert, which was of exemplary brevity, was brought to a close with the Overture to "Tannhäuser."

MONDAY AND SATURDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

These performances have varied in interest since our last notice, and it will not be necessary to notice them at any great length, as no new works of importance have been brought forward. At the Saturday Concert of November 26 the concerted pieces were Schumann's Quartet in F (Op. 41, No. 2) and the revised version of Brahms's early Trio in B (Op. 8), first introduced in December, 1891. Mr. Leonard Borwick, who is generally satisfactory in the music of Schumann and Brahms, gave an intelligent and beautifully finished performance of the former master's "Carnaval," and Mr. Piatti repeated his version of Locatelli's

Violin Sonata in D. Madame Alice Gomez was very acceptable in songs by Mendelssohn and Lassen.

On the following Monday the programme opened with Dvorák's lengthy, but very fine and characteristic Quartet in E flat (Op. 51), the other concerted pieces being Brahms's concise Sonata in D minor for pianoforte and violin (Op. 108) and Chopin's Introduction and Polonaise in C for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 3). Miss Fanny Davies, the pianist of the evening, introduced for the first time, and, of course, played remarkably well, Mendelssohn's Prelude and Fugue in B minor, No. 3 of the set of six (Op. 35), chiefly written in 1837, when the composer was strongly under the influence of Bach. The B minor Fugue is one of the most Bach-like of the series. Miss Nancy McIntosh contributed songs by Schubert, Massenet, and Henschel, singing the whole of them with delightful expression.

On Saturday, the 3rd ult., two important works by Brahms were performed—namely, the Sextet in G (Op. 36) and the first set of the Liebeslieder Walzer (Op. 52), the latter, with Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, Madame Fassett, and Mr. Shakespeare in the vocal parts. Miss Adelina de Lara played two of Schubert's Impromptus from Op. 142 in quiet and unobtrusive fashion, and joined Mr. Piatti in Nos. 1, 2, and 4 of Schumann's "Stücke im Volkston" for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 102). These little pieces are five in number, but oddly enough the other two are never thought worthy of a hearing.

Very greatly to the surprise and delight of all who frequent these Concerts, Mr. Paderewski was able after all to accept an engagement, and made his only appearance this season on the 5th ult., a huge crowd of course assembling to greet the gifted Polish artist after his recovery from a very serious illness. That his powers have undergone no diminution was quickly proved by his superb interpretation of Chopin's Sonata in B minor (Op. 58). The wonderful crispness of touch, the singing tone in the lovely Adagio, and the passionate expression throughout, proclaimed Mr. Paderewski an artist of exceptional calibre, and the only exceptions that could be taken to his performance were the rapid pace adopted in the final presto, non tanto, which caused some passages to sound rather blurred, and the hard tone occasionally in forte phrases, though the latter may have been due to the instrument on which he played. Subsequently Mr. Paderewski joined Lady Hallé and Mr. Piatti in a performance of Beethoven's great Trio in B flat (Op. 97). Another attraction was Mozart's Clarinet Quintet, with Mr. Mühlfeld in the principal part. This beautiful work has surely never been given under more favourable conditions. An apology was made on behalf of Madame Bertha Moore on the ground of hoarseness, but this tasteful vocalist managed to sing airs by Sullivan and Maude White with considerable effect.

On Saturday, the 10th ult., Brahms's Clarinet Quintet in B minor (Op. 115), which is unquestionably the most generally admired chamber work produced for many years, was performed for the first time this season, and Mr. Mühlfeld was also heard, together with Miss Zimmermann and Mr. Straus, in Mozart's Trio in E flat for pianoforte, clarinet, and viola. Mr. Piatti introduced, for the first time, Bach's Violoncello Suite in G (No. 1), with a pianoforte accompaniment written by himself. The authority for such an addition is slight, but it unquestionably enhances the effect of the music. Miss Zimmermann played two pieces by Chopin with much refinement, and Miss Girtin Barnard was commendable in songs by Sullivan, Cellier, and Brahms.

Brahms's Quintet was repeated on the following Monday, and Weber's Sonata in E flat for pianoforte and clarinet (Op. 48), which had not been heard at these Concerts for close upon thirty years, was included in the programme. Miss Zimmermann brought forward three very trifling pieces by Henselt, and Mr. Andrew Black was admirable in Handel's "Sorge infausta" and Schumann's "The Wanderer's Song."

At the last Saturday performance before Christmas Sir Charles Hallé introduced Schubert's Sonata in A minor (Op. 143) for the first time at these Concerts. We spoke of this fine, though somewhat sombre, work when the veteran pianist played it at his Schubert Recitals last summer and it need not be further described. Sir Charles and Lady Hallé were associated in Beethoven's ever welcome "Kreutzer" Sonata, and Mozart's Clarinet Quintet was repeated. Miss Fillunger sang, among other pieces, Schubert's very fine song "Der Hirt auf dem Felsen," in which the clarinet obbligato was beautifully played by Mr. Mühlfeld.

At the final Concert of the year on the following Monday Mr. Mühlfeld took his farewell for the season, Brahms's Clarinet Quintet and Mozart's Clarinet Trio in E flat being repeated. Miss Fanny Davies played Mendelssohn's Fantasia in F sharp minor (Op. 28), her rendering of which was admirable both in style and execution, and Mr. Piatti repeated Bach's Suite in G.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

It is a matter for congratulation that the ante-Christmas Concerts given by our most prominent music schools should all have evinced in more or less degree evidence of satisfactory working. The orchestral performance in St. James's Hall, on the 20th ult., in which students of the Tenterden Street Institution took part was, on the whole, not less commendable than those in connection with other educational establishments which are noticed elsewhere. The orchestra, consisting of ninety-eight executants, rendered such a good account of itself in Weber's Overture to "Euryanthe," that it seemed a pity its capabilities were afterwards only employed in accompaniments. A remarkably favourable impression was made by Miss Sybil Palliser in Saint-Saëns's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor, the young lady displaying capital technique and even brilliancy as regards style and execution. Among the vocal excerpts the expressive aria "O Casto Fior," from Massenet's opera "Il Re di Lahore," deserves prominent mention as sung by Mr. Arthur Appleby. This young aspirant possesses a pleasant high baritone voice, and already sings with some measure of artistic feeling. A creditable performance was given of the Sestet "Sola, sola," from "Don Giovanni," but it would be invidious to single out any names for special approval. Grieg's picturesque melo-drama "Bergliot" was repeated, the reciter on this occasion being Miss Ellen M. Bowick, who, as soon as she had conquered her pardonable nervousness, spoke her lines well, and displayed considerable grace of manner. Mr. Philip Cathie, in two movements of Svendsen's Violin Concerto in A (Op. 6), and Mr. Michael Donnawell, in a movement from Molique's Flute Concerto in D minor (Op. 69) showed decided promise in their respective studies. It will be observed that English music was not represented in the programme. As its neglect on such occasions (by this and other of our great teaching institutions) is likely to encourage the foreigner in his belief that we have none to speak of, we must be allowed to express our regret. The Concert was conducted in an unexceptionable manner by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The annual operatic performance given by the students of this Institution took place on the 10th ult., at the Lyceum Theatre, kindly placed at Sir George Grove's disposal by Mr. Henry Irving. The choice of such a work as Gluck's "Orfeo" for the occasion showed abundant confidence, to say the least of it, and the number of those who prophesied disaster was not small. Their doubts disappeared before the curtain had been up ten minutes, giving place to admiration and astonishment. Nor were these lessened as the opera went on, maintaining a level so high that the standard from which the efforts of students are usually judged was lost sight of, and experienced hearers began to institute comparisons with performances at "another place," by no means to the advantage of the latter. In plain English, this was not only the best operatic performance yet given by the College, but, in many respects, the most satisfactory rendering of Gluck's beautiful work heard in London by the present generation. This result, though due mainly to the admirable stage-management and general intelligence of the chorus and orchestra, owed also a very great deal to the three ladies entrusted with the principal characters. Of these Miss Clara Butt, the impersonator of Orpheus, gave signs of so much talent that her future career may be spoken of as a matter of national, rather than of local importance. As this young lady is only just out of her "teens," and has had, we believe, no histrionic experience, she is not yet, of course, a Giulia Ravogli as regards gesture; but apart from quite unnecessary comparisons (in this case they would be more than usually odious) her performance was in all respects remarkable. We hope that Miss Butt realizes the responsibilities her gifts entail, and will so study that the promise shown may in due time be brought to its fulfilment. Miss Maggie Purvis was a graceful and sympathetic Eurydice, Miss Ethel Cain gave brightness and refinement to the part of Cupid, and Miss Blanche Reynolds impersonated the Wandering Spirit with much intelligence. Professor Villiers Stanford conducted, and the stage arrangements were under the direction of Mr. Richard Temple. Let both be congratulated—and thanked.

We can only briefly refer to some of the Concerts given at Alexandra House during last month. The one on the 2nd ult. was chiefly remarkable for the really excellent performance, by Miss Una Bruckshaw and Mr. William Rennie, of the great Love duet from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet." Miss Bruckshaw's voice is a fresh and powerful soprano, already well developed throughout its extensive range, and of an unusually sympathetic timbre. There is evidently in this young lady the making of a genuine dramatic singer. Mr. Rennie is another highly promising young student. His genuine tenor voice, of clear and very agreeable quality, his intelligent declamation and good intonation, stood him in good stead as Romeo. Miss Mary Turner essayed Beethoven's "Ah! perfido!" but her voice is not yet sufficiently developed in its lower register to do justice to so trying a scena. Her upper notes are, however, full and rich, and exceedingly powerful. An artistic performance of Beethoven's Trio (Op. 1, No. 3), by three very young lady students, Misses Mary Dennett, Otie Chew, and Alice Elieson deserves a word of recognition.

At the last Concert of the term, on the 14th ult., the orchestra surpassed itself by a really fine rendering of Brahms's splendid E minor Symphony, which, at each fresh hearing, loses more of the "smell of the lamp" discovered by so many critics on its production some years ago. Nothing could have been better than the breadth and sonority with which the opening Allegro and the final Passacaglia were given, or the boisterous, rollicking fun infused into the, for Brahms, unique Scherzo. The programme included also Saint-Saëns's Violoncello Concerto in A minor, the difficult solo part of which was played with precocious technique by Miss Alice Elieson; and the Finale from Act I. of Mozart's "Figaro," in which Miss Turner as the Countess, and Mr. Sandbrook as the Count, distinguished themselves. The last number was Adam's Overture to "Giralda," than which nothing more vivacious and exhilarating could have been chosen to wind up the last Concert of the term. Professor Stanford was the Conductor.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Tuesday, the 13th ult., was a red-letter day, or rather night, in the calendar of this Institution, the Choral and Orchestral Concert given in the Guildhall, in presence of the Lord Mayor, the Lady Mayoress, and the other civic dignitaries in their robes of office, being one of the most successful since the foundation of the School. Sir Joseph Barnby is losing no time in organizing the forces under his control, and his new students' choir of 200 voices already showed the results of his careful training. The voices are sweet and sympathetic, the tone of the sopranos being especially pure, and both in Gade's pretty and refined Cantata "The Erl-King's Daughter," and the more arduous Finale from Mendelssohn's "Loreley," the singing was marked by a high degree of intelligence and general efficiency. The orchestra, of about eighty performers, all students with the exception of a few brass and percussion executants, likewise distinguished itself, playing Mendelssohn's "Italian" Symphony and Nicolai's Overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," as well as the accompaniments in the choral works above-named, with commendable spirit and accuracy. Some of the soloists are well-entitled to mention. Of these, in the Cantata, Miss Florence Oliver, who took the part of the mother, was certainly the most praiseworthy. Miss Maude Ballard displayed a powerful soprano voice in the "Loreley" fragment, and Miss Annie Swinfen sang Beethoven's arduous scena "Ah! perfido," more like a finished artist than a student. In the programme this piece was erroneously described as being from "Fidelio." Mr. Alfred Slocombe played the first movement of Beethoven's Violin Concerto with taste and perfect intonation, so that the Concert may fairly be described as an unqualified success.

The operatic class has not been very long in existence, but those who have watched its development with interest will recall a very creditable performance of Auber's "Fra Diavolo" in March last, which was repeated later on at the Lyric Theatre, Mr. Hermann Klein being then Conductor of the class. Now Sir Joseph Barnby has taken it under his own direction, and the first performances since this change took place in the practice-room of the School during the week ending the 17th ult., the last being given in presence of the Lord Mayor and a number of eminent musicians. The opera selected was Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," which was, of course, rendered in English and with dialogue in place of the customary recitative. Unhappily, a full orchestra was not available, and although the wind parts were carefully played on the harmonium by Mr. David Beardwell, the effect was of course far from satisfactory. Of the students who took part the most promising were Mr. Edward Epstein, the Almaviva, and Miss Jessie Hudlestone, the Cherubino. With further study they should both win success in their career. Kindly words may also be given to Miss Maude Ballard, who impersonated the Countess, and to Miss Eveline Benzabatti, the Susanna, the latter principally for her budding talent as an actress.

AMATEUR ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS.

Three of these industrious bodies have given performances recently which demand brief notice. The first to put in an appearance were the "Royal" amateurs, who secured a splendid audience at St. James's Hall on November 26. The most important feature of the programme was Goetz's lovely Symphony in F, every hearing of which serves to intensify the feeling of regret at the premature decease of so highly gifted a composer. The work, which is by no means easy, was very well interpreted, as a whole, by Mr. George Mount's zealous forces, the beautiful slow movement being especially well played. Other pieces of less moment were Auber's Overture to "The Crown Diamonds," and three ballet movements from Moszkowski's opera "Boabdil." Miss Janotha contributed some pianoforte solos with much effect, and the Queen Vocal Quartet, consisting of Misses Mina Rees, Amy Sargent, Mary Hutton, and Lucie Johnstone were delightful in two part-songs by Brahms.

On November 6 it was the turn of the Stock Exchange Society, which rendered a remarkably good account of itself under the skilful direction of Mr. George Kitchin. The pieces for orchestra alone were Mendelssohn's Symphony in C minor—a work now rarely heard, but a remarkable achievement for a boy of fifteen—Schubert's "Rosamunde" Overture, two movements from Delibes's "Sylvia," Rossini's Overture to "La Gazza Ladra," and Dr. Hubert Parry's bright and vigorous Overture to "The Frogs" of Aristophanes. To say that the whole of these works were executed in a manner at times little below what would be expected from a professional orchestra, is to give the Society very high praise. Miss Agnes Zimmermann displayed her excellent technique to advantage in Rubinstein's effective Pianoforte Concerto in G (No. 3), Madame Emily Squire was very successful in her songs, and the male voice choir sang some unaccompanied part music with delightful refinement.

The Westminster Orchestral Society, always a vigorous body, is displaying an increase of energy this season. The first Concert took place at the Westminster Town Hall on the 21st ult., half of the programme consisting of Beethoven selections. Mr. Stewart Macpherson's orchestra shows steady improvement, and the strings were, on the whole, very commendable in the "Fidelio" and "Egmont" Overtures. Miss Marie Wurm was fairly correct but somewhat tame and cold in the Pianoforte Concerto in E flat;

Mr. Herbert Reeves was announced to sing "Adelaide," but for some reason substituted Schubert's "Serenade"; and Miss Ada Wray contributed the Bonn master's version of "Know'st thou the land?" A noteworthy piece in the second part was Cipriani Potter's masterly Overture to "Cymbeline," which, although it was composed in 1836, is distinctly modern in feeling. The compositions of this estimable musician, who was born in 1792, ought not to suffer such extreme neglect, for there is reason to believe, from the examples occasionally heard, that Cipriani Potter was, if anything, rather in advance of his time.

THURSDAY SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS.

Rubinstein was the composer to whom, on the 8th ult., at Steinway Hall, Messrs. William Nicholl, Septimus Webbe, and Hans Adolf Brousil devoted the first half of a programme received with the closest attention by a numerous assemblage. The representative instrumental works were the Sonata in D major (Op. 18) for pianoforte and violoncello, the Barcarolle in A minor (No. 4), and the Staccato Study in C. In the former Messrs. Webbe and Brousil displayed considerable spirit and tact, and there was no lack of point in Mr. Webbe's delivery of the two pianoforte solos. The cultivated style and the earnestness of Mr. Nicholl were displayed to advantage in "Du bist wie eine Blume" and "Es blinkt der Thau," notwithstanding that the vocalist was suffering from a cold, which rendered advisable the omission of "Die Waldhexe." In the miscellaneous second part he also acquitted himself satisfactorily in Dvorák's "Songs my mother taught me," John Park's "The Miller's Daughter," and Ernest Lake's "My Love and Delight," imparting to each appropriateness of sentiment without lapsing into excess. Miss Minnie Robinson made a favourable impression by her rendering of Mendelssohn's "Infelice." The other pieces were Schumann's "Abendlied" (Op. 85, No. 12) and Popper's "Spinnlied" (both by Mr. Brousil), and the Bach-Liszt Prelude and Fugue in A minor (by Mr. Webbe).

MR. PADEREWSKI'S RECITAL.

The announcement that the exceptionally popular Polish executant would give a Recital at St. James's Hall on the 6th ult. at once caused a rush for places, in spite of very high charges for admission, and it is understood that the receipts reached nearly £1,000. It is as well to place this on record as showing the wonderful enthusiasm of the English musical public for artists of exceptional ability—enthusiasm which can rarely be evoked by works even of the first calibre or by ensembles of rare merit. It is useless to blink the facts; they must be faced and such consolation derived from them as is possible. Happily, in Mr. Paderewski's case, the hero-worship is not to be wholly condemned, for he is far more of an artist than a virtuoso, and if it is not possible always to agree with what he does, he has dropped the extravagance and eccentricity which sometimes marred his efforts when he first came among us. As a matter of course the pianist was at his best in a group of Chopin's compositions, which included the Barcarolle, the Waltz in A flat (Op. 34), a rarely-played Mazurka, and three of the Etudes. The Recital was to have ended with one of Liszt's Rhapsodies, but more was demanded, and the good-natured artist gave another of the Rhapsodies and then Chopin's Waltz in C sharp minor. Still a section of the audience would not depart, until at last Messrs. Erard's assistants ascended the platform and took away the pianoforte.

MESSRS. HANN'S CHAMBER CONCERTS.

Few of our concert-giving Institutions do more good, or are more deserving of support and encouragement, than those whose object is to disseminate a taste for chamber music. Among such Concerts those of Messrs. Hann, at the Brixton Hall, which have just come to the end of their seventh season, are conspicuous alike for their excellence and the success to which they have attained. The Messrs. Hann, a family of six players—two violins, one viola, two violoncellos, and a pianist—have unusual opportunities for practising together, and never need external aid in performing instrumental works. Their ensemble is excellent, and their programmes models of what such programmes should be. The third Concert, on the 12th ult., brought a work which was to most of the audience an absolute novelty—a Pianoforte and Violin Sonata in F (Op. 57), by Dvorák—a charming work, full of the composer's most genial melody, the Finale of which the audience tried hard to encore. Messrs. Sidney and Lewis Hann played the work with gusto, and may be advised to repeat it. Mr. W. C. Hann, an excellent violoncello player, gave two short pieces by Godard and Goltermann, and was duly encored. Schumann's String Quartet in F and Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Quartet in B minor—one of the most astonishing productions of his boyhood—completed the programme. Madame Hope Glenn sang Schubert's Serenade and two songs by Lord H. Somerset and Kjerulf, winning an encore for the latter.

THE MUSICAL GUILD.

The last two of the eighth series of these very enjoyable Concerts took place on November 29 and the 13th ult. At the former the concerted pieces were Rheinberger's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat and Schubert's A minor String Quartet. The most noteworthy feature of the Concert was the performance of Dr. Hubert Parry's virile and masterly Partita in D minor for violin and pianoforte, by Misses Isabella Donkersley and Annie Fry, who may be heartily commended for selecting such a sterling piece of English music. Miss Donkersley's playing of the violin part was, as usual, distinguished by breadth of style, facile and unerring execution, and a most welcome strictness of rhythm—the latter being a quality in which some of her colleagues of the Guild are somewhat deficient. Almost equally good was her share in the performance of Mendelssohn's String Quartet in E flat (Op. 44) at the last Concert, her influence being specially marked in the splendidly rhythmical Scherzo. She was efficiently supported by Messrs. Wallace Sutcliffe, Alfred Hobday, and Paul Ludwig. At the same Concert, Miss Moore, Messrs. Bent, Kreuz, and Ludwig took part in a capital rendering of Professor Stanford's early Pianoforte Quartet in F (Op. 15), which deserves to be more frequently heard, if only for the sake of its elaborate and deeply expressive slow movement and spirited Finale. Mr. Kreuz played the beautiful Barcarolle from his own Viola Concerto (Op. 20) very finely, and Mr. Peter Musson displayed a well-trained and sympathetic baritone voice in Wagner's "O Star of Eve," which he sang in a somewhat prosaic and sentimental fashion.

LONDON INSTITUTION.

Sir Joseph Barnby lectured here on the 8th ult., his subject being "A Plea for Greater Catholicity of Taste in Music." He said it was not necessary on this occasion to define music—they all knew what it was in a general sense. Between the two extremes of a Wagner opera and the latest musical hall ditty they had all made acquaintance with some form of musical composition. "But," some would say, "surely you do not call the latest music hall song a musical composition!" That was precisely what they had met to talk over. There were not only those who declined to regard a music hall song as a musical composition, but also many who refused to admit that a Wagner opera was music at all. "I am here to-day," said Sir Joseph, "to try and break down prejudice, discourage bigotry, and extend the horizon of the narrow-minded; not only to plead for acceptance of the lower forms of music at the hands of the high-class musician, but also to bring the uneducated amateur to realise that there may be some good in classical music, though he may not be able to see it at first. I shall not condemn the good-natured ignoramus who asserts his dislike of classical music and wants 'something with a swing and a go' in it that he can remember—he is, doubtless, describing accurately the state of his perceptions, and indicating the point he has reached in his appreciation of the fine arts. What I regret is that he should feel so far satisfied with his state of ignorance as to boast of it without some feeling of shame. An even sadder spectacle, however, is that of the cultured musician who says, 'Wagner, or Beethoven, or Mozart is the god of my idolatry, and I recognise no other.' But is there any one thing on which people are willing to boast of their ignorance with so much freedom as on music? I have heard members of the nobility and distinguished prelates, who have been induced to speak on musical matters, say, with perfect self-satisfaction: 'I must personally disclaim any knowledge of the art of music—indeed, I cannot distinguish one tune from another.' But even this, sad as it is, is not so strange as that there should be found educated musicians who say, 'I am of Paul,' or 'I am of Apollos.' It was my duty for many years to make out weekly schemes of music for services of a Cathedral type. These were generally submitted to persons placed over me in an official capacity, and I found that one was unwilling to admit the compositions of Gounod, another those of Stainer and Sullivan, another of Sterndale Bennett, and one was of opinion that no good music could possibly emanate from a man with a monosyllabic name." Sir Joseph had much to say of the value of music as a civilising influence, and quoted Goethe and others in support of his assertions. "Of course," he said, "I am speaking of good music; but by this I do not mean the music of any particular school or class, I mean music that is good of its kind. The exclusive cultivation of any one kind, class, or school of music tends to render a person—forgive the term—a prig." Sir Joseph instanced Charles Kingsley's eloquent appreciation of the various qualities of bird-song, as shown in his exquisitely-written prose idyll, "A Charm of Birds," from which he read extracts. Kingsley did not say "Give me the nightingale and you may take all the other songsters of the grove!" He loved them all. "Why," said he, "should we overlook, common though he be, yon hedge-sparrow, who is singing so modestly, and yet so firmly, and so true? Or cock robin himself, who is here, as everywhere, honest, self-confident, and cheerful?" The lecturer recommended that the following sensible advice, from F. W. Robertson's "Lectures on the Influence of Poetry," should be taken to heart by music-lovers generally: "Cultivate universality of taste. There is no surer mark of a half-educated mind than the incapacity of admiring various kinds of excellence. Enlarge your tastes, that you may enlarge your hearts as well as your pleasures, feel all that is beautiful, love all that is good. The first maxim in religion and in art is—sever yourself from all sectarianism, pledge yourself to no school, cut your life adrift from all party, be a slave to no maxims, stand forth unfettered and free, servant only to the truth."

At the close the speaker was loudly and warmly applauded. During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Miss J. Hudleston, Miss Fisher, Mr. Emlyn Jones, and Mr. Edward Epstein, Miss Kate Davies proving herself a very efficient pianist. All these young performers are pupils at the Guildhall School of Music.

"THE DREAM OF JUBAL" AT PLYMOUTH AND BRIGHTON.

(From Special Correspondents.)

Several circumstances combined to make the Concert of the Plymouth Choral and Orchestral Societies on November 30 specially attractive. The rehearsals by the choir and orchestra of Dr. Mackenzie's Cantata had aroused much enthusiasm for the work among the members; and the presence of the Duke of Edinburgh and his daughters, with the further attraction of the Meistersingers in the second part of the Concert, drew together an audience which filled the Guildhall to its utmost capacity. The performance reflected the highest credit on the Conductor, Mr. S. Weekes, who had visited the recent Cardiff Festival expressly to hear the work under the composer's direction. The choir of over 250 sang with remarkable precision and spirit, and the orchestra, led by the Duke of Edinburgh and Mr. Pardew, and numbering nearly 120, played with great care and refinement, especially in the delicate accompaniments to the recitation. The chief soloists, Miss Emily Spada and Mr. Philip Newbury, gave an excellent rendering of their music, the Love duet being very heartily applauded. The recitation of the verses was once more delivered by Mr. Charles Fry, who seemed moved by the occasion to a special effort, and was warmly applauded after the final apostrophe to music. In the miscellaneous second part the chief feature was the singing of the Meistersingers, who aroused much enthusiasm.

The performance of the same work, on the 15th ult., by the Brighton and Hove Choral and Orchestral Society, at the Dome, under the direction of Dr. F. J. Sawyer, also drew a large audience, and, considering the resources available, a very excellent performance was given. There were some few points of unsteadiness in the orchestra, chiefly among the wind instruments—professional players, by the way—but the accompaniment to the declamation was given very efficiently—thanks to the skilful and watchful direction of Dr. Sawyer. The choir sang particularly well in the Gloria. The solos were undertaken by Miss Evelyn Padwick, a local artist, who sang excellently, and Mr. William Fell, whose efforts should hardly be criticised, as he was suffering from a severe cold. Mr. Charles Fry again recited the poem, and was recalled to the platform with Dr. Sawyer at the conclusion. The Cantata was preceded by Dr. Bridge's Motet "The Lord's Prayer" and his setting of "Crossing the Bar" (vociferously encored), both works being conducted by the composer, who also played Dr. Sawyer's clever Concertstück for organ and orchestra, the composer conducting. Mr. Charles Fry also recited Baring Gould's poem "The Building of San Sofia," with organ accompaniment admirably played by Dr. Sawyer.

DVORÁK'S "ST. LUDMILA" AT BOLTON.

The revival, on the 21st ult., of this too little known composition by the Bolton Choral Society, reflects credit on the musical capacity and culture of a great industrial centre not very far removed from that other manufacturing capital—Leeds—which saw the first production of Dvorák's "St. Ludmila" in 1886. The performers whose work comes at present under notice are all but a purely amateur body. The only exception to this quality relates to the Conductor, Mr. J. W. Appleyard, and the Organist, Mr. Mullineux, who, together with the pianists at two Broadwood grands, did duty in place of orchestra. It is somewhat unaccountable that the work in question has not become more familiar with choral societies, for its interest is great. The story of the conversion of Bohemia formed a congenial text for the writer of the better known "Stabat Mater" and "Requiem," and the music to which it is wedded is tinted with far more glowing colours than either of the more essentially ecclesiastical masterpieces. Attention having been thus unmistakably again drawn to so fine a work, and it being further in evidence that a not unfitting interpretation may be achieved with instrumental aid so easily accessible, it is probable that "St. Ludmila" may in the future find more ready acceptance than in the past. The performance, though of a semi-private character—the very large audience which filled the Albert Hall having been brought together by invitation—may claim to be viewed from a high standpoint, and admitting this, it is to be recorded that from first to last the result was, with the exception of a hitch or two apparent only to the initiated, of the most creditable and satisfying order. The chorus numbered considerably over a hundred, and its tone was excellent. So, also, was the attack in general; the lights and shades were given with commendable appreciation, and the intonation was good. In brief, the Bolton Amateur Choral Society on the occasion in question added a fitting record to their already lengthy list of similar achievements.

OBITUARY.

The death is announced, on November 30, at Paris, of Madame Charton de Meur, the once famous French prima donna. She made her début on the lyrical stage at Bordeaux, and subsequently became one of the stars at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, Brussels. After a short engagement at the Paris Opéra Comique in 1849, Madame de Meur started upon an extensive operatic tour, in the course of which her European reputation was established. A devoted friend and admirer of Hector Berlioz, she created for him the part of Beatrice at the first performance, at Baden, of the master's opera "Beatrice et Benedict," and was also the original Didon at the première of "Les Troyens" at the Paris Théâtre Lyrique. She was married during her residence at Brussels to M. de Meur, an esteemed Belgian flautist, and for some years past had lived in retirement in the French capital.

The following deaths, not yet recorded by us, have occurred during the past three months abroad, viz.:—

On October 7, at Vienna, Friedrich Schoegl, the doyen of Viennese journalists and critics, aged seventy-one.

On October 9, at Regensburg, Joseph Hanisch, for a period of sixty-three years Organist of the Cathedral in that town, in his eightieth year.

On October 13, at Leipzig, Joseph Michalesi, once a well-known operatic singer, and sister of the more celebrated Madame Krebs-Michalesi.

On October 31, at Freiburg, Bruno Hopstock, popular operatic tenor at the Stadt-Theater, aged thirty-one.

On November 1, at Berlin, Otto Tiersch, for some years a professor at the Berlin Stern'sche Conservatorium, and author of several important theoretical and practical works on musical art. He was born at Kalbsrieth (Thuringia), on September 1, 1838.

On November 7, at Pandorf, near Krems, Albert Jungmann, composer of pièces de salon and easy pianoforte pieces, aged sixty-eight.

On November 8, at Paris, Elise Albert-Bellon, for many years prima ballerina at the Imperial Viennese Opera, and afterwards a teacher of her art in the French capital, aged sixty-three. She was a daughter of Jean Albert, the once famous ballet-master at the Paris Opéra.

On November 8, at Bologna, Francesco Biagi, able musical critic of the Patria, and other Italian journals, aged thirty-five.

On November 9, at Mannheim, F. Mittelhauser, tenor singer at the Court Theatre, a most promising young artist, aged thirty.

On November 11, at Wiesbaden, Erdmann Burkhardt, violinist, for many years an esteemed member of the orchestra of the Stadt-Theater.

On November 11, at Milan, Antonio Pallerini, the celebrated maître de ballet, once the rival of Manzotti, author of a number of more or less successful ballets, notably of "Le Due Gemelle," for which the late Signor Ponchielli, the composer of "Gioconda," had written the music. The deceased had attained his seventy-third year.

On November 13, at Coburg, Professor Gothard Brückner, scene painter of the Court Theatre, best known by his collaboration (in conjunction with his brother) in the Bayreuth Festspiele, aged forty-eight.

On November 26, at Vienna, Josef Matauschek, well-known pianoforte manufacturer, aged forty-five.

On November 28, at Lisbon, José Narciso da Cunha e Silva, esteemed composer and valued member of the Carlos Theatre orchestra of that capital, aged sixty-seven.

On November 28, at Marseilles, L. Ménard, eminent musical critic of the Journal de Marseille and other French journals.

On the 6th ult., at Vienna, Eduard Horak, excellent pianist, founder of the well-known Viennese Musical Academy bearing his name, aged fifty-two.

On the 14th ult., at Paris, Jules Quidant, an esteemed professor of pianoforte and singing, in his eightieth year.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Concerts of all kinds still crowd upon us. I must revert for a moment to Mr. Stockley's Orchestral Concert of November 24. On that occasion our local orchestra introduced Raff's Symphony "Im Walde," but revealed its want of confidence in the robustness of public taste by placing the interval after the first movement. Apparently the Vandal is not yet exterminated! Miss Adelina de Lara gave a finished reading of the solo part in Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor.

On the 7th ult. the Birmingham Amateur Orchestral Society gave a Concert in the large Theatre of the Midland Institute. Gade's Symphony (No. 3), Mackenzie's Benedictus, and MacCunn's Ballad Overture "The dowie dens o' Yarrow" were the principal pieces of the programme. The performance was good in each case. Mr. W. A. Langdon conducted.

The Festival Choral Society gave a fine performance of the "Faust" of Berlioz, in the Town Hall, on the 8th ult. The principals were Mrs. Hutchinson, Mr. H. Piercey, Mr. John Ridding, and Mr. Henschel. Mr. Stockley conducted.

The Glasgow Select Choir paid its annual visit on the 1st ult., and in the Town Hall regaled its friends with a choice selection of Scottish Songs, humorous and pathetic. The Meister Glee Singers, who are now established favourites here, appeared in the Town Hall on the 14th ult. Their part-singing was as effective as ever, and with the help of Miss Mabel Berrey, Miss Rosa Leo (vocalists), and Miss Angela Vanbrugh (violinist) a very good programme was capitally executed.

One of the greatest artistic treats afforded us this season was the Concert given by Miss Olga Néruda, in the Masonic Hall, on the 15th ult. Lady Hallé was the principal performer. Miss Néruda, in Beethoven's Sonata in D minor (Op. 31, No. 2), exhibited excellent qualities as a pianist, and her accompaniments were most artistic. Miss Franklin Higgs made a favourable impression in Mozart's "Voi che sapete," and songs by Aylward and Schumann.

For the bulk of our choral music we have to look to the Societies occupying the Town Hall on Saturday evenings. On the 3rd ult. the Midland Musical Society performed "The Messiah," with Miss Frazier, Miss Fanny Morse, Mr. H. Crimp, and Mr. W. Evans as principals. The Society's usual standard was not reached on this occasion, in spite of the efforts of Mr. H. M. Stevenson, the Conductor. On the 10th ult. the Choral Union produced a new Cantata, "Noël-tide," the composition of the Conductor, Mr. Thomas Facer. The work is written for soli, chorus, and orchestra, and although unpretentious is musicianly and pleasing. It was well rendered, the vocal principals being Madame George, Miss Nellie Pritchard, Mr. Powell, and Mr. T. Horrex.

The same evening a Students' Concert was given by the Midland Institute School of Music, when evidence of satisfactory work in many departments was abundantly manifest. On the 17th ult. the Choral and Orchestral Association gave Mendelssohn's "Elijah" in the Town Hall. The principal soloists were Miss Annie Toye, Miss Miriam Daniel, Mr. Crimp, and Mr. W. Bennett, with Mr. Perkins at the organ, and Mr. G. J. Halford, Conductor. The last-named conducted a Concert of the Midland Institute Madrigal Choir on the 19th ult.

The following evening the annual Concert of the Ladies' Singing Class took place, Mr. A. R. Gaul, Conductor. The programme included his dramatic Cantata "Joan of Arc." There was a very large audience at each performance.

Three of Mr. Perkins's specially arranged Organ Recitals have come off, the executants being Mr. W. T. Best, Mr. J. Kendrick Pyne, and Mr. Alex. Guilmant. The Town Hall has been well attended at each, Mr. Best drawing an immense audience, and Mr. Guilmant, on the 12th ult., being almost equally successful.

The Matinées at the Royal Society of Artists came to a close on the 17th ult., when the Edgbaston Philharmonic Orchestra—Conductor, Mr. S. S. Stratton—appeared for the third time. The musical director, Mr. Oscar Pollack, has introduced a great number of young artists, and the programmes, generally, have been very good. The attendance of the public has been of steady growth, and this feature of the Society's exhibitions may now be classed as a distinct success.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

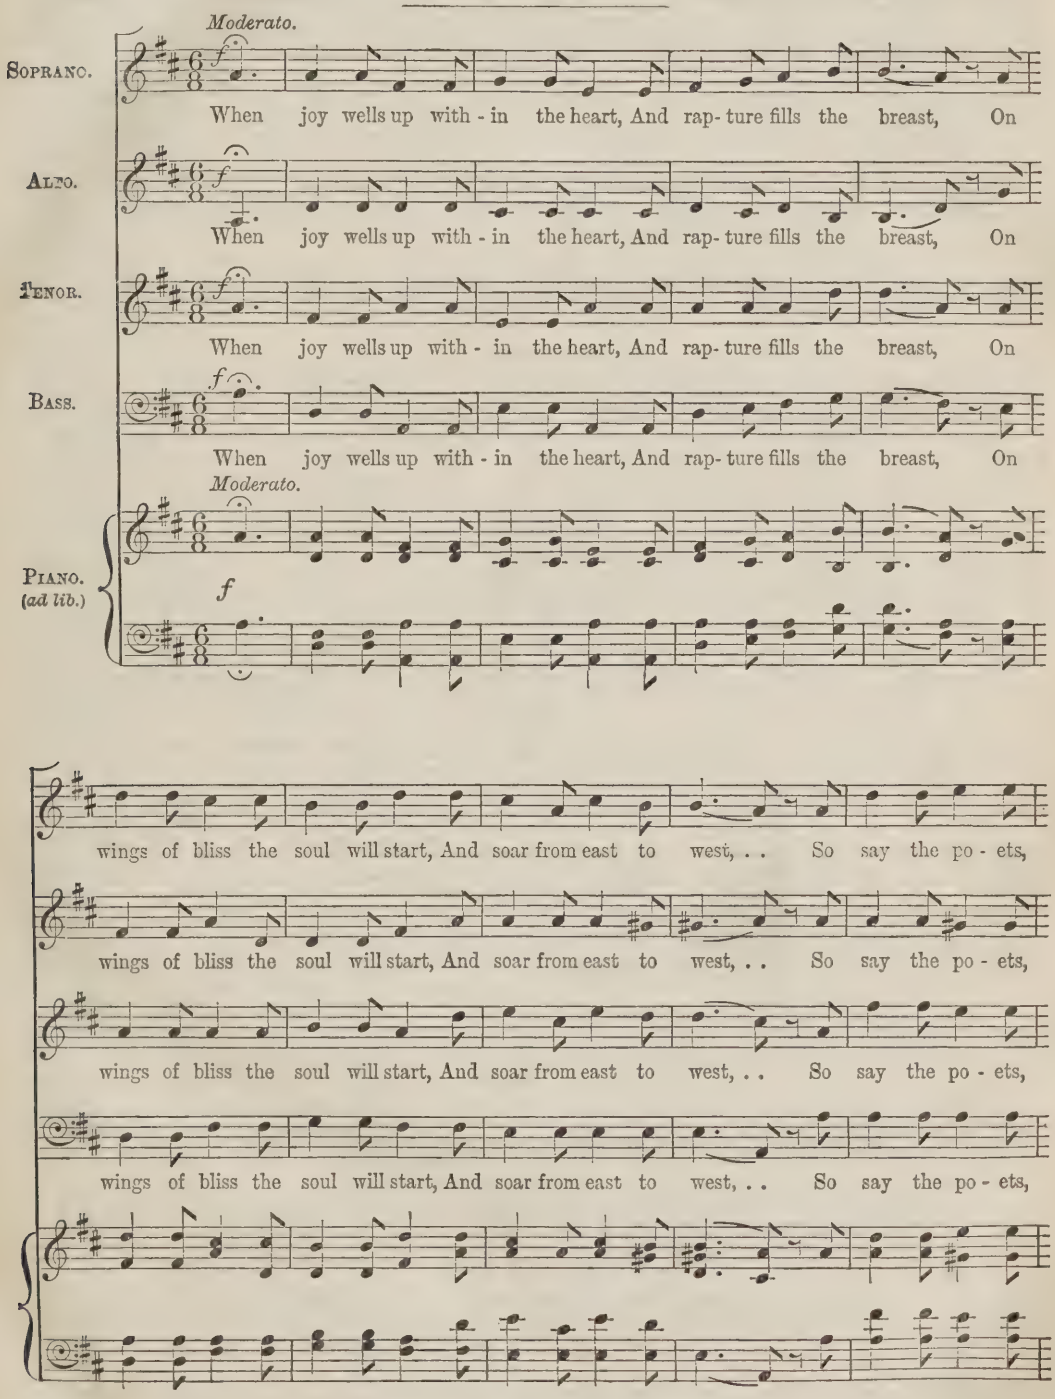
The Concerts given on November 26 and the 17th ult., by the Bristol Musical Association, were as usual chiefly noticeable for the excellent singing of bright part-songs and choruses by the well-trained choir. Both were attended by crowded assemblages. Mr. Gordon conducted.

To the Audience.

HUMOROUS FOUR-PART SONG.

Written and Composed by HAMILTON CLARKE.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.



Moderato.
SOPRANO.
When joy wells up with - in the heart, And rap- ture fills the breast, On ALTO.
When joy wells up with - in the heart, And rap- ture fills the breast, On
TENOR.
When joy wells up with - in the heart, And rap- ture fills the breast, On BASS.
When joy wells up with - in the heart, And rap- ture fills the breast, On Moderato.
PIANO. (ad lib.)
f
wings of bliss the soul will start, And soar from east to west, . . So say the po - ets, wings of bliss the soul will start, And soar from east to west, . . So say the po - ets, wings of bliss the soul will start, And soar from east to west, . . So say the po - ets, wings of bliss the soul will start, And soar from east to west, . . So say the po - ets,

Copyright, 1892, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

weak and strong, Our sim - ple minds to teach, That glad-ness seeks the voice of song, Dis -
weak and strong, Our sim - ple minds to teach, That glad-ness seeks the voice of song, Dis -
weak and strong, Our sim - ple minds to teach, That glad- ness seeks the voice of song, Dis -
weak and strong, Our sim - ple minds to teach, That glad-ness seeks the voice of song, Dis -
Allegro vivace
rit.
cres.
- dain - ing that of speech. Is this the rea-son, think you now, That we this cho- rus
- dain - ing that of speech. Is this the rea-son, think you now, That we this cho- rus
- dain - ing that of speech. Is this the rea-son, think you now, That we this cho- rus
- dain - ing that of speech. Is this the rea-son, think you now, That we this cho- rus
Allegro vivace.
sing? Oh no! the mo - tive, you may vow, Is quite an- o - ther thing, is sing? Oh no? the mo - tive, you may vow, Is quite an- o - ther thing, is sing? Oh no! the mo - tive, you may vow, Is quite an- o - ther thing, is sing? Oh no! the mo - tive, you may vow, Is quite an- o - ther thing, is pp

f quite, quite, quite, quite, is quite an-o-ther thing.
Moderato.
When an-ger fills the fu-rious breast, And rage con-tracts the brow, . . The Andante.
ppp voice will ut-ter strains un-blest, (We're going to shew you how!) . .

* These accented notes should be sung quite ff.

Allegro molto furioso.
ff
The soul pours forth its fie - ry notes, In thun - der dread and fierce, . . And
The soul pours forth its fie - ry notes, In thun - der dread and fierce, . . And
The soul pours forth its fie - ry notes, In thun - der dread and fierce, . . And
The soul pours forth its fie - ry notes, In thun - der dread and fierce, . . And Allegro molto furioso.
ff
fu - ry darts from swell - ing throats, Loud shouts that rend and pierce ! . .
fu - ry darts from swell - ing throats, Loud shouts that rend and pierce ! . .
fu - ry darts from swell - ing throats, Loud shouts that rend and pierce ! . .
fu - ry darts from swell - ing throats, Loud shouts that rend and pierce ! . .
Allegro vivace.
p
ff
Do you sup - pose that this is why, We're sing - ing now to you ! If
Do you sup - pose that this is why, We're sing - ing now to you ! If
Do you sup - pose that this is why, We're sing - ing now to you ! If
Do you sup - pose that this is why, We're sing - ing now to you ! If Allegro vivace.
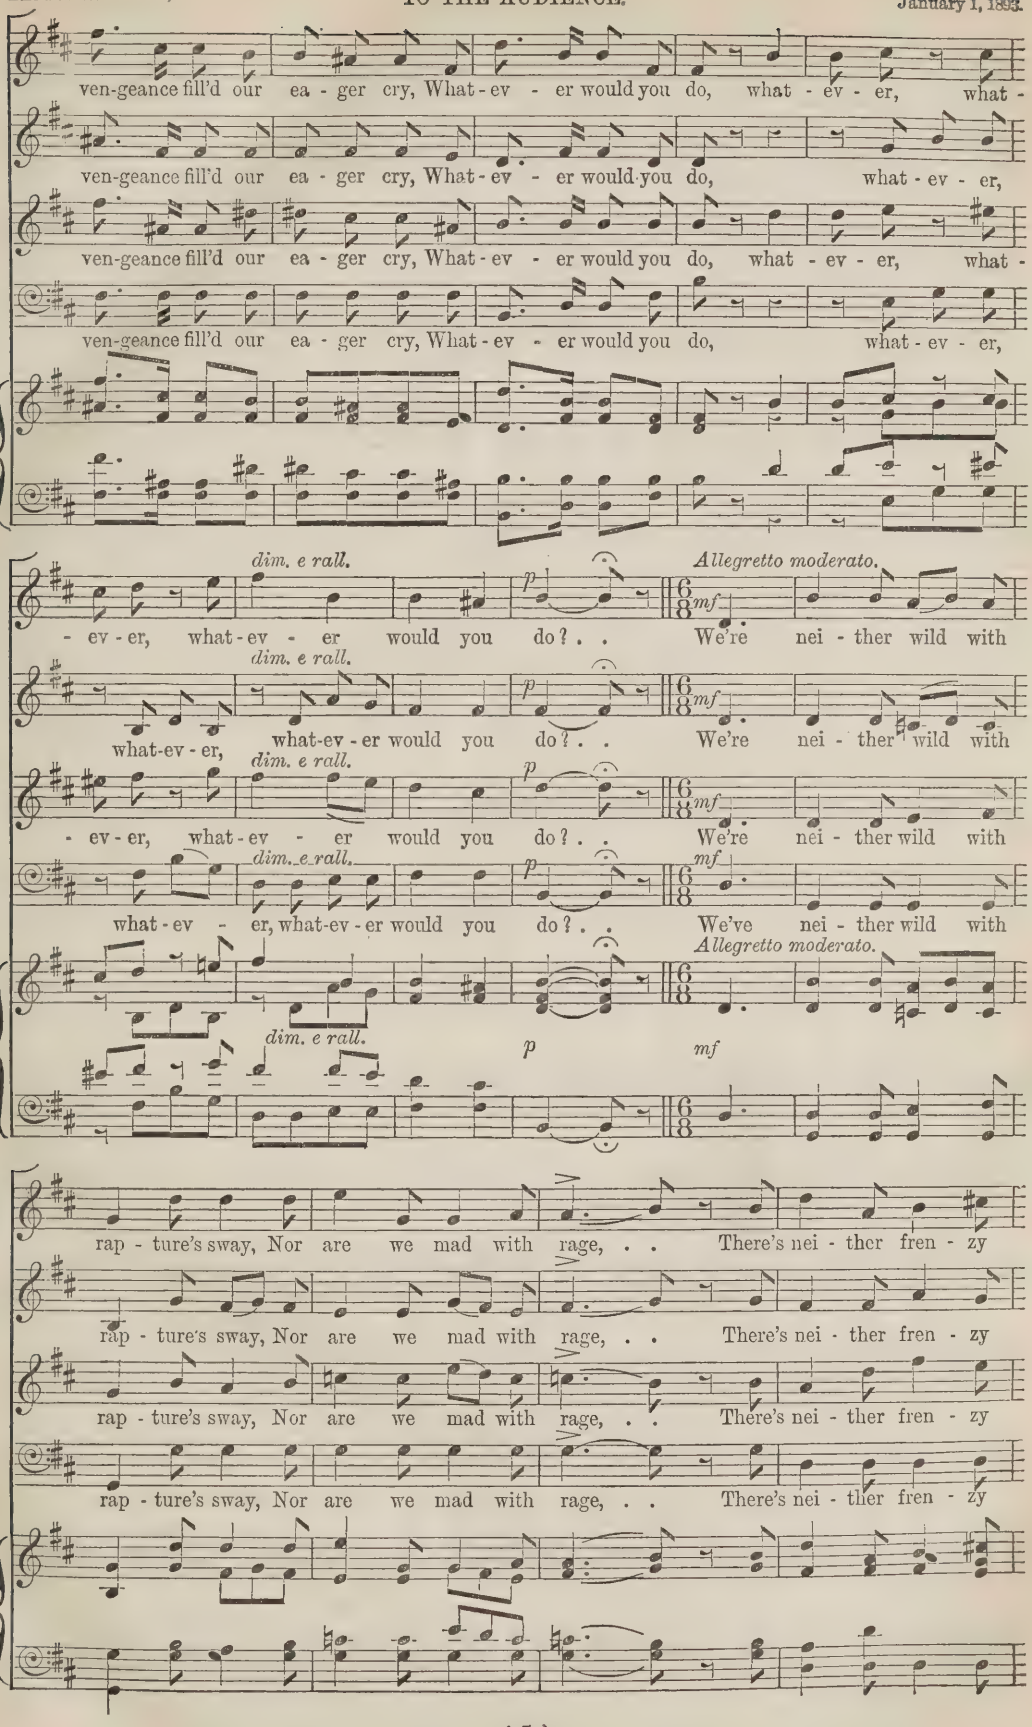
p
ff



ven-geance fill'd our ea - ger cry, What - ev - er would you do, what - ev - er, what - ven-geance fill'd our ea - ger cry, What - ev - er would you do, what - ev - er, ven-geance fill'd our ea - ger cry, What - ev - er would you do, what - ev - er, what - ven-geance fill'd our ea - ger cry, What - ev - er would you do, what - ev - er, dim. e rall.
p
Allegretto moderato.
mf
- ev - er, what - ev - er would you do? . . We're nei - ther wild with what - ev - er, what - ev - er would you do? . . We're nei - ther wild with
- ev - er, what - ev - er would you do? . . We're nei - ther wild with what - ev - er, what - ev - er would you do? . . We've nei - ther wild with rap - ture's sway, Nor are we mad with rage, . . There's nei - ther fren - zy rap - ture's sway, Nor are we mad with rage, . . There's nei - ther fren - zy rap - ture's sway, Nor are we mad with rage, . . There's nei - ther fren - zy rap - ture's sway, Nor are we mad with rage, . . There's nei - ther fren - zy to al - lay, Nor fu - ry to as - suage. . . Yet for this song, by to al - lay, Nor fu - ry to as - suage. . . Yet for this song, by to al - lay, Nor fu - ry to as - suage. . . Yet for this song, by to al - lay, Nor fu - ry to as - suage. . . Yet for this song, by cres.

f you in - spir'd, You've p'raps a mind to cheer us, We trust we've sung as you in - spir'd, You've p'raps a mind to cheer us, We trust we've sung as you in - spir'd, You've p'raps a mind to cheer us, We trust we've sung as you in - spir'd, You've p'raps a mind to cheer us, We trust we've sung as rit.
Andante.
pp
you de - sir'd, Be - cause you came to hear us. But if we can't your fa - vour claim, For you de - sir'd, Be - cause you came to hear us. But if we can't your fa - vour claim, For you de - sir'd, Be - cause you came to hear us. But if we can't your fa - vour claim, For you de - sir'd, Be - cause you came to hear us. But if we can't your fa - vour claim, For Allegro molto.

this our well-meant cho - rus, To light a-new am - bi - tion's flame, You've on - ly to en -
this our well-meant cho - rus, To light a-new am - bi - tion's flame, You've on - ly to en -
this our well-meant cho - rus, To light a-new am - bi - tion's flame, You've on - ly to en -
this our well-meant cho - rus, To light a-new am - bi - tion's flame, You've on - ly to en -
Allegro molto.
- core us, you've on - ly to en - core us, en - core us, en - core us, en -
- core us, you've on - ly to en - core us, en - core us, en - core us, en -
- core us, you've on - ly to en - core us, en - core, en - core, en -
- core us, you've on - ly to en - core us, en - core us, en - core us, en -
Adagio.
Allegro molto.
- core us, en - core us, you've on - ly to en - core us. . .
- core us, en - core us, you've on - ly to en - core us. . .
- core, en - core us, you've on - ly to en - core us. . .
- core us, en - core us, you've on - ly to en - core us. . .
Adagio.
Allegro molto.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

THIS Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the Studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	Part 1*
2.	„ „	„ 2*
3.	SCALES	Part 1*
4.	„	„ 2*
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	Part 1*
6.	„ „	„ 2*
7.	„ „	„ 3*
8.	„ „	„ 4
9.	„ „	„ 5
10.	LEFT HAND	Part 1*
11.	„ „	„ 2*
12.	„ „	„ 3
13.	„ „	„ 4
14.	ARPEGGIO	Part 1*
15.	„	„ 2*
16.	„	„ 3
17.	VELOCITY	Part 1*
18.	„	„ 2*
19.	„	„ 3
20.	„	„ 4
21.	„	„ 5
22.	„	„ 6
23.	„	„ 7
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	Part 1
25.	„ „	„ 2
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 1
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 2
28.	SHAKES	Part 1*
29.	„	„ 2*
30.	„	„ 3
31.	DOUBLE NOTES	Part 1*
32.	„ „	„ 2*
33.	„ „	„ 3
34.	„ „	„ 4
35.	OCTAVES	Part 1*
36.	„	„ 2*
37.	CHORDS	Part 1*
38.	„	„ 2
39.	STACCATO
40.	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	Part 1
41.	„ „	„ 2
42.	„ „	„ 3
43.	PART-PLAYING	Part 1
44.	„ „	„ 2
45.	ORNAMENTS	Part 1
46.	„	„ 2
47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	Part 1
48.	„ „	„ 2
49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	Part 1
50.	„ „	„ 2
51.	RHYTHM	Part 1
52.	„	„ 2

* These Parts are already published.

FIFTY-TWO BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

The most important musical gathering of the month was undoubtedly that on the 21st ult., when the Bristol Choral Society gave one of the finest performances of Handel's "Messiah" that has ever been heard in our city. The Oratorio had been carefully rehearsed, and tone, shading, phrasing, enunciation, attack, &c., were admirable. Miss Florence Cromey, Miss Jessie King, Mr. W. Nicholl, and Mr. Montague Worlock were the principal vocalists. Mr. Riseley conducted in his accustomed inspiriting way.

Mrs. Liebich gave, on the 3rd ult., an instructive Lecture on "The tone-poetry of Schumann; his life and its meaning," with pianoforte illustrations, by her husband, and vocal examples by Miss Lena Phillips and Mr. Ulrich Just.

A most attractive Lecture on "Carols and Carol Music" was delivered on the 12th ult., by Mr. E. R. Norris Mathews, in the Theatre of the Museum and Library. The Lecture showed considerable research, and the material was put together in happy style. Vocal and instrumental illustrations were rendered by a small choir and band directed by Mr. Cedric Bucknall.

Lovers of orchestral music will learn with pleasure that a series of three Monday Popular Concerts have been arranged for after Christmas. There will be a Wagner night on the anniversary of the death of the Bayreuth master, and at the succeeding two Concerts, works by Dr. Mackenzie and Dr. C. H. Hubert Parry will be brought forward, and may probably be performed under the direction of the composers.

Miss Clara Butt, the young student at the Royal College of Music who has achieved success in Sullivan's "Golden Legend" at the Albert Hall and in Gluck's "Orpheus" at the Lyceum Theatre, is a Bristol lady, and studied for three years under Mr. D. W. Rootham, the chorus-master of the Bristol Musical Festival Society.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Dublin Musical Society has finished its season with a balance to its credit. The concluding Concert of the season took place in the Royal University, Earlsfort Terrace, on November 28, and consisted of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and the Prelude and Act III. of Wagner's "Lohengrin." The principal artists were Misses Medora Henson and Jessica de Vernet, with Messrs Edward Lloyd and Frangçon-Davies. The band of the Society, numbering seventy-eight executants, is now at its best, and acquitted itself to admiration in the delicate and exacting work it had to do; and the fine choir of 300 voices has seldom been heard to greater advantage. Mr. Th. Werner led the strings, Mr. J. Horan presided at the organ, and Dr. Joseph Smith conducted the Concert with unfailing tact and decision. Verdi's "Requiem" is already in rehearsal for the first Concert of the coming season.

The Dublin University Choral Society gave a third performance of Dvorák's "Spectre's Bride" on the 17th ult., in the Antient Concert Rooms. The leading parts were taken by Miss Shellard, Mr. Edward Branscombe, and Mr. Thos. Marchant; Sir Robert P. Stewart conducted.

A series of twenty Monday Afternoon Recitals of Classical Chamber Music was inaugurated on November 21 in the Lecture Theatre of the Royal Dublin Society. The executants are Signor Papini, first violin; Mr. P. Delany, second violin; Mr. Grisard, viola; Mr. Bast, violoncello; and Signor Esposito, pianoforte.

Handel's "Messiah" was performed at Rathgar Church on the 14th ult., with a chorus of 100 selected voices, under the direction of Dr. Joseph Smith, who gave a remarkable interpretation of the "Mozart" score on the curiously constructed organ of the church, delegating the conductor's bâton to Mr. J. Seymour.

The Pembroke Choral Union, under the direction of Mr. W. Bapty, performed Mrs. Robinson's Cantata "God is Love," with a miscellaneous second part, on the 13th ult.

St. George's Choral Union performed Handel's "St. Cecilia's Day," with a miscellaneous second part, on the 16th ult., with orchestra under the direction of Mr. Raymond Revelle.

The Dublin Choral Union gave its first Concert for the season on the 5th ult., consisting chiefly of glees and part-songs, Dr. Annie Patterson conducting.

Mrs. Scott-Ffennell's annual Concert took place on the 8th ult. in the Antient Concert Rooms. The programme was diversified by instrumental solos and some part-songs given by a small choir, under the direction of Mr. James Culwick.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Autumn visit of the Carl Rosa Opera Company last month was of unusual interest and importance. Not only were the "casts" exceptionally strong, but the répertoire was a pleasant change from the usual threadbare round. "Cavalleria Rusticana" was first favourite; "L'Amico Fritz" attracted a crowded house and divided musical opinion into two camps; "Otello," given only once, did not receive the public attention it deserved, but "Aïda," in its two performances, rivalled "Cavalleria" in the success it scored.

Messrs. Paterson's sixth annual scheme of Orchestral Concerts was brilliantly inaugurated before a very large audience on the 7th ult. The "Spectre's Bride" afforded an opportunity to Mr. Kirkhope's Choir to add to its laurels. Never was this splendid body of singers heard to better advantage, and the perfection of its attention to nuance reflects more than credit on the indefatigable and enthusiastic Conductor. It is difficult to select any one passage for particular mention, but any chorus who can sing the two bars, "And one is heard to knock and cry," as Mr. Kirkhope's Choir did need not fear comparison or competition. All the choruses were rendered in most unexceptionable style, and the work on this its third hearing in Edinburgh made a deep impression. The mention of Mr. Andrew Black's name is sufficient to indicate that the baritone part was filled successfully and effectively, and Miss Anna Williams and Mr. Philip Newbury were not far behind in the trying music which falls to the soprano and tenor. In the second part of the programme the only choral number was a "Benedictus" for quintet, chorus, and orchestra, by Franklin Peterson, which was cordially received. "The Passing of Beatrice," by William Wallace, was well played by Mr. Manns's orchestra, and the young composer came to the platform to receive the congratulations of the audience. Two delightfully fresh numbers from Moszkowski's "Boabdil" Ballet Music brought a somewhat lengthy programme to a close.

At the succeeding Concerts on the 12th and 19th ult. the chief attractions were Frederick Cliffe's new Symphony in E minor, conducted by the composer; "The Flying Dutchman" Overture, which was interpreted with great spirit; Cornelius's "Barber of Bagdad" Overture; Prelude to "Boabdil"; Miss Liza Lehmann's re-appearance in Edinburgh; and the playing of Mr. Paul della Torre, who took part in Chopin's Andante and Polonaise. These Concerts have succeeded in commanding a large share of public patronage this year.

At a Concert given by Madame Drechsler Hamilton, Miss Jeannie Rorie, a young pianist who has studied at the Frankfort Conservatorium, made her first appearance. She won an encouraging success.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE Glasgow Glee and Catch Club had a record evening on the 1st ult., when this popular body gave its annual Ladies' Night. The programme contained a singularly choice selection of glees and part-songs, and more than once the singing recalled leading features in the Vocal Recital given by Mr. and Mrs. Henschel on the previous evening in the Queen's Rooms—i.e., high culture and artistic method. The accomplished couple of vocalists just-named also gave a successful Recital at Pollokshields.

On the 2nd ult. Mr. Sarasate and Madame Berthe Marx once more secured the favour of a Glasgow audience, and at the second Concert of the Athenæum School of Music (3rd ult.) an inviting programme was submitted by the Principal, Mr. Allan Macbeth. It included, for example, Mr. Frederic H. Cowen's tuneful Cantata "The Fairies' Spring," a work well within the powers of the flourishing ladies' choir attached to the School. The Glasgow Quartet appeared in the Burgh Hall, Hillhead, on the evening of the 12th ult., with a programme drawn from Mozart, Beethoven, and Schumann. Very scant encouragement is accorded the efforts of Mr. Sons and his coadjutors to popularise chamber music on the banks of the Clyde, and well-wishers hope for a favourable turn of the tide before the close of the season.

The nineteenth series of Choral and Orchestral Concerts was inaugurated on the 6th ult. with an exceedingly fine performance of the "Elijah." A large and brilliant audience showed manifest interest in the opening of the Jubilee season of our premier Society, and this is also equivalent to saying that the subscribers amply approved of the selection so wisely made by the management. Mr. Joseph Bradley had his choral forces in excellent order; his choir sang, indeed, with true artistic perception of their text, an indication of what may be expected later on, when several important works come to be performed. The soloists were Miss Anna Williams, Miss Jeanie Rankin, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. W. Ludwig. Mr. Thomas Berry was organist, the band numbered about ninety performers, and members of the Choral Union lent efficient service in the double quartet. The first of the series of Saturday Popular Concerts took place on the 10th ult., when Mr. August Manns had a reception which is alone reserved for old and well-tried friends. A cordial greeting also awaited Mr. Elkan Kosman, the new leader of the orchestra and a violinist who has fully justified his selection for this important post. That was very promptly seen in his method of attacking Vieuxtemps's Fourth Concerto for violin and orchestra. The Symphony was Beethoven's ever-popular No. 7, and Mr. Braxton Smith sang to the entire satisfaction of his audience. One outstanding feature marked the programme of the second Subscription Concert, on the 13th ult. This was Mr. Frederic Cliffe's Second Symphony, the work commissioned for the recent Leeds Festival. The young composer conducted in person, and he had every reason to be gratified with his reception. Mr. Cliffe's "programme music" made indeed an impression which promises us further acquaintance at an early date with his rich and finely-coloured orchestral pictures. Other pieces in the programme included spirited performances of "The Flying Dutchman" and "The Corsair" Overtures. Mr. Vladimir de Pachmann was the solo pianist, and he gave his personal reading of Beethoven's Third Concerto, as also selections from Chopin. The Popular Concert, on the 17th ult., brought forward Mr. Guilmant, the well-known Parisian musician, in his own Symphony for organ and orchestra (No. 1), and a few nights later the subscribers to the Choral Union scheme had the welcome opportunity of again hearing Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's Oratorio "The Rose of Sharon." Owing to early press arrangements—in connection with the Christmas holidays—notice of this performance must be delayed. Meantime it will suffice to say that the solos were in charge of Miss Macintyre, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, and that Glasgow amateurs have not by any means forgotten the contents of this beautiful work.

The Paisley Choral Union announced a performance of Gounod's "The Redemption" for the 22nd ult. Mr. James Barr's excellent choir is always to the fore with something good, and hence the journey to Paisley by many Glasgow folks when a work is given in that thriving town.

The great social event of last month claims a line—the Fancy Dress Ball on behalf of the Benevolent Fund of the Glasgow Society of Musicians. It took place on the 9th ult., and it is no exaggeration to say that the function turned out a brilliant success. Thanks are due to the sympathetic aid of the brethren of the palette, who contributed so much to the success of the impressive tableaux. The Song Album, an artistic souvenir of the ball, is, by the way, in great request.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The first half of the Philharmonic series of Concerts came to an end on the 20th ult., when Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was given. At the previous Subscription evening, on the 6th ult., the programme was of no special interest, and nothing is announced as yet in regard to the works to be performed in the new year beyond a selection from Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" at the tenth and Gounod's "Death and Life" at the twelfth Concerts. A considerable list of artists for the miscellaneous performances is, however, given in the prospectus.

On November 29 a fine performance was given of Mendelssohn's "Athalie" by the Post Office Choral Society, consisting of about 250 voices and an orchestra of sixty performers. Mr. Charles Fry, who first declaimed the lines of Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal" on the same platform—that of the Philharmonic Hall—achieved a second triumph in Liverpool in the text of the work immediately under notice. Mr. W. I. Argent conducted.

The same gentleman again conducted Mendelssohn's "Athalie" on the 13th ult., with the Liscard Wallesey Musical Society, consisting of a chorus and band of 150. Mr. Wills-Harper read the lines of the work.

The Music School closed its first year of existence with a successful Concert on the 15th ult., and the professors and students gave a Concert at the new building of the Victoria University on the 17th ult. A highly interesting vocal and instrumental Recital was given at the Philharmonic Hall by Messrs. Plunket Greene and S. Welsing, on a historical basis, on the 10th ult. The Liverpool Orchestral Society gave a good Concert on the 3rd ult., in the City Hall, and a performance of wind chamber music in the same place on the 10th ult. On this date, too, the regular sectional monthly meeting of the Incorporated Society of Musicians was held at the Adelphi Hotel, a paper being read by Mr. A. E. Isaac on pianoforte technique. Recently, at the Royal Institution, Professor Gotch read a paper on the appreciation of musical sounds. Dr. J. C. Bridge has given three Lectures, belonging to the regular Corporation Autumn series, on Early English Music. The musical lecturers selected for the winter series are Messrs. John Ross and Argent. The City Corporation have at length granted the use of St. George's Hall for the Concerts of the Liverpool Sunday Society, and the first performance will probably be held therein on the 8th inst.

Among recent events in the district may be noted Cowen's "St. John's Eve" and Macfarren's "May Day," at Earlestown, under Mr. E. Corlett; Mendelssohn's "Elijah," at Warrington, and Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," at Runcorn, under Mr. F. H. Crowley; Handel's "Messiah," at Southport, under Mr. H. Hudson; Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night" and "Loreley," at Chester, under Dr. J. C. Bridge; Bennett's "May Queen," at West Derby, under Mr. R. Cooper; and Barnett's "Ancient Mariner," at Birkenhead, under Mr. Appleyard. As usual the Advent Oratorio at the Pro-Cathedral has been Spohr's "Last Judgment."

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

It would be ungrateful not to notice, although the performance was late in November, Lady Hallé's exquisite rendering of Dvorák's Violin Concerto in A minor (Op. 53), a work of enormous difficulty and, especially in the first and second movements, of great charm. On the same evening Goldmark's Ballet music from "Königin von Saba" was produced, in which the "Bees' Dance" was admirably graphic. At his next Concert Sir Charles gave—for the seventeenth time—the "Emperor" Concerto of Beethoven, recalling memories of many past years and of much enjoyment. Adding to this Raff's Symphony "Im Walde" and Reinecke's Overture "Ein Abendtheuer Händel's," it must be owned that the programme was decidedly interesting, and the artistic singing of Miss Palliser gave zest and relief to the whole. A repetition of the third Acts of "Tannhäuser" and "Lohengrin" brought a crowded house, and prepared the way for the visit of Herr Mühlfeld on the 15th ult. Unfortunately, the flatness of his instrument prevented the Concertino having the advantage of orchestral accompaniment; but in the Duo Concertante (also Weber's) for pianoforte and clarinet, the ensemble playing was perfect.

At the Gentlemen's Orchestral Concert of the 12th ult. a new departure was made: for the first time for very many years, a small but compact choir was secured, and Dr. Hiles's Ode, written for the recent installation of the Chancellor of the University, together with a new setting of Tennyson's "Break! break!" was given, under the direction of the composer. The virility and scholarship of the Ode were warmly appreciated, and the setting of Tennyson's song proved very impressive. Mrs. Henschel sang in her usual refined manner, and M. Siloti created quite a sensation by his varied qualities as a pianist in the Fantasia in C by Schubert-Liszt, and some smaller pieces.

The Saturday Evening Concerts continue to be thronged, and it is pleasant to note that Mr. Lane's enterprise at the Free Trade Hall is meeting with due reward, and that his choir is becoming more and more equal to the demands upon it.

On the evening of the 20th ult. Mr. Ramsay L'Amy, well known here as an amateur, introduced himself as a professional singer, and was ably assisted by Mr. Carl Fuchs and by our townsman, Mr. F. Dawson, who is rapidly taking that rank as a pianist to which his unquestionable abilities entitle him. At the Athenæum Dr. Bridge has given a very pleasant discourse upon "Shakespeare and Music," illustrated by the choir under Dr. H. Watson; and, at the Concert Hall, the last-named gentleman, with his Vocal Society, gave an admirable selection of prize glees and other compositions, among which was Dr. Hiles's six-voiced Motet "Sing unto the Lord."

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE largely increased attendance at Mr. Allen's first Chamber Concert of this season, on November 30, gives hope that Mr. Allen may now look upon his venture as firmly established in popular favour. The artists were Sir Charles and Lady Hallé and Mr. Vieuxtemps.

On the 12th ult. the Ilkeston Harmonic Society, under the direction of Mr. W. G. Taylor, gave a performance of Costa's "Eli." The soloists were Madame Adelaide Mullen, Miss Jessie Marshall-Ward, Mr. Beaumont, and Mr. Bingley Shaw. Mr. Taylor has also assumed the direction of two newly formed choral societies at Alfreton and Heanor, which promise to do well.

The Nottingham Amateur Orchestral Society, by diligent work under Mr. Ralph Horner's able direction, have now earned a strong position, and must look forward to largely supplying the place of a local professional orchestra. Its performances of Gade's Symphony in B flat, Weber's "Oberon" Overture, and Rubinstein's Ballet music to "Feramors," at the annual Concert on the 14th ult., were characterised by a style and grasp of the true spirit of the music seldom found in amateur performances. We are glad to learn that it promises a performance of Sir Arthur Sullivan's Incidental Music to Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" on the occasion of Mr. Charles Fry's Recital on February 4.

One is always certain of a good programme of chamber music at Herr Ellenberger's Concerts. On the 15th ult. Beethoven's Trio in C minor, Brahms's Trio in C minor (Op. 101), Rubinstein's Violoncello Sonata in D (Op. 18), and Chopin's Fantaisie in F minor received a faithful and most enjoyable rendering at the hands of Fräulein K. Ellenberger, Herr Ellenberger, and Mr. Edwin Thorpe.

The St. Cecilia Choir (ladies' voices), under the direction of Mrs. James Gow, gave its annual Concert on the 20th ult. The programme was very recherché, the most noteworthy pieces being Hiller's lovely hymn "Naenia Heloisae," Gade's "Bilder des Jahres," and Miss Mundella's "Victory of Song." The latter not only gained, but deserved, applause from a most critical audience.

MUSIC IN OXFORD.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THERE has been quite a surfeit of Concerts during the October term just closed, and it is only too probable that a good deal of money has been lost on them, Only one local Society has given a Concert, the Oxford Gleemen, who gave an excellent performance in the Town Hall, on November 24, to an audience much more numerous than we are accustomed to see in our Concert-rooms. The greatest credit is due to the energy of those who have worked up this Society from small beginnings to the position that it now holds.

Two Orchestral Concerts have been given in the Sheldonian Theatre, at each of which, with a certain want of variety, a Pianoforte Concerto was given. Either in deference to some newspaper correspondence or from motives of economy, a large local and amateur element was introduced into the band. It was not an improvement, but, on the whole, the Concerts were very successful. The posters that advertised the second Concert suggested painful reflections as to the condition of musical taste in Oxford. Dr. Parry's bright little Overture to "The Frogs" was announced in larger letters than Beethoven's Seventh Symphony!

It would be impossible to give any sort of detail of the numerous Concerts given by artists who have visited Oxford during the past Term. Yet to omit all notice of these Concerts would be to fail to give any idea of the quantity of music that goes on in this city. The simplest plan is, perhaps, to enumerate the chief performers that we have had an opportunity of hearing. The singers have been Mesdames Antoinette Sterling, Hilda Wilson, and Helen Trust, and Messrs. Ferguson and Thorndike; the pianists have included Miss Fanny Davies, Mdlle. Szumowska, and Mr. F. Dawson; Messrs. Gorski and Schiever have been heard on the violin, and Messrs. Jean Gérardy, Carl Fuchs, and Albert on the violoncello.

A University town would probably be rather unhappy without a little lecturing. As Sir John Stainer's Lecture on "Lute, Viol, and Voice" has been already reported in these columns, it is only necessary to add here a word of commendation to Mr. Dolmetsch and his coadjutors, and to Miss Florence Monk especially, for the way in which the difficult illustrations were performed. Later on Mr. Pigott gave a Lecture on Japanese music, which he illustrated by playing a number of specimens in various styles, on an instrument more curious than beautiful. It was hardly possible for Western ears to reach any measure of appreciation of such music in an hour and a quarter, but the lecturer left behind him permanent impressions of a charming personality and of researches whose value is as great as the trouble that they must have cost.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE period of reaction which invariably follows the somewhat feverish activity of the Festival week in Leeds seems at length to have come to an end, and during the past month there have been several musical events of importance to chronicle. On November 23 Mr. Alfred Giessing, a Leeds violoncellist of repute, gave a highly interesting Recital of violoncello music, Popper's Suite "Im Walde" being, perhaps, the chief attraction of a well arranged programme. Miss Annie Holden was the vocalist. The Leeds Philharmonic Society opened its winter season on November 30, giving, in the Town Hall, a "Sullivan programme" that included the popular "Golden Legend," followed by the "In Memoriam" Overture and the "Festival" Te Deum. Though somewhat handicapped by the absence, through illness, of the regular Conductor, Mr. Alfred Broughton, the chorus sang well, under the conductorship of Mr. John Bowling. Miss Medora Henson, who took the part of the heroine, made on this occasion her first appearance in Leeds, and succeeded in winning the approval of her audience. Madame Marian McKenzie was an exceptionally good representative of Ursula, Mr. H. Piercy was the Prince Henry, and Mr. Watkin Mills repeated his clever performance of the part of Lucifer. The Te Deum was sung with power and brilliance by the choir, Miss Henson taking the solo. On the 7th ult. Mr. Edgar Haddock gave the second of his Musical Evenings at the Town Hall. Mendelssohn's D minor Trio was artistically rendered by the Concert-giver, Mr. E. de Munck, and Miss Janotha, and the Princess Palæologæ-Nicephoræ-Comnenæ, the soprano soloist, showed that the most ancient of pedigrees is but a sorry substitute for artistic ability. At the Leeds Parish Church a special Advent Service took place on the 6th ult., when Brahms's "German Requiem" was sung by the choir, reinforced for the occasion, under the conductorship of the Organist, Mr. Alfred Benton. The orchestra was represented by the organ, which was very ably played by Mr. Guilmant, who also gave a short Recital after the Service. On the following day the first of the Leeds Subscription Concerts took place in the Town Hall, Sir Charles and Lady Hallé, with Mr. Whitehouse as violoncellist, playing Trios by Brahms (Op. 101) and Beethoven (Op. 97), Mr. Norman Salmond being the vocalist. On the 16th ult. Miss Magda Eisele, a pianist who has quite recently come to Leeds with a high reputation as an executant and teacher, and Madame Bertha Moore gave a most attractive Recital of pianoforte and vocal music in the Philosophical Hall.

The Huddersfield Choral Society, whose chorus ranks as one of the most powerful in the North of England, gave a fine performance of "St. Paul" on October 28. The principal vocalists were Madame Clara Samuell, Mrs. Nalder, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, the Conductor's seat being occupied by Mr. John Bowling, who this year succeeds the late Mr. North as the Society's Conductor. The fifth of the long and varied series of Subscription Concerts promoted by Mr. John Watkinson, an energetic local amateur, took place on November 22, Madame Albani's name attracting an exceptionally crowded audience to the Town Hall. The rest of the programme inclined to the variety entertainment level, but a balance was restored at the following Concert, on the 13th ult., when Sir Charles Hallé's band was heard in Beethoven's Seventh Symphony, Mrs. E. Haley playing the G minor Concerto of Mendelssohn with much spirit, and Mr. E. Haley appearing as the vocalist.

The Halifax Choral Society, the oldest of the many Societies of the kind in the West Riding, gave the first Concert of the season on November 25. The programme was partly of choral and partly of orchestral music, Mendelssohn's 114th Psalm—the original edition of which was dedicated to the Society—and Professor Stanford's "Revenge" representing the former class, and Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony, Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, and the "Anacreon" Overture the latter. Sir C. Hallé and Mr. W. H. Garland were the Conductors.

The Dewsbury Choral Society, under Mr. G. H. Hirst, opened its season on November 29, with the "Hymn of Praise" and a miscellaneous second part, including Dr. C. H. Lloyd's charming Cantata "The Song of Balder" and a selection from Sullivan's "Tempest" music. Madame Clara Samuell and Mr. E. Houghton were the vocalists, and the performances were, on the whole, highly successful, the chorus being particularly good.

Among the numerous musical fixtures of a busy month in Sheffield the chief interest centred in the performance by the Amateur Musical Society on the 16th ult. of Bach's Passion ("St. Matthew"). The labour bestowed upon his forces by Mr. Schollhammer, the Society's valued Conductor, were apparent in the vigour, firm attack, and accurate phrasing which characterised the efforts of the chorus. The principals were Miss Effie Thomas, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Braxton Smith, and Mr. Watkin Mills, each of whom sang exceedingly well. Mr. J. W. Phillips was Organist and Messrs. Peck and Parkin led the double orchestra.

The Upperthorpe Musical Society performed Mendelssohn's "Lauda Sion" in the Music Hall on the 8th ult. The chorus-singing of the Society has reached a high standard of excellence, and in the work, as well as in the miscellaneous part-songs and choruses which filled up the programme, the members acquitted themselves most creditably. Mr. J. Beaumont conducted.

The Amateur Instrumental Society's Concert, on the 14th ult., was highly successful. Beethoven's C minor Symphony was the principal piece in the programme, which also included Mendelssohn's "Calm Sea" Overture and works by Ambroise Thomas, Rossini, and Sullivan. The playing of the members was admirable throughout, the strings being especially good. Mr. H. Coward conducted. The Bradford Festival Choral Society gave a performance, under its new Conductor, Mr. W. H. Garland, on the 2nd ult. That melodious but now somewhat rarely heard work, "The Seasons," afforded them delightful practice, and they had a good audience to appreciate their efforts. Apart from the work of the chorus, which, it is almost needless to say, was careful and refined, there was some extremely good solo singing, if the drawbacks resulting from the slight indisposition of Miss Annie Cockroft be left out of account. Mr. Harper Kearton and Mr. W. Thornton were both warmly applauded for the tenor and bass solos respectively. Both band and chorus showed facility in getting through their work, and altogether the Conductor made a successful first appearance in his new capacity.

"St. John's Eve," which is very popular, was performed on the 6th ult. by the Shipley Choral Society, which body Mr. Rooks continues to keep together with very successful results. The Society has a good band, and there is much enthusiasm all round. For this occasion Madame Annie Saville, Mrs. Ashcroft-Clarke, Mr. Charles Blagbro, and Mr. Charles Farrar gave their assistance as principals. Miss A. M. Marshall, Mrs. G. H. Hodgson, and Mr. H. Bowler also contributed to a miscellaneous programme, which helped to make up a very successful entertainment.

On the 7th ult. "The Woman of Samaria" was submitted by the Idle Choral Society to a large audience. The principals were Mrs. James Wilson, Miss Marie Rhodes, Mr. Charles Blagbro, and Mr. John Browning. There was no band, but Mr. A. F. Briggs and Mr. A. Robertshaw supplied the accompaniments, and the performance was skilfully conducted by Mr. F. W. Eastlake.

Mr. Henry Coates officiated for Mr. Alfred Broughton—who was indisposed—as the Conductor of the third Concert of the Ilkley Subscription series, which was given on the 13th ult. The performance was sustained by the Ilkley Vocal Society, with the assistance of Mrs. James Wilson, Mr. W. Fisher Heath, and Mr. John Coates. Mr. MacCunn's "Lay of the Last Minstrel" was most effectively rendered, and was followed by a miscellaneous part comprising several interesting performances, notably the rendering of Dudley Buck's "When the heart is young," by Miss Whitworth, who acquitted herself with distinction. Mr. H. M. Lawrence was the accompanist.

The Cleckheaton Philharmonic Society gave a very successful performance of "St. Paul" on the 7th ult., the audience being larger than the Society has hitherto been favoured with. There were some excellent solo voices, including those of Miss Medora Henson, Miss Mary Tetley, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. W. Thornton. Mr. W. H. Wright was the Conductor, and there was an efficient band.

The Bradford Kyrle Choir gave a subscribers' Concert in the Church Institute on the 20th ult., when there was performed "The Sun Worshippers" (Goring Thomas). Though it is more than ten years since the work was written for the Norwich Festival, this was its first production in Yorkshire, and Mr. Arthur T. Akeroyd deserves credit for bringing it forward. The work of the chorus was ably supplemented by Miss Annie Jackson (soprano) and Mr. William Knight. Gade's "Erl-King's Daughter" also found a place in a somewhat exhausting programme, the soloists being Miss Mylie Weber (soprano), Miss Annie Richardson (contralto), and Mr. Albert Barnes (bass). The accompaniments were played by Mr. J. H. Clough. Mr. W. Iveson also gave his assistance as a soloist.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The dominant tone thus far in the musical season has been in the direction of orchestral rather than choral work. The first Concerts of the Symphony and Philharmonic Societies were attended by large and enthusiastic audiences. At the Philharmonic was performed Tschaikowsky's Symphony (No. 4). At the Music Hall, on November 25, Rubinstein's "Tower of Babel" was given, under the direction of Mr. Walter Damrosch, with the assistance of Messrs. Emil Fischer, Payne Clarke, Perry Averill, and other musical auxiliaries (boy choir, &c.) It is quite fair to say that the success of this work (heard anew after many years) was but moderate.

Admirers of Dr. Dvorák will learn with pleasure that the works of this famous composer are exciting more than usual attention, and there is a manifest disposition on the part of our conductors (both orchestral and choral) to gratify the evident wish of the public to be fully informed, by actual hearing, as to the character and excellence of his great works. Thus the Boston Symphony, under Mr. Nikisch, has given his "Dramatic" Overture (Op. 67) and the Suite for orchestra in D major; the Philharmonic gave, at the last Concert, the Symphony (No. 1), under the direction of the composer (a graceful courtesy on the part of Mr. Seidl); while, of his choral works, several are noted for early public performance—e.g., the "Stabat Mater," by the Church Choral Society of this city, and the "Requiem," by the Apollo Musical Club of Chicago.

Of this latter it is in order to note that the Directors, with Mr. Tomlins's valuable assistance, have prepared an unusually brilliant programme for the work of the club during the season. At the first Concert, "The Messiah"; the second, a Ballad and Part-Song Concert; the third, Mendelssohn's "Elijah," for which, by the way, Mr. Plunket Greene is engaged; and for the fourth, Dvorák's "Requiem," as noted—all this in addition to the very important part which the club has had and will continue to have in connection with the music of the World's Fair. A state of enthusiasm and earnest work is indicated, upon which both the Club and the musical public of Chicago are to be highly congratulated.

The cheerful compliance by the clergy with the widely extended desire on the part of the public to hear high-class sacred music, has led to a decided increase in the number, and improvement in the character, of these delightful and edifying performances of the best Cantatas, which form such a fitting climax to the services of Sunday. During the past month two of a noteworthy character have been given: at St. James's (Mr. Baker, choirmaster), on Sunday, November 13, Gaul's new Cantata "Israel" was given under such conditions as called forth the warm praise even of the secular press; and at Calvary Church, under Mr. Clement Gale (not, however, on Sunday), was performed Spohr's "Last Judgment." The excellent work by the choir of forty voices showed the results of careful training and attention to detail on the part of the choirmaster, a fact sensibly emphasised by the absence of a Conductor. Other works announced to be sung at Calvary Church during the season are Barnby's "Rebekah"; "The Lord's Prayer," Bridge; "Gethsemane," Lee Williams; "The Crucifixion," Stainer; and "The Hymn of Praise," Mendelssohn.

The first Concert of the seventh season of the Streatham Choral Society took place at the Streatham Town Hall on the 19th ult., the well-trained choir, consisting of fresh and youthful voices, being well supported by an orchestra of professional musicians. In such conditions, and under the able conductorship of Mr. Stewart Macpherson, the performances could not fail to rise above the ordinary standard of amateur musical societies; and, as a matter of fact, the numerous audience present were fully justified in the hearty applause with which they greeted every number in the well-chosen programme. The latter included, in the first part, a spirited performance of Weber's evergreen "Freischütz" Overture, Dr. Bridge's weird and effective ballad-cantata "The Inchcape Rock" (conducted by the composer), Beethoven's Fourth Pianoforte Concerto in G (Mr. S. Macpherson at the solo instrument), and songs by Mr. W. Macfarren, given with excellent taste by a rising young soprano, Miss Kate Cove. The second part opened with Wagner's now well-known "Siegfried Idyll," the remainder of the evening being pleasantly taken up by the performance of Sir G. A. Macfarren's bright and melodious Cantata "May Day," for soprano solo, chorus, and orchestra, with Miss Kate Cove in the solo part. Mr. Stewart Macpherson conducted throughout with much care and judgment.

A very successful Orchestral Concert was given, on the 12th ult., at Princes' Hall, by the students of Trinity College, London, under the able conductorship of Mr. F. Corder. Amongst the most interesting features of the performances was an Overture by the Queen Victoria scholar, Mr. A. W. Ketelbey, aged sixteen, which exhibits considerable native ability and skill in the handling of the orchestral forces, being altogether a work of distinct promise. Miss Gertrude Corbin gave a smooth rendering of the solo part in Mendelssohn's Rondo for pianoforte and orchestra in E flat, and the pianoforte part in two movements of Rubinstein's Fourth Pianoforte Concerto were most ably sustained by Miss Louise Goldhawk. Mr. C. S. Fenigstein played the Allegro from Spohr's Violin Concerto in D minor, and Misses B. Acworth and M. Bowley contributed vocal numbers. The performances, which also included an orchestral piece (MS.), entitled "Zingaresca," from the pen of Mr. F. Corder, terminated with a selection from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" music. The next term of this Institution commences on the 16th inst.

At the Hampstead Conservatoire, on the 8th ult., Miss Ethel Bauer, Mr. Harold Bauer, and Mr. Herbert Walenn gave the last of their series of Concerts with undiminished success. The two gentlemen, with Mr. M. Gottheiner (second violin) and Miss Winifred Bauer (viola) as companions, took part in Beethoven's String Quartet in F minor (Op. 95) and in Goldmark's unfamiliar Quintet in B flat (Op. 30), in the latter of which they were joined by Miss Ethel Bauer for the pianoforte part. In each case the artistic issue was highly satisfactory. Midway in the programme Miss Ethel Bauer rendered, with excellent effect, examples of the lighter vein of Chopin, Rubinstein, and Liszt respectively. Mr. Harold Bauer distinguished himself by a brilliant performance of Tartini's "Trille du Diable," and Mr. Herbert Walenn did justice to Fischer's "Czardas." These pieces, so admirably calculated to manifest the talent of the three principals, were interspersed by the creditable vocal efforts of Miss Daisy Defries and Mr. Paul Mahlendorff.

The Catford Choral Society gave its first Concert at St. James's Public Hall, Forest Hill, on the 15th ult., when Professor Stanford's graphic and stirring Ballad "The Battle of the Baltic" received a spirited and commendably accurate rendering. Four unaccompanied part-songs were sung with greatly varying success: Mr. Charles Wood's delightfully fresh and engaging "Full fathom five" was enthusiastically encored and repeated, but in Mr. F. Corder's charming "I love the jocund dance" a breakdown was nearly caused through the tenors flattening suddenly at a crucial point. A feature of more than local interest was the production of five songs (two of them as encores) by Mr. A. Davidson Arnott, a young Scottish composer of exceptional talent. They were sung con amore by two gifted members of the choir, Mrs. Alfred Furse and Mr. W. H. Coltart, who did full justice to an exacting task. Mr. Alfred Furse was the Conductor.

Miss Winifred Jones gave a Violin Recital on November 25, at Steinway Hall, in the presence of a numerous audience. The young lady, who, we believe, made her début before a general public on this occasion, showed herself in the possession of all those qualities which go to the making of an excellent executive artist; her technique being well advanced, her tone sympathetic, and her artistic feeling that of the true musician. Her programme, too, was well chosen, including a Sonata by Leclair (ably seconded on the pianoforte by Miss Maud Jones), Vieuxtemps's "Bohémien," and Bach's Concerto for two violins and pianoforte, in the admirable interpretation of which latter the Concert-giver was assisted by Miss Maud Jones and Herr Peiniger. Mr. Warner Hollis contributed solos on the flute, and Mr. B. Pierpoint vocal numbers; Mrs. R. Evans varying the musical performances by some well-received recitations.

An interesting Concert was given, on the 6th ult, at Paddington Baths Hall, by the Paddington Choral and Orchestral Association, a newly-formed Society, under the conductorship of Mr. George G. Beale, Organist of St. John's, Paddington. The principal pieces in the programme were Dr. Bridge's settings of the Lord's Prayer and of the late Lord Tennyson's poem "Crossing the Bar" (conducted by the composer), the performances concluding with Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," the solo parts in which were ably declaimed by Miss Kate Cove, Miss G. Moore White, and Mr. James Gawthrop. Both choristers and instrumentalists (the latter supplemented on this occasion by members of the Chandos orchestra) acquitted themselves on the whole very creditably of their not altogether easy task, and furnished a good augury for the artistic future of the young Society.

MR. HAMISH MACCUNN, on the 19th ult., conducted the first of a series of three Concerts of the new Orchestral Society in connection with the Hampstead Conservatoire. The works selected for the occasion were naturally not of a very intricate character, though they sufficiently indicated the quality of the instrumental material it has fallen to the lot of Mr. MacCunn to control. The seventy-five performers included a few professionals, particularly in the departments not ordinarily favoured by students. The Overture to "Oberon," the Ballet Air in G of the "Rosamunde" music, the "Peer Gynt" Suite of Grieg, and other compositions were executed with a fair amount of precision and with praiseworthy obedience to the Conductor's wishes. Berlioz's beautiful "Return, return unto my bosom," was very expressively sung by Miss Charlotte Russell.

MR. RICHARD MACKWAY'S Concert at Princes' Hall, on the 8th ult., was well attended. The services of a choir were enlisted, the boys rendering in bright style and with due expression Lord Mark Kerr's setting of "Hark! the lark" and Bishop's "Hark! each Spartan hound," and joining some adults in Borrow's Christmas part-song "Ring out, glad Bells," the final verse of the latter being repeated by desire. Mr. Mackway was set down for two songs—Blumenthal's "Requital" and E. A. Sydenham's "Annice"—and his tasteful vocalisation evoked an encore, answered with "Come into the garden, Maud." Mr. Maurice Koopman skilfully played a couple of violoncello solos, and Miss Louise Weaver's singing of "Nobil Signor" was cordially approved; as was also Mr. Gilbert Thorne's rendering of Sullivan's "Thou'rt passing hence." There were several other performances by pupils of Mr. Mackway.

THE following prizes have been competed for at the Royal Academy of Music during the past month: the Heathcote Long Prize, awarded to Fritz W. Read, Cuthbert H. Cronk being highly commended; the Sainton-Dolby Prize, awarded to Edith Hands, Rose Dafforne and Vena Galbraith being highly commended; the Bonamy Dobree Prize, awarded to Gertrude M. E. Hall; the Westmoreland Scholarship, awarded to Arthur Appleby, Tom James and F. B. Ranalow being highly commended; the Potter Exhibition, awarded to Catharine Rodbard; the Hine Gift, awarded to Stanislaus Szczepanowski; the Rutson Memorial Prize, awarded to Florence Bethell, Blanche Powell being commended; the Robert Cocks Prize, awarded to Edith Greenhill, Georgina Ascough and Ethel Horton Smith being highly commended.

A DECIDED novelty in the way of musical performances was given at the Chiswick Vestry Hall on the 20th ult., by the pupils and friends of Westbourne House School, Turnham Green, when "Acis and Galatea" was performed in costume. The music, however, was sung from the copies, but, in view of the danger attending any attempt by amateurs to sing Handel's difficult music from memory, the apparent incongruity was excusable as a choice of two evils. The performance of the music, on the whole, was distinctly creditable, and the singing of Miss Jennie Given as Galatea, Mr. G. Johnson as Acis, Mr. C. H. Mapp as Damon, and Mr. J. D. Mackenzie as Polyphemus was highly meritorious. Mr. T. King Holtham conducted, and Miss L. James at the pianoforte rendered efficient aid.

LITTLE more than formal record is required concerning Mr. Sarasate's Concert on the 19th ult. As usual in his chamber performances, he was assisted by Madame Berthe Marx, and the two artists, after giving a somewhat ultra-refined performance of Schumann's Sonata in A minor (Op. 105), were heard to the fullest advantage in Goldmark's melodious and genial Suite in E (Op. 11). Mr. Sarasate's principal solo was Dvorák's set of four Slavonic Dances (Op. 72), which he played with his customary brilliancy and perfect technique. The rendering of Chopin's Sonata in B minor by Madame Marx was a trifle cold, but very pure and delicate in style. It is almost superfluous to add that St. James's Hall was full, and that both performers were called upon for more than was set down for them.

THE Advent performance at St. Paul's Cathedral of the "Last Judgment" was given on the 6th ult., and again all the space available under the Dome and in the Nave was occupied. As in former years, the choir was solely that of the Cathedral and the limited instrumental force now employed in lieu of the organ to supply the accompaniments. To such a capable body Spohr's choruses, of course, presented no difficulties; but none the less recognition is merited of the evident earnestness of all assembled beneath the bâton of Dr. Martin, who, as usual, conducted from the Lectern. Mr. Hodge presided at the organ. The 50th Psalm was sung (with organ accompaniment) to a chant by Purcell and the "De Profundis" to a chant by Felton.

THE Special Advent Services at St. Marylebone Parish Church, begun on the 1st ult., consisted of a liberal selection from Mozart's "Requiem," and of Schumann's too seldom heard "Advent Hymn." It is Canon Barker's custom to impart freshness to these Services by making a change each year in the works performed, and on this occasion he could scarcely have provided a happier combination than the fervent appeals to Divine mercy comprised in Mozart's deathless work and the noble hymn of the later composer that breathes such Christian hope. Messrs. Francis Lloyd and Henry Bailey were the tenor and bass soloists respectively, and the choir sang steadily. Mr. W. Hodge conducted and Mr. Herbert Hodge was at the organ.

THE eighth annual Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians will be held in London from the 2nd to the 6th inst. There will be a reception by the Council at the Midland Hotel on the 2nd inst., and on the following day the opening meeting will take place at the Egyptian Hall, Mansion House, when the Lord Mayor will preside. Lectures and addresses will be given by Mr. W. G. McNaught, Mr. A. J. Hipkins, Dr. H. Hiles, Mr. Carte, Mr. Dolmetsch, Dr. F. J. Campbell, and Dr. F. Merrick. The chair will be occupied at the various meetings by Sir John Stainer, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, and Mr. J. L. Roeckel. The Conference will terminate with the banquet indispensable to British gatherings.

SPOHR'S "Last Judgment" and Mozart's "Requiem" Mass have been given at St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road, during the past month, on the 4th and 18th ult. respectively. The performances were in each case impressive, and were largely attended. Miss Gertrude Izard, Miss Mary Tunnicliffe, Miss Molsom, Mr. Gilbert Denis, and Mr. Fred. Winton being answerable for the solos. "The Messiah" is announced for performance on the 15th inst. This church has only an endowment of £100 per annum. The congregation is almost entirely poor, and consequently these performances have to be self-supporting.

AT St. Peter's, Eaton Square, on the 1st ult., the "Last Judgment" was rendered in a very praiseworthy manner, under the direction of Mr. de Manby Sergison, who has established a reputation for the musical services at this church. Presiding himself at the organ, the attention paid by the choir to light and shade afforded unmistakable proof no less of the confidence he had inspired than of the ability with which the junior members had been trained. The choral portions throughout went with spirit and precision, and the solo quartet was efficient. Under such circumstances, Spohr's smooth and deliciously melodic strains could not but exert their accustomed influence.

AT the meeting of the Musical Association, on the 13th ult., Mr. W. Ashton Ellis read a paper on "Richard Wagner's Prose," Mr. C. A. Barry taking the chair. After touching upon the excellent translations by Mr. Dannreuther of the "Beethoven" essay, &c., Mr. Ellis discussed the genius of the Prose itself, dividing it into five groups, which appeared at periodic intervals of about ten years, and tracing the influence of Weber, H. Heine, L. Feuerbach, Schopenhauer, Constantin Frantz, &c., upon the style of the several groups. A discussion followed, in which the Chairman, Messrs. E. F. Jacques, G. Bernard Shaw, Wesché, Hoeffler, and P. H. Newman took part.

M. ALEX. GUILMANT gave a most brilliant Recital at the Parish Church, Hornsey, on Wednesday, the 14th ult., his masterly performance being listened to attentively by an immense congregation. The programme included Bach's well-known Toccata in F major, several charming compositions of his own, in which he is always heard at his best, and a very neat improvisation on the theme of the old Advent hymn tune "Helmsley." The choral work consisted of Mendelssohn's "O come, let us worship," and extracts from Benedict's "St. Peter," "How great, O Lord," and "The Lord be a lamp."

AN excellent performance of Prout's Cantata "Damon and Phintias" was given at the Borough Road New College, Isleworth, on the 16th ult., under the direction of Mr. E. Barkby, Vice-Principal and Music Master. The band and chorus, numbering seventy-five, consisting for the greater part of the senior students, acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner; and the solo singers, Mr. Sanderson as Damon, Mr. W. S. Johnson as Phintias, and Mr. A. J. Bevan as Dionysius gave evidence of careful training and considerable promise for the future.

THE Oratorio Choir of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, gave two very impressive performances of Spohr's "Last Judgment" on the 11th and 14th ult. The choruses were very finely rendered by the well-balanced choir of 120 voices. Master Sydney Lovett gave a very devotional interpretation of the treble solos, and Messrs. Gawthrop and Pope gave complete satisfaction in the tenor and bass parts. Mr. Henry W. Richards, the Organist of the Church, accompanied, and Mr. James Bates, Choirmaster, conducted.

THE eighth season of the Woodside Park Musical Society opened with a performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," on the 8th ult., at the Woodside Hall. The solos were well rendered by Miss Teresa Blamy, Miss Mary Morgan, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. Bridson; Miss F. Johnson, Miss Conder, Mr. J. P. Leech, and Mr. Johnson assisting in the Quartets. The accompaniment consisted of a professional string quintet, led by Mr. Henry Lewis; harmonium, Mr. H. D. Wetton; and pianoforte, Miss Preston. Mr. Alfred J. Dye directed the performance.

SPECIAL Services have been held this Advent at the fine new Parish Church, Hornsey, when on two occasions (the 1st and 22nd ult.) Spohr's "Last Judgment" has been effectively rendered by the choir, which numbers about fifty voices. The choral work evinced careful training, and the solo portions were ably sustained by Master Brown, Messrs. Oliver, L. Fryer, and Crouch. Mr. H. J. Gresham, of Hampstead, supplied the organ accompaniments with skill and taste, and Mr. H. J. Baker, Organist of the Parish Church, conducted.

THE first Concert of the Ravenscourt Choral Society was given on Thursday, the 15th ult., at St. Luke's Schoolhouse, Shepherd's Bush, when an excellent rendering of Gade's "Spring's Message" was given, as well as several part-songs. The choir, which numbered fifty voices, has made capital progress under the able direction of Mr. Frank Braine, and we look forward with interest to the next Concert, on the 25th inst., at the Athenæum, Shepherd's Bush, when Cowen's "Rose Maiden" will be given.

MR. C. E. MILLER brought to a close the series of Organ Recitals at St. Augustine and St. Faith's Church—to which we referred in our last issue—on Monday, the 19th ult., with a performance of Basil Harwood's fine Organ Sonata in C sharp minor. In all, in addition to this work, six Sonatas by Rheinberger and four of the most important Preludes and Fugues by Bach have been included in the programmes, which have been entirely free both from Offertoires and Marches.

THE London Male Voice Club, under the able and energetic direction of Mr. W. de Manby Sergison, gave an enjoyable Smoking Concert on the 20th ult., at Anderton's Hotel. An excellent selection of madrigals, glees, and part-songs was rendered by the choir in a manner reflecting great credit on their Conductor; and agreeable variety was afforded by songs effectively sung by Mr. James Leyland and Mr. W. Holker Boult, and pianoforte solos by Mr. Gilbert Tozer, a very promising young pianist.

DR. GARRETT'S Cantata the "Two Advents" was very successfully rendered by the choir of St. Saviour's, Brixton Hill, on the 16th ult., assisted by Miss Annie Matthews. An effective addition to the organ accompaniment of Mr. J. H. Olding was the introduction of a harp, played by Mr. J. P. Attwater. At the close of the Service a short Harp and Organ Recital was given. A large congregation was present.

A PLEASING circumstance took place at the end of the Autumn season of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, when the ladies of the English chorus presented a handsome writing desk to their Chorusmaster, Mr. F. Stedman, accompanied by an illuminated address, signed by each of them, forty in number, in which they expressed their sincere thanks for his kindness to them and painstaking efforts in training them so successfully.

ORGAN Recitals, consisting exclusively of the music of Bach, were given at St. Anne's, Soho, in aid of the Organ Fund, by Mr. E. H. Thorne, on the 15th and 22nd ult. On the 2nd inst. Mr. S. Reay of Newark, and on the 5th inst., Dr. Mann of Cambridge will give Recitals. On the second occasion Bach's Motet "Be not afraid" will be sung by the choir. The Recitals take place at 8 p.m.

MR. W. M. WAIT'S Missionary Cantata "St. Andrew" was rendered at St. Andrew's Church, Fulham, on St. Andrew's Day, this being the Dedication Festival. The soloists, members of the church choir, sang their various parts effectively, and the choruses were given with precision by the combined forces of the church and the ladies' choir. There was a large congregation, who joined in the hymns which occur in the Cantata. Mr. W. M. Wait accompanied.

THE South-West Choral Society gave a performance of Barnby's "Rebekah" on the 5th ult., in the Lavender Hill Congregational Church, accompanied by organ and strings. The soloists were Miss Aubrey and Messrs. Maskell Hardy and Frank Millward. Mr. A. Bond conducted.

H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES has been graciously pleased to accept a copy of Mr. W. M. Wait's new Christmas Cantata "God with us," just published by Messrs. Novello and Co.

REVIEWS.

Thoughts upon the Musical Sense in Animals and Men. No. X. of "Essays upon Heredity and Kindred Biological Problems." By Dr. August Weismann. Vol. 2. Edited by E. B. Poulton and A. E. Shipley. Authorised translation. [Oxford: The Clarendon Press.]

THIS closely reasoned essay is a contribution to that department of literature which Mr. Grant Allen has so happily named "Physiological Æsthetics," and a most valuable contribution it is—one which all who are concerned with musical education will, we hope, read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest at the earliest opportunity. Regarding man from the evolutionary standpoint, Dr. Weismann seeks to explain the nature and origin of the musical faculty. The question of the origin of music is, of course, not new. More than a hundred years ago Rousseau had suggested that it must be sought in language—in excited speech; and a similar explanation has been adopted and urged with his usual persuasiveness by Mr. Herbert Spencer. "This hypothesis," says Dr. Weismann, "has met with little acceptance, and may now be looked upon as an abandoned position." We are glad to hear it. Most certainly music is not a product of speech. There is every reason to believe that a rude kind of vocal "music" (expressive nature-music, of course; not music as an art-form, however primitive) existed long before spoken language. The origin of the latter, as Professor Max Müller has clearly shown, is identical with that of "thought," properly so-called—i.e., the power of forming abstract concepts or general ideas. It must, therefore, be of much later date than that of the expressive nature-music just referred to. Of course when we pass this stage and concern ourselves no longer with the origin but with the development of music and speech, it becomes obvious that the influence of the latter upon the former has been very great—but this is altogether another matter. Whether the origin of music, as an art, is to be sought in these vocal expressions of emotion, as Darwin suggested, or is due to the rhythmic impulse in man, as Dr. Wallaschek with much ingenuity maintains, may, however, be left undecided for the present, since Dr. Weismann's enquiry is directed to the origin and development not so much of music as of the musical sense. His conclusions, it must be admitted, are at first a little startling. He holds that man has no special "musical sense" at all. Man has a fine auditory apparatus, developed by "natural selection" in the usual way, and it so happens that this can also be used for hearing music. "But," says our author, "it is clear that the understanding of our highest music not only needs the auditory apparatus and auditory centre, together with the life-long training of these; something besides is absolutely indispensable—a mind that is sensitive, impressionable, and highly developed. . . . It is therefore impossible that a lost Beethoven ever existed among primitive man. . . . For the production of a Beethoven there is needed not only a highly developed musical sense, but also a rich and great soul, one that is infinitely sensitive; and we know by experience that such a nature is only to be found among the very highest intellects." Dr. Weismann thinks we may safely assume that, as the great civilized nations of antiquity possessed such intellects, "they also possessed a capacity for music in all respects equal to our own." How then, it will be asked, can we explain the poverty of their music? This, he says, is due to "the complete distinction between music and musical talent. . . . Music is an invention and rests upon tradition." Its slow and gradual development has not resulted from any increase of the musical faculty, but solely from our "power of transmitting the intellectual achievements of each generation to those which follow."

Trios, Quartets, &c., for Female Voices. Nos. 255-264. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

THE demand for good part-music suitable for female voices only has undergone an enormous increase during the past few years, and conductors of ladies' choirs are naturally very glad to make acquaintance with new compositions of merit, as the available repertory is still limited, though it is steadily increasing. The first of the above-named series is "Four Angels," by C. A. Macirone, and is a setting of the familiar nursery rhyme "Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John." It is appropriately serious in character, but melodious, and the three-part writing is full of musicianly touches. The same composer's "Mistress Mary" is a version of another nursery rhyme, of course lighter in style, being a tuneful and tripping little piece in 6-8 measure. No. 257, "Rejoice, for Love is Lord," by A. C. Mackenzie, is the charming and musicianly two-part chorus written for Mr. Robert Buchanan's poetic drama "The Bride of Love." The orchestral accompaniment is arranged for pianoforte duet by Mr. Battison Haynes, with ad lib. parts for triangle and cymbals. Another selection from the same incidental music is the duet "O thou divine," a bridal piece of a piquant and unconventional type. The next three numbers of the set are brief sketches by P. C. Buck, varying from three to four pages each. No. 259, "The Wood Nymphs' Call," is written with remarkable taste and is slightly suggestive of Schumann. The close is as charming as it is unconventional. The next is a simpler but equally musicianly setting of Blake's lines, commencing "I love the jocund dance." More original than either is the third, "Weep you no more, sad fountains," a singularly effective little piece in F sharp major and minor, partly unaccompanied. Mr. Buck is evidently of opinion that ladies' choirs are capable of something better than smooth progressions in thirds and sixths, and we have no doubt that his confidence will meet with its due reward. No. 262 is Henry Smart's "Sweet the Angelus is ringing," a refined, melodious composition already familiar to most choirmasters, as it is taken from the late composer's Cantata "King René's Daughter." No. 263 is Mr. Edward German's setting of "Orpheus with his Lute," from the incidental music to "Henry VIII.," written for the Lyceum production. It is an unpretentious but very pleasing and musicianly trio, and was always received with warm applause during the run of the play. The last of the series for the present is "Maidens of Zia," by Herbert Bunning, a beautiful setting of verses by Thomas Moore, the effect of the flowing and elegant part-writing being greatly aided by the bright accompaniment.

Novello's Part-Song Book. Second Series, Nos. 650-655. [Novello, Ewer & Co.]

HERE we have another series of compositions by Professor Villiers Stanford, being settings of Elizabethan Pastorals. No. 650, "To his flock," is a sad but pleasing example in the madrigalian rather than the part-song manner, and with a distinct archaic flavour. The second, "Corydon, arise!" is a most delightfully piquant quartet described as "Phyllida's love-call to her Corydon, and his replying." Throughout the sopranos and contraltos are answered by the tenors and basses, after the manner of Ravenscroft's "In the merry Spring." The piece should command extensive popularity. "Diaphenia," or "Damelus' Song to his Diaphenia," is another bright and cheerful ditty, simpler than the last, but very fresh and unaffected. The fourth, "Sweet love for me," or "Damætas' Jig in praise of his love," may pair off with "Corydon, arise!" It is equally dainty and full of odd changes of time measurement, and the final cadence, consisting of the dominant, mediant, and tonic chords, has a peculiar effect. "Damon's Passion" is a lament for unrequited love and the music is appropriately mournful and pathetic. In the last of the series, "Phœbe," or "Montanus' praise of his fair Phœbe," we return to a cheerful mood, and the piece may compare in freshness and charm with any of the numbers. From the date on this series, "August, 1892," the composer would seem to have penned them as a sort of holiday task. He could not have employed his leisure to greater advantage, for, since Pearsall, more delightful examples of the madrigalian art have not appeared.

FOREIGN NOTES.

THE one-hundredth performance of Glinka's opera "Rousslane et Ludmilla" was celebrated at the Marie Theatre, St. Petersburg, on the 11th ult., in the presence of many of the leading representatives of modern Russian music, including MM. Tschaikowsky, Rimsky-Korsakow, César Cui, Glazounow, and many others. In the course of the evening the bust of the deceased composer was crowned with a laurel wreath, while his venerable surviving sister, Madame Schestakow, now in her eighty-third year, who was present, was made the object of a perfect ovation on the part of the enthusiastic audience.

M. Charles Lamoureux, the well-known Paris orchestral conductor, is just now conducting a series of Concerts at St. Petersburg and Moscow, instituted by the Imperial Musical Society of Russia.

A new Orchestral Society for the cultivation of symphonic works and chamber compositions has just been formed in Paris, under the direction of M. Eugène d'Harcourt, a young musician with Wagnerian predilections. A new concert hall is being prepared for the accommodation of the Society, which styles itself the "Concerts éclectiques Symphoniques."

M. Camille Saint-Saëns's Biblical opera in three acts, "Samson et Dalila," which had been in preparation for some considerable time past, was brought out at the Paris Opéra on November 23 last, before a highly appreciative audience, the performance being described as an excellent one. M. Saint-Saëns's important work was originally produced at the Weimar Court-Theatre in 1877, where it met with a good success, and was subsequently performed at the Paris Eden Théâtre some two years ago.

A very successful first performance is reported to us from Brussels of a new opera, entitled "Maître Martin," brought out on November 30 last at the Théâtre de la Monnaie. The somewhat weak libretto, from the pen of M. Eugène Landoy, is founded upon Hoffmann's charming story of "Meister Martin der Küfer," and the music is composed by M. Jan Blockx, already favourably known as the composer of a ballet, entitled "Milenka." He is a pupil of M. Peter Benoit, and a Belgian by birth.

Madame Alboni, the distinguished prima donna, celebrated, last month, at her Paris residence, the fiftieth anniversary of her first appearance on the operatic stage—viz., at Bologna, where the great singer made her début, under the auspices of Rossini. A large concourse of the élite of Society assembled on the occasion in the salon of the lady, who herself contributed, in her best style, several vocal numbers to the musical programme of the evening. Madame Melba, who had expressly come over from London, also took an active part in the proceedings of a most interesting, social, and artistic gathering.

At a meeting last month of the Vienna Tonkünstler-Verein a number of unpublished compositions by Robert Schumann obtained a hearing, some of which, it was understood, would soon be made available to the general public.

A new opera, "Frauenlob," by Herr Reinhold Becker, has met with a very favourable reception on its recent first performance at the Dresden Hof-Theater.

The first performance in Germany of Umberto Giordano's three-act opera "Mala Vita" took place, on the 13th ult., at the Kroll'sche Theater, of Berlin, with every indication of a great success. The interpretation of the principal female part by Signora Bellincioni is said to have aroused unbounded enthusiasm.

A new Symphonic Poem by Herr August Fischer, of Dresden, entitled "Gretchen im Dom," the poetic basis of which has been suggested by the Cathedral scene in Goethe's "Faust," was performed in Concert-rooms in Switzerland last month, where it attracted the attention of connoisseurs on account of its marked individuality.

Anton Rubinstein's opera "Die Kinder der Haide" was performed on the 2nd ult., for the first time, at the Municipal Theatre of Bremen, with good success. The composer, who conducted in person, was received with enthusiasm by a numerous audience.

The course of instruction at the newly established operatic school in Bayreuth will be carried on, for the present, by Herr Kniese in the vocal, and by Fräulein Marianne Brandt in the dramatic department. The number of pupils at the opening was twenty two.

An interesting genealogical table of the great Bach family has just been published at Gotha, under the auspices of the active and patriotic Boehner-Verein.

Professor Johann Kruse will take the place of second violin in the Berlin "Joachim" Quartet vacated by the late Heinrich de Ahna.

A two-day musical festival is to be held, for the first time, in June next, at the ancient Reichstadt Worms, under the direction of Professor Gernsheim and Herr M. D. Kiebitz.

Another one-act opera, entitled "Vardhamana," has just scored a success on its first performance at the Court Theatre of Cassel, and is being mounted by several other lyric stages of the Fatherland. The composer is Herr Bruno Oelsner, a member of the orchestra of the Darmstadt Hof-Theater.

Edvard Grieg has accepted an invitation to conduct a series of concert performances of his own compositions at the Chicago Exhibition. Dr. Hanslick, the Viennese critic, Johannes Brahms, and Dr. Joachim have also been invited by the Exhibition committee as representatives of German musical art.

Leoncavallo's successful two-act opera, "I Pagliacci," was brought out under the title of "Der Bajazzo," on the 5th ult., at the Berlin Royal Opera, and met with a highly favourable reception. At the conclusion of the performance the Emperor summoned the composer to the Royal box, and informed him that he had telegraphed to Rome to King Humbert to express the pleasure he had derived from the opera.

The centenary of the foundation of the Berlin Royal Opera was celebrated, on the 6th ult., with a gala performance, consisting of fragments from operas by the most celebrated German composers—viz., one act each of "Orfeo," "Le Nozze di Figaro," "Der Freischütz," "Fidelio," and the Finale from "Götterdämmerung." The proceedings opened with a Prologue in verse by Herr Emil Taubert, spoken by Fräulein Lindner.

A new opera, entitled "Atenaida," by Signor Adolfo Tirindelli, a violin professor at the Liceo musicale Benedetto Marcello, of Venice, was brought out in that town last month, in the presence of a distinguished audience, and obtained a complete success. It is the first operatic venture of the composer in question.

A monument has just been erected at Massa (Toscana) to Bernardo Pasquini, one of the most famous of Italian organists, among whose pupils were Durante and Gasparini. Pasquini was born at Massa in 1637, and died at Rome, 1710.

The first performance at Rome of Mascagni's new opera "I Rantzau" took place on November 27, amidst demonstrations of enthusiasm on the part of the audience.

At the Costanzi Theatre in Rome a new opera, "Gualtiero Swarten," by a young composer, Andrea Gnaga, has recently been brought out, with great success. Baron Franchetti is writing a new operatic work for the same theatre, at the request of Signor Sonzogno, the libretto of which is founded upon Sardou's "Fernande."

CORRESPONDENCE.

ROBERT FRANZ.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—It has been most gratifying to every admirer of this great composer to read the appreciative notices that have appeared in the English and American papers respecting him. The German papers I have not seen, but Germany is always tardy in the recognition of the genius of her own sons, and Franz, like Mozart, Schubert, and Schumann, has been, and probably will be, a sufferer from this cause. Liszt, by his transcription of several of Robert Franz's songs, and by instituting, with the aid of the late Baron Senft von Pilsach and others, a series of Concerts to raise a fund of 40,000 thalers in order to make Franz independent, was the first to call the closer attention of the public to this lyric composer. Through the instrumentality of the late Otto Dresel, his compositions, as well as his arrangements of Bach and Handel's Arias, were largely introduced into America. In the year 1873 a Concert was given in Boston, U.S.A., to contribute towards the fund raised on behalf of Franz, and a Committee, consisting of the late Professor Louis Agassiz, John S. Dwight (the eminent critic), the late Otto Dresel, Henry L. Higginson (who organised the Boston Symphony Concerts), and myself undertook to receive subscriptions. The total amount realised and added to the fund was $4,381.

Though I never met Robert Franz, I was for years in correspondence with him, and on looking over some of his letters it struck me that a few extracts would be of interest to the musical public. I venture, therefore, to translate one or two.

On February 11, 1884, he wrote to me on the subject of composition and said:—

"The modern Lyric demands a form as limited as possible, which dispenses with everything that is superfluous, thus leaving more to inference, instead of expressing the flow of thoughts to the last drop. This tendency we see not only in modern poetry, but in its sister art, modern music, and in both it is characteristic. When the two arts, therefore, are combined, as in songs, it follows that the music must grow out of the text and must not be wedded to it without having any relation to it. And as every good text has a seed from which everything springs, so must the music to it also aim at a gradual developing process; and thus you will find in my songs a certain motive as a ground plan from which all else emanates. Further, the melody must be strictly in harmony with the words and the rhythm must only in very exceptional cases change; finally, the harmony must be based on the diatonic system. The last I hold especially important, because, now-a-days, it is sought to represent originality by modulations which are forced and foreign. These fundamental principles have guided me in my compositions, and I have never had reason to repent that I have always followed them to the utmost of my ability."

On February 8, 1889, he wrote:—

"Although the musical tendency of the English public is known to me only from a distance, I have not the least doubt that in Albion the public is treated to a great deal of trash that seems to it to sound well, for all old countries are prejudiced against innovations or new elements.

America is virgin-soil which willingly takes in what is offered: that it also takes in trash that is offered is not to be denied, but the force of this is soon spent, because that which is poor can have no long existence amidst nations that strive forward. Do not imagine, however, that Germany is an El Dorado in this respect, because trash-music is also consumed here en masse ('man macht viele Musik-erlebt jedoch keine!'). The good people want to be amused for their money; to be educated in art, or by means of it, does not entice them. If you knew how solitary and alone I am, and how embittered my life is here in Halle, you would hardly believe it. Sometimes a sympathetic word and genuine interest comes to me from abroad, but generally makes the impression as if alms were given to a beggar. This, after awhile, becomes habit—one gradually seeks, heedless of advice, to crawl into one's own shell, and finds consolation in the thought that better men have fared worse."

On his seventieth birthday he seems to have been in a different mood, for he wrote:—

"The 28th June has brought me ovations in presence of which I stand stupefied. From all parts of the world I have received addresses—over 200 letters and seventy telegrams. The greater portion I have to answer personally, although my lame arm protests. That I have lived to see my artistic efforts thus appreciated in wide circles, and that those good friends of mine who have faithfully stood by me in bad times may also feel a sense of satisfaction, gives me unspeakable joy. Say this to Dresel and others; I cannot write, though the spirit is willing; my head is in a whirl. I know not where to begin and where to end."

On another occasion he wrote:—

"Art must always preserve an aristocratic dignity: at least, that is the principle I have always endeavoured to follow with my own humble powers."

I fear I have already trespassed on your space, and hence abstain from quoting more; but I think you will agree with me that these extracts are of great interest to every musician and everyone aspiring to become one.—Yours, &c.

Sebastian B. Schlesinger.

45, Albert Gate, S.W.,
December 16, 1892.

THE MUSICAL GRADUATES UNION.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—It appears to me that some little misunderstanding exists as to what really constitutes a British musical Graduate. Mr. Hemy seems to take it for granted that his own degree, obtained in London, comes within the pale of this title. However this may be, I myself understood the suppression of the issue of Toronto degrees in this country to mean that they were illegal, and therefore to imply that they were illegitimately conferred. This idea seems to me to be considerably strengthened by the fact that so many of the Toronto men have since turned to Durham. Why did they do this? Surely, if they considered their Toronto degree of equal value to any other, they would not do the work over again for the "fun" of the thing! But, because objection was taken to these degrees, I don't see any reason why one should therefore conclude that the work done for them was in any way inferior, or that those who obtained the degrees were in any shape or form influenced by the idea of getting graduation by a new and royal road. Let us suppose the London College of Music instituted a musical degree. Its requirements might be even stiffer than any of our Universities, but, unless it possessed a Royal Charter granting to it the legitimate right to confer such a degree, how could you do otherwise than call that degree illegitimate? And if this view be correct, then, in like manner, when a University possessing a limited Charter outsteps these prescribed limits, its actions—in so far as it attempts to overstretch its chartered powers—must also be considered illegitimate. And it appears to me that this is the view of the matter our home Universities have taken. Not that the degrees in themselves are illegitimate, but that they have not been granted within the limited powers conferred by the Charter.—I am, &c.,

Alfred Wm. Tomlyn,
Mus. Bac. (Durham).

5, Bridge Street,
Berwick-on-Tweed.

MOTION AND MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—One of the short articles in your last issue touches on a most interesting subject—the effect of motion upon musical thought. It is possible that the old saying, "many a true word is spoken in jest," may be applied to the writer's pleasant words on the effect of railway travelling. I have long been possessed by the idea that the motion of the train does influence the mysterious vibratory system that is so intimately connected with music.

I once put the question to our old friend the late Sir George Macfarren—"What do you think about when you are in a railway carriage?" "Think about?" replied he with a laugh, "why I never thought what I did think about; but now you ask me, I can tell you; I am always making up canons." Clearly in Professor Macfarren's mind Motion and Music were connected. It would be very interesting indeed if in your columns you would repeat the question and elicit answers from any of our living composers who take interest in such matters. It is just possible that a side light may thereby be thrown on incidents in the lives of great composers.—I am, &c., Bilbrough. J. Powell Metcalfe.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.*

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Basingstoke.—The first Concert this season of the Choral Society was given in the Town Hall on the 13th ult., when Niels Gade's Cantata The Erl-King's Daughter, Mendelssohn's Motet Hear my Prayer, and a miscellaneous selection were performed. The solo vocalists were Miss Blanche Powell, Miss Grace Richardson, and Mr. Charles Copland; accompanists, Mrs. H. Seymour and Mr. Frank Hollis; Conductor, Mr. H. E. Powell.

Berkhampstead.—The Church Choral Society gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 7th ult. Part 1 was miscellaneous, including Handel's "Ye tutelar gods," the dialogue and ballad from Act I. of Dr. Parry's Judith (Miss Janet Tatham), songs by Liszt and Gounod (admirably sung by Miss Whitfield), and the last three movements of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, played by the Conductor. Part 2 consisted of Stanford's Revenge, sung con amore and with a fair measure of success by the chorus. Pianofortes and a harmonium were used in place of a band. The Rev. C. J. Langley conducted.

Cleethorpe.—The Choral Society gave its first Concert this season in St. Peter's Schoolroom on the 15th ult. This Society has now reached its third season, and the Concert, at which Romberg's Lay of the Bell was very creditably rendered, was a distinct advance upon previous efforts. The solos were well sung by Miss Lily Pearce, Mr. E. Dunkerton, and Mr. John Browning; whilst the band, under the leadership of Mr. W. J. Browne, accompanied with admirable precision, ably assisted by the pianist, Miss Midgeley. The Concert, which was well attended, was under the conductorship of Mr. C. W. Godson, Organist of St. Peter's Church.

Hayes, near Bromley.—Organ Recitals are being given fortnightly at the Parish Church, under the direction of Mr. Hugh Birny, the Organist. On the 3rd ult. a Meditation for strings and organ, by Mr. G. C. Birny, was performed; and on the 17th ult. Mr. W. de M. Sergison was the recitalist.

Ilford.—The band and chorus of the Vocal Union gave the first Concert of its eighth season, consisting of Handel's Messiah, on the 1st ult. Miss Kate Fusselle, Miss Dora Barnard, and Mr. Arthur Strugnell were the soloists. Most of the choral work was excellently done, especially "And the Glory," "For unto us" (re-demanded), "Lift up your heads," and "Hallelujah"; and the band was efficient in the accompaniments. Mr. A. Storr conducted, as usual.

Ipswich.—The annual Concert and Prize Distribution at the High School for Girls took place on the 16th ult., when the prizes were distributed by Lady Frederick Cavendish. The Concert was conducted by the music mistress, Mrs. A. L. Cunningham, and possessed a great deal more artistic interest than is usual on such occasions. Canons by Brahms, choral pieces by Bach, and a chorus from Wagner's Flying Dutchman were included in the programme, and were executed with excellent skill and precision. In his report Mr. John Farmer said that the musical training given in the school was remarkable for its excellence, an opinion which was certainly endorsed by all who were present at the Concert.

Linlithgow, N.B.—A most successful Concert of Sacred Music was given in the Free Church, on Monday, the 12th ult., by the choir of the Church, under the able direction of Mr. James Newton, its Conductor. They were assisted by Misses Frew, Allan, and Baird, and Messrs. Dakers, Melville, and Rankin. Mr. William Wardrop, Organist, Kingscavil, acted as accompanist.

Londonderry.—The Carlisle Road Choir opened its fourteenth season by a performance of Samson, in the Guildhall, on the 6th ult., before a large and appreciative audience. These choralists, under the training of Mr. George Anderson, are making great strides towards perfection in choral singing, their rendering of "Round about the starry throne," "Fixed in His everlasting seat," and the noble "Let their celestial Concerts" being highly creditable to them and their popular Conductor. The principals were Miss Macdonald, Miss Brown, Mr. R. M. Patterson, and Mr. Jno. Horan, jun. Mr. Patterson's performance of Samson made a most favourable impression. Mr. J. H. Dunlop presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. H. P. Dixon at the organ efficiently. Mr. George Anderson conducted.

Loughton.—A special Advent Service was held in St. John's Church on the 7th ult. Mr. Henry Riding gave an Organ Recital of compositions by Bach, Jackson, Schumann, Capocci, Clark, Hewlett, Riding, and Petrali to a large and attentive congregation. The choir rendered vocal music with great credit to Mr. F. Brand, the Organist of the Church.——The Choral Society gave its first Concert of the season in the Hall of St. John's College on the 14th ult. Alice Mary Smith's Ode to the North-East Wind, and selections from Cowen, Percy Godfrey, Pinsuti, Gounod, and Eaton Faning were sung, under the conductorship of Mr. Henry Riding. The accompanist was Mr. J. H. Lauer.

Ludlow.—The Choral Society gave a Concert on the 13th ult., consisting of Handel's Ode on St Cecilia's Day, Mendelssohn's Hear my Prayer, and a miscellaneous second part, consisting of Tennyson's poems, set to music by various composers. The principals were Miss Marjorie Eaton and Mr. Edward Kemp, both of whom were very successful, especially Miss Eaton, who gave very fine renderings of all her solos. In the second part, amongst other pieces, Miss Eaton sang Sullivan's "St. Agnes' Eve," Mackenzie's "Song of love and death," and "What does little birdie say?" most artistically. The orchestra was led by Mr. Watkis, and Mr. Humfrey Anger conducted.

Madeley, Salop.—On the 20th ult. the Choral Society, now in its seventeenth season, gave a very fine performance of Samson to a large audience, in the Anstice Memorial Institute, with a band and chorus of ninety. The principals were Mdlle. Vagnolini, Miss Emily Dones, Mr. J. Wright, and Mr. W. J. Ineson. Mr. Smart, of Newport, conducted, as usual, with skill and care.

Reading.—The Berkshire Amateur Musical Society gave a morning Concert on the 7th ult. The chorus and orchestra numbered 150. The programme contained Handel's Organ Concerto (No. 4) in F, with orchestral accompaniment (solo organ, Mr. J. C. B. Tirbutt). Songs were given by Miss Pattie Hughes, and a Ballad, for chorus and orchestra, The Phantom Ship, music by J. C. B. Tirbutt, who, with Mr. Charles Griffiths, conducted a most successful Concert.——The Philharmonic Society gave for its first Concert of this season Handel's Messiah, on the 12th ult. The soloists were Miss Emily Davies, Miss Mary Reeves, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail. Leader of the orchestra, Mr. A. F. Rippon; Organist, Mr. J. C. B. Tirbutt; Conductor, Mr. W. H. Strickland.

Rochdale.—The Amateur Orchestral Society opened its twenty-first season with a Subscription Concert, in the Town Hall, on November 30, Mr. S. Myerscough most ably conducting. The artists engaged were Miss Marjorie Eaton and Mr. Selmar Farnow. Miss Eaton gave a delightful rendering of Dr. Mackenzie's songs "Hush thee, my babie," and "If love were what the rose is," and of Mascagni's "Ave Maria" (with full orchestral accompaniment). She also gave Mendelssohn's "Infelice" with considerable dramatic power and expression. Mr. Farnow was also very successful in his violoncello solos.

Ryde, I.W.—On the 5th ult. the Choral Union gave an excellent rendering of Rossini's Stabat Mater, under the skilful direction of Miss Margaret Fowles, who has been Honorary Conductor of the Society since 1874. Rossini's work was sung with remarkable accuracy and finish, and a carefully selected orchestra gave admirable assistance. Miss Fowles must be heartily congratulated. A special feature in the second part of the programme was the singing of Dr. Bridge's "Crossing the Bar" by the four soloists, Miss Clara Dowle, Miss Ethel Bevans, Mr. Clifford Hunnybun, and Mr. Franklin Clive. These gifted artists (with Miss Margaret Fowles) met with a most enthusiastic reception at the hands of a large and critical audience.

Sedbergh.—The Musical Society gave its third Concert on the 8th ult., the programme consisting of Handel's Messiah, under the conductorship of Mr. P. A. Thomas. The solos were taken by Miss L. Dawson, Miss L. Bowmont, Mr. W. Anstice, and Mr. A. Thomas. The band and chorus numbered about 100, and did their work excellently, the chorus being particularly successful. Their attack, tone, and finish were most praiseworthy, more especially so in the "Hallelujah" and "Amen" choruses.

Southport.—On the 16th ult. the Southport and Birkdale Philharmonic Society gave a performance of The Messiah. The principals were Miss Nellie Gosnell, Miss Jeanie Rankin, Mr. Dyved Lewys (in the place of Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys, who was unable to sing through illness), and Mr. W. H. Brereton. The chorus, numbering 297, gave fine renderings of "Hallelujah," "For unto us," "Let us break," and "Worthy is the Lamb." Mr. W. Minshull was the leader of a good orchestra of forty. Mr. T. Halsall was the Organist, and Mr. H. Hudson the Conductor.

Sowerby Bridge.—The Creation was given in the Town Hall on the 20th ult., by the Choral Society, with Miss Bessie Holt, Mr. C. Blagbro, and Mr. Gordon Heller as principals. The performance was altogether the best the Society has yet given, and the house was crowded. There was a full band and chorus, under Mr. Gaukroger's direction.

Surbiton.—A most successful Concert was given at the Assembly Rooms, on the 14th ult., by Miss Louise Weaver. Miss Weaver, a contralto of much promise, contributed several songs during the evening, including Balfe's "The Arrow and the Song," Meyerbeer's "Nobil Signor" (Gli Ugonotti), and Morley's "It was a lover and his lass." She was ably assisted by Miss Jane Hungerford, Messrs. Richard Mackway, Gilbert Thorne, and Isidore Marcil. Mr. Maurice Koopman contributed two solos on the violoncello. Mr. Allan Clark officiated as accompanist.

Tiverton, N. Devon.—On Monday, the 12th ult., the Choral Society gave its third Concert, Cowen's Rose Maiden occupying the first part of the programme, the second part being miscellaneous Both chorus and orchestra have much improved since their last Concert, and gave an excellent rendering of Cowen's charming music. The solos were admirably sung by Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Gertrude Hicks, Mr. Dean Trotter, and Mr. S. T. Bishop. Mr. Lewis Mackenzie led the orchestra, and Mr. Allan Allen conducted.

Warwick.—The Warwick Musical Society gave its first Concert of the season on the 5th ult., with great success. The choral works chosen were Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm and Schubert's Song of Miriam; these, with Gounod's "Nazareth," formed the first part of the programme. The latter was sung by Mr. Santley, who on this occasion made his first public appearance in Warwick, and created tremendous enthusiasm. The Hon. Mrs. Robert Lyttelton (to whom the Society is indebted for her father's appearance) sang the solos in the Psalm and the Song of Miriam magnificently, and later in the evening joined Mr. Santley in Mozart's "Crudel, perché." Mr. Santley also sang "Maid of Athens" and "O ruddier than the cherry," and (as encores) "To Anthea" and "Simon the Cellarer." He was in capital voice, and received quite an ovation at the close. The chorus, under its Conductor, Mr. W. H. Bellamy, sang with unusual spirit and expression. The Rev. T. H. Davis, and Messrs. Booker, Jack, Tibbitts, T. Ward, and W. Warren also gave welcome assistance—both vocal and instrumental.

Westport, Ireland.—On the 14th ult. a high-class Concert was given here by Mr. G. F. Mountford, Organist of the Parish Church. The programme included Bach's song "My heart ever faithful," M. V. White's "When passion's trance," and a fine new song, "Pinewood moanings," by Mrs. M. A. Fivey, of Westport; part-songs by Schumann, Mendelssohn, Dr. John H. Gower, and Mr. G. F. Mountford; Grieg's Sonata in F (Op. 87), Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, and a new Sonata for pianoforte and violin in D minor, by Mr. Mountford. The vocalists were Miss Burns, Miss Gibbons, and Mrs. Mulligan; solo violin, Mr. H. Franklyn; solo pianoforte, Mr. George F. Mountford. The Concert was a great success.

Whitby.—The Choral Society gave The Messiah on the 15th ult., with Mozart's accompaniments. Great local interest was shown in this, the first full choral and orchestral performance of the work in Whitby. A very large and delighted audience remained to the final "Amen." The competent soloists were Misses Vinnie Beaumont and L. Sweeney, and Messrs. Firth and Dawson, York Minster. Mr. T. J. Hoggett was at his post, and Mr. H. Hallgate, again, for the twelfth successful season, conducted. Mr. Rennison, the Honorary Secretary, carried out his work excellently.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Hedley Carus, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Michael and All Angels' Church, North Kensington.—Mr. F. Hatson Wright, Organist and Choirmaster to Enniscorthy Parish Church, co. Wexford.—Mr. Graham Vining, Organist and Choirmaster to the Cathedral, Nelson, New Zealand.—Mr. R. Vaughan Botwood, to the Parish Church, West Felton.—Mr. George H. Swift, to Kintbury Church, Hungerford.—Mr. Alfred H. Allen, Organist and Choirmaster to Potterne Church, Devizes.—Mr. Charles E. Lewis, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Peter's, Rochdale.—Mr. A. D. Swift, Organist and Choirmaster to St. George's-in-the-East.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. David Watkins, Choirmaster to Manor Road Presbyterian Church, Stoke Newington.—Mr. Arthur E. Burry (Alto), to St. Peter's, Eaton Square.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS ANNIE NORTHCROFT (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 38, Gunter Grove, Chelsea.

C. EMLYN JONES (Tenor)
MADAME EMLYN JONES (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 348, Kennington Road, S.E

MR. CHARLES ACKERMAN (Bass Baritone)
(Soloist, Westminster Abbey and St. Peter's, Eaton Square),
73, Eccles Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.
"'Last Judgment' (Spohr) at St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—The quartet of soloists all did well, but we cannot help saying that the gentleman by whom the bass solos were sung is an artist with qualifications for a high position. He has a good voice, and uses it as a vocalist should, while, in point of expression, he leaves scarcely anything to desire."—Daily Telegraph, London, Dec. 2, 1892.
"'Elijah.'—Mr. Ackerman showed himself to be a finished singer."—Daily Gazette, Exeter, Dec. 21, 1892.

MISS GRACE DAMIAN begs to announce her CHANGE of ADDRESS to 4D, Oxford and Cambridge Mansions, Hyde Park, W.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

TAYLOR, FRANKLIN.—Progressive Studies for the Pianoforte. Edited, arranged in groups, and the fingering revised and supplemented. Paper cover, 1s. each Book.

Book		Book
1.	Five-Finger Studies. Part 1.	17.	Velocity .. Part 1.
2.	" " " " 2.	18.	" .. .. " 2.
3.	Scales .. .. .. " 1.	28.	Shakes .. .. .. " 1.
4.	" .. .. .. " 2.	29.	" .. .. .. " 2.
5.	Broken Chords.. .. " 1.	31.	Double Notes .. .. " 1.
6.	" " .. .. " 2.	32.	" " .. .. " 2.
7.	" " .. .. " 3.	35.	Octaves .. .. .. " 1.
10.	Left Hand .. .. " 1.	36.	" .. .. .. " 2.
11.	" " .. .. " 2.	37.	Chords .. .. .. " 1.
14.	Arpeggio .. .. " 1.
15.	" .. .. " 2.

ROGERS, ROLAND.—"Florabel." (A fairy tale.) A Cantata. For Female Voices. Written by EDWARD OXENFORD. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

ROGERS, EDMUND.—"The Forest Flower." A Cantata. For Female Voices. The words written by SPENCER HENRY. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

WAIT, W. M.—"God with us." A Sacred Cantata. For Soli and Chorus, with Organ or Pianoforte Accompaniment. Especially suitable for Christmas. The words selected and arranged by T. STIRLING LEE. Paper cover, 2s.

MOFFAT, ALFRED.—"A Christmas Dream." A Cantata for Children (with Action). The words written by K. R. MOFFAT. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

SCHARTAU, HERBERT, W.—"Christmas Holidays." A Short Musical Sketch. Suitable for the breaking up of Schools. The words written by J. A. CAMPBELL. Paper cover, 9d.

GRAY, ALAN.—"Arethusa." Poem by SHELLEY. Set to music for Baritone Solo, Chorus, and Orchestra. First Violin, 1s.: Second Violin, 1s.; Viola, 1s.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s. 6d.

SELBY, B. LUARD.—Four Rispetti. From Miss FRANCESCA ALEXANDER'S "Roadside Songs of Tuscany." Paper cover, 2s.

HIGHAM, S. STAGOLL. The Choirboy's Pocket Book. A simple explanation of the Rudiments of Music, with some hints on singing, prepared especially for boys. Cloth, 1s.

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 7. "Christmas Time." Two-part Song. By B. MANSELL RAMSEY. "The Wassail Song." Arranged for Soprano and Alto, by W. G. MCNAUGHT. "The Christmas Tree." Junior Unison Song. By S. C. COOK. Studies in Chromatic Tones, Exercises in Changing Key. 1½d.

NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK.

No. 121.	Benedictus (Chant Form) in D	F. J. READ	1½d.
" 122.	Benedictus (Chant Form) in F	J. VARLEY ROBERTS	1½d.
" 123.	Benedictus (Chant Form) in D	J. VARLEY ROBERTS	1½d.
" 124.	Benedictus (Chant Form) in C	J. VARLEY ROBERTS	1½d.
" 125.	Benedictus (Chant Form) in G	J. VARLEY ROBERTS	1½d.

MITCHINSON, BISHOP—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. Unison Chant Service. Organ copy, 2d.; Melody only, 1d.

BIRCH, ARNOLD.—Kyries, Chants, and Hymn Tunes (as sung at St. John's Church, Notting Hill). Paper cover, 6d.

BAKER, ALFRED S.—"O God, who hast prepared." Anthem. For Four Voices. (No. 418. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

CULLEY, ARNOLD D.—"Ponder my words, O Lord." Anthem. For Four Voices. Suitable for Trinity, or general use. (No. 45. Novello's Short Anthems.) 1½d.

DYE, A. J.—"Ave! Atque vale!" Part-Song. The words written by DORA M. JONES. 6d.

MORGAN, VINCENT.—"Praise waiteth for Thee, O God." Full Anthem. 3d.

RAYNER, FRED.—"Who is this?" Hymn. For Contralto Solo and Chorus. (No. 417. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

WOOD, CHARLES.—"Precamini Felicitatem." Grace Anthem. Composed for Commemoration Days of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge. 6d.

WOODS, F. CUNNINGHAM.—"Jesu, Who from The Father's throne." Anthem. For Soprano Solo and Chorus. For Feast of Circumcision, or Christmastide. (No. 46. Novello's Short Anthems.) 3d.

SANGSTER, WALTER H.—"It fell upon a night." Christmas Carol. The words by WILLIAM A. BATHURST. 2d.

SLAPE, J. HARRAWAY.—"Hush'd are the winds on the hill-side." Christmas Carol. For Four Voices. The words written by WINIFRED FORSYTH. 1½d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

FISHER, ARTHUR C.—"Oh, wherefore do ye sing for mirth?" A Christmas Carol. Words by F. C. FISHER. 1d.

MCNAUGHT, W. G.—Popular Christmas Carols. Arranged for Two-part Singing. Words only, 1½d.

ASHWORTH, A. H.—"The Blue-Bottle's Fate." Four-part Song. (No. 661. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—"Crossing the Bar." Sacred Part-song for Men's Voices (A.T.T.B.) Poem by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 4d.

GILL, W. H.—"Three Merry Maids." Part-song. Written by EDWARD OXENFORD. 4d.

JOHNSON, W. NOEL.—"Love wakes and weeps." A Four-part Song. The words (from "The Pirate") written by Sir WALTER SCOTT. (No. 632. Novello's Part-song Book.) 2d.

MCNAUGHT, W. G.—"Ye banks and braes." Scottish Air. Arranged for Four Voices. (No. 664. Novello's Part-song Book.) 1d.

MÜHLFELD, C.—"Faithlessness." A Two-part Song. The words from the German by A. BRIAND and C. KARLYLE. (No. 61. Novello's Octavo Edition of Two-part Songs for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "Roger and Maggie." A Three-part Song. The words from the German by A. BRIAND and C. KARLYLE. (No. 272. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

REYNOLDS, W. JOHN.—"Crossing the Bar." Poem by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. Set to music for Four Voices (S.A.T.B.). 2d.

ROBERTS, J. VARLEY.—"Come, my dear one, share my gladness." A Four-part Song. For Men's Voices. The words written by W. D. SCULL. (No. 251. The Orpheus.) 2d.

ROGERS, ROLAND.—"March like the Victors." Choral March. For Four Voices. The words written by AMELIA RIDGWAY. (No. 662. Novello's Part-song Book.) 3d.

STEPHENS, WILLIAM.—"Give place, you ladies." A Four-part Song. (No. 643. Novello's Part-song Book.) 2d.

WAGNER.—Finale, Act III. "Tannhäuser." (No. 102. Novello's Opera Choruses.) 6d.

CARNELL, FRANCIS DRAKE.—"My own." Song. The words written by H. CANOVA. 2s.

CHEETHAM, F. H.—"Crossing the Bar." From "Demeter." The poem written by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. No. 1, in E minor. 1s.

NUGENT, MARY E.—"To Delia." Song. The words from POPE. 2s.

PARSONS, BENJAMIN.—"O Time and Change." Song. The words written by W. E. HENLEY. 2s.

SCHLESINGER, SEBASTIAN B.—"Mourn in Hope." Lines, on the death of H.R.H. The Duke of Clarence and Avondale, by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 2s.

—— "Lady, let the rolling drums." Song. The poem written by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 2s.

VINCENT, CHARLES.—Alice's Song, "Why did I sing that old song?" From "Marton House." Words by ARCHDEACON CHISWELL. 2s.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

			s.	d.
No. 166.	Church Preludes (Nos. 1, 2) ..	R. E. BRYSON	1	0
" 167.	" " (Nos. 3, 4) ..	"	1	0
" 168.	" " (Nos. 5, 6) ..	"	1	0
" 169.	Postlude in G	H. ELLIOT BUTTON	1	0

CALKIN, GEORGE.—Soft Voluntaries for the Organ. Book 15. 2s. 6d.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

ERNEST, GUSTAV.—"All the year round." 9d.

ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral (late Master of the Choristers' School and Choirmaster, Voluntary Choir, Manchester Cathedral), is open for Engagements at Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), or as Choir Trainer. Disengaged on Sunday Evenings. Address, 76, Burgoyne Road, Harringay Park, N.; or, The Cathedral.

ST. COLUMB'S CATHEDRAL, Londonderry.—WANTED, an ALTO (£30 per annum) for above Cathedral. Services twice on Sundays and a few special days during the year; also a Leading Boy for the Cantoris side. Salary, £20 per annum, with board and education. Good voice and fair reader of music indispensable. Apply, with testimonials, to Dr. MacCullagh, Londonderry.

WANTED, an ALTO, for the Choir of All Saints' Church, Blackheath. £20. Apply to Mr. C. E. Tinney, 12, Lee Park, Blackheath, S.E.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The New Year	9
Cambridge Musical Degrees	10
From my Study	11
Beethoven's Sketch Books	14
The Music Hall in Excelsis	16
Occasional Notes	16
Mr. Swinburne's Ode	18
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	18
Mr. Cowen's New Opera	20
Royal Opera, Covent Garden	21
Royal Choral Society	22
London Symphony Concerts	22
The Bach Choir	22
Middlesex Choral Union	22
Crystal Palace Concerts	23
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	23
Royal Academy of Music	24
Royal College of Music	24
Guildhall School of Music	25
Amateur Orchestral Concerts	25
Thursday Subscription Concerts	26
Mr. Paderewski's Recital	26
Messrs. Hann's Chamber Concerts	26
The Musical Guild	26
The London Institution	26
"The Dream of Jubal" at Plymouth and Brighton	27
Dvorák's "St. Ludmila" at Bolton	27
Obituary	27
Music in Birmingham	28
„ Bristol	28
„ Dublin	37
„ Edinburgh	37
„ Glasgow	37
„ Liverpool	38
„ Manchester	38
„ Nottingham	39
„ Oxford	39
„ Yorkshire	39
„ America	40
Humorous Four-part Song—"To the Audience" Hamilton Clarke	29
General News (London)	41
Reviews	43
Foreign Notes	44
Correspondence	45
General News (Country)	46
List of Music published during the last Month	48

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion, Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-THIRD

OF EACH MONTH.

TENOR (Solo and good Reader). £20. Usual services. Thursday practice. For St. Gabriel's, Willesden Green, N.W. Address, H. B., 12, Cranleigh Villas, Willesden Green, N.W.

BASS SINGER (not Baritone) would give services in return for situation in any position of trust. Powerful voice. Well trained and experienced in Church music. Communicant. Married. Testimonials from two Clergymen. Address, Bass, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, of ten years' experience, desires RE-APPOINTMENT. Good salary and good field for Teaching. Address, B. H., Holsworthy, Devon.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

DR. H. KEETON'S

NO. 5.—CHURCH AND CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD.
Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net, post-free. Just issued.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS,
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS
FOR LADIES' VOICES.

SCHOOL SONGS, WITH PIANO ACCOMPANIMENT
FOR GIRLS' OR BOYS' VOICES IN UNISON
BY ALFRED REDHEAD.

SONGS FOR CLASSES
EDITED BY ALFRED J. CALDICOTT.

Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S
NEW EDITION OF
STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,

Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.
"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.
151 Numbers ready. List on application.

ALSO "CLASSICAL MUSIC" (NEW SERIES)
SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY
ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,
Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.
72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES.
BEST'S COLLECTION OF ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.
New Editions. Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN
BY DR. E. J. HOPKINS AND DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.
This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN MUSIC.

NEW COMPOSITIONS BY EMILE SAURET, JOHANNES WOLFF, OTTO PEINIGER, AND TIVADAR NACHÈZ.
List on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.
Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR.
Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.
Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS.

CROSSING THE BAR
BY LAWRENCE KELLIE. 2s. net.
The latest and most popular setting of the late Lord Tennyson's Poem.
"Appropriately solemn and impressive."—Whitehall Review.
"A simple and attractive composition."—Academy.
"Will linger on the memory wherever it is heard."—Daily News.

BY FRANCES ALLITSEN.
EIGHT SETTINGS OF POEMS BY HEINE. In four parts, containing two Songs each ... each part 2s. net.
FALSE OR TRUE. Words by CLIFTON BINGHAM ... 2s. net.
APART FOR EVERMORE. Words by CARIS BROOKE ... „
A SONG OF THE FOUR SEASONS. Words by AUSTIN DOBSON ... „
WARNING. Words from the German of H. LINGG ... „
KING AND SLAVE. Words by ADELAIDE PROCTOR ... „
Each Song issued in two or more Keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for Lauriston Place U.P. Church, Edinburgh. Candidates must be qualified to teach Theory and Practice of Music, Train Choir, and conduct Psalmody Association. Salary, £60 per annum. Testimonials and references to be lodged not later than January 7, 1893, with Mr. G. Graham, 21, Forrest Road, Edinburgh, from whom printed conditions of engagement may be obtained.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT. Parish Church experience. Accustomed to choral service. Highest references. Address, Berlioz, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ARTICLED PUPIL REQUIRED, with premium. Must be able to play an ordinary Parochial service, for which a stipend will be given. Address, Dr. Arnold, Cathedral Organist, The Close, Winchester.

PIANOFORTE MASTER.—A Certificated Pianist and Teacher of the Royal Academy of Music, and for nine years Professor at a leading London Musical Institution, having spare time, seeks an ENGAGEMENT as PROFESSOR at a School or Musical Academy. Highest references. Address, Professor, Llanwarne, Belmont Park, Lee, S.E.

A FIRST-CLASS TUNER, TONER, REGULATOR, and SALESMAN WANTED. A good opportunity for a thoroughly competent Man. Apply, personally or by letter, stating salary and all particulars, to C. Curtis, 28 and 29, Baker St., W.

TUNER requires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Well up in Repairs of Pianofortes, Harmoniums, and Americans. Thirteen years' experience. Apprenticeship served with John Brinsmead. Address, A., 56, Mardol, Shrewsbury.

AN efficient TUNER and REGULATOR WANTED. One able to thoroughly repair Pianos, American Organs, and Harmoniums. Good wages to a competent man. Apply, Auto-Harp, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a Berth as First-class REPAIRER. Twenty years' experience in all branches except tuning. H. W. H., 7, Dillwyn Street, Swansea.

WANTED, a SALESMAN for a Music Warehouse in the Midland Counties. Must have knowledge of Sheet Music and small goods and be able to show a Piano. Apply stating age, salary required, with photo, to G. L., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN for SALE. Three manuals, nearly new. 20 stops, spotted metal, 8-ft. front, pedal organ complete, Bourdon, oak case with stool, concave pedals, 4 composition ditto. By HUNTER and SON, London. Gas engine and fittings if required. Appy or write, Organ, 1, Princes Road, Kennington Cross, London, S.E.

CC ORGAN, now in Acocks Green Church. One-manual, 8 stops, including trumpet, 2 octaves pedals with Bourdon, 3 composition pedals. All pipes enclosed in general swell. Ornamental case with gilded pipes. £50. BANFIELD, Birmingham, Builder. Apply, Thomas Grainge, Acocks Green.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

BOEKELMAN'S EDITION
OF BACH'S FUGUES

PRINTED IN COLOURS.

In this Edition the essential parts of each Fugue—viz., Subject, Answer, Counter-subject, Episodes, &c., are each printed in a distinct colour, with a view to helping the Student to a clear understanding of the structure and form of the composition.

Book I. contains—

Vol. 1.	Fugue 3, C sharp major.	Vol. 1.	Fugue 10, E minor.
„ 1.	Fugue 4, C sharp minor.	„ 2.	Fugue 7, E flat.

Book II. contains—

Vol. 1.	Fugue 1, in C.	Vol. 1.	Fugue 21, in B flat.
„ 1.	Fugue 7, in E flat.	„ 1.	Fugue 22, in B flat minor.

Price Two Shillings net each Fugue.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Sole Agents for Great Britain and the Colonies.

NEW PART-SONG for S.A.T.B.—HAIL THE NEW YEAR! By IRVINE DEARNALEY. Price Fourpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

IMPROMPTU in C sharp minor for PIANO. By WALTER J. LOCKITT. Price 1s. 6d. net.
"An interesting and cleverly-written little piece, conceived in the true spirit of the Impromptu." . . . "Instinct with classical feeling."—Keyboard. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

FLORABEL
(A FAIRY TALE)
A CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
Written by EDWARD OXENFORD.
COMPOSED BY
ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE FOREST FLOWER
A CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
SPENCER HENRY
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
EDMUND ROGERS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SEVEN SONGS
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
J. STAINER.

CONTENTS:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

"It is refreshing, after wading through countless specimens of the ordinary British ballad, to come across a set of songs so artistic in design as those contained in the album labelled 'Seven Songs,' by Sir John Stainer. . . . Amateurs on the look-out for something really good may confidently be recommended to devote their attention to these admirable songs."—Morning Post.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

A SONG OF LIFE
(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS
BY
ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In the Press.

CANTATA
SET TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM
CROSSING THE BAR
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA, CHORUS, AND PIANOFORTE
BY ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String and Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).
Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.
Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

IMPORTANT SALE
OF COPYRIGHT AND PLATES.

THE WHOLE OF

R. P. Paine's Compositions

Are now OFFERED at a very great REDUCTION, in order to effect an IMMEDIATE SALE.

Compare former with present price.

Octavo size.	Pub. Price	Red. Price
THE PRODIGAL SON (a Cantata). Paper cover ..	2 6	0 9
" " Red cloth, gilt edges ..	4 0	1 6
Band parts for do.—1st and 2nd Violin, Cello, and Bass. 4 Books	6 0	2 0
GREAT IS THE LORD (Psalm)..	1 0	0 4
THE LORD IS GREAT (Psalm)..	1 0	0 6

SONGS.

THE FISHERMAN'S WIFE	3 0	0 9
THE WIND AND THE WAVES	3 0	0 9
WHEN THE SOFT SUNSET. In F and G ..	3 0	0 9
THREE SONGS	3 0	0 9

The Engraved Plates for the Songs, each 5s.

The whole of the above, if taken at once, is open to any reasonable offer.

All letters relative to offers addressed to R. P. Paine, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, London, W.

N.B.—The Words of the Songs by C. BELLAMY are R. P. Paine's own Copyright, but, if desired, can be purchased at a reduction, excepting the one entitled "When the soft sunset."

MUSIC DEALERS.—Collecting orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.
Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.
A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.
500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.
The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.
Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'ALMAINE and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

TO COLLECTORS.—For SALE, the VIOLONCELLO made by FOSTER, Sen., for George the Fourth, and played by him. Elaborately painted in front with Royal Arms and Prince of Wales's badge and motto; on the side, "Liberty and Loyalty." Fine tone and in beautiful preservation. For price apply to Cello, care of C. Fletcher, Esq., Tower House, Branksome Park, Bournemouth.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.

RUMMENS'
ORGAN
PEDAL ATTACHMENT
FOR
PIANOFORTES.

NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR
AT THE
INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.

NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER AND CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

SHEET MUSIC.

TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.

120,000 COPIES
OF
SONGS, PIANOFORTE PIECES, AND DANCES
(The best Editions, all clean and saleable)
TO BE SOLD, IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES.
100 Copies, mixed, 8s. 4d.; 500 Copies, 40s.; 1,000 Copies, 70s.
Sample Parcel, 20s. worth, Post-free, 1s.

WILLIAM LEA,
50 AND 52, CHURCH STREET, LIVERPOOL.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

Just Published.

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS
A SHORT MUSICAL SKETCH
SUITABLE FOR THE BREAKING UP OF SCHOOLS
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
J. A. CAMPBELL
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY HERBERT W. SCHARTAU.

Price Ninepence.
(Music in both Notations.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

A CHRISTMAS DREAM
A CANTATA FOR CHILDREN (WITH ACTION)
THE WORDS WRITTEN BY
K. R. MOFFAT
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY ALFRED MOFFAT.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
(Music in both Notations.)

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HOLIDAY SONGS
Written by C. F. ALEXANDER
MUSIC BY LADY ARTHUR HILL.

Reduced price, 2s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SACRED SONGS
FOR LITTLE SINGERS
WORDS BY F. R. HAVERGAL.
MUSIC BY A. RANDEGGER.

Illustrated, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE SUNLIGHT OF SONG
A COLLECTION OF
SACRED AND MORAL SONGS
With original Music by the most eminent Composers, with 46 Illustrations, cloth, gilt, 5s.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NATIONAL NURSERY RHYMES AND SONGS
BY
J. W. ELLIOTT.

With 65 Illustrations, and elegantly bound, cloth, gilt, 7s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ON SALE, half-price, Vols. 1, 2, and 3, "STONE'S CLASSICAL ORGANIST"; also Best's "Organ Pieces for Church use." 1 Vol. All well bound and good as new. 36s. the lot. W. Brooke, Organist, Lytham, Lancashire.

THE TRUTH about STAMMERING.—Any one interested will receive the latest information and important books on the cure, on loan, post-free, without charge, from Ithuriel, Messrs. Deacon's, 154, Leadenhall Street, E.C.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

ANTHEMS, &c.

*All ye who weep	Ch. Gounod	3d.
Blessed are they that mourn	A. W. Batson	3d.
Blessed Jesu, Fount of Mercy	Anton Dvorák	6d.
*Come and let us return	John Goss	3d.
*Come unto Him	Ch. Gounod	2d.
Come unto Me	M. Kingston	1½d.
Come unto Me	J. Stafford Smith	1½d.
*Comfort, O Lord, the soul of Thy servant	Crotch	1½d.
Daughters of Jerusalem	H. J. King	3d.
Day of anger	Mozart	6d.
Distracted with care	Haydn	4d.
*Enter not into judgment	Attwood	1½d.
For our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*God so loved ("Crucifixion")	J. Stainer	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	J. Booth	1½d.
Have mercy upon me	James Shaw	3d.
Have mercy upon me	C. Steggall	6d.
He in tears that soweth	Hiller	1½d.
*Incline Thine ear	Himmel	1½d.
*In Thee, O Lord	B. Tours	3d.
In Thee, O Lord	Weldon	3d.
In Thee, O Lord	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Is it nothing to you? (Two-part Anthem)	M. B. Foster	2d.
I will cry unto God	C. Steggall	3d.
Like as the hart	T. Adams	3d.
*Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	Farrant	1½d.
Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	G. Rayleigh Vicars	1½d.
Lord, I call upon Thee	J. E. West	1½d.
Lord, on our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Make me a clean heart	J. Barnby	3d.
My God, look upon me	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
O come near to the Cross	Ch. Gounod	8d.
O day of penitence	"	6d.
O have mercy upon me	Henry Leslie	1½d.
O Lamb of God	G. E. Lake	1½d.
*O Lord, my God	C. Malan	1½d.
*O Lord, my God	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
O Lord, rebuke me not	H. Lahee	1½d.
O saving Victim	Ch. Gounod	4d.
O saving Victim	Berthold Tours	1½d.
O Saviour of the world	John Goss	1½d.
*Out of the deep	J. Naylor	4d.
Out of the deep	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
Rend your heart	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
*Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*Spare us, Lord most holy	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
The sacrifices of God	Hugh Blair	1½d.
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
Thus saith the Lord	G. Garrett	6d.
*Turn Thee again	Attwood	1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	"	1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Turn Thy face from my sins	C. Steggall	1/6
Unto Thee have I cried	George Elvey	3d.
Word of God Incarnate	Ch. Gounod	3d.

Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.

THE VERSICLES & RESPONSES
AS USED IN
ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL
(FERIAL USE)
EDITED BY
J. STAINER, Mus. Doc.,
AND
G. C. MARTIN, Mus. Doc.
Price Fourpence.

THE PRECES and RESPONSES, with LITANY,
According to TALLIS.
ARRANGED FOR FOUR VOICES,
BY JOSEPH BARNBY.
Price Fourpence.

THE FERIAL RESPONSES, with LITANY.
Edited by
JOSEPH BARNBY.
Price Fourpence.

THE PRECES and RESPONSES, with LITANY.
Set in Monotone.
THE SIMPLEST FORM OF AN INTONED SERVICE.
BY JOSEPH BARNBY.
Price Fourpence.

THE PASSION OF CHRIST. Set to music by G. F. HANDEL. Octavo, paper cover, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) Set to Music by JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. Set to Music by JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH. Abridged Version, as used at St. Paul's Cathedral. Octavo, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; Book of Words, with Music to the Chorales, 6d.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. John.) Set to Music by JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of our Saviour on the Cross.) Set to Music by J. HAYDN. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of our Saviour on the Cross.) Set to Music by CH. GOUNOD. Octavo, paper cover, 1s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. ("Der Tod Jesu.") Set to music by C. H. GRAUN. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE BENEDICITE
SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING
MODERN COMPOSERS.

GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
HUGH BLAIR	1½d.
J. F. BRIDGE, JAMES TURLE, and Dr. HAYES	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (with a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
PERCY H. FROST	2d.
HENRY GADSBY	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)	1½d.
W. HUGHES	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1)	1½d.
GEORGE C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G) each	4d.
C. E. MILLER	2d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
C. E. MILLER (third setting)	2d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. DE LACEY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.
S. S. WESLEY (easy setting)	2d.
J. BARNBY, JOHN FOSTER, MONTEM SMITH (two settings), J. TURLE (two settings)	1½d.
C. A. WICKES (two settings)
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION
OF
Responses to the Commandments
EDITED BY
GEORGE C. MARTIN,
ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.
Bound in Cloth, Five Shillings; or, 47 Numbers at Twopence each.

THE MISERERE, &c., as used in St. Paul's Cathedral Lenten Services. Arranged by J. STAINER. 8vo. Price 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. The music composed by J. BARNBY. 8vo. Price 6d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. Set to the well-known Ancient Chant, as arranged and harmonised by VINCENT NOVELLO; from the Appendix to the Accompanying Harmonies to the Brief Directory of Plain-song, by the Rev. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A. Price 2d.

PASSION MUSIC

FROM THE ORATORIO "ST. PETER"

BY

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

VOCAL SCORE
PRICE ONE SHILLING & SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE CRUCIFIXION

A MEDITATION

ON THE

Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer

THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. W. J. SPARROW-SIMPSON, M.A.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

This Work is an attempt to supply the want long felt of an easy and short form of Passion Music suitable for use in ordinary parish churches. It is composed for two solo voices, a Tenor and a Bass, and for the church choir. At intervals hymns occur, in which the whole congregation can join. The performance will probably not extend over forty minutes in duration, thus giving an opportunity for a suitable "address" if thought advisable. No orchestra is required, the accompaniments being specially adapted for the organ only; much of the expense usually attending Passion Services will therefore be avoided. The book of the words, for distribution among the congregation, will contain the music of the Hymns; by this means it is hoped that the congregation will be induced to take part heartily in the service.

VOCAL SCORE, PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.
PAPER BOARDS, TWO SHILLINGS. TONIC SOL-FA, NINEPENCE.
WORDS ONLY, WITH HYMN TUNES, TWOPENCE.
WORDS OF HYMNS, FIVE SHILLINGS PER HUNDRED.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ANGEL HOSTS DESCENDING

SACRED SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ADAPTED BY

ALFRED PHILLIPS

TO THE CELEBRATED MELODY FROM

"MORS ET VITA"

BY

CHARLES GOUNOD.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ABRIDGED VERSION

AS USED IN

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

OF THE

PASSION OF OUR LORD

(ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW)

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORATORIOS BY GEO. SHINN,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.
SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Tenth Thousand.

THE

CAPTIVES OF BABYLON

Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

"May be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas, and contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"Mr. Shinn is well known as the writer of many popular pieces for choral societies; but this is certainly the best thing he has produced."—Nonconformist Musical Journal.

"The libretto is well chosen, and forms a good base whereon to compose a first-rate work. With regard to the music we feel we can hardly do it justice. . . . Where all is so good it is difficult to mention any special numbers."—United Service Gazette.

Just Published.

LAZARUS OF BETHANY

Price 2s. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 3s. 6d.
Sol-fa Edition will be ready about January 20.

The above Works contain many effective Solos and Choruses of moderate difficulty, and will take about an hour and a half in performance.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MISERERE (Psalm li.), by GREGORIO ALLEGRI, as sung at the Sistine Chapel, with the English words. Arranged by Rev. H. A. WALKER. Price 6d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

PEACE; COME AWAY

Being Canto LVII. of "In Memoriam"

SET TO MUSIC

FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B.) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

Price Twopence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE EPIPHANY

OR

MANIFESTATION OF CHRIST TO THE GENTILES

A Sacred Cantata

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORGAN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

H. J. EDWARDS.

VOCAL SCORE, OCTAVO, PAPER COVER, TWO SHILLINGS.

MORNING POST.

The music composed by Dr. H. J. Edwards is a most suitable work for choral societies as well as for use in church during that season of the year for which it is designed. The matter throughout is excellent, the arrangement and adaptation of the words instructive and edifying. The solos are vocal and most effective, and the part-writing for the chorus well laid out. The Cantata is so arranged that it can be performed either in a sacred or secular building. It is also calculated to enlist attention as well as sympathy, for it is suggested that the congregation join in the opening hymn and in various other portions of the work. The whole shows the composer to be gifted in many ways, not least in the art of writing dignified and reverent melody and harmony.

MUSICAL TIMES.

Dr. Edwards in this new Church Cantata has so arranged his music that it is quite within the capacities of those choirs of moderate aspirations of which so many exist in the country. The vocal parts are easy yet full of well ordered effect, the organ accompaniment is massive and appropriate, and the whole work is full of beautiful thoughts in music, answering to the expressive and devotional words written and selected from Holy Scripture by the Rev. Thomas Russell.

CHURCH TIMES.

The music is highly reverent in style, and beautifully harmonised. Part II. is full of delicious strains, and the solo in A flat, "O Heavensent Star," must delight all who hear it, as will also the chorale immediately succeeding, "O Thou that dwellest"; and there is a charming "full" setting of Nunc dimittis at the close of the work. Conductors of choral societies and classes will do well to procure this Cantata.

MUSICAL STANDARD.

In this work we have a Sacred Cantata of no ordinary merit, and it is a pleasure to peruse a composition so finely conceived and so well wrought out. . . . There is not a single point in the work which we could wish altered; it is a worthy addition to the long line of compositions treating of various aspects of the life of Christ.

DAILY GRAPHIC.

May be strongly recommended for either performance by a church choir or small choral society. It is written in a straightforward, musicianly manner.

BRADFORD OBSERVER.

The work is divided into three sections—the Prophecy, the Journey of the Magi, and the Adoration. For principal voice parts there are two soprano recitatives and a solo, an important solo and aria for tenor, and trios for the Magi (T.T.B.), with slight incidental music for a second bass voice (Herod). Of the work for combined voices, one attractive feature is to be found in the admirably constructed recitatives, which alternate most appropriately between the tenor and bass and the soprano voices. The music of the Adoration, which forms Part III., is joyfully attuned though never blatant. The part opens with an unaccompanied quartet, "All hail," and also contains a chorus of great spirit, culminating in triumphant phrases, to which the subdued devotional setting of the Nunc dimittis, which closes the Cantata, makes a very fine contrast.

ENGLISH CHURCHMAN.

The music is descriptive, and the beautiful harmonies will well repay a careful study of the parts. The whole concludes with the grand chorus, "The Lord, even the most mighty God," while, if sung in a church, the inspired Nunc dimittis will, as is justly observed, be found a "not unsuitable end for this scene of joyful and triumphant adoration."

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

Second Edition. Third and Fourth Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.'"—The Referee.

"The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Eleventh to Fifteenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description."—Shields Daily News.

	s.	d.		s.	d.
Paper cover .. .. price	2	6	Tonic Sol-fa .. .. price	1	6
,, boards .. .. ,,	3	0	Vocal parts .. each ,,	1	0
Scarlet cloth .. .. ,,	4	0	Words only .. per 100 ,,	7	6

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

WILL BE READY JANUARY 12.

NEW MUSICAL WORK FOR THE LENTEN SEASON AND GOOD FRIDAY.

SONG OF THE PASSION

(ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN)

A SACRED CANTATA

For Solo, Recitative (Male Voices), and Chorus

WITH HYMNS INTRODUCED TO BE SUNG BY THE CONGREGATION, THE WORDS SPECIALLY WRITTEN FOR THIS WORK

BY

MILDRED GAUNTLETT

THE MUSIC BY

WILLIAM S. VINNING

MUS. BAC., CANTAB.

PRICE ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

ADVENT.—"O Lord, Thou art my God." Four voices .. .. 3d.
CHRISTMAS.—"In the beginning." " " .. 3d.
" "The Lord hath prepared." " " .. 3d.
FESTIVAL.—"I was glad." " " .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E. Chant form .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E " " .. .. 3d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. .. 1½d.
" " " A .. .. 1½d.
" " " E .. .. 1½d.

HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words .. .. 1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria .. .. " 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. " 1s. 0d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER

(PUBLIC SCHOOL EDITION)

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

Where the whole verses are to be sung by the congregation they are marked by a line at the side.
Where half-verses are to be sung by the congregation they are printed in italics.
All other verses and half-verses are to be sung by the choir only.

Cloth, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK

A SELECTION OF SINGLE & DOUBLE CHANTS

ARRANGED FOR THE DAILY PSALMS

TOGETHER WITH

SINGLE CHANTS FOR THE CANTICLES

BY

Rev. HENRY J. BIDDER, B.D.

FELLOW OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND VICAR OF ST. GILES', OXFORD,

AND

J. VARLEY ROBERTS,

MUS. DOC., OXON.,

ORGANIST OF MAGDALEN COLLEGE AND ST. GILES' CHURCH, OXFORD.

PRICE, IN PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING.
CLOTH, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO EWER AND CO.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TE DEUM IN A

CHANT FORM, VARIED ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY ARTHUR CARNALL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

VESPER HYMN. To be sung after Evensong. Words and music by GEORGE KETT. "A very charming hymn-tune."—Sir John Stainer. On card. Price One Penny.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Words alone, for congregational use, One Shilling per hundred, of the AUTHOR, 100, Gordon Road, Nunhead, S.E.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6

ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)..	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EASTER ANTHEM. Easy. Effective.

CHRIST IS RISEN

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

Commended by "Musical Times," "Guardian," "Musical News," "Musical Standard," &c.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Specimen copy free from COMPOSER, 10, Manor Road, St. John's, London, S.E.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS, &c.

BY EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. (4th 1,000) .. .. 3d.
HALLELUJAH! NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. (5th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
The above Anthems are attractive and easy.
BENEDICITE in D. Chant varied. (3rd 1,000) .. .. .. 2d.
{ PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. (11th 1,000) .. .. .. 3d.
{ THE LORD REIGNETH. New. (Sol-fa, 2d.).. .. .. .. 3d.
Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special occasion.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. (5th 1,000) .. .. 4d.
Full of vigour and flowing melody.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by DR. F. J. KARN:—

Christmas Carol ("The Virgin and Child"). Published in No. 1 of "Church Musician" Series ..		2d.
Evening Service in F (moderately difficult)		4d.
Te Deum in C (Chant form)		3d.
Six Two-part Songs for Schools	each	2d.
Prelude and Fugue in C, for Organ		2s.
Scherzino in G (Violin and Pianoforte)		3s.

Copies of the above can be obtained at 25 per cent. discount, Post-free, from the COMPOSER, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, London, N.W.

NEW ANTHEMS AND SERVICES.

BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS.

*CHRIST OUR PASSOVER (moderate) .. .. 4d.
Full, or with Solos for Soprano or Tenor.
*THIS IS THE LORD'S DOING (easy) .. .. 3d.
Bright, full, and easy.

NEW SERVICES.

*BENEDICITE IN B FLAT (shortened form) .. .. 2d.
Can be sung in half the usual time.
*Easy HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN G .. .. 4d.
With Benedictus and Agnus Dei.
The above new compositions will be ready January 12.
*KING OF KINGS. Favourite Easter Anthem. (6th 1,000) .. 4d.
BENEDICITE IN A FLAT. Sung in Worcester Cathedral. (7th 1,000) 2d.
NEW TE DEUM IN G. (6th edition) .. .. 4d.
NEW MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G. (4th edition) .. 4d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F. (43rd edition) .. .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT. (7th 1,000) .. 4d.
Those marked (*) may be had in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. Mr. Gaul's works have placed him in the front rank of English composers."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"A career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.'"—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE

GREAT DAY OF THE LORD

SACRED CANTATA

MUSIC BY W. CLARK AINLEY,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Price, in paper covers, 2s.; in paper boards, 3s.; in scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.
Leeds: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN.
Huddersfield: WOOD and MARSHALL.

To Choral Societies.

HANDEL SELECTION.

MESSRS. NOVELLO, EWER & CO. having some copies remaining of the Selection of Music performed at the Leeds Triennial Musical Festival, are prepared to supply copies at NINEPENCE EACH.

An opportunity is thus afforded to Choral Societies of acquiring an excellent selection of favourite Choruses, Solos, &c., from Handel's Works at a merely nominal price.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

BUTTERCUPS AND DAISIES

A PASTORAL CANTATA FOR CHILDREN'S VOICES

Written by EDWARD OXENFORD.

COMPOSED BY

EATON FANING.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

A PRAYER TO SLEEP. Song. The words written by PHILIP BOURKE MARSTON; the music composed by MARGUERITE MARIGOLD. Price 2s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Price 2d.; by post, 2½d.

MODERN VIOLIN MAKERS and DEALERS. By the Author of "OLD VIOLINS AND THEIR MAKERS." See MONDAY'S issue of THE BAZAAR, which also contains many other interesting Articles and hundreds of announcements of all kinds of Property for Exchange, Wanted, or for Sale by Private Persons. Price 2d., at all Newsagents and Bookstalls. Offices, 170, STRAND, LONDON.

Just Published.

Dedicated, by gracious permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

MOURN IN HOPE

LINES ON THE DEATH OF

H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CLARENCE AND AVONDALE

BY

ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON

AND SET TO MUSIC BY

SEBASTIAN B. SCHLESINGER.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

BOOK 15.

SOFT VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE CALKIN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED, SEPARATELY.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS EACH.

TWELVE NEW SONGS

BY BRITISH COMPOSERS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

HAROLD BOULTON.

	Composed by
Constancy	Joseph Barnby.
Cradle Song	Alfred Cellier.
Love's Journey	F. Corder.
Truant Wings	Frederic H. Cowen.
In Summer Weather	Charles H. Lloyd.
Robin sly	A. C. Mackenzie.
A Song of the South	Hamish MacCunn.
The Maid of Elsinore	C. Hubert H. Parry.
A Pretty Maid	Arthur Somervell.
For ever mine	C. V. Stanford.
To welcome you	A. Goring Thomas.
The Windflower	Charles Wood.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ALBUM OF SIX SONGS FOR ALL VOICES

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD.

COMPOSED BY W. H. SPEER

(Op. 1).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind! ..	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ..	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.)..	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.)..	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ..	3d.	The Dream of Home ..	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter ..	2d.
Over the mountain side ..	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
The Stormy Petrel.. ..	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ..	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES FOR S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.) ..	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS for S.A.T.B.

Hail! Merry Christmas	24th thousand	..	2d.
A Merry Christmas to you all	8th „	..	3d.
A Happy New Year	5th „	..	3d.
England's Glory, and Forest Echoes ..	8th „	each	3d.
O Anglia! land of the brave	2nd „	..	3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	9th „	..	3d.
Fairy Revels	13th „	..	3d.
I love the Merry Springtime	26th „	..	2d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	54th „	..	2d.
Sunny Rays, and The Streamlet	5th „	each	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Manchester: HIME and ADDISON.

THE CLANSMEN. By T. W. BLAKEY. "This is a stirring part-song (S.A.T.B.) dedicated to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. The music is bright and cheerful, without being commonplace."—Monthly Journal (N.S.P.M.). Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SIX

ELIZABETHAN PASTORALS

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

1. To his flocks	3d.	4. Sweet love for me	3d.
2. Corydon, arise	3d.	5. Damon's Passion	3d.
3. Diaphenia	2d.	6. Phœbe	3d.

ALSO

FOUR PART-SONGS.

1. Soft, soft wind	2d.	3. Airly Beacon	2d.
2. Sing heigh-ho!	2d.	4. The Knight's Tomb ..	2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co.

AVE! ATQUE VALE! A Requiem for Alfred, Lord Tennyson. Set to music for four or five Voices, by ALFRED J. DYE. Price 6d. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NEW QUARTET FOR LADIES' VOICES.

MUSIK ALS TRÖSTERIN

(TO MUSIC, TO BECALM HIS FEVER).

Words by ROBERT HERRICK.

For two Sopranos and two Contraltos, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

COMPOSED BY W. H. SPEER

(Op. 3).

English and German words. Price 1s. 6d.

BREITKOPF and HÄRTEL, 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.	4. The Skylark.
2. The Nightingale.	5. The Owl.
3. The Dove.	6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
„ scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BALANCE AND POSITION OF THE MODERN ORCHESTRA.—See January Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the play at the Lyceum Theatre January, 1892,

By EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.
PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO HENRY VIII.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

IN THE PRESS.
Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte, 3s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

READY IN A FEW DAYS.

THE CANDIDATES'

PRACTICAL SCALE AND ARPEGGIO HANDBOOKS

HAVE BEEN SPECIALLY ARRANGED FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS PREPARING FOR THE EXAMINATIONS (PIANOFORTE) OF THE

Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music

BY

GRAHAM P. MOORE

(Member of the Examining Staff of the Associated Board).

They have been compiled in strict accordance with the Syllabus of the Associated Board, and each Book contains full directions as to the requirements of the Examiners. They are issued in four Books, each book being complete in itself, and containing only those scales required by Candidates for their respective Examinations.

BOOK I. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS, Lower Division } Price 1/- net.

BOOK II. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS, Higher Division } Price 1/6 net.

BOOK III. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATONS, Junior Grade } Price 1/6 net.

BOOK IV. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS, Senior Grade.

This last Book is in Two Parts :—

Part 1. Scales .. .. .. Price 2/- net.
„ 2. Arpeggi .. .. .. „ 2/- „

ROBERT COCKS & CO., 6, New Burlington Street, London, W.

HAWKES AND SON,

Manufacturers of Perfected Musical Instruments, for Artists, Soloists, & Orchestral use.

THE CONCERT VIOLINS.
THE PROFESSOR VIOLINS.
THE CONCERT ALTOS.
THE CONCERT CELLOS.
THE CONCERT-PANORMO MODEL DOUBLE BASSES.
ARTISTS' VIOLIN BOWS.

BOEHM SYSTEM FLUTES AND PICCOLOS.
SICCAMA SYSTEM FLUTES.
PRATTEN MODEL FLUTES.
FLUTES AND PICCOLOS, OLD SYSTEM.
ALBERT MODEL CLARINETS.

BOEHM SYSTEM CLARINETS.
ARTISTS' MODEL CORNETS.
ECHO CORNETS.
EUPHONIUM AND HORNS, FOR ORCHESTRAL USE.
THE PROFESSOR SIDE DRUM, FOR ORCHESTRAL USE.

CORNETS, HORNS, EUPHONIUMS, BASSES, and DRUMS, for MILITARY, REED, and BRASS BANDS.

TUTORS, TUTORS, TUTORS.

PUBLISHERS OF OTTO LANGEY'S TUTORS FOR

	s.	d.		s.	d.		s.	d.
Violin	2	6	Cornet	4	0	Euphonium	4	0
Viola	4	0	Clarinet	4	0	Bombardon	4	0
Violoncello	4	0	Oboe	4	0	Tenor Slide Trombone ..	4	0
3-String Bass	4	0	Bassoon	4	0	Valve Trombone	4	0
4-String Bass	4	0	Saxhorn	4	0	French Horn	4	0
Flute	4	0	Baritone	4	0	Side Drum	4	0

All may be had post-free for Threepence extra.

INSTRUMENT REPAIRING DEPARTMENT.

MESSRS. HAWKES AND SON desire to draw attention to their various departments for REPAIRING INSTRUMENTS, including String, Wood-wind, and Brass Instruments.

The different departments are presided over by a competent Foreman, each one being a specialist in his own particular branch, and by these means we are enabled to offer our patrons such work that cannot be excelled.

Our prices will be found reasonable, especially considering the class of work done.

Estimates will be sent for any repairs required on receipt of instrument.

HAWKES & SON, MANUFACTURERS OF BAND INSTRUMENTS AND MUSIC PUBLISHERS, 28, Leicester Sq., London.

Estimates furnished per return of post for Instruments for Orchestras, Reed and Brass Bands, Drum and Fife Bands.

ORGAN MUSIC

BY

EDWIN M. LOTT, MUS. DOC.

(ORGANIST OF ST. SEPULCHRE'S).

	s.	d.
PEDAL SCALES (through all Keys)	2	0

A SERIES OF ORGAN PIECES IN VARIOUS STYLES.

	s.	d.
1. Andante in G	2	0
2. Fanfare in E flat	3	0
3. Offertoire in D minor	4	0
4. Offertoire (en forme de Marche) in B flat ..	4	0
5. Offertoire (en forme de Marche) in G	3	0
6. Offertoire (en forme de Marche) in F	4	0
7. Two Andantes in D and B flat	4	0
8. Andante piacevole in G	3	0
9. Sarabande	3	0
10. Galliard	3	0
11. Prelude and Fugue..	4	0
12. Scène pastorale. (The Storm)	4	0
13. Sympathie. Andante	3	0
14. L'ange gardien. Andante	3	0
15. Tempo di Minuetto	3	0

PARAPHRASES.

	s.	d.
1. Stabat Mater (Stabat Mater dolorosa. Cujus animam. Quis est homo. Inflammatus) Rossini	6	0
2. St. Paul (Happy and blest. But the Lord is mindful. How lovely are the messengers) Mendelssohn	4	0
3. Hymn of Praise (Introduction Maestoso. Allegretto. I waited for the Lord) Mendelssohn	4	0
4. Mosè in Egitto (d'après Thalberg). (Introduction. Solo and Chorus. Prayer) .. Rossini	5	0
5. Les Huguenots (Benedizione de pugnali. Sia gloria eterna. Per questa causa. Nobil donna. Choral) .. .. Meyerbeer	4	0
6. Hear my Prayer (Hear my prayer. The enemy cries. O for the wings of a dove) Mendelssohn	4	0
7. Elijah (First paraphrase). (Be not afraid. Lift thine eyes. He watching over Israel) ..	4	0
8. Elijah (Second paraphrase). (O, come everyone that thirsteth. If with all your hearts. Cast thy burden. O, rest in the Lord. He that shall endure)	4	0

These Paraphrases are so arranged that each subject may be played separately.

POPULAR PIECES (TRANSCRIPTIONS).

	s.	d.
1. Chant du paysan .. .. .. A. Rendano	3	0
2. God preserve the Emperor. (Air and Variations from Quartet) .. .. .. J. Haydn	4	0
3. Air de Louis XIII... .. .. H. Ghys	3	0
4. Eleventh Nocturne (G minor) .. F. Chopin	3	0
5. Marche des troubadours .. .. H. Roubier	3	0
6. Parfait amour. (Romance) .. E. L. Hime	3	0
7. Marche des Pompiers .. .. M. Watson	3	0
8. Eloquence. (Melody) .. Sydney Smith	3	0
9. La Serenata .. .. .. G. Braga	3	0
10. Cavatina .. .. Joachim Raff	3	0
11. Largo .. ..G. F. Handel	3	0
12. Capucine. (Légende) .. .. T. Kullak	4	0
13. Barcarolle .. .. S. Thalberg	4	0
14. Melody (in F) .. .. A. Rubinstein	3	0
15. Schlummerlied .. .. R. Schumann	3	0
16. Chanson d'amour .. .. Ignace Gibsone	3	0
17. Maying .. .. .. Alice Mary Smith	3	0
18. Pensée .. .. .. J. Blumenthal	3	0
19. War March of the Priests (Athalie) Mendelssohn	4	0
20. Allegretto con grazia (Restless Nights, No. 9) S. Heller	3	0
21. Romance (in A flat) .. ..Joachim Raff	3	0
22. Prece della sera .. .. .. D. Brocca	3	0
23. Ave Maria .. .. ..P. von Lindpaintner	3	0
24. Allegretto from the Italian Symphony Mendelssohn	4	0
25. Barcarolle, from Sir William Sterndale Bennett's Fourth Concerto (Arranged from the Score)	4	0
26. Ave Maria of Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy. (Arranged from the Score)	3	0

EDWIN ASHDOWN
(LIMITED),
NEW YORK. LONDON. TORONTO.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

CASES

FOR BINDING THE NUMBERS FOR THE PAST YEAR,

VOL. XXXIII.,

Are now ready, and may be had of all Musicsellers in Town and Country.

CLOTH, BEVELLED BOARDS, HANDSOME DESIGN IN BLACK,

PRICE 1S. 6D.

Title-page and Index may be had gratis on application.
Cases for the Volumes from 1877 (Vol. xviii.) can also be had.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUNG BY MR. BEN DAVIES.

THE DISCREET LOVER

(L'AMANT DISCRET)

SONG

Set to words (English and French) of the Eighteenth Century

BY

G. HENSCHEL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SONGS by LORD TENNYSON, set to Music by Sir HERBERT OAKELEY. Of those published the following may be had from Messrs. METHVEN and SIMPSON, Edinburgh, or from the COMPOSER, Dover. From "The Princess"—"Bugle Song," "Tears, idle tears," "Swallow Song," "Home they brought," and "Ask me no more"; also "Flow down, cold rivulet," "Break, break," and "Edward Gray." These settings have the addition of German translation. Also, just published, Stanzas from "In Memoriam," commencing "Strong Son of God," Short Anthem or Hymn for Chorus and Organ. Price 1S.; or, for four Memorial Choruses, including the above and "Evening and Morning," 2S. net. FORSYTH BROS., 267, Regent Street.

NEW MUSIC by T. E. SPINNEY. Words by AMY THORN. THE SINGER, NOT THE SONG. Price 2S. net. (One of the prettiest songs of the day.)
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

"Melodious, singable, and artistically-written songs; each good in its particular style."—Keyboard.

SONGS BY WALTER J. LOCKITT.

LILIES. Words by R. H. HAWEIS, M.A.

I THINK ON THEE IN THE NIGHT. Words by THOMAS KIBBLE HERVEY.

"A love song . . . above the average in musicianly feeling."—Athenæum.

THE WELCOME. Words by RUTH LAMB (From the Girls' Own Paper).

Price Two Shillings each net.
London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

WORKS BY F. DAVENPORT,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music.
Published under the Authority of the Committee of the Royal Academy of Music.

	s. d.
ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Crown 8vo	1 0

"In the space of some fifty pages the reader will find all that is necessary to be known about the pitch of notes, intervals, and scales, rests, time, and abbreviations, and will, we doubt not, also find how much there is of which he was ignorant concerning these subjects, although he had already flattered himself that he had mastered their elements a long time ago."—Saturday Review.

ELEMENTS OF HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT. Crown 8vo	2 6

This work is intended to meet a growing demand for a more concise and simpler exposition of the Day theory. It includes as much of the science of Counterpoint as is necessary for students who enter for the Royal Academy, Local, and other similar examinations.

QUESTIONS AND EXERCISES. For the Use of Students of Music. By F. DAVENPORT, Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music, and J. PERCY BAKER, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music. Crown 8vo	1 0
A GUIDE TO PIANOFORTE STUDENTS. By F. DAVENPORT and J. PERCY BAKER. Crown 8vo	1 0

London: LONGMANS, GREEN and Co.

Just Published.

SONATA (No. 1) IN D, FOR PIANOFORTE

COMPOSED BY W. H. SPEER.

(Op. 2).

Price Four Shillings.
BREITKOPF and HÄRTEL, 54, Great Marlborough Street, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

N. SIMROCK

(BERLIN),

49, GREAT PORTLAND ST.,

LONDON, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

New Pianoforte Pieces

BY BRAHMS.

	s. d.
Op. 116. Fantasien für das Pianoforte, Intermezzi and Capriccio. Two Books, each net	4 0
,, 117. Three Intermezzi .. .. .. ,,	4 0

BRAHMS'S

Op. 114. Clarinet Trio .. .. .. net	12 0
The same for Pianoforte, four Hands .. ,,	6 0
Op. 115. Clarinet Quintet. Score .. .. ,,	8 0
,, ,, Parts .. .. ,,	12 0
The same for Pianoforte, four Hands .. ,,	8 0

BRUCH, MAX

Op. 63. Swedish Dances for the Pianoforte. Two Books .. .. .. each net	2 0
The same for Violin and Pianoforte .. .. ,,	4 6
Op. 57. Adagio appassionato, for Violin and Piano .. .. net	3 0

SARASATE, P. DE.

Op. 34. Airs Ecossais, for Violin and Piano net	4 6

N. SIMROCK

(ALFRED LENGNICK),

49, GREAT PORTLAND ST.,

LONDON, W.

Catalogues Post-free on application.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately. Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

GEORGE L. ALLAN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys, embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIXTY-ONE

MELODIES AND UNFIGURED BASSES

(To be Harmonized in Four Parts)

For the use of ADVANCED MUSICAL STUDENTS and CANDIDATES FOR DIPLOMAS

BY

ROWLAND M. WINN, MUS. DOC., OXON., F.C.O.

Price One Shilling.

"Both the melodies and the basses are designed with no little ingenuity, and form the means of bringing out in the student all the amount of skill of which he may be possessed."—Musical Times.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

NEW ACADEMICAL EDITION

OF

SELECTED PIANOFORTE WORKS

By W. A. MOZART,

Critically revised, arranged in progressive order, fingered, and with explanatory notes for the use of Students, by

HEINRICH GERMER.

CONTENTS.—17 Sonatas, 6 Sets of Variations, 3 Fantasias, 3 Rondos, 1 Allegro, and 1 Adagio.

Price: Vol. I., 2s. 6d. net; Vols. II. and III., each 3s. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BEHR, F.—"Messengers of Spring." Six easy Pieces. For the Pianoforte. No. 1. "Morning serenade" No. 2. "From afar"; No. 3. Dancing song; No. 4. "Addio"; No. 5 "Sunday in the village"; No. 6. "May dance."
Solo .. .. each	3	0
Duet .. .. „	3	0
BOSSI, E. Fantasia. For Organ .. .. net	2	6
—— Six Pieces. For the Organ:—
No. 1. Prelude	3	0
„ 2. Musette	4	0
„ 3. Choral	3	0
„ 4. Scherzo	4	0
„ 5. Cantabile	3	0
„ 6. Alleluia Final	5	0
—— The same .. .. complete, net	5	0
BRAHMS, J.—Fantasias. For the Pianoforte. Op. 116:—
Books I. and II. .. .. each	8	0
—— Three Intermezzi. For the Pianoforte. Op. 117	8	0
CUI, C.—Cavatina. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	3	0
D'INDY, V.—Quartet. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 35:—
Score .. .. net	8	0
Parts .. .. „	10	0
FUCHS, R.—Serenade, No. 4. For Strings and Two Horns. Op. 51:—
Score .. .. net	6	6
Parts .. .. „	9	0
—— The same, arranged as Pianoforte Duet .. .. „	5	9
GADE, N. W.—Capriccio. For Violin and Pianoforte ..	9	0
GLAZOUNOW, A.—"Spring." Tableau Musical. For Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	9	0
Parts .. .. „	15	0
—— The same, arranged as Pianoforte Duet	12	0
—— 3me Symphonie (in D). For Orchestra:—
Score .. .. net	30	0
Parts .. .. „	60	0
—— Suite. For Strings:—
Score	10	0
Score and Parts	24	0
—— The same, arranged as Pianoforte Duet	24	0
GODARD, B.—2me Romance. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 120	5	0
—— Scotch Scenes. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 138:—
No. 1. Legende pastorale	5	0
„ 2. Sérénade à Mabel	5	0
„ 3. Marche des Highlanders	6	0
—— The same. For Oboe and Pianoforte:— No. 1, 5s.; No. 2, 5s.; No. 3, 6s.
KÖHLER, E.—Six Pieces. For Flute and Pianoforte:—
No. 1. Romanza	3	0
„ 2. Gavotte	3	0
„ 3. Souvenir russe	3	0
„ 4. Rejouissance	4	0
„ 5. Meditation	3	0
„ 6. Danse des Marionettes	4	0
LIAPOUNOW, S.—Three Pieces. For the Pianoforte:—
No. 1. Etude	3	0
„ 2. Intermezzo	3	0
„ 3. Valse	3	0
LENEPVEU, F.—Quartet. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello:—
Parts	16	0
MEYER, L.—Three Easy Trios. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello:—
No. 1. In G major	10	0
„ 2. In G major	7	0
„ 3. In C major	10	0
MOSZKOWSKY, M.—2me Suite d'Orchestre. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet. Op. 47:—
No. 1. Preludio	3	0
„ 2. Fuga	4	0
„ 3. Scherzo	4	0
„ 4. Larghetto	3	0
„ 5. Intermezzo	4	0
„ 6. Marcia	5	0
—— Suite. For the Pianoforte. (Allegro, Aria, Capriccio, Presto à la giga). Op. 50 .. .. net	2	2
NOSKOWSKY, S.—Moments de Danse. Six Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 40:—
No. 1, Sicilienne; No. 2, Krakoviac; No. 3, Valse sérieuse; No. 4, Polonaise; No. 5, Danse d'Ukraine; No. 6, Boléro .. .. each	3	0
L'ORGUE DE L'ÉGLISE.—Reçéuil de morceaux pratiques inédits ou peu connus des Organistes anciens et modernes:—
Books I. and II. .. .. each net	8	0
RHEINBERGER, JAS.—Mass. For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra; or, with Accompaniment of Strings and Organ. Op. 169:—
Full Score .. .. net	20	0
Parts .. .. „	12	6
Vocal Score .. .. „	4	0
Vocal Parts .. .. „	4	0
—— Quartet. For Pianoforte, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 66 .. .. net	10	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

Novello's List of New and Important Foreign Publications (List A just out). Novello's List of Christmas Music (foreign). Free on application.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE

MUSICAL TIMES

BEETHOVEN NUMBER

ARTICLES BY

JOSEPH BENNETT, GEORGE GROVE,

AND OTHERS.

TWENTY-THREE ILLUSTRATIONS:

FAC-SIMILES OF LETTERS, MUSIC PAGES, EXCERPTS FROM BEETHOVEN'S POCKET BOOK, SIGNATURES, AND HANDWRITING.

PRICE SIXPENCE.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"... It is remarkable for the number and interest of its illustrations, which include, besides various portraits of the master, views of houses and scenes associated with his career; also representations of such things as his ear-trumpet, watch, pocket book, and the pianoforte presented to him by the firm of John Broadwood."—Daily Telegraph.

"The 'Beethoven' extra number of The Musical Times (Novello, Ewer and Co.) is fully equal in interest to the Mozart number issued a year ago. It contains numerous portraits and other illustrations."—Athenæum.

"The printing and illustrations are exceptionally good.... Altogether it is an admirable production."—Sunday Times.

"... The admirers of the greatest of composers will find much instruction and interesting reading, capitally illustrated by portraits, pictures, and fac-similes.... Were the whole of the illustrations mounted and framed the pictures would be a valuable ornament in a music-room."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

"... A perfect mine of reminiscences, criticism, and biographical information.... An exquisite portrait of Thérèse of Brunswick. No real music-lover can afford to be without this publication."—Birmingham Mercury.

"... The Beethoven number is a marvellous sixpennyworth; it concentrates into a focus the most salient points in the master's artistic and social life, and the excellent illustrations which profusely adorn the pages or are added as supplements render it invaluable as an index to his personality."—Newcastle Daily Leader.

"It is an excellently printed production.... wealth of illustrations ... and fac-similes of letters and the composer's musical hieroglyphics."—Liverpool Courier.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday, December 31, 1892.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 600.—Vol. 34. FEBRUARY 1, 1893. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

GOUNOD'S "REDEMPTION"

On ASH WEDNESDAY, February 15, at 8.

Miss ESTHER PALLISER, Miss M. HOARE, Miss MARIE BREMA; Mr. IVER McKAY, Mr. NORMAN SALMOND, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS.

Organist: Mr. HODGE.

Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s., and Gallery (Promenade only), 1s.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Lent Half-Term begins February 23.

Entrance Exam. therefor, February 20, at 2. Entrance forms may be obtained from the Secretary, and should be returned by Saturday, February 18.

Fortnightly Concerts, February 11 and 25, at 8.

Chamber Concert at St. James's Hall, Monday, February 27, at 3.

Lectures by the Principal, Wednesdays, February 1, 8, 15, and 22, at 3.

METROPOLITAN EXAMINATION, 1892-93.

The following Candidates have Passed:—

IN HARMONY.—AS TEACHERS.—Blanche Smith and Alexander Steven. Examiners: Messrs. F. Corder, Eaton Faning, and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Chairman.

IN SINGING.—AS PERFORMERS.—Benjamin Bury, Alice Curtis, Elsie Harker, Irene Sinkinson, and Lizzie Clara Spencer.

AS TEACHERS.—Blanche Cross, Amy Murray Denning, Amelia Cohen, Marie Gane, and Harriet Kendall. Examiners: Messrs. Alberto Randegger, Arthur L. Oswald, and William H. Cummings, Chairman.

IN PIANOFORTE.—AS PERFORMERS AND TEACHERS.—Arabella Susette Ereaut, William Ernest Fowler, Theresa Julia Haselden, Caroline Sarah Lewis, Edith Percival, Florence Stanswood, and Margaret May Wright.

AS TEACHERS.—Ada Mary Andrew, Florence Gertrude Barnard, Marian Basnett, Dorothea Mary Beadle, Helena Hume Black, Bertha Broadhurst, Ellen Maria Butler, Lilian Rosa Carey, Annie Colles, Helen Gertrude Cooper, Adeline Constance Lauretta Gregory, Alice Maud Hall, Mary Parker Hall, Grace Ethel Harris, Amy Gertrude Hemmerde, Clara Jane Hemmings, Kate Hewins, Rebecca Jefferson, Ellen Ruth Johnson, Florence Jane Keats, Lilian Kelly, Jeannie Kirby, Georgina Adeline Lewis, Annie S. Longley, Mary Louise May, Ellen Mills, James Nisbet, Clara Matilda Nock, Laura Pechell, Ethel Bronwen Poole, Rose Kelway Pope, Florence Jerram Redfern, George Frederic Sharpe, Thomas Sharples, Elsie Laura Stow, Georgina Constance M. Tapp, Mary White Timœus, Annie Maria Williams, Florence Lilian Woodyatt, Margaret Annie Wright, and Edith Mary Zwinger. Examiners: Messrs. Oscar Beringer, Walter Fitton, and Walter Macfarren, Chairman.

ALSO AS TEACHERS.—Mabel Atkins, Frances Emma Bacon, Helen Barnaby, Ada Lydia Boden, Edward William Groocock, and Florence Stuart Peat. Examiners: Messrs. Fritz Harvigson, Edward Morton, and Frederick Westlake, Chairman.

IN ORGAN.—Franklin James Mountford. Examiners: Messrs. Henry R. Rose, W. G. Wood, and Charles Steggall, Chairman.

IN VIOLIN.—AS PERFORMER AND TEACHER.—William Henry Cass. Examiners: Messrs. Alfred Burnett, A. P. Vivian, and F. Corder, Chairman.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC,

KENSINGTON GORE.

President: H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.
Director: Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D.
Hon. Secretary: CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

ASSOCIATE EXAMINATION.

Associate of the Royal College of Music (A.R.C.M.)—The next Examination for certificate of proficiency with the above title will take place at the College, on March 27 to 30, 1893.

The list of pieces in which Candidates will be examined and other particulars may be obtained at the College.

Application forms must be returned with the examination fee so as to be received at the College not later than February 13.

GEORGE WATSON, Registrar.

THE ASSOCIATED BOARD

OF THE

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC AND ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC

FOR

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

President—H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES, K.G.

ASSOCIATED BOARD:

THE RIGHT HON. THE LORD CHARLES BRUCE, Chairman.
A. C. MACKENZIE, Esq., Mus. Doc., Principal of R.A.M.
Sir GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L., LL.D., Director of R.C.M.

Professor JAMES DEWAR, F.R.S., &c.,
ALBERTO RANDEGGER, Esq.,
THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq., } R.A.M.
FREDERICK WESTLAKE, Esq.,
F. MEADOWS WHITE, Esq., Q.C.,

EDWARD W. HAMILTON, Esq., C.B.,
Sir WALTER PARRATT, Mus. Bac.,
C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Esq., Mus. Doc., } R.C.M.
Sir ARTHUR SULLIVAN, Mus. Doc.,
FRANKLIN TAYLOR, Esq.,

HONORARY TREASURER:
CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.

HONORARY AUDITOR:
Sir CHARLES LISTER RYAN, K.C.B., Comptroller and Auditor-General.

SECRETARY:
GEORGE WATSON, Esq. Central Office, 52, New Bond St., London, W.

BANKERS:
BANK OF ENGLAND, Western Branch, Burlington Gardens, London.

SYLLABUS B.

LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS.

LAST DAY FOR RECEIVING APPLICATIONS FOR REGISTRATION FROM SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS OF MUSIC—

FEBRUARY 27, 1893.

THE LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS will be arranged in Circuits, and will be conducted by a School Examiner appointed by the Board.

They will be held during the following periods:—

(a) March, April.
(b) June, July.
(c) October, November.

Schools and Teachers will, so far as is practicable, be allowed to select the period which they prefer for Examination, provided that they notify the same to the Secretary within seven days after receiving notice that their Applications to be Registered have been accepted.

Copies of the Syllabus may be obtained at the Central Office, 52, New Bond Street, London, W.

GEORGE WATSON, Secretary.

GRESHAM COLLEGE,

BASINGHALL STREET, E.C.

Professor BRIDGE, Mus.D., will deliver the LECTURES in MUSIC for this Term as follows:—

Tuesday, Feb. 7.—"An hour with my Spinet." (A selection from "Parthenia" will be played on a 17th century Spinet, by Mr. E. Silas.)

Wednesday, Feb. 8.—"Playford's Musical Companion." (Catches, Dialogues, and Ayres, by a small Choir.)

Thursday, Feb. 9.—"A Talk about the Orchestra." I. (No. 5, The Trumpet), with Illustrations.

Friday, Feb. 10.—"A Talk about the Orchestra." II. (No. 6, The Trombone), with Illustrations.

The Lectures are free to the public and begin at 6 p.m.

TEN GUINEAS PRIZE.—The GLASGOW SELECT CHOIR offer the above sum for the best original setting of Burns's JOLLY BEGGARS (chiefly choral), with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Libretto and conditions as to copyright, &c., to be had from James Airlie, 134, Wellington Street, Glasgow.

ST. ALBAN'S, Holborn, TUESDAY, February 14, 8 p.m., Rossini's "STABAT MATER," with Orchestral Accompaniment.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS ALICE ASHFORD (Mezzo-Soprano)
"Sang with remarkable sweetness and beauty of expression."—Denbigh Free Press.
"A rare treat was afforded by the fine voice and clear expression of Miss Alice Ashford."—Bedfordshire Mercury.
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c. 32, Gold Street, Northampton.

MISS ETHEL BARNES (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes.
Address, 32, St. John Street, Lichfield.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS MABEL G. BERREY (Soprano)
Oratorios, Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Care of Forsyth Bros., 267, Regent Street, London; and 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
53, Robert St., Upper Brook St., Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.
Terms for Oratorios and Concerts, &c., and Press Notices on application.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c., Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Lyndhurst, Hendon, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS EUGENIE FAULL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 77, St. Agnes Pl., Kennington, S.E.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 33, Hamilton Terrace, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS HEROD (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Ballads, &c., address, Woodley, near Stockport.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ELLEN INGHAM (Soprano)
(Late Student, Royal Academy of Music, London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Albert Road, Colne, Lancs.

MRS. BROWN JAMESON (Soprano)
At liberty for Oratorio and Ballad Concerts.
All applications to be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 75, Friern Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS NEALE (Soprano)
(Late Student R.A.M. and Pupil of Mr. W. H. Cummings).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Stretford, Manchester.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Recitals, &c. Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MASTER GEO. TURNBULL SINCLAIR (Sop.)
For Special Church Festivals, Recitals, Concerts, and Banquets.
Terms, &c., apply, 102, College Place, Camden Town, N.W.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
(Gold Medalist, L.A.M.),
88, Lady Margaret Road, N.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 76, Calabria Road, N.

MRS. HADINGHAM (Contralto)
Bedford House, Amhurst Road, Hackney, and Eva Villa, W'hampton.
"Mrs. Hadingham is the possessor of a contralto voice of genuine quality."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS (Contralto)
York Villas, Smethwick, Birmingham.
"Highly successful."—Birmingham Daily Post.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c. 10, Springfield Road, N.W.

MISS ANNIE NORTHCROFT (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 38, Gunter Grove, Chelsea.

MRS. HAMILTON ROBINSON (Contralto)
Concerts, At Homes, &c. Lessons in Voice-Production and Solo Singing. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, viâ Leeds.

MADAME ELIZA THOMAS (Contralto)
Oatorios, Ballads, &c. "A rich, powerful voice, and her enunciation admirable."—Newcastle Journal. Zion House, Harlesden, N.W.

MISS MARY TUNNICLIFFE
(Solo Contralto of St. Nicholas, Cole Abbey, E.C.)
For terms, address, 94, Fentiman Road, Clapham, S.W.

MISS LILIAN VERKRÜZEN (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 119, Petherton Road, Canonbury, N.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.

MISS ALICE WOLSTENHOLME (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Radcliffe, Manchester.

MR. MARSHAM COCKADAY (Alto)
(St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle)
(Late Principal, Norwich Cathedral).
Masonic Banquets, Concerts, Musical Services (C. of E.), At Homes, &c., and for Quartet Party. Address, The Cloisters, Windsor Castle.

MR. ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto)
(St. Paul's Cathedral). 76, Burgoyne Rd., Harringay, N.; or, Cathedral.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c.
46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(Principal Tenor, St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W.).
"Walsall Philharmonic Society.—The tenor, Mr. James Leyland, was in splendid voice, and really I liked him the best of the Quartet, though the other artists were indeed excellent. Mr. Leyland was very impressive in 'Comfort ye,' and in 'Ev'ry valley' he was brilliant. The touching recitative 'Thy rebuke' was beautifully rendered; and the great tenor show song, 'Thou shalt break them,' fairly aroused the enthusiasm of the audience. We shall all be very pleased to hear Mr. Leyland again."—Walsall Observer.
For Oratorios, Ballads, Masonic Work, &c., terms to 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. C. WIGG FREDERICKS (Tenor)

(Trocadero Concerts, Paris; Crystal Palace and St. James's Hall, London; and Hereford Musical Festivals).
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.

Testimonial letters from M. Gounod, M. Guilmant, Professor Yeatman, Dr. Stainer, August Manns, Esq., and other eminent musicians, with recent Press Notices, will be forwarded on application.

Mr. Fredericks has had the honour of singing for most of the Provincial Choral Societies, and during the past season has been favoured with engagements from the following towns (in many instances providing the whole of the solo artists):—Swindon (Ballads), Wolverhampton (Ballads), Leicester ("Engedi"), Tenbury ("Messiah"), Southampton ("Samson"), Walsall (Ballads), Hereford ("Last Judgment"), Rochdale (Ballads), Melton Mowbray ("Country Life," &c.), King's Lynn ("May Queen," &c.), Hunstanton (Ballads), Brighouse ("Seasons"), Nottingham (Miscellaneous), Chesterfield ("Messiah"), Burton (Ballads), Tamworth ("Messiah"), Denbigh ("St. Paul"), Bradford (Ballads), Dunfermline (Miscellaneous), Merthyr ("Messiah"), Ilkeston (Ballads), Brierley Hill ("Samson"), Buxton ("Elijah"), Newcastle ("May Queen," &c.), Holmfirth ("Hereward"), Chepstow ("Elijah"), Margate (Ballads), Kidderminster (Miscellaneous), Devizes ("Messiah"), Calne ("Ancient Mariner"), Cirencester ("Redemption"), Warwick ("Judas"), Coventry (Ballads), Worksop (Miscellaneous), Birmingham (Ballads), Leamington ("Messiah"), Burslem ("Samson"), Exeter ("Elijah"), Manchester ("Messiah"), Rotherham ("Messiah").

To Choral Societies and Concert-givers, Mr. Fredericks is prepared to submit the names of FIRST-CLASS SOLOISTS (Vocal and Instrumental), and by arranging en route and consecutive date engagements, is able to quote terms from 20 to 30 per cent. lower than would be paid for the same Artists in the ordinary way. For full particulars, Press Opinions, &c., address, Mr. Fredericks, 98, St. John's Hill, Clapham Junction, London; or, The Cathedral, Lichfield.

MR. WILLIAM FOXON (Tenor)

(Of Royal Albert Hall, St. James's Hall, and Crystal Palace Concerts).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 54, Plympton Road, Brondesbury, N.W.; or, Farley Sinkins, Esq., 24, Brook Street, W.

MR. S. MASTERS (Tenor)

(Principal Tenor, Chapel Royal, Hampton Court).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Brighton Road, Surbiton.

MR. GEO. RILEY (Tenor)

For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
Address, 36, Chetwynd Terrace, Leeds.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor)

(Of St. George's Chapel, Windsor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. STIRLING WELLS (Tenor)

(Pupil of Mr. Henry Blower).
Oratorios, Ballads, Glees, Banquets (Masonic, &c.).
Address, 190, Clapham Park Road, S.W.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)

Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. EDWARD MARLOWE (Baritone)

Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts. 25, Winterwell Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)

(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia, R.A.M.).
Address, 94, Hill Street, Garnethill, Glasgow.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)

For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. W. THORNTON (Baritone)

Address, care of Wood and Marshall, Bradford.

"ELIJAH."—"Mr. Thornton undertook the title-rôle, and was most conspicuously successful, the technical difficulties of the music were mastered with great power and skill."—Observer.

MR. CHARLES ACKERMAN (Bass Baritone)

(Soloist, Westminster Abbey and St. Peter's, Eaton Square),
73, Eccles Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.

"'LAST JUDGMENT' (Spohr) at St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—The quartet of soloists all did well, but we cannot help saying that the gentleman by whom the bass solos were sung is an artist with qualifications for a high position. He has a good voice, and uses it as a vocalist should, while, in point of expression, he leaves scarcely anything to desire."—Daily Telegraph, London, Dec. 2, 1892.

"'ELIJAH.'—Mr. Ackerman showed himself to be a finished singer."—Daily Gazette, Exeter, Dec. 21, 1892.

MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass)

For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, Masonic Banquets, &c., and for Quartet Party. 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park.

MR. HENRY POPE (Bass)

Oratorio, Concerts, Opera, Pupils. 19, Westbourne Park Villas, W.

MR. RICKARD (Basso)

(Pupil of the late Sig. Pinsuti).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN, L.R.A.M. (Bass)

For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. JOHN BROWNING

(Principal Bass, Leeds Parish Church Choir).

"ANCIENT MARINER."—"Perhaps, however, Mr. John Browning carried off the honours of the evening, This popular vocalist entered into the exigencies of his part with rare perception of their dramatic nature. A fine delivery of the recit. and air 'Swiftly, swiftly flew,' being notably received and applauded."—Leeds Mercury, April 16, 1890.

"ST. PAUL."—"Mr. Browning deepened the favourable impression which he has made on previous visits, his intensely earnest rendering of 'O God, have mercy,' being one of the features of the night."—Sheffield and Rotherham Independent, May 17, 1890.

"ST. PAUL."—"Mr. Browning, the bass, quickly became a favourite, his fine voice and correct easy rendition making an excellent impression. His very first number, 'Consume them all,' was well received; and the aria 'O God, have mercy,' brought out his fullest powers and evolved lively expressions of approval."—Halifax Courier, December 20, 1890.

"Mr. Browning's songs took the audience by storm, his opening number securing a most pronounced encore."—Harrogate Herald, March 11, 1891.

"MAY QUEEN."—"'Tis jolly to hunt,' was excellently rendered by Mr. Browning, who possesses a rich bass voice, and in the above item he was heard to advantage. An unmistakable encore was demanded at its conclusion, which was generously given."—Harrogate Advertiser, May 16, 1891.

"THE CRUSADERS."—"Mr. Browning, who undertook, perhaps, the most exacting part of the Cantata, was conspicuously successful. The solos 'Soon our God' and 'Father, from a distant land,' were sung with great skill and were duly acknowledged by the audience."—Leeds Mercury, December 3, 1891.

BARNETT'S "BUILDING OF THE SHIP."—"Mr. John Browning's rich baritone voice was heard to great advantage in the airs 'Choose the timbers' and 'Like unto ships.'"—Newcastle Chronicle, December 15, 1891.

BACH'S "PASSION MUSIC."—"The wonderfully expressive and exceedingly difficult music allotted to the Saviour was most artistically rendered by Mr. Browning."—Yorks Post, April 5, 1892.

HERR CHRISTENSEN'S CONCERTS.—"As the vocalist of the evening, Mr. Browning selected one of Handel's florid operatic airs, together with Gounod's 'Nazareth,' in the latter of which his fine voice, and manly, unaffected style, were displayed to conspicuous advantage, and to an imperative demand for an encore Mr. Browning yielded with 'Land of my heart.'"—Leeds Mercury, November 15, 1892.

"CREATION."—"Mr. Browning adapted his grand, sonorous, musical, and flexible voice to the varied requirements of his music with perfect intonation and articulation of his words, and with remarkable intelligence and power in descriptiveness and dramatic expression."—Huddersfield Examiner, December 5, 1892.

"WOMAN OF SAMARIA."—"Mr. Browning scored a success with his singing of 'Whosoever drinketh,' and was fully equal to all the rest of his work."—Bradford Observer, December 8, 1892.

"JUDAS MACCABÆUS."—"Mr. Browning was another great success. Possessed of a most powerful voice, with plenty of dramatic force, a most intelligent reader of the score, he invested his pieces with a life and colour which made him a prime favourite. 'Arm, arm, ye brave,' was declaimed with great vigour, while his singing of that florid composition, 'The Lord worketh wonders,' was really masterly."—Keighley News, December 24, 1892.

For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. ALEXANDER TUCKER

(Basso Profundo).

THE Newcastle Daily Chronicle says:—

"Mr. Alexander Tucker is a splendid bass singer. A great future ought to be in store for such a clever young basso. His voice is one of the richest and deepest before the public, and it is equally effective in serious and rollicking songs. He created a furore, and may be sure of always having similar receptions whenever he comes to the city."

Address, St. Audries, Enfield, N.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON

(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead.

"Mr. Preston's reputation as an Organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of our representative English Organists."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.

"Mr. Preston is a local Professor, and a performer of the very first rank. It is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.

MR. A. TOASE, A.C.O. (Accompanist)

For Concerts, At Homes, Choral Societies. Private Lessons. Deputy-Organist. Address, 11, Eade Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS HILDA MEREDITH (Violinist)

(Medalist, R.A.M.; pupil of the late Mr. Sainton).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 52, Holmdale Road, Hampstead, N.W.

MASTER LEONARD BROUGH (Solo Clarinet)

(Aged eleven years; Pupil of John Gale, Esq.).

"Master Brough played a solo on the clarinet with surprising power and accuracy, in a manner not merely promising, but that would not have disgraced an older executant."—Manchester Guardian.

"The young instrumental prodigy, Master Brough, whose executive ability on an instrument, not the least easy to manage, is undoubtedly great, and his technique more than remarkable. For one so young he phrases with great finish."—Manchester Courier.

Address, 150, Cornbrook Street, Chorlton Road, Manchester.

MADAME MINNIE JONES (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Concerts, &c., be addressed to her at 29, Snowdrop Street, Stanley Road, Liverpool.

MISS MAUD LESLIE (Soprano). Engaged: 6, Pimlico; 7, City; 9, Islington; 14, Dulwich; 20, City; 28, Wycombe; Feb. 4, 6, City; 11, Westminster; 16, City; 25, Peckham; March 4, Norwood; 10, City. "Hear my Prayer," "Athalie," "Daughter of Jairus," "Messiah," "Woman of Samaria." Address, 41, Crystal Palace Road, Dulwich; or, Messrs. Barth and Black, 2, Oxford Mansions, W.

MASTER SYDNEY LOVETT (Soprano) may be Engaged for Church Festivals, Recitals, Concerts, &c. Press notices of his excellent rendering of the soprano solos in Spohr's "Last Judgment," at eight Churches during this Advent, and also of "The Hymn of Praise," &c., may be had of Mr. Kempton, Vicar-Choral, St. Paul's Cathedral, to whom application should be made for his services.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER, Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Will take pupils.

MR. GEORGE PEARCE (Principal Alto, St. Peter's, Eaton Square; late Principal Alto, Italian Church, Hatton Garden) is now booking ENGAGEMENTS for LENT. Rossini's "Stabat Mater," Bach's "Passion," Gounod's "Redemption," &c. For terms, please address, 13, Baron's Court Road, West Kensington, W. "This gentleman possesses one of the finest alto voices that I have ever heard."—St. James's Gazette.

MISS MARGARET HOARE requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 15, Mowbray Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

PERCYE CHATTOCK (Tenor). For Oratorio. Répertoire: "Messiah," "Elijah," "St. Paul," "Redemption," "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Job," "Judith," &c.; also for Concerts, Dinners, &c. 16, Lewisham Road, Dartmouth Park, N.W.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal Tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio, or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

FAITHFUL PEARCE (late Principal Tenor with Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Co.). For Opera (Italian and English), Oratorio, or Concerts, address, 10, Alma Sq., St. John's Wood.

MR. E. JACKSON (Baritone) is now booking Engagements for Oratorios and Ballad Concerts. For terms and vacant dates, address, Principal Bass, New College, Oxford.

MR. ARTHUR TAYLOR (Baritone), now on Concert Tour through India.

"The appearance of Mr. Arthur Taylor was warmly greeted. His first song was Gounod's 'Nazareth,' in which the anticipations of the house were quite fulfilled. Mr. Taylor possesses a rich baritone voice of great sweetness and remarkably good quality. His high claims to vocalisation were warmly acknowledged. The spirited rendering of Sullivan's 'Ho! Jolly Jenkin' was marked by very good taste and was vociferously encored. A similar demonstration greeted his 'Warrior Bold,' in which he achieved a decided success."—Bombay Gazette, Nov. 19, 1892.

"It is not much to prophesy for Mr. Taylor a successful career in the profession he has chosen. It is long since we heard in India such highly finished singing as his. His voice is full, rich, and clear, and its compass by no means limited. His modulation is skilful, and his articulation may be termed perfect. Mr Taylor is capable of appreciating the words he sings as well as the music, and in this is to be found the explanation of his soulful rendering of the songs he sings."—Bombay Gazette, Nov. 24, 1892.

"Mrs. Alice Shaw was supported on Friday night by Mr. Arthur Taylor, a new arrival in this country, who sang, in a rich baritone voice of good quality, Gounod's 'Nazareth' to orchestral accompaniment, and 'Ho! Jolly Jenkin' from 'Ivanhoe,' and 'A Warrior Bold' by Stephen Adams, to a pianoforte accompaniment. Mr. Taylor sang throughout with great taste and in a good round tone, his vocalisation being very clear and precise. He was most enthusiastically encored for each selection, but to the disappointment of the audience responded only on the last occasion, when he gave 'The Minstrel Boy,' which was expressively and tunefully rendered."—Times of India, Nov. 21, 1892.

"All Mr. Arthur Taylor's songs were splendidly rendered, and awoke the most enthusiastic feelings of an appreciative audience."—Times of India, Nov. 24, 1892.

"Special interest was felt in the first appearance of Mr. Arthur Taylor, who comes to us with the hall-mark of a London success, and we may say at once that he fully justifies the golden opinions he has won. It may be doubted whether Calcutta has ever heard a finer baritone. The voice is strong, fresh, and resonant, and there was art and character in the singing which the audience was not slow to appreciate."—The Englishman, Dec. 5, 1892.

"Mr. Arthur Taylor is a very good baritone singer, and seems to have perfect command over his voice and words, singing with ease through a very fair register."—Indian Daily News, Dec. 5, 1892.

MR. AUGUSTUS BINGHAM (Bass) is at liberty to negotiate Engagements for Lenten Oratorios. For particulars, address, 5, Priory Road, Bedford Park, Chiswick, W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS LANE (Accompanist) can undertake to play from manuscript. References: Miss Zippora Monteith and Mr. Isidore de Solla. 38, Beckenham Road, S.E.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—Mr. and Mrs. WALLIS A. WALLIS (Bass and Soprano and Elocutionists) have REMOVED from Leeds to 81, Brecknock Road, London, N.

MISS FLORENCE L. FRICKER, A.R.A.M., receives PUPILS for PIANOFORTE, SINGING, VIOLIN, and HARMONY. Lessons given at own or pupil's residence; Schools attended. Miss Fricker accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Address, 43, St. Julian's Road, Kilburn, N.W.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER, Pianist, L.R.A.M. (Perf. and Teacher); Pupil of Hy. Eyers, R.A.M., Prof. Heinrich Barth (Court Pianist, Berlin), and Woldemar Bargiel; highly certificated from the Berlin Königliche Hochschule für Musik (Principal, Dr. Joachim), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Special terms for schools. Highest testimonials. Prepares for all examinations. Address, 2, Colosseum Terrace, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HARP LESSONS.—MISS EMILY DIXON, ex-Scholar of the Royal College of Music and Pupil of Mr. John Thomas (Harpist to Her Majesty the Queen), gives Harp Lessons and accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. Special arrangements made for Schools. Address, 82, Talbot Road, Bayswater, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

MR. HEREFORD CROFT is now prepared to give FLUTE LESSONS, either at his own house or at his Pupils' residences. For terms apply, 22, Cromwell Grove, West Kensington Park, W.

SOLO SINGING and VOICE PRODUCTION.—Mr. GEO. F. GROVER (Organist and Choirmaster, St. Peter-le-Poor, Old Broad Street) gives LESSONS in above, at West End Studio, 84, Oxford Street, and Bank Chambers, 133, Aldersgate Street, E.C.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—New Music, by Arnold Birch: "A Bunch of Violets," 2s.; "Mirthful Monk," 2s. Technical Exercises for the Pianoforte, 3s. Book of new Kyries, Chants, Hymn Tunes, 6d. Master Reginald Butterfield may be engaged for Concerts, &c.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(PRINCIPAL SOPRANO, St. Peter's Church (Catholic), Seel Street, Liverpool).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Répertoire includes "Messiah," "Elijah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Creation," "Acis and Galatea," "Alexander's Feast," "May Queen," "Rose Maiden," "Bride of Dunkerron," &c.; also "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Imperial Mass" (Haydn), "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart), "Requiem" (Mozart); Haydn's, Hummel's, Mozart's, and Beethoven's Masses and Motets, Cherubini's Mass in C, "O fons amoris," "Alma Virgo," "Ave Maria," &c.

For complete répertoire, Press opinions, photo, &c., address, 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool; or, Agent, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS ADA LEE

(Pupil of Dr. Hiles)

(SOPRANO).

For terms and Press notices, address, 45, Monton Street, Greenheys, Manchester.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

Leeds Symphony Concerts, Albert Hall, Leeds.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present season.

ALREADY ENGAGED:—

Crystal Palace, Glasgow, Polytechnic, Kennington, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Salisbury, Bermondsey, Leamington ("Redemption"), Woolwich, Northampton ("Lobgesang" and "Bride of Dunkerron"), Bradford, Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Bristol, Clapton, Perth ("Elijah"), Belfast ("Messiah," two Concerts), Pollokshields, Dunfermline ("May Queen"), Paisley ("Redemption"), Dundee ("Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Greenock ("Acis"), Northampton ("Messiah"), Glasgow Choral Union ("Messiah"), Edinburgh Choral Union ("Messiah"), Nottingham (Ballads), Woolwich, Shoreditch, Newport (I.W.), Darwen, Banbury ("Messiah"), Balham, Richmond, Stratford, Yarmouth ("Samson"), King's Lynn, Islington, Bow and Bromley ("Acis"), St. James's Hall ("Joshua"), Mossley ("Judas"), Blackpool ("Messiah"), Biggleswade ("Creation"), Workington ("Messiah"), Burton-on-Trent (Ballads), Llanelly (Ballads), Accrington ("Sun Worshippers"), Maidstone, Ipswich, Sheffield, Worthing ("Eli"), Epsom ("Elijah"), Dover, Ipswich ("Sleeping Beauty"), &c.

For vacant dates and terms, please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.
Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS.
Carefully trained SOLO and LEADING BOYS for permanent Appointments, Festivals, &c.
MR. GEORGE BUDD,
10, Hafer Road, Clapham Junction.

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., provides SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, &c. Can be heard in competition for engagements with any other Solo Boys by appointment. Address as above.

STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY
(Established 1877, for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),
12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.
CHURCH FESTIVALS of all kinds arranged.
ONE HUNDRED CHOIR BOYS.
CHOIRS of LADIES and GENTLEMEN from 25 to 300 Voices.
ORCHESTRAS of 20 to 100 Performers. All Classes of Artists for Opera, Theatre, Concerts, and for Banquets and Garden Parties.
PERSONAL SUPERVISION.

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK
CONCERT AGENTS
A MUSICAL AGENCY UNDER PROFESSIONAL DIRECTION.
Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are sole Agents for—
THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,
THE WALENN STRING QUARTET,
THE CELIA MALE VOICE QUARTET,
AND
THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS
(Operatic Concert Party under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK).
Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, &c.
BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY
(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).
MADAME LESLIE ARNOTT.
MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS.
MR. BOWYER BRISTOL.
MR. EDMUND EDWARDS.
Solo Pianoforte—
MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.
Solo Violin—
MR. W. H. HENLEY.
Solo Harp—
J. H. COCKERILL
(Sir CHARLES HALLÉ'S BAND).
Conductor and Accompanist—
MR. WALTER J. EVANS.
GOUNOD'S OPERA
PHILEMON AND BAUCIS.
Having made special arrangements with Sir Augustus Harris, the above Party are prepared to accept Engagements for Concert Recitals of the above Opera. For terms address as below.
"... The whole affair, indeed, was very successful, and reflected the greatest credit upon Mr. Walter J. Evans and his associates in its production."—Birmingham Daily Post.
"The English Concert Party, directed by Mr. Walter J. Evans, gave the first provincial rendering in the Town Hall, and must be complimented on the success of the presentation of the opera."—Birmingham Daily Mail.
Applications for terms and vacant dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, London, N.W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S
"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"
CONCERT COMPANY.
All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.
Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

CONCERT AGENTS.
METHVEN, SIMPSON AND CO.,
83, Princes Street, Edinburgh, and 122, Nethergate, Dundee.

INCORPORATED SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS
(formerly the National Society of Professional Musicians).
ESTABLISHED 1882.
To admit to Membership duly qualified Professional Musicians, and to obtain for them formal and acknowledged professional standing—to promote the culture of music—to provide opportunities for personal and social intercourse between the Members—to discuss all matters relating to music or Musicians—and to raise the standard of musical education by means of examinations where required.
The Society now consists of nearly one thousand Members, amongst whom are many of the most eminent musicians of the kingdom.
The Local Examinations are conducted on the following principles: Two Examiners to be present at each Examination—an absolutely definite Syllabus of Requirements—no Local Professional Representatives—Candidates known only to the Examiners by numbers—particulars of marks gained given to each Candidate.
Full particulars may be obtained from the Hon. Secretary, Mr. E. Chadfield, 49, Friar Gate, Derby; or of the Hon. Sectional Secretaries, Mr. J. Liddell, St. Thomas's Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne; Mr. S. Midgley, Oak Avenue, Bradford; Dr. W. H. Hunt, Beresford Road, Oxton, Birkenhead; Mr. A. F. Smith, Mus.B., Derby; Mr. J. Barrett, Imperial Road, Redland, Bristol; Mr. W. Mann-Dyson, L.R.A.M., Worcester; Mr. T. Palmer, Mus.B., Ipswich; Dr. C. Vincent, Kemplay Road, Hampstead, London; Mr. R. B. Moore, Mus.B., Exeter; and Mr. T. Westlake Morgan, the Cathedral, Bangor.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.
February 7, at 8, Lecture by Dr. F. J. Sawyer, "Harmony as found in the works of Grieg," with Illustrations.
March 7, at 8, Lecture by Dr. J. Warriner, "On Transposition."
May 8, Annual College Dinner, at 7.
The College Library and Rooms are open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.
E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

THE BALLAD SINGERS

CONCERT PARTY.

MISS ADA LOARING

(Soprano).

MISS DORA BARNARD

(Contralto).

MR. SADLEUR BROWN

(Tenor).

MR. FRANK SWINFORD

(Bass).

MR. ROLAND HENRY

(Original Musical Sketches and Accompanist).

The above Artists can be engaged together, or separately, for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. For terms, vacant dates, &c., please address, The Secretary, 28, Milner Square, N.

THE ROYAL ACADEMY GLEE SINGERS

For Concerts, Banquets, At Homes, &c.

Address, Mr. E. Marriott (Alto), St. Paul's Cathedral; or, Mr. E. Ottewell, The Royal Academy of Music, W.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:

The Right Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.

The Right Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.Mus. V.C.M. and A.Mus. V.C.M.) and of Associate and Licentiate Organist, Pianist, Vocalist, and Violinist, will take place during Easter week. Local Examinations during March and April.

For further particulars apply to the Secretary.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

For Organists, Choirmasters, Precentors, and Choristers.

President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.

Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

Annual Subscription (Membership), 10s. 6d.; Life, £5 5s.

Choirs Enrolled in Union, 10s. 6d.

July, 1893.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G.

Full set of last Examination Papers, post-free, 13 stamps.

The 1893 Calendar gives full particulars of the Guild, also contains a Table of University Degrees and College Diplomas, with Academic Costume, post-free, 14 stamps.

February Lecture by Mr. Seymour Kelly, F.C.C.G.

For further particulars see The Church Musician, and apply to Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.

A First Grade Public School.

Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.

Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.

Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.

The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

MR. RICHARD MACKWAY'S

SCHOOL OF VOCAL MUSIC,

295, OXFORD STREET, W.

(100 Yards West of Regent Circus).

Inclusive Fees for Private Lessons and all the Classes, from 2½ Guineas per Term. Classes alone, from 7s. per Term. Pupils can join at any time during the Term on payment of proportionate Fees. Prospectuses post-free upon application.

Mr. Richard Mackway can recommend the following, his Pupils, for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.:—

Miss JANE HUNGERFORD .. .. Soprano.
Miss LOUISE WEAVER .. .. Contralto.
Mr. EDMUND BADGER .. .. Tenor.
Mr. GILBERT THORNE .. .. Baritone.

Mr. ISIDORE MARCIL (Bass) has been engaged by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company.

Applications to Mr. Richard Mackway, at the School; or, at 36, Priory Road, Bedford Park, Chiswick.

MANCHESTER SCHOOL OF MUSIC

(Established 1892),

16 & 18, MOUNT STREET, ALBERT SQUARE.

Proprietor and Principal, Mr. J. A. Cross.

The School forms a complete Conservatorium, and offers the best Musical Education obtainable.

Staff of thirty-five leading Professors of the district. Over five hundred entries the first Term.

The next Half-Term commences February 13.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1892); L.R.A.M., 1893; L.L.C.M., 1893; F.C.O., 1893; A.L.C.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M., 1892. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS and Three Silver Medals. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

W. WERREN CURNOW, Organist of Great Queen St. W. Church, receives and visits Pupils for Violin, Piano, Singing, and Harmony LESSONS. Candidates prepared for musical exams. by post. Schools attended. 16, Gt. Russell St., W.C.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First Exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. Fifty successes annually.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS. D.Mus. Lond., L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS, personally or by post, in the Theory of Music (including acoustics). Recent successes. 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.C.O. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., personally or by post. Classes. Preparation for Examinations. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, rapidly and efficiently taught through Correspondence Lessons, by Mr. F. SOMMER, Associate of the London Academy of Music (certified as having "highly distinguished himself as a Harmonist" by the late Professor Wylde, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Gresham Lecturer on Music, &c.). Terms very moderate. Prospectus, giving particulars, and containing an interesting comparison of English and German methods of teaching HARMONY, sent free on application to, 14, Mardale Street, Shepherd's Bush, London, W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus., T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, HISTORY, &c., by Post. Pupils specially prepared for Examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. J. WARRINER prepares Candidates successfully for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, and receives Resident and Professional Students, on advantageous terms, if talented and able to teach. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—Mr. ERNEST LAKE, Org. and Mus. Dir., All Saints', Kensington Park, has now a VACANCY for a talented YOUTH. Full Cathedral Services and large Organ with engine. Thorough professional training, with exceptional advantages when qualified. Moderate premium. Address, with full particulars and references, 57, Burlington Road, W.

TO VOCAL STUDENTS.—A well-known London Professor of Singing and Production offers INSTRUCTION and influential introductions to a really good voice in return for a very moderate fee for BOARD and RESIDENCE whilst studying. Applicants must give full details as to range of voice and musical abilities. Address, in first instance, Conductor, Street and Co., 30, Cornhill, E.C.

RESIDENT PIANO STUDENT (Amateur or Professional) can be received into home of experienced Pianoforte Professor at Eastbourne, for short or long period. Great advantages. Thorough artistic and technical training. Address, Pianist, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—A well-known Organist and Choirmaster has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Exceptional advantages. Moderate premium. Address, by letter, Conductor, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

THE Organist of St. Michael's, Coventry, has a VACANCY for an ARTICLED PUPIL. Full Cathedral Services. Four-manual Willis Organ. H. C. Perrin, Mus. Bac., F.C.O., Grosvenor Road, Coventry.

MR. HENSCHEL'S CHOIR.—As it is the intention of Mr. Henschel to give a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, it will be necessary to AUGMENT the CHOIR largely for this occasion. All those singers who have previously taken part in this work are invited to apply immediately to the Secretary, Mr. Stedman, 12, Berners Street, W.

HAMPSTEAD PARISH CHURCH.—A SOLO BOY WANTED. Apply to Mr. James Shaw, Organist and Choirmaster, 140, Fellows Road, Hampstead, N.W.

TWO BOYS with good Treble voices WANTED, at once, for St. Thomas's, Portman Square, W. £10 a year. Apply at Church on Wednesday, at 8.

SOLO CHOIR BOY WANTED, for a North London Church. £20 per annum. Reply, with full particulars, to Chorister, Messrs. Novello and Co., Queen Street, Cheapside, E.C.

TWO ALTOS (good readers) REQUIRED. St. Mary, Boltons. Address, Edgar T. Evetts, 8, Disraeli Rd., Ealing.

ST. MARY, Stoke Newington, N.—In consequence of the appointment of Mr. E. E. Taylor to H.M. Chapel Royal there is a VACANCY for an ALTO in the Choir of the above Church. There will also be a VACANCY for a TENOR at Ladyday. Services: Sunday and Good Friday, morning and evening; Christmas Day, morning only; Ash Wednesday, Ascension Day, and December 31, evening only. Rehearsal on Friday evenings. Stipend, £25 per annum for each appointment. Address, M., Belgrave House, Richmond, Surrey.

ALTO and BASS WANTED, for Holy Trinity Church, Gray's Inn Road. Salary, £8 to £10 each (according to ability). Apply to Organist.

A TENOR is REQUIRED for St. Barnabas', Bell Street, Edgware Road. Salary, £20. Apply, by letter, to the Choirmaster, Mr. W. S. Hoyte, 68, Boundary Road, N.W.

TENOR WANTED, for All Saints', S. Lambeth, in return for Piano or Organ Lessons and Practice on three-manual organ. Address, Walter Attersoll, 76, Studley Road, Clapham.

A BARITONE REQUIRED, by the Ambleside Choral Society, for Tuesday, April 4, to take Solos, &c., in Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Send terms, &c., to Thomas Bell, Ambleside.

BASSES and TENORS (Voluntary) WANTED, at once, for St. Thomas's Church, Portman Square, W. Must be good readers. Gounod's "Redemption," Part I. (with Orchestral Accompaniment), on Good Friday. Apply on Friday, at 8.

BASS WANTED, for the Choir of St. Luke's Church, Westbourne Park. £12. Apply, by letter, to Mr. G. E. Bambridge, 19, St. Luke's Road, Westbourne Park.

BASS (not Baritone) for St. Peter's, Regent Square, King's Cross. Must read well and be a communicant. £10 a year. Vicar, 1A, Russell Square, W.C.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—There will be a competition for a BASS CHORAL SCHOLARSHIP on Feb. 23, 1893. Value, £80 for three years. For further information apply to the Dean.

SOPRANO.—Pupil of David Strong, Esq., at Guildhall School of Music, desires APPOINTMENT in Church Choir. Some experience. C. G., 171, Stanhope Street, N.W.

THOROUGHLY trained Contralto Vocalist, to increase her Clientèle, will give her services in London and suburbs in Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expenses only. Address, Concert, 24, Glengarry Road, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

WANTED, by SOLO TENOR, a good Church APPOINTMENT. Many years' experience in a first class Church Choir. B. C. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., Queen Street, E.C.

ORGANIST and TEACHER of SINGING REQUIRED, middle of February, to carry on the work of Teacher leaving for England. Excellent field for Pupils and Singing classes (Sol-fa chiefly). To a suitable man the advertiser will hand over his connection free for eighteen months (worth £100 a year). The post will be, most probably, a permanency. Most fashionable summer resort in the North of Scotland, bracing air, and magnificent scenery. Apply, stating experience and qualifications, to Delta, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ST. MARY, BROOKFIELD.—ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER REQUIRED, at once. £70 per annum. Apply, by letter only, to Vicar, 81, Dartmouth Park Road, N.W. No answer returned to unlikely candidates.

ORGANIST WANTED, for St. Peter's Church, St. Albans. Three Sunday and one week-day service. Must be capable of training a choir. Apply, stating age, full particulars of qualifications, and salary required, to the Churchwardens.

ORGANIST (F.C.O.) requires CHURCH APPOINTMENT. In or near London or Brighton. Good testimonials from eminent Church Organists. Address, Cecilia, 242, Tottenham Court Road, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER.—An APPOINTMENT WANTED, as above. Good Choirmaster. Excellent testimonials. A. L. Arnold, 16, Victoria Terrace, Buxton.

ORGANIST.—Gentleman holding important appointment will be very shortly disengaged. Communicant. Eight years' experience. Excellent testimonials. Diapason, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.C.O.), Conductor of Choral and Orchestral Society, desires CHANGE of APPOINTMENT where there is good opening for teaching. Present post held seven years. Good churchman. Excellent testimonials. Address, New College, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires post near London. Can tune. Excellent testimonials. Twelve years present post. Burton, Egerton, Kent.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Excellent testimonials. Would deputise. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

PRESIDENT:
The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.

WARDEN:
Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.

DIRECTOR OF EXAMINATIONS:
Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus.B.

At the Thirty-ninth Half-yearly Higher Examinations, the following CANDIDATES PASSED:—

LICENTIATES IN MUSIC.—Lizzie Kenyon, Edward Mason, Mus.B.; Frederick G. Steinhardt, Mus.B.; Katherine Swain.

ASSOCIATES IN MUSIC.—Frederick Bowman, B.A; Clara May Buckman, Herbert Entwistle, Amy Julia Holloway, James Henry Lucas, Nellie Stedman, Flora Louisa Willoughby.

PRELIMINARY DIVISION CERTIFICATES (ASSOCIATE IN MUSIC).—Arthur Addison Barker, Clara Louisa Daniell, George Henry Golledge, Maud Raggi.

MATRICULATION CERTIFICATES.—PASS.—Rose Chant, Alice Minnie Jones, Kate Sarah King. HONOURS.—Lucie Florence Cripps, Nellie Harris.

ASSOCIATE PIANISTS.—Grace Edith Braybrook, Martha Hawthorne Butcher, Alice Hester Carmalt, Ada Martha Coviello, Annie Maud Cretchley, Ester Jane Fox, Clara Matilda Nock, Mary Agnes Procter.

CERTIFICATED PIANISTS.—Margaret Bonny, Minnie Louisa Born, Oliver Oldham Brooksbank, Isabel Crowther, Kate Florence Day, Louisa Griffiths, Jessie Helen Grove, Constance Helen Handley, Elsie G. Harding, Mary Eleanor James, Ellie Maclaren, Annie Louise Mixer, Mary Telfair Nott, Florence Louise Palmer, Ada Amelia Pine, Beatrice Mary Richards, Ida Mary Rogers, Winifred Lottie Shepherd, Francis M. Snudden, Mary Catherine Squire, Walter Hadyn Staveley, Catherine Stewart, Edith Isabel Taylor, Vivian Trethouen, Lucy Caroline Underdowe, Mabel Whiting, Thekla Editha Zillhardt-Uhlhorn.

CERTIFICATED VOCALIST.—Esther Jane Fox.

CERTIFICATED ORGANIST.—Hannah Ann Cooper.

ASSOCIATE VIOLINIST.—Ernest Gann Cox.

CERTIFICATED VIOLINISTS.—Elsie Kate Durrell, Edward Moulding, Mary Williams.

COUNTERPOINT CERTIFICATE. — HONOURS. — Kate Fairbridge, A.T.C.L.

Total number of entries, 183; total number of passes, 65.

By order of the Academical Board,
J. GORDON SAUNDERS, Mus.D., Registrar.

All communications to be addressed to Mr. Shelley Fisher, Secretary, Trinity College, London, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (LOW VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (LOW VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (HIGH VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (HIGH VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS EACH PART.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE FOREST FLOWER

A CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

SPENCER HENRY

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

EDMUND ROGERS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "BROADWOOD" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR FEBRUARY.

Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, Postage free, 2s.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR FEBRUARY

Contains: General Notes—Evening Continuation Classes—The Leeds School Board—Mr. Rotherham's Paper—The Solmisation of the Minor Scale, by W. G. McNaught—How to combine Time and Tune—The Progress of Music in Elementary Schools—Sunday School Singing—Writing Exercises for Pupil Teachers and Junior Pupils—Correspondence—General News.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR FEBRUARY

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"The Over-Crafty Fox," Unison Song, adapted by G. Linley—"The Little Valley," Trio for S.S.B., arranged by Lowell Mason—"The Swallows," Two-part Song, by Schumann—Specimen Time and Tune Tests for Pupil Teachers and Schools, by W. G. McNaught.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

Just Published.

FLORABEL

(A FAIRY TALE)

A CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

Written by EDWARD OXENFORD.

COMPOSED BY

ROLAND ROGERS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
FEBRUARY 1, 1893.

MUSIC IN PUBLIC WORSHIP.*

THE author of these thoughtful and well written essays has conferred a benefit on the public by issuing them in book form instead of allowing them to remain locked up in the columns of the Church Times, in which they originally appeared. As a former minor canon of St. Paul's, and as a present hard-working parish priest, Mr. Shuttleworth has had exceptional opportunities of balancing the rival theories of church music—the "cathedral" and the "congregational." It may be safely assumed that no one is desirous of turning cathedral music out of cathedrals themselves, and our national pride in those glorious fabrics makes us all hope that they may, in the future, as in the past, be nurseries of the art of sacred music in its highest branches. The real question which now seems to be calling for an answer is—should the music in our parish churches be such as can only be properly rendered by a trained choir (cathedral-wise), or should it be of such a character that the whole congregation may join in it? Of course there are attempts at compromise made from time to time by moderate men. There is the complete separation of the two styles. This was adopted nearly half-a-century ago by the late Sir F. Ouseley, who had a Sunday morning service, at which several hymns were sung, but the whole of the rest of the service, including the Psalms and Canticles, was monotoned. In the afternoon and evening of course full choral services took place. Then there is the compromise made in a single service, by using the choir merely to lead, or join with the congregation during the singing of the Canticles, Psalms, and hymns, but permitting the introduction of an anthem to be sung by the choir alone. Another suggestion is offered by Mr. Shuttleworth—namely, that the ordinary services should be quite congregational, but that there should also be special services at which cantatas and oratorios might be given with all the resources of art. All these compromises have their merit, but all, too, have their demerits. The various arguments are stated by Mr. Shuttleworth with a fairness and frankness which make his little book excellent reading. But though our author is so thoughtful and wise, there are many amongst our clergy who are running rather wildly away from everything which smacks of cathedralism in music, and are trying to establish a purely congregational service, every scrap of melody and harmony being rubbed down to a congregational level. Leaving our author for awhile, let us ask why it is that these rival theories have lately come so much to the front?

Many of us can recall the fact that the regeneration and new development of our cathedral music is largely, if not entirely, due to the influence of music in certain parish churches. Clergy and musicians about forty years ago found to their astonishment a splendid full choral daily service in a small church in a dirty narrow street leading out of Oxford Street. It had been often thought and said that the cathedral form of service led to careless singing and to lazy and listless congregations, but here was proof to the contrary; choir and congregation were equally zealous and devotional, and one of the best proofs of the appreciation in which the people held the fine cathedral service at St. Andrew's was that the offertories amounted to thousands of pounds annually, enough to support not only the musicians, but a large staff of clergy, and to make the district an important centre of church work and church influence. The noble example here and elsewhere shown led to the rapid spread of choral services all over the country. Every small church where a modest number of singers could be gathered together set to work to make itself a miniature cathedral; and there could be no doubt that ultimately efforts were made and are made now to produce choral services without adequate resources. We ourselves have frequently had to sit and hear fine cathedral music shockingly sung and absolutely ruined, the congregation getting more and more weary and restless as the singers would go on floundering through some elaborate Nicene Creed or endless anthem. It is no wonder that there is now a strong reaction against this bad "imitation-cathedral" system, and that clergy and people are alike asking whether easy music sung by a congregation is not, after all, better than difficult music spoiled by an inefficient choir. There is, then, going on at this moment the back-swing of a pendulum which had gone too far in one direction. But must we not fear that this back-swing may possibly go too far the other way? Perhaps there would be no need of fear if Mr. Shuttleworth were at the helm of affairs, but there are few men who have such a share of sound common-sense as he, or who are either sufficiently calm or logical to state the case so fairly. He admits in an interesting passage (p. 7) that our church cannot get on without the Art of Music, but of course it is at this point the duty of the musician to step in and see that all the special beauties and characteristics of our art are not lopped off in order to reduce it to a congregational level. If the voice parts may rarely touch the note D because it is too high for congregational basses, or go below E because that is too low for congregational tenors—if no sound is to be longer than a semibreve or shorter than a crotchet—no words to be repeated, and no syllable to have more than one sound—the voices to be entirely in unison and the organ part simple—is there much art left? Yet these are positively the conditions under which the writer of this article was once requested to compose a Te Deum, the mighty Ambrosian Hymn of praise and prayer!

These stringent regulations about the music of the Canticles, and the prevailing summary ejectment of all hymn-tunes which cannot be sung in unison, point to the fact (already well known to musicians) that there is no hope, at all events at present, of getting any real art into, or out of, ordinary congregational singers. Of course hymn-tunes will suffer least, because such grand and noble results are obtainable by large masses of simple rhythmical sounds; but the "rampant congregationalist" has not the least idea of allowing himself to be bribed by a liberal offer of unison hymn-tunes into silence during the Psalms or Canticles! He has now reached such a point that he considers himself "defrauded" and "robbed" if the choir sing something which he cannot sing, notwithstanding the fact that the choir would sing it decently and to the glory of God, while he attempts it ludicrously and to the annoyance of his neighbours.

These rampant congregationalists, who consider themselves so unmercifully robbed and defrauded, are often found to be the section who have the smallest appreciation of art, and the worst voices and ears in the parish. We have taken some personal trouble to track these creatures to their lairs by sitting amongst them at ordinary services, in ordinary towns, in all parts of the kingdom, and we are bound to say we have barely half-a-dozen times heard a decent voice among them, and that they rarely produce anything which by the most charitable stretch of the imagination could be described as "singing," the nearest description of the peculiar noise they make would be to say that it is something between a buzz and a drone, something between a bee and a bagpipe.

* "The Place of Music in Public Worship." H. C. Shuttleworth, M.A. (Eliot Stock.)

Moreover, when all sorts of sacrifices have been made to appease the rampant congregationalist; when keys have been lowered, passing notes cut out, when triple time has been converted into duple because he has some difficulty in counting two and one, when all tunes which exceed an octave in compass have been suppressed in the interest of his larynx—in short, when half the characteristics and all the grace of our art have been burnt in a lurid parochial bonfire, do you imagine for one moment that he will assent to a request to sing in future in unison: not a bit of it! He is an irrepressible harmonizer, he rises above all known laws, and will essay combinations of sounds which have never yet been dreamt of in this world and which we trust will never be realized in the next. Surely, if our clergy in the kindliness of their hearts throw power into an organised body of such persons, they are simply adjusting a collar round their own necks.

We do not go so far as to admit the sarcastic definition of congregational singing as "a licence to make an unmitigated noise in church without the fear of being run in for brawling," but we do entreat our clergy to be very careful not to allow the present claims of congregationalists to bring about a serious relapse in church music, or to strike a heavy blow at real art. Such an injury will not result from any action or words of Mr. Shuttleworth; but there are others who have their opinions on the subject. A clerical speaker lately said at a public meeting (we quote from memory): "When the art of music gets into our churches, then the mischief begins!" Please think over this, readers of all sorts—the mischief! But to revert, as we promised we would, to Mr. Shuttleworth's suggestion to keep the ordinary services for the congregation, and to give special services of high artistic merit. Is there any objection to this? We think there is. Special services with soloists, chorus, and orchestra can only be successfully carried out in a few large towns, in which artists can be found and brought together, and where the offertories are likely to be sufficient to meet the expenses. To one parish in which such a performance could be given, there are probably nearly a thousand in which it could not be given; if, then, art is to be eliminated from the ordinary services of these churches, no higher music can be offered as an alternative. By all means let such special services be given wherever possible, but do not forget that in proportion as a church is distant from a large town, the expense of a special service is uniformly greater while its offertories are uniformly less in amount.

But underlying all this there is something far deeper and even more serious. The present outburst of congregationalism in music is not merely a protest against too much cathedralism in parish churches; look well into it, and you will find that, whether supported by a High Church priest or a Low Church minister, it is a logical and necessary outcome of Protestant individualism — the over-accentuation of the "priesthood of the laity." Held in check, this is the mainspring of the mechanism of our English Church, as exhibited in "lay helpers" and "lay synods"; allowed to run riot, it will end in "parish councils" (already suggested), in which all questions of ecclesiastical authority and practice will be decided by counting the number of noses of conflicting ratepayers duly assembled in the vestry. It is not a mere coincidence that the growth of something like eight thousand chorales in Germany alone should have begun simultaneously with the placing of the Bible in the hands of old and young, wise and foolish, with the promise that each could, if he chose, construct his own doctrine, ritual, and practice. We have got beyond the satisfaction of participating in hymn-singing, our congregations now claim to sing all the Canticles and the whole of the prose Psalms, the Sanctus, and Gloria in Excelsis, and even ask for the introduction of numerous popular hymns in the Eucharist.

How far these claims are justified by the rubrics of the Prayer Book is not a question to be decided in a musical journal; but speaking as plain common-sense students of the book, we understand that the term "the people" clearly means the congregation, and that when the people are ordered to join the "minister" or "minister and clerk" it signifies that the congregation is to join in the singing of "the clergy and choir." If this be so, the congregation is ordered to join in the Apostles' Creed and The Lord's Prayer; but the Canticles and Psalms are to be "sung or said," by whom? clearly not by the people, or these very necessary words would not have been omitted by the skilful and wary compilers. So this just claim of the people to be allowed to say the Creed and Lord's Prayer has gradually swollen into a demand for almost everything not an essential portion of the priest's office; and this is what the congregation calls taking part in the services!

Our congregations are apparently losing the power of meditating in silence and to their higher edification on truths beautifully depicted by a trained choir in the tone-colours of our heaven-born art. If a choir performs something, better than the congregation itself could possibly do it, the congregation has, forsooth, been defrauded and robbed—that is to say, it has actually been deprived of its privilege of doing something badly, at a time and in a place where only the best and choicest should be offered up. Is this a fraud? is this robbery? Or, to put it in a colloquial form, are we to drift with the stream of popularity and allow everyone to have a finger in the pie, even if we know that the pie will inevitably be spoiled by the process? Such a course is nothing more or less than the high road to the Salvation Army barracks; we may as well hand round cornets and tambourines at once. Is it really impossible to teach our congregations that he who is capable of silent praise and prayer during a Te Deum reaps more spiritual benefit than the man who is trying to catch the tune, who cannot help wondering why it sometimes goes high and sometimes low, and who, after a struggle which has completely absorbed his attention, finishes the last verse with a gleam of self-satisfaction because "he got it right that time." It will be said ordinary people do not know how to meditate in silence; if true, the sooner they are instructed in it the better. What our people really want, in order that they may fully benefit by public worship in our parish churches, is not a knowledge of the rudiments of music, but of the true theory of worship; not how to sing, but how to think. Unless some effort is made in this direction, and made pretty soon, not only will the art of church music be in jeopardy, but the very existence of all that is most ennobling and edifying in our conception of the Church will be imperilled. We have already overrun the ordinary limits of a review, but if Mr. Shuttleworth gives so much food for thought, it is his own fault if we have been tempted to give some of the thoughts he has called up in us. When once taken in the hand, it is difficult to put down these essays until the last page is reached, even if the reader does not always fully agree with the writer.

FROM MY STUDY.

I am indebted to a valued correspondent (Mr. Andrew Deakin) for the following note upon a curious coincidence or a bold piece of literary "conveying":—

Having occasion to look through a collection of Glees entitled "Amusement for the Ladies," which the late Mr. W. A. Barrett (in his "English Glees and Part-Songs") mentions as now very rare, I came upon one, "On the Death of the Duke of Cumberland," by Thomas Norris, Organist of St. John's, Oxford. The words are:

O'er William's tomb, with silent grief opprest,
Britannia mourns her hero, now at rest.
Not tears alone, but praises too, she gives,
Due to the Guardian of our laws and lives.
Nor shall that laurel ever fade with years
Whose leaves are watered with a nation's tears.

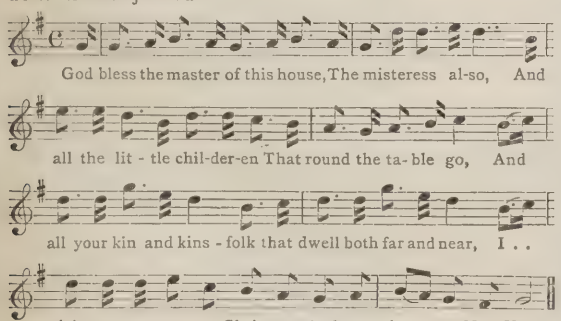
Has the similarity of these lines to those of the recitative beginning Braham's "Death of Nelson" ever been notified? The Duke of Cumberland died in 1765, and in or about 1770 Norris published his four Glees. He was one of the principal tenors at the 1784 Commemoration of Handel and principal tenor at the first, second, third, and fifth Birmingham Festivals. He died in 1790. "The Death of Nelson" was composed in 1811 for an opera entitled "The Americans," the music partly by M. P. King and partly by Braham.

How anybody could make a hero of this particular William passes my conception. I like Carlyle's reference to him as a general who was beaten by everybody who took the trouble.

Writing from Linthorpe, Middlesbrough, Miss Ada M. Williams says:

The carol beginning "God bless the master of this house, The mistress also," &c., used constantly to be sung in South Durham at Christmas-time; I have heard it many times sung by village children, but they did not attempt to sing it in parts, and now I believe it has died out altogether. I enclose a copy of the melody, as far as I can remember it, to which the children used to sing it, and I shall be interested to hear if it corresponds at all with the same carol as printed in the black-letter book in the Ashmoleian Museum.

The words and tune forwarded by my correspondent are subjoined—



God bless the master of this house, The misteress al-so, And all the lit - tle chil-der-en That round the ta-ble go, And all your kin and kins - folk that dwell both far and near, I . . wish you a mer - ry Christmas And a hap - py New Year.

Mr. Arthur Cawse Edmunds asks permission to supplement the particulars already given by me regarding the Misses Cawse. As a son of the elder of these once famous ladies (Mary Cawse), he is fully entitled to speak—

Firstly, with regard to their name. The spelling of it with a u, instead of a w, in the programme mentioned, was simply a printer's error. They were the daughters of John Cawse, an eminent artist in his day, who will be remembered as the illustrator of the original edition of Captain Marryat's Novels, published by Bentley; also of many of Fennimore Cooper's and other well-known authors. The name of Cawse was originally Descazes, that of a French Duke, from whom the family claim descent.

My mother died in 1850, and I quote from an article which appeared in the Musical World in that year:

"As early as her fourth year Mary Cawse showed a singular taste for music, and when only seven years of age played on the pianoforte the Fifth Concerto of Schroder, accompanied by the distinguished Professors G. Ware, James Taylor, &c. The sisters were articled to Sir George Smart, and studied under him for many years. Weber, at that time residing with Sir George, heard Mary Cawse sing the principal soprano part in Mozart's 'Direttore Commedia,' and was so much struck with the fine quality of her fresh, ringing voice, and the extraordinary facility with which she executed passages extending to F in alt, that he exclaimed, 'Ah! if I had you in Saxony I would make you the first singer in Europe!' The Minstrel of Romance understood her talent. She had afterwards the great advantage of singing the scenas 'Ocean, thou mighty Monster,' 'Softly sighs the voice of evening,' &c., to the great Maestro's accompaniment, and he took every opportunity of testifying his appreciation of her merits. She made her first appearance at the Theatre Royal, Covent Garden, in the opera of 'The Castle of Sorrento," in 1826. Her success was decided, and she was engaged for five years, during which time her services were also secured for the Oratorios under the management of Sir George Smart, Sir Henry Bishop, and Mr. Hawes. During her connection with Covent Garden Mary Cawse supported principal singing parts in 'Fra Diavolo,' 'Der Freischütz,' 'Robert the Devil,' 'John of Paris,' 'Cinderella,' &c. In 1828-29 we find her at the English Opera, where she appeared in 'The Swiss Family,' 'The Vampire,' 'Cosi Fan Tutti,' &c. In 1832-33 she appeared at Drury Lane Theatre with Malibran, Templeton, H. Phillips, &c. Her last appearance in London was at the Haymarket Theatre in the summer of 1833; and in the November following she left for Hull, where she had accepted an engagement as a 'star,' and appeared at the Theatre Royal with eminent success.

"It was here that she first became acquainted with Mr. Edmunds, who was engaged to support her as principal tenor. At the close of the season she married this gentleman, and after fulfilling engagements at York, Edinburgh, and Liverpool, she finally, with her husband, retired from the stage, to the great loss of the musical world."

In the "Personal Recollections of Henry Phillips," published in 1864, he speaks thus of the first appearance of the Misses Cawse: "Most of the principal singers stood at the side of the orchestra to hear them, including Mr. Braham. At the end of their first duet his opinion was solicited, and he said, 'Very good indeed: great effects from little Cawses.'" Phillips goes on to say, speaking of their appearance in Marschner's beautiful opera "Der Vampyr": "The Misses Cawse had now gained considerable reputation, as, indeed, they deserved, for both had beautiful voices; the elder, Mary, having a high soprano, and Harriet, a mezzo-soprano of great beauty and expression. Her singing of that beautiful melody in the opera, 'From the ruin's topmost tower,' was one of the most enchanting things I ever listened to, and never failed in its effect, being invariably encored."

It has been a matter of much surprise that the names of these talented ladies have been omitted from Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians"; but they are not singular in this respect.

The Misses Cawse were both very handsome, especially the elder, who received, among other offers of marriage, one from a noble earl, which, however, she declined. My father possesses a charming picture by M. T. Ward, R.A. (who was a pupil of my grandfather, John Cawse), representing Mary Cawse and Braham in a scene from "Fra Diavolo."

The following lines appeared some time during he operatic career:

Breathe soft, ye gales; ye waters cease to move,
Lo! Cawse appears, the softest child of love,
Blest in a form all harmony and grace,
While Heaven's own sweetness opens in her face;—
In the mild round of interesting parts,
Where placid virtue grows upon our hearts;
Where calm-souled goodness strongly can engage,
Charm without force, and vanquish without rage—
In these to fame young Cawse must quickly rise—
She boasts of merit—conquering as her eyes.

As far as I am aware, the attention of composers on the look out for "words" has never yet been directed to William Blake's "Poetical Sketches"—the first production of the muse to which we owe the "Songs of Innocence and Experience." The little book is not common. Concerning the original issue (1783), Blake's biographer, Gilchrist, remarks: "Examples are so rare that, after some years' vain attempt, I am forced to abandon the idea of myself owning the book. I have had to use a copy borrowed from one of Blake's surviving friends; there is, of course, none where, at any rate, there should be one—in the British Museum." A few years ago, a fac-simile edition of fifty copies was issued (Quaritch), under the superintendence of Mr. Griggs. One of these I am fortunate enough to possess, and I believe Mr. Quaritch still has a very limited number for sale. It was on re-perusing the little book some days ago that I saw apparently good reason for calling attention to it in these pages.

The "Poetical Sketches" are the first-fruits of Blake's genius, and were written between the ages of eleven and twenty. The date of the latest among them is supposed to be 1777—a barren time, according to Mr. Swinburne, from whose Essay on the poet I take the following:—

"Here, at a time when the very notion of poetry, as we now understand it, and as it was understood in older times, had totally died and decayed out of the minds of men; when we not only had no poetry, a thing which was bearable, but had verse in plenty, a thing which was not in the least bearable; a man, hardly twenty years old yet, turns up suddenly, with work in that line already done, not simply better than any man could do then; better than all except the greatest have done since: better, too, than some still ranked among the greatest ever managed to do."

This is high praise, but the living poet offers still more enthusiastic homage to his dead predecessor. After referring particularly to certain of the poems, Mr. Swinburne goes on:—

"They have a fragrance of sound, a melody of colour, in a time when the best verses produced had merely the arid perfume of powder, the twang of dry wood and adjusted strings; when here the painting was laid on in patches and there the music meted out by precedent; colour and sound never mixed together in the perfect scheme of poetry. The texture of these songs has the softness of flowers; the touch of them has nothing metallic or mechanical, such as one feels in much excellent and elaborate verse of this day as well as of that. The sound of many verses of Blake's cleaves to the sense long after conscious thought of the meaning has passed from one: a sound like running of water or ringing of bells in a long lull of the wind."

Considering that the writer of this eulogium is himself a great poet, I am sure that the lyric hunter among my readers who does not know the "Poetical Sketches" looks eagerly forward to making their acquaintance. In another place, our essayist says: "Some of these earliest songs of Blake's have the scent and sound of Elizabethan times upon them," and instances a song of forsaken love, "My silks and fine array," which he describes as sweet enough to recall the lyrics of Beaumont and Fletcher. Of this the reader shall judge for himself:

My silks and fine array,
My smiles and languished air,
By love are driven away;
And mournful, lean Despair
Brings me yew to deck my grave:
Such end true lovers have.

Her face is fair as heav'n,
When springing buds unfold;
O why to him was't given
Whose heart is wintry cold?
His breast is love's all-worshipp'd tomb,
Where all love's pilgrims come.

Bring me an axe and spade,
Bring me a winding sheet;
When I my grave have made,
Let winds and tempests beat:
Then down I'll lie, as cold as clay.
True love doth pass away!

The Elizabethan flavour is here, in sooth, and a fragrance of the fresh flowers of English poetry. Has no one such music for the song as may be worthy?

Out of the following lines "To Morning" music seems to leap:

O holy virgin! clad in purest white,
Unlock heav'n's golden gates and issue forth;
Awake the dawn that sleeps in heav'n; let light
Rise from the chambers of the east and bring
The honied dew that cometh on waking day.
O radiant morning, salute the sun,
Rous'd like a huntsman to the chace; and with Thy buskin'd feet appear upon our hills.

I can fancy how Webbe, in his best mood, would have treated this glowing outburst, this ideal poetry for concerted music. Take an invocation "To the Evening Star" as equal in merit, and not less valuable for musical purposes:

Thou fair-hair'd angel of the evening,
Now, whilst the sun rests on the mountains, light
Thy bright torch of love; thy radiant crown
Put on, and smile upon our evening bed!
Smile on our loves, and while thou drawest the Blue curtains of the sky, scatter thy silver dew
On every flower that shuts its sweet eyes
In timely sleep. Let thy west wind sleep on
The lake; speak silence with thy glimmering eyes,
And wash the dusk with silver. Soon, full soon,
Dost thou withdraw; then the wolf rages wide,
And the lion glares through the dim forest:
The fleeces of our flocks are covered with Thy sacred dew; protect them with thine influence.

Mr. Swinburne contends that nothing nobler or more sweet in style was ever written than the six lines beginning "Smile on our loves."

There is another "Song" of incomparable beauty and purest fancy:

How sweet I roam'd from field to field,
And tasted all the summer's pride,
Till I the prince of love beheld,
Who in the sunny beams did glide.

He showed me lilies for my hair,
And blushing roses for my brow;
He led me through his gardens fair,
Where all his golden pleasures grow.

With sweet May dews my wings were wet,
And Phœbus fired my vocal rage
He caught me in his silken net,
And shut me in his golden cage.

He loves to sit and hear me sing,
Then, laughing, sports and plays with me;
Then stretches out my golden wing,
And mocks my loss of liberty.

In all the literature of the grand passion there is nothing more exquisite than this.

The song "To Memory" is described by Mr. Swinburne as one of two which are "more near being faultless than any others in the book":

Memory, hither come,
And tune your merry notes,
And, while upon the wind
Your music floats,
I'll pore upon the stream,
Where sighing lovers dream,
And fish for fancies as they pass—
Within the watery glass.

I'll drink of the clear stream,
And hear the linnet's song,
And there I'll lie and dream
The day along;
And when night comes, I'll go
To places fit for woe;
Walking along the darkened valley
With silent Melancholy.

With the foregoing may be classed four stanzas, "To the Muses," which have the same beauty of thought and expression:

Whether on Ida's shady brow,
Or in the chambers of the East,
The chambers of the sun, that now
From ancient melody have ceased

Whether in Heav'n ye wander fair,
Or the green corners of the earth,
Or the blue regions of the air,
Where the melodious winds have birth;

Whether on crystal rocks ye rove,
Beneath the bosom of the sea,
Wandering in many a coral grove,
Fair Nine, forsaking Poetry!

How have you left the ancient love
The bards of old enjoy'd in you!
The languid strings do scarcely move!
The sound is forc'd, the notes are few!

The lovely "Songs of Innocence" have been set to music by various hands (but never, I venture to believe, quite adequately). A like tribute should be paid to those of the "Poetical Sketches" which seem best fitted for musical treatment. In view of such a task, all notions of popularity and profit should be set aside. Blake's little book—like every other from his pen—attracted little notice. It went clean over the heads of his generation, and when his early songs are wedded to fitting strains only the few will give them heed.

While on the subject of lyrics for music, I may express some surprise that the poems of W. Mackworth Praed have not more largely attracted the notice of composers. Praed was not a Blake, and no Swinburne has sung his praises in dithyrambic strains. Nevertheless, he wrote many beautiful verses of the sort that cultured musicians love. His works were published in 1864, by Moxon and Co., as "The Poems of Winthrop Mackworth Praed, with a Memoir by the Rev. Derwent Coleridge, in two Volumes." I do not know whether the work ran into more editions than one, but copies are not difficult to obtain. A fair example of Praed's lyrics is the subjoined:

Tell him I love him yet,
As in that joyous time;
Tell him I ne'er forget,
Though memory now be crime;
Tell him when sad moonlight
Is over earth and sea,
I dream of him by night,—
He must not dream of me!

Tell him to go where Fame
Looks proudly on the brave,
Tell him to win a name
By deeds on land and wave;
Green—green upon his brow
The laurel wreath shall be,
Although the laurel now
May not be shared by me!

. . . . .

And tell him, day by day
Life looks to me more dim;
I falter when I pray,
Although I pray for him.
And bid him, when I die,
Come to our favourite tree;
I shall not hear him sigh,—
Then let him sigh for me.

Here is something in a different style—the text of a dashing song for a baritone:

The Baron de Vaux hath a valiant crest,—
My Lady is fair and free;
The Baron is full of mirth and jest,—
My Lady is full of glee;
But their path, we know, is a path of woe,
And many the reason guess,—
The Baron will ever mutter "No,"
When my Lady whispers "Yes."

The Baron will pass the wine-cup round,—
My Lady forth will roam;
The Baron will out with horse and hound,—
My Lady sits at home;
The Baron will go to draw the bow,—
My Lady will go to chess;
And the Baron will ever mutter "No,"
When my Lady whispers "Yes."

. . . . .

Now saddle my steed, and helm my head,
Be ready in the porch;
Stout Guy, with a ladder of silken thread,
And trusty Will, with a torch:
The wind may blow, the current flow,—
No matter,—on we press;
I never can hear the Baron's "No,"
When my Lady whispers "Yes."

One more example of Praed may suffice, since it is a very good one:

Lord Ronald rose and went to mass,
And doffed his mourning weed!
And bade them bring a looking-glass,
And saddle fast a steed;
I'll deck with gems my bonnet's loop,
And wear a feather fine,
And when lorn lovers sit and droop,
Why I will sit and dine!
Sing merrily, sing merrily,
And fill the cup of wine.

Though Elgitha be thus untrue,
Adèle is beauteous yet;
And he that's baffled by the blue
May bow before the jet;
So welcome—welcome hall or heath!
So welcome shower or shine!
And wither there, thou willow wreath,
Thou never shalt be mine!
Sing merrily, &c.

Proud Elgitha, a health to thee,—
A health in brimming gold!
And store of lovers after me,
As honest and less cold:
My hand is on my bugle horn,
My boat is on the brine;
If ever gallant died of scorn,
I shall not die of thine!
Sing merrily, &c.

Even in the more obscure by-ways of lyric poetry composers may find verses worthy of their art. For example, I take up "The Ballads of Ireland. Collected and Edited by Edward Hayes. Two Volumes. A. Fullarton & Co., 1855," and open Volume II. at a song, by D. H. McCarthy, containing the stanzas subjoined:

Ah! my heart is sore with sighing,
Sighing for the May—
Sighing for their sure returning,
When the summer beams are burning,
Hopes and flowers that, dead or dying,
All the winter lay.
Ah! my heart is sore with sighing—
Sighing for the May.

Ah! my heart is pained with throbbing,
Throbbing for the May—
Throbbing for the sea-side billows,
Or the water-wooing willows,
Where, in laughing and in sobbing,
Glide the streams away.
Ah! my heart, &c.

Waiting, sad, dejected, weary,
Waiting for the May.
Spring goes by with wasted warnings,
Moon-lit evenings, sun-bright mornings;
Summer comes, yet, dark and dreary,
Life still ebbs away:
Man is ever weary, weary,
Waiting for the May.

This piece is not Blake, nor is it Praed, but it is a specimen of much that, off the beaten paths of poetry, strikes a true note. From the same volume I take an example of pure pathos—"The Death of Mary," by the Irish clergyman, Charles Wolfe, who sang, in faultless strains, the burial of Sir John Moore:

If I had thought thou could'st have died,
I might not weep for thee;
But I forgot, when by thy side,
That thou could'st mortal be;
It never through my mind had passed
The time would e'er be o'er,
And I on thee should look my last,
And thou should'st smile no more.

And still upon that face I look,
And think 'twill smile again,
And still the thought I will not brook
That I must look in vain.
But, when I speak, thou dost not say
What thou ne'er left'st unsaid,
And now I feel, as well I may,
Sweet Mary, thou art dead.

If thou would'st stay e'en as thou art,
All cold and all serene,
I still might press thy silent heart,
And where thy smiles have been.
While e'en thy chill bleak corse I have,
Thou seemest still mine own,
But there I lay thee in the grave—
And I am now alone.

If by this time I have not attained the object in view when I set out, it is useless to proceed farther, and equally needless if I have. Our stores of English lyric poetry are well-nigh exhaustless, of which fact let composers on the search for "words" take heed. X.

ORCHESTRAS IN THEATRES.

Managers of London theatres have few more troublesome problems to consider than the question whether or not it is worth while to have an orchestra. They are in a quandary. On the one hand, if their orchestra happens to be good, the refreshment contractor performs an indignant rondo "um den verlorenen Groschen"; on the other hand, if it is bad, the furious pittite who has come in with an order and borrowed a programme writes to his pet halfpenny paper; on either hand the members of the orchestra expect their salary weekly and punctually; and only in very rare instances is the orchestra listened to by the public or referred to by the critic. So universal has the neglect of the theatrical orchestra become, that we daresay many of our readers will be surprised that we should even refer to such a humble branch of our art. It is a truism, however, that music ought to be music, wherever it is found; and it is another truism that it loses all its gracious virtues if it is not listened to, for its virtues lie in the listener's ear. In considering why music in theatres is not listened to, the conclusion we have arrived at is one which we fear will seem uncomplimentary to the gentlemen who work so hard for our pleasure. In the average theatre the orchestra holds a very inferior position, a position which one almost wonders—were not the necessity of making a living a constant factor—any self-respecting musician would care to share. The moment the curtain falls the buzz of conversation begins; noises of all kinds are let loose; the pit and gallery are a pandemonium of conflicting cries; the stalls and boxes join in the confusion, and all the band can hope to do is to make a rather greater noise than the rest of the house, and form a sort of atmosphere for the Babel of tongues. Only when the piccolo or the euphonium has a solo are the gods hushed and does applause follow, and this is given, not to the music—for when did a piccolo ever discourse music?—but to the heroic victory over a physical difficulty. Even at the Lyceum, when masters like Sullivan and Mackenzie provide original music, or at the Haymarket, where Mr. Armbruster conducts an ideal orchestra and plays what is known as "high-class" music, the entr'acte buzz is by no means suppressed, but entirely nullifies the pleasure which we should otherwise derive from the efforts of the artists. The fact is, to state it crudely, that music is out of place between the acts of a play, and is only provided for the same purpose that hostesses have been known to provide pianists at evening parties—namely, to promote and cover conversation. At the same time, we tremble to think of the fate of any English manager bold enough to suppress the theatrical orchestra altogether. For good or ill, our insular theory of a theatre is stereotyped and unalterable. We consider theatre-going a form of amusement differing in degree, but not in kind, from a circus or pantomime. What people call music is an ineradicable part of these entertainments, wherefore we expect dance-tunes and familiar operatic selections even after the curtain has fallen on Ophelia's madness or Othello's frenzy. For this result the conductors of these orchestras are in great part to blame. It is all a matter of tradition. In Germany audiences will listen with pleasure to excerpts from the great masters adequately performed by competent orchestras between the acts of standard plays. In England the composition of the theatrical orchestra is, as a rule, so hopelessly bad, and the selection of music so utterly contemptible, that the man whose interest has just been aroused by fine acting, or whose soul has been harrowed by a pathetic situation, flies from the coming horror, and so falls an easy victim to the lures of the engaging young person in the refreshment room. If the music is really ever to form an important and respected part of the evening's entertainment at a theatre, managers must be prepared to spend a great deal more money on their bands and conductors than is at present the custom, and they must draw up just as severe rules for the discipline of that body as those which obtain on the stage. At present, not only are the players themselves often of an inferior quality, but they are allowed to send any deputy they like whenever they choose. Conductor and performers, in fact, show constantly that they despise their work, and it is therefore no wonder that the public follow suit and refuse to listen. The conductor never—we are speaking, of course, of the average theatre—takes the least trouble to fit his music to the particular play being performed. You shall hear during the course of a heartrending tragedy all the echoes of the metropolitan music halls. The plea of contrast will probably be urged, but the answer is—contrasts need not be violent. There are other tunes besides "Ta-ra-ra." Even at the Independent Theatre, where we should naturally expect bold experiments to be tried, we got no better introduction to Webster's gruesome "Duchess of Malfi" than the merry jingle of "Martha." Reminiscences of the "Spinning" Quartet and of "Richmond Hiring Fair" were but a poor preparation for the horrors in store for us, and during quite half the first act, the shadowy figures of Lady Harriet and Nancy, Lionel and Plunkett hovered between us and Webster's fateful fancies. This leads us to a brief consideration of what is termed melodramatic music during the course of the play itself. In the case of the poetical drama, or of romantic plays dealing with subjects outside the run of common experience, such music is allowable, and in some cases even appropriate. But it should be very delicately introduced and very beautifully performed if it is not to mar the effect of the play, and so stultify its own existence. There are plenty of noble models; all the great masters have considered it a subject worthy of their closest attention, and in our own day we have heard magnificent examples of it at the Lyceum and the Haymarket. But, short of this perfection, its introduction is destructive to dramatic realism, and its performance not only worries the ear and distracts the mind, but is also an eyesore. As a rule, the moment the curtain has safely risen the conductor and his men plunge headlong into the mysterious abyss under the stage, their hurried exit giving the effect of a number of black rabbits scuttling into their warren. But just as the lovers on the stage are becoming interesting, when the cruel father has cursed them both, and they are about to indulge in a passionate rhapsody, up comes the orchestra again, man after man, and each, with more or less tumult, finds his place. Then in front of the stage towers the magnificent conductor, his bâton poised in mid air. When the cue is given three merciless raps are heard, and the fiddles begin to shiver and the violoncellos to moan. But, by this time, what has become of the stage illusion? In modern plays, dealing with present-day subjects, we hold the introduction of what may be called dialogue-music to be utterly indefensible. Modern lovers are not in the habit of going about accompanied by an orchestra, which comes to their assistance when they are at a loss for words, nor is their conversation usually of a sort to set the atmosphere aflame with song. The use of music in the drawing-room drama is a confession of weakness on the part of all concerned; it implies that the author is helpless before his own climax, that the actors have reached the limit of their art, and that the audience is devoid of imagination.

STARS AND SALARIES.

The annual publication, according to the custom which prevails at subsidised theatres on the Continent, of the salary list of the Imperial Opera House at Vienna invites a few words of comment and retrospect. The gentlemen head the list, Herr Winkelmann, the veteran Wagnerian tenor, receiving a salary of £2,600 for the entire season of nine months, while M. van Dyck, the famous Belgian artist, is paid £2,400 for an engagement of seven months. Madame Materna's salary is £2,400 for the entire season, and Madame Schlaeger's £2,000. These figures read modestly enough alongside of the enormous fees associated with certain latter-day prime donne, but they are fairly representative of the average maximum salaries paid at the leading opera houses on the Continent. They do not, of course, represent the total incomes earned by the artists in question: in one case, at any rate, they fall very far short of that figure. Still, we take it that an income of £2,000 a year is proof positive that an operatic singer is in the front rank of his or her profession. The gains of singers who devote themselves here and elsewhere exclusively to the concert platform, we leave out of consideration, for the excellent reason that there is no legitimate means of ascertaining them. Operatic artists are undoubtedly paid at a higher rate in England than in France, Germany, or Italy, because of the comparative shortness of our season and the absence of stock companies. No official list is published, but the fees of certain artists are an open secret. For example, when M. Jean de Reszké was invited to take part in the Goring Thomas Memorial Concert, he declined to sing, but generously forwarded his fee for a single performance at the opera—£160. This figure has been transcended by a few prime donne in the last twenty years, but we greatly doubt whether any artist, male or female, has been paid at a higher rate at the opera in England since Madame Patti's last appearance on the London boards, while according to Strakosch she never received more than £150 a night during his time at the Paris Grand Opéra. At this point we may conveniently indulge in a brief retrospect. The current notion is that operatic singers have enormously enhanced their terms in the course of the last thirty years, and there is, no doubt, good ground for the view. Still, it is worthy of notice that Catalani, at the very beginning of this century, was in the habit of charging prices which few latter-day singers have improved upon. Her salary at the Opera in 1807 was only £2,000, but with the aid of benefits she is said to have made £5,000, while her total earnings for the year are put down at £16,700. Her fee for one Festival was £2,000, and she received as much as 200 guineas for singing a couple of songs. In other words, Catalani, who may be regarded as the originator of the star system, with all its attendant evils, carried the art of coining her talents to a pitch which very few of her successors have been able to surpass. We fear that it was in England that she first realised the possibilities of extortion which lay within her reach. And certain it is that for a long time England enjoyed the unenviable position of being the Eldorado—in the most literal sense of the word—of the operatic artist. We are glad to think that this is no longer the case, America, North and South, having long since passed us in the matter of record-breaking fees and salaries. For, although it is natural and right that great artists should receive handsome remuneration in a wealthy country like England, the rate at which singers are paid cannot be said to move in a direct ratio with the artistic culture of the country which pays them. On the contrary, it can be argued with considerable show of reason that exceptional terms argue a lack of native talent, and a commercial view of art which is irreconcilable with its furtherance on true and healthy lines. Signs are not wanting, however, of a reaction and a revolt against the exorbitant and extravagant fees demanded by certain artists. To begin with, the reign—or shall we call it the tyranny?—of the prima donna is, for the moment, decidedly on the wane. The pre-eminence of the male as opposed to the female singer is one of the most striking features of the annals of opera during the past decade. Within the last five years no fewer than four tenors have been heard in whom histrionic capacity of a high order has been allied to vocal endowments of exceptional force or charm—we refer to Signor Tamagno, M. Jean de Reszké, M. van Dyck, and Herr Max Alvary. This in itself is a notable fact, for which it would be hard to find a parallel at any other period of the century. Formerly the greatest male actors on the lyric stage were invariably basses or baritones; it is only of late years that their monopoly has been so successfully assailed by the tenor that even the prima donna has been obliged to hide her diminished head. Without rendering ourselves liable to the imputation of jealousy or ungallantry, we are free to confess that the shifting of the pre-eminence in the operatic world strikes us as a very good thing. The undisputed dominion of the prima donna was in many ways a very bad thing, alike for singers, composers, and public, and far better results may be expected from an equalisation of popularity. At the present moment the stars of opera, like those of the firmament, are mainly of the male sex; but doubtless the balance will be redressed before long. Meantime the fairly level terms on which operatic artists of the two sexes compete in the race for fame and gain may be taken as a satisfactory indication that the star system is doomed to eventual extinction.

A useful object lesson for those who express themselves alarmed by the increasing number of Musical Festivals is to be found in recent developments in the town of Cardiff. There were not wanting critics—friendly enough, no doubt, but indulging themselves in the perilous allurements of theory rather than in the sober draughts of practical experience—who warned the Executive Council that the labours of 1892 would cripple the musical resources of the borough for many a year, and that stagnation and depression would inevitably rule in the long intervals which stretched between each of their gatherings. As might have been expected, precisely the opposite result has occurred, and if there be one admirable product of the Cardiff Festival likely to be more enduring than any other, it is the extraordinary stimulus that has been given to the cause of music in the town and to the enthusiasm of the public. It is not too much to say that a condition of apathy and of failure has, through the influence of the after-glow of Festival fervour, become one of exhilaration and success. The Musical Society last season numbered ninety voices and dared not venture beyond the narrow bounds of madrigals and the easier cantatas, accompanied generally by the organ, and without an imposing array of talent. The half-empty benches in the auditorium re-echoed this unhappy confession of weakness. But all this has been changed, suddenly and in the twinkling of an eye. Excited by Festival triumphs, the chorus has swelled out to 250; eager to hear more, the subscribers have responded in the most liberal manner to the appeal made to them; and so much is the general tone raised that even some novelties of public interest are talked of. But it is not only in the direction of choral music that this happy effect has been experienced. The Chamber Music Concerts, which, since they were established, have proved a sore burden upon their promoters, have quite as suddenly found themselves financially secure. Nearly £250 has been subscribed for four Concerts, and so encouraging are the prospects that Herr Joachim has been engaged to appear in chamber music in the largest hall in the town. And all this has been done not only without interfering with the steadily prosperous career of the Orchestral Society, but even with the effect of stimulating it. Seized with a true musicianly impulse, its members devoted themselves to searchings of heart after the Festival band had set the standard, with the result that there has been re-organisation even here, with the most gratifying results. Such an example as this is surely indicative of the splendid harvest that a Festival meeting prepares. Although the elevated musical feeling which is roused at the time may not long remain at an unnatural pitch, there must always be some general and permanent improvement in popular taste which will manifest itself in these smaller local gatherings, which are the root and stem of musical enterprise as Festivals are the flower. At Cardiff the prospect is most encouraging, and the guarantors who have had to pay off a deficiency of £500 will no doubt realise that their sacrifice is amply compensated by the new revival in sturdy and active health of general musical culture.

Under the head of "Music and Politics," a correspondent addresses to us a protest with the main point of which we imagine most of our readers will be in accord. According to the writer, the practice is on the increase of interlarding political meetings with musical performances and thus importing into the serene atmosphere of harmony an extraneous and perturbing element. Now no one can find fault with the practice, which has extensively obtained ever since the institution of the political platform, of whiling away the period between the assemblage of a great gathering and the arrival of the principal speakers with songs of a political tendency sung to a well-known tune by the mass of the audience. Nor, again, can legitimate exception be taken to the aid rendered by political amateurs at soirées and conversaziones, when songs, generally of a political character, are sandwiched between the speeches. But it is another matter when professional artists are engaged to fill these intervals without being duly informed beforehand as to the nature of the entertainment at which they are expected to perform. According to our informant, he is aware of a case in which a distinguished singer was thus engaged, and had the greatest difficulty in ascertaining the precise nature of the function. Finally, when the information was vouchsafed, the artist, who happened to hold strong views on the burning question of the day, peremptorily refused to appear, although the musical portion of the programme was of a non-political character. In the circumstances, we think that the decision will commend itself to all right-thinking persons. Musicians in the concert-room and in the opera house have no politics. But it need not be assumed that they are so destitute of interest in subjects outside their art as to be incapable of entertaining clearly defined opinions thereon. In any case, to attempt to engage an artist to appear at a demonstration without furnishing explicit information as to its political character is an unwarrantable proceeding.

The dangers of mixing up music and politics have nowhere been more conspicuously illustrated than in the case of Dr. von Bülow, whose memorable speech in eulogy of Bismarck will be still fresh in the memory of our readers, and who, in consequence of this and other exploits, is asserted to have been made the hostile object of a special demonstration at Moscow on the occasion of a banquet given to M. Lamoureux. M. André Maurel, in the course of an article in the Paris Figaro on M. Lamoureux's visit to Russia, dwelt with obvious satisfaction upon this incident, reported the satirical allusions to Dr. von Bülow's extravagant gestures and other eccentricities, and represented the attitude of the guests towards the German conductor by the word conspuer. This article elicited a very proper and dignified remonstrance from M. Tschaikoffsky, the last few sentences of which may here be quoted: "In conclusion, let me own that I have been most painfully surprised to learn through the medium of the Figaro that my compatriots the Court Chamberlain, M. Jacowleff, and M. Safonoff, the Director of the Moscow Conservatoire, organised a banquet at which 'Hans von Bülow was spat upon.' Have these gentlemen forgotten that M. von Bülow, spite of his 'ridiculous gestures and extravagant manners,' is an orchestral conductor of genius, and that he has been recognised as such amongst us and everywhere else? Have they forgotten that if Russian music is recognised at this moment in Germany, it is to von Bülow and his devotion to our cause that we owe it? They do not seem to have reflected, this Chamberlain and this Director, that it was hardly an elegant way to render homage to a representative of French music to execrate in his presence the name of a German musician who has shown—alike by his words and his deeds—a genuine enthusiasm for French music. What pains me most of all is that they should 'spit upon' Hans von Bülow when that great artist is at death's door." Happily M. Tschaikoffsky's gloomy view of the state of von Bülow's health proves to be an exaggeration, the latest reports giving ground for hopes of his complete and speedy restoration to health. Meantime, M. Lamoureux has written to the Ménestrel stating that "it is incorrect to say that MM. Jacowleff and Safonoff organised a banquet in my honour at which Hans von Bülow was insulted." Where then did M. André Maurel get his detailed version from? In any case, one cannot but admire the generous and admirable spirit of M. Tschaikoffsky's remarks. Chauvinism in music is a most deplorable thing. In England, happily, we have always been singularly free from this spirit, and so may it always be.

The curiosities of organ programmes are often interesting and amusing. When the Abbé Vogler (immortalized by Robert Browning) visited London, in 1790, he gave Organ Concerts at the Pantheon in Oxford Street. One of his programmes contained the following pieces:—"Hunting-Music," "Irish Song, with variations"; "Martial Music of Drums and Pipes, interrupted with Canonades"; and "Swedish Flamboys Dance"; and on another occasion we find "The Pastoral Rejoicing, interrupted by a Storm." It is more than probable that the storm contained thunder, and if the organ-blower were now alive we could ascertain how the thunder affected him. Benjamin Jacob, of Surrey Chapel fame, was celebrated for his thunder on the organ, which was so effective as occasionally to cause some of the audience to faint. He subsequently became the first Organist of St. John's Church, Waterloo Road, and there, it is said, his organ thunder was almost too realistic, in that on one occasion it so terrified the dove in the stained east window that the bird flew out and sought a fresh resting-place from the violence of the storm! Jacob's performances—or, as we should now call them, recitals—at Surrey Chapel lasted for four hours; he and Wesley, or Crotch, played alternately, and at the end of each part they both would play a duet. "Morning performances" were literally morning performances in those days—Jacob's began at eleven and Vogler's at one o'clock. It is well within the last twenty-five years that original organ pieces have become the staple portion of organ programmes. The extempore pieces, so strong a feature in the performances of Thomas Adams, Henry Smart, and others, have, with the exception of M. Guilmant's, almost disappeared. On December 13, 1848, at Messrs. Hill's organ factory, the late Dr. Chipp, of Ely, played the whole of Mendelssohn's six Organ Sonatas entirely from memory. Through the kindness of Mrs. Chipp, we have been favoured with a copy of the interesting programme on this occasion, when the Sonatas were interspersed with Bach's Toccata and Fugue in F and his C sharp minor Fugue from the "48"; two works by Hesse (including "God save the Queen"); Chipp's "Introduction and air varied"; and, as arrangements, Handel's "He rebuked the red sea"; Beethoven's "Adelaide"; and a slow movement from one of Mendelssohn's symphonies. It will be noticed that ten—and a very good ten—of the fourteen numbers in this remarkable programme are strictly organ pieces.

As Dr. Joachim's annual appearance in this country is usually heralded by a crop of Joachim-ana which in due course go the round of the papers, we shall doubtless be favoured during the present month with a recrudescence of these hardy annuals, among which is a well-worn anecdote which has appeared in so many guises that it is perhaps worth while to record the incident, once for all, with something like exactitude. In the spring of 1887 Joachim and Piatti, after playing in a large town in the West Riding of Yorkshire, were obliged to journey by a late train, involving a long wait at a roadside junction. Proceeding to the waiting-room, they were presently joined by a traveller, a son of the soil, who, to judge from his manner, was not precisely a bigoted teetotaller. He carried with him a bagatelle board, with which, no doubt, he had, in the company of some other choice spirits, been beguiling the evening in a neighbouring public house. Seeing that the musicians eyed his bagatelle board, which he had placed upon the waiting-room table, with some curiosity, and probably guessing their profession from the instruments they had with them, he pointed to the board, and said, with an air of sardonic humour, "Can you play at that?" This sally meeting with little or no response, he gave up the attempt to draw the strangers into conversation, and, after a few moments' silence, said, with an air of deep conviction: "Ah! but Paganini was the man, Paganini was the man!" The proper ending to the story would obviously be to the effect that Joachim never smiled again, but, as a matter of fact, he is never tired of telling the story of the Yorkshireman's compliment. As the writer was present on this historic occasion, he can vouch for the truth of the above version of an often quoted, and as often perverted, anecdote.

In our last issue we ventured to point out a few of the inaccuracies of a writer in Musical News. We noted errors of fact and of grammar, and reproved his presumption in saying that the Funeral March in the "Eroica" was "too long," his own articles showing him to be so deficient in the sense of "form" that we could not regard him as qualified to sit in judgment on Beethoven. While, in short, we conceived it possible that the writer in question might have learnt something from Beethoven, we found the converse of the proposition unthinkable. We regret to find that our contemporary is so incapable of gratitude or improvement that it not only ridicules our endeavours to raise the standard of musical journalism, but makes light of its own errors in matters of fact, and positively glories in its ill-digested reflections on the artistic judgment of the most stupendous musical genius the world has ever known. Now, apart from the fact that a young journal, struggling to obtain a position in the musical world, should endeavour to learn as much as possible from friendly criticism, it must be remembered that Musical News circulates chiefly among students, and others who are most in need of careful, competent, intelligent, and conscientious guides. Our contemporary should devote its energies to a realization of these facts and act accordingly. By the way, it refers us to page 326 of our last volume, where, we are told, we shall "find food for the reflective tu quoque." We have looked at the page and find that it consists solely of advertisements.

It is scarcely possible to over-rate the value and importance of the papers read before the Incorporated Society of Musicians by Sir John Stainer and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, an abstract of which will be found in another column. It was high time that authoritative voices should insist on the necessity for deeper and wider culture among professional musicians and for more "sentiment" (we should have preferred "emotion," but the term matters little) in their performances. Other admirable papers were read, but these two dealt with subjects of such vital importance to the future welfare of our art, that we cannot but regard them as likely to produce the most lasting effects of the Conference.

Under the auspices of the London Branch of the Wagner Society, a "Wagner Choir" is being formed, "with the ultimate object of presenting choral excerpts from Wagner's music-dramas. The programme for the first season will be selected from works by the British madrigal writers, Palestrina and Gluck (as akin to Wagnerian art), and from Wagner's 'Flying Dutchman,' 'Tannhäuser,' 'Lohengrin,' and 'The Meistersingers.' The Choir will meet once a week at Trinity College, Mandeville Place, and the first practice will take place as soon as fifty names have been enrolled." The Hon. Conductor is Mr. L. N. Parker, who has our hearty good wishes for the success of the new venture.

We regret that we are unable to insert several long letters we have received from Mr. H. C. Hemy and other gentlemen, and must beg them to believe in our sincerity when we say that we cannot possibly spare space for a re-opening of the "Canadian Degrees" question. We have no wish to suppress discussion, but we feel bound to spare our readers the infliction of hearing old arguments over and over again, on either side of the question.

NEW POEM BY MR. SWINBURNE.

We have much gratification in placing before our readers, by the courtesy of Mr. Algernon Charles Swinburne, the following poem, written at the request of Professor Villiers Stanford, and intended as an expression of the brotherhood which unites the Old World and the New. Professor Stanford has already set the Ode to music, and the work will shortly be published by Messrs. Novello and Co.

EAST TO WEST.

I.

Sunset smiles on sunrise: east and west are one,
Face to face in heaven before the sovereign sun.
From the springs of the dawn everlasting a glory renews and transfigures the west,
From the depths of the sunset a light as of morning enkindles the broad sea's breast,
And the lands and the skies and the waters are glad of the day's and the night's work done.

II.

Child of dawn, and regent on the world-wide sea,
England smiles on Europe, fair as dawn and free.
Not the waters that gird her are purer, nor mightier the winds that her waters know.
But America, daughter and sister of England, is praised of them, far as they flow:
Atlantic responds to Pacific the praise of her days that have been and shall be.

III.

So from England westward let the watchword fly,
So for England eastward let the seas reply;
Praise, honour, and love everlasting be sent on the wind's wings, westward and east,
That the pride of the past and the pride of the future may mingle as friends at feast,
And the sons of the lords of the world-wide seas be one till the world's life die.

A. C. Swinburne.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

The Manchester Guardian draws attention to the popularity of English church music in America, adding:—"If any explanation of the musical influence of the 'mother country' in this world-wide celebration is needed, it may be found in the eulogy of English sacred song which has just been spoken by Mr. Walter H. Hall, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York. Mr. Hall is an Englishman by birth, and his education in this country was completed under such admirable musicians as Dr. Steggall and the late Sir George Macfarren. He has not forgotten the rock whence he was hewn, and the musical service of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, like that of many other fashionable churches in New York, is distinctly English in character. Mr. Hall considers the music of Stainer, Smart, Barnby, King, and Stanford, to name a few out of many of his models, immensely superior to anything which the European schools can produce for the training of church choirs and the interpretation of the church service. As for America, Mr. Hall tells his New York friends that 'the excellence of what is excellent in England is so far beyond anything to be found in this country [the United States] as to seem to overshadow it.'" The writer of this note, however, recalls an Advent service in the Cathedral of St. John, Denver, which for admirable choice of music and excellence of rendering was entitled to compare with anything done in this country.

On the question as to the proper position of organs in churches, a clergyman, the Rev. Francis Pott, is credited with having said: "Objectors approach the subject from an æsthetic or artistic point of view, architectural, musical, or both; having also, no doubt, a laudable desire, shared equally by the clergy, for better congregational singing. The clergy, on the other hand, being responsible for higher results, look at the question from a moral, spiritual, and truly ritual standpoint. We argue thus: we are directly and specially responsible for the discipline and reverent habits of our choirs; where the choir is, there must we be—and we cannot be in a west gallery. The state and the spirit of things in the 'minstrels' gallery' without us are sure to be what they always were—deplorable. We do not at all deny that something may be said—in view of congregational singing and instrumental effects—in favour of the organ being there; but then again, where the choir is, there, too, must the organ, or an organ, be; and to talk of two organs (and two organists), west and east, is utterly unpractical in ninety-nine churches out of one hundred. Ergo, musical effects, vocal and instrumental, must accept the second place, and our arrangements, which can never be absolutely perfect, must follow the higher demands of morality and order." Mr. Pott does not mince matters. As well as leading the worship of the faithful, the clergy must act as ecclesiastical constables and keep an eye on the incorrigibles of the choir. "The state and the spirit of things in the 'minstrels' gallery' without us are sure to be what they always were—deplorable." Well, well!

Mr. Oscar Wilde was "disappointed with the Atlantic," and we regret to say that Professor Marshall Hall is disappointed with Australia, yea, even "bitterly disappointed." The doings at Melbourne, under Mr. F. H. Cowen, during the Exhibition, are referred to by the Professor in disparaging terms. The works were "performed frightfully badly," the symphonies were mutilated, and so on. In connection with this, the Age quietly points out that Mr. Hall was in Europe at the time and therefore speaks at second-hand. The Melbourne journal goes on to say in effect that it is "bitterly disappointed" with the Professor, not as a teacher, but outside his academical work. According to our contemporary he has not sought to gain the respect of the musical profession, who have "enjoyed at intervals an opportunity of reading an outburst of mingled emotion and hysterics, which they are asked to believe represented the state of mind of some distraught composer when he wrote the work upon which the professor is supposed to have been lecturing; this occasional mental pabulum being at times varied with a discourse, in the 'I am Sir Oracle' vein, on the distinction between an artist and a mobsman, or a disquisition on the iniquity of those who can discover musical merit in Sullivan's 'Mikado.'" We trust this is only a family quarrel, and that the disputing parties will, like Tennyson's wedding pair, "Kiss again with tears." Mr. Marshall Hall's enthusiasm will sober down in course of time; the Melbourne public will become accustomed to his ways, and so, with a little forbearance on both sides now, all may go well for musical progress.

The gentleman to whom the Scarboro' Post entrusts its musical department is entitled to high rank among a certain class of provincial critics. For proof of this we need not look beyond his recent notice of a chamber concert given at the Prince of Wales Hotel.

The writer makes an impression at the outset by declaring that "there was nothing lacking in the programme of music or the list of artists to limit its success." Nothing lacking to limit its success! He means the reverse, but let that pass. Our critic seems to have been much struck by the length of the works performed. A quartet "took a full half-hour to execute," and a quintet occupied twenty-five minutes! "It will thus be seen," writes our contemporary's young man, "that the greater portion of the evening was taken up by these two selections." With regard to the performance, we are told that "each individual player maintained a due proportion of volume so as to preserve a just balance to the entire work." But the Scarboro' critic is at his best in commenting upon a violin solo: "Miss Simpkin appeared to gauge every note with precision, and obtained them without difficulty. The topmost notes on the silver string were perfectly clear, and the double shift on E was played without the asperity which usually accompanies the work of any but skilful violinists. Perhaps the bowing possessed a trifle too much flourish." Miss Simpkin's eulogist and critic is assuredly a "trifle too much" for the gravity of his readers.

It would be a very interesting thing to trace the succession of what may be called fashionable instruments in the course of the last hundred years or so. The musical glasses, on which as we showed last month even the great Gluck did not disdain to display his proficiency in public, gave place, we imagine, to the guitar, and then the concertina had its innings only to be ousted by the all-persuasive dominion of the banjo. And now it seems that the banjo has a serious rival in the shape of the mandoline. We hail the new departure with enthusiasm. For to begin with, the mandoline is an exceedingly beautiful instrument in shape, while its tone, though limited in volume and quality, is essentially more refined than the nasal twang of the banjo. Again, if we do not err, the mandoline, owing to its frets, is easier to play in tune than its predecessor. On the other hand, the mandoline is eminently a more aristocratic instrument than the banjo, and consequently less in keeping with the march of democratic ideas. We can hardly imagine it being taught in a Board school. Indeed, we should not be altogether surprised to hear that it had been suppressed by the London County Council on the ground of its reactionary and retrogressive tendencies.

A writer in the Bury Advertiser claims much for music, and that in dithyrambic strains which invite us to accord him the license of a poet. Hear him: "In the mad world of music old faces are seen, cold lips are warm and return one's kisses, old hopes are renewed, old loves prove true. Faces filled with joy are dashed through a rent in the sound, as the air is still quivering with the crash of a fortissimo, and then in the minor chords become contorted with pain and disappear. The audience and the hall are swallowed up in the vague shadows of this world of sound. Here are demons, nymphs, strange lights and stranger shadows—a medley of the most grotesque imaginings and human memories. The wildest imaginations of men find expression in music, as they never can in words or colour, for music is both; and, miracle of miracles! the men who cannot understand the mysteries of the world of books, set forth in plain types, are immediately in sympathy with this stranger world of music. It is a world of sorrows and joys, of laughter, joyous and terrifying, and tears of happiness and despair. It is the epitome of human endeavour; the mockery of human accomplishment. It is God speaking to men through His human agents."

Hear an amateur upholsterer on the possibilities of the pianoforte: "Placed near a bay window, it shuts in the cosiest lovers' nest imaginable. Soft-cushioned window seats that have room for just two—intuitive seats they might be called—are hidden thus away completely from the cold, cruel world. Little couches may be hidden in the shadow of such a piano when rich hangings fall from a corner window. Or a delightful tea corner is made with a screen for a doorway, and soft divans and dim lights inside. Or the back of the piano may be hung with a soft shade of yellow, brocaded with dull green leaves and flowers. Against this a little tea-table can be placed, with its dainty belongings, and a low chair beside it. A yellow cushioned divan can extend entirely around this corner, lighted by the soft radiance of a lamp with a pale green shade, and piled high with a baker's dozen of pillows—large and small and medium—with bright silken covers." The pictures sketched above are almost too luscious, and it is certain that the "household instrument" is often put to a worse use than screening off "intuitive seats" for whispering lovers made.

The Morning Advertiser, in the course of an article on "botching" comic opera, shows that it has no very high opinion of the form of lyric drama now so popular in London. The production of comic operas, says our contemporary, "is a matter of business, and the mercantile exigencies come in for consideration. These are sometimes played rather low down, for it is a pretty generally known fact that a comic opera, to be available for presentation in London, must have in plenty the kind of songs in which our public take especial delight. Again, it would not answer the purposes of a publisher to buy the rights of a work that did not contain a certain number of what are known as 'shop' or 'counter' songs. If they are not in the original score they must be interpolated, and French composers do not object to these additions, for the one reason, at any rate, that they find a good market for their works in London. The pill they have to swallow is gilded, and they are complaisant accordingly." So that, if we be a "nation of shopkeepers," those who taunt us with the fact do not mind sharing the profits over the counter.

A correspondent writes: "As a remarkable specimen of an error in judgment the following editorial answer to a correspondent which appeared in the now defunct Musical World (1847, p. 609) may not be without interest—'Verdi is not to be mentioned with any Italian composer who has obtained the slightest reputation.' The editors were (I think) Messrs. J. W. Davison and Desmond Ryan, and at the time the note was written Verdi had already composed nine operas at least, including 'Ernani,' 'Nabucadonosor,' 'I due Foscari,' &c." Assuming the passage quoted to have been written by Mr. Davison, it does not follow that he meant what his words convey on the face of them. A more singular individuality than the editor of the Musical World in 1847 is rarely met with. He particularly enjoyed fooling a correspondent to the top of his bent, and thoroughly agreed with Carlyle as to the mental condition of the public of Great Britain. The very wording of the passage quoted is suspicious. It might read: "Some Italian composers are of the slightest reputation. Do not class Verdi with them."

AN American contemporary's Boston correspondent writes: "It is surprising that in this region of emancipated women "Samson" is even put in rehearsal. You remember, of course, the lines that must aggravate the sweet sex, even when they are sung indistinctly by 'Micah':

It is not virtue, valor, wit,
Or comeliness of grace,
That woman's love can truly hit,
Or in her heart claim place.
Still wav'ring where their choice to fix,
Too oft they choose the wrong;
So much self love does rule the sex,
They nothing else love long.

But the sentiments of the Israelites expressed with the malignity of 'damnable (and fugal) iteration' are still more intolerant:

To man God's universal law
Gave power to keep the wife in awe;
Thus shall his life be ne'er dismayed
By female usurpation swayed.

These numbers will, without doubt, be omitted when 'Samson' is given here in April next."

ON the vexed question of street music, Mr. F. St. John Lacy writes to the Morning Post suggesting local option. He sensibly recognises the fact that the piano organ is the orchestra of the poor, and considers that it should be "compulsory on the authoritative power, on the receipt of a requisition to that effect, signed by a certain proportion of householders residing in any street, square, &c., to affix a notice on the corners of that street or square prohibiting itinerant musicians from pursuing their calling there under heavy penalties. If this were to be enforced no one could have reasonable cause for complaint. The present regulation whereby they cease playing when required to do so should still remain in force for those localities where the above-mentioned notices were not placed, but with the addition that each such itinerant player or singer should be obliged to wear a number by which he could be identified in case of his refusal to go when so desired." In view of the difficulties surrounding the subject Mr. Lacy's proposal is worth considering.

A WRITER in Bargains wants to know what the Music Hall lyric is coming to. On entering a Palace of Varieties the other night he found a crowd of "hilarious young Britons" chorusing a ditty which had a refrain something like this:

We were all boozed, every blessed one of us—
We were all boozed, every mother's son of us—
We drank all we could get, all that we could grab,
There were nineteen of us, and we all went home in a cab.

He adds that they appeared thoroughly to appreciate the sentiment expressed by the words. We fancy that things are not quite so bad as they seem. "Hilarious young Britons" of the sort referred to are the Simon Tappertits of this closing century, Mr. Tappertit was the chief of a professedly sanguinary secret society, every member of which would have run away from the prospect of a broken nose, and our musical hall roysterers who boast of their drinking feats are too much afraid of sickness and headache to follow up words by deeds. They fancy they are "seeing life" at Music Halls, poor boys.

WE learn from the official Mittheilungen of the Allgemeiner Deutscher Musikverein that the next meeting of members—the Tonkünstlerversammlung, to give its euphonious title—will take place at Munich during the last days of May. English musicians, and especially such as have new works in their portfolios awaiting their first performance, will be interested to hear that the Prince Regent of Bavaria has granted the free use not only of the Royal Court Theatre and the Odeon Concert Hall, but also of the Court orchestra for the whole of the many performances throughout the Festival. This is a practical way of furthering the interests of Art to which we in this country are not likely ever to have a parallel. The arrangements for the production of choral works are completed, but new symphonic works and chamber music will be examined by the committee with a view to performance if they are sent in before the 21st inst.

WE also read that the honorary stipend of 500 marks per annum, which was paid to the late Robert Franz for a number of years, having become available for other purposes, a similar sum has been granted to Herr Anton Förster, of Leipzig. A Concert given in October last at the Court Theatre of Weimar, in aid of the Liszt Stiftung, and in memory of that master, produced 439 marks 40 pfennig—say, twenty guineas.

THE boom of the boy soprano endures in America. Here is a gushing paragraph concerning the juvenile hero of the hour: "Master Cyril Tyler, the beautiful and gifted boy soprano, will afford those who wish to give a true devotional character to their observance of the 'holiest day of all the year'—Christmas Day—a most fitting opportunity for such observance by his Concert to be given at the Tremont Theatre on Sunday evening (Christmas), December 25. It would be difficult to conceive of a more appropriate recognition of the day which gave to the world its holiest aspirations, than the pure and beautiful musical offerings of this marvellous lad. In all that is devotional he has shown how deep was his genius, and how sincere his sympathy. Thus his singing of a Christmas programme will be as truly a proper observance as any which could be offered."

THE Auckland Star (N.Z.) has a musical writer upon whom it is worth while to keep an eye. Noticing a recent performance of the "Hymn of Praise," this gentleman is decidedly fresh and original: "Time will not permit of an analysis of the opening Symphony, if such a thing were desirable, which it is not. The general impression left, after it has ceased, is of rich and most expressive music streaming forth from a score of violins, while the far-off thunder of drums fills the background, and, ever and anon, the clear flute tones of a wood instrument is let loose on the air, or the eager characteristic voice of the trumpet asserts itself. The Mendelssohn of the 'Hymn of Praise' is the Mendelssohn of the 'Wedding March' so familiar to everybody." This passage from the antipodean notice should be left to stand alone. None but itself can be its equal.

MR. ALGERNON ASHTON pleads on behalf of a daughter of Theodore Hook, Mrs. Mary Tanner, who is seventy-three, a widow, in failing health and very reduced circumstances. The poor lady's address is 4, Agnes Terrace, Lancaster Road, Leytonstone, where subscriptions will be thankfully received. We are not quite sure that Mrs. Tanner should expect much help because she is her father's daughter, Theodore Hook now being chiefly remembered by the Berners Street hoax. A better claim may be founded upon the fact that the distressed lady is the granddaughter of James Hook, whose delightful and truly English songs can never be forgotten. The late Dean Hook, of Chichester, appears to have been a cousin of Mrs. Tanner.

The chevalier d'industrie is an ingenious person, but he had better take care lest the ladies supplant him by superior cleverness. Mrs. Florence Louise Christie Moore, described as an organist, is now "doing" three years for, amongst other little dodges, promoting bogus concerts. The plan of this artful daughter of Eve was to announce musical entertainments, engage a hall and artists, and sell tickets—operations in themselves usual and lawful, but it happened that Mrs. F. L. C. Moore always disappeared before the time of performance came round, and the cash went with her. Before Mrs. Moore returns to society she will have time to elaborate other devices.

At the beginning of last month the Kensington Vestry urged the London County Council to follow its example in demanding from the legislature powers to regulate street music. The Council declined to move, on the ground that they already had the powers desired, but found it inexpedient to exercise them, inasmuch as they possessed no means of enforcing any regulations which might be made. This simply means that, not having control of the police, the Council can take no police measures. The situation is logical enough, and shows what a curious jumble of jurisdictions still exists in this metropolis.

The Oxford Professor of Music is strong on sentiment in and regarding music, but has not yet got all his fellow citizens in line with him. "Annoyed," a correspondent of the Oxford Journal, has written most wrathfully with regard to the special minstrelsy of the streets at Christmas time. He terms "the Mayor's licensed trumpeters" as mere roysterers, and accuses the carol-singing children of "blasphemously murdering our Christmas." Christmas comes but once a year, good Sir, and for the sake of time-honoured associations even an unsentimental ratepayer might suffer the little children and the trumpets.

Writing upon the subject of an organ dispute at Dufftown, a correspondent of the Elgin Courier, greatly daring, exclaims: "It is about time that our good friends the ministers knew and felt that at this time of day we can do well enough without their patronage, although they cannot do without ours." This is bold talk, but we observe that the Dufftowners who advocate an organ keep a frugal mind. During a previous consideration of the vexed subject it was proposed to erect an instrument, and that "the Precentor's salary should be reduced by one half, to pay the person who would play the organ a small allowance." Cannie North Britons!

In spite of our invocation to Fortune on behalf of Mr. Cowen, the fickle goddess did not "smile" on our gifted countryman, nor did luck attend his Genoese experiment. So utterly bad were the artists available that Mr. Cowen felt bound to withdraw "Signa." He writes, however: "I do not intend to be beaten, and shall not come back until I have made some arrangement, if not for this season, for next year." A "bit of blue" is furnished by the news that the "Scandinavian" Symphony will be given this winter at Moscow.

Dr. C. H. H. Parry's Pianoforte Quartet in A flat was performed, on the 18th ult., at a Concert given by the Konzert Gesellschaft at Kreuznach, Rhenish Prussia, and met with a most appreciative reception. The local General Anzeiger speaks in high terms of the whole work, but selects the Andante and Finale for special praise on account of their wealth of expression, or graceful and engaging melody. We wonder when we shall hear this fine specimen of Dr. Parry's genius once more at the Popular Concerts?

An American journal wants to know why the good women singers produced in the States do not stay at home, and suggests a reason thus: "Probably because the oratorio is so much less appreciated and cultivated here than in its home—England. There they keep all their own oratorio singers and capture straightway any we may chance to raise up, while we are obliged to put up with any singers we can pick up—generally very good singers, it is true, but not those who are trained for the oratorio."

A series of chatty papers by Mr. Willert Beale, entitled "My Recreations; a record of the last fifteen years," is now running in the columns of the Kent County Examiner and Ashford Chronicle. Last month three of these consisted of a letter sent to Mr. Beale by Mrs. Ferdinand Praeger, who describes in vivid fashion many of the incidents of her long intimacy with Richard Wagner, and comments incidentally upon many byegone events and persons of note in the musical history of the past forty years.

We note with satisfaction the founding of the Kensington Amateur Musical Society, with Mr. Orton Bradley as Conductor and Mr. S. S. Chinn, 24, Sinclair Road, as Secretary. The prospectus announces: "This Society has been formed for the study and performance of orchestral and choral works by the best composers." The first works undertaken will be Mendelssohn's "Athalie" and Cowen's "St. John's Eve." Rehearsals on Thursday evenings at St. Philip's Schools, 42, Earl's Court Road.

The Concert Society of Madrid (Mancinelli, Conductor) has arranged to produce a large number of novelties during the present year. In the prospectus these are grouped according to nationality—Spanish, Italian, French, Russian, German, and—English! The works chosen to represent British art are Cowen's "Language of Flowers," Mackenzie's second Rhapsody, "Burns," and his Prelude to "Colomba." Again, let us say, "We are getting on!"

The Lyric Choir is a choral society newly established at Stamford Hill for the performance of part-songs, madrigals, &c. Mr. Emil Kreuz, late of the Royal College of Music, will act as Hon. Conductor and Mr. G. Hepworth, of 22, Vartry Road, as Hon Secretary.

Some of the Bristol papers are alarmed at the nomination of Mr. Riseley as Organ Professor at the R.A.M. The feeling is natural, but we understand that Mr. Riseley's residence in London will not follow his acceptance of the appointment. It is not a far cry now-a-days from Bristol to London.

Nine open Free Scholarships will be competed for at the Royal College of Music on or about the 25th inst. Three are for singing and one each for composition, pianoforte, organ, violin, violoncello, and a wind instrument.

A handsome silver salver in an oak case has been presented to Sir Joseph Barnby by the Eton boys. It bears the following inscription: "Presented to Joseph Barnby, on his retiring from the post of Precentor of Eton College, by members of the E.C.M.S., August, 1892."

A recent writer on music as a means of elevation observes: "Music promotes progress, morally and metally." He probably wrote "mentally," but a good many poor professors wish that the printer had stumbled on an eternal truth.

Composers with a turn for the picturesque will do well to note the invitation of the Glasgow Select Choir, printed in another column. Burns's poem is well worth setting for its own sake, apart from the prize which is held out as an inducement.

Neat: "Please don't talk to me. I'm saving my voice for the opera." "Why, are you to sing?" "No, I'm to be in one of the boxes."

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

It sometimes happens that the choice of a work for performance is difficult of explanation by those not in the councils of the choosers. This might have been the case with the production of Miss E. M. Smyth's Mass in D at the Albert Hall on the 18th ult., since, while one must recognise the ability of the fair composer and the just claims of her music, it does not follow that the Mass should have been selected before all other novelties entitled to a hearing. Happily, the managers of the Royal Choral Society anticipated questioning by liberal advertisement of the fact that both the Queen and the Empress Eugènie took a marked interest in the composition. This explained all, prevented the action of the Committee from being assailed, and revealed Miss Smyth in the character of a very fortunate person.

The performance of the Mass, in not being up to the usual mark of the Society's efforts, was testimony to the difficulties presented by the music; and, indeed, Miss Smyth has not spared the labour and skill of her interpreters, either vocal or instrumental. This is a characteristic of composition in the present day, when reticence in the use of means and just restraint of expression seem to be ignored as artistic principles. It is as though more reliance were placed upon the forms and machinery of utterance than in the ideas expressed. Doing this, composers take a serious risk upon themselves. Elaboration of method and wealth of means secure for any music so distinguished an examination proportionately severe. The question is "Cui bono"? and if there be no obvious and unassailable answer, condemnation is in the measure of the pretence. Applying this argument to Miss Smyth's Mass, we are bound to regard the work as open to criticism. It is out of our power—though we have the best will in the world—to see that the composer's complicated and, in the sense already pointed out, unsparing method secures an adequate return. The means are disproportioned to the end achieved, while there is some reason to fear that the effect suffers through the conditions self-imposed by the author of the work. Had David gone forth to fight clad in the armour and bearing the weapons of Saul, he might have been discomfited. His sling and a smooth stone from the brook did the business of the hour with admirable directness and certainty.

The method adopted by Miss Smyth, in the natural and laudable ardour of her ambition, seems the more to be regretted on account of not a few striking indications of ability to produce better results with means less ostentatious. Take, for example, the Benedictus, with its soprano solo and chorus of female voices in three parts. The structure of this movement is quite simple, as modern music goes, but the music not merely avoids commonplace, it is absolutely distinguished throughout, alike in character of theme and harmonic treatment. We do not hesitate to say that, were the other sections equal to it in these respects, the Mass would be a work of high distinction and value. The Sanctus also has claims on account of truth and beauty due to perfectly legitimate causes, while passages in other movements, such as the short Adagio "Et expecto resurrectionem mortuorum," strike the hearer as bold in conception and proportionately powerful in effect. Yet the impression made by the Mass as a whole is not quite satisfactory. It gives rise to an uneasy feeling of strife after results not attained, and it excites a suspicion of music produced by the intellect in pursuit of an objective, rather than by that "abundance of the heart" out of which, we are told, "the mouth speaketh." This is particularly the case with the Kyrie, and with much of the Gloria and Credo. These sections of the Mass are the most laboured and, therefore, the least marked by that effect of spontaneity, that impression of "So it is because it could not be otherwise," which stamps music as sincere and opens up a ready way to the hearts of those who listen.

We offer the foregoing comment in all good will to the clever and ambitious composer, who, it seems clear enough, has a capacity for really fine and striking work, provided she keep within bounds which have served for many others of still higher gifts. Bach and Beethoven have written works which exhaust the resources of musical expression, but that is no reason why others should go so far and, almost of necessity, fail.

The performance was well attended, and the Empress Eugènie came in person to prove her interest real. Miss Palliser, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Watkin Mills, as the soloists, had a somewhat ungrateful task, but the first-named lady made quite an effect in the solo of the Benedictus, which was followed by loud applause and a "call." The chorus and orchestra have both been heard to greater advantage, though Sir Joseph Barnby did his utmost to secure a good average result.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

Again a well-filled room and an excellent programme well performed. It is, we fancy, now pretty safe to assume that Mr. Henschel's plucky venture has "caught on" pour de bon; and if this be so, congratulations of quite exceptional warmth are due. Mr. Henschel's obstinate refusal to be beaten shows most clearly, to our mind, that he ought to have been an Englishman. The reflection that, in that case, he would have found success even more difficult supplies, however, some consolation. The works presented at this (the fourth) Concert were the beautiful Symphony in D (No. 2) by Brahms—a work which ought surely to be called the "Sylvan" or "Pastoral" Symphony, so full is it of serenity, cheerfulness, strength, and healthful activity; the Overture to "Tannhäuser"; Rubinstein's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor; Liszt's "Tasso," and an Aria by Saint-Saëns, sung by Mrs. Fisk. By his performance of the difficult solo part in the Concerto Mr. Slivinski considerably added to his already high repute by showing himself to be not only a virtuoso, but also an artist. It is pleasant to note that the applause which followed the admirable rendering of the Symphony was such that Mr. Henschel had to return to the platform to acknowledge it. The audience was therefore intelligent as well as large. O si sic omnia!

MONDAY AND SATURDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

It will be quite unnecessary to deal at length with these entertainments at present, as the programmes, with one or two exceptions, have consisted of works familiar to musicians. A Beethoven selection was offered at the first Concert in the new year, on Saturday, the 7th ult., the pieces being the famous Septet in E flat, the Trio in D minor (Op. 70, No. 1), and the Sonata in A flat (Op. 26). The last-named work was played by Sir Charles Hallé, precisely as usual. Lady Hallé was the leader on this and all subsequent occasions, and the other members of the quartet have also maintained their places. By way of variety, Miss Alice Gomez sang, with much purity and charm, Schubert's "Du bist die Ruh" and a pleasant little song entitled "A Memory," by Goring Thomas.

There was a very poor attendance on the following Monday, although Schubert's Octet was in the programme. It is quite impossible to explain the caprice of the public, as there was nothing in the weather to deter Schubert-lovers from being in their places. The very lengthy work was played without the customary break after the third movement, but a little delay was caused at the commencement of the Finale by Lady Hallé breaking a string. Beethoven's Sonata in F for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 5) was played by Mr. Frederick Dawson and Signor Piatti, and the young pianist gave a powerful rendering of Chopin's Polonaise in A flat. Miss Louise Phillips won unqualified acceptance in songs by Brahms, Pessard, and Godard.

On Saturday, the 14th ult., the concerted works were Mozart's Quartet in D minor and Saint-Saëns's Trio in F (Op. 18). The name of the French composer does not often appear in these programmes, and the Trio had not been heard for fourteen years. It is a clever and, on the whole, an effective work, but the music seems to have come from the head rather than the heart. Max Bruch's Adagio Appassionato for violin (Op. 57), an elaborate movement in the German composer's best style, was played to perfection by Lady Hallé, but Miss Clotilde Kleeberg was scarcely heard to the fullest advantage in Bach's Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue, her execution being scarcely as clear and accurate as usual. The vocalist was Miss Jessie Hudleston, a young soprano of more than ordinary promise, at present, we believe, a student at the Guildhall School of Music. She displayed an excellent and well trained voice in Handel's fine Aria "Piangero la sorte mia," from "Giulio Cesare," and was also heard in a song "In the Woods," by Bizet.

The scheme of Monday, the 16th ult., was more varied and interesting than usual. Miss Kleeberg introduced for the first time Schumann's "Kinderscenen" (Op. 15), and played them to perfection, these delightful little pieces exactly suiting the style of the French pianist. An important piece was the beautiful Quintet in C minor, for pianoforte and strings, by Goetz (Op. 16), a work in which finished workmanship goes hand in hand with wealth of ideas. The Quintet had, strangely enough, been neglected for eleven years, but it only requires to be known in order to be admired. Another revival was Porpora's Sonata in F for violoncello, with pianoforte accompaniment, written by Signor Piatti, who of course played the principal part. The distinguished violoncellist found the original manuscript of the Sonata in the British Museum. Mrs. Helen Trust had been announced to sing, but she was unable to appear and her place was taken by Mr. Abramoff. His selection of operatic airs by Meyerbeer and Gounod was rather singular for a Classical Concert, but it appeared to give satisfaction to the audience.

On the following Saturday Schubert's Octet was repeated, and on this occasion St. James's Hall was crowded, further testimony being thereby afforded to the growing conviction that Evening Concerts are declining and Afternoon Concerts growing in popular favour as regards central London. Mr. Frederick Dawson and Signor Piatti played Mendelssohn's Sonata in B flat for pianoforte and violoncello (Op. 45), and Mr. Dawson brought the Concert to a conclusion with the Giga con Variazioni from Raff's Suite in D minor (Op. 91). Mr. Plunket Greene sang Schubert's "Litanei" and three of Professor Stanford's cleverly arranged Irish songs in his most impressive manner, deserving the utmost credit alike for his selections and their execution.

The attendance on Monday, the 23rd ult., was above the average, thanks to a programme of exceptional attractiveness. Beethoven's Septet was repeated, and kept the major part of the audience in their places until the end, but to many the most enjoyable feature of the Concert was Dvorák's Quintet in A (Op. 81), for pianoforte and strings, a superb work which on this occasion received a magnificent interpretation, Mr. Leonard Borwick especially distinguishing himself in the pianoforte part. The gifted young English pianist introduced two new pieces as his solos. The first of these, a Ballade in G minor by Professor Villiers Stanford, forming one of a series (Op. 42), commences with a theme that might pass for an Irish ditty, but the writing soon becomes modern and too complicated to follow clearly at first. Opinions concerning the piece may therefore well be reserved, especially as it is still in manuscript. The other novelty was an Air with Variations in A, by Mr. Paderewski, from a set of three pieces (Op. 16). Without being strongly individual there is a good deal of character in these Variations, which were very brilliantly played by Mr. Borwick. Madame Bertha Moore contributed songs by Meyer-Helmund and Mr. Henschel, entirely to the satisfaction of the audience.

THE INCORPORATED SOCIETY OF MUSICIANS

The eighth annual Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians was opened, on the 2nd ult., in the Egyptian Hall of the Mansion House, by Alderman Sir Joseph Savory, M.P., who represented the Lord Mayor, unavoidably prevented from attending. After a congratulatory address from Sir Joseph on the flourishing condition of the Society, and the reading of the annual report by the Hon. General Secretary, Mr. E. Chadfield, Sir John Stainer delivered an address on "Technique and Sentiment in Music." He said that the term "technique" implied the practical skill in performance which enabled a player to express what he felt; and the term "sentiment" implied that poetic taste, or emotional temperament, which sought to find expression through the medium of technique. In music, expression was the language of emotion and technique was the grammar of expression. It was most important that technique and sentiment should be properly balanced. The highest technique could be of no use where the performer had no sentiment to express, and sentiment was wasted if the technique was not sufficiently good to serve as a means of expression. Was the proper balance maintained in the training of young musicians in this country? He could speak on this question from an experience of thirty-five years' active work. He had watched young students and had been filled with admiration for their constantly increasing skill in technique. He had often thought that at last a really fine performer was about to be produced; but at the last the pupil had come to a sudden standstill. There was a something lacking—the real innate musical sentiment which could find spontaneous and successful expression in technique. The question that naturally presented itself was this—was the defect due to any fault of physical constitution, or were the teachers to be blamed? It must be admitted that this country was deficient in natural sentiment. Englishmen had not that délicatesse of temperament which was the primary qualification for an artistic nation. He would not say that the English nation was not fond of music, for at present more money and time were being devoted to its cultivation in England than in any other country of Europe. But teachers and professors who were constantly on the look out for those gifted with a really high order of musical taste and intelligence came across very few specimens indeed. He had removed all blame from the teachers. Of course, sentiment was an innate faculty, and not an acquirement; but the English might, after all, have a certain amount of natural taste and sentiment which really required careful cultivation. The tendency of the present system of education, especially with respect to boys, was to rub down any individual traits of manners, character, and sentiment, in order that each might appear as much as possible like all the others. It was attempted to assimilate all to certain conventional types, as easily recognisable as well-marked species of birds or animals. Until lately women had escaped this process owing to their more isolated education and training; but now, by massing themselves into institutions, they too were beginning to fall into various easily distinguished types. Society, no doubt, preferred to find humanity divisible into large groups and classes; but in the realm of art, the strongly-marked personality was just what was wanted to raise the student to the position of a real artist. The process of polishing men and women down to a nice level and a smooth surface carried with it, too, an unmistakable loss of the artistic sentiment itself. To be sentimental was regarded as being silly, and to show one's feelings or emotions as being weak or contemptible; and yet, in the realm of art, this spontaneous and unrestrained expression of feeling and sentiment was just what was wanted to raise an artist into a leader of thought or a founder of a school of art. The national tendency towards the suppression of sentiment and the loss of marked individuality was clearly one of the dangers and evils which the higher class of music teachers had to contend against in this country. Conservatoires and large institutions undoubtedly conferred great advantage upon their students and on the musical education of the country; but he had long felt that students of the higher order did not profit so much from class lessons of short duration as from longer lessons given in privacy. In the elementary stages of musical training there was, of course, a distinct advantage in class teaching; but when a teacher of superior ability wished to put the finishing touches on a clever pupil private tuition became an absolute necessity. In the perfect quietness of the skilled teacher's own study, in a lesson which occupied not less than an hour, there was opportunity for hints as to style, sentiment, and true interpretation which could not possibly be squeezed into the rapid come and go of the class-room. There was another important consideration. Competition was all very well for urging lazy boys to learn Greek irregular verbs or a list of dates; but was it well that young students should study the masterpieces of the great composers merely in view of a competitive examination? Surely not. The inner motive which impelled a student to undergo the drudgery of technical work would influence the results of that work. Competition was certainly more rife among the students of an institution than among the few pupils of a real "master." Unless a considerable amount of quiet personal influence in the direction of "sentiment" was exercised over pupils they almost invariably devoted themselves to the mastery of technical difficulties and nothing else. Left to themselves, young performers always preferred to exhibit their skill rather than their taste. It was hardly possible to begin too early to mould and influence a pupil's taste and sentiment. No easy piece should be set aside, even by a child, until some stage of expression had been reached. If once the fact were grasped that technique and sentiment were twin sisters of art, never to be separated, then sentiment would expand as technique gained in power; or, in other words, the soul would find that it had more and more to say as new methods and means of expression were provided for it. But musical sentiment was only one element of general culture. The cases in which people were "good at music" and "good at" nothing else were very rare. In his experience, no pupil had become a first-rate musician who could not have become first-rate in many other professions. No art made more demands on sound judgment and good common-sense than music. A weak, silly-sentimental person would never make a good musician. A good intellectual and emotional training was necessary for all students of music. They should make a serious and critical study of sculpture, painting, poetry, and perhaps the decorative arts. The deeper intelligence should be exercised on logic, philosophy, and to some degree on mathematics. It might be urged that life is too short for such a course of training; but life would not be too short if the young musician could be impressed with the fact that he must be a student to the end of his days. He must not suppose that because he could append a few letters to his name on a brass plate he had nothing more to learn. The Incorporated Society of Musicians was now so large and comprehensive that they could largely influence the musical education of the country; and he would appeal to all teachers to give greater prominence to the cultivation of musical sentiment. Until that quality was more generally possessed, and to a greater extent, Englishmen would still be called an "unmusical nation."

Mr. W. G. McNaught (Assistant-Inspector of Music to the Educational Department) read a paper on "The Progress of Music in Elementary Schools." He said that to estimate at all correctly the musical capacity of these children was a difficult task. In some country places it seemed very slight, while in some of the large towns quite astonishing results were obtained. In the power of picking up songs, of singing them in time and tune, and of associating symbols with things in music, English children, as far as his experience went, were as good as the children of any other country. The most unmusical county in England was Devonshire; one of the worst, too, he regretted to say, was Oxfordshire. Sir John Stainer might, however, derive some consolation from the fact that Cambridgeshire was even inferior to Oxfordshire. (Laughter.) It was want of enthusiasm, rather than lack of capacity, which made some of these districts so far behind others. In Devon only fifteen per cent. of the schools were taught by note, whereas in London, which, he said, showed the highest returns, ninety-three per cent. were instructed by note and seven by ear. As to whether the grant for ear-singing should be discontinued, it was, in point of fact, gradually abolishing itself. Unquestionably we were making strides, but the results of the musical education given in our schools were nevertheless somewhat disappointing, so far as they had gone. Without doubt the majority of the pupils gave no more thought or attention to the subject after leaving school, and for that reason he expressed himself in favour of a scheme of "continuation schools" for both sexes.

On Wednesday morning the Conference was resumed at the Midland Hotel, when Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, who was in the chair, delivered an address. He said that many persons had been spending too much time and power of observation upon the minor and more trivial points which bore upon the present condition of music and the profession of music, forgetting that all the increasing interest which was undoubtedly being taken in music and musical education now pointed to the fact that to the present generation of musicians belonged the task of forming, moulding, and, finally, establishing the status of the profession. Music was becoming fast part and parcel of the daily life of all classes, and if the professional musician wished to improve or even keep his present position let him realise, without further delay, that his art was being practised and cultivated by others than himself. He must prepare himself for his work by a much more comprehensive education if he wished his profession to take equal rank with the other professions. Here self-deception was fatal. The present age was called one of specialism, but the day had not yet arrived when the musical profession could allow the specialist to become too prominent. The musical profession had yet to work out its own salvation, and was still in need of a larger number of well-informed, all-round general practitioners—men not only with wider and more extensive knowledge of the art itself, but of the history and literature of the art. There were some truly remarkable men in this respect, but there were not enough. Was it not profitable, for instance, to observe the different effects which all-pervading "Wagnerism" was at the present moment producing upon the music of all nations? Was it not useful to realise how the composers of many lands were straining and squeezing themselves into the Wagner greatcoat, heedless of the fact that the garment did not always fit and that it only spoilt the natural shape of their figures? What more interesting than to watch the gradual growth and the many phases through which our own national art was passing? Musicians must fit themselves for their work by the absorption of as much general knowledge as possible, if the professional were to meet the cultured amateur on an equal footing. That was the real question. The opinion was current that the tendency to found public schools and municipal academies would injure the individual teacher. Personally, he did not believe that that tendency would touch the able professor at all, except in a manner favourable to his interests. The philanthropic mind was not unreasonable, and in many cases it had been convinced already that what was next door to free instruction should be given only in large classes, and he hoped that very soon single instruction on the ubiquitous pianoforte would be done away with in all the technical schools. There were some members of the profession who thought that such State-aided institutions as the Royal Academy of Music were giving instruction to too many students; that the output of mediocrity was appalling; and that such schools should only educate a few selected and gifted pupils. But it was a mistake to suppose that all who entered such institutions meant to become members of the profession. It was the national desire for general education which increased the numbers in great private and public schools. If art schools were meant to educate solely genius and exceptional talent, a very small flat would suffice for their operations. Further, the very process of education often developed latent powers; and the same machinery was necessary for the complete education of one student as for that of 500. It ought not to be necessary for any one to dwell upon the enduring value of a liberal education in any rank of life; but it was hardly possible to look at the position of the musical profession with a heartfelt and sincere appreciation of its unfulfilled desires, and not to perceive that such truths must be brought before professional musicians if their status was to be elevated. It was general culture which was wanted—that all-round education which would enable the musician not only to be eminent in his particular department, but fit him to cope with the ever-increasing competition which every other profession had to face, and permit him to take his place in any social circle or condition of life. Better and more enlightened teaching would be the inevitable result of a wider culture and more extensive general knowledge. He had over and over again noticed, during his attendance at the competitions for the many scholarships which were within the reach of the young student, how little the real musical faculty had been aroused in the candidates. In the preparation for such examinations, the whole weight and stress was laid on mere correctness and digital dexterity. Beyond this, nothing. The mind, the intellect, were dormant, and frequently not a couple of consecutive chords could be struck without book, nor could even a simple melody (played on another pianoforte) be imitated, nor a few chords be reproduced by ear. There must be something wrong in that. Teaching must not become a mere professional habit or pursuit, but a mission and an art. The merely professional man was often artificial, narrow-minded, and hide-bound in his own personal interests. From personal acquaintance with many great foreign artists—such as Liszt, Joachim, Bülow, and Rubinstein—he knew that they were as familiar with the great poets and novelists of their own and other nations as they were with the scores of Beethoven. It was impossible to conceive the existence of a really good composer who had not cultivated the faculty of imagination. It seemed clear that the profession of music was endeavouring to write its own history. That history would date almost from the present day, and the success of the effort would depend not upon the outer signs and characters, nor on the elegance of the style, but upon the matter which the books would chronicle for the next generation. One thing was certain, the Incorporated Society of Musicians, if conducted wisely, might be the principal contributor to the pages of the history. He could not foresee any time when the profession of music would be so well regulated as to keep the privilege of practising it wholly in the hands of those who lived by it. It did not belong to the so-called imitative arts. It was too free and universal an art to bear any restriction. As the appreciation of music increased, the line which divided the professor from the lover of music would assuredly become thinner and thinner, and the duties of the former towards himself and his art more difficult and onerous.

Mr. W. H. Carte read a paper on "The Registration of Musicians." He said that the work which most urgently demanded attention on the part of the Incorporated Society of Musicians was the establishment of an authoritative register of the legitimate professional musicians in the United Kingdom. It was impossible to over-estimate the advantages that would flow from such a register. As time went on, more and more of the work now ill-done by incompetent persons would be intrusted to those whose talents and education fitted them to undertake it. Many beginners in music, now taught by persons who were really amateurs, would put themselves into properly qualified hands; and the register would also deal a severe blow at the "wholesale degree trade," which had flourished so much of late. It would weld the musical profession into a great whole—a living body which could speak and act. The Incorporated Society should appoint a committee to examine into the matter in all its bearings and put the machinery in motion which would enable them to make an exhaustive report on the whole subject. The Society would then be in a position to formulate a scheme for carrying into effect the establishment of the register on a basis which would meet the views of the whole musical community. Teachers already felt the importance of the question, but composers and the bulk of the public performers would be slower to perceive its advantages.

Other admirable papers were those on "Form," by Dr. Hiles, of Manchester; "The Old Claviers" (with illustrations), by Mr. J. A. Hipkins; "The Musical Education of the Blind," by Dr. F. J. Campbell; "Our Pupils," by Mr. J. L. Roeckel; and "The Solmisation of the Minor Key," by Dr. F. Merrick, of Bristol. A delightful Concert of ancient music was played on ancient musical instruments by Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch and his assistants; three evening Concerts, of music by members of the Society, were given, and on Friday, the formal proceedings ended with a banquet, at which Dr. A. C. Mackenzie presided. A full report of these doings and sayings will, however, be found in the Monthly Journal of the Society, and to this we must refer our readers, our space being limited.

HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

How much we are indebted to the large and efficient choral societies which now flourish in the suburban districts of the metropolis for bringing to performance the oratorios and other works produced at the leading provincial Festivals receives ample proof from time to time, and one of these bodies to whom musicians owe a special tribute of gratitude is that which gives its public Concerts at the Highbury Athenæum, under the direction of Mr. G. H. Betjemann. The atmosphere of the Northern heights seems to have a stimulating effect alike on the voices of local amateurs and on their efforts to keep "up to date" in the presentation of the latest Festival novelties. A year ago the Society above-named brought forward Dr. Hubert Parry's masterly setting of the "De Profundis," and on Monday, the 16th ult., the same composer's one-part Oratorio "Job" was performed under its auspices for the first time in London. This work, the production of which gave distinction to the meeting at Gloucester, was described before, and criticised at length after the performance, in The Musical Times, and to the opinions already expressed nothing need be added save to record that, under circumstances not wholly advantageous, the powerful and majestic music created a large measure of effect. It is very unfortunate that the spacious orchestra in the Highbury Athenæum does not possess an organ, for the lack of the "king of instruments" made itself felt in the noble theme which recurs whenever the composer wishes to convey the idea of the over-ruling Providence by which the Patriarch is environed even in his deepest affliction. Then with an orchestra in the main composed of amateurs it would be unreasonable to look for the same finish in matters of detail which may reasonably be expected from professional players, especially in music so full of pitfalls for the unwary as Dr. Parry's latest work. Furthermore, some of the tempi had been altered at the last moment at the desire of the composer; but, in spite of these drawbacks, the work evidently made a profound impression upon all who heard it, the most meritorious features in the performance being the spirited efforts of the choir and the magnificent declamatory singing of Mr. Plunket Greene in the "Lamentation of Job," which constitutes the most remarkable feature in the Oratorio. Miss Evangeline Florence was welcome in the part of the Shepherd Boy, which she took at short notice, and Mr. Ley was highly efficient as the Narrator, but Mr. Albert Cornish was rather overweighted in the music of Satan. Dr. Parry was called at the conclusion of the performance and heartily applauded. Schumann's "New Year's Song," a selection from Mr. Cowen's "Language of the Flowers," and solos for Miss Florence made up an excellent second part.

DR. HUBERT PARRY ON EXPRESSION AND DESIGN IN MUSIC.

Dr. C. Hubert H. Parry began, on the 21st ult., at the Royal Institution, a course of four Lectures, entitled "Expression and Design in Music." The lecturer said that it was probably owing to music being so young as an art, and its power to excite the emotions, that the important element of design which it contained was so little realised. It was not desirable that consciousness of design should necessarily precede enjoyment of the art—the element which spoke, or should speak, to us most strongly was quite irrespective of that knowledge—but it was good to have some understanding of that which gave us enjoyment. Moreover, it was only by knowledge of the factors that we were able to distinguish good from bad art. The test to apply to any work of art was the quality of the thing expressed and the design in which it was announced. Art appealed to us in as many ways as there were factors to the product. Many people of musical and intellectual organisation were attracted by its technical side. They were carried away by wonderful feats of digital dexterity or by the birdlike trillings of a voice. Others, especially the young, were chiefly affected by rhythm and motion. There must be music for each type and all varieties of mankind, and those who believed in and understood only superficial and trivial show music would be always disposed to despise others who derived enjoyment from its construction as an art. Happy was the man, however, who could exhaustively analyse the thing he enjoyed and still continue to enjoy. To do this in music it was necessary to go deeper than the impressions made upon us by the skilful performer. The lecturer disputed the theory that any art originated in imitation, or that imitation could form the most important part of an artist's work. The object of the true artist was to convey to his fellow-men the impression of something which had been a source of interest or enjoyment to himself. This was expression. The painter did not portray a tree to impress you that it was a tree, but to convey to you how the tree appeared to him. The origin of music was not the desire to imitate the bird's song, but arose partly from an instinct to make a sound, and partly from a wish to give expression to some emotion. This was common to all animals. Savages experienced pleasure in the actual fact of utterance, and they experienced pleasure in making patterns; but they did not perceive the manner in which these two factors might be combined to form an art. How should they? Even in these days it could not be said that art was expressive in terms of design. But it was the design which had the function of laying hold of the mind and planting firmly there the artist's expression. Artistic design was so supremely complicated in its nature that a folk-tune of four bars might contain so many factors of design that it would take a hundred times longer to describe them than to play the result of their combination. It was only after generations of the development of the instinct of design that human creatures had material for its problems. Design in art was the counterpart of that which in the ordinary affairs of life we called organisation; and the design of any particular music had a close relationship to the state of organisation of the people by whom it was created and practised. The production of the modern symphony was only possible in an advanced state of human development. The beginnings of music were in consonance with the development of organisation. First we had merely emotional phrases; next a disposition was observable to balance these phrases by repetition; then came the introduction of intermediate notes between the recurrence of the phrases; and subsequently a dawning perception of the balancing of sections. All this was pattern making; and what the music gained in design it lost in expression, because the perfect unification of expression and design could only be accomplished by a highly-developed mind. Races differed in their musical aptitude as much as our own personal friends. Much special study was necessary to account for this. Probably it was a question of condition. When conditions were equal, a higher form of design in art represented a higher standard of a people's organisation. Since we had no means of writing sounds other than those of our modern scale, aboriginal tunes could be trusted for little else beyond their general contour, and to trace, by the orderly manner in which the phrases or figures were disposed, the indication of a feeling for design. Though we could not make sure of the details of a melody or musical figure, we could recognise when it went up or down, and by the regularity or otherwise of such recurrences judge of the balance between these portions. Comparison of the earliest specimens obtainable showed that there were two principal forms of motion developed in what might be termed the formation type period of all aboriginal music—viz., the strong emotion expressed by the beginning on a high note and coming gradually downwards, and the emotion which first found expression in a low note and worked itself up by a kind of zig-zag progress to the high note. The latter was a much later development than the former. Regular organisation might be said to begin when passages were introduced between reiterated figures, an exact balance of phrases being preserved. This was found in folk-music, and early Russian music presented many remarkable specimens of this type. The Lecture was illustrated by diagrams showing the characteristic construction or rise and fall of the music of various nations, and by the performance vocally and on the violin of a most interesting and diversified selection of the earliest musical figures and phrases.

MR. DOLMETSCH'S VIOL CONCERT.

"The 1st thing to be considered, as to the Advantage of Good Music, should be a convenient and Fit Place to perform it in." Such a "fit place" Mr. Dolmetsch has certainly found in the ancient Hall of Barnard's Inn, Holborn, where, on the 24th ult., were resumed the Concerts of music of the past well worthy of being heard in the present. As on former occasions, many charming and most interesting specimens of the musical spirit and skill of our forefathers were made to tell again their story in the same sweet expressive tones in which they had first appealed for welcome and sympathy. Nor did Mr. Dolmetsch stop here, for he would have his audience "admire with understanding," and so he had provided diagrams of two "points" of contrapuntal complexity which occurred respectively in Martin Pierson's "Fantazie," and a composition of like nature by "Coperario," otherwise John Cooper. Over his explanation of the latter the Concert-giver waxed enthusiastic, and said "he was quite sure that no living composer could write such counterpoint"; naïvely adding "he had tried to himself," a remark which caused much good-humoured laughter. Other examples played were Divisions on a Ground No. 1 in G major for the viol da gamba, accompanied by the harpsichord, by Christopher Simpson, published in 1655; and a Sonata No. 1, for the same instrument and in the same key, by Bach. Vocal music was represented by settings of Waller's "Go, lovely Rose," and Herrick's "Gather ye Rosebuds," by Henry and William Lawes respectively, and by a setting of "Take, O take those lips away," by Dr. John Wilson, who is supposed to be the Jack Wilson whose name appears in the first folio edition of Shakespeare's plays in "Much Ado" as singing "Sigh no more, ladies." It only remains to add that Mr. Dolmetsch's excellently trained company did full justice to the music.

THE PLAINSONG AND MEDIÆVAL SOCIETY.

The Rev. W. H. Frere, on the 24th ult., read a paper entitled "Folk-Songs and their Tonality," before a numerous gathering of the members of the Plainsong and Mediæval Society, at the Chapter House, St. Paul's, the Lord Mayor occupying the chair. After a brief reference to the construction of our modern major and minor scales, the lecturer said that, with the exception of a few "circular" tunes, all folk melodies came to a definite end—i.e., they finished on the final note of the scale or mode in which they were written. Therefore the final note exercised an influence on the whole melody, exactly as our keynote exerted a determining influence on the modern tune. A large number of folk-tunes, especially those of Scotland, were built upon the pentatonic scale, which consisted of two notes a whole tone apart, and three notes enclosing the interval of a major third at the distance of a minor third above or below the other two notes. These could be located in the following three positions—viz., G, A—C, D, E; C, D—F, G, A; and D, E—G, A, B. As each of the five notes was used as a "final" there arose five distinct scales, of which the second and third were mostly used—viz., those located on A and C. The bagpipe scale resulted from the combination of two contiguous positions of the pentatonic series, by which means the whole seven notes of the diatonic scale became available; but many bagpipe melodies revealed in their construction their pentatonic origin, and sometimes even retained the strict pentatonic form; a phrase in the upper pentatonic scale being repeated a note lower—i.e., in the lower pentatonic scale. The lecturer then briefly reviewed the ecclesiastical modes and described the crucial notes which, by their treatment, indicated the mode in which any melody was written. The first mode, the Dorian, was divided into three classes—viz., first, in which the sixth was major; second, in which the sixth was flattened; and third, in which the sixth was avoided altogether. The Lecture was illustrated by numerous examples, and three fine folk-songs were most charmingly sung by Miss Broadwood. The proceedings were closed by an interesting discussion.

DR. HUBERT PARRY'S "HYPATIA" MUSIC.

The incidental music contributed by Dr. Hubert Parry to the production of "Hypatia," on the 2nd ult., at the Haymarket Theatre, is of an elaborate, extensive, and important character. In point of mere bulk—setting aside the question of merit altogether—it has about as much matter in it as would make two symphonies. And yet, such is the disadvantage at which a musician even of Dr. Parry's distinction is placed when he enters the theatre, that his share in the production, though it must have cost him a great deal of work and thought, has been passed over in the press either without a word or else in the most cursory fashion imaginable. It is satisfactory, therefore, to learn that a selection of the music is to be given at one of the Philharmonic Concerts, where it is to be hoped that some of the most important numbers, which have been condensed or sacrificed to the exigencies of stage performance, will be heard in the form originally designed by the composer. The Overture, which is in E minor, is a vigorous and sonorously scored piece of work, in which attention is specially challenged by the effective use of the themes subsequently associated with the Monks, the love of Ruth and Orestes, and with Issachar. The first of these is a sombre yet striking tune which, though not written in an ecclesiastical mode, follows the general outlines of Intonation, using the word in the technical sense On these materials the Overture is almost entirely based. In the first scene occur two pieces of mélodrame, the shorter of which, played in the distance, contains an effective quotation from Dr. Parry's music to the "Frogs." At the close of the scene the Monkish Chant is given by the Monks unaccompanied. This, we understand, was originally an important number with orchestral accompaniment, but in the stage version it is considerably condensed and sung in unison without any instrumental support. The first of the entr'actes, a movement in G, is illustrative of the temper and attitude of the crowd discovered outside the house of Issachar and is in the composer's brightest and most vivacious vein; the second, in D, is expressive of the love of Ruth and Orestes, and is by turns passionate and tender; altogether a very beautiful number. The processional music in F is bright, rhythmic, and vigorous, while the Hypatia entr'acte, in B flat, is remarkable for the contrast between the dreamy and mystical theme associated with the heroine and the Monkish Chant which, in a slightly varied form, is happily illustrative of her points of contact with Philammon. Of the remaining numbers special mention should be made of the entr'acte typical of the Jew Issachar, the theme of which is of a distinctly Oriental and sinister character; of the important Processional March in A major which, as given at the Haymarket, is but a fragment of the original; of the final mélodrame, also condensed, which is played during Hypatia's dying speech; and the impressive Apotheosis in E major, which rounds off the play. The incidental music, we may add, is scored for strings, one flute, one oboe, two clarinets, and one bassoon, one horn, two trumpets, two trombones, bass tuba, and timpani; and, considering the unfavourable conditions which inevitably prevail at a theatre, great credit must be assigned to Mr. Armbruster for the loyalty and intelligence displayed by him in endeavouring to carry out the composer's intentions.

LYRIC THEATRE.

The present season, if not generally remarkable for the production of new works in the higher forms of musical art, is certainly noteworthy for the unusual number of light operas which have appeared—most of them only to disappear within a few weeks or months. Entertainments of this nature being generally so ephemeral rarely demand any sort of notice in this place, but there are exceptions, and one such is "The Magic Opal," which saw the light at the above-named theatre on the 19th ult. Our readers will not expect a detailed description of Mr. Arthur Law's libretto, which deals with the embarrassments and misunderstandings caused by an enchanted hoop acting in precisely the same way as a love philtre upon any one who touches its possessor, provided that he or she be of the opposite sex. But the music of Mr. Albeniz calls for notice, for it affords strong testimony to its composer's possession of gifts which ought, in due course, to find opportunities for display in more important spheres. The gifted Spanish pianist can write strains of a higher class than shop ballads and dance tunes. His melodies, if not invariably original, are certainly always refined; his part-writing and orchestration show the hand of a true musician; and the pleasant Spanish colouring in many of the numbers is not found incongruous, though the scene of the opera is laid in Greece. We hope in due course to welcome Mr. Albeniz in the ranks of those who contribute to the more enduring forms of lyric drama—ranks by no means too well filled at present. With regard to the performance of "The Magic Opal," Miss Aida Jenoure, Miss May Yohe, Mr. John Child, and Mr. Wallace Brownlow may be selected for mention on account of their vocal capacity, and the general interpretation is in all respects worthy of Mr. Horace Sedger's well-appointed theatre.

OBITUARY.

We are sorry to record the death, at Ealing, on the 14th ult., of Mr. John Boosey, the head of the firm of Boosey and Co. The deceased gentleman had long suffered from the form of paralysis which gradually affects the entire body. To the last, however, his mental powers remained unweakened, and he died, not of the chronic disease, but of congestion of the lungs. Mr. Boosey played an active part in the artistic concerns of the metropolis. He was a publisher of much enterprise; he "ran" more than one musical journal, notably the Musical World, which, it must not be forgotten, was started by the house of Novello; and he carried on the well-known London Ballad Concerts from their beginning, more than a quarter of a century ago. In point of fact, Mr. Boosey furnished a striking illustration of the qualities which command success on the trading side of the "divine art." For some time past he took a lessening share in the work of the firm, and he died at the age of sixty-one, when a modern man is still supposed to have years of work in him.

Mr. C. E. Cafferata, Conductor of the Societa Armonica, and an amateur musician of considerable repute, died during the past month in Liverpool, at the age of about fifty-five.

We have to record the death, on December 28 last, at his residence in Edinburgh, of Mr. Frederick William Bridgman, a highly esteemed pianist and teacher, and for some years Organist of the United Presbyterian Church, College Street, in the Scottish Capital. He was born in London in January, 1833, and made his début as a pianist at the early age of seven. He settled in Edinburgh nearly half-a-century ago, and soon established for himself a leading position amongst the musicians of the country.

Mr. Charles Ziegler, chief manager of Messrs. Steinway and Sons' London House, and member of that firm, died on the 4th ult. at his residence, No. 17, Lower Seymour Street. He was born in New York, in 1854, and was the eldest grandson of the late Engelhardt Steinway, the founder of the firm. Mr. Ziegler was both an able musician and an accomplished artist.

Mr. Charles A. Harper, the distinguished horn player, for many years the principal performer on his instrument in the leading English orchestras, died in London on the 5th ult., aged seventy-three. He was the second son of the elder Thomas Harper, the celebrated trumpet-player, and held a professorship at the Royal Academy of Music.

The death is announced at Liverpool, in the second week of last month, of Mr. Charles Wilberforce, a musician of much ability, for a period of some thirty years Organist of St. Anthony's Catholic Chapel, and afterwards of St. Michael's in that town. He was seventy-six years of age.

M. Ferdinand Lavainne, honorary director of the Conservatoire at Lille, died at that town on the 7th ult., aged seventy-eight. He was a pianist of considerable attainments and a very meritorious composer, principally of chamber music and music for the church. Amongst several operas from his pen, one entitled "Nérida," brought out some thirty years since, was the most successful.

M. Talazac, the celebrated French operatic tenor, well-known also in this country, died on December 26 last, at Chatou, near Paris. He made his début at the Paris Opéra Comique in 1878, in Reyer's "La Statue," and subsequently created the tenor part in a number of more or less important French operas, including "Lakmé," "Le Roi d'Ys," and "Samson et Dalila," the latter upon its first performance at the Eden Theatre. M. Talazac was born at Bordeaux, in 1853.

Carl Hill, one of the most justly esteemed German operatic baritones, and a true artist, died on the 12th ult., at Sachsenberg (Mecklenburg), in his sixty-second year. He was for many years, and within three years ago, a member of the Court Theatre in Schwerin, and obtained a world-wide reputation by his masterly interpretation of the parts of Alberich and of Klingsor in connection with the Bayreuth Festspiele. Carl Hill was, moreover, an excellent oratorio and concert-room singer. He was born at Idstein, near Nassau.

We have to record the death, on December 25 last, at Dresden, of Carl August Fischer, one of the most distinguished of modern German organists and a gifted composer. He was a pupil of the Leipzig Conservatorium, and for many years occupied the post of Organist both at the Dreikönigs Kirche and the Church of St. Anne's in the Saxon capital. Amongst his compositions may be mentioned, besides numerous works for his own particular instrument, the Symphonies "In Memoriam" and "Künstler-Carnival," and an opera "Loreley." He was born at Ebersdorf, near Chemnitz, in 1829, and was thus in his sixty-fourth year.

We have also to record the death, on the 18th ult., at Boston (U.S.), of Julius Eichberg, a distinguished violinist and composer. He was born in Düsseldorf, on June 13, 1824, and studied composition under Fétis, and the violin under Meerts and De Bériot, and about 1847 was appointed professor of the violin and composition at the Geneva Conservatoire. In 1856 he removed to America and took up his residence at Boston, where he became the director of the Boston Conservatory of Music, general inspector of music in the public schools, and also founded a school for violin playing bearing his name. He is the composer of numerous chamber works, violin pieces, &c., as well as of several operas, set to English words, notably "The Doctor of Alcantara," which has become an established favourite with American audiences.

We have also to record the following deaths, viz.:—

On December 20, at Steglitz, near Berlin, Carl Bial, well known pianist and teacher of his instrument, aged fifty-nine.

On December 27, at Lisbon, Antonio Melchior Oliver, successful teacher of operatic singing, Secretary to the Royal Conservatorio in the Portuguese capital, aged sixty-one.

On December 31, at Lamspringe (Prussia), Heinrich Homeyer, organist of considerable repute, aged sixty-six.

On the 16th ult., at Paris, M. Verrimst, distinguished contrabassist, for many years member of the orchestra of the Opéra, and professor at the Conservatoire, aged sixty-eight.

On the 13th ult., at Dresden, Frau Melitta Otto-Alvsleben, honorary member of the Hof-Theater, once a celebrated prima donna, aged fifty-two. She was the solo soprano at the Beethoven Centenary at Bonn in 1871, and from 1873 to 1875 sang frequently in England—at Novello's Oratorio Concerts, the Crystal Palace, &c.

On the 22nd ult., at Madrid, José Zorilla, distinguished Spanish dramatist and poetical author, some of whose lyrics have been set to music, in his seventy-sixth year.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

During the reign of the "Lord of Misrule" serious music is at a standstill. Nevertheless, there are one or two events of sufficient importance to be placed on record. To go back to the Boxing Night performance of "The Messiah," by the Festival Choral Society, it is to be noted that three of the vocal principals are natives of Birmingham—viz., Miss Alice Hill, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. John Ridding. The soprano was Miss Medora Henson, who made her first appearance here. She has a beautiful voice, but cannot yet be accepted as a Handelian singer. The performance all round was hardly up to the Society's standard, but the holiday audience was pleased. There was a good band, Mr. Perkins ably assisted at the organ, and Mr. Stockley conducted. "The Messiah" was the first choral work given after the recess, the Choral and Orchestral Association performing it in the Town Hall on the 21st ult. The vocal principals were Miss Mabel Grove, Miss Blanche Stanley, Mr. R. M. Swingler, and Mr. T. Horrex. The attendance was not so large as usual, and possibly some disappointment was felt at the non-production of Bennett's Oratorio "The Woman of Samaria," which is postponed until Easter. The performance of "The Messiah" was one of the best the Association has given for a considerable time, and Mr. Halford, the Conductor, is to be congratulated on the result of his labours.

The "Magdalen Vagabonds" paid us a visit on the 12th ult., giving an excellent Concert in the Masonic Hall. Glees by Horsley, Walmisley, Spofforth, and Webbe were sung with refinement and finish. A part-song, "Come, my dear one," by the Conductor, Dr. J. Varley Roberts, greatly pleased the audience.

Dr. Rowland Winn gave an Invitation Concert the next evening in the same room, Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata and Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor being the principal works performed. Mr. F. Ward was the violinist and Mr. A. J. Priestley was responsible for the violoncello part.

The next evening a Dramatic and Musical Recital was given in the same hall by Miss Ethel Davies and Miss May Davis, assisted by Mr. J. D. Davis (pianist), Mr. F. Ward (violinist), Mr. Percy Taunton (vocalist), and Mr. Ben Nathan.

Mr. Sarasate and Madame Berthe Marx gave a Concert in the Town Hall on the 17th ult. Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata received a magnificent interpretation, and a Concertstück (Op. 20), by Saint-Saëns, was an acceptable novelty. The other pieces were of a more popular character, and the audience, charmed with the various performances, succeeded in getting double value for their money by obtaining encores after nearly every number of the programme.

The Turner Opera Company began its annual season at the Grand Theatre on the 16th ult. The first work presented was the much talked of "Cavalleria Rusticana." Very well put upon the stage, and with Mr. Turner as Turiddu, Miss Chrystal Duncan as Santuzza, Miss Amy Martin as Lucia, Miss Annie Roberts as Lola, and Mr. John Ridding as Alfio, a fairly good performance was secured. The band, directed by Mr. T. E. Turrell, did its best, but was inadequate to the full demands of the score. The performance created some enthusiasm, but there was little of the sensation witnessed in earlier performances of the work.

So far, with this exception, only old familiar stock pieces have been given.

The Misses Rose and Emilie Long gave their third annual Concert in the Masonic Hall on the 24th ult., when a strong array of local artists assisted.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The third Musical Recital of the present season in Bristol Cathedral, held on Christmas Eve, took the form of a Carol Service. Carols new and old were well sung by

I did call upon the Lord.

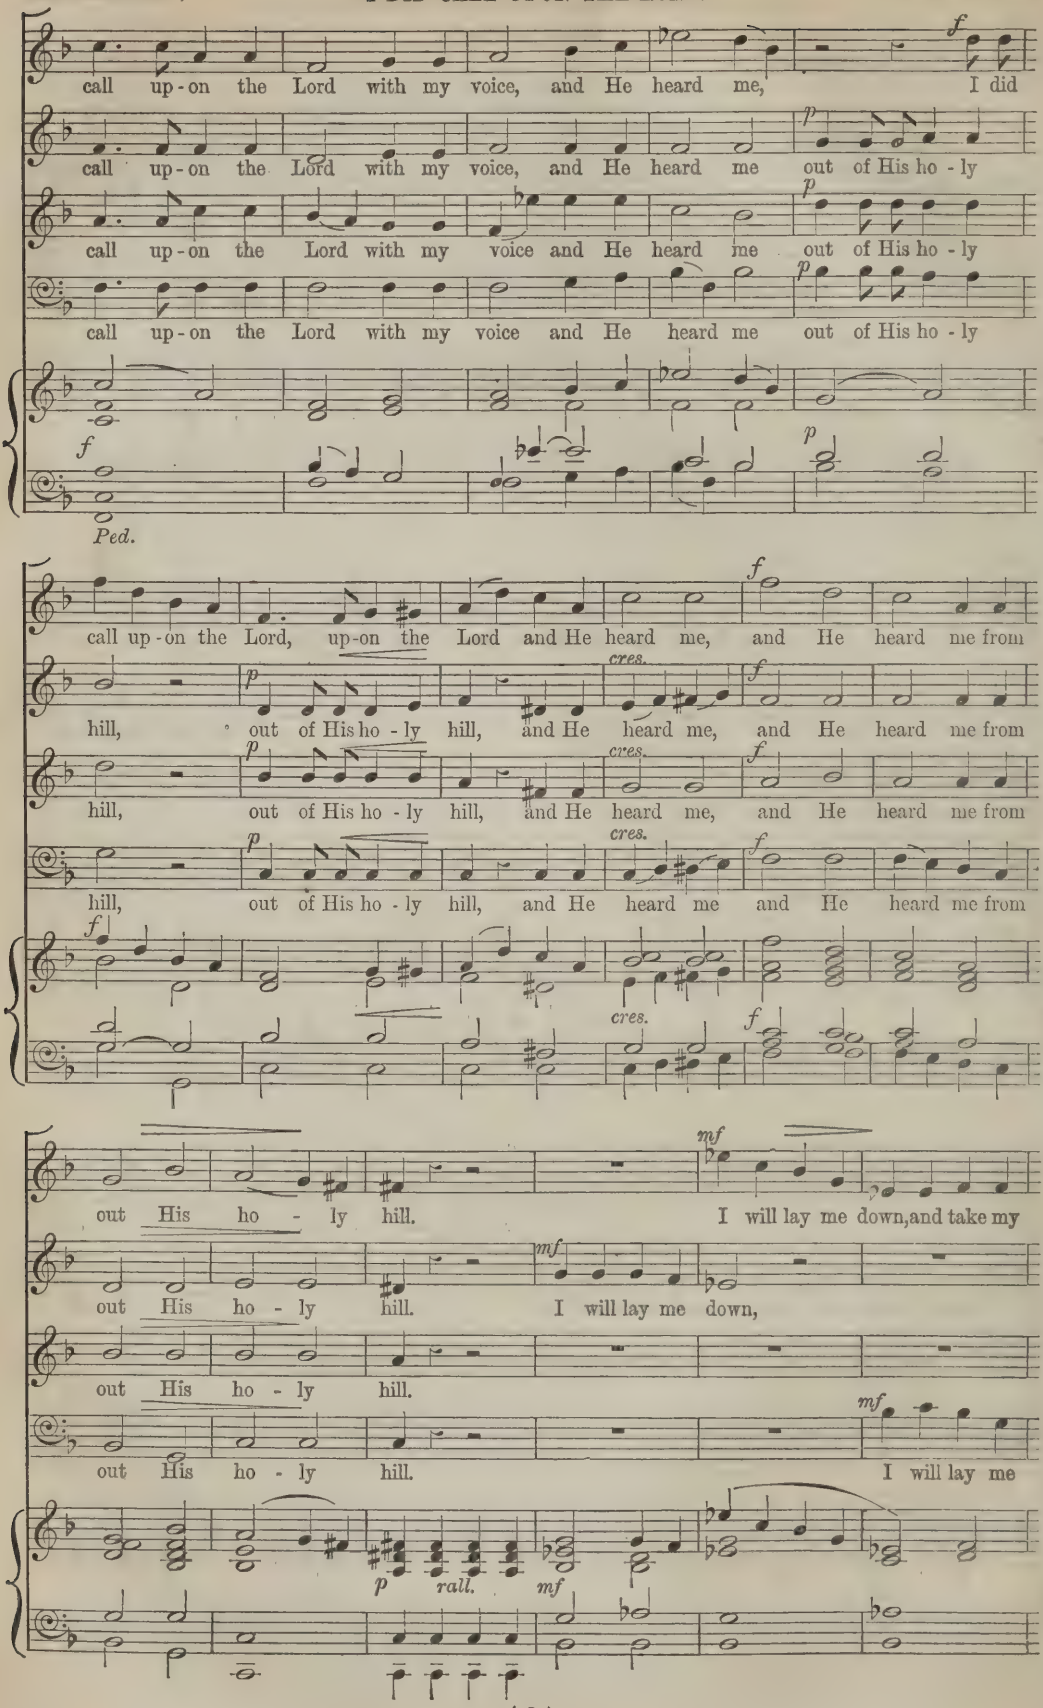
FULL ANTHEM.

Psalm iii. 4; iv. 9; xxx. 13.

Composed by FRANK L. MOIR.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Copyright, 1893, by Novello, Ewer and Co.



call up-on the Lord with my voice, and He heard me, I did call up-on the Lord with my voice, and He heard me out of His ho-ly
call up-on the Lord with my voice and He heard me out of His ho-ly
call up-on the Lord with my voice and He heard me out of His ho-ly
Ped.
call up-on the Lord, up-on the Lord and He heard me, and He heard me from hill, out of His ho-ly hill, and He heard me, and He heard me from hill, out of His ho-ly hill, and He heard me, and He heard me from hill, out of His ho-ly hill, and He heard me and He heard me from out His ho-ly hill. I will lay me down, and take my out His ho-ly hill. I will lay me down, out His ho-ly hill. out His ho-ly hill. I will lay me
rall.

rest, take . . my rest, for it is Thou, Lord,
take my rest, for it is Thou, Lord,
I will lay me down, and take my rest, for it is Thou, Lord, down, down, and take my rest, for it is Thou, Lord,
cres.
on - ly that mak-est me dwell in safe - ty, Thou, Lord, on - ly, that mak-est me dwell in safe - ty, . . I will take my rest, will take my rest, will safe - ty, . . I will lay me down, and take my rest, will safe - ty, I will lay me down, and take my rest, and take my rest, will safe - ty, I will lay me down, and take my

Moderato.
lay me down, and take my rest.
lay me down, and take my rest.
f
There-fore shall ev -'ry good man sing .. of Thy lay me down, and take my rest.
rest, take my rest.
Moderato.
mf
praise, sing .. of Thy praise,
f
There-fore shall ev -'ry good man sing .. of Thy praise, sing .. of Thy
f
There-fore shall ev -'ry good man sing .. of Thy praise, sing .. of Thy
f
There-fore shall ev -'ry good man sing .. of Thy praise, sing .. of Thy praise with - out
f
There-fore shall ev -'ry good man sing of Thy praise, sing of Thy praise with - out praise, ev -'ry good man sing of Thy praise, sing of Thy praise with - out praise, ev -'ry good man sing of Thy praise, sing of Thy praise with - out
f

f ceas - ing, O my God, O my God, I will give thanks un - to Thee for ev - er, I will give thanks, give thanks un - to Thee,
Thee for ev - er, I will give thanks, give thanks un - to Thee,
Thee for ev - er, I . . will give thanks, give thanks un - to Thee, . .
ff
dim.
Andante.
I will give thanks un - to Thee for ev - er.
mp
I will give thanks un - to Thee for ev - er. I laid me p rall.
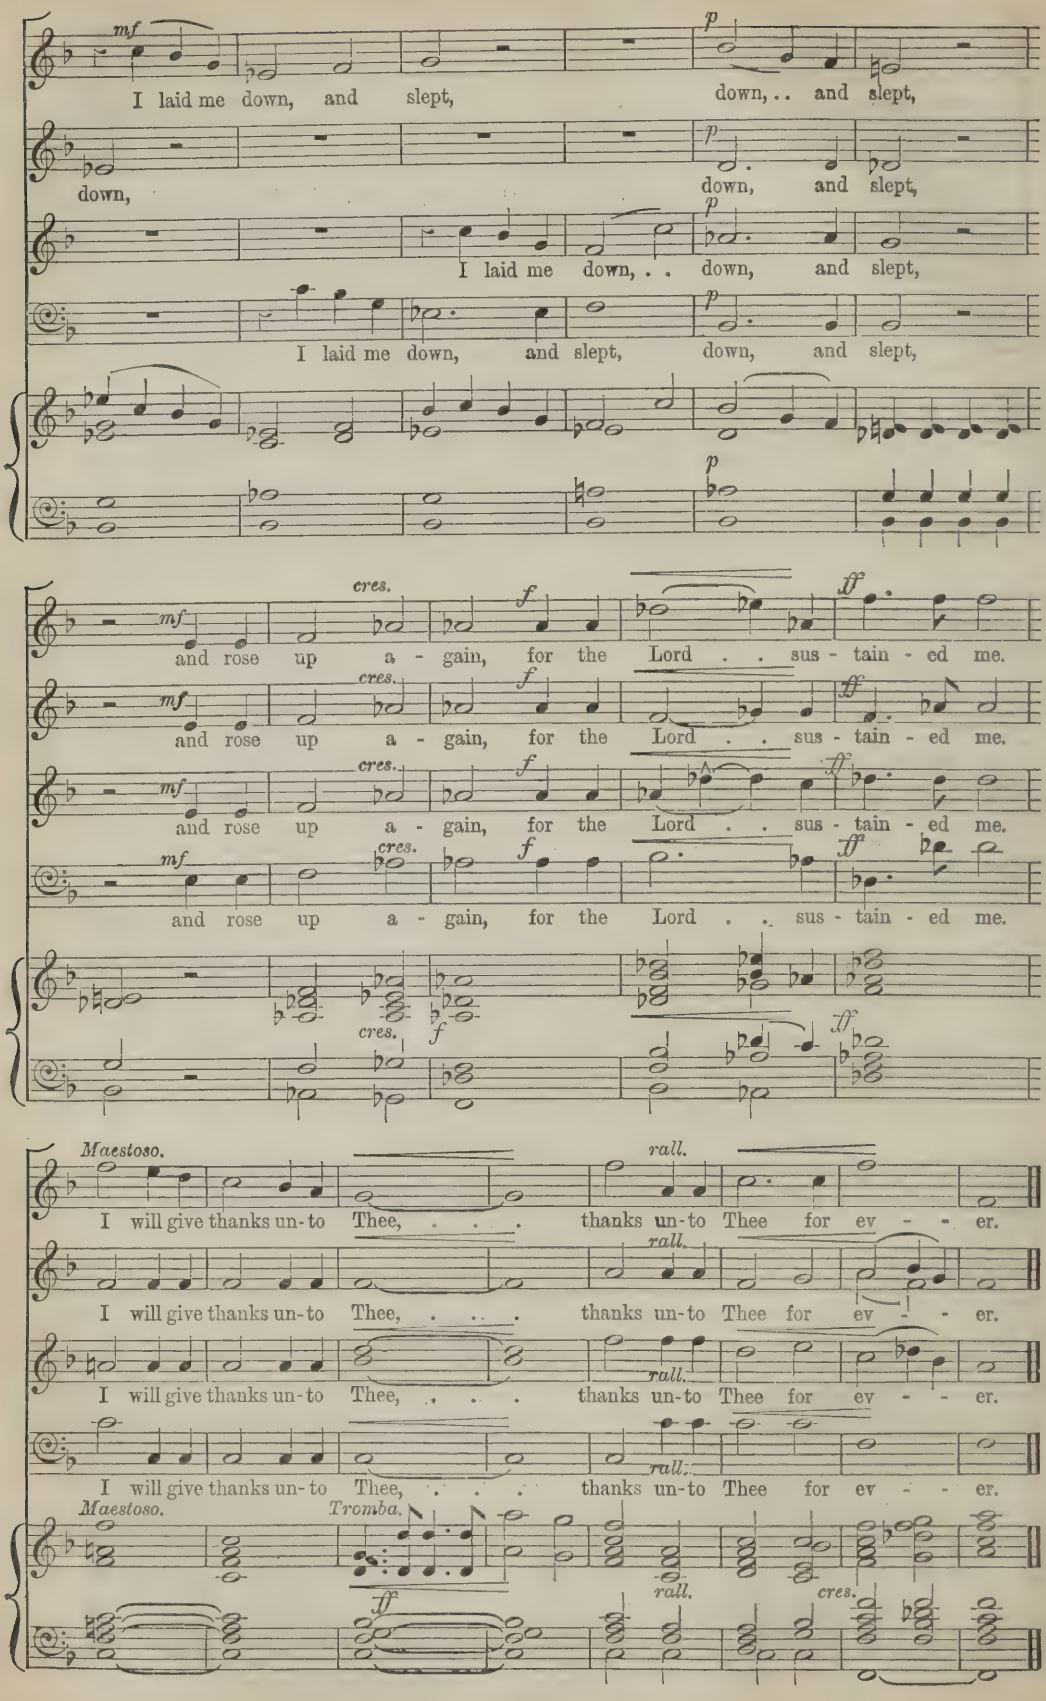
p



mf
I laid me down, and slept,
p down, .. and slept,
down,
down, and slept,
I laid me down, . . down, and slept,
I laid me down, and slept, down, and slept,
cres.
f
ff
and rose up a - gain, for the Lord . . sus - tain - ed me.
Maestoso.
rall.
I will give thanks un-to Thee, . . . thanks un-to Thee for ev - - er.
Tromba.

the choir, and Miss Cromey, Miss Aldersley, and Mr. W. Thomas were the soloists. Many of the same compositions were repeated at the service in the Nave of the Cathedral on the night of Christmas Day. Unlike the musical recitals at Gloucester Cathedral, those at our mother church latterly have not been so well attended as was expected, and the offertories have seldom or never covered the expenses; hence it is probable they may be abandoned.

Carol singing in the churches and chapels of Bristol was very general at Christmas, the collections published by Messrs. Novello being chiefly drawn upon. The twelve new ones written by Shapcott Wensley found ready acceptance, and in some churches the whole of them were sung.

The Clifton Amateur Orchestral Society gave its first annual Concert on the 19th ult., under the direction of Mr. Edward Pavey. The scheme embraced Mozart's Symphony (No. 1 in C), a couple of Overtures, a Suite of Grieg, and some smaller pieces, which were all praiseworthily performed. Misses Marion Harris, Florence Thorne, Annie Boucher, and Mr. F. Barnard contributed songs.

The Bristol Musical Festival Society Committee have decided to hold the next Triennial Festival in October. In the meantime the choir is earnestly studying the choral works to be included in the scheme. The committee have been in communication with leading English composers with a view of securing a new work, but up to the present it is believed nothing definite has been decided. Sir Charles Hallé has been consulted regarding the arrangement of the Festival programme.

Midsomer Norton and District Choral Society, of which Mr. W. J. Kidner is Conductor, gave a very successful Concert on the 3rd ult., on the occasion of the opening of a spacious new hall. The association, which has recently doubled in number of members, has made remarkable progress, and sang the many choruses, part-songs, glees, and carols with highly praiseworthy results. Individual members of the Society contributed solos with skill and intelligence.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The most notable event in musical Edinburgh last month was the first production of Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal," at Messrs. Paterson's fifth Orchestral Concert, on the 16th ult. The Choral Union had been thoroughly trained in the work by Mr. Collinson, and the solo numbers were confided to Miss Emily Davies and Mr. Iver McKay, so that the centre and one important wing of Dr. Mackenzie's army gave no cause for anxiety. The orchestra, in spite of the limited time available for rehearsal, gave a very good account of the work allotted to them, and the "melodrama" was in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Fry, who is so identified with the part. In the hall the traditional coolness of Edinburgh audiences was conscientiously maintained while Edinburgh's most famous musician appeared to conduct what is, perhaps, his greatest work. Enthusiasm grew, however, with each number, and at the close Dr. Mackenzie was loudly recalled to receive a perfect ovation from audience, chorus, and orchestra. Mr. McKay narrowly escaped an encore for his spirited rendering of the "Sickle Song," and Miss Davies's singing of "The Lord is good" was well received. The audience had no opportunity to express their appreciation of Mr. Fry's careful and effective declamation, as the last recitation is immediately and without pause followed by the grand "Invocation to Music." Miss Davies undertook the solo in "Hear my Prayer," which, truth to tell, sounds better in the hands of a smaller choir and with organ accompaniment. Two effective numbers from Mackenzie's "Ravenswood" music concluded a delightful Concert.

At the fourth Concert of the same series Mr. Joseph Bradley took the place of Mr. Manns, whose sad bereavement has called forth much sympathy from his numerous friends here. Mr. Bradley gave more than satisfaction. He secured an excellent rendering of Beethoven's Fourth Symphony and a very spirited and fiery performance of the Finale from Schubert's C major. Barclay Jones's clever and sound Concert-Overture was carefully played and warmly received. Miss Wietrowetz, who made her first appearance here, was distinctly successful in the Mendelssohn Concerto. The Adagio in Spohr's Sixth Concerto was also very enjoyable, but the talented young violinist was at her best in Sarasate's "Gipsy Songs," for which she won a well deserved encore.

Mr. Moonie's Male Voice Choir gave a Concert on the 7th ult. to an audience which, even taking the bad weather into consideration, emphasised the want of interest Edinburgh takes in even the best male voice performances. The programme was a miscellaneous one, arrangements of Scottish and Scandinavian folk-songs predominating largely. A choir of boys sang exquisitely, and Mr. Dambmann (violin) and Messrs. Stronach and Bain (vocalists) were encored.

The Dundee Choral Union, under Mr. Carl Hamilton's experienced direction, chose "The Rose of Sharon" for the first Concert this season, and was rewarded with a crowded audience. The soloists were Miss Macintyre, who was in her best form, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Pierpoint. The chorus was not quite up to the usual mark of excellence secured by Mr. Hamilton; some of the attacks were a little hesitating, and one of the parts was rather overweighted by the others. Nevertheless, it was a most enjoyable performance. The orchestra, under Mr. Kosman's leadership, was so full and powerful that the falling off in the chorus (only temporary, let us hope) was emphasised. The Organist's work was open to criticism.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Several misfortunes overtook the management of the Choral and Orchestral Concerts during the earlier days of the past month, and with a council less able to face emergencies the machinery might easily have run out of gear. Fortunately, however, the needful tact and energy were displayed, and much awkwardness, to say the least, was thereby averted. The first difficulty had concern with the morning of the 2nd ult., when the annual performance of "The Messiah" was given in St. Andrew's Hall. Miss Thudichum had been engaged to sing the soprano music, but, owing to indisposition, the lady was unable to appear. Miss Emily Spada subsequently undertook the part. She also failed the management, and, at the eleventh hour, Madame Duma came to the rescue, journeying specially from London for the occasion. Her coadjutors were Miss Marian McKenzie, Mr. E. Branscombe, and Mr. Andrew Black; Mr. Joseph Bradley conducted; and both band and chorus gave an excellent account of their work. In the evening the customary Popular Concert took place. Mr. August Manns directed the first part of the programme, but on receipt of a telegram announcing the alarming illness of his wife he had to leave for London by the night mail. Much sympathy was felt for the popular Sydenham chief, and this was intensified when the sad news of Mrs. Manns's death arrived a few days later on. Mr. Elkan Kosman, the principal violin in the orchestra, conducted the second part of the programme, and really with excellent results.

At the Orchestral Concert, on the 5th ult., Mr. Bradley took the bâton. It was a plucky undertaking, because Schumann's Symphony (No. 2) in C was in the programme, but criticism is largely disarmed. It remains, however, to be frankly said that the esteemed chorus-master of the Union accomplished wonders, aided as he was by the fealty of the band, whose allegiance to their temporary chief was, it is a pleasure to state, unswerving throughout. Mr. Bradley scored a distinct success in the "Leonora" Overture (No. 3), and easily revealed the bright and dainty beauties to be found in Mr. Edward German's couple of dances from the music to Mr. Irving's revival of "Henry VIII." The whole of this interesting music should, indeed, be accorded a hearing at the earliest opportunity.

At the Popular Concert, on the 7th ult., Mr. Barclay Jones's Overture in C minor created a highly favourable impression. Mr. Philip Halstead, in his admirable performance of the pianoforte part in Saint-Saëns's G minor Concerto, showed marked advance in his profession, and the orchestra distinguished itself by a worthy account of Beethoven's Fourth Symphony.

Mishap number three ushered in the Seventh Subscription Concert, when only one short hour before the commencement of the performance a telegram informed the management that Fräulein Wietrowetz was too ill to appear. Once more Mr. Kosman stepped into the breach, and played to admiration in Vieuxtemps's D minor Violin Concerto. The Symphony was Schubert's "Unfinished," and the programme also included the "Introduction and Isolde's Liebestod," from "Tristan."

On the evening of the 11th ult. the Choral Union migrated to the City Hall, when "The Messiah" was given for the benefit of our East-End friends. Mr. Bradley again conducted Handel's work, and the soloists were Miss Maggie Davies, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Braxton Smith, and Mr. Robert Grice. The seventh Popular Concert was mainly devoted to Mendelssohn, inasmuch as both the "Scotch" Symphony and the Violin Concerto were in the programme. In the last-named ever-welcome composition Fräulein Wietrowetz, who had nearly recovered from her indisposition, made a highly successful début, and Madame Belle Cole was the vocalist of the evening.

Mr. Manns resumed the bâton on the 17th ult., the audience rising in solemn silence as the conductor entered the orchestra. At this Concert yet another apology was rendered necessary, Mr. Fred. Lamond having found it "inconvenient" to fulfil his engagement. That clever young pianist, Miss Adelina De Lara, turned out a competent substitute—as was clearly shown by her admirable work in Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto—and the programme otherwise contained Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's stimulating and altogether delightful "Twelfth Night" Overture and Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony.

Dvorák's "Requiem," composed for the last Birmingham Festival, was produced, for the first time in Scotland, on the evening of the 19th ult., with Madame Annie Marriott, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Watkin Mills as soloists. Much interest centred in the Bohemian musician's Mass, a work which bids fair to take foremost rank amongst compositions of a kindred order. It behoved Glasgow's premier Choral Society to introduce the "Requiem" at the earliest opportunity, and thereby keep pace with the times from an educational point of view. Those who heard the work for even the first time were impressed with its sumptuous colouring, its graphic exposition of the text—alike as regards both the vocal and orchestral design—and the surprisingly grand effects obtained in such numbers as the "Dies iræ" and "Quid sum miser." The performance was highly creditable to all concerned, and it was evident that Mr. Bradley, who conducted, had taken the greatest pains in rehearsing the work. The band and chorus numbered 500 performers.

Mr. J. K. Strachan's Saturday Afternoon Organ Recitals in St. Andrew's Hall continue to attract very large audiences. The programmes are invariably good, and the introduction of recitations has met with the decided favour of the patrons. On the 14th ult. Mr. Charles Fry made his first appearance in Glasgow, and recited with powerful effect "The building of San Sophia," to Mr. Strachan's organ accompaniment, as also "The Dream of Eugene Aram." In Hood's familiar piece Mr. Fry had the advantage of the pianoforte accompaniment specially written by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. Much artistic use is made of the tune "Hanover" in this expressive musical illustration. Mr. Fry also recited at the City Hall and on both occasions he had a very cordial reception.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The most sensational event of the past month has been the inauguration of Sunday Concerts at St. George's Hall. Attempts to obtain admission to this superb building have been made over and over again by the Liverpool Sunday Society during many years past, but until lately the petitioners had met with refusal at the hands of the City Council. Entrance was, however, tardily accorded in December last; but yet another trouble arose, for on the subsequent question of granting the needful licence for music on the Sunday the bench of magistrates was evenly divided, and nothing came of the first application. A few days later, however, the solicitors to the Corporation again appeared before an abnormally large muster of justices, there being nearly thirty of them present. In the end, twenty-three voted for the grant and fifteen against it. Thus the path was cleared, and on the 8th ult. the Sunday Society Orchestra, now augmented to sixty performers, and conducted by Mr. W. I. Argent, took up its position under the famous organ at which Mr. W. T. Best presides. The programme included the Overture to Rossini's "William Tell," a selection from Wagner's "Tannhäuser," and the last movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony. Songs were sung by Miss Pauline Joran—an excellent mezzo-soprano of the Royal Carl Rosa Company—and Mr. Eaton Batty. The audience proved, unfortunately, even too large for the extensive area of the hall, a crowd of over a thousand being unable to obtain admission. These Concerts are to be continued fortnightly, and will alternate with the Sunday Organ Recitals of Mr. Best, or one of his deputies.

Once again it is to be deplored that there is so little of importance in the way of music, outside orchestral lines, to chronicle in Liverpool. The other local societies are for the most part of so little position and do such unimportant work that a good choral concert appears like a veritable oasis in the desert. The Philharmonic Society gave, on the 17th ult., Gade's "Spring's Message," but the rest of the programme was devoted mainly to a Haydn Symphony and to the solo work of Madame Melba and Herr Becker. The famous Amateur Orchestral Society played well in the Philharmonic Hall on the 21st ult., under Mr. Rodewald, at a benefit Concert.

A new departure has been effected at the Unitarian Church of Hope Street. On the evening of Sunday, the 22nd ult., Mendelssohn's "Athalie" was given in the chancel, with orchestra and chorus. No performance of such an order has taken place since 1836, when the same composer's "St. Paul" was given in St. Peter's Church, for the first time in England, under Sir George Smart.

At Wigan, Handel's "Messiah" has been given by Mr. Moss, with orchestra, at the Wesleyan Church. At St. Helen's, Miss H. Swift has again successfully directed her annual operatic performances. At Newton-le-Willows, Mr. Corlett has had, unfortunately for the local choral society, to resign its conductorship in consequence of his accepting an appointment elsewhere. At Runcorn, the Musical Society has fully recovered its normal healthiness, thanks to the efforts of Mr. F. H. Crossley; and the same gentleman is busy with the preparation of the new Cantata he has written for Warrington. At Liscard, Haydn's "Creation" is in hand.

Mr. Threlfall, the Chairman of the Royal Academy of Music, has been recently in Liverpool and visited the School for the Blind, where, through the instrumentality of Mr. W. D. Hall, an organ on the Hope-Jones system is to be shortly erected. Mr. Threlfall spoke most highly of the singing of the pupils. The Liverpool Musical Club held its annual meeting on the 21st ult., when Mr. A. E. Workman was voted into the presidential chair for 1893. At the Music School (Limited) there seems to be the prospect of a plethora of pupils, so many having joined this term. A new organ of three manuals is to be put up in the Concert-room a couple of months hence by Mr. Alfred Monk, of Holloway.

Opera has been in full swing in Liverpool during the past month, and the visit of the Royal Carl Rosa Company is to extend into March. Among the features of the season up to date have been the revival of Adam's "Postillion of Lonjumeau," an opera of the bright and legitimate pre-Offenbach French school; Bizet's "Djamileh," a work all too brief and characteristic of the composer of "Carmen"; and Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz," a charming production and a fitting sequel to "Cavalleria Rusticana," in which Miss Joran made a great mark in her dual rôle of violinist and vocalist. The most important event of the season so far has been Verdi's "Othello," given for the first time in Liverpool on the 24th ult. with the most successful results. The work itself belongs to the more advanced school in which the octogenarian writer has cast his later works, and will probably rank with "Aïda" and the Manzoni "Requiem" as samples of its author's powers when "Il Trovatore," "La Traviata," and the host of kindred operas are forgotten. In its English guise it is a worthy addition to the Rosa répertoire, and the mounting and first performance at the Royal Court Theatre was alike creditable to the artists concerned and the liberality of the management.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

I do not feel that, during the past month, our musical doings have been of an important character or could greatly interest the readers of The Musical Times. Usually at this time of the year there seems to be a lack of enterprise, a sort of idea that anything is good enough for the children who are home from school, or that exertion would be wasted until people have settled down to steady life after their Christmas festivities. I believe the notion to be as distinctly impolitic as for all the theatres to be just now devoted to pantomime and no provision made for those who have outgrown that kind of amusement. Briefly stated, our chronicle is that, after "The Messiah" celebration—of all degrees of efficiency or of unpreparedness—we have been renewing our acquaintance with other familiar works, or listening to artists of well-known attainment. But, with the close of January, a general awakening comes, and Concert-givers shake off the lethargy of the turn of the year and bestir themselves. The first partly choral novelty of the season—the second and third acts of the "Flying Dutchman"—prepares the way for "Judith"; which, at last, Dr. Hubert Parry's admirers here hope to hear under Sir Charles Hallé's auspices, after the careful rehearsal which his able choir director, Mr. R. H. Wilson, has superintended. The operatic selections have been so decidedly attractive as to point the way for an extended research which should prove remunerative.

At the various Concert halls of the city we have had a few miscellaneous undertakings—notably the enterprise which relied upon the popularity of Madame Melba, and a recital of groups of songs of various nationalities by M. Oudin. But, apparently, Manchester people are consistent in their habits and prefer to support their regular entertainments, so that the many Saturday evening Concerts have not suffered by the interposition of outside speculators. We shall, however, be glad when the completion of the Town Hall organ allows the excellent Recitals of Mr. Pyne to be resumed. It is rather singular that such extensive alterations of the instrument should have been undertaken in the winter.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Sacred Harmonic Society's "Messiah" Concert, on December 26, attracted an overflowing audience. The principals were Madame Clara Samuell, Miss Meredyth Elliott, Messrs. Branscombe and Ffrangçon Davies; the solo trumpet part being sustained by Mr. A. Tomlinson: a strong party who did eminently good work. The chorus of the Society, under Mr. Adcock's able direction, surpassed itself; but it is to be regretted that the orchestra did not give satisfaction. May we hope for better things another year?

Mr. Allen's second Classical Concert, on the 9th ult., attracted a fairly good audience. Brahms's Clarinet Quintet (Op. 115) excited considerable interest and was much enjoyed, being most artistically played by Messrs. Willy Hess, Speelmann, S. Speelmann, Fuchs, and Egerton. The "Kreutzer" Sonata (charmingly rendered by Miss Cantelo and Mr. Willy Hess), Dvorák's Terzetto (Op. 74), and Mendelssohn's String Quintet (Op. 87) completed a fine programme.

The production of Mrs. Lambert's (Emily Bardsley Farmer) operetta "Nell" brought three crowded audiences to the performances given for the benefit of the Lenton Orphanage. The bright clever music and the mounting and staging of the operetta gave great pleasure and evinced careful preparation.

The second Concert of the Philharmonic Choir was distinguished by a capital rendering of Dr. Hiles's dramatic part-song "The Wreck of the Hesperus," the choir overcoming its great difficulties with ease. They also gave Macfarren's "Break, break," and Smart's "Cradle Song" in finished style. Miss Marian McKenzie was the vocalist and gave a song from Saint-Saëns's "Samson et Dalila," Sullivan's "Willow Song" from "Othello," and Schubert's too little known "Serenade" for contralto solo and chorus. The band of the Royal Artillery, under Cavaliere Zavertal, contributed largely to the programme, its most interesting pieces being Weber's Second Symphony, and "Alpenglühen," by its talented Conductor.

At the Drawing-Room Concert, on the 20th ult., Sir Charles Hallé's band sustained the whole programme. The chief pieces of interest were Schumann's Symphony in B flat, the Overture to "Die Meistersinger," and Mr. Willy Hess's masterly rendering of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The West Riding is emphatically the chief centre of Handel-worship, and though no possible objection can be made to the "cult" in itself, it is to be deprecated that its manifestation is practically confined to the narrow channel of "Messiah" performances at Christmastide, varied by very occasional appearances in public of one or two others of Handel's specially favoured oratorios. Of the innumerable "Messiah" celebrations which set in with their usual severity during the week before Christmas, we may briefly mention three of the most important. The Leeds Philharmonic Society led the way on December 19, when an excellent performance was given of the great Christian epic, under the direction of Mr. Alfred Broughton, the Society's able Conductor, who was fortunately sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to return to his congenial task. The quartet of principals comprised Miss Anna Williams, Miss Hilda Wilson, Messrs. Edward Lloyd and Norman Salmond, whose names are a sufficient guarantee of the excellence of the solo-singing.

The Halifax Choral Society's "Messiah" performance, which took place on December 22, was distinguished by the refined and artistic singing of the chorus, which spoke well for the careful training it has received from its Conductor, Mr. W. H. Garland. It has at least got rid of the tradition that stentorian power should be the first, if not the sole, consideration in the rendering of Handelian music. The soloists were Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Helen Sugden, Messrs. Tom Child and David Hughes, all young but thoroughly competent artists; Miss Davies and Mr. Hughes especially distinguishing themselves by their finished vocalisation. The excellent trumpet playing of Mr. A. Tomlinson should not pass unnoticed. For grandeur of tone the chorus of the Huddersfield Choral Society has no superior in Yorkshire, or, for that matter, in England, and its good qualities are never more apparent than in its annual performance of the familiar "Messiah" music, which is exactly suited to its powers. For the Society's Concert on December 23, Miss Antoinette Trebelli, Miss Marian McKenzie, Messrs. Henry Piercy and Norman Salmond were the principal vocalists; but, admirable as was their singing, the powerful rendering of the choruses formed the chief feature of a performance on which the Conductor, Mr. John Bowling, may be heartily congratulated. According to a singular custom which prevails at Huddersfield, the Oratorio was preceded by the singing of a Christmas hymn. It might have been thought that "The Messiah" was both long enough and appropriate enough to the season without such a prelude, but Dis aliter visum, and no more is to be said.

Since the rush of "Messiah" performances which saw the old year out, there has followed the usual lull. At Leeds a Concert was given on the 11th ult. by the Leeds String Quartet, consisting of four local players: Messrs. Johann Müller, V. Fawcett, A. Gutfeld, and A. Giessing. The programme included Schubert's A minor Quartet (Op. 29) and Beethoven's G major Quartet (Op. 28, No. 2), Mr. W. Thornton being the vocalist. On the 17th ult. Mr. Edgar Haddock resumed his Musical Evenings, and introduced to his subscribers a new Sonata for violin and pianoforte in G, by Dr. Alan Gray, a work which shows the most finished musicianship together with no lack of ideas. The influence of Brahms is apparent, but not to such an extent as to obscure the composer's individuality. The other special feature of the Concert was the admirable playing of the young pianist, Miss Sant-Angelo, who on this occasion made her first appearance in Leeds. Miss Trebelli was the principal vocalist. On the 18th ult. a Saxophone Recital was given by Mr. Edward Mills, whose artistic playing of several solos displayed to the greatest possible advantage an instrument the peculiar and individual character of which makes it worthy of greater notice than it has hitherto received beyond the borders of France and Belgium. The pianist was Mr. H. M. Lawrence, who joined Mr. Mills in Weber's fine Duet for pianoforte and clarinet (Op. 48).

On December 20 an interesting Pianoforte Recital was given at Huddersfield by Mr. Max Pauer, whose playing of Schumann's Characteristic Fantasia in C (Op. 11) was especially noteworthy. On the 10th ult. the Huddersfield Subscription Concerts were resumed, Sir Charles and Lady Hallé, with Madame Bertha Moore and Mr. Riley as vocalists, providing a programme which was as irreproachable as the performance.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The season intervening since my last communication has been unusually rich, both in respect of novelties and well-tried favourites, given in most cases in such a manner as largely to console us for the lack of Grand Opera.

The work of the Church Choral Society, under its ambitious and competent director, Mr. R. H. Warren, is still in the line of such progress as has been noted of them previously. At the first Concert were produced the "Phœnix Expirans" of G. W. Chadwick, the "Jubilate Amen" of Max Bruch, and the "Veni Creator Spiritus" by Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. These were performed in a manner which merited—and but for time and place would have received—generous applause.

Mr. Walter Damrosch has met with deserved success in his efforts to supply a distinct need—high-class music at popular prices, on the successive Sunday nights of each month. During December we have had Concerts enlisting the services of the Symphony Society Orchestra, the Operatic Chorus, and distinguished soloists—inter alia, Mesdames Blavvelt, Moore-Lawson, and Maconda, and Messrs. Campanini, Galassi, and Emil Fischer giving copious and intelligently connected excerpts from "The Huguenots," "Bohemian Girl," "Tannhäuser," and Rossini's "Stabat Mater." The Music Hall is invariably filled with an enthusiastic audience, who warmly testify their appreciation of Mr. Damrosch's efforts.

Christmas-tide brought the usual performances of "The Messiah," of which the most notable was the magnificent performance of the Oratorio Society, so successful that an extra Concert was necessary to gratify those unable to secure seats at either of the first two. The artists engaged were Mrs. Jennie Walker, Mrs. Carl Alves, Mr. Campanini, and Mr. Emil Fischer (at the third Concert Mrs. De Vere Sapio took the place of Mrs. Walker). Of out-of-town performances of "The Messiah" the excellent one of the Schubert Society of Newark, on December 14, deserves fuller mention than is possible here; but the faithful and industrious Conductor, Mr. L. A. Russell, has just grounds for pride in the work of his forces as shown at this Concert.

Equally favourable accounts reach me from Chicago, Baltimore, and Philadelphia; all the facts go to prove that the music-loving public will always flock to hear the devout strains of the great Oratorio, if only it has intelligent performance.

In continuance of the previously mentioned Sunday night Festival Services at St. James's Church, it is fitting to note an extremely interesting performance of Handel's "Samson," under the direction of Mr. A. S. Baker, with the assistance of Mr. F. H. Potter (whose style of oratorio singing might be noted to advantage by a number of our young men of greater professional pretensions), Mr. Peterson, and Mr. Waters—all, by the way, regular members of the choir. The fitness of "Samson" as an Evensong anthem may be questioned, but there can be no doubt as to the musical excellence of this performance. No attempt is made by Mr. Baker to make St. James's a "show choir," but for solid, careful, reverent, and, more than all, church-like singing, it is probably unsurpassed among the many fine choirs in this city of choirs.

It is a pleasure to note the successful Concert (the first of the season) of the Banks' Glee Club, whose Conductor, Mr. H. R. Humphries, has brought together a very capable body of singers (chiefly connected with the leading Banks, whence the name), and on this occasion—December 14—a long but carefully selected and interesting programme was accomplished in a manner evincing careful training and assiduous effort.

At the last Concert of Mr. Seidl's Orchestra, on Sunday, the 8th ult., Mr. Charles Manners and his wife (Miss Fanny Moody) made their first appearance in this country. Their many friends in England will learn with pleasure that their success was immediate and complete. Mrs. Manners sang the "Jewel Song" from "Faust" and Goring Thomas's "Summer Night." Mr. Manners sang Mozart's "Qui Sdegno" and Schumann's "Two Grenadiers," and the two were heard in the duet from "Robert le Diable." Each number was warmly praised, and the New York critics, without exception, speak to-day in kindly approval. Mr. and Mrs. Manners ought to, and doubtless will, score a continuous success. Mr. W. R. Chapman, the efficient Conductor of the Rubinstein and Metropolitan, repeated his customary success with the latter, at the Music Hall, on the 10th ult.; despite the intense cold the hall was well filled with a representative audience, who evinced pleasure at the excellence of the programme and the conscientious work shown in its performance.

MUSIC IN MONTREAL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

That the performance of Handel's "Messiah" at Christmas is still popular with the Montreal public was evidenced by the crowded house which greeted Mr. Couture when he took up the bâton to conduct the fifth annual performance of the "Immortal Oratorio," at the Windsor Hall, on December 20 last. It was gratifying, next day, to learn that the daily papers were unanimous in their decision that absolutely the finest performance of the work ever heard in Montreal had been given the evening before. The soloists were all from Boston, U.S.A. The soprano, Miss Rose Stewart, has a voice of great purity and flexibility, which sounded to great advantage in "Rejoice greatly." The contralto, Miss Lillian Carllsmith, was heard at her best in "He shall feed His flock." Mr. H. O. Johnson was the tenor. Mr. Heinrich Meyn, the bass, was the most successful soloist of the evening, his fine voice and dramatic style creating great enthusiasm. The orchestra, which was local, was small but satisfactory. Mr. E. N. Lafricain, trumpeter of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, rendered valuable assistance by his fine performance of the trumpet obbligato to "The trumpet shall sound." The Society will give a popular performance of the "Creation" on April 20 next.

The second annual banquet of Graduates in Music of the University of Durham took place at the Criterion Restaurant, on Thursday evening, the 12th ult., when the chair was occupied by Dr. Armes, Organist of Durham Cathedral. He was supported by Sir John Stainer, Professor J. F. Bridge, and the Rev. Thomas Rogers; the Vice-Chairman being Mr. E. Burritt Lane. After the usual loyal toasts, Sir John Stainer proposed the University of Durham, remarking on the good work done by the University in offering musical degrees, after a moderate but sufficient matriculation examination, to those whose musical attainments were sufficiently high to entitle them to such recognition. Dr. Armes responded in felicitous terms. The health of the Examiners in the Faculty of Music was then drunk with musical honours, and Dr. Bridge returned thanks. Mr. Burritt Lane proposed the toast of "The Honorary and ad eundem Musical Graduates," which was acknowledged by the Rev. Dr. Rogers. Other toasts followed, the proceedings being diversified by some of Mendelssohn's Part-Songs for male voices, in which the entire company took part, and an excellent rendering on the violin by Mr. T. G. Buffey of Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus." There was a large attendance of graduates, many of whom had travelled long distances to be present, and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

At its Smoking Concert, given on the 25th ult. at the Cannon Street Hotel, the Lothbury Male Voice Choir, under Mr. T. B. Evison, and accompanied on the pianoforte by the composer, sang a selection from Mr. Henry Gadsby's interesting music to the "Alcestis" of Euripides. The portions which had been chosen for performance, and which formed the most enjoyable feature of an excellent programme, were the chorus (No. 5) "Immortal bliss"; the short but impressive Funeral March, with chorus; and the very spirited and tuneful chorus in march rhythm (No. 6) "Yes, lib'ral House," the second strophe of which had to be repeated in response to much hearty applause. Male voice choirs wishing for a change from part-songs and glees could hardly do better than take up Mr. Gadsby's capital work, which deserves much more frequent hearing than seems to be vouchsafed to it. The programme included also a new and very charming setting, by Dr. J. Iliffe, of Herrick's "Go, happy rose," and a clever humorous part-song, "Tom, he was a piper's son," by Mr. Townsend Driffield. It was perhaps a mistake to sing Grieg's "Landkjending" (Op. 31) with a pianoforte accompaniment, as the work is only relieved from monotony by the ever-changing colour of the orchestral accompaniment. The singing of the choir was good throughout.

At the College of Organists, on the 10th, 11th, and 12th ult., the Examination for Fellowship (F.C.O.) was held, and of sixty-one examined the following were successful: E. A. Crusha, Tottenham; E. Dale, Rochester; Herbert Hodge, Regent's Park; P. D. Hodsoll, Farningham; J. Holgate (Mus. Bac., Dunelm), Manchester; F. W. Holloway, Streatham; A. E Jones, Bolton; T. Keighley, Stalybridge; C. J. May, Forest Hill; Miss E. J. Priday, Brighton; C. Seal (Mus. Bac., Oxon.), Macclesfield; C. Taylor, Leicester; H. W. Tupper, Bishop's Stortford; T. J. Woodall, Sydenham. The diplomas were presented to the above by Sir William Cusins, a Vice-President of the College. On the 17th, 18th, and 19th ult. the Examination for Associateship took place, and out of 105 entries the following gained the diploma: G. P. Allen, M. Allison, E. A. Armstrong, Miss Grace Batchelder, P. L. Bryning, C. E. Cover, J. H. L. Gauntlett, A. L. Godbert, S. H. Hanson, C. E. Hester, A. Hough, N. L. Howlett, W. Hoyle, H. A. Jeboult (B.A., John's), P. Jones, J. W. J. Law, J. Marsh, G. H. Matthews, K. Peters, W. Riley, F. W. Rouse, E. W. Ruddell, J. F. Shaw, H. F. Smith, E. A. Sobey, G. H. Squier. To these the diplomas were presented on the morning of the 20th ult. by Dr. Philip Armes, M.A.

The second Concert of the Wind Instrument Chamber Music Society was given at St. James's Banqueting Hall on the 13th ult. The programme included two works new to this country—a piquant and well-written "Intermezzo Scherzando" (flute, oboe, clarinets, horn, and bassoon), by Ch. Lefebvre; and a set of six graceful Valses (pianoforte, flute, oboe, and clarinet), by J. Ehrhart. The other pieces were Mr. Charles Macpherson's Sextet, a work of much poetic charm, which gained the Charles Lucas medal at the R.A.M. last year; a Serenade for tenor voice (pianoforte, flute, oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon accompaniment), composed by Mr. Edward German expressly for the Society; Herzogenberg's clever if not very original or inspired Quintet, Op. 43 (pianoforte, oboe, clarinet, horn, and bassoon); and a song by Mr. G. J. Bennett. The performance of these works was in every respect satisfactory—tone, phrasing, and ensemble being alike admirable. Mr. Maldwyn Humphreys was the vocalist, vice Mr. Arthur Thompson, indisposed; the pianists were Mr. Albert Fox and Mr. Edward German; and the wind instruments were played by Messrs. F. Griffiths, E. Davies, A. Smith, J. A. Park, A. M. Lawson, A. Brain, and E. F. James.

Every new series of Classical Concerts deserves to be welcomed, and it is to be hoped that Mr. Theodor Plowitz, from Vienna, will receive encouragement in the enterprise he inaugurated at the Princes' Hall on Tuesday, the 24th ult.—that is, of course, if it proves worthy of support. It must be said frankly that the first programme was scarcely a model of its kind, nor was the execution thereof above reproach. Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor (Op. 49) and Brahms's Quartet in G minor (Op. 25) are acknowledged masterpieces, but most of the other pieces might well have been spared. Strangely enough, though Mr. Plowitz is evidently an excellent pianist, with nimble fingers and a light, musical touch, he did not play any solos. Mr. Desidèr Némes, the leading violinist, has considerable technical capacity, but he might have selected something of higher value than Sarasate's Fantasia on "Faust." Madame Paula Plowitz contributed some well selected vocal pieces with moderate effect, her powerful voice being scarcely under control.

The Hornsey and Crouch End Orchestral Society, which is still quite in its infancy, gave a very successful Concert on the 16th ult., being the first of the current season. The orchestra numbered nearly sixty performers, mostly members of the Society—strengthened by a little professional aid in the wind department and comprising forty-two strings and the full complement of wind and percussion—led by Mr. Arthur Payne. Under the direction of its painstaking and careful Conductor the orchestra has made rapid advance, tone, attack, and expression being worthy of high commendation. The programme included the "Son and Stranger" and "Mirella" Overtures; Haydn's Symphony in D, No. 7; De Beriot's Violin Concerto, No. 1, capitally played by Mr. Payne; National Dances by Sarakowski, &c. Mr. Lawrence Fryer sang in good style Gounod's "Lend me your aid" and Handel's "Love sounds the alarm." Mr. Henry J. Baker (of the Parish Church, Hornsey) conducted with judgment and skill.

On the evening of the 23rd ult. a Violin Recital was given by Mr. T. E. Gatehouse and the classes under his direction, at the South London Institute of Music. The pupils, numbering nearly eighty, were heard to great advantage in several concerted selections, including Boccherini's Minuet and a charming "Duo Symphonique" in three movements from the pen of Mr. Berthold Tours. Mr. Gatehouse, amongst other solo pieces, performed the same composer's very difficult, but highly effective, Romance and Tarantelle, and this was received with so much enthusiasm that it was repeated, to the renewed delight of the audience. Some excellent songs were contributed by Miss Flora Edwards and Mr. Bainbridge Hardwicke, the pianoforte parts being in the hands of Miss Biddell, Miss Margaret Doughty, and Mr. Tours, who accompanied his own compositions.

At the Royal Academy of Music, on the 23rd ult., Mr. Tobias A. Matthay gave an Invitation Concert, consisting entirely of his own compositions. Programmes so composed are, we consider, a mistake, except, perhaps, in the case of a very few of the greatest composers. Mr. Matthay is not of these, and his music suffered in consequence. No one, however, who followed the numerous pieces of a lengthy programme (over twenty in number) could fail to recognise the skill, conscientiousness, and industry which had made them possible. Miss Dora Matthay, Miss Jessie Kennedy, and Mr. Walter Mackway sang the vocal pieces, those for pianoforte being, of course, played by the composer, who also shared with Miss Emily Christie the duties of accompanist.

An exceedingly gifted young violinist, Miss Alice Maud Liebmann, gave a Concert at Princes' Hall on the 10th ult. The little lady, who is in her early "teens," shows plainly enough that she is of the stuff of which great players are made. Her artistic perception is remarkable, and the finish and delicacy of her phrasing, her aplomb, and her keen sense of rhythm all point unmistakably to a brilliant future, which we earnestly trust will not be jeopardized by injudicious friends, as so often happens in such cases. Miss Liebmann's exceptional gifts will come to maturity in their own good time, and must be allowed to do so unhampered. She was assisted on the occasion in question by Madame Belle Cole, Signor Abramoff, Mr. W. Ganz, Mr. E. Woolhouse, and other artists.

Mr. Sarasate's Concerts follow and resemble one another, and there is no necessity to linger over that of the 9th ult., which was an orchestral performance. Max Bruch's Concerto in D minor (No. 3) is now becoming a familiar work, but its beauties are certainly not yet stale. The lovely slow movement has few equals and fewer superiors in the entire repertory of violin music. The Spanish artist's other solos, which, like the Concerto, he played in his most brilliant manner, were Saint-Saëns's showy Rondo Capriccioso in A minor and his own "Muñeira," but, as usual, there were several additions to the programme as announced. Sir William Cusins's orchestra was in excellent form, and rendered a large amount of justice to Mendelssohn's "Hebrides" Overture and Grieg's "Peer Gynt" Suite.

The Balfe Quartet, under the direction of Mr. Sinclair Dunn, gave a second performance of Balfe's operetta "The Sleeping Queen," at the People's Palace, on December 31, and were specially well received. Miss Emma Fenn took the part of the Queen; Miss Susetta Fenn that of Donna Agnes; Mr. Sinclair Dunn was Don Phillippe; and Mr. Frank Swinford, the Regent. Mr. Dunn also gave his entertainment "The Songs of Britain" at the Palace, on the 9th ult., to a large audience. He was assisted by Miss Susetta Fenn and Miss Jessie Radford.

At the New Year's gathering of the workers of the United Kingdom Band of Hope Union, held in Exeter Hall, on the 7th ult., a prominent portion of the evening's proceedings consisted of the appearance of a choir of boys from the Temple Church, by permission of Dr. Hopkins, under the direction of Mr. Haydn Grover. Trios and duets by Mendelssohn, Rheinberger, Foster, and W. Little were beautifully sung and received with much appreciation by the large audience present.

The portable metal music-stand of Messrs. Harrow and Co. is sufficiently familiar. They have now most ingeniously adapted the invention to a music-stool. This strong yet light and decidedly elegant seat is of course adjustable at various heights, and when not in use can be folded and carried in the hand as easily as a satchel. The thing is so simple and useful that one wonders it was not thought of before.

On Sunday afternoon, the 15th ult., Handel's Oratorio "The Messiah" was given at St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road, by the Oratorio choir of the church. The solos were contributed by Madame Bella Monti, Miss Mary Tunnicliffe, Mr. Gilbert Denis, and Mr. Frederick Winton. Mr. S. S. Martyn conducted, Mr. Henry J. B. Dart supplying the accompaniments on the organ. Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was to be given on the 29th ult.

A vast crowd assembled at the annual Dedicatory Festival held at St. Paul's on the 25th ult. The Service was that by Stanford in A, and the Anthem consisted of selections from Mendelssohn's "St. Paul." The soloists were Messrs. Alfred Kenningham, Fryer, R. E. Miles, De Lacy, Kempton, and Letts. Dr. Martin conducted, Mr. W. Hodge was at the organ, and the choir was largely augmented for the occasion.

The new organ built by Messrs. Norman Bros. and Beard for St. Frideswide's Church, Poplar, was opened by Sir Walter Parratt on December 29. The chief pieces in his programme were: Pastorale from the Christmas Oratorio, J. S. Bach; Toccata Concertante, J. S. Bach; and Overture "Athalia," Handel. The action to the organ is electric on the Hope-Jones system.

The organ just erected in Hackney Road Chapel, which formerly stood in Spitalfields Wesleyan Chapel, has been removed, rebuilt, and enlarged by Mr. F. A. Slater, of Bow, and was opened, on the 19th ult., with a Recital by Dr. C. J. Frost, when the choir of Dr. Stephenson's Children's Home sang three anthems, under the conductorship of Mr. F. A. Mann, their Choirmaster.

A Ballad Concert was given by Mr. J. V. Rockley at Stratford Town Hall on the 18th ult. The artists were Mrs. Hutchinson, Madame Patey, Miss Ethel Bevans, Miss Adela Duckham (violin); Messrs. Charles Chilley, J. D. Fitzgerald, Fred. Bevan, Signor Tito Mattei, and a glee party.

An excellent performance of Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" was given at All Saints' Church, Tufnell Park, on the 15th ult. Miss Agnes Walker was the soloist. Mr. Francis Hemington presided at the organ.

The considerable influx of orchestral students into the Royal Academy of Music during the last year or two has obliged the Committee of Management to institute an additional orchestral class, which will commence operations very shortly.

Miss Kate Chaplin had the honour of playing several violin solos to the Queen at Osborne on the 16th ult. She was accompanied by Miss Nellie Chaplin. Her Majesty afterwards graciously acknowledged the pleasure she had received and complimented Miss Chaplin on her talent.

Their Royal Highnesses the Princess of Wales and Princess Christian have graciously accepted copies of Mr. W. M. Wait's new Christmas Cantata "God with us," just published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

Every Wednesday during Lent, and also on Good Friday, at 8 p.m., Sir John Stainer's "Crucifixion" is announced to be sung at St. Peter's Church, Cranley Gardens, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Hodge.

On the 2nd, 9th, 16th, and 23rd of the present month Concerts will be given at the Royal Victoria Hall, Waterloo Bridge Road. Two will consist of ballads and two of operatic selections with illustrative tableaux.

We hear from Rome that Signor Capocci, the Organist of St. John's Lateran, will visit London in April for the purpose of giving Organ Recitals.

Much sympathy has been shown by the press, the profession and the public generally with Mr. August Manns, whose wife died on the 7th ult.

Four Concerts will be given by the Musical Artists' Society in March, May, and June.

REVIEWS.

Richard Wagner und Schopenhauer. Von Dr. Friederich v. Hausegger. [Leipzig: F. Reinboth.]

In this interesting pamphlet, "Richard Wagner und Schopenhauer," Dr. Friedrich v. Hausegger discusses the relationship existing between the ideas contained in the music-dramas of the former and the philosophical principles of the latter, and points out that the "Nibelungen" poem was written before Wagner became acquainted with Schopenhauer's teachings. From similar germs—the Indian sources whence Schopenhauer developed his theory and the Nibelung myth whence Wagner evolved his music-drama are clearly allied the one to the other—sprang in one case philosophy, in the other, philosophy plus art. Wagner's "Nibelungen" was indeed something more than a product of reflection, a mere dramatising of Schopenhauer's philosophy. Already in the "Flying Dutchman" we have unconscious Will* becoming conscious; by a vision Senta's heart is first filled with longing, but the appearance of the Dutchman causes that unconscious longing to become conscious love. Again, in "Lohengrin," we have a pictorial and striking illustration of Schopenhauer's theory of Will and intellect. In the original plan of the "Nibelungen" Wotan was a type of human nature, of Will ever striving to become conscious, and thus leading to individualism and selfishness. But the poet threw out hopes of a joyful hereafter; it was only in the later plan and in "Tristan" that the colours assumed a darker hue. Here, then, Wagner seems attempting to solve the mystery of life; poet and philosopher started from the same idea, but Wagner only gradually came to feel that all was vanity and vexation of spirit. In Siegfried, Wagner is said to have drawn an ideal picture of a free man, one in whom emotion and intellect were in complete union. Love was the source of his nature, and an object of that love was Brünnhilde, daughter of Wotan (Will) and Erda (the All-Wise). Dr. Hausegger explains in much interesting detail the philosophical meaning of the various personages, &c., of the "Nibelungen," showing how fully Wagner and Schopenhauer were at one in their views of life. But he bids us note that Wagner was also strongly influenced by Schiller, and that Siegfried pulsating with life and Brünnhilde with sympathy and love were, in fact, the outcome of that influence. "In presence of these two beings," says our author, "the Schopenhauer view of the world falls into powerless self-annihilation." Schiller understood the limitations of life, but he encouraged man to believe that he was free—even though it be only illusion. In the "Nibelungen" Wagner does not preach the gospel of the renunciation of the Will, but rather the highest and purest revelation of that Will. In "Parsifal" Wagner presents to us something even higher, nobler than the love of Siegfried and Brünnhilde; here he shows us purified love; love strengthened and perfected by knowledge and suffering. Both Schopenhauer and Wagner recommended a religious life as the highest blessing; the one, however, meant a passive, the other, an active religion. This very brief and necessarily imperfect résumé of the contents of Dr. Hausegger's thoughtful little pamphlet may induce our readers to examine it for themselves, and in that case these few lines will have accomplished their purpose.

* Will in the Schopenhauer sense—i.e., the inner self, or inner life.

The Parish Choir-Book, No. 86—101.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

A few words concerning each of these numbers of a useful publication must suffice. No. 86 is a chant Te Deum in E flat, for treble voices, by H. J. Sumner. The harmonic progressions are sometimes open to question, and the composer, who has ability, should devote some time to further study. More praise is due to the next number, a spirited four-part setting of the evening canticles, by T. Tallis Trimnell. The C sharp (third bar of the second page) should surely be D flat. No. 88, chant Te Deum, in four parts, by Boyton Smith, is very melodious and pleasing. More ambitious than any of the foregoing is the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D, by A. Wellesley Batson (No. 89). It is very bold in general, and the harmonies are modern and effective, the service being suitable for festival occasions though not by any means difficult. The next three numbers are also capital settings of the evening canticles, No. 90, by G. F. Wesley Martin, being straightforward and church-like; No. 91, by Frederick Iliffe, noteworthy for the independent and orchestral-like accompaniment; and No. 92, by A. M. Goodhart, for its free and modern character. This last has also a bold and picturesque accompaniment. No. 93 is a vigorous chant setting, in common time, of the Benedicite, by Henry Gadsby. No. 94 is another setting in the more usual 3-2 measure, the three chants being respectively by Turle, Hayes, and Professor Bridge. Now we have a change, No. 95 being Merbecke's well-known Nicene Creed, with accompaniments by Sir Joseph Barnby. These are so arranged that they may be sung by voices in four parts, but unison is on more than one account to be preferred. Dr. G. C. Martin's Benedicite (No. 96) is unusually elaborate, though the chant form in 3-2 measure is preserved. The treble voices are in two parts, and the setting throughout is extremely effective. No. 97 is a setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in free chant form, by T. Tallis Trimnell, the principal figure resembling the Parisian Tone. Another setting of the Benedicite by G. C. Martin is furnished in No. 98. This is a really fine example of the quadruple chant and may be warmly recommended. Dr. Martin is also the composer of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis (No. 99), an effective version in free chant form for four voices; and of another setting of the Benedicite (No. 100), also in quadruple chant form, with some striking key progressions and modern harmonies. The last on our present list is a setting of the Benedicite by W. T. Best, in which the tenors and basses and the trebles are employed alternately in unison, the second part of every other verse being in harmony. The effect is peculiar, but not unpleasing.

The Orpheus, New Series, Nos. 230—242.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first three of this series are by the lamented composer Hermann Goetz. Their titles are "October Song," "A Forest Scene," and "Drinking Song," the second and third being bright and cheerful, and the first necessarily somewhat sad though by no means gloomy. To the lovers of German part-song they will be welcome. No. 233, "Heave the Anchor," by the late W. A. Barrett, is a nautical ditty of a somewhat quiet and subdued character, but expressive and pleasing. The next is "The Goslings," one of Professor Bridge's very clever and humorous ditties, in which Mendelssohn's Wedding March is introduced with truly comical effect. No. 235, "The Stream," by John P. Attwater, is a placid and agreeable part-song without any special characteristics. No. 236, "Ode to the Terrestrial Globe," and No. 237, "An Old Rat's Tale," are further examples of Professor Bridge's skill in the concoction of laughable part-songs. The second is the more elaborate and the more effective of the two. No. 238, "Cupid once upon a bed of roses," by J. Varley Roberts, is a bright and nicely written part-song, of a more sober character as regards the words. Nos. 239 and 240 are "I prithee send me back my heart" and "The Cryer," by King Hall. Sir John Suckling's verses have been set in musicianly and expressive style, and those of Michael Drayton with much vigour and piquancy, including some effective points in imitation. No. 241, "A wet sheet and a flowing sea," by Arnold D. Culley, is a genuine part-song of the strophic kind, the stirring verses being set to appropriately bright and energetic music. The next and last for the present is "Salvete cives nostri," being a setting by A. L. Peace of Latin verses by H. A. Strong, and dedicated to the Liverpool University Musical Society. It is a capital example of a style of song more popular in Germany than in this country, and it has an obbligato pianoforte accompaniment.

Short Settings of the Holy Communion Office. Nos. 19-24. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

It is scarcely necessary to remind our readers that these settings of the Sacramental Service are comprehensive, including not only every portion of the office in the English Prayer Book that can be musically rendered, but the Benedictus and the Agnus Dei, the use of which is, of course, optional. With these prefatory remarks, we will proceed to note briefly the salient features of the settings at present to hand. No. 19 is in E, by J. R. Alsop. It is smoothly and pleasantly written in four-part harmony except in the two sections above-mentioned, in which a treble soloist is required. Mr. Alsop pays commendable attention to the proper accentuation of the words, a matter in which even composers of distinguished ability are frequently careless. In this respect Mr. F. Iliffe, the composer of No. 20, in C, sometimes errs in the setting of the Credo; but a skilful choirmaster, knowing the significance of each clause, could easily put matters right, and the trouble would not be thrown away, for the music throughout is very expressive and full of effective points. No. 21, in G, by Hugh Blair, is for tenors and basses only in two parts, but to a large extent in unison. It may be said to be founded on one melodious theme which recurs again and again, and it is throughout simple, straightforward, and unaffected. No. 22, by I. H. Stammers, in E flat, is in four-part harmony, and includes settings of three of the Offertory Sentences and the O Salutaris. Brief phrases for solo voices occur, but only two or three times in the course of the service. No. 23 in G, by Ferris Tozer, is for treble voices, mostly in two parts or unison, but occasionally in three or four parts with a solo voice in addition. The composer writes with considerable boldness and freedom of style, and his service contains plenty of interesting work. The last of the present series is in D, by J. W. Elliott. This is for mixed choir in four parts and is noteworthy for chromatic and striking harmonic progressions, chiefly, however, in the accompaniment, for the voice parts are by no means difficult.

Kirmess. Rustic Pictures for Pianoforte Duet. By Heinrich Hofmann. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The characteristics of this popular composer's style are so well known that an enumeration of the titles of these pretty pieces will almost suffice to indicate their nature. We have first a March, illustrating the "Arrival of the Visitors"; followed by a graceful "Ländler," a rollicking Drinking Song, and an Andante called "In the Arbour," the "meaning" of which may be guessed without much difficulty. These four form Book I. The second consists mainly of "The Travelling Show," four humorous pieces in which imitative effects play a considerable part, and respectively entitled "Indian Dance," "Sword Dance,"

"Chinese Jugglers," and "The Strong Man." An expressive piece, headed "Good-night," forms an appropriate and restful conclusion. All the pieces are within the means of players moderately equipped in the matter of technique.

Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets, &c. Nos. 265 and 266. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Here we have two compositions for female voices in four parts, by Marie J. A. Wurm, who is at present perhaps better known as an accomplished pianist than as a composer, though she has evidently abundant talent in the latter capacity. The first of her part-songs, "Some strain that once thou heardst," has English and German words and displays the influence of Mendelssohn; it is written with refined feeling, the peroration being remarkably expressive. "About the sweet bag of a bee," words by Herrick, is a lively and piquant ditty, and, as in the previous example, the accompaniment is optional. Further contributions from Miss Marie Wurm's graceful pen will be anticipated with pleasure.

FOREIGN NOTES.

M. Massenet's opera "Werther" was performed for the first time in Paris, at the Opéra Comique, on the 17th ult., and was exceedingly well received, both on the part of the audience and by the press. On the same evening M. Massenet's "Le Cid" was revived at the Grand Opéra, with Madame Caron in the part of Chimène. "Werther" was also announced to be brought out at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, Brussels, at the end of last month.

We read in Le Guide Musical that the late M. Victor Wilder's translation of the book of "Die Walküre" is undergoing a thorough revision at the hands of M. Nuitter, of Paris, with a view to the forthcoming first production of the work at the Brussels Théâtre de la Monnaie. M. Wilder's version, it appears, is considered somewhat too free, and not always well adapted to the music, from a declamatory point of view.

Beethoven's "Fidelio," with M. Gevaert's recitatives replacing the spoken dialogue, is to be remounted during the current season at the Paris Opéra; Madame Rose Caron and MM. Alvarez and Plançon in the principal parts.

M. Alexandre Guilmant, the well-known Organist of La Trinité, Paris, has been nominated a Chevalier of the Legion of Honour.

M. Vincent d'Indy's important legende dramatique "Le Chant de la Cloche," first produced in 1885, but which had not been heard in Paris for a considerable time, was performed at M. Lamoureux's Concert on the 15th ult., when it created a very marked impression. The work had been carefully rehearsed, with the co-operation of the composer, and the performance is described as a remarkably fine one.

At Madrid recently a short sacred Cantata for solo tenor and bass, chorus, organ, and orchestra, by Luigi Mancinelli, was performed at a High Church Festival, under the composer's direction. The words are by the Archbishop of Toledo, and the work was written for the special use of the infantry of the Spanish army, from the officers of which Signor Mancinelli subsequently received a letter of thanks accompanied by a valuable diamond ring.

Notwithstanding the supposed apathy of the public complained of on the part of Italian impresarii, there will be no less than sixty-four lyrical establishments open during the coming carnival season. The most notable novelty to be produced during that period is Verdi's "Falstaff," which is in active preparation at the La Scala, of Milan, the strictest secrecy being observed, as in the case of the master's "Otello," concerning the details of the work by all concerned.

Mascagni's "I Rantzau" was brought out on the 7th ult., at the Imperial Opera of Vienna, with somewhat qualified success, the fourth (and last) act only meeting with genuine and unanimous applause.

A posthumous opera buffa by Almicare Ponchielli, the composer of "Gioconda," has just been performed, for the first time, with great success, at Genoa. It is entitled "Il parlatore eterno," the libretto by Ghislanzoni, the author of the book of "Aïda."

An opera entitled "Spartacus," by the Italian composer Signor Platania, is shortly to be brought out at the Berlin Royal Opera.

The San Carlos Theatre, at Lisbon, which has been closed for some time past in consequence of the precarious financial status of the country, re-opened its doors, on December 31, with a performance of "Lohengrin." The King of Portugal and the élite of Lisbon society were present on the occasion, and the season bids fair to prove a very successful one.

We hear from Mayence, the native town of Peter Cornelius, of an excellent first performance, at the Stadt-Theater, of that still too much neglected composer's opera "Der Cid." Capellmeister F. Steinbach conducted, and the audience were most enthusiastic in their applause. The work was first brought out at Weimar in 1865, and has been given within the last few years at one or two South German lyrical establishments.

A committee was formed last month, at Leipzig, under the presidency of Court-Councillor Dr. Heinze, for the purpose of raising the necessary funds for the acquisition of Herr Oesterlein's unique collection of Wagneriana known as the Wagner Museum in Vienna. The sum asked for is £4,250, the owner having expressed his willingness to hold the collection over, upon certain conditions, until April, 1895, by which time, it is hoped, the required purchase money will have been raised and the collection secured by the Bayreuth master's countrymen.

According to some interesting statistical notes, contained in the "Bayreuther Taschen-Kalender" for the current year, there have been 850 performances of Wagnerian operas in sixty-nine leading towns of the fatherland from July, 1891, to July, 1892. The greatest number of representations were accorded to "Lohengrin"—viz., 219—"Tannhäuser" coming next with 187, "Der fliegende Holländer" and "Die Walküre" being third in order with ninety-three performances each; "Die Meistersinger" following at some distance with seventy-five performances, and so on.

The fiftieth anniversary of the first performance of Wagner's "Der fliegende Holländer" was celebrated last month at the Dresden Hof-Theater. The work was brought out here, under the composer's direction, on January 2, 1843. An interesting paper upon the subject, from the pen of Herr Albert Heintz, is just now being published in the Berlin Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung.

Wagner's "Rienzi," in the revised version of the score, is to be performed at the Berlin Opera on the 13th of next month, the anniversary of the death of the Bayreuth master. The work is being newly mounted with much care and will be given without any curtailment.

A one-act comic opera, entitled "Oberst Lumpus," by Theobald Rehbaum, was brought out on the 9th ult. at the Krollsche Theater, Berlin, where it met with a very favourable reception. The libretto (written by the composer) is founded upon a story contained in Grimmelshausen's "Simplicissimus," and is said to be abounding in humorous situations, while the music is described as melodious and ably instrumented.

Bizet's "Djamileh" was brought out last month with great success both at the Cologne Stadt-Theater and the Munich Royal Opera.

A new comic opera, by Johann Strauss, entitled "Princess Ninetta," was brought out with much success at the Theater an der Wien, Vienna, last month, in the presence of a numerous audience, including the Emperor Francis Joseph. The music is spoken of as being conceived in the composer's happiest vein, and the return to his own particular sphere of art of their favourite, after his recent not too successful essay in grand opera, is hailed with delight by the Viennese public.

Herr Emil Sauer, the eminent pianist, has created an extraordinary amount of enthusiasm in Concerts recently given by him at St. Petersburg.

A series of model performances of opera are to be given in July next at the Coburg Theatre, for which purpose a number of eminent vocal artists has already been engaged.

A musical festival on a large scale is to be held in Whitsuntide at Heidelberg, under the direction of Herren Felix Mottl and Philipp Wolfrum.

A very interesting series of personal reminiscences of the late Robert Franz is just now being published in the Musikalisches Wochenblatt, of Leipzig, from the pen of Dr. Arthur Seidl.

Tschaikowsky's new one-act opera "Iolantha" (the libretto founded upon Henrik Hertz's novel "King Réné's Daughter") was produced last month at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater, under the direction of Herr Mahler, but can scarcely be said to have scored a success. Another new operatic work, "Iolanda," the subject taken from the same source, and set to music by the Russian composer Yufferoff, was announced to be performed at St. Petersburg last month.

Yet another one-act opera, "Yolande," libretto and music by a young French composer, M. Albéric Magnard, which appears to have met with little more than a succès d'estime, was brought out at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, Brussels, on December 27 last.

M. Camille Saint-Saëns is just now staying in Algiers, where he is engaged upon completing the score of an unfinished opera by the late M. Guiraud.

A correspondent reports to us, from Darmstadt, the very favourable reception accorded to the first performance, at the Hof-Theater, on the 8th ult., of Herr Bruno Oelsner's one-act opera "Vardhamana," already alluded to in our Notes in connection with the recent first performance of the work at Cassel. Herr Oelsner is a member of the Darmstadt Orchestra and a pupil of Herr de Haan, the excellent capellmeister at the Hof-Theater.

At a recent sale of Autographs held at Berlin the sum of ten pounds was paid for a manuscript by Mendelssohn bearing the title of "Duetto for pianoforte, Allegro brillante."

Dr. Hans von Bülow, who has been somewhat seriously indisposed of late, is undergoing a treatment for a neuralgic complaint at an institution near Berlin. His place as Conductor of the Berlin Philharmonic Concerts was taken last month by Herr Felix Mottl, of Bayreuth reputation.

Another of the ever-increasing number of one-act operas made its successful début recently at the Krollsche Theater in Berlin. It is entitled "Der Schwur," and as regards the nature of its subject and the treatment thereof may be looked upon as a pendant to "Cavalleria Rusticana." The composer is Herr Wilhelm Reich, Herr Max Singer being the librettist.

The new opera "The Witch," by the young Danish composer, A. Enna, was performed for the first time on the 13th ult. at the Royal Opera of Berlin, and met with a favourable reception.

The Berlin Opera will shortly bring out a new one-act opera, entitled "Angla," by the talented Berlin composer, Herr Ferdinand Hummel.

Professor Albert Becker, of Berlin, has declined the offer of the cantorate of St. Thomas's Church, Leipzig, the German Emperor having expressed his especial desire to retain the services of the distinguished musician in his capital.

Baron Perfall, the able Intendant of the Munich Royal Opera, is expected shortly to retire from that position, which he has occupied with distinguished success for a number of years.

Count Geza Zichy, the present artistic director of the National Theatre at Buda-Pesth, has accepted for performance here two new operatic works by native composers—viz., "Toldy's Love," by the principal of the Hungarian Musical Academy, M. Mihalovich, and "The Violin-maker of Cremona," by M. Hubay, a professor at the Buda-Pesth Conservatoire. At Pressburg a new one-act opera entitled "Yadwiga," by a hitherto unknown native composer, August Norgauer, met with a most enthusiastic reception last month, while another new operatic work, "The Knight of Malta," by a young composer with the nom de théâtre of Léon d'Amant, was hailed with delight last month at Debreczin.

Anton Rubinstein has promised to conduct a performance of his Oratorio "The Lost Paradise" at the Vienna Singakademie, in March next.

Herr Franz Mannstaedt, court-capellmeister in Wiesbaden, has accepted the conductorship of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra upon the retirement from that post, in April next, of Herr Rudolph Herfurth.

A new String Quartet by Tschaikowsky has just been performed for the first time in St. Petersburg. It is considered one of the most mature works by the Russian master.

Wagner's "Nibelungen" Trilogy was to be performed for the first time in the Hungarian language, last month, at Buda-Pesth, under the conductorship of M. Rebicek.

A most enthusiastic reception was accorded to Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" at the Teatro Regio, in Turin, where the work was produced, for the first time, on December 28 last.

CORRESPONDENCE.

FOLK-TUNES, &c., IN BEETHOVEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—The reference in your very interesting December number to "Folk Tunes in Beethoven's Orchestral Works" led me to notice what appears to me such in the Fourth Pianoforte Sonata (Op. 7). At the fifty-ninth bar of the first movement begins what one might call the essence of the theme of the first of the waltzes published under Beethoven's name. In Grove's Dictionary it is stated that this waltz really originated with Franz Schubert, but, unless the resemblance is a mere coincidence, both composers may have taken the theme from a Volkslied. In my particular case this may only be a re-discovery, but whether or no, I can't help referring to two other resemblances I noticed at the same time. In the same Sonata, from the forty-fourth to the fifty-fifth bars, are to be found the subject which occurs again in the Finale of Op. 31, No. 3. Then again, in the No. 5 (Op. 10, No. 1), the ninth, tenth, and eleventh bars, counting from the double bar in the Finale, seem to contain, if not the actual notes, at least the rhythm and a foreshadowing of the meaning of the theme of the C minor Symphony.

My excuse for troubling you with these must be that I have hitherto noticed so few references to supposed repetitions of himself by Beethoven that what I have pointed out may be new to others than myself.

Your obedient Servant,

D. N. COTTON.

9, Cobden Crescent, Edinburgh,
January 3, 1893.

A PART-SONG CATALOGUE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—Will you kindly allow me, through the columns of your influential journal, to draw the attention of the numerous lovers of secular part-music to a MS. catalogue of glees, madrigals, part-songs, &c., which for nearly half-a-century I have been occupied in compiling, containing now upwards of 27,000 titles? The dates range from 1226 to the present day, from the Rota "Sumer is i cumen in" to Dufay, Binchois, Josquin des Près, Arcadelt, Di Lasso, the English and Italian madrigalists, and the old English glee composers downwards. It also includes the principal operatic trios, quartets, &c., of both native and foreign writers. The composers of the large number referred to are more than 3,200, of whom Sir H. R. Bishop contributes 327, Luca Marenzio 286, Samuel Webbe 211, Dr. Callcott 167, Sir G. A. Macfarren 195, J. L. Hatton 217, and so forth.

No further explanation seems necessary here, but I shall be happy to reply to any enquirer.—Yours, &c.,

D. BAPTIE.

466, St. George's Road, Glasgow.

BYZANTINE MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

SIR,—I have not long returned from a toilsome journey in the East, and have seen for the first time your August number, containing a friendly criticism of my recent "Treatise on Byzantine Music." With your permission I will explain why it is that "technical terms are occasionally used in a sense quite other than that which obtains among English musicians. For instance, all through the book the tritone is called a 'major (!) fourth.'"

During the whole of my professional career, from 1844 to 1869, I always insisted on the clear and congruous musical nomenclature laid down by the late Gottfried Weber, who on this particular point expressed in other words what I summarise in paragraph 5 of my book: "In the diatonic scale there are two varieties of each of the numeric intervals, major and minor. Thus, of the second, there are two minor and five major; of the third, there are four minor and three major; of the fourth, there are six minor and one major," &c. I always preferred Mr. Weber's plan of describing the diatonic fourths (and fifths) after the manner of the other intervals, as "minor and major," rather than as—(1) "perfect and imperfect," or (2) "consonant and dissonant," or still less as (3) "augmented or superfluous (fourth) and diminished (fifth)"; for (1) and (2) are sentimental rather than descriptive, and (3) is absolutely false.

Trusting to your kindness to admit the above explanation, I remain, Sir, very truly yours,

S. G. Hatherly,
Protopresbyter of the Greek Church.

Egremont, Cheshire.

MOTION AND MUSIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—I am not a professional musician; but, as the writer of a letter to you on "Melody in Speech," which appeared in your issue of May 1, 1887, in which some rather interesting notes were published, I am glad to be able to corroborate what your correspondent, Mr. Metcalfe, in this current number of The Musical Times, hints at—viz., the probability of the connection between Motion and Music.

I seldom travel by rail without vivid and original musical motives filling my brain, to such an extent and with such force and "colour," indeed, as to make me regret that there is no method for recording sensations and ideas so rich and exhilarating.

I am very sure that many musically-endowed souls have the same experience.

There can be no shadow of doubt that to persons in whom the "creative faculty" lies in germ, and seldom, perhaps, meets with the proper stimulus for its outcome, the complicated rhythms caused by the noises—strange as it may seem—of the various mechanical movements of an express train, do really call up from an apparent chaos suggestions of musical forms and phrases. I can readily believe that Sir George Macfarren did not only "make up canons," but turned them to good use afterwards.

The subject is well worth investigation.—I am, &c.,

January 21, 1893. F. R. C.

DURHAM UNIVERSITY DEGREES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Some months ago I wrote to Durham University requesting particulars of examinations for degree of Mus. Bac. To my surprise and disappointment Dr. Armes informed me women were not eligible for the degree, but might go through the examinations and receive a certificate, if successful. Dr. Armes further added, "No lady has, as yet, graced the University by her presence." Neither, should I imagine, will she ever do so under existing arrangements. Surely, as we should pay the same fee, and go through the same anxieties under examination as our musical brothers, we should be entitled to an equal reward! Is it not possible to alter the rules in this respect, so that both sexes may enter for the degree on a common level?—Faithfully yours,

Amy C. G. Clapshaw,
Sub-Professor, R.A.M.

8, Trinity Place, Windsor.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

A. Smith.—The song by Mr. Cowen which you name is published by Boosey and Co.

B. O. S., Preston.—There is a Symphony by Haydn entitled "Roxelane," so called because the Allegretto consists of variations on the French romance of that name.

J. Worth, Liverpool.—The B minor Minuet, by Schubert, is the third movement of the so-called "Fantasia" in G (Op. 78).

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Addlestone.—An excellent Concert was given in the village hall, on the 5th ult., by Miss Maude Darling, a pupil at the Guildhall School of Music, assisted by her master (Mr. D. Strong), Miss Old, Miss A. Montague, Mr. E. Epstein, Mr. H. Waldo Warner, and Mr. C. Watkins Old. The programme arranged was greatly appreciated. Miss Maude Darling is the possessor of a pure soprano voice of wide compass and phrases very intelligently.

Andover.—Mr. A. C. Bennett's annual Concert took place on the 11th ult. A string orchestra, composed of his pupils, played Mozart's Symphony (No. 32), "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," and other pieces in a highly finished style. Master Victor Buckland and Miss Nellie Edwards received much applause for their solos. Mr. Prosper Burnett delighted the audience with two violoncello solos, and Mr. E. Christopher Young (pupil of Mr. Dannreuther) charmed greatly with two pianoforte solos. The vocalists were Miss Mary Hickley (of Southampton), Rev. J. P. May, and Mr. Alfred Watts. The programme included a Romance (MS.) for violin and pianoforte, by Dr. George J. Bennett.

Berkhampstead.—A selection from The Messiah was ably rendered at the Parish Church by the choir, at Evensong, on Christmas Day, under the direction of Mr. Frank Gatward, Organist and Director of the Choir. There was a large congregation. On the following Thursday two successful Concerts were given in the Town Hall by the Haresfoot Ladies' Band, assisted by Miss Kentish Moor, Mrs. Layton, the Rev. W. M. Smith-Dorrien (Minor Canon of Durham Cathedral), Mr. Duchesne, and Mr. Layton.

Biggar, N.B.—A most successful performance of The Messiah was given in the Parish Church on Sunday, December 25, by the choir. The solos and choruses were exceedingly well rendered, especially "Lift up your heads" and "Hallelujah." The church was crowded. Miss Mary Murray, of Heavyside, presided at the organ, and Mr. John Inglis conducted.

Chigwell.—A "Tennysonian" Concert was given with great éclat in the Grammar School, on the 19th ult. The School Choir sang part-songs by Silas, Barnby, Bridge, &c., and one specially written for the occasion by Mr. Henry Riding. An interesting programme of the best settings of the late poet's words was well rendered by Miss Edith Savill, Miss Ethel Sanders, Messrs. Herbert Clinch, Jordan, Arkwright, Vulliamy, and the Revs. H. de Vere Welchman and G. B. Doughty. Mr. Henry Riding was an able accompanist and conductor.——A Carol Service was held at the Church on the 8th ult., preceded by a short Organ Recital given by Mr. Arthur George. The solos were sung by Master Denman Groome and Mr. Herbert Clinch.

Christchurch, N.Z.—The Liedertafel's Ladies' Night Concert, on December 1, was a great success. Mr. Millar, Mr. Barkas, and Mr. Day sang several solos, and Mr. Wallace conducted the part-songs, besides playing two violin solos, one of which, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's "Benedictus," created a great impression.

Cork.—At the Imperial Hotel, on the 5th ult., before the Cork Literary and Scientific Society, Mrs. Brownlow delivered a most interesting Lecture on "Music before the Christian Era." This lady's intelligent efforts to create an interest in the history of Art deserve the warm support of musicians, and it was gratifying to note that the Lecture in question was largely attended.

Dalton-in-Furness.—The Choral Society gave a select Concert on the 18th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. W. Griffith, whose compositions mainly filled the first part. Psalm xxiv. was set to music by him for solo and chorus. The principals were Miss Marjorie Eaton, Miss Tones, Mr. Pass, and Mr. Telfer. Mons. Lexline led the band and also played Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto. There was a large and immensely appreciative audience, Miss Eaton being rapturously received each time.

Dundalk.—Schubert's Mass in G (No. 2) was sung in St. Malachy's Dominican Church on Christmas Day with full orchestral accompaniment.

EXETER.—On New Year's Day, in the afternoon, a special Service was held at St. James's Church, consisting of the carols sung on Christmas Day, with organ and orchestral accompaniment. Gounod's "Nazareth" was also sung by the Rev. H. Gibbon with good effect. Handel's Largo and Mendelssohn's "War March" (Athalie) were excellently played. Mr. E. Saulez conducted with skill and Mr. E. N. Tayler ably presided at the organ.

HINGHAM, NORFOLK.—On the 4th ult. the first part of Elijah was given in the magnificent Parish Church. The chorus, consisting of the church choir augmented for the occasion, sang excellently, the "Baal" choruses and "Thanks be to God" being especially well rendered. Mr. Daines, Norwich Cathedral, in the part of Elijah, sang with great dramatic power, especially "Is not His word like a fire?" Mr. Hemmings, Norwich Cathedral, sang the tenor part with great feeling. Dr. Bates, Organist of the Cathedral, conducted admirably, and the accompaniments throughout were played by Mr. C. L. Hawley, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church.

KIMBERLEY, S.A.—Messrs. Norman Bros. and Beard have been awarded the gold medal for church organs by the Committee of the South African and International Exhibition. The fine organ sent by this firm to the Kimberley Exhibition has been purchased by the Corporation of Port Elizabeth for £2,000 and is to be erected in the Feather Market, which is said to be the finest hall in South Africa.

MELBOURNE, VICTORIA.—During October and November Mr. Ernest Wood gave a series of six Organ Recitals at St. Paul's Cathedral, all of which were largely attended. These, like Mr. Wood's previous Recitals, have been the means of introducing many grand works for the organ to the Melbourne musical public, and Mr. Wood is to be congratulated on their great success from an educational point of view. They have become quite an institution here. Among the special Advent Services at the Cathedral was a performance of Spohr's Last Judgment, upon which occasion the building was filled to its utmost capacity. The rendering of the work was received with the warmest praise by both press and congregation, and reflects great credit on Mr. Wood, who, of course, presided at the organ.

MINEHEAD.—A highly successful Guitar Concert was given in the Public Hall on the 12th ult., by Mrs. Slade. The quintet of lady guitarists, consisting of Mrs. Slade, Misses Reynett, Maclaughan, Crockford, and Jessie Palmer, were encored after each of their selections. Valuable vocal and instrumental assistance was given during the evening by Mrs. Hake, Miss Phillips, and the Misses Langdon; and Messrs Siderfin, Thorne, Sloman, and G. Atkins.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—A fine new three-manual organ of 40 stops has just been erected by Messrs. Harrison and Harrison, of Durham, in Brunswick Wesleyan Chapel. The organ was opened on Sunday, the 15th ult., by Dr. A. H. Mann, Organist of King's College, Cambridge. Dr. Mann gave a Recital after the evening service. On Monday evening Dr. Stephenson lectured on "How may Divine worship in Methodist churches be improved?" Musical illustrations were sung by the choir, under the leadership of Mr. J. M. Gibson, Organist and Choirmaster of the church. On Wednesday evening a splendid Recital was given by Mr. J. M Preston, who fully brought out the qualities of the organ. On Sunday, the 22nd ult., the organist was Mr. G. F. Vincent, of Sunderland, who also gave a Recital after the evening service.

OMAGH.—Mr. W. Granger gave the first of a series of Organ Recitals at the Parish Church, on the 11th ult., to a crowded congregation. The programme included works by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Haydn, Meyerbeer, Smart, and others.

PLYMOUTH.—Miss Gertrude Collins, a young violinist of much promise, gave her first Chamber Concert on the 21st. ult., at the Royal Hotel Assembly Rooms. As Miss Collins studied at Leipzig and afterwards at the Royal Academy under Mr. Sauret, the excellence of her method may be taken for granted. She obtained the unstinted plaudits of her audience. Her colleagues were Mr. Pardew (viola), Mr. Winterbottom (violoncello), Mr. Weekes (pianoforte), and Miss Clara Samuell, whose delightful singing evoked the liveliest enthusiasm.

READING.—The Newbury Choral Society gave its first Concert of the season in the Town Hall on the 4th ult. The first part of the programme consisted of Dr. Mackenzie's Dream of Jubal. The chorus proved itself fully equal to the occasion, especially in the dramatic triumphal march and chorus "Hail to our Chief." The beautiful soprano solo "The Lord is good" was well sung by Miss Amy Wells, and the tenor solo "The Song of the Sickle" was rendered by Mr. Herbert Clinch with artistic taste and finish. The whole performance reflected great credit on those who took part. Special mention should be made of the recitation, which was most creditably given by Miss Winifred Newton. The second part of the Concert consisted of a miscellaneous selection, including works by Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Wagner, and Berlioz.

TUNBRIDGE.—Mr. F. G. Edwards gave his Concert-Lecture on "Mendelssohn," in the Corn Exchange, on the 10th ult., before a large and enthusiastic audience. Musical illustrations were efficiently rendered by the Misses North and Mr. Kimmins. A choir, under the able direction of Mr. G. I. Kimmins, sang some part-songs, and the lecturer played numbers 1 and 30 of the "Songs without Words."

ORGAN APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Frank Pullein, Assistant-Organist to Lincoln Cathedral.—Mr. J. R. Washington, Organist and Choirmaster to Airdrie Parish Church.—Mr. Arthur Bayliss, Organist and Choirmaster to Trinity Congregational Church, Poplar.—Mr. John Kay, Organist and Choirmaster to Wilmington Parish Church.—Mr. E. Carrick, Organist and Choirmaster to All Saints', Upper Norwood.—Mr. Percy J. Rogers, to St. Malachy's Dominican Priory, Dundalk.—Mr. Thomas Ely, to St. Thomas's Church, Belfast.

CHOIR APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. Charles J. Butler (Principal Tenor), to Lincoln's Inn Chapel.—Mr. Herbert Stansfield (Tenor), to York Minster Choir.—Mr. Theodore S. Hill (Musical Director and Choirmaster) to St. Michael's Church, Borough Road, Birkenhead.—Mr. Charles E. Pillow (Tenor), to Chichester Cathedral.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

PARKER, HORATIO W.—"Hora Novissima." The Rhythm of Bernard De Morlaix on the Celestial Country. Set to music for Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Paper cover, 3s. 6d.

SMYTH, E. M.—Mass in D. For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Three Dances. From the music to Shakespeare's "Henry VIII." Composed for the production of the Play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892. Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte by the COMPOSER. 3s.

VINNING, WILLIAM S.—"Song of the Passion" (According to St. John). A Sacred Cantata. For Solo, Recitative (Male Voices), and Chorus; with Hymns introduced, to be sung by the Congregation. The words specially written for this work by MILDRED GAUNTLETT. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

WOODS, M. A.—A Tune Book. Intended for use with Hymns for School Worship. Consisting of Twenty-five Original Tunes, and a list of recommended Tunes. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

WAGNER, RICHARD.—"Lohengrin." A romantic Opera, in three Acts. Act I. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

MARSHALL, FLORENCE A.—Interval Exercises for Singing Classes. To which are added a few Two-part Time Exercises. Paper cover, 8d.

BARNICOTT, O. R.—(in D). Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

KIMMINS, GEORGE J.—(in C). Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

SEATON, RICHARD—(in G). Te Deum laudamus. 3d.

STEANE, BRUCE—(in E flat). A Short Festival Setting of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 6d.

TURPIN, E. H.—(in F). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 126. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

WITHAM, H. O.—Benedicite, omnia Opera. Chant form. 3d.

CHAMPNEYS, F.—"To Lucasta, on going to the Wars." A Part-song, for Four Voices. The words written by Colonel LOVELACE. 3d.

CORNWALL, JOHN.—"O my love is like a red, red rose." Four-part Song. The words written by ROBERT BURNS. 3d.

COWEN, FREDERIC H.—"A lover's counsel." A Four-part Song, for Male Voices. The words written by F. WYVILLE HOME. (No. 252. The Orpheus.) 3d.

HAM, HERBERT.—"Lord Ullin's Daughter." A Choral Ballad, with accompaniment for Orchestra or Pianoforte. The words written by THOMAS CAMPBELL. 4d.

PEARSON, W. W.—"The Skaters." Part-song, for S.A.T.B. The words written by ANNE LEE-WARNER. 3d.

STEVENSON, JOHN.—"Hark! the vesper hymn is stealing." Russian Air. Arranged for Soprano Solo and Chorus. (No. 663. Novello's Part-song Book.) 2d.

KINSEY, HAGUE.—"Noël." Hymn, for Tenor Solo, Chorus, Orchestra, and Organ. 1st Violin, 1s.; 2nd Violin, 1s.; Viola, 8d.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s.

BROCKWELL, JULIA.—"The Two Voices." Song. The words selected from the Poem by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 2s.

RICKMAN, F. R.—Romance. For the Pianoforte. 2s.

WESLEY, SAMUEL SEBASTIAN.—Larghetto, in F minor. For the Organ. 1s.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 777. The Blue-Bottle's Fate.. .. A. H. ASHWORTH 1½d.

BRIDGE.—"The Lord's Prayer." 6d.

MISS LILY HOWARD (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, 1, Arundel Road, Croydon.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

THE HORSE-SHOE GLEE SINGERS.
ALTO: Mr. PERCY COWARD (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle); TENOR: Mr. ARTHUR S. COWARD; BARITONE: Mr. RANDULPH L. COWARD; BASS: Mr. W. BELL KEMPTON (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle).
For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to W. Bell Kempton, 16, Horse-shoe Cloisters, Windsor Castle.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD.
Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

DR. H. KEETON'S

NO. 5.—CHURCH AND CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD.
Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net, post-free. Just issued.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S PART-SONGS,
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT.

VOCAL DUETS AND TRIOS
FOR LADIES' VOICES.

SCHOOL SONGS, WITH PIANO ACCOMPANIMENT
FOR GIRLS' OR BOYS' VOICES IN UNISON
BY ALFRED REDHEAD.

SONGS FOR CLASSES
EDITED BY ALFRED J. CALDICOTT.

Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S
NEW EDITION OF
STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES,
Thoroughly Revised, Re-fingered, and Newly Engraved, specially for the Associated Board and Trinity College Examinations.
"This series is one of the best musical publications of the day, highly to be recommended to Professors and Teachers."—The Graphic.
151 Numbers ready. List on application.

ALSO "CLASSICAL MUSIC" (NEW SERIES)
SELECTED, FINGERED, AND EDITED BY
ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER,
Professor at the Royal Academy of Music.
72 Numbers ready. List on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.

CONCERT FANTASIA on the tune "Hanover." By EDWIN H. LEMARE .. .. 3s. net.
GAVOTTE MODERNE, in E flat. By EDWIN H. LEMARE 2s. ,, PASTORALE, in E. By EDWIN H. LEMARE .. .. .. 2s. ,,
THE ORGANISTS' LIBRARY. By Dr. WM. J. WESTBROOK.
Six Books .. .. each 2s. ,,
Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY AND CONSTRUCTION OF THE ORGAN
BY DR. E. J. HOPKINS AND DR. E. F. RIMBAULT.
This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net.
Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLONCELLO MUSIC.

QUATRIÈME GAVOTTE. By DAVID POPPER .. .. 2s. net.
LARGO. By DAVID POPPER .. .. 2s. ,,
MONFERRINA (Danse Piedmontèse). By LEO STERN .. 2/6 ,, MÉLODIE ROMANTIQUE. By LEO STERN .. .. 2s. ,,

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL.
Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronised and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music.
Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. & Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS.

THREE SCANDINAVIAN SONGS. By H. LOGÉ .. 2/6 net.
No. 1. He comes not.
,, 2. We'll roam together.
,, 3. Thy lover's voice (a Serenade)
A WOODLAND SERENADE, with Mandoline accomp. ad lib. By ANGELO MASCHERONI .. .. 2s. ,, Sung by Madame ADELINA PATTI.
AVE MARIA, with Violin (or Cello) and Organ accomp. ad lib. Latin and English words. By ANGELO MASCHERONI .. 2/6 ,, Specially composed for and dedicated to Madame ADELINA PATTI.
Each Song issued in two or more Keys.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Music in Public Worship	73
From my Study	75
Orchestras in Theatres	78
Stars and Salaries	79
Occasional Notes	79
Mr. Swinburne's New Ode	82
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	82
Royal Choral Society	86
London Symphony Concerts	86
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	86
The Incorporated Society of Musicians	87
Highbury Philharmonic Society	89
Dr. Hubert Parry on Expression and Design in Music	89
Mr. Dolmetsch's Viol Concert	90
The Plainsong and Mediæval Society	90
Dr. Hubert Parry's "Hypatia" Music	91
The Lyric Theatre	91
Obituary	91
Music in Birmingham	92
,, Bristol	92
,, Edinburgh	99
,, Glasgow	99
,, Liverpool	100
,, Manchester	101
,, Nottingham	101
,, Yorkshire	101
,, America	102
,, Montreal	102
Full Anthem—"I did call upon the Lord." Frank L. Moir	93
General News (London)	102
Reviews	104
Foreign Notes	106
Correspondence	107
Answers to Correspondents	108
General News (Country)	108
List of Music published during the last Month	109

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£ s. d.
Two Lines	0 3 0
Three Lines	0 3 4
For every additional Line	0 0 10
Half a Column	2 0 0
A Column	4 0 0
A Page	7 10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion in March Number, Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE TWENTIETH

OF THIS MONTH.

THE ANGLO-HUNGARIAN QUINTET and CONCERT PARTY.—Now booking Engagements for Concerts, Banquets, &c. Choice Vocal and Instrumental Solos. Hungarian National Uniform. Address, Mr. Edward Crosse, Conductor, 30, Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park.

LEADING TREBLE WANTED, at once, for a West End Church. Salary, £8 to £10 per annum, according to ability. Address, Musicus, 11, Upper Berkeley St., Portman Sq., W.

ST. PANCRAS PARISH CHURCH CHOIR.—There are VACANCIES in the above Choir for two TENORS and one BASS. Salaries, £15 and £12 per annum. Applications, with references, to be sent to Organist, 3, Gordon Place, Gordon Square, W.C.

ORGANIST.—MR. J. EDWARD CAPEL (Organist and Choirmaster, St. Matthew's, Oakley Square, N.W.) will be open to an APPOINTMENT after March 25 next. Full Choral Services. Gregorian or Anglican Music. Address, Mr. Capel, 1, Chalcot Gardens, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

A PROFESSOR of MUSIC, retiring from Teaching, desires post as SALESMAN in Piano Warehouse, in or near London. Can tune Pianos, &c. Would not object to travel. London references. H. Y., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

BEETHOVEN NUMBER.

A FEW REMAINING COPIES OF THE

EDITION DE LUXE

OF THIS NUMBER

PRINTED ENTIRELY ON JAPANESE VELLUM PAPER,

MAY STILL BE OBTAINED.

PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MANAGER.—WANTED, a GENTLEMAN, thoroughly qualified to fill the position of Manager in a large Piano and Music Warehouse in the North of England. To one whose credentials will bear the strictest investigation remuneration will be given commencing at not less than £200 per annum, rising £50 yearly, until a maximum of £500 is reached. Address, K., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO MUSICSELLERS.—WANTED, by a Gentleman with twenty-five years' experience in the Pianoforte and Sheet Music Trade, a SITUATION as MANAGER. Has a thorough knowledge of the Piano, American Organ, and Harmonium, and plays all three instruments. Could take the entire management if necessary; also a good Accompanist. Address, Mr. J. G. Hill, Messrs. Smith's Bookstall, Boston, Lincolnshire.

SITUATION WANTED, as Assistant Manager or Traveller, wholesale or retail. Well up in small goods. Twelve years' experience. Aged 25. X. Y. Z., 7, Southgate Grove, N.

VISITING MUSIC MISTRESS, L.R.A.M. Piano, Harmony, Theory. Highest references. Most successfully prepares for Exams. London or neighbourhood. Bee, Shelley's, Gracechurch St.

TO COMPOSERS and CONDUCTORS.—An experienced Musician scores Operas, Cantatas, Songs, Dance Music, &c., for large or small Orchestras. Address, William L. Frost, 26, Hatfield Street, Hatcham, London.

FOR SALE.—Valuable AUTOMATIC ORGAN, 9 feet high, 5½ feet wide, 3 feet deep. In handsome Italian walnut and embossed glass bureau. Suitable for large hall or private gallery. Is in perfect order and supplied with forty different Overtures or musical selections on separate roller barrels, each originally valuable, at twelve guineas. The instrument was built by an eminent firm, and contains 136 wooden pipes, voiced from 4 feet to 16 feet tone, and cost, with barrels, 650 guineas. Must be sold. Apply for further particulars to Euterpian, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

STRINGED and other INSTRUMENT REPAIRING. Required to place on trial in London, with Apprenticeship to follow (if suitable), a good Violin Player, aged 15. Cert. (Senior) Trinity College of Music. Big lad; well educated. Terms, to A. G. S., 92, Bensham Manor Road, Thornton Heath, S.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat. Price 3d. By R. R. TERRY (Organist and Choirmaster, Antigua Cathedral). "Very musicianly and tuneful, though as unlike the style of the old cathedralists as can well be."—Church Times, Dec. 16, 1892.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REQUIEM MASS

FOR

SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

(Op. 89.)

FULL SCORE.

PRICE THREE GUINEAS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS

WILL BE PUBLISHED MARCH 1.

AS IT BEGAN TO DAWN

ANTHEM FOR EASTER

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

THE LORD IS RISEN

ANTHEM FOR EASTER

BY

G. M. GARRETT, Mus. Doc.

ALSO IN PREPARATION

ANTHEM FOR EASTER

BY

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE BENEDICITE

TWO NEW SETTINGS

BY

EDWIN H. LEMARE, in B flat, price 3d. net

AND

ARTHUR E. GODFREY, in C, price 3d. net;

ALSO A NEW SETTING OF

THE PATER NOSTER

Composed for the celebration of the Holy Communion, by

EDWIN H. LEMARE. Price 3d. net.

ROBERT COCKS and Co., 6, New Burlington Street, London, W.

Just Published. 8vo, 3d.

THE SKATERS

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

ALL THE YEAR ROUND

CANTATA FOR FEMALE VOICES

WITH RECITATION

(Suitable for School use)

The Words by CHARLES KARLYLE and AMY BRIAND

THE MUSIC BY

GUSTAV ERNEST.

(Op. 19.)

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
Book of Words, Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

MASS IN D

FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

COMPOSED BY

E. M. SMYTH.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

THE TIMES.

The composer is known as a musician of high ideals and remarkable power, as well as a fairly complete technical equipment. Like those of her compositions which have already found acceptance, the Mass is distinctly original in conception and most unconventional in treatment. . . . Miss Smyth was heartily applauded at the close of the new Mass.

MORNING POST.

It is but seldom that a lady composer attempts to soar in the loftier regions of musical art, and Miss Smyth may be congratulated upon the success which has attended her efforts. . . . Unqualified praise may be awarded to the Sanctus, which is of great melodic beauty, materially heightened by the effective accompaniment of horns and trombones. It is set for contralto solo—which was beautifully sung by Madame Belle Cole—and a chorus of female voices. . . . The composer has been successful in her setting of the Credo, the music to the Incarnatus being admirably suited to the words. Altogether Miss Smyth's work is one of considerable merit.

GLOBE.

The opening Kyrie, in D minor, is remarkably vigorous, and still more so the "Gloria in Excelsis" which follows. The Credo is constructed in a similar style, with occasional reminiscences of Beethoven, of whom Miss Smyth is evidently a warm admirer. The four pages devoted to a fugue are favourable specimens of the composer's technical skill, although the fugue is not completely worked out. This work affords abundant proof of Miss Smyth's mastery of technique, and merits warm praise. The more tranquil Sanctus, with its contralto solo and eight-part chorus, shone by contrast with the energetic movements which followed, and the Benedictus, with its soprano solo and succeeding three-part chorus, is a charming work. Without entering into further particulars, we are happy to congratulate Miss Smyth on having produced a choral work of which no composer could be ashamed.

DAILY NEWS.

The Mass is, down to date, by far her most ambitious effort, and despite many crudities and other defects which a writer of greater experience might have avoided, it must be considered a remarkable composition from a lady's pen. The lyrical are almost necessarily its most effective portions, but although the work contains only one example of a set Fugue, and that by no means fully developed, a good deal of the choral writing is of an unusually pretentious character. The Mass without prelude opens with a solemn passage for the basses, the Kyrie being wholly choral. Even thus early in the work Miss Smyth shows a strong tendency towards striking contrasts, which are often highly effective. The Gloria is not sung in its usual place in the Mass, and the second number is the setting of the Nicene Creed, which, as usual, is the most important section of the work. It opens with a very vigorous chorus, interspersed with graceful passages for the solo tenor and soprano, the music dying away at the mention of the Burial, although, with one of those contrasts to which reference has been made, it suddenly becomes impetuous again at the allusion to the Resurrection. . . . After the turmoil of the Creed, the reposeful melodiousness of the Sanctus comes as an agreeable relief. The setting is for contralto solo, with female chorus in four parts, but before the end the male voices enter, and each section of the choir being divided, we have a brief double chorus. . . . The Benedictus, which is for soprano solo and three-part female chorus, is, however, indisputably the gem of the Mass. Here Miss Smyth is quite in her element, and this delicious little number, in which, by the way, Miss Palliser made a successful London début in oratorio, was so warmly applauded, that, were it not for endangering the symmetry of the work, an encore might easily have been accepted for it. . . . It should be added that at the end of the Mass Miss Smyth was called to the platform and heartily cheered.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

Miss Smyth's Mass in D is unquestionably a clever work. . . . She evidently knows how to make the most of the band and chorus provided for her, and some of the effects resulting from the two forces in combination are exceedingly telling. Of the six sections, the most striking in performance is the Gloria, which last night was given as the Finale in accordance with the suggestion in the score lately published by Novello. The Kyrie was thus followed by the Credo. The opening of the work by the bass division of the chorus, the accompaniment to which is in unison, is imposing, and the number gains strength as it proceeds, becoming somewhat noisy ere a bold contrast is brought about by a flute solo which precedes the concluding portion, sung pianissimo. The Credo opens triumphantly with the blare of brasses, and introduces the four solo voices, three of which are heard to more advantage later on. The Credo went well from beginning to end, the chorus taking up the points boldly, and its ending was the signal for loud applause. . . . The Benedictus, for soprano solo and three-part chorus—two soprani and alto—is a very melodious movement, and here Miss Esther Palliser justified her engagement for the Albert Hall platform. . . . At the termination of the Mass, which occupied about an hour, on a unanimous call being raised for the composer, Sir Joseph Barnby led forward a young lady, slight in build, who was warmly congratulated.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PRODUCED WITH GREAT SUCCESS AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS AND THE HEREFORD FESTIVAL.

BENEDICTUS

ARRANGED FOR SMALL ORCHESTRA BY THE COMPOSER FROM SIX PIECES FOR VIOLIN

With Pianoforte Accompaniment

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(OP. 37.)

Full Score, 5s.; Orchestral Parts, 3s. 6d.;
Also, as originally written for Violin Solo with Pianoforte Accompaniment, 2s.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH.

As an exceptional case, this movement absolutely gains by the change to which it has been subjected, the impassioned religious melody acquiring force by being played in chorus, and added beauty by a rich accompaniment of strings, horns, and wood-wind. The audience at once pronounced the piece a success, and the composer bowed his thanks for sustained applause from his place in the gallery. . . . Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" came between the two new works, where its reposeful beauty brought a sense of rest and relief. The long and eloquent melody of the piece was finely played by the first violins, led by Mr. Carrodus, and the whole performance produced an effect which could only come from a display of the highest art. The "Benedictus" was a third demonstration in one morning of the stuff that is in our native composers. (Hereford Festival.)

STANDARD.

Dr. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" was originally written for violin, with pianoforte accompaniment. Since then the author has appreciated the capabilities of the music in an orchestral sense, and after several attempts—this composer, like Mendelssohn, never being satisfied at the offset—has written his score for a small orchestra. . . . So charming did this piece prove that the applause was unanimous, and was maintained until the composer had appeared at the end gallery and bowed his acknowledgment.

MORNING POST.

There are beautiful harmonies accompanying the phases of melody, and the whole piece, which is replete with dignity and distinguished by originality, forms a most grateful addition to orchestral répertoires.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The clever musician has since scored it for a small orchestra, assigning the violin solo to the whole of the violins, and providing work for the other strings, flutes, clarinets, bassoons, and horns, in which form it is likely to obtain as much popularity on the platform as the first setting in the salon. It is a beautiful, quietly flowing melody, with such an elegant accompaniment as only a composer of genuine taste and sympathetic nature, having a perfect knowledge of the means of the instruments he introduces, could place upon paper.

THE OBSERVER.

The two leading themes are in themselves beautiful, and their scenic beauty is enhanced by exquisite orchestration, in which the wind instruments above-named, in conjunction with the violas, violoncellos, and double-basses, are happily employed. . . . This "Benedictus" is likely to become popular throughout the musical world.

THE GLOBE.

Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's new "Benedictus" for violin and orchestra (first public performance) is short and comparatively simple, but will add to his fame. . . . The "Benedictus" is a polished gem.

SUNDAY TIMES.

Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's new "Benedictus for Orchestra," a transcription of one of his "Six Pieces for Violin and Pianoforte," Op. 37, is a gem of melody encased in a beautiful instrumental setting.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, of ten years' experience, desires RE-APPOINTMENT. Good salary and good field for Teaching. Address, B. H., Holsworthy, Devon.

AN Organist desires practice and experienced TEACHER in W.C. district. Address, Z. O., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG Gentleman requires APPOINTMENT as ORGANIST or ASSISTANT. Good testimonials. Catholic Church preferred. T. C., 4, St. John's Terrace, Alexandra Rd., Hornsey.

ORGANISTS and SOLOISTS can be obtained through the DIAPASON MUSICAL AGENCY. Efficiency guaranteed. No trouble or expense. Address, 55, Chancery Lane, W.C.

WANTED, good CELLIST, to play with lady Pianist (L.R.A.M.). Sight reader. Possible interchange of Lessons. Mutual terms. A., 133, Finchley Road, N.W.

WANTED, a MILITARY BAND.—The Corporation of Harrogate will require the services of a Military Band for the next season, to perform in the Montpellier Gardens (in the morning) daily, from 7.30 to 9 o'clock (Sundays excepted), for about twenty weeks, commencing Whit Monday. Tenders, stating the number of performers (not less than 15 to 18) and the instruments to be employed, to be sent in to the Town Clerk of Harrogate, on or before February 2 next.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED, for the Midlands. Must be efficient and reliable. Apply, Rufus, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

GOOD TUNER and REPAIRER WANTED. One understanding Organs preferred. State age, experience, salary required, and references. Gray, Coney Street, York.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER, well up in American Organs and Harmoniums. One who can repair preferred. Apply to S. Davidson, Musicseller, Dumfries.

PIANOFORTE TUNER, of good abilities and gentlemanly address, for a Provincial Establishment. To a suitable man the position will be a permanency. Apply to C. S. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER WANTED.—Young Man, about 25, for country; one who has had good Factory experience and well up in repairs. Must be first class canvasser and not afraid of hard work. Good address and excellent references indispensable. Moderate salary to commence. Apply, stating terms, &c., to Tench White, 42, St. Georges Street Canterbury.

WANTED, a thoroughly good PIANOFORTE TUNER, TONER, and REGULATOR; one who can act as Salesman occasionally (com.). A good opportunity for a competent, reliable man. Apply personally; or, if by letter, state age, salary, and all particulars to C. Curtis, 28 and 29, Baker Street, W.

WANTED, a thoroughly competent and reliable PIANO TUNER; one who understands and can Repair American Organs. Must be steady and able to give unimpeachable references. Good salary will be offered to a first-class man. Address, F. E., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER.—First-class TUNER and REGULATOR REQUIRED. Permanent situation to a really good man. References required. State age and all particulars. Salary, £2 weekly. Apply by letter, enclosing photo, Bogg and Sons, John Dalton Street, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED (first-class, principally for out-door). One who understands organs preferred. Town near Wolverhampton. State wages required; also send photo and references, to J. T. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SECOND TUNER. Apply, Maker, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER (Brinsmead) seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Well up in country work. Address, G., 5, Hawthorne Villas, Ladypool Road, Birmingham.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER, by a competent Young Man, holding excellent tests. Can play well. Apply, Fred. Slipper, 11, Lorne Street, Gibbet St., Halifax, Yorkshire.

WANTED, ENGAGEMENT as first-class TUNER and REPAIRER. Well up in American Organs, Harmoniums, &c. Aged 32. Gentlemanly, steady, and reliable. Good Salesman. Past 10 years head tuner in a Provincial firm. Apply, Toner, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER desires to meet with permanent ENGAGEMENT. American Organs, &c.; ordinary Repairs. References good. Tuner, P. L., Messrs. Novello and Co.

WANTED.—A Young Man, having served his apprenticeship of 5½ years in one of the largest Provincial houses, seeks a SITUATION as a MUSIC ASSISTANT. Thorough knowledge of Catalogues, Sheet Music, Small Goods, &c. Good character, references. X. Y. Z., 3, Hatherley Villas, Cheltenham.

SITUATION WANTED, in MUSIC TRADE, by Youth of 19. Musical. Willing to work. London or provinces. Kindly address, F. Dakin, Drayton Road, Leytonstone.

WANTED, SITUATION in a Music and Pianoforte Warehouse, as ASSISTANT. Thorough knowledge of Catalogues, Sheet Music, Small Goods, &c. Good character, references. A. D., 44, Hartismore Road, Fulham, S.W.

YOUNG LADY desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Thoroughly understands the Music Business and Book-keeping. Has had for the last nine years management of a branch house. Address, Doris, care of Chronicle Office, Abergavenny.

SITUATION WANTED, in Music Warehouse, by thorough Musician, as GENERAL ASSISTANT. Knowledge of Catalogues. Good sound Tuner. Could also help at books. Salary moderate. F. H. H., 4, South Hayes, Bath.

AS MANAGER.—Advertiser (31) wishes to CHANGE from present APPOINTMENT. Fifteen years' experience. Pianos, Organs, Music, and Small Goods. Excellent references. South of England preferred. Full particulars of C. R. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, E. Organ and Piano Lessons by a F.C.O.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. Blown by engine. 1s. per hour; 24, one guinea. Entwistle's Organ Studio, 2, Charles Street, Camberwell New Road.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

NEW IMPERIAL PIPE ORGANS (Two manuals). Suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, practice, &c. From 40 guineas. Made in portable sections. ORGANS (new and second-hand), Two manuals, with 6, 9, 12, 17, and 26 stops. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGANS.—MESSRS. NORMAN BROS. AND BEARD, Organ Builders, Norwich, have the following Second-hand ORGANS for SALE:—

No. 1.—Church Organ, 2 manuals, 25 stops, with Pneumatic Action to manuals and pedals; built in 1883. To be sold to make room for a large 3-manual Organ.

No. 2.—Church Organ. Two manuals, 11 stops, tenor C swell, in good condition; now in use near Exeter. Price £80.

No. 3.—Practice Organ. Two manuals; built in 1890. Great, 2 stops; swell, 4 stops; pedal Bourdon; 4 couplers. All modern improvements.

No. 4.—Single Manual Organ, suitable for small Church. Contains 8 stops, built by Holditch, £70.

Full particulars of any of these Instruments can be had on application to NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

ORGAN.—Two manuals (prepared for Choir Organ), 18 stops, 16-ft. Open Diapason on Pedals. Oak case. Must be sold. Eustace Ingram, Hereford.

ORGAN for SALE. Three manuals, nearly new. 20 stops, spotted metal, 8-ft. front, pedal organ complete, Bourdon, oak case with stool, concave pedals, 4 composition ditto. By HUNTER and SON, London. Gas engine and fittings if required. Appy or write, Organ, 1, Princes Road, Kennington Cross, London, S.E.

TWO-MANUAL and PEDAL AMERICAN ORGANS, at special low prices, for cash, by Mason and Hamlin, Bell, Karn, &c. A £60 Mason and Hamlin for £22; a £105 ditto for 40 guineas; a 65-guinea Karn for 25 guineas, as new; a 180-guinea ditto, 85 guineas; a 200 Bell for 95 guineas. Also several large Harmoniums, by Alexandre, Christophe, Bauer, &c., fully warranted. Packing or carriage free. Inspection invited. Stagg and Co., 56, Red Lion Street, Holborn, London, W.C. Established 1867.

ORGAN for SALE.—A great Bargain.—Two manuals, swell and great; CC to A, 58 notes; 6 stops on great, 8 stops on swell; pedal Bourdon, 30 notes; 4 couplers, 4 compounds and concave pedals. W. Willis, Music Warehouse, Uxbridge.

ORGAN for SALE (Second-hand). 5 stops. In handsome carved walnut case. R. Cope, 21, Jardin Street Camberwell, S.E.

CC ORGAN for SALE, at a very low price, on easy terms of payment. Three manuals, 31 stops, and 2 stops on pedals, 3 reeds, &c. Can be seen and tried at Stanley Hall, Junction Road, Holloway, N.

PIPE ORGAN, in good condition. 10 ft. 6 in. high by 6 ft. 6 in.; 7 (through) stops; 1 octave pedals; gilded pipe front; with bench. £30. Dodimead, Biggleswade.

ORGAN (Pipe), 8 ft. 9 in. high. Excellent Gothic Case. Decorated front pipes (blue and gold), 6 stops, pedals. Really good instrument; perfect order; lead about 400 persons; suit Village Church admirably. Price £35. Photo, six stamps. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London, W. Inspection by appointment, evenings preferred.

ORGAN, in very elegant oak case, 2 row manuals, 2½ octaves, with 32 and 16-ft. tone; 17 stops; hand and foot-blowers. By Trayser & Co. Price 80 guineas. 752, High Road, Tottenham.

ORGAN for £150.—Extraordinary Bargain.—A fine toned modern 2-manual ORGAN, in solid oak case, containing 500 speaking pipes, 3 couplers, and complete Bourdon. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

ORGAN, suitable for Lecture Hall or Small Church. Great Organ, 8 stops; swell, 7; pedals, 2; couplers, 3. Beales and Co., Organ Builders, Limes Road, Croydon.

LARGE AMERICAN ORGAN (Smith's "Connoisseur"), in good condition, to be SOLD cheap (as Pipe Organ is being built). Apply, W. B. Bell, Organist, St. Stephen's Church, Bury, Lancashire.

ORGAN for SALE. Three-manual, by Hill and Son, 1876. Enlarged and action renewed, 1887. Great, 10 stops; swell, 9; choir, 5 (and one prepared for); pedal, 2; couplers, 5; pneumatic piston, great to pedal. Concave pedals. Apply, J. Booth, 20, Coolhurst Road, Crouch End, N.

SPLENDID Two-manual PIPE ORGAN of 12 stops, 6 on great, 6 on swell, and an independent pedal organ of 30 sweet stringed toned Bourdons, by Hunter and Sons, of Kennington. Lowest cash price, £130. Apply, R. S., 126, Strand.

ORGAN for SALE. Two manuals, 10 stops, by J. W. Walker and Sons. Now in St. Agnes's, Kennington, S.E. Price £130. Apply, Mr. W. W. Hedgcock, 21, Kennington Park Gardens, S.E.

ORGAN WANTED (second-hand), two or three manuals. Send specification, scale of pedals, measurements and lowest price to Organist, care of Brown's Advertising Office, Little George Street, Westminster.

ORGAN PEDALS.—2½-octave Concave Pedals, with every appliance to be adjusted to Piano or Harmonium. Cost £15; will take £4 10s., or good exchange. 752, High Road, Tottenham.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d. post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

TUNERS, REPAIRERS, &c., requiring Tuning Hammers, Kits (guaranteed), or TOOLS of any description. Reeds, Fittings, Materials. Please send for my complete Price List. Karl Wagenhaus, 2, City Road, Hulme, Manchester.

FOR SALE.—Volumes MUSICAL TIMES (unbound), from Vol. I. to end of 1891 (Vol. 32, No. 586). Apply, by letter, to T. H. W., 14, St. Edmund's Terrace, Regent's Park.

TO ORGANISTS and others requiring only a limited number of copies of their Compositions.—Messrs. DINHAM and CO., by their method, execute on the shortest notice and at a trifling cost, Anthems, Services, Orchestral Parts, and every description of Music, from twelve copies and upwards. Specimens, &c., sent free on receipt of card. Dinham and Co., 28, Fenchurch Street, London, E.C. Established 1872.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).
Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.
Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Collecting orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.

Write for Professional Price List.

T. D'Almaine and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS.—A Gentleman, having about £1,500, is wishful to purchase a well established concern. Particulars to C. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT

FOR

PIANOFORTES.

NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR

AT THE

INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.

NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO

H. J. RUMMENS,

47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.

COLLIN-MÉZIN (OF PARIS),

VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.

Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of PARIS, 1878; PARIS, 1879; PARIS, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).

THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,

USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,

AND

CONSIDERED BY MASTERS

THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.

METZLER AND CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

SHEET MUSIC.

TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.

120,000 COPIES

OF

SONGS, PIANOFORTE PIECES, AND DANCES

(The best Editions, all clean and saleable)

TO BE SOLD, IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES.

100 Copies, 8s. 4d.; or made up in £1 Parcels, 50 Parcels for 21s.

Sample Parcel of 20s. worth, 1s., Post-free.

WILLIAM LEA,

50 AND 52, CHURCH STREET, LIVERPOOL.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

SEVEN SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

CONTENTS:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

"It is refreshing, after wading through countless specimens of the ordinary British ballad, to come across a set of songs so artistic in design as those contained in the album labelled 'Seven Songs,' by Sir John Stainer. . . . Amateurs on the look-out for something really good may confidently be recommended to devote their attention to these admirable songs."—Morning Post.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

A SONG OF LIFE

(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In the Press.

CANTATA

SET TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM

CROSSING THE BAR

FOR FULL ORCHESTRA, CHORUS, AND PIANOFORTE

BY ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String and Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MUSIC FOR LENT.

ANTHEMS, &c.

*All ye who weep	Ch. Gounod	3d.
*Ave Verum (Jesu, Word of God Incarnate)	W. S. Hoyte	1½d.
Blessed are they that mourn	A. W. Batson	3d.
Blessed Jesu, Fount of Mercy	Anton Dvorák	6d.
*Come and let us return	John Goss	3d.
*Come unto Him	Ch. Gounod	2d.
Come unto Me	M. Kingston	1½d.
Come unto Me	J. Stafford Smith	1½d.
*Comfort, O Lord, the soul of Thy servant	Crotch	1½d.
Daughters of Jerusalem	H. J. King	3d.
Day of anger	Mozart	6d.
Distracted with care	Haydn	4d.
*Enter not into judgment	Attwood	1½d.
For our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
*God so loved ("Crucifixion")	J. Stainer	1½d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	J. Booth	1½d.
Have mercy upon me	James Shaw	3d.
Have mercy upon me	C. Steggall	6d.
He in tears that soweth	Hiller	1½d.
*Incline Thine ear	Himmel	1½d.
*In Thee, O Lord	B. Tours	3d.
In Thee, O Lord	Weldon	3d.
In Thee, O Lord	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
Is it nothing to you? (Two-part Anthem)	M. B. Foster	2d.
I will cry unto God	C. Steggall	3d.
Like as the hart	T. Adams	3d.
*Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	Farrant	1½d.
Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake	G. Rayleigh Vicars	1½d.
Lord, I call upon Thee	J. E. West	1½d.
Lord, on our offences	Mendelssohn	1½d.
Make me a clean heart	J. Barnby	3d.
My God, look upon me	J. L. Hopkins	3d.
O come near to the Cross	Ch. Gounod	8d.
O day of penitence	"	6d.
O have mercy upon me	Henry Leslie	1½d.
O Lamb of God	G. E. Lake	1½d.
*O Lord, my God	C. Malan	1½d.
*O Lord, my God	S. S. Wesley	1½d.
O Lord, rebuke me not	H. Lahee	1½d.
O saving Victim	Ch. Gounod	4d.
O saving Victim	Berthold Tours	1½d.
O Saviour of the world	John Goss	1½d.
*Out of the deep	J. Naylor	4d.
Out of the deep	F. E. Gladstone	3d.
Rend your heart	J. Baptiste Calkin	1½d.
*Seek ye the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
*Spare us, Lord most holy	E. A. Sydenham	1½d.
The sacrifices of God	Hugh Blair	1½d.
Think, good Jesu	Mozart	6d.
Thus saith the Lord	G. Garrett	6d.
*Turn Thee again	Attwood	1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	"	1½d.
*Turn Thy face from my sins	A. Sullivan	1½d.
Turn Thy face from my sins	C. Steggall	1/6
Unto Thee have I cried	George Elvey	3d.
Word of God Incarnate	Ch. Gounod	3d.

Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.

THE VERSICLES & RESPONSES

AS USED IN

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

(FERIAL USE)

EDITED BY

J. STAINER, Mus. Doc.,

AND

G. C. MARTIN, Mus. Doc.

Price Fourpence.

THE PRECES and RESPONSES, with LITANY, According to TALLIS. ARRANGED FOR FOUR VOICES, BY JOSEPH BARNBY. Price Fourpence.

THE FERIAL RESPONSES, with LITANY. Edited by JOSEPH BARNBY. Price Fourpence.

THE PRECES and RESPONSES, with LITANY. Set in Monotone. THE SIMPLEST FORM OF AN INTONED SERVICE. BY JOSEPH BARNBY. Price Fourpence.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS. Words only, 1s. 6d. per 100; large type edition, 2s. 6d. per 100.

THE PASSION OF CHRIST. Set to music by G. F. HANDEL. Octavo, paper cover, 3s.; paper boards, 3s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 5s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. Matthew.) Set to Music by JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. Set to Music by JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH. Abridged Version, as used at St. Paul's Cathedral. Octavo, paper cover, 1s. 6d.; Book of Words, with Music to the Chorales, 6d.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (According to St. John.) Set to Music by JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of our Saviour on the Cross.) Set to Music by J. HAYDN. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. (The Seven Words of our Saviour on the Cross.) Set to Music by CH. GOUNOD. Octavo, paper cover, 1s.

THE PASSION OF OUR LORD. ("Der Tod Jesu.") Set to music by C. H. GRAUN. Octavo, paper cover, 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, gilt, 4s.

THE BENEDICITE

SET TO MUSIC BY THE FOLLOWING

MODERN COMPOSERS.

GEORGE J. BENNETT (in E flat)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in G)	1½d.
GEORGE J. BENNETT (in D)	3d.
W. T. BEST	3d.
HUGH BLAIR	1½d.
J. F. BRIDGE, JAMES TURLE, and Dr. HAYES	1½d.
J. W. ELLIOTT	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (with a Quadruple Chant for the Te Deum)	2d.
ALFRED J. EYRE (No. 2, in F)	1½d.
PERCY H. FROST	2d.
HENRY GADSBY	1½d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Chant Form)	3d.
F. E. GLADSTONE (Unison)	1½d.
W. HUGHES	1½d.
FREDERICK ILIFFE (No. 1)	1½d.
GEORGE C. MARTIN (No. 1, in F; No. 2, in E flat; No. 3, in G)	each 4d.
C. E. MILLER	2d.
C. E. MILLER (second setting)	2d.
C. E. MILLER (third setting)	2d.
BOYTON SMITH (in A flat)	1½d.
J. STAINER, R. DE LACEY, A. GIBBS, and F. CHAMPNEYS	1½d.
J. STAINER, W. WINN, and F. WALKER	1½d.
S. S. WESLEY (easy setting)	2d.
J. BARNBY
JOHN FOSTER
MONTEM SMITH (two settings)	1½d.
J. TURLE (two settings)
C. A. WICKES (two settings)
W. G. WOOD (in D)	1½d.

NOVELLO'S COLLECTION OF

Responses to the Commandments

EDITED BY

GEORGE C. MARTIN,

ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

Bound in Cloth, Five Shillings; or, 47 Numbers at Twopence each.

THE MISERERE, &c., as used in St. Paul's Cathedral Lenten Services. Arranged by J. STAINER. 8vo. Price 3d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. The music composed by J. BARNBY. 8vo. Price 6d.

MISERERE MEI, DEUS. Set to the well-known Ancient Chant, as arranged and harmonised by VINCENT NOVELLO; from the Appendix to the Accompanying Harmonies to the Brief Directory of Plain-song, by the Rev. THOMAS HELMORE, M.A. Price 2d.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS

WRITTEN BY THE

REV. E. MONRO.

Words only, price 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, price 2s. 6d. per 100.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PASSION MUSIC

FROM THE ORATORIO "ST. PETER"

BY

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

VOCAL SCORE
PRICE ONE SHILLING & SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE CRUCIFIXION

A MEDITATION

ON THE

Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer

THE WORDS SELECTED AND WRITTEN BY THE

REV. W. J. SPARROW-SIMPSON, M.A.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

This Work is an attempt to supply the want long felt of an easy and short form of Passion Music suitable for use in ordinary parish churches. It is composed for two solo voices, a Tenor and a Bass, and for the church choir. At intervals hymns occur, in which the whole congregation can join. The performance will probably not extend over forty minutes in duration, thus giving an opportunity for a suitable "address" if thought advisable. No orchestra is required, the accompaniments being specially adapted for the organ only; much of the expense usually attending Passion Services will therefore be avoided. The book of the words, for distribution among the congregation, will contain the music of the Hymns; by this means it is hoped that the congregation will be induced to take part heartily in the service.

VOCAL SCORE, PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.
PAPER BOARDS, TWO SHILLINGS. TONIC SOL-FA, NINEPENCE.
WORDS ONLY, WITH HYMN TUNES, TWOPENCE.
WORDS OF HYMNS, FIVE SHILLINGS PER HUNDRED.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE

LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANGEL HOSTS DESCENDING

SACRED SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ADAPTED BY

ALFRED PHILLIPS

TO THE CELEBRATED MELODY FROM

"MORS ET VITA"

BY

CHARLES GOUNOD.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE ABRIDGED VERSION

AS USED IN

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

OF THE

PASSION OF OUR LORD

(ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW)

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MISERERE (Psalm li.), by GREGORIO ALLEGRI, as sung at the Sistine Chapel, with the English words. Arranged by Rev. H. A. WALKER. Price 6d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Fifth and Sixth Thousand.

PASSION SERVICE

NEW SACRED WORK

FOR THE SEASON OF

LENT AND GOOD FRIDAY

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL,

Composer of the "HOLY CITY," "RUTH," &c.

"Scholarly writing, combined with unmistakable talent, and eminently adapted to the purpose for which it was written and composed, the work will probably be largely used, and Mr. Gaul have to be congratulated upon another success."—Sheffield Independent.

"The course of sacred events connected with the Passion is laid out by the writer so as to form a series of six distinct 'scenes.' The subjects of these divisions, each occupied with a particular stage of the Mystery, are respectively: 'The Traitor at the Table,' 'The Denial,' 'The Condemnation before Pilate,' 'The Mockery on Calvary,' 'The Shadow of Death,' and 'The Holy Sepulchre.' The style of the composition resembles generally that of Mr. Gaul's previous writings—the same effective, grateful part-writing, and the same expressive and melodious treatment of the solo voice. In those sections, notably that of the Unjust Condemnation, where the realistic element is predominant, the composer has manifested his ability to write with dramatic force and intensity as well as with lyric charm. In this respect the choral writing distinguished itself in comparison with that in the 'Holy City,' and other of the composer's works. Mr. Gaul has not written new hymn tunes for the author's lyrics; the tunes selected are from among those in ordinary congregational use. Altogether considered, Mr. Gaul's new work will, undoubtedly, greatly enhance his already high reputation in the line of sacred composition."—Musical Standard.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.

The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.
NEW MUSICAL WORK FOR THE LENTEN SEASON AND GOOD FRIDAY.

SONG OF THE PASSION
(ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN)
A SACRED CANTATA
FOR SOLO, RECITATIVE (MALE VOICES), AND CHORUS
With Hymns introduced to be sung by the Congregation, the words specially written for this work
BY MILDRED GAUNTLETT
THE MUSIC BY
WILLIAM S. VINNING
Mus. Bac., Cantab.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Words with Hymns to be had separately. Price 2d.

BENEDICITE
Set to Music by the same COMPOSER. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO POPULAR SETTINGS
OF THE BENEDICITE
BY
J. H. MAUNDER.
No. 1 in A .. .. 1½d. | No. 2 in G .. .. 2d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.
SHORT ANTHEM OR INTROIT SUITABLE FOR USE IN LENT.
HEAR MY PRAYER, O LORD.
BY WALTER J. LOCKITT.
Price Fourpence.
HART AND CO., Paternoster Row, E.C.

BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA
As sung at St. Andrew's, Wells Street; St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, &c.
COMPOSED BY HENRY KNIGHT.
Price 1½d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW SACRED PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.
THERE IS A GREEN HILL FAR AWAY
BY W. HOLMES.
Enthusiastically encored at Exeter Hall, October 4, 1892.
Sol-fa, 1½d.; Staff Notation, 2d., of the COMPOSER, 14, University Street, Tottenham Court Road, W.
Usual terms to the Trade.

AVE VERUM
FOR FOUR VOICES
BY H. B. WALKER.
PRICE THREEPENCE.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Specimen Copy free from COMPOSER, Ratby, Leicester.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS (for use during Passion Week). Music by C. STOTT, Organist of the Parish Church, Queensbury, Yorks. Price Three Half-pence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.
EASY SETTING OF BENEDICITE
BY S. S. WESLEY.
Price Twopence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Thousand.
BENEDICITE, OMNIA OPERA. By W. H. HOLLOWAY, L.Mus. T.C.L. Price Twopence.
"A pleasing and varied setting."—Manchester Courier.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

O LORD, HAVE MERCY. Anthem for Baritone Solo and Chorus. Suitable for Ash Wednesday or General Use. Price Sixpence. "Sleep, baby, sleep." A Four-part Song. Price Threepence. "The harmony is free and spontaneous, and the melody flows with charming effect."—American Art Journal, N.Y.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEM FOR EASTER
"An attractive and effective composition."—Musical Times.
"An easily learnt Anthem."—Sheffield Daily Post.
"A most devotional composition."—Newcastle Chronicle.
"This Anthem will be much appreciated by all who wish something fresh and not too difficult."—Aberdeen Journal.
"Smoothly and pleasantly written."—Western Times (Exeter).
"Tuneful, and easy to sing."—Leeds Mercury.

CHRIST IS RISEN
BY
E. A. SYDENHAM.
Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three Half-pence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS, &c.
BY CALEB SIMPER.
Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*CHRIST OUR PASSOVER. New. 3rd 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THIS IS THE LORD'S DOING. New. 3rd 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
*KING OF KINGS. New. 7th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
TE DEUM IN G. New. 6th edition .. .. 4d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G. New. 5th edition .. 4d.
*HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN G. New. Just published .. 4d.
An easy Service complete, with Benedictus and Agnus Dei.
*BENEDICITE IN B FLAT. New. 2nd 1,000 .. .. 2d.
A shortened Setting. Can be sung in half the usual time.
*I AM HE THAT LIVETH. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals.
HE IS RISEN. 58th edition .. .. 3d.
AND BEHOLD, THERE WAS A GREAT EARTHQUAKE. 10th 1,000 .. 3d.
THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
O SING UNTO THE LORD. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
WHY SEEK YE? 16th edition .. .. 3d.
HALLELUJAH! NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. 11th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
An easy arrangement of a portion of Handel's Hallelujah Chorus.
*AWAKE, THOU THAT SLEEPEST. 9th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
CHRIST IS RISEN. 9th edition .. .. 4d.
IF WE BELIEVE THAT JESUS DIED. 10th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
POPULAR TE DEUM IN F. 20th edition .. .. 3d.
HOLY COMMUNION IN F. Complete. 6th edition .. .. .. 6d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F. 43rd edition 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Lismore, Derry, and Downpatrick Cathedrals; also at Barrow, Skegness, Great Budworth, East Devon, &c.
POPULAR MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT. 15th edit. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT. 7th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Highest note E flat. Complete, with Benedictus and Agnus Dei.
BENEDICITE IN A FLAT. Quad. Chant Form. 7th 1,000 .. .. 2d.
Sung in Worcester Cathedral.
BENEDICITE IN F. Quad. Chant Form. 3rd 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
COME UNTO ME. Easy Lent Anthem. 3rd 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
O HOW AMIABLE. Festivals. 2nd 1,000 .. .. 3d.
GIVE GLORY UNTO THE LORD. Festivals. 11th edition .. .. 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. Festivals. 7th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and at Begelly.
Those marked * are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.
London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, Wabash Avenue.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.
EASTER.—"I believe." Four voices .. .. 4d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 1½d.
FESTIVAL.—"I was glad." Four voices .. .. 3d.
" " " Tonic Sol-fa .. .. 2d.
SERVICES.
Te Deum laudamus in E. Chant form .. .. 3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E " " .. .. 3d.
Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F .. .. 1½d.
" " " A .. .. 1½d.
" " " E .. .. 1½d.
HYMNS.
Sing to the Lord. With words .. .. 1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes .. .. 3d.
Amen (on Card) .. .. 1d.
ORGAN.
Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria .. .. " 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. " 1s. 0d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EASTER ANTHEM. Easy. Effective.

CHRIST IS RISEN

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S EASTER ANTHEMS, &c.

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. New. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
A very attractive and easy Anthem.
BENEDICITE in D. Chant. New. 3rd 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
With effective Organ Accompaniment for Unison verses.
HE IS RISEN. 10th 1,000. A favourite Anthem .. .. .. 3d.
WHY SEEK YE? 7th 1,000. With good Bass Solo .. .. 3d.
HALLELUJAH! NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
{ PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 11th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
{ THE LORD REIGNETH. New. Sol-fa, 2d. .. .. 3d.
Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special occasion.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Full of vigour and flowing melody.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO ANTHEMS FOR EASTER. By Dr. CHARLES VINCENT.

ALLELUIA! ALLELUIA! .. .. Price 2d.
"Easy and effective."
VERY EARLY IN THE MORNING .. .. .. Price 4d.
(Containing a Duet for Tenor and Bass.)
"A picturesque Anthem."

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW FESTIVAL SERVICE

BY

HENRY GADSBY.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

IN THE KEY OF F MAJOR

Performed at the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1892.
Price Sixpence.
Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on hire.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHORAL MARRIAGE SERVICE

WITH TWO HYMNS AND CHANTS

ARRANGED AND COMPOSED BY

THOMAS WARDLE.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC

By S. S. WESLEY

LARGHETTO IN F MINOR.

Price One Shilling net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

Second Edition. Third and Fourth Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.'"—The Referee.

"The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Eleventh to Fifteenth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description."—Shields Daily News.

	s. d.		s. d.
Paper cover .. .. price	2 6	Tonic Sol-fa .. .. price	1 6
„ boards .. .. „	3 0	Vocal parts .. each „	1 0
„ Scarlet cloth .. .. „	4 0	Words only .. per 100 „	7 6

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO EWER AND CO.

MATHIAS & STRICKLAND'S PUBLICATIONS.

CANTATAS

FOR SCHOOLS AND CLASSES.

TREBLE VOICES.

No.			Net. s.	d.
1.	The Gitana (Harp, 1s. net)	..J. L. Roeckel	3	0
2.	Lady Jane Grey (Harp and Violin, 1s. net each)	Charles Oberthür	2	0
3.	Heather Belles	..J. L. Roeckel	2	0
4.	Linda	Ridley Prentice	2	0
5.	May-Pole	.. V. Wallace	2	0
6.	Pilgrim Queen (Harp, 1s. net)	Charles Oberthür	2	0
7.	Father Christmas	..J. L. Roeckel	2	0
8.	Silver Sails	.. F. F. Rogers	2	0
9.	The Wreck of the Hesperus	.. C. H. Lewis	2	0
10.	Goblin Market	.. E. Aguilar	2	0
11.	Convent Bells	Gustav Ernest	2	0
12.	The Star of Hope.. ..	.. Franz Abt	2	0
13.	The Fairy's Gift	Bennett Gilbert	2	0
14.	Ali Baba	.. G. Bottesini	2	0
15.	The Minstrel Prince (Guitar)	..J. L. Roeckel	3	0
16.	The Woman of Canaan (Sacred)	Wilfred Bendall	2	0
17.	The Ten Virgins (Sacred)	..J. L. Roeckel	2	0
18.	Golden Butterfly	..J. M. Bentley	2	0
19.	Cock Robin's Wedding ..	Edouard Dorn	2	0
20.	Battle of the Frogs and Mice	James Greenhill	2	0
21.	The House that Jack Built	.. G. Fox	2	0
22.	De Montfort's Daughter ..	Julian Edwards	2	0
23.	The Water Spirits ..	Sir J. Benedict	2	0
24.	The Naiades of the Rhine	.. V. Wallace	2	0
25.	The Silver Bridge.. ..	.. J. Hoffmann	2	0
26.	Sea Maidens	..J. L. Roeckel	3	0
27.	The Red Cross Knight (Harp, 1s. net)	Charles Oberthür	2	0
28.	All Hallow Eve	Bennett Gilbert	1	6
29.	Funny Folks Concert (with Toy Instruments)	James Greenhill	2	0
30.	The Legend of Eloisa	.. R. Orlando Morgan	2	0

MIXED VOICES.

31.	Birth of Christ (S.A.T.B.) ..	Clement Locknane	1	6

SCHOOL SONGS.

THE SCHOLASTIC SERIES OF

TWO-PART SONGS

FOR

BOYS' OR GIRLS' VOICES

BY

CLEMENT LOCKNANE.

Twelve Numbers. Complete, One Shilling.
Separate Numbers, 2d. each.

Collegiate Singing Manuals

Specimen Copy, Post-free, for Twelve Stamps.

BOOK 1.

SIGHT SINGING MANUAL.

FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The Exercises are suited to every compass of voice, and will also be found conveniently arranged for teaching in Forms or Sets, enabling the pupil to gain an excellent standard of proficiency in each term.

FOR CHOIRS.—The easiest system that can be obtained for training, improving, and learning to read music at sight.

FOR SCHOOLS.—Every requisite for learning music, and reading at sight in a few lessons.

FOR CHORAL SOCIETIES.—The exercises will be found invaluable, tending to produce musical effects seldom heard.

AN EASY METHOD FOR READING MUSIC AT SIGHT.

 The extraordinary sale of this little work in so short a time is a convincing proof of the high opinion entertained of it by the musical profession and public. The compiler has received flattering testimonials from professors, heads of scholastic establishments, organists, choirmasters, and conductors of choral societies, to whom it saves an immense amount of trouble, and enables the student to read at sight the most difficult compositions of the best composers.

BOOK 2.

SINGING EXERCISES. Common Chord, Harmonic Intervals. Modulations through all the Major and Minor Keys, &c.

SOLFEGGI. For Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass, with Pianoforte Accompaniment.

DUETS AND SONGS, by Handel, &c.

35 CANONS AND ROUNDS.

BOOK 3.

(Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.)

50 PART-SONGS, MADRIGALS, GLEES, CHORUSES, &c. Composed by Handel, Purcell, Mendelssohn, Beethoven, Mozart, Haydn, Gluck, Abt, Schubert. Also—

STUDENT'S PART-SONGS, AND GERMAN VOLKSLIEDER.

BOOK 4.

(Soprano, Alto, Tenor, and Bass.)

40 MADRIGALS, by Morley, Dowland, Wilbye, Gastoldi, &c.

CHORUSES, by Weber, Purcell, Auber, &c.

SCOTCH AND WELSH PART-SONGS.

LENT AND EASTER.

JUST PUBLISHED.

ALFRED REDHEAD'S

CROSS OF CALVARY

(THE SEVEN LAST WORDS).

Words and Music, price Threepence.
Words only, per 100, price Two Shillings.

FRANK ADLAM'S ANTHEM

I WILL RANSOM THEM

Price Threepence.

CLEMENT LOCKNANE'S ANTHEM

AND WE DECLARE UNTO YOU

Price Threepence.

GEORGE BELCHER'S ANTHEM

HE HATH REDEEMED US

Price Threepence.

CLEMENT LOCKNANE'S ANTHEM

CHRIST IS RISEN

Price Threepence.

MATHIAS & STRICKLAND, 23, Princes Street, Cavendish Square, W.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER

(PUBLIC SCHOOL EDITION)

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

Where the whole verses are to be sung by the congregation they are marked by a line at the side.

Where half-verses are to be sung by the congregation they are printed in italics.

All other verses and half-verses are to be sung by the choir only.

Cloth, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK

A SELECTION OF SINGLE & DOUBLE CHANTS

ARRANGED FOR THE DAILY PSALMS

TOGETHER WITH

SINGLE CHANTS FOR THE CANTICLES

BY

Rev. HENRY J. BIDDER, B.D.

FELLOW OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND VICAR OF ST. GILES', OXFORD,

AND

J. VARLEY ROBERTS,

MUS. DOC., OXON.,

ORGANIST OF MAGDALEN COLLEGE AND ST. GILES' CHURCH, OXFORD.

PRICE, IN PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING.
CLOTH, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO EWER AND CO.

Third Edition. Fifth and Sixth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. Mr. Gaul's works have placed him in the front rank of English composers."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"A career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.'"—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE

GREAT DAY OF THE LORD

SACRED CANTATA

MUSIC BY W. CLARK AINLEY,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Price, in paper covers, 2s.; in paper boards, 3s.; in scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.
Leeds: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN.
Huddersfield: WOOD and MARSHALL.

Edwin Ashdown's selection of Choruses for Treble Voices.

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT. Price 4d. each net.

1. Steersman, steer our bark. Three-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
2. The winds now are still. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
3. Spinning chorus. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) .. Wagner
4. Singing liketh me. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
5. Parting. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
6. The Mermaids. Three-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
7. Raise high the song. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. Wagner
8. Adown the wav'ring billows. Three-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
9. 'Tis ours this happy season. Two-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
10. Barcarolle ("Oh! 'tis pleasant"). Three-part (Oberon) Weber
11. Whispering breezes. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
12. Joy! joy! joy! Three-part (Knight of Palestine) .. Weber
13. The earth is clothed in flowers. Four-part (Fall of the Leaf) O. Barri
14. With hearts of joy. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. O. Barri
15. Sing, sweet bird. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. .. O. Barri
16. Haste to the church! Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
17. Chorus of angels. Four-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
18. Awake from slumber. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. F. Abt
19. O'er the flower-bespeckl'd meadows. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
20. I saw a land of wondrous beauty. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
21. Come, let us wreathe the bridal flowers. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
22. Now on music's wings. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
23. Homeward we are wending. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
24. Trip it lightly, gaily, brightly. Three-part (Harvest Queen) Godwin Fowles
25. Angel of peace. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. .. Wagner
26. In Thee we trust. Three-part (Pilgrims' Chorus, Tannhäuser) .. .. Wagner
27. Awake! awake! Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
28. Music and sunshine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
29. Joyous our life. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
30. Sing, sisters, sing. Four-part (All-Hallow Eve) .. B. Gilbert
31. Sunrise. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. .. F. Romer
32. Sunset chorus. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. F. Romer
33. Our old piano. Three-part .. .. F. Auger
34. Home bells. Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
35. Dear home. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
36. Summer. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
37. For thee hath beauty. Three-part (Oberon) .. .. Weber
38. I remember one eve. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
39. Vintage time. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
40. Odours come with quiet spell. Three-part (A Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
41. Sad is the parting. Two-part (Volkslied) .. .. .. German
42. Not in our grief alone. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
43. A Christmas song. Two-part .. .. A. Adam
44. The Hymn of peace. Two-part .. .. .. W. H. Callcott
45. O! Southern wind. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
46. Dwellers of the spirit land. Two-part .. .. .. O. Barri
47. 'Tis summer. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
48. O! come to the grove. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
49. The snow. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
50. Come back. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
51. A Christmas carol. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
52. The midnight bell. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Roeckel
53. Where the scented violet. Two-part (The Magic Well) F. Abt
54. See, the star of eve. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
55. The cuckoo kept calling. Two-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
56. Come, let us go. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
57. We will seek thee. Two-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
58. We are only village maidens. Two-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
59. John Peel. Two-part (Hunting song) .. .. D. Pentland
60. O! come hither. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
61. O! give thanks. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
62. O! praise the Lord with me. Two-part (Sacred Mendelssohn
63. Hark! the hunter's merry horn. Two-part .. L. Zamboni
64. Old English pastimes. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
65. The organ-grinder. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
66. The happy fireside. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
67. Hark! from yon old abbey. Two-part .. .. J. Barnett
68. Merry May. Two-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
69. The Alpine sisters. Two-part .. .. .. D. Tagliafico
70. Heap high the golden corn. Two-part .. .. .. Raphael
71. Lull'd by the silence. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
72. Fairy sisters. Two-part .. .. F. Packer
73. Merry May. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
74. The swallows' return. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
75. The sea-nymphs. Two part .. .. T. Distin
76. Merrie gipsies. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
77. Hail! pretty babe. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
78. Sleigh-bells. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
79. For so hath the Lord. Two-part (St. Paul) .. Mendelssohn
80. And Paul came to the congregation. Two-part Mendelssohn
81. To God on high. Three-part (Chorale, St. Paul) Mendelssohn
82. O! Thou true and only light. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
83. How lovely are the messengers. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
84. Away! away! Three-part .. .. J. L. Roeckel
85. The angels' song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
86. A farewell. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
87. The dawn. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
88. Come away to the woods. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
89. Miserere Domine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
90. Rest while the noon. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
91. At break of day. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
92. Haste away. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
93. The morn is bright. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
94. Hail to thee. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
95. Around the maypole. Three-part (May-tide) .. P. Mazzoni
96. O'er the smiling meadows. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
97. O! praise the flow'ret sweet. Three-part .. F. F. Rogers
98. She sleeps. Three-part (The Magic Flower) .. F. F. Rogers
99. So pure, a sister's tender love. Three-part .. .. Weber
100. Gone is every pleasure. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
101. From Oberon in fairyland. Three-part .. .. .. Stevens
102. Blow, gentle gales. Three-part .. .. Bishop
103. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre. Three-part .. .. Bishop
104. The winds whistle cold. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
105. The chough and crow. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
106. Sound the loud timbrel. Three-part .. .. .. Avison
107. Ye shepherds tell me (The wreath). Three-part Mazzinghi
108. Harvest home. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop and Foster
109. But now the pearl-crown'd moon. Three-part E. Aguilar
110. O! find a song. Three-part (Summer Night) .. ..E. Aguilar
111. When the wind blows. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
112. A lullaby Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
113. Come over the hills. Three-part .. .. H. Foster
114. The sower. Three-part .. .. D'Albano
115 Home and rest. Three-part .. ..C. Pinsuti
116. Memories. Three-part .. ..C. Pinsuti
117. Good-bye, sweetheart, good-bye. Three-part .. J. L. Hatton
118. The city of the king. Three-part .. .. O. Barri
119. Erin mavourneen. Three-part .. .. .. J. L. Hatton
120. Blessed are the poor in Spirit. Three-part (Sacred) .. Mozart
121. Through the old cloisters. Three-part .. .. Beethoven
122. Roll on, fair orb. Three-part .. .. .. Beethoven
123. In Thee I trust. Three-part (Sacred) .. .. .. Handel
124. Ring on, sweet bells. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
125. The minstrel. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
126. An evening song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
127. The wood-nymph's home. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
128. The songs our fathers loved. Three-part .. Wagner
129. Gipsy chorus. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
130. Now to the fair. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
131. Yet droops the maiden. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
132. Deign to forgive the gipsy maid. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
133. The maiden's dream. Three-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
134. From out Thy starry dwelling. Three-part (Prayer, Moses in Egypt) .. .. Rossini
135. Father of Heaven. Three-part (Prayer, Masaniello) Auber
136. A sylvan song. Three-part .. .. Wagner
137. A lady fair (Villanelle). Three-part .. .. Niedermeyer
138. Stay, prithee, stay. Three-part .. .. Bishop
139. O! skylark for thy wing. Three-part .. .. Mendelssohn
140. Light as fairy foot can fall. Three-part .. .. .. Weber
141. The evening bell. Two-part.. .. .. Zamboni
142. Haste thee, boatman. Two-part .. .. .. F. Kücken
143. On the margin of that river. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
144. Bird of the morn. Two-part.. .. .. .. Henry Smart
145. Wandering wind. Two-part.. .. .. .. Henry Smart
146. Song of the sea breezes. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
147. Heavenly music. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
148. Adieu, ye woodlands. Two-part .. .. F. Abt
149. Nightingales are singing. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
150. Sing to me, gondolier. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
151. Now, merry fays. Two-part .. .. C. Gounod
152. The voices of Spring. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
153. The haymakers. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
154. Now the meadows. Two-part .. .. Lotti
155. In Thy service. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. J. Blockley
156. I think of thee. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
157. O! ye sunny hours. Two-part .. .. .. R. Schumann
158. Good night. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
159. Cradled by the heaving billow. Two-part .. .. H. Foster
160. Serenade. Two-part .. .. J. B. Wekerlin
161. The sailor's return. Three-part .. .. .. Wagner
162. The song of June. Three-part .. .. .. Mendelssohn
163. Singing in the rain. Two-part .. .. .. J. P. Knight
164. The ferry boat. Two-part .. .. L. Williams
165. When spring descendeth. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
166. Where art thou, beam of light? Three-part .. .. Bishop
167. Far away. Two-part .. .. J. R. Thomas
168. Italy's music. Three-part .. .. C. E. Horn
169. Nina's farewell. Two-part .. .. Pergolesi
170. The gipsy home. Two-part .. .. Herbert Foster
171. Three vivandières. Three-part .. .. F. Schira
172. Peace. Two-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
173. Sing, pretty maiden. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
174. Angelus. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Wallace
175. Pretty gitana. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Wallace
176. Alas! those chimes. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
177. Turn on, old time. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
178. God save the Queen. Three-part .. .. National
179. Say, sad heart, why art thou beating? Two-part .. F. Abt
180. Eve's lamentation. Two-part .. .. .. M. P. King
181. Thy spirit is near. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK. HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON. TORONTO.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind! ..	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ..	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.)..	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.) ..	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ..	3d.	The Dream of Home ..	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter ..	2d.
Over the mountain side ..	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
The Stormy Petrel.. ..	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ..	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES FOR S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.) ..	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE CLANSMEN. By T. W. BLAKEY. "This is a stirring part-song (S.A.T.B.) dedicated to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. The music is bright and cheerful, without being commonplace."—Monthly Journal (N.S.P.M.). Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SIX
ELIZABETHAN PASTORALS

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B.) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

1. To his flocks	3d.	4. Sweet love for me	3d.
2. Corydon, arise	3d.	5. Damon's Passion	3d.
3. Diaphenia	2d.	6. Phœbe	3d.

ALSO

FOUR PART-SONGS.

1. Soft, soft wind	2d.	3. Airly Beacon	2d.
2. Sing heigh-ho!	2d.	4. The Knight's Tomb ..	2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co.

WILLIAM J. YOUNG'S

POPULAR FOUR-PART SONGS for S.A.T.B.

I love the Merry Springtime	27th thousand	..	2d.
Gaily thro' the Greenwood	55th ,,	..	2d.
England's Glory, and Forest Echoes ..	8th ,,	each	3d.
Fairy Revels	13th ,,	..	3d.
Blow, ye balmy breezes, blow	9th ,,	..	3d.
The air resounds with music sweet ..	3rd ,,	..	2d.
Sunny Rays, and The Streamlet	5th ,,	each	3d.
The coming of spring	4th ,,	..	3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.;
Manchester: HIME and ADDISON.

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

CASES

FOR BINDING THE NUMBERS FOR THE PAST YEAR,

VOL. XXXIII.,

Are now ready, and may be had of all Musicsellers in Town and Country.

CLOTH, BEVELLED BOARDS, HANDSOME DESIGN IN BLACK,

PRICE 1S. 6D.

Title-page and Index may be had gratis on application.
Cases for the Volumes from 1877 (Vol. xviii.) can also be had.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.	4. The Skylark.
2. The Nightingale.	5. The Owl.
3. The Dove.	6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE OLD CLAVIERS (A. J. HIPKINS).—See February Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the Play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

By EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.
PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO HENRY VIII.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

ARRANGEMENT FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE, 3S.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE CANDIDATES'

PRACTICAL SCALE AND ARPEGGIO HANDBOOKS

SPECIALLY ARRANGED FOR THE USE OF STUDENTS PREPARING FOR THE EXAMINATIONS (PIANOFORTE) OF THE

Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music

BY

GRAHAM P. MOORE

(Member of the Examining Staff of the Associated Board).

Compiled in strict accordance with the Syllabus of the Associated Board, and each Book containing full directions as to the requirements of the Examiners. Issued in four Books, each book being complete in itself, and containing only those scales required by Candidates for their respective Examinations.

BOOK I. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS, Lower Division } Price 1/- net.

BOOK II. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL SCHOOL EXAMINATIONS, Higher Division } Price 1/6 net.

BOOK III. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS, Junior Grade } Price 1/6 net.

BOOK IV. contains all Scales and Arpeggi required by Candidates preparing for the LOCAL CENTRE EXAMINATIONS, Senior Grade.

This last Book is in Two Parts:—

Part 1. Scales .. .. .. Price 2/- net.
„ 2. Arpeggi .. .. .. „ 2/- „

ROBERT COCKS & CO., 6, New Burlington Street, London, W.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately. Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

GEORGE L. ALLAN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

INTERVAL EXERCISES

FOR SINGING CLASSES

TO WHICH ARE ADDED A FEW TWO-PART TIME EXERCISES

BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

Price Eightpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. EDWARD STUBBS, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SIXTY-ONE

MELODIES AND UNFIGURED BASSES

(To be Harmonized in Four Parts)

For the use of ADVANCED MUSICAL STUDENTS and CANDIDATES FOR DIPLOMAS

BY

ROWLAND M. WINN, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.C.O.

Price One Shilling.

"Both the melodies and the basses are designed with no little ingenuity, and form the means of bringing out in the student all the amount of skill of which he may be possessed."—Musical Times.

PART-SONGS

By the same Composer:

EVENING BELLS (6th thousand) .. .. 2d.
GO! HARK! (Hunting Song) .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WORKS BY F. DAVENPORT,

Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music.
Published under the Authority of the Committee of the Royal Academy of Music.

s. d.

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC. Crown 8vo 1 0

"In the space of some fifty pages the reader will find all that is necessary to be known about the pitch of notes, intervals, and scales, rests, time, and abbreviations, and will, we doubt not, also find how much there is of which he was ignorant concerning these subjects, although he had already flattered himself that he had mastered their elements a long time ago."—Saturday Review.

ELEMENTS OF HARMONY AND COUNTERPOINT. Crown 8vo 2 6

This work is intended to meet a growing demand for a more concise and simpler exposition of the Day theory. It includes as much of the science of Counterpoint as is necessary for students who enter for the Royal Academy, Local, and other similar examinations.

QUESTIONS AND EXERCISES. For the Use of Students of Music. By F. DAVENPORT, Professor of Harmony and Composition at the Royal Academy of Music, and J. PERCY BAKER, Associate of the Royal Academy of Music. Crown 8vo 1 0

A GUIDE TO PIANOFORTE STUDENTS. By F. DAVENPORT and J. PERCY BAKER. Crown 8vo 1 0

London: LONGMANS, GREEN and Co.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the AUTHOR, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, JOSEPH WILLIAMS, 24, Berners Street, W.

BOEKELMAN'S EDITION
OF BACH'S FUGUES

PRINTED IN COLOURS.

In this Edition the essential parts of each Fugue—viz., Subject, Answer, Counter-subject, Episodes, &c., are each printed in a distinct colour, with a view to helping the Student to a clear understanding of the structure and form of the composition.

Book I. contains—

Vol. 1. Fugue 3, C sharp major. | Vol. 1. Fugue 10, E minor.
" 1. Fugue 4, C sharp minor. | " 2. Fugue 7, E flat.

Book II. contains—

Vol. 1. Fugue 1, in C. | Vol. 1. Fugue 21, in B flat.
" 1. Fugue 7, in E flat. | " 1. Fugue 22, in B flat minor.

Price Two Shillings net each Fugue.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Sole Agents for Great Britain and the Colonies.

Fourth Edition.

FIRST STEPS for CHOIR BOYS. By JAMES H. SIMPSON. Price Twopence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE TRUTH about STAMMERING.—Any one interested will receive the latest information and important books on the cure, on loan, post-free, without charge, from Ithuriel, Messrs. Deacon's, 154, Leadenhall Street, E.C.

MAXWELL'S GUIDE TO THE MUSICAL PROFESSION.

Special to all Teachers, Vocalists, Organists, Choirmasters, the Clergy, Choral and Orchestral Societies, Composers, all Students, and the public generally.

Don't fail to order a copy of "Maxwell's Guide" in time. The most interesting Directory and best value ever offered. Price 1s. 6d. net, post-free.

J. MAXWELL and Co., 14 & 15, Southampton Buildings, Holborn, W.C.
WEEKES and Co., Hanover Street, W.
HAWKINS and Co., 17, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Just Published.

Dedicated, by gracious permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

MOURN IN HOPE

LINES ON THE DEATH OF
H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CLARENCE AND AVONDALE
BY ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON
AND SET TO MUSIC BY
SEBASTIAN B. SCHLESINGER.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

A PRAYER TO SLEEP. Song. The words written by PHILIP BOURKE MARSTON; the music composed by MARGUERITE MARIGOLD. Price 2s. net.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORATORIOS BY GEO. SHINN,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.
SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Tenth Thousand.

THE CAPTIVES OF BABYLON

Price 2s. Cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

"May be highly commended as an interesting and valuable addition to our shorter Oratorios and Cantatas, and contains several solos of much beauty; also duets, quartets, and choruses in great variety."—Sunday School Chronicle.

"The libretto is well chosen, and forms a good base whereon to compose a first-rate work. With regard to the music we feel we can hardly do it justice. . . . Where all is so good it is difficult to mention any special numbers."—United Service Gazette.

Just Published.

LAZARUS OF BETHANY

Price 2s. Paper boards, 2s. 6d.; cloth, 3s. 6d.; Sol-fa, 1s.

The above Works contain many effective Solos and Choruses of moderate difficulty, and will take about an hour and a half in performance.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Just Published.

HORA NOVISSIMA

The Rhythm of Bernard de Morlaix on the Celestial Country
SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY
HORATIO W. PARKER
(Op. 30).

Composed for the Church Choral Society, New York.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

BUTTERCUPS AND DAISIES

A PASTORAL CANTATA FOR CHILDREN'S VOICES
Written by EDWARD OXENFORD.
COMPOSED BY
EATON FANING.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

BOOK 15.
SOFT VOLUNTARIES
FOR THE
ORGAN
COMPOSED BY
GEORGE CALKIN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW MUSIC by T. E. SPINNEY. Words by AMY THORN. THE SINGER, NOT THE SONG. Price 2s. net. (One of the prettiest songs of the day.)
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

CROSSING THE BAR. Song. Compass, D flat to E flat. Composed by VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM. Price 2s. net.
REID BROS., 436, Oxford Street, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

ROSE MAIDEN (COWEN). About forty copies, VOCAL SCORE, cheap. R. H. Weldon, Lymington, Hants.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
ABRANYI, K.—Csardas nobles. Books 1 to 6 .. .. each	4	0
AFFERNI, UGO.—Miniature Suite .. .. .. complete	5	0
No. 1. Arioso; No. 2. Intermezzo; No. 3. Walzer; No. 4. Gavotte .. .. each	2	0
BLUMENFELD, FELIX.—Three Etudes. Op. 3:—
No. 1.	3	0
„ 2.	2	0
„ 3.	3	0
—— Two Nocturnes. Op. 6:—
No. 1.	3	0
„ 2.	3	0
DUBOIS, TH.—Meditation-prière. For Strings, Oboe, Organ, and Harp or Pianoforte .. .. net	10	0
—— Fantaisie triomphale. For Organ and Orchestra:—
Full Score .. .. net	10	0
Parts .. .. „	25	0
FLÜGEL, E.—Four Pieces. Op. 31:—
No. 1. Nocturne; No. 2. Romanza; No. 3. Impromptu; No. 4. Toccata .. .. each	2	0
FLÜGEL, G.—Two Pieces. For the Organ. Op. 104:—
No. 1. Toccata; No. 2. Fuga .. .. .. each	3	0
GRIEG, E.—"Peer Gynt." Second Suite. For Orchestra. Op. 55:—
Full Score .. .. net	10	0
Parts .. .. „	24	0
Pianoforte Solo .. .. „	1	8
Pianoforte Duet .. .. „	2	2
—— "Dance arabe." From the above, for Pianoforte .. „	1	1
—— The same, arranged as Duet .. .. „	1	1
HERZOGENBERG, H. v.—Quartet. For Pianoforte, Violin, Viola, and Violoncello. Op. 75	20	0
—— "Dainu Balsai." Litauische Volkslieder. Arranged for Pianoforte Duet. Op. 76	6	0
—— Sonata, No. 3 (in D minor). For Pianoforte and Violoncello. Op. 78	10	0
—— Quintet (in C minor). For Two Violins, Two Violas, and Violoncello. Op. 77:—
Score and Parts	24	0
HOFMANN, J. C.—Thema, Variationen, and Fuga. Op. 14 ..	6	0
—— Two Pieces. For Pianoforte. Op. 15:—
No. 1. Scherzo; No. 2. Mazurka .. .. .. each	3	0
—— Deux Mazurkas. Op. 16 .. .. „	3	0
—— Op. 17. No. 1. Andante; No. 2. Presto .. .. „	3	0
KOCH, F.—Vier lyrische Stücke. Op. 14	5	0
NIELSEN, G.—Quartet (in F minor). For Strings	12	0
PESSARD, E.—Presto, dans le Style ancien. For the Pianoforte	4	0
—— "Les Pifferari." For the Pianoforte	4	0
—— Aubade Venitien. For the Pianoforte	4	0
PIUTTI, C.—Five Chorals. For the Organ. Op. 19	5	0
—— Fest-Hymnus. For the Organ. Op. 20	4	0
—— In Memoriam. Pastorale and Fuga on G-A-D-E. For the Organ. Op. 21	3	0
SAINT-SAËNS.—Op. 93, No. 1. Sarabande. For Strings:—
Score .. .. net	1	0
Parts .. .. „	1	6
—— The same, arranged for Violin and Pianoforte .. „	2	0
—— Op. 93, No. 2. Rigaudon. For Orchestra:—
Full Score .. .. „	4	0
Parts .. .. „	5	0
—— The same, arranged for Violin and Pianoforte .. „	2	6
THIÉRIOT, F.—Sonata, No. 2 (in A major). For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 58	12	0
—— Sinfonietta. For Orchestra (Allegro moderato, Romanza, Tarantella). Op. 55:—
Full Score .. .. net	16	0
Parts .. .. „	32	0
—— Sonata (easy). For Pianoforte and Violoncello. Op. 56 ..	6	0
TOTTMANN, A.—"Princess Edelweiss." Fairy Cantata. For Soli, Three-part Female Chorus, and Orchestra or Pianoforte. (English and German words.) Op. 43:—
Vocal Score .. .. net	10	0
VON WILM, N.—Sonata. For Pianoforte and Violoncello. Op. 111	16	0
WEBER, JOS. MIROSLAW.—Quartet (in C minor). For Strings	14	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

FESTIVAL SETTINGS

OF THE

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

WITH ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR ORGAN AND ORCHESTRA

Barnby, J. (in E flat)	8d.	Martin, George C. (in A)	6d.
Bennett, G. J. (in A)	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in A)	6d.
Bridge, Dr. J. F. (in G)	6d.	Stainer, Dr. (in B flat)	6d.
Calkin, J. Baptiste (in G)	6d.	Stanford, C. Villiers (in A)	6d.
Faning, Eaton (in C)	6d.	Steggall, Dr. (in C)	6d.
Gadsby, Henry (in C)	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in F)	4d.
Lloyd, C. H. (in F)	6d.	Tours, Berthold (in D)	6d.
Mann, A. H., Dr. (in E)	1s.	Williams, C. L. (in F major)	4d.
Martin, George C. (in C)	6d.	Wood, W. G. (in B flat)	6d.

Cantate and Deus (in C), Dr. Steggall, 6d.

The above may also be performed either with strings and organ accompaniment, or with organ only, when necessary.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

VESPER HYMN. To be sung after Evensong. Words and music by GEORGE KETT. "A very charming hymn-tune."—Sir John Stainer. On card. Price One Penny.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Words alone, for congregational use, One Shilling per hundred, of the AUTHOR, 100, Gordon Road, Nunhead, S.E.

PART-SONGS for TREBLE VOICES

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

EDITED BY

MRS. CAREY BROCK

AND

M. A. SIDEBOTHAM

(Editors of the "Children's Hymn-Book," &c.)

Price One Shilling each part.

PART I. CONTAINS:—

HAIL! STAR OF EVE	R. SPOFFORTH.
HERE IN COOL GROT	Lord MORNINGTON.
THE WREATH	J. MAZZINGHI.
EVENING	HENRY SMART.
TO STAY AT HOME IS BEST	BERTHOLD TOURS.
THERE IS A SPIRIT SINGING AYE IN AIR ..	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.

PART II. CONTAINS:—

BLOW, GENTLE GALES	Sir HENRY BISHOP.
THE BIRD AT SEA	HENRY SMART.
ELVES OF THE FOREST	MOZART.
BIRD OF THE WILDERNESS	BURNHAM W. HORNER.
BOSCOBEL	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.
ALL AMONG THE BARLEY	ELIZABETH STIRLING.

PART III. CONTAINS:—

MAY DAY	MÜLLER.
GLORIOUS APOLLO	SAMUEL WEBBE.
THE CORALL'D CAVES OF OCEAN	HENRY SMART.
IN SLEEP THE WORLD REPOSES	RICHARD HOL.
FAIR SUMMER MORNING	F. SOR.
IF SHE BE MADE OF WHITE AND RED ..	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.

PART IV. CONTAINS:—

FROM OBERON, IN FAIRYLAND	R. J. S. STEVENS.
LULLABY	STORACE.
SEE THE CHARIOT AT HAND	WM. HORSLEY.
NOW GOLDEN DAY AGAIN IS DAWNING ..	MOZART.
OH! SKYLARK, FOR THY WING	HENRY SMART.
SWEET CONTENT	M. A. SIDEBOTHAM.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CANTATAS FOR FEMALE VOICES.

	s.	d.
FRANZ ABT.
The Fays' Frolic	2	6
The Water Fairies	2	6
The Silver Cloud	2	6
The Wishing Stone	2	6
Minster Bells	2	6
The Golden City	2	6
Springtime	2	6
Summer	2	6
WILFRED BENDALL.
The Lady of Shalott	2	6
CHARLOTTE SAINTON-DOLBY.
Florimel	2	6
MYLES B. FOSTER.
The Bonnie Fishwives	2	6
The Angels of the Bells	1	6
BATTISON HAYNES.
The Fairies' Isle	1	6
H. HOFMANN.
Song of the Norns	1	0
JOHN KINROSS.
Songs in a Vineyard	2	6
HENRY LAHEE.
The Sleeping Beauty	2	6
Tonic Sol-fa edition	0	6
C. HARFORD LLOYD.
The Gleaners' Harvest	2	6
G. A. MACFARREN.
Songs in a Corn-Field (new edition)	2	6
MENDELSSOHN.
A Midsummer Night's Dream	1	0
PERGOLESI.
Stabat Mater	1	0
E. PROUT.
Queen Aimée	2	6
HENRY SMART.
King René's Daughter	2	6
CHARLES VINCENT.
The Village Queen	2	6
The Little Mermaid	2	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS
FOR THE
ORGAN.

No.			s.	d.
1.	Two Introductory Voluntaries ..	George J. Bennett	1	0
2.	Three Andantes	Hamilton Clarke	2	0
3.	Postlude (Christmas)	G. M. Garrett	1	6
4.	Andante con moto	G. M. Garrett	1	0
5.	Interlude for Advent	Oliver King	1	0
6.	Prelude for Lent, Op. 10, No. 2 .. / Fantasia on a Theme by Hermann Goetz, Op. 20	Oliver King	1	0
7.	Three Pieces: (a) Baptism, (b) Wedding, (c) Burial	A. C. Mackenzie (each)	1	0
8.	Voluntary for Christmas	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
9.	Voluntary	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
10.	Short Voluntary for a Time of Sorrow ..	Ridley Prentice	0	6
11.	Short Voluntary for Lent	B. Luard Selby	1	0
12.	Postlude in C minor	C. Steggall	1	0
13.	Concluding Voluntary or Fantasia (Lent)	C. E. Stephens	1	0
14.	Three Canons	W. G. Wood	2	0
15.	Allegretto	C. H. Lloyd	1	0
16.	Allegretto in D	B. Luard Selby	1	0
17.	Three Pieces: No. 1, Allegretto moderato; No. 2, Andante con moto; No. 3, Processional March	H. M. Higgs	2	6
18.	Andante in G	Herbert W. Wareing	1	0
19.	Andante in A and Minuet in A	C. Harford Lloyd	1	6
20.	Allegro ma non troppo	Oscar Wagner	1	0
21.	Processional Wedding March	Henry R. Bird	1	0
22.	Rêverie	B. Luard Selby	1	0
23.	Three Pieces in F, D, and G	B. Luard Selby	1	6
24.	Marche Sérieuse	B. Luard Selby	1	0
25.	Six Miniatures	Oscar Wagner	2	6
26.	Three Preludes	John E. West	1	0
27.	Communion in D flat / Preludium e Fughetta	B. Luard Selby	1	0
28.	Introduction and Fugue	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
29.	Allegretto	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
30.	Andante and Fugue	B. Luard Selby	1	6
31.	Pastorale and Melody in A flat	B. Luard Selby	1	6
32.	Orchestral March	B. Luard Selby	1	0
33.	Sonate	Oscar Wagner	1	6
34.	Sketch in C minor	John E. West	1	0
35.	Fugue in E minor	John E. West	1	0
36.	Minuet and Trio	B. Luard Selby	1	0
37.	Andante in B flat, and Short Postlude ..	B. Luard Selby	1	0
38.	Sarabande	B. Luard Selby	1	0
39.	Postlude in D	B. Luard Selby	1	0
40.	Andante Grazioso	C. S. Heap	1	0
41.	Fantasia in C	Berthold Tours	1	6
42.	Allegretto Grazioso	Berthold Tours	1	0
43.	Menuetto	Berthold Tours	1	0
44.	Postlude	Berthold Tours	1	0
45.	Fantasia in C minor	W. S. Hoyte	1	6
46.	Four Short Voluntaries	Kate Westrop	1	6
47.	Concert-Fantasia and Fugue	W. G. Wood	2	0
48.	Sonata in D minor	Charles H. Lloyd	2	6
49.	Andante in E, Minuet and Trio, No. 2, in A minor	B. Luard Selby	1	6
50.	Postlude in D	W. G. Wood	1	0
51.	Allegro in C	W. G. Wood	1	0
52.	Melody in B flat	Arthur Carnall	1	0
53.	Three Andantes	Hamilton Clarke	1	6
54.	Postlude, in B flat	John E. West	1	0
55.	Allegro in form of a Minuet	W. G. Wood	1	6
56.	Allegro ma non troppo	H. M. Higgs	1	6
57.	Prelude and Fugue	H. M. Higgs	1	6
58.	Mélodie, Prière, Pastorale	H. M. Higgs	1	6
59.	Offertoire in D minor	H. M. Higgs	1	6
60.	Andantino in D	J. Barnby	0	6
61.	Communion and Larghetto	Edouard Batiste	1	0
62.	Prelude and Postlude	Edouard Batiste	1	6
63.	Andante in A flat and Pastorale in F ..	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
64.	Grand Offertorio in A	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
65.	Minuet in B flat	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
66.	Larghetto in C	C. J. Frost	1	0
67.	Fantasia in B flat	C. J. Frost	1	0
68.	Sonatina in C	C. J. Frost	1	6
69.	Andante Moderato in A	G. M. Garrett	1	6
70.	Prelude in C minor	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
71.	Allegro Marziale	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
72.	Prelude and Fugue in A minor	Ch. Grædener	1	0
73.	Andante in F	J. W. Gritton	0	6
74.	Marche Triomphale in E flat and Postlude in F	Alex. Guilmant	1	6
75.	Fantaisie sur Deux Mélodies Anglaises	Alex. Guilmant	1	6
76.	Festal March in E flat	C. S. Heap	1	6
77.	Fantasia on Mendelssohn's Volkslied ..	Geo. Hepworth	1	6
78.	Prelude in G	W. Macfarren	0	6
79.	Religious March in E flat	G. A. Macfarren	1	0
80.	Andante in G and March	G. A. Macfarren	1	0
81.	Variations on the Psalm-tune "Windsor"	G. A. Macfarren	1	0
82.	Andante in D	H. S. Oakeley	1	0
83.	Præludium et Fuga	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
84.	Prelude in C sharp minor	W. Parratt	0	6
85.	Postlude in C minor	E. Prout	1	0
86.	Andante in E flat and Postlude in C ..	F. J. Read	1	0
87.	Andante Serioso in D minor	C. Reinecke	0	6
88.	Allegro vivace in D	C. T. Speer	1	0
89.	Prelude and Fugue in E minor	C. V. Stanford	1	6
90.	Postlude in C	H. J. Stark	1	0
91.	Allegretto Pastorale in A and Fugue in D minor	C. Steggall	1	6
92.	Offertoire in F	C. E. Stephens	1	0
93.	Concert-Fantasia in D minor	R. P. Stewart	1	6
94.	Fugato in C	Ph. Tietz	1	0
95.	Pastorale in E flat and Concluding Voluntary, Fugato in G minor	Ph. Tietz	1	0
96.	March in F	J. H. Wallis	1	0
97.	Voluntary (Grave and Andante)	S. S. Wesley	1	0
98.	Concert-Fantasia, D minor	Johann Worping	1	6
99.	Theme in A	F. W. Hird	1	0
100.	Maestoso alla marcia	F. W. Hird	1	0
101.	Postludium in F	Algernon Ashton	1	6
102.	Postlude in C minor	C. S. Heap	2	0
103.	Offertoire	J. F. Barnett	1	6
104.	Scherzo Symphonique	Albert Renaud	1	0
105.	Marche Solennelle (from Leavy)	Albert Renaud	1	0
106.	Meditation (from Nicou-Choron)	Albert Renaud	1	0
107.	Andante Religioso (from Nicou-Choron)	Albert Renaud	1	0
108.	Toccata in D minor	W. G. Wood	1	6
109.	Introduction and Variations	B. Haynes	2	0
110.	Three Offertories	Hamilton Clarke	2	0
111.	Pastorale	B. Luard Selby	1	0
112.	Six Easy Voluntaries	Kate Loder	2	0
113.	Twelve Characteristic Pieces. Book I.	Rheinberger	1	6
114.	" " " " II.	Rheinberger	1	6
115.	" " " " III.	Rheinberger	1	6
116.	" " " " IV.	Rheinberger	2	0
117.	Festal March	G. Calkin	1	0
118.	Romance	Battison Haynes	1	0
119.	Larghetto	F. E. Gladstone	1	0
120.	Solemn March	B. Luard Selby	1	6
121.	Elegy	B. Luard Selby	1	0
122.	Festival Præludium	Otto Dienel	1	6
123.	Concert Fantasia (No. 1)	Otto Dienel	2	0
124.	Concert Fantasia (No. 2)	Otto Dienel	1	6
125.	Adagio	Otto Dienel	1	0
126.	Andante Pastorale	Algernon Ashton	1	6
127.	Concert Overture in C minor	W. G. Wood	1	6
128.	Minuetto	George Calkin	1	0
129.	Postlude	George Calkin	1	0
130.	Nuptial March	B. Luard Selby	1	0
131.	Six Short Pieces (Nos. 1, 2, 3)	W. G. Wood	1	6
132.	Six Short Pieces (Nos. 4, 5, 6)	W. G. Wood	1	0
133.	Monologues (Nos. 1 to 3)	J. Rheinberger	1	0
134.	Monologues (Nos. 4 to 6)	J. Rheinberger	1	6
135.	Monologues (Nos. 7 to 9)	J. Rheinberger	1	6
136.	Monologues (Nos. 10 to 12)	J. Rheinberger	1	6
137.	Andante Grazioso	Percy W. Pilcher	1	0
138.	Andante con moto	A. H. Allen	0	6
139.	Introduction and Air, with Variations ..	W. G. Wood	2	0
140.	Six Easy Voluntaries (second set)	Kate Loder	2	0
141.	Fantasia Sonata on the Ancient Melody for "Dies Iræ"	B. Luard Selby	2	6
142.	Sonata on a German Chorale	Oliver King	2	0
143.	Fantasia	E. Silas	2	0
144.	Allegretto Pastorale	H. W. Wareing	1	0
145.	Sonata in D minor	Alfred Alexander	3	0
146.	March in C	H. Elliot Button	1	0
147.	Festival March	H. W. Wareing	1	6
148.	Short Offertory in F	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
149.	Andante	Arthur Henry Brown	1	0
150.	Meditation	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
151.	Andante in D minor	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
152.	Idyl	Hamilton Clarke	1	0
153.	Meditation	E. Townshend Driffield	1	0
154.	Pastorale	E. Townshend Driffield	1	0
155.	Offertoire	E. Townshend Driffield	1	6
156.	March (For a Church Festival) ..	E. Townshend Driffield	1	0
157.	Tempo di Minuetto	E. Townshend Driffield	1	0
158.	Andante (Ave Maria) / Fugue	E. Townshend Driffield	1	6
159.	Tempo di Minuetto	W. A. C. Cruickshank	1	6
160.	Adagio in A	Otto Dienel	1	0
161.	Scherzando in A minor	Otto Dienel	1	0
162.	Adagio in D	Otto Dienel	1	0
163.	Concert Fugue in E minor	Otto Dienel	1	6
164.	Two Preludes	Percy W. Pilcher	1	6
165.	Offertory in F	G. F. Blatch	1	0
166.	Church Preludes (Nos. 1, 2)	R. Ernest Bryson	1	0
167.	Church Preludes (Nos. 3, 4)	R. Ernest Bryson	1	0
168.	Church Preludes (Nos. 5, 6)	R. Ernest Bryson	1	0
169.	Postlude in G	H. Elliot Button	1	0

(To be continued.)

Nos. 41 to 45, and 60 to 100, from "The Organist's Quarterly Journal."

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

VOICE TRAINING STUDIES

SEQUEL TO "VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES"

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

WITH TONIC SOL-FA TRANSLATION BY KATE BEHNKE.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

The unprecedented success of "Voice Training Exercises" is the best proof that they supplied a real want with regard to the cultivation of the singing voice, and we are thereby encouraged to issue a set of "Voice Training Studies" as an additional step in the same direction. These Studies are intended for the formation of style and are written progressively in three different parts, corresponding in compass with those of the Exercises, so that they may serve as companion volumes or as supplements.

58TH EDITION.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.
"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.
"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR

CHIEFLY SELECTED FROM THE CELEBRATED TUTOR OF LABLACHE.

Comprising directions for the formation and cultivation of the Voice, after the Methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of Progressive Lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggios, &c., with an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. Editions for Soprano, Tenor, Contralto, or Bass .. .. each net s. 2 d. 6

LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Soprano or Tenor .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Medium Voices .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano .. .. net 2 6
This Edition can also be used for a Bass Voice.
LABLACHE VOCAL EXERCISES .. .. net 2 6
This celebrated work is very largely used by singing masters, and at all the principal Schools of the United Kingdom.

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

A COLLECTION OF
GLEES, MADRIGALS, PART-SONGS, &c., FOR ALL VOICES.
CONTAINING WORKS BY
GOUNOD, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, J. L. HATTON, &c.
LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORKS FOR TONIC SOL-FA.

FAUST

A Dramatic Legend by HECTOR BERLIOZ. Price 3s. 6d. net.
A Tonic Sol-fa Edition of this celebrated Work. Just Published. Price 2s. 6d. net.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS

Cantata written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY. Music by GEORGE FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net.
Edition for Tonic Sol-fa. Just Published. 1s. 6d. net.

Orchestral and Chorus Parts of the above may be had on Hire of—

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND ST., LONDON.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Wednesday, February 1, 1893.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 601.—Vol. 34. Registered for transmission abroad. MARCH 1, 1893. Price 4*d.*; Post-free, 5*d.* Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5*s.*

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

WEDNESDAY, March 8, at Eight,

HANDEL'S "ISRAEL IN EGYPT."

Miss ANNA WILLIAMS, Miss M. HOARE, Miss CLARA BUTT, and Mr. EDWARD LLOYD. Organist: Mr. HODGE. The Duet, "The Lord is a Man of War," will be sung by 400 Tenors and Basses.

Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s. Gallery (Promenade only), 1s.

GOOD FRIDAY, March 31, at Seven,

HANDEL'S "MESSIAH."

Madame NORDICA, Miss CLARA BUTT, Mr. BEN DAVIES, and Mr. ANDREW BLACK.

Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s. Gallery (Promenade only), 1s.

NONCONFORMIST CHOIR UNION.

The Committee offer PRIZES for MS. COMPOSITIONS as follows. It is intended that these shall be performed, if possible, at the Annual Festival at the Crystal Palace in 1894:—

A Prize of Five Guineas for an Anthem.
A Prize of Three Guineas for a Secular Vocal Piece.
A Prize of Two Guineas for a Hymn Tune.

Particulars and conditions may be obtained from Mr. T. R. Croger, 114, Wood Street, London, E.C.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE Limited.

Founded 1878.—Incorporated 1893.

Central Office, 113, Great Portland Street, Oxford Street, W.

Principal: Professor EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.
Vice-Principal: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

LOCAL PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS may take place at any time (excepting in the months of August and September) at the various centres throughout the United Kingdom.

LOCAL THEORETICAL EXAMINATIONS on May 17 and November 29.

THE HIGHER EXAMINATIONS for the Diplomas of A.Mus. M.I.C. and L.Mus.M.I.C.; also the Certificates of Associate Pianist, Associate Vocalist, Associate Violinist, Associate Organist are held in May and November, and at other times as may be found necessary.

CERTIFICATE HOLDERS and others wishing to further the objects of the College may be admitted as Members.

Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d.; Life, £10 10s.

W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Bac., Secretary.

THE MUSICAL ARTISTS' SOCIETY

(Established 1874).

The Musical Artists' Society affords opportunity to Composers for the performance of their works. Executants have also the advantage of public appearances. The Annual Subscription, due January 1, is One Guinea, which entitles each Member or Associate to admission and also to an extra Ticket for each Concert. The Concert Programmes are made up of Chamber Music, either entirely new or of acknowledged excellence, and at each Concert one or more Standard Classical Works will be introduced.

ALFRED GILBERT,
The Woodlands, 89, Maida Vale.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:
The Right Hon. THE MARQUIS OF LORNE, K.T.
The Right Hon. THE EARL OF DARTMOUTH.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate (L.Mus. V.C.M. and A.Mus. V.C.M.) and of Associate and Licentiate Organist, Pianist, Vocalist, and Violinist, will take place during Easter week. Local Examinations during March and April.

For further particulars apply to the Secretary.

By order of the Council.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Fortnightly Concerts, March 11 and 25, at 8.

Lectures by W. H. Cummings, Esq., Wednesdays, March 1, 8, 15, 22, and 29, at 3.

Orchestral Concert at St. James's Hall, March 28, at 3.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

MR. RICHARD MACKWAY'S SCHOOL OF VOCAL MUSIC,

295, OXFORD STREET, W.

(100 Yards West of Regent Circus).

Inclusive Fees for Private Lessons and all the Classes, from 2½ Guineas per Term. Classes alone, from 7s. per Term. Pupils can join at any time during the Term on payment of proportionate Fees. Prospectuses post-free upon application.

Mr. Richard Mackway can recommend the following, his Pupils, for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.:—

Miss JANE HUNGERFORD	SOPRANO.
Miss LOUISE WEAVER	CONTRALTO.
Mr. EDMUND BADGER	TENOR.
Mr. GILBERT THORNE	BARITONE.

Mr. ISIDORE MARCIL (Bass) has been engaged by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company.

Applications to Mr. Richard Mackway, at the School; or, at 36, Priory Road, Bedford Park, Chiswick.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

March 7, at 8, Lecture by Dr. J. Warriner, on "Transposition."

May 2, Lecture by Dr. F. J. Sawyer, on "Grieg's Harmony," with Vocal and Instrumental Illustrations.

May 8, Annual College Dinner, at 7.

The College Library and Rooms are open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.

Head Master .. .. JAMES STERNDALE BENNETT, M.A.

Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.

Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.

The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

THE HOPE-JONES ELECTRIC ORGAN CO., LTD.

DIRECTORS.

THOMAS THRELFALL, Esq., Chairman of the Committee of Management of the Royal Academy of Music, and Chairman of Threlfall's Brewery Company, Limited, Chairman.

G. A. WALES BEARD, Esq. (Messrs. Norman Brothers and Beard), Norwich.

WILLIAM CRESER, Esq., Mus. Doc., Oxon., Organist and Composer to Her Majesty's Chapel Royal, St. James's Palace, S.W.

WILLIAM D. HALL, Esq., Organist and Professor of Music at the Church and School for the Blind, Liverpool.

ROBERT HOPE-JONES, Esq., M.I.E.E., Consulting Electrician and Engineer, Birkenhead (Managing Director).

The Directors of the Hope-Jones Electric Organ Company, Limited, in view of important orders now on hand, invite subscriptions for the balance of the preference shares (£10) unissued, entitling holders to a cumulative preferential dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, and also to further participation in profits, in accordance with the terms of the original prospectus, copies of which, with application form, can be obtained from the Managing Director, Birkenhead, or the Secretary, 4, Huggin Lane, Queen Victoria Street, London, E.C. Intending Subscribers are invited to inspect the Factory, 55 and 57, Argyle Street, Birkenhead.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MISS ETHEL BARNES (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes.
Address, 32, St. John Street, Lichfield.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS MABEL G. BERREY (Soprano)
Oratorios, Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Care of Forsyth Bros., 267, Regent Street, London; and 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MADAME CONWAY (Soprano)
53, Robert St., Upper Brook St., Chorlton-on-Medlock, Manchester.
Terms for Oratorios and Concerts, &c., and Press Notices on application.

MISS MABEL CROSS (Soprano)
(Of the Royal College of Music, London).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Concerts, &c. Winsford, Cheshire.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Lyndhurst, Hendon, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS EUGENIE FAULL (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, 77, St. Agnes Pl., Kennington, S.E.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 33, Hamilton Terrace, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ROSA HYDE (Soprano)
Opera, Concerts, &c.
Address, 29, Berners Street, Oxford Street, W.

MISS ELLEN INGHAM (Soprano)
(Late Student, Royal Academy of Music, London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 9, Albert Road, Colne, Lancs.

MRS. BROWN JAMESON (Soprano)
At liberty for Oratorio and Ballad Concerts.
All applications to be addressed to Mr. N. Vert, 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 75, Friern Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MADAME BELLA MONTI (Soprano)
For Oratorios and Concerts, please address, Messrs. Healey and Son, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

VOICE PRODUCTION and SOLO SINGING.
Pupils received on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays, at Henry Klein's Pianoforte Galleries, 84, Oxford Street, W.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Festival Services, &c. Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MASTER GEO. TURNBULL SINCLAIR (Sop.)
For Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, and Banquets. Highly recommended. Terms, &c., 102, College Place, Camden Town, N.W.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
42, Pembridge Road, W.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 76, Calabria Road, N.

MISS PATTIE MICHIE, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c. 10, Springfield Road, N.W.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Vocalist, Armley, viâ Leeds.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.
"The evening concert given at the Vestry Hall, Tooting, Graveney, on Tuesday, by Miss Isabelle Waters, was distinctly a success. Miss Waters sang 'Lieti Signor' ('Gli Ugonotti') artistically, being recalled, and 'War and Romance' (E. Parnum) pleasingly, but was heard to even greater advantage in Mascagni's popular Intermezzo 'Ave Maria' ('Cavalleria Rusticana'), for which she was enthusiastically encored."—Musical Standard, Feb. 4, 1893.

MR. MUNRO DAVISON, F.C.O.
(Principal Alto, Temple Church).
For Concerts, Banquets, &c., 101, Tollington Park, N.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c.
46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. SINCLAIR DUNN (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Opera, his popular Entertainments, or Concerts, and the "Balfe Quartet," address, 67, Berners Street, W.

MR. GEORGE GREEN (Tenor)
(Of the Liverpool Cathedral).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 99, Cedar Grove, Liverpool.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(Principal Tenor, St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W.).
Darlington Choral Society, "Samson."—"Mr. James Leyland is new to Darlington audiences, but it cannot be long before we shall have the opportunity of hearing so admirable a tenor again. His voice is rich, and his vocalisation in the elaborate arias as neat as an instrumentalist could make it. No less admirable is he in the pathetic airs, and 'Total Eclipse' was delivered in a most touching manner. As far as it is safe for any one to prophesy, we have no hesitation in saying there is a brilliant future before Mr. Leyland."—Northern Echo, February, 15, 1893.
For terms and vacant dates, apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. S. MASTERS (Tenor)
(Principal Tenor, Chapel Royal, Hampton Court).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Brighton Road, Surbiton.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor)
(Of St. George's Chapel, Windsor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. WILLIAM WHITE (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 70, Fentiman Road, Clapham Road, S.W.

MR. EDWARD MARLOWE (Baritone)
Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts. 25, Winterwell Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. J. W. RENDER (Baritone)
(Pupil of Signor Gustave Garcia, R.A.M.).
Address, 94, Hill Street, Garnethill, Glasgow.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. MUSGROVE TUFNAIL (Baritone)
22, Ferndale Road, Clapham, S.W.

MR. JNO. W. GREENWOOD (Bass)
For Concerts Ballads, &c. 140, Queen's Road, Halifax.

MR. CHARLES ACKERMAN (Bass Baritone)
(Soloist, Westminster Abbey and St. Peter's, Eaton Square),
73, Eccles Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.

"LAST JUDGMENT" (Spohr) at St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—"The quartet of soloists all did well, but we cannot help saying that the gentleman by whom the bass solos were sung is an artist with qualifications for a high position. He has a good voice, and uses it as a vocalist should, while, in point of expression, he leaves scarcely anything to desire."—Daily Telegraph, London, Dec. 2, 1892.

"ELIJAH."—"Mr. Ackerman showed himself to be a finished singer."—Daily Gazette, Exeter, Dec. 21, 1892.

"Mr. Ackerman is the happy possessor of a very full, soft voice, rather of the baritone than the pure bass quality, with a particularly clear and resonant timbre. He phrases carefully and with great expression."—Morning Leader, London, February 10, 1893.

PROF. BRIDGE'S LECTURES, Gresham College.—"Mr. C. Ackerman was a most capable vocalist."—Musical News, February 18.

Engaged: March 1, 2, 3, 4, 7, 9, 10, 11, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 21, 23, 24, 25, 30, and 31. Address as above.

MR. T. KEMPTON (Bass)
MASTER SYDNEY LOVETT (Soprano)
For Lenten Services, Oratorio, and Ballad Concerts, &c.

Master Lovett has sung with remarkable success the following works—viz., "St. John's Passion," "Mors et Vita," "Gallia," "St. Paul," "Hear my Prayer," "Messiah," "Last Judgment," "Daughter of Jairus," "Holy City," &c.

For terms, vacant dates, and for Quartet Party, address, Thomas Kempton, 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

MR. HENRY SUNMAN, L.R.A.M. (Bass)
For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. ALEXANDER TUCKER
(Basso Profundo).

THE Newcastle Daily Chronicle says :—

"Mr. Alexander Tucker is a splendid bass singer. A great future ought to be in store for such a clever young basso. His voice is one of the richest and deepest before the public, and it is equally effective in serious and rollicking songs. He created a furore.

Address, St. Audries, Enfield, N.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead.

"Mr. Preston's reputation as an Organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of our representative English Organists."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.

"Mr. Preston is a local Professor, and a performer of the very first rank. It is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU
(Violinist, A.L.A.M.).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, The Fernery, Sidcup, Kent.

MR. A. TOASE, A.C.O. (Accompanist)
For Concerts, At Homes, Choral Societies. Private Lessons. Deputy-Organist. Address, 11, Eade Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MASTER T. HOPKINS (SOLO BOY).—Testimonial from SIR JOHN STAINER, Mus. Doc., Oxon., Nov. 22, 1892: "I have been much pleased with the admirable singing of your chorister, Master T. Hopkins, and I congratulate you on having such an excellent exponent of your skill and ability as a trainer of boys' voices."

PRESS NOTICE EXTRACTS.—"Much artistic finish. . . . Voice sympathetic, beautiful quality."—Guildhall Concerts, Plymouth.

"Much sweetness and power. . . . sang charming manner. . . . Beautiful finish, characteristic Mr. Blaxland's pupils."—Somerset Standard.

For engagements of all kinds. May be heard by appointment. Terms, &c., apply, Mr. Benham Blaxland, 11, Powis Square, W.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER, Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Will take pupils.

MISS MARGARET HOARE requests that all communications respecting Engagements for Concerts, &c., may be addressed to her at 15, Mowbray Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

MADAME LITA JARRATT (Pupil of Mr. Wm. Shakespeare), having returned from the Continent, requests all communications as to Concerts, Pupils, &c., to be addressed to 29, Offley Road, Stockwell, S.W.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—MR. DAN PRICE (Baritone, of Westminster Abbey) begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 37, Torrington Square, W.C., where all communications respecting Concert, Masonic, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons should be addressed.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS LANE (Accompanist) can undertake to play from manuscript. References: Miss Zippora Monteith and Mr. Isidore de Solla. 38, Beckenham Road, S.E.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER, Pianist, L.R.A.M. (Perf. and Teacher); Pupil of Hy. Eyers, R.A.M., Prof. Heinrich Barth (Court Pianist, Berlin), and Woldemar Bargiel; highly certificated from the Berlin Königliche Hochschule für Musik (Principal, Dr. Joachim), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Special terms for Schools. Highest testimonials. Prepares for all Examinations. Address, 2, Colosseum Terrace, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

SOLO SINGING and VOICE PRODUCTION.—Mr. GEO. F. GROVER (Organist and Choirmaster, St. Peter-le-Poor, Old Broad Street) gives LESSONS in above, at West End Studio, 84, Oxford Street, and Bank Chambers, 133, Aldersgate Street, E.C.

MISS
FANNY BOUFFLEUR
(PRINCIPAL SOPRANO, St. Peter's Church (Catholic), Seel Street, Liverpool).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Répertoire includes "Messiah," "Elijah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Creation," "Acis and Galatea," "Alexander's Feast," "May Queen," "Rose Maiden," "Bride of Dunkerron," &c.; also "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Imperial Mass" (Haydn), "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart), "Requiem" (Mozart); Haydn's, Hummel's, Mozart's, and Beethoven's Masses and Motets, Cherubini's Mass in C, "O fons amoris," "Alma Virgo," "Ave Maria," &c.

For complete répertoire, Press opinions, photo, &c., address, 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool; or, Agent, N. VERT, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS
MARIE HOOTON
(CONTRALTO)
(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)
AND
MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
(TENOR)
(OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present season.

ALREADY ENGAGED:—

Crystal Palace, Glasgow, Polytechnic, Kennington, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Salisbury, Bermondsey, Leamington ("Redemption"), Woolwich, Northampton ("Lobgesang" and "Bride of Dunkerron"), Bradford, Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Bristol, Clapton, Perth ("Elijah"), Belfast ("Messiah," two Concerts), Pollokshields, Dunfermline ("May Queen"), Paisley ("Redemption"), Dundee ("Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Greenock ("Acis"), Northampton ("Messiah"), Glasgow Choral Union ("Messiah"), Edinburgh Choral Union ("Messiah"), Nottingham (Ballads), Woolwich, Shoreditch, Newport (I.W.), Darwen, Banbury ("Messiah"), Balham, Richmond, Stratford, Yarmouth ("Samson"), King's Lynn, Islington, Bow and Bromley ("Acis"), St. James's Hall ("Joshua"), Mossley ("Judas"), Blackpool ("Messiah"), Biggleswade ("Creation"), Workington ("Messiah"), Burton-on-Trent (Ballads), Llanelly (Ballads), Accrington ("Sun Worshippers"), Maidstone, Ipswich, Sheffield, Worthing ("Eli"), Epsom ("Elijah"), Dover, Ipswich ("Sleeping Beauty"), Cambridge ("Shunamite"), Sheffield, Bedford, New Cross ("Stabat Mater" and "Widow of Nain"), Brockley ("Golden Legend"), Dowlais, Pontypool ("Samson"), Woolwich, Stratford, Malvern ("Lobgesang"), Chester ("Ancient Mariner"), Blackburn ("Lobgesang"), Edinburgh ("Sleeping Beauty"), Ipswich ("Sleeping Beauty"), Rochester ("Last Judgment"), New Brompton, &c.

For vacant dates and terms, please address, 37, Torrington Square Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W

MR. JAMES BATES, Director of the Choir of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W., provides SOLO BOYS for Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, &c. Only perfectly reliable vocalists recommended. Address as above.

THE

MEISTER GLEE SINGERS

(Anglo-American Quartet).

Alto .... Mr. WILLIAM SEXTON.

Tenor .... Mr. GREGORY HAST.

Baritone .... Mr. WILLIAM FORINGTON.

Basso .... Mr. WEBSTER NORCROSS.

THE MEISTER GLEE SINGERS' AUTUMN TOUR WILL BE UNDER THE MANAGEMENT OF MR. N. VERT.

EXTRACTS FROM PRESS OPINIONS.

WINDSOR CASTLE, December 10th, 1892.

"The Meister Singers have just given a performance before the Queen at Windsor Castle by command. The Duke of Edinburgh had heard the quartet at Plymouth recently, and at his Royal Highness's instigation they were summoned to Windsor, where they sang in the White Drawing Room a selection of glees before Her Majesty and the Royal suite. The Duke of Edinburgh was present, and took great interest in preparing the programme and in pointing out the beauties of the music to the Queen. He afterwards presented the singers to Her Majesty, who was so pleased with the performance that she said, 'The four voices are lovely. I am quite charmed with your singing.'"—Pall Mall Gazette, December 15, 1892.

"The Queen gave a charming musical entertainment on Saturday evening to the numerous and illustrious party assembled at Windsor Castle. Included in the Royal circle were the Prince of Roumania, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh and their daughters, and Prince and Princess Henry of Battenberg, while Her Majesty's other guests and the ladies and gentlemen of the Royal Household in Waiting were also present in the Drawing Room to listen to the Concert. The programme included a selection of vocal pieces, performed by the Meister Glee Singers. The clever Anglo-American quartet had not previously sung before the Queen, and now owed that honour to express recommendation of the Duke of Edinburgh, who on a recent occasion was much impressed by their talents. Her Majesty was greatly pleased, particularly with the musical jest entitled 'An Italian Salad.'"—Daily Telegraph (London Day by Day), December 12, 1892.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, LONDON.

"These genuine artists, gifted with exceptionally excellent voices, are masters of all styles of vocalisation, and not only in concerted pieces, but also in solo passages, they sang with a purity of intonation, a distinctness of enunciation, and a command of all kinds of expression, 'from grave to gay, from lively to severe,' which gratified skilled musicians as well as the amateur public."—Sporting and Dramatic News, January 30, 1892.

PROVINCIAL TOUR IN OCTOBER AND NOVEMBER, 1892.

BIRMINGHAM.

"The Meister Glee Singers repeated their triumph of last season. Anything more finished and delicate than the singing of these four gentlemen would be difficult to imagine. No such singing in our time has ever been heard. The Meister Glee Singers carried all before them."—Birmingham Mail, October 4, 1892.

"We really think the Meister Glee Singers carried off the vocal honours of the evening. . . . The performances of the Meister Glee Singers were a series of triumphs."—Birmingham Daily Post, October 4, 1892.

BRISTOL.

"In a city like Bristol, where male voice choruses are noted for their fine singing, such beautiful voices as those possessed by the Meisters are specially prized. More lovely singing than that heard on the Colston platform could not be hoped for."

"The Meister Glee Singers achieved a veritable triumph."—Bristol Times and Mirror, October 5, 1892.

HANLEY.

"Bracketed with Madame Nordica came the Meister Glee Singers. There is a peculiar charm about voices in harmony which defies definition. Be the number four or five hundred, we are conscious of a feeling of delight in hearing them. But when we have four men, with voices of more than average merit, and trained to sing together, giving us moreover music to which the most fastidious musician may attend without losing his self-respect, then we are indeed happy. All this the Meister Glee Singers gave us, and the audience was not slow to show them how highly they were appreciated. The programme contained four items to be rendered by them, and these, it is almost needless to say, were extended to seven, which would certainly have been eight had 'Tom, the Piper's Son' held any other position than at the end of the Concert."—Staffordshire Evening News, October 7, 1892.

SUNDERLAND.

"But the Meister Glee Singers were the gems of the evening. They were delightful."—The Lady, November 3, 1892.

"Perhaps the greatest revelation was the Meister Glee Singers. Altogether the Meister Glee Singers were the feature of the Concert."—Sunderland Echo, October 14, 1892.

HUDDERSFIELD.

"The Meister Quartet, however, raised the first genuine burst of enthusiasm. . . . Their performances were amongst the best of the evening."—Bradford Observer, October 10, 1892.

DERBY.

"There can be no doubt that the most popular items on the programme were those contributed by the Meister Glee Singers."—Derbyshire Advertiser, October 20, 1892.

EDINBURGH.

"The Meister Glee Singers, with their perfect art, gave great satisfaction."—Musical Times, London, December, 1892.

"To many of the audience the most acceptable items in the programme were the contributions of the Meister Glee Singers."—Scottish Leader, November 1, 1892.

IPSWICH.

"The prospect of hearing the Meister Glee Singers caused a great rush for seats. The house was densely packed. They sing with exquisite pathos and perfection of harmony."—Suffolk Chronicle, Nov. 12.

"The art of which they are supreme masters. . . . To their united efforts much of the enjoyment of an eminently enjoyable Concert must certainly be ascribed."—East Anglian Daily Times, November 9, 1892.

MANCHESTER.

"Chief of the vocalists were the Meister Glee Singers, who had been unable to keep their prior engagement with Mr. Barrett owing to a command to sing before the Queen at Windsor Castle. . . . The Meister Glee Singers have on several previous occasions delighted Mr. Barrett's patrons with their perfect vocalisation, and it is a matter of regret that no further opportunity of hearing them in Manchester during the present season will be afforded. Besides several songs their concerted pieces called forth the utmost enthusiasm. Few more piquant vocal compositions exist than the musical jest, 'An Italian Salad' (Genée-Perkins), and it was rendered with great success. To the inevitable encore the party responded with 'The Old Folks at Home,' the solo having an imitation vocal banjo accompaniment, startling in its realism. The humorous glee, 'Little Jack Horner,' one of Caldicott's productions, created even greater pleasure. Spontaneous laughter was heard in all parts of the room, and a boisterous encore resulted, to which the singers responded with another humorous glee, 'Down in a flowery vale.' As a quartet these four gentlemen, Messrs. Sexton, Hast, Forington, and Norcross, have no equals. Their singing is pure music. What a treat it would be to hear them take the whole of a musical service at the Cathedral."—Manchester Examiner, February 13, 1893.

EDINBURGH.

"The audience appeared to find the greatest pleasure in the music provided by the Meister Glee Singers, a party of four gentlemen who have appeared already several times in Edinburgh, and never without signal success. The perfection of balance and of blend, the unanimity of attack and movement, the beauty of tone and variety of expression attained by this quartet are things that literally beggar description. They have to be heard to be appreciated. Whether in the serious or in the comic line, the singing of this party is quite unique. The part-songs, 'In Absence' and 'My Angel,' and the humorous 'Italian Salad' were so much enjoyed that the party had on each occasion to sing again."—The Scotsman, February 18, 1893.

Address—THE MEISTER GLEE SINGERS, 36, Shaftesbury Avenue, W.

Telegraphic Address—"Ensemble, London."

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

Leeds Symphony Concerts, Albert Hall, Leeds.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 15, Vernon Road, Leeds.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.

Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS.
Carefully trained SOLO and LEADING BOYS for permanent Appointments, Festivals, &c.
MR. GEORGE BUDD,
10, Hafer Road, Clapham Junction.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MADAME LESLIE ARNOTT.
MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS.
MR. BOWYER BRISTOL.
MR. EDMUND EDWARDS.
Solo Pianoforte—
MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.
Solo Violin—
MR. W. H. HENLEY.
Solo Harp—
J. H. COCKERILL
(Sir Charles Hallé's Band).

Conductor and Accompanist—
MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Gounod's Opera

PHILEMON AND BAUCIS.

Having made special arrangements with Sir Augustus Harris, the above Party are prepared to accept Engagements for Concert Recitals of the above Opera. For terms address as below.

". . . The whole affair, indeed, was very successful, and reflected the greatest credit upon Mr. Walter J. Evans and his associates in its production."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"The English Concert Party, directed by Mr. Walter J. Evans, gave the first provincial rendering in the Town Hall, and must be complimented on the success of the presentation of the opera."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Applications for terms and vacant dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, London, N.W.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

MESSRS. AUGENER and CO. point out that the Works of M. Moszkowski, J. L. Nicodé, and Xaver Scharwenka, published by them, are their EXCLUSIVE COPYRIGHT for all the British Dominions, and that the importation or dealing in any way with Copies thereof, not emanating from Augener and Co., is unlawful and will be proceeded against accordingly.

ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN.—Rossini's STABAT MATER will be sung, with Full Orchestral Accompaniment, on Tuesday, March 21, at 8 p.m. For tickets, apply, enclosing stamped and addressed envelope, to Rev. E. A. Harris, St. Alban's Clergy House, Brooke Street, Holborn, E.C.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),

35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.

Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

For Organists, Choirmasters, Precentors, and Choristers.

President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

Annual Subscription (Membership), 10s. 6d.; Life, £5 5s.
Choirs Enrolled in Union, 10s. 6d.

July, 1893.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G.
Full set of last Examination Papers, post-free, 13 stamps.

The 1893 Calendar gives full particulars of the Guild, also contains a Table of University Degrees and College Diplomas, with Academic Costume, post-free, 14 stamps.

April.—Lecture by Dr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. Doc., Cantab. Admission free, by Ticket only.

For further particulars see The Church Musician, and apply to Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By Order of the Council.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1892); L.R.A.M., 1893; L.L.C.M., 1893; F.C.O., 1893; A.L.C.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M., 1892. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS and Three Silver Medals. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First Exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. MSS. Revised. Fifty successes annually.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS. D.Mus. Lond., L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS, personally or by post, in the Theory of Music (including acoustics). Recent successes. 48, Highbury Grove, N.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus., T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, HISTORY, &c., by Post. Pupils specially prepared for Examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. J. WARRINER prepares Candidates successfully for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, and receives Resident and Professional Students, on advantageous terms, if talented. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—Mr. ERNEST LAKE, Org. and Mus. Dir., All Saints', Kensington Park, has now a VACANCY for a talented YOUTH. Full Cathedral Services and large Organ with engine. Thorough professional training, with exceptional advantages when qualified. Moderate premium. Address, with full particulars and references, 57, Burlington Road, W.

VOICES TRAINED and SIGHT-SINGING TAUGHT by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions.

THOROUGHLY trained Contralto Vocalist, to increase her Clientèle, will give her services in London and suburbs in Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c, for expenses only. Address, Concert, 24, Glengarry Road, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

SOPRANO.—WANTED, a good LEADER, for a Chapel in the South of London. Two Services. Salary, £20. Apply, by letter, to A. Z., Messrs. S. Straker and Sons, 124, Fenchurch Street, E.C.

CHOIRBOYS.—WANTED, four BOYS, with good voices, for Church Choir. Salary, from £5 to £10 per annum. Apply, Berkeley Chapel, John Street, Mayfair, W., Friday evenings, at 7.30.

ST. ANDREW'S, Stoke Newington, N.—There is an immediate VACANCY for an ALTO at the above Church, owing to the appointment of Mr. C. Ray to Lichfield Cathedral. Salary, £20 per annum. Duties are: Sunday Services (2), occasional Festivals, Evensong on alternate Wednesdays, and rehearsal every Friday. Apply, by letter only, to Choirmaster, 16, Woodberry Down, N., with full particulars and references.

ALTO WANTED, by March 25, Christ Church, St. Marylebone. Salary, £15. Must be good reader. Apply, Mr. Fred. J. Chaffer, Organist and Choirmaster.

BOY ALTOS.—Two WANTED, for Church of St. Lawrence, Jewry, Gresham Street, E.C. Liberal salaries. Good sight-reading indispensable. Apply at the Church on Thursday evenings from 7 to 8.

ALTO, TENOR, and BASS (Voluntary) WANTED, for St. Luke's, Redcliffe Square. Address, W. H. Sampson, 50, Redcliffe Road, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, for voluntary Evening Choir; Travelling expenses. Apply, Tuesday or Friday, after 7; or, by letter, to Mr. George Cooper, Christ Church, Newgate Street, E.C.

WANTED, BASS VOICE for Surpliced Choir at West-End Church. Must be good reader Duties: twice on Sundays, Good Friday, Christmas Day, &c. Apply (with two testimonials only), E. B., 26, Bishop's Road, Paddington. Salary, £12 to £15.

TENOR and BASS (would also assist at organ) will give their services in Church Choir. Experienced readers. Cantors, care of Messrs. Street, 30, Cornhill, E.C.

SOUTH YORKSHIRE ASYLUM, Wadsley, near Sheffield.—ATTENDANT WANTED (Alto or Tenor singer); must possess a good voice, and be able to read vocal music at sight. Wages £30, increasing £2 10s. annually to £55, with board, lodging, and uniform, but no beer. Applications, stating age, height, and whether married or single, to be sent to the Medical Superintendent, and those only deemed suitable will receive communications in reply.

DEPUTY-ORGANIST (Churchman and Communicant) in North London WANTED, immediately. Two week-day practices, two Sunday Services, Choral Services. Complete 3-manual organ. Salary, £30 to £40. Apply, at once, to W. J. Letts, 51, Vartry Road, Stamford Hill.

WANTED, an ORGANIST for the South Norwood Congregational Church. Services, Sundays and Wednesdays. Apply to W. V. A., 18, Belgrave Road, South Norwood.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Excellent testimonials. Would deputise. Anglican, E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER requires APPOINTMENT, or as Deputy to Cathedral or other Organist of standing or Musicmastership in School. Experienced. Organist, Benington Rectory, Boston.

THE ASSISTANT-ORGANIST of a West-End Church desires to hear of an APPOINTMENT immediately. Clerical and professional references if required. Please address, L. C. 65, The Chase, Clapham.

MUSIC MASTER WANTED, early in May, for an important Preparatory School, but not near London. Instrumental instruction both to Pianoforte and Violin Pupils. In addition Master must be able to train a Singing Class and play the Harmonium for Prayers. The whole of the Master's time is engaged. Salary, £160, non-resident. Apply to Askin, Gabbitas and Thring, 36, Sackville Street, W.

THE late SECRETARY and MANAGER of a large Public School of Music, with Concert Hall, seeks similar APPOINTMENT. Thoroughly understands organisation of Concerts, &c. Good book-keeper. Excellent references. Substantial guarantee if required. Address, Secretary, 17, Pandora Road, West Hampstead.

TUNER (Outdoor) WANTED. Alfred Phillips has a Vacancy for a good TUNER at his Ealing Establishment. Apply, 10 till 3 (not Saturdays), in first instance, at 8, Oxford Market, near Oxford Circus, W.

PIANOFORTE SALESMAN WANTED. One who is competent to Tune Pianofortes and Organs in stock ready for delivery. Town near Birmingham. Send photo and references, and state wages required, to live in, in addition to board and lodging, to J. S. T., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER.—WANTED, a First-class PIANOFORTE TUNER. Permanency for a good steady man. References, &c., to Trichord, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER.—WANTED, a YOUNG MAN, about 25, for in and out-door work. Must be thoroughly proficient. Address, stating previous experience, salary required, and references, to Messrs. Rogers and Priestley, Music Warehouse, Colmore Row, Birmingham.

WANTED, for the Country, a PIANOFORTE TUNER (equal temperament), with a knowledge of Harmoniums and American Organs. Must be thoroughly competent, steady, and reliable. Address, with references, stating age and salary required, to B. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANO TUNER and REGULATOR.—A thoroughly good FINE TUNER WANTED. Also a Second Hand. Characters must bear strictest investigation. Permanent situations to reliable men. State age, references, and wages required. Smith, 179, Oxford Road, Manchester.

PIANOFORTE TUNER WANTED. Must be thoroughly experienced and used to high-class work. Permanent situation to a capable man of good address and first-class references. Apply, stating salary required, age, &c., to Alderson and Brentnall, Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

WANTED, a thorough REPAIRER, who understands Pianos, American Organs, and Small Goods. Must be able to polish. Bertram Isaacson, 30, High Street, Newport, Mon.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Good knowledge of American Organs, Harmoniums, and repairs. Tuner, P. F., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER, by a competent Young Man, holding excellent tests. Can play well. Apply, Fred. Slipper, 11, Lorne Street, Gibbet St., Halifax, Yorkshire.

YOUNG MAN (20) requires SITUATION as JUNIOR TUNER. Has had three-and-a-half years' experience. Apply to W B., 202, Great Colmore Street, Birmingham.

PIANOFORTE, Harmonium, and American Organ Tuner and Repairer wants SITUATION. Aged 21. Apply, A. H. Bailey, 31, Bridewell Street, Devizes.

JUNIOR TUNER.—A YOUNG MAN desires an ENGAGEMENT as above. Factory experience. Small repairs. Fine ear. Can try a Piano. Energetic. Good address and references. Height, 5 ft. 11 in. Non-smoker. H. H. B., Blanchett and Son's Pianoforte Warehouse, Slough.

ADVERTISER, having had five years' country experience, seeks SITUATION as TUNER in Warerooms or Factory. Letters, Hilbert, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

A VACANCY for APPRENTICE to the PIANOFORTE TUNING will shortly occur. Full board and lodging for three years. Usual premium (£50) required. Address, John Parker and Co., The Parade, Beckenham, Kent.

GHUBI NEWCOMBE never fails to please in adapting words to Composer's MS. Music. Penketh, Warrington.

A LADY offers comfortable and refined HOME in the healthiest and best part of N.W. district to Ladies from the country studying at the Colleges of Music or Art. 'Bus and rail most convenient for Royal Academy of Music. Terms moderate. Apply, L. M. N., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN (22), of good address, seeks SITUATION in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Good musician; excellent character; references; terms moderate. Apply, D. D., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG MAN (19) desires a SITUATION in a MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Knowledge of sheet music and musical instruments. Good testimonials. W. H. M., Novello & Co.

WANTED, to PLACE a BOY (15) in a London Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Good Pianist, also good writer. Address, J. W., 24, Quick Road, Wimbledon, Surrey.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, E. Organ and Piano Lessons by a F.C.O.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

NEW IMPERIAL PIPE ORGANS (Two manuals). Suitable for Mission Churches, Colleges, practice, &c. From 40 guineas. Made in portable sections. ORGANS (new and second-hand), Two manuals, with 6, 9, 12, 17, and 26 stops. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

FOR SALE.—A two-manual AMERICAN ORGAN, separate pedal reeds, by a well-known London maker. New in November last year. Price 30 guineas. A. C., 10, Tabernacle Avenue, Barking Road, Plaistow, E.

AMERICAN ORGAN (Clough and Warren); good condition. 3 sets of reeds, 7 stops. List price, 18 gns.; to be sold for 9 gns. Beddow, 147, Auckland Road, Upper Norwood, S.E.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE (new). £250. Great: Open, 56; stopped and clarabella, 56; gamba, 56; dulciana, 44; principal, 56; fifteenth, 56; flute, 44. Swell: Double, 44; open stopped bass, 56; Lieblich, 56; Vox Angelica, 44; gemshorn, 56; fifteenth, 56; cornopean, 56; hautboy, 44. Pedals: Bourdon, 30; great to pedals, swell to pedals, swell to great, swell octave; three compositions to great and three to swell; tubular pneumatic to pedals. Pitch pine case. Samuell and Twyford, Abbey Works, Montague Rd., Dalston.

ORGAN.—Two manuals, pipe top, by Bell. Scribner tubes. 20 stops. Cost £90. Equal new. Sell cheap for cash. W., 171, Churchill Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

CC ORGAN for SALE and HIRE, on easy terms of payment. Price very low. 3 manuals, 30 stops, 2 on pedals, 3 reeds. Apply, G. T., 23, Brunswick Street, Poplar.

ORGAN for SALE (Second-hand), by Bishop. Two full manuals and pedal organ. 17 stops. Very fine rich tone. Suitable for a large place of worship. May be seen, and particulars had of Henry Jones and Sons, 70, Park Walk, Fulham Road, London, S.W.

SECOND-HAND CHURCH ORGANS.—No. 1.—Two manuals, 25 stops, with pneumatic action. Rebuilt by Norman Bros. and Beard in 1888. Larger organ wanted.

No. 2.—Two manuals, 30 stops, by Bryceson. Just rebuilt; standing in Factory.

No. 3.—Two manuals, 11 stops. Price £80.

Single Manual Organs. Price £50.

Complete list sent on application to NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Works, Norwich.

WANTED, good Second-hand ORGAN, for Chapel. Specification, price for cash, and dimensions, to Musicus, 38, Richmond Road, Bayswater, W.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d., post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

TO CONNOISSEURS AND THE MUSICAL PROFESSION.

THE

JOSEF GUARNERIUS VIOLONCELLO

(Fecit Cremonæ Anno 1730 ✠ I.H.S.) for SALE, formerly the property of the late

JULES DE SWERT.

Full particulars as to price and arrangement to view on application to Louis Oertel and Co., 69, Berners Street, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

TUNERS, REPAIRERS, &c., requiring Tuning Hammers, Kits (guaranteed), or TOOLS of any description. Reeds, Fittings, Materials. Please send for my complete Price List. Karl Wagenhaus, 2, City Road, Hulme, Manchester.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

WALCKER & CO., ORGAN BUILDERS.

ESTABLISHED 1820, AT LUDWIGSBURG (GERMANY).

Highest Awards: Diplomas of Honour and Grand Gold Medals.

Builders of the celebrated Organs of St. Stephen's Cathedral, Vienna, 104 stops; Dom-Kirche, Riga (Russia), 174 stops; Cathedral, Ulm (Germany), 114 stops; St. Petri Cathedral, St. Petersburg, 76 stops; Temple of Music, Boston (U.S.A.), 110 stops; St. Paul's-Kirche, Frankfort, 82 stops; Gewandhaus and Conservatory of Music, Leipzig; Ministry of Fine Arts, Berlin (Electric action); 33 Organs at Frankfort, 11 at Stuttgart, 10 at St. Petersburg, and the principal Organs at Moscow, Hamburg, Rome, Rotterdam, Bremen, Wiesbaden, Darmstadt, Madrid, Lausanne, Vienna, Leipzig, &c., &c.

Walcker's Tubular Pneumatic and Electric Systems.

Specifications of the Representative for Great Britain,

H. Thieme, 44, Berners Street, London, W.

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, ORGAN BUILDERS, NORWICH, refer with pleasure to the following Organs completed and in course of construction by them:—

King's College, Aberdeen.
Woughton Church, Bucks.
Brentwood Church, Essex.
Christ Church, Blackheath.
Feather Market, Port Elizabeth.
Jesus College, Cambridge.

Illustrated list, with testimonials, &c., sent on application.

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

EXCELLENT TEACHING CONNECTION.—Fine ORGAN and CHOIR-CHORAL CONDUCTORSHIP for DISPOSAL. Income, £400 per annum. Large Northern town. Present Professor has accepted valuable Colonial post. Strictest investigation. Address, Bâton, Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE. Large Tuning and Hiring connection. Handsome, well furnished premises. W. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Collecting orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President: The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.
Warden: Professor E. H. Turpin, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations: Professor Jas. Higgs, Mus.B.

Session 1892-1893.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL SERIES OF LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN INSTRUMENTAL AND VOCAL MUSIC.

The subjects are: Pianoforte, Violin, Organ, Harmonium, and Pianoforte Duet Playing, Solo Singing, and all Orchestral Instruments. The examinations are conducted in two divisions, Junior and Senior, and in Pianoforte and Violin Playing there is also a Primary (Elementary) Division. Pass and honour certificates are awarded in the Junior and Senior Divisions. Arrangements are being made for holding these examinations at the following, amongst other centres:—

In March and April.—Bedford, Bournemouth, Brighton, Cardiff, Dover, Eastbourne, Grimsby, Hastings, London, Nottingham, Oxford, Plymouth, Redhill, Sleaford, Truro, Weston-super-Mare.

In May.—Aberdeen, Ballymena, Belfast, Bolton, Burnley, Brockley and New Cross, Carmarthen, Dublin, Douglas (I. of Man), Elgin, Falkirk, Haverfordwest, Hawick, Inverness, Jersey, Londonderry, Peterborough, Pembroke Dock, Portsmouth, Sheffield, Swansea.

In June.—Aberystwyth, Banbury, Barrow-in-Furness, Bath, Blackpool, Bradford, Brentwood, Bristol, Bury St. Edmunds, Carnarvon, Chatham, Cheltenham, Cirencester, Colchester, Crieff, Dumfries, Dundee, Edinburgh, Exeter, Glasgow, Goole and Howden, Great Yarmouth, Guildford, Halifax, Hull, King's Lynn, Keswick, Lancaster, Liverpool, Llandudno and Colwyn Bay, Macclesfield, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Northampton, Oldham, Perth, Preston, Southport, Southampton, Stockport, Stockton-on-Tees, Surbiton, Swindon, Taunton, Tiverton, Torquay, Walthamstow, West Hartlepool, Weymouth, Whitby, Worcester.

In July.—Bedford, Birmingham, Bodmin, Brighton, Blackburn, Cambridge, Chichester, Croydon, Folkestone, Hereford, Ipswich, Leamington, Leeds, Leicester, London, Lowestoft, Margate, Newport (Mon.), Norwich, Ramsgate, Reading, Shrewsbury, Stroud, Tunbridge Wells, Walsall, Wellington, Wisbech, Wolverhampton, Worthing.

Any or all of the following printed papers may be had on application to the undersigned: (a) Regulations and list of music to be performed for the Local Examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music; (b) List of Local Centres; (c) Regulations for the (Theoretical) Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge; (d) Regulations for the Higher Examinations for Diplomas and Certificates; (e) List of Music to be performed for the Higher Certificates in Vocal and Instrumental Subjects; (f) Prospectus of the Classes and Lectures Department; (g) General Prospectus containing List of Honorary Officers, &c.

By Order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

MUSICAL ORNAMENTATION

PART I.

(FROM DIRUTA TO J. S. BACH)

BY

EDWARD DANNREUTHER.

Price Five Shillings.
Paper Boards, Six Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR MARCH.

Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, Postage free, 2s.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR MARCH

Contains: General Notes—How to combine Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught—Introduction of Two-Part Singing, by Alex. Adamson (Dundee)—The Problem of "Movable Doh," by Florence A. Marshall—Sight Singing and the Mental Effects of Phrases, by Harry Fletcher (Ottawa)—Pitch and the Tonic Sol-fa Notation, by Walter J. Kidner (Bristol)—Test Questions for Pupil-Teachers and Students—Useful School Music—Correspondence, &c.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR MARCH

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"Fairies' Dance." Two-part Song .. By Florence A. Marshall.
"Marching Song." Trio .. .. .. „ Franz Abt.
Exercises in Changing Key and Accidentals „ W. G. McNaught.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "Broadwood" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	Mdme. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

Will be Published March 6.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, March 11.

MASS IN D

FOR SOLO VOICES (OR SMALL CHORUS), CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK

(Op. 86).

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the Full Score by

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Will be Published March 6.

TO BE PERFORMED BY THE HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY, March 20.

THE

PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN

BY

ROBERT BROWNING

SET TO MUSIC

FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
MARCH 1, 1893.

"FALSTAFF" AND THE LAND OF SONG.

"Wonderful thing steam, Sir!" It has long been admitted that the man who offers this remark can lay no claim on the strength thereof to the possession of original thought; but it is a proof that he thinks, and an intellectual exercise of any kind is creditable. Wherefore I am not ashamed to take up the words as I look back upon a recent journey to Milan. Leaving Dover early in the afternoon of one day, the late afternoon of the next saw me in the Lombardian capital, after traversing France and Switzerland, climbing up or burrowing through the Alps, and descending to the plain of Northern Italy. That was something, but not all, nor even the most. Greater than the geographical distance achieved was the gulf crossed from the life of London to that of Milan. I need not describe the first to any reader of these words, but in what it lacks the second consists. It is hard to conceive London in the position of the Italian city, which had one thing chiefly on its mind, and that thing—an Opera. There may have been thoughts, regrets, even despair, concerning the troubles of the Roman Bank, but there was stronger feeling regarding "Falstaff"—latest work of Italy's greatest master, for whom expectant gazers waited day by day if haply he might be seen passing to and from rehearsal. This source of interest, however, was, so to speak, accidental, and, certainly, transient. The permanent differentiation of Milan from our great, material London is its easily recognised atmosphere of artistic life. With opera-houses in full work, with the scales and roulades of countless vocal students audible in otherwise quiet streets, with the shifting groups of operatic artists—ever hopeful, apparently never realising—in the Galleria, and with frequent snatches of tuneful song from light-hearted wayfarers, ignorant of such ditties as "Tar-ra-ra" and "Knocked 'em in the Old Kent Road," it was impossible not to reflect upon the change, or to question the "wonderful" in the agent which brought it about so rapidly.

The time for the production of "Falstaff" had been approximately fixed before I left England, but on arriving in Milan I found the precise day still undetermined. A placard on the walls of La Scala promised the work "next week," and several days passed with "next week" still conspicuous. The eyes of every passer-by sought that placard. It was equivalent to the bulletin which, in cases of emergency, communicates with an anxious public. At length a new one appeared, and word passed round the city that Thursday, the 9th ult., had been fixed upon for the interesting event. This left me an interval of several days in which to search musical Milan for things new and strange. La Scala, one night, offered the first two acts and epilogue of "Cristoforo Colombo"—a prize opera called into being by the recent celebration of the discoverer of America at Genoa. I forget how many thousand francs were won through this work by Signor Franchetti, its composer, who is said to have a large private fortune, and to esteem the first fruits of his talent even more than the wealth he has inherited. Judging "Cristoforo Colombo" by what I heard of it, the adjudicators of the prize could not have had a choice of the very best talent known to our time, and were I called upon for a formal criticism of the opera I should arraign it on several grounds. It is terribly long, for even the portions given at La Scala took up the time of many complete works. There is much in the libretto which could well be spared from a lyric drama designed to celebrate a specific achievement. By the way, the name of the librettist does not appear on the books used at the theatre, for the reason, it seems, that he and the composer have not, in certain matters, seen precisely eye to eye. The gentleman may some day be rather glad than sorry regarding this concealment of his identity, for what could have made him write an epilogue in which the illustrious navigator moans and weeps, goes mad and ramps about the stage, then becomes exhausted and dies before the tomb of Queen Isabella, I cannot for the life of me conceive. A mad baritone with the stage to himself through a quarter of an hour (save for an attendant who exhausts the pantomimic resources of sympathy) is a surprising and disquieting phenomenon in days when even a distraught soprano is "most tolerable and not to be endured." But we need not fear a recrudescence of operatic lunacy through the example of Christopher Columbus, from whom, after a few moments of questioning observation, one prays to be delivered evermore. The first two acts, which concern themselves with the discovery of America and circumstances antecedent, are spectacularly and dramatically good. A procession of the dignitaries to whom Columbus submits his proposal, and by whom it is rejected, gives life and colour to the first act, which reaches its dramatic climax in the scene where the hero, as he emerges from the Council, is derided and set upon by the mob. The second act passes wholly at sea, and shows the mutiny of the crew, and the discovery which transforms them from rebels into the even more objectionable creatures who worship success. Franchetti's music is, in large measure, equivalent to scene-painter's work. Its best effect is made at a distance: the colours are "loud," and laid on without regard to waste of material, and the principal aim of the composer seems to be the keeping up of musical excitement, which, of course, as the work goes on, demands more and more exaggeration of means and method. There are comparatively quiet moments in "Cristoforo Colombo"—very welcome they were to my offended ears—and as they pass it is possible to make out that the composer lacks not some important graces of his craft, but, generally speaking, he employs his full orchestra to the end of relentless noise. I know no opera in which the brass and drums have so few bars to count, and it must be said that the players upon those instruments at La Scala did not shirk their task. Among them was a drummer with prodigious strength of muscle, who, like a similar performer at the Eatanswill election, "earned his money, if ever man did." This energetic artist may, after all, have been striving to remind the audience that music was in progress—a fact which, judging by the very audible conversation of many, and the inattentive bearing of most, was not distinctly recognised. I am told that Scala frequenters go chiefly for the ballet; I can vouch that they all stayed for it.

Signor Sonzogno, by whom Mascagni was discovered, is something more than a publisher. He holds in his hand the wires which move a group of Italian opera-houses, among them the Milanese Dal Verme. This temple of lyric drama was built as a circus, and has, above two tiers of boxes, an enormous gallery sweeping round the house from one side of the proscenium to the other. The area is large, but the gallery stands out as the chief feature of the interior, and when the Milanese throng it, as they are fond of doing, a striking, even impressive spectacle is presented. From that great tribune comes the popular verdict. During one of my visits, some years ago, a poor tenor cracked on a high note. The yell of execration and contempt which followed was loud and long. In vain the unfortunate artist, feebly smiling, laid his hand upon his heart and bowed submission. He was not allowed to proceed till the gallery had quite unmistakably impressed upon him the fact that its multitudinous thumbs were turned down against his appeal for mercy. This terrible gallery was better behaved on the occasion of the visits which I recently paid to Dal Verme at the invitation of Signor Sonzogno. The tiger purred instead of snarling and snapping, pleased by generally good performances, and especially by an orchestra which, I believe, is a permanent organisation, at the director's beck and call for service anywhere in Italy or abroad. It appeared in Vienna not long ago, and, for that matter, has a right to challenge comparison anywhere. Very delicate effects are possible to this well-trained company of instrumentalists, and it was a treat to hear the music of Ambroise Thomas's "Mignon" given with so much refinement and charm. The gallery thought so, and, in one place, stopped the performance to insist that an orchestral passage should be played over again. There are, moreover, some good artists on the stage, but the aim of the management is an efficient ensemble, not the presentation of "stars," claiming to be heard for themselves alone rather than for their share in a common task. In addition to the "Mignon" performance, I witnessed a representation of Saint-Saëns's Biblical opera "Samson and Dalilah." These two works pair off on one point—in each there are scenic requirements that cannot possibly be met without danger of falling into the ridiculous, or worse. The burning of the theatre in "Mignon" is always more or less absurd. At one London representation some time ago supers ran on armed with axes, and raising short ladders, began smashing in the windows, while two or three others threw "imperceptible water" on red fire which a pair of shirt-sleeved arms could be seen in the act of aggravating by stirring up. This impressive exhibition had its counterpart in Milan, where, also, I beheld Samson pull down the Philistine temple under circumstances not unattended by mystery. The columns supporting the roof stood at the back of the stage. These, with the superincumbent mass, fell at the blind hero's touch in a manner effective enough, but the Philistines were well forward, out of harm's way. Nothing touched them, yet—here came in the mystery—they dropped to the ground with one accord, in picturesque confusion of limbs and bodies. Of course there was no other way of doing it without damage to the person. The fault in all such cases lies with librettists, who, by choice of subject or in the exercise of their own invention, give stage-managers an impossible task.

It is a curious question why Frenchmen—of all persons the least qualified, perhaps, to deal with Biblical stories in the right spirit—so often draw upon the sacred writings. The results are sometimes astounding. In Massenet's "Herodiade," for example, John the Baptist appears as a conventional lover of the purest operatic type. In "Samson" there is nothing so bad as that; but the old Hebrew legend, which has strong points as well as weak ones, is put upon the stage in an enfeebled and wholly unimpressive way. A bolder dramatist would have shown the scene in which the Philistine temptress gets possession of Samson's secret. The French librettist, after giving the hero and his mistress a duet in the open, retires them into a house, whence Samson presently emerges shorn of his locks and a prisoner. It is not my business here to criticise the music. I am but recording impressions, one of which is to the effect that the Milanese audience were rather bored by the whole thing. Probably the best numbers in the work—as, for example, the choral pieces of a quasi-religious character—pleased them the least. Upon myself the effect was that of music cleverly written and sometimes impressive, but generally uninspired and dry. The whole matter, however, is practically of little concern for English amateurs. As a Biblical opera, "Samson" holds a place in the Index where our national religious sentiment tabulates all things that offend it.

From these excursions to the Dal Verme I get back to La Scala and "Falstaff." The Verdian law which excludes spectators from rehearsals, relentlessly carried out during the preparation of "Otello" six years ago, was applied with even greater rigour, if possible, in the case of "Falstaff." Neither love nor money, nor any other powerful agent, availed to open the doors of the theatre. The representatives of the French press, I was told, got up a petition setting forth the great and manifest advantage to them of attending one rehearsal, but—albeit the Gallic journalists are terrible fellows and apt at reprisals—the composer declined to grant their prayer. To some extent, however, M. Maurel was able to do them service. The representative of Falstaff gathered the Parisian critics at his rooms—I tell the story in the form it reached me—and took them through the opera as best he could, thus enabling the more impulsive and the more acute to get on with their task before the event. All this time Italian humour, such as it is, played round the mystery of the carefully shrouded work, vowing that every one engaged upon it was bound to secrecy by the most blood-curdling oaths; that a body of armed and determined men searched the theatre from cellar to roof before each rehearsal, and so on in the approved style of imagination when stirred by a sense of wrong. Personally, the matter troubled me little. I cultivate a philosophic calm in such circumstances, and am content to wait the pleasure of the gods. Nevertheless, while it is reasonable to insist on the privacy of rehearsal as a general rule, I see many reasons why an exception should be made in favour of the Press on at least one occasion. Verdi, however, was master and masterful. The decree of universal exclusion went forth, and had to be obeyed willy-nilly.

Rehearsals under lock and key were not the only topic of lively discussion during the days immediately preceding the appointed 9th. There was much talk about the prices charged for tickets admitting to the first performance. Here I should point out that, although La Scala is a very large theatre, the space available for the general public is by no means in proportion. Most of the boxes, for example—there are six tiers of them—are private property, like many of those at the Royal Albert Hall. It is likely enough that some of these came into the market for "Falstaff," and I know of one case in which an hotel proprietor let his freehold for the night for the sum of 800 francs. As much as 1,200 francs was asked and obtained in other instances. To what extent the stalls are private property I am not aware, but it must be obvious that the rights of proprietors very much restrict the accommodation available for the public at large. This led to inflated prices, helped probably by a little skilful manœuvring on the part of speculators and others desirous of turning a penny. I could not get at the precise facts on this matter; what I do know is that two friends of mine paid each 250 francs (something short of £10) for stalls. They did it with wry faces, but they did it, and it is consolatory to know that, after the première of the opera, their state of mind seemed to be one of reasonable content. A third friend absolutely declined to part with his money, and spent the evening of the 9th at a music hall. He, too, professed content, and so all was well. The Milanese, for their part, looked on the inflated tariff with amusement, wondering, perhaps, at the eagerness with which foreign visitors were tumbling over each other to reach the box-office and pay down their cash. But the Milanese could afford to wait, and that made all the difference.

Three or four days before the appointed time of performance the shop of every bookseller and music-seller broke out into patches of blue, and curiosity then rejoiced in its first instalment of satisfaction. The colour enwrapped copies of Boïto's libretto, which speedily passed from hand to hand at the price of a franc, were read with avidity. Men could be seen devouring the contents as they passed along the street. In the cafés the blue covers were visible at many a table, and I even saw a cabman perusing his "Falstaff" as he waited for a fare. Somewhat later, members of the Press received vocal scores of the music, and then, as far as text was concerned, the mystery stood unveiled. "Falstaff" lay before us, and scores of pens got to work upon it with an eagerness to be early "on the wire" which was not, I fear, quite compatible with accuracy. For my part, I detest musical criticism under the conditions of a race—conditions necessarily subversive of much that should be regarded as essential, and very often leading to impressions which are imperfect, or even false, as well as hasty. But what avails to "kick against the pricks"? The modern public are feverishly impatient about anything in which they take an interest. They want their news served "hot and hot," and humble slaves of the Press must conform at whatever risk, or stand aside.

February 9. Evening. A crowd gathers before Verdi's hotel to see him come out, and another masses in front of the theatre to see him go in. Both assemblies are of the "common people," whose great and lively interest in a musical composer is good to see. Everything is done to honour the occasion. The hotel staircase and hall are decked with flowers and plants and thronged with sympathisers, who salute the master as, in that unassuming, almost deprecating, manner of his, he passes along and out to his carriage. There is a loud cheer as he descends the hotel steps. "Evviva il Maëstro," cry the people, and take off their hats. The noise causes a rush towards the hotel, the throng increases, and then, amid further demonstrations, the composer's vehicle covers the little distance between his temporary residence and La Scala. Here the other crowd stands ready with noisy homage. So, acclaimed as victor before the battle on the strength of triumphs past, Verdi disappears from the popular view. Inside the house a brilliant scene meets the eye. The great theatre is en fête, and Italian royalty in the person of Princess Lætitia graces a gathering of unusual dignity and splendour. I have seen a braver show of diamonds at Covent Garden on special occasions, and also—pace the traditions of Italian beauty—a more striking display of feminine loveliness; but, for all that, La Scala is a sight not to be forgotten. Everybody talks, less with bated breath and low than in the loud excited tones with which Italians astonish the more restrained denizens of Northern lands. Never was such a friendly din! such an uplifting of the flood-gates of excitement. Meanwhile, Signor Mascheroni's orchestra, roused from professional nonchalance, look curiously on, and that gentleman himself, standing by the side of his little platform, finds in the unwonted scene a relief from the anxiety which, it is reasonable to suppose, presses heavily upon him. At last the signal! Mascheroni springs to his place, the audience subside into theirs, and the clamour of tongues is hushed. Three bars of orchestral music, the curtain rises quickly, and Falstaff (M. Maurel) and the curious multitude look into each other's faces for the first time.

The interest of the audience is at first personal. There are smiles and ripples of laughter at the "globe of sinful continents" which the French baritone carries so easily; nor does Bardolph's flaming nose go unobserved. The animation of the stage business, however, soon attracts notice, and when Bardolph and Pistol escort Dr. Caius to the door with a canonic "Amen," the house begins to perceive the rare musical humour which is to be as the salt of the feast. Rid of the fiery Doctor and his complainings, there is opportunity for undisturbed contemplation of the fat knight, who makes his first great "hit" in the soliloquy upon honour, transferred by the librettist from "Henry IV." M. Maurel is very happy here, favoured by both poetry and music, and the house follows him with, too often, audible approbation, which turns to peals of applause as, finishing his monologue, Falstaff chases the recalcitrant henchmen from his presence. When the curtain falls upon the first part of the act there is a manifest impression of success. The public are interested, not least by the geniality and broad humour of the music, which thus early indicates "something new and strange" from the veteran master.

The curtain, again rising, shows the house of Ford, and the four women—Mrs. Quickly (Madame Pasqua), Mrs. Ford (Emma Zilli), Mrs. Page (Virginia Guerrini), and "sweet Anne" (Adelina Stehle). These ladies begin to read and compare Falstaff's amorous epistles, the audience at once becoming keenly attentive. The singers are vivacious, and enter into the humour of the situation completely, although it must be owned that their intonation of the rapid concerted passages might be more correct. But it is the music that now takes hold of the house, and forces acknowledgment of a revelation only half made before. One can imagine the connoisseurs asking themselves "Is this Verdi? Are these the strains of a man touching four-score? Is this mirth-provoking musical fun the work of one whom we have known only as a great tragic composer?" Whether such questions are put or not, the women's music stirs the audience, and when the chattering quartet ends a thunder of applause breaks forth, long-sustained, and in its continuance irresistible as a demand for a repetition of the piece. The quartet is given a second time, and the house, fairly conquered, listens with unflagging sympathy and delight to the still more elaborate concerted music which takes the form of a nonetto, as Caius, Ford, Fenton, Bardolph, and Pistol enter. "Mozart redivivus!" say the knowing ones, while the bright, clear music runs on in a sparkling stream, and the knowing ones are not far wrong. The Italian master, in his evolution of a comic style, has brought out from somewhere the essential qualities of "Le Nozze di Figaro," joined them to the traits of his own individuality, and given us a piquant mixture having all the freshness of novelty. This impression the close of the act leaves undisturbed, for a short contrasted love passage between Anne and Fenton (Edoardo Garbin) sets off the vivacious humour of the rest. The close of the act is followed by due recognition of the performers and by an "ovation" for the composer, whose appearance before the curtain excites the passionate enthusiasm of those who now see in him fresh cause for admiration and pride.

Second Act. Falstaff is taking his ease at his inn when to him comes Mrs. Quickly on her errand of beguilement, and the house now hears a duet which must rank among the best things in the work. We recognise a more individual expression than before, and a humour more subtly placed in evidence, but without loss of the beautiful clearness which everywhere, so to speak, makes the opera transparent. Madame Pasqua is a capital representative of the intriguing dame, and M. Maurel makes known—what afterwards appears more fully—that Falstaff in his amorous mood has been studied with special zeal. We miss elsewhere the broad unctuous humour; here there can be no complaint of anything lacking. With artists thus capable, the duet has every chance, and the fine flavour of the music, which follows the text and situation as though it would, of itself, express both, passes to the palate of the audience, and, as laughter and applause make known, tickle it immensely. The feeling spreads that this second act is going to prove a masterpiece. Mrs. Quickly having bowed herself out with a pleasant conviction that the knight has taken the bait, Falstaff soliloquises in a strain of pompous elation till Ford is announced, in his disguise as Mr. Brook, and a second duet begins. Connoisseurs at once note that the music to the new dialogue differs materially from that just ended. It is more elaborate, varied, and fanciful, reflecting thus the greater complication of the scene. Than Signor Pini-Corsi a better representative of the revengeful husband could not be desired, and the impression he makes in the duet is fully sustained throughout an extended soliloquy, filling up the time during which Falstaff, who goes to attire himself for conquest, is absent from the stage. This soliloquy, earnest if not passionate, and marked by music of rare suggestiveness, is one of the best things in the work. The great effect of it distinctly survives the return of Falstaff, and the short Finale wherein, with elaborate ceremony, each interlocutor invites the other to make exit before him. By this time the house is quite alive to the power of the second act, and all agog for the concluding part, in which the merry wives take their revenge on the gross knight.

A large room in the house of Ford is shown by the ascent of the drop curtain. Here Mrs. Quickly relates to her fellow conspirators the incidents of her visit to Falstaff, doing so with abundant spirit and humour. The audience now thoroughly enter into the fun of the plot, and are all ears for the happy music with which the presence of the women invariably inspires the composer. It may be that the sequel gratifies them beyond expectation, for the remainder of the act, ending with the pitching of the clothes basket into the Thames, is the purest and brightest musical comedy. The scene of the interview between Mrs. Ford and Falstaff would be worthy of Molière, had that master of humour written music to match his drama. It is not farce, yet, while refined in style and treatment, the whole acutely appeals to our perception of the laughable, and the house is one broad smile. Again, moreover, amid much that is Verdi pur et simple, it is easy to recognise the gracious influence of Mozart. The clothes basket scene has not a dull moment. Throughout the orchestra ranges the very spirit of fun, while the abounding life of the stage music again finds a foil in the love strains of Fenton and "sweet Anne" as they indulge their amorous feeling behind the screen. The climax is another elaborate nonetto, supplemented by a chorus of neighbours. When the curtain falls the house seems more than ever convinced that a masterpiece is being born into the world. Everybody joins in tumultuous applause. Again and again Verdi appears before the curtain, on one occasion dragging the reluctant Boïto, who knows very well that few are thinking about him, and, therefore, wrenches himself loose and retires into obscurity at the earliest moment. Now is "Falstaff" safe, with the Milan public, at any rate. The third act may show a falling off, but it cannot remove the impression of so much that is really great.

The last main division of the work, unlike its predecessors, has an orchestral introduction suggesting Falstaff's perturbation of spirit as, sitting in the street before a tavern, he recalls the experience of the clothes basket. Sir John soliloquises upon the adventure in the half-grandiose, half-burlesque manner of which we have already had a specimen, and then, for comfort, resorts to the wine flask. His spirits rise as the liquid goes down, while the house pricks up its many ears at a suggestive "trill," which, beginning in one section of the orchestra, spreads to every instrument capable of a "shake," till the atmosphere of the theatre seems quick-throbbing with life. Jack being himself again, artful Mrs. Quickly arrives on another errand of deceit, and forthwith the audience settle down to the enjoyment of a second scene of cunning wile and simple credulity. Again we have a spell of true musical comedy, graced with many a pleasant theme and sparkling episode, always with music as clear and direct as that of Mozart himself. The concerted piece in which the fun at Herne's Oak is arranged worthily sustains the musical interest thus excited. Its leading feature is a charming theme suggestive of the dainty revels in contemplation, and to it the evening falls, while the voices of the departing conspirators die along the quaint streets of old Windsor. I cannot say that the Herne's Oak scene so completely carries the audience with it as did earlier parts of the work. For this it is easy to assign reasons. The scenic arrangements are not very impressively devised nor effectively carried out; there is an absence of the animation and broad fun attending Falstaff's first punishment, and the audience seem unable to follow quite easily the complication of the main "argument" and the underplot with which the opera is wound up. Nevertheless there is plenty to admire: Fenton's short but graceful solo on the rising of the curtain; more merry music for the women; another duet for Mrs. Ford and Sir John, and, above all, perhaps, the delightful strains following the entrance of the mock fairies. The solo for Anne, as the Queen, with its unseen chorus, comes upon the house with all the effect of a masterpiece, and once more the audience touch the high-water mark of enthusiasm, not being content till they have heard the piece a second time. This pretty number will, I fancy, make its way easily into concert-rooms, unless, for commercial reasons, obstacles be thrown in its path. Italian taste may have found the abundance of concerted music following Anne's solo not quite to its liking, and this may partly account for some evident want of interest in the elaborate Finale, with its fugal opening. But, truth to tell, the audience have made up their minds about the work and are getting impatient for a final demonstration of approval. After the curtain falls, though there is not the fervid excitement which followed the second act, the "ovation" to Verdi has no lack of impressiveness. Who can help being moved as the fine old man stands before the tumultuous assembly bowing his grey head, and receiving not only a tribute to his genius, but a recognition of surprising mental and physical vigour, above all of a youthfulness of spirit nothing short of phenomenal. The scene is unforgettable; the whole evening memorable.

A score of incidents arising out of the occasion crowd upon my mind, but I have already exceeded my gracious Editor's liberal allowance of space, and must draw to a close. Let me, however, mention approvingly the arrangements made for the convenience of the Press. Certain readily accessible apartments in the great building were given up to journalists, provided with everything necessary, and attended by an adequate force of telegraph messengers. Thither, as the curtain fell after each act, rushed a crowd of eager critics, to scribble for dear life, or, rather for an early place on the wires. According to an Italian newspaper, some 80,000 words were despatched to all parts of Europe. We should think little of that number in London, but the Milanese officials had, no doubt, a strain put upon them. The longest reports went to England; the correspondent of one London paper telegraphing some 6,000 words in four despatches.

When the Opera was over, Verdi passed to his hotel as a conqueror, amid loud acclamations. After he had retired to his apartments there were calls for him from the crowded street. The people would not separate till once and yet again he had appeared on the balcony to bow his acknowledgments in the capacity of a popular hero.

I began writing this paper resolved upon a purely descriptive account of what I saw and heard. The limit has been in the main observed, for reasons not only of space but of consideration for the fact that, in order to a just estimate of its worth, "Falstaff" requires calm and leisurely examination under conditions free from the glamour of recent public excitement. The results of such an examination I hope to lay before the readers of this Journal in its next issue. J. B.

BIZET'S "DJAMILEH."

By a strange freak of fortune it has often happened that, when a composer has obtained an extraordinary amount of success with one of his works, this has not tended to advance the acceptance of others, but has had the contrary effect of keeping them in the shade. As illustrating this fact, Berlioz's "Faust" comes most readily to mind. This attained, and still maintains, such an unwonted degree of popularity that, when his "L'Enfance du Christ," his "Messe des Morts," and his Te Deum were brought to a hearing here, they failed to make their mark, not because they are musically inferior, but because the public had set their minds on another "Faust," and were disappointed because they did not get it. Gounod, too, has suffered in a like way, for none of his operas subsequent to "Faust" has had a like run. One has not to look back many years to the time when Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony was always played in England to the exclusion of the others, but happily we have survived that, as well as the preference which used to be given to Mendelssohn's "Italian" rather than to his "Scotch" Symphony. Further, it might be said of Handel that his "Messiah" is still heard to the exclusion of others of his oratorios, which, from a musical point of view, are at least of equal value.

To this category of composers suffering from the over-popularity of some particular work we have now to add the name of the late Georges Bizet, whose renown at present rests solely on his "Carmen," produced in Paris but a few months before his death in 1875, though during his short life (1838-1875) he wrote at least six other operatic works—viz., "Docteur Miracle" (1857), "Vasco de Gama" (1863), "Les Pêcheurs de Perles" (1863), "La Jolie Fille de Perth" (1867), "Djamileh" (1872), and, in the same year, "L'Arlésienne."

An English version of "Djamileh," by Mr. Joseph Bennett, having been produced by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, on September 10 last, and the work having since been repeatedly played in the provinces, a few words respecting it will not be out of place, especially as we may not unreasonably look forward to hearing it nearer at home on the next occasion of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company paying a visit to the Metropolis, or during Sir Augustus Harris's coming summer campaign.

"Djamileh," or "The Slave in Love," is comprised within a single act, and, exclusive of the chorus, consisting of guests, boatmen on the Nile, &c., the action is practically sustained by three personages—viz., Haroun, a rich young profligate of Cairo; Djamileh, his slave; and Splendiano, his steward and former preceptor. Djamileh is passionately devoted to her master Haroun, whose wont it is to engage a new slave every month, and who, protesting that he "loves but love," makes it his boast that he is proof against the love of any one particular woman and is determined to retain his liberty. Splendiano is in love with Djamileh, and hopes to make her his own at the end of her month's term of service as Haroun's slave. As the hour of her dismissal and the arrival of the new slave draws nigh, she, in response to Splendiano's wooing, promises that, if he will do her bidding, she will become his slave on regaining her freedom. To this he assents, feeling sure that Haroun, who was always capricious, and "now breaks his loves as formerly he broke his toys," will surely dismiss her. At Djamileh's wish, he therefore aids her in personating the new slave, who on her arrival has danced before Haroun and his guests, and has captivated all their hearts. Clad in the dancer's dress and otherwise disguised, Djamileh at night-fall presents herself before Haroun. At first she coyly repulses his advances, and thus succeeds in rousing his interest in her. Haroun upbraids her for her want of tenderness, and confesses his love for the slave whom she was chosen to replace, though he qualifies this by contending that his love was of a kind which should not deprive him of his freedom. Djamileh, who has dropped her disguise, and amid many tears is on the point of leaving Haroun, in the belief that he does not care for her, turns away, then falters, and falls into his arms. As he rushes forward to receive her, and confesses that, having recognised her pure heart, he has recovered his own, Splendiano enters, and makes a gesture of despair. He is followed by Haroun's friends, on seeing whom Haroun covers Djamileh's face with the veil which had fallen upon her shoulders, and tenderly leads her away.

Slender though the plot be, and immoral as some may regard it, though to others, as directed against the immorality of polygamy, it will appear quite the reverse of this, it has amply served Bizet's purpose, inasmuch as it has furnished him with the means of presenting the world with a work the musical interest of which predominates over the dramatic, and therefore cannot but be welcome to musicians. Though on witnessing a performance of it neither Haroun nor Splendiano is calculated to excite any strong emotions, it would be impossible to withhold our deepest sympathy from Djamileh's pure heart and loving devotion.

On speaking of Bizet and his works, and though recognising to the full his extraordinary talents and independence as a composer, M. Pougin, in his supplement to Fétis's "Biographie Universelle des Musiciens," seems to have gone beyond the mark. After recording the cold reception accorded by the Parisians to "Les Pêcheurs de Perles" and "La Jolie Fille de Perth," which he stigmatises as "conceived in the Wagnerian style," he goes on to say that Bizet soon took his revenge by bringing forward two movements of a symphony, which were received with extreme favour; but that he soon returned to his former manner in "Djamileh"—"a strange production in which he seems designedly to have relied upon the most anti-scenic effects which a musician dare introduce upon the stage." It is true that "Djamileh" is played through without a change of scene, but for this the composer of a one-act opera should not be blamed. According to the stage directions, the action takes place in a "Room in Haroun's palace at Cairo. At the back, between rose-coloured marble columns, and behind a playing fountain, through elegant curtains, the blue sky is seen." By observing the necessary changes of light—from sunset to twilight, from twilight to dusk—it rests with the stage-manager to make it as varied and beautiful a scene as need be.

But it is with its musical qualities that we are now more immediately concerned. Beyond its general freshness and exquisitely artistic workmanship, its vivid local colouring, the strict co-relation between the text and the music, the entire absence of "dry recitative," and the admission of a single Leitmotiv in personification of Djamileh—a mode of procedure which might just as well have been learnt from Cherubini and others as from Wagner—we can see nothing particularly Wagnerian about it. As opposed to Wagner's usual practice, it abounds in songs of a strophic character; and spoken dialogue, both accompanied and unaccompanied, is by no means absent. On the other hand, in common with Wagner, Bizet was not content to leave matters as he found them, and, from a musical point of view, certainly succeeded in adding not a few desirable improvements to the structure of Opéra comique, and that without over-stepping the bounds of tradition or seeking to revolutionise it. That his operatic works anterior to "Carmen" failed to satisfy the Parisians of his day must be put down to the fact that, musically, he was in advance of the taste and susceptibilities of the period. The continued popularity of "Carmen" throughout the musical world, and the recent performances of "Djamileh," not only in Great Britain and Ireland but also in Germany, point to a Bizet revival as imminent. Let us, therefore, not be behindhand in speaking somewhat of "Djamileh" in detail.

The Overture, which is independent of the Opera, except inasmuch as its opening portion subsequently serves as a melodrama, accompanying the entry of the Slave Merchant and a conversation between him and Splendiano, is remarkably concise and compact.

On the raising of the curtain for the scene described above, Haroun is seen stretched on a cushion and with a long pipe in his mouth. Not far from him Splendiano is writing at a low table. A very characteristic chorus of boatmen on the Nile, "Low sinks the sun," is heard from a distance; the melody, a love-sick ditty, is assigned to sopranos, the harmony being supplied by tenors and basses "with closed lips." It is supported by a second orchestra, also behind the scenes, and the unintermittent beat of a tambourine. It is interrupted by a song for Haroun, who, as if in a reverie, placidly muses on his condition. The Djamileh motive, by which Djamileh is personified, is then heard for the first time, as she enters by a side-door, stops a moment near Haroun, who does not notice her, and then goes away softly, after throwing upon him a look of affection. The resumption of the chorus gives way to a long conversation between Haroun and Splendiano, which takes the form of a duet for the two, and, interwoven with it, a song for Haroun. In its course we learn that Splendiano loves Djamileh, and that Haroun does not object, for Djamileh has a rival for his affection—viz., the next new slave. Splendiano's spirits are in the ascendant. This long scene, for which, under the old regime, a series of "dry recitative" passages would have been sufficient, is here worked out with a strong feeling for continuity and an astonishingly pertinent regard for the exigencies of musical form. The same may be said of the following scene, and indeed of the entire work, for it consists of a series of "set pieces," so deftly knit together that even the connecting links are seldom if ever wanting in musical interest. The "padding," which usually abounds in operatic works, is conspicuously absent. In the scene now under discussion (a Trio for Djamileh, Haroun, and Splendiano), Haroun manifests an affectionate interest for Djamileh, and tenderly asks what it is that distresses her. She relates a horrible dream she has had of the sea advancing to overwhelm her, and of her having appealed to Haroun to save her. The music which accompanies this relation is remarkable not only for the persistency of the figure of accompaniment by which it is pervaded, but also for the fact that the vocal melody is almost throughout identical with the bass—a mode of procedure which furnishes a rare example of consecutive octaves, the effect of which is appropriately mysterious. As Splendiano, followed by slaves who bring in and serve supper, re-enters, Djamileh and Haroun continue their conversation, which is often interrupted by Splendiano, whose joy at the prospect of winning Djamileh for his own is in striking contrast to her and Haroun's previous demeanour, especially when, on Haroun offering her wealth and liberty, she declares she would rather remain his slave. During this "Supper" scene, on Djamileh's refusal to drink, Haroun asks her for a song. Splendiano, on whom the humorous side of the opera chiefly depends, takes up a lute, upon which he plays in a comic manner, and with the words—

So, for him, my lark, sing gaily;
Soon thou chantest, sweet, for me!

hands it to her. Djamileh, accompanying herself on the lute, sings a Ghasel—a form of Arabic verse—which tells of Nour-Eddin, Lahore's defender, or rather of a maiden who secretly loved him. This plaintive and characteristically wrought out love-song is, of course, directed against Haroun, who, however, admitting that it is most affecting, and declaring that he knows the rest, cuts short the song, and, as a surprise to Djamileh, presents her with a splendid necklace of jewels, on receiving which, though delighted, she expresses her preference for the hand that gave it. A fragment of this song is repeated later on as a "motive of reminiscence," when Djamileh, disguised as the slave who is to succeed her, makes herself known to Haroun. The presentation of the necklace and Haroun's taking leave of Djamileh to join his friends in a game at cards is accompanied by some melodramatic music, which might be cited as a good example of the composer's skill in pertinaciously working-out a single melodic phrase as a figure of accompaniment, and that by no means a commonplace one, throughout the movement. That Bizet seldom starts a theme, either as a leading melody or as a figure of accompaniment, without making it a subject for artistic evolution, might be shown from the lively chorus of the card-players, which now follows. As Haroun and his guests, on finishing their game, depart, a singularly charming unaccompanied three-part song, "Fortune's a woman true," is heard from behind the scenes. Haroun takes the upper melodic part, while the tenors and basses supply a moving harmonic accompaniment, which is almost as tuneful. Now follows the scene in which Splendiano promises to aid Djamileh by presenting her before Haroun in the guise of the new coming slave. As no music is given for this in the English edition of the pianoforte score, published by Messrs. Ascherberg and Co., it presumably consists of spoken dialogue. Djamileh, left alone, then gives way to her feelings in a sad and pathetic lament, "The fatal hour comes," at the close of which she conceals herself at the back of the stage, as Haroun, with Splendiano and his friends, re-enters. Some melodramatic music, taken from the Overture, then serves to introduce the Slave Merchant and his wares. The new slave, whose choice Haroun has left to Splendiano, is brought in and dances before Haroun, while the chorus, consisting of slaves, musicians, and Haroun's friends, in an undertone pass their remarks upon her appearance and graceful pantomimic poses, and thus, à la Berlioz, explain the drift of the music, which exactly accords with the scene enacted. This dance of the Almée will doubtless be regarded as the gem of the entire opera; that such it was felt to be appears from the fact that soon after the failure of the opera in Paris, it, together with the Overture, was published in orchestral score in Germany. Strikingly characteristic and sensuous in its effect, it is, for the most part, melodically based upon the chromatic scale—the nearest equivalent to the ancient Egyptian enharmonic scale, which contained intervals smaller than semitones. The dance at an end, Haroun and his friends retire, leaving Splendiano to arrange with the merchant for the purchase of the dancer. Splendiano, radiant with hope that he will win Djamileh for his own, gives voice to his feelings in a lively song, "I need to cool my burning fever," and then prepares for presenting Djamileh to Haroun in the guise of the dancer. A long protracted duet between Djamileh and Haroun, in which the Djamileh motive is often well to the fore, serves as a Finale. In its course Djamileh makes herself known to Haroun by singing a portion of her Ghasel from a previous scene. The music grows more animated and impassioned as it proceeds, and everything ends well for all except Splendiano.

In thus attempting to assess the merits of "Djamileh," it should be added that, except as regards the Overture and the Egyptian Dance, the orchestration of which is of a singularly beautiful and refined character, we have had to rely upon the libretto and the pianoforte score, and have not enjoyed the advantage of witnessing a performance.

MOZART'S WIFE.

Great men, from Socrates downwards, have not been always lucky in their wives, and we are not prepared to state that Constanze Weber was in all respects an ideal helpmeet for her husband. Mr. Rowbotham, however, in his recently published work on "The Private Life of the Great Composers," goes a great deal farther than this. He declares that she was no beauty, "was blessed with little or no amiability of disposition, was endowed with but indifferent health," and that her "sole recommendation, if recommendation it can be called, was that she was the sister of Alice [sic] Weber, whom he had once loved, and by whom he had been jilted." Mr. Rowbotham proceeds to mock at Mozart's courtship, styling the pet names which he called her as "most ridiculous." Further on he declares that she was "completely passive and indifferent to her husband's alteration of life and habits. . . . Her method was to go to bed and nurse her own trifling ailments, while her brilliant husband, whose hectic complexion and feverish air must have told the most blind how things were going, was suffered to roam the town in company with his dissipated comrades unrebuked, unchecked, unadvised." In describing his funeral he says "his wife did not attend the bier to the grave." Finally, Mr. Rowbotham disposes of Constanze as follows: "She outlived him, and after his death married a civil official of ample means, whose wealth doubtless commended itself to her practical mind. It is she whom we have represented at the beginning of this chapter, and, alas! we wish we could say that she made her illustrious husband a good wife." As for the representation referred to, it is that of a dyspeptic, petulant, helpless malade imaginaire, with a taste for extravagance, and a wilful, if not a bad temper.

The picture to which Mr. Rowbotham has treated us can hardly be described as chivalrous or generous. But is it accurate? Constanze Weber was undoubtedly a bad manager, a very serious defect in the wife of a man like Mozart. And there is also no doubt that she was frequently ailing. But we should greatly like to know what authority Mr. Rowbotham has for the extraordinary statement that she had little or no amiability of disposition. There is absolutely no authentic evidence in support of the charge. No mention of her wilfulness or petulance is to be found in Holmes's admirable biography, or the still more exhaustive and impartial work of Otto Jahn. Herr Pohl describes her as follows: "She was a good and loving wife, accommodated herself in everything to her husband's disposition, and restrained him from many heedless actions. He was sincerely attached to her, and she, in return, lavished upon him every care and attention." How does the story of the composition of the Overture of "Figaro" fit in with Rowbotham's disparaging account? Is it not on record that she sat up with him and told him fairy stories to keep him awake while he worked far into the night to complete the work in time? It is true that she also kept him supplied with punch, and this perhaps is resented by her detractor. As for the point on which Mr. Rowbotham lays such stress—the absence of Mozart's wife from his funeral—he omits to mention that, apart from her prostrate condition, the funeral took place on a terribly bleak day amid a violent snowstorm.

But, after all, what better vindication of the character of Mozart's wife need one look for than that which is furnished by Mozart's own letters? Only within the last three years some unpublished letters of Mozart's to his wife came to light in Denmark, where, as the wife of Nissen, Constanze lived many years in Copenhagen. Their authenticity is accepted by the best authorities, and they afford the most touching proof of the unalterable affection of Mozart for the faithful wife whom Mr. Rowbotham has sought to make out a selfish and ill-conditioned woman. One of these is dated Frankfort, October, 1790, or just a year before his death. They had been married for eight years and had known troubles innumerable, and yet Mozart writes more like a lover than a husband. He begins: "My very dear and very good little wife," and in the very first paragraph occurs some of that amusing nonsense with which Mozart loved to intersperse his conversation with his intimates. There then follows some reference to money matters, after which he resumes: "If you could see into my heart, you would find there the hope and passionate desire to see you once more and embrace you, and also the desire to bring home as much money as possible. I have often thought of travelling farther afield, but whenever I have tried to bind myself down to carry out my resolve, I have been restrained by the thought of the regret I should probably feel at being so long separated from my beloved wife, and all for an uncertain and perhaps fruitless object. I seem already to have been absent from you for years. Believe me, my dearest, if you were near me, I might make up my mind more easily. But I am so accustomed to see you by my side, and I love you so much, that I could not possibly remain longer away from you."

Finally, we would point out that Mr. Rowbotham's brief allusion to the re-marriage of Mozart's widow is eminently misleading. He says, "She outlived him, and after his death married a civil official of ample means." But he omits to state that her second marriage did not take place until eighteen years after Mozart's death, and that in the interval she and her two children had a very hard struggle for existence. How she reverenced the memory of her first husband may be gathered from the interesting record of Vincent Novello's visit to Germany in 1829 ("Life and Labours of Vincent Novello, by his daughter, Mary Cowden Clarke") for the purpose of presenting to Madame Sonnenberg, Mozart's sister, then old and helpless, a sum of money contributed by some musical admirers of her illustrious brother. While at Salzburg, he met Madame Nissen, and found her in all respects devoted to the memory of "her Mozart," as she loved to call him. Even if there had been any evidence to go upon, we cannot see what would have been gained by this black-washing of Constanze Weber. As matters stand, it is not only unchivalrous, but utterly unsubstantiated by any particle of trustworthy proof.

That Antonin Dvorák, the eminent Bohemian master whose "Stabat Mater," "Requiem," Oratorios, Cantatas, Symphonies, &c., have made their way throughout the musical world, has recently composed a Mass, is a fact which at the present moment is probably only known within the immediate precincts of the Crystal Palace, where, under the direction of Mr. August Manns, this new work is to be brought to a first hearing on the 11th inst. Though it will be best to reserve a detailed account and criticism of its contents till after it has been performed, a few preliminary words as to its origin and history will not be out of place. It owes its being to the instigation of Dvorák's friend and patron, Josef Hlávka, President of the Imperial Francis Josef Academy of Art, Science, and Literature, at Prague, and was primarily composed for the consecration of a private chapel at Luzan (a small village of three hundred inhabitants in Bohemia), which ceremony took place on September 11, 1887. In its original form the instrumental accompaniment was confined to organ, violoncellos, and double-basses, the vocal part being assigned to four solo voices (or a semi-chorus of four voices to a part) and full chorus. During the course of the past year—viz., between March 24 and June 15—Dvorák set to work to score the organ accompaniment for orchestra. The task, of course, proved not only attractive, but also an all-suggestive one, owing to the difference which exists between the genius of the organ and that of the orchestra, and thus gave rise to much elaboration. The vocal part, however, excepting a very few slight alterations, practically accords with the original.

A remarkable point in the transference of the accompaniment from the organ to the orchestra consists in the fact that flutes and clarinets are omitted throughout, the instruments for which it is designed being oboes, bassoons, three horns, trumpets, trombones, drums, the usual complement of strings, and organ, which in at least two movements has a very prominent part. This setting of the Mass, which Dvorák has modestly refrained from characterising as "grand" or "solemn," is a model of conciseness, and, in spite of the absence of set solos, we feel sure, so far as we can judge from a cursory reading of the full score—which, by the bye, has been cleverly arranged for the pianoforte by Mr. Berthold Tours, and will be issued by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. in advance of the forthcoming performance—will be warmly welcomed, not only on account of the thoroughly devotional and religious feeling which pervades it, but also for its indisputable musical beauty, as a worthy sequel to the "Stabat Mater" and "Requiem" of the same master.

A contemporary seeks, in a long article, to prove that "The age is impatient of elaborate and fully developed works"; that "People now require to be amused"; that "Wagner appeals but to a limited audience"; and that musical works in general and operas in particular must be short, light, and tuneful. Now this line of argument proceeds from a course which many persons adopt—of spying an exception here or there and imagining it to be a rule. If we wished to prove that the tendency of the present day is all in the other direction, how easy it would be. We will suppose the London critic of a foreign journal summing up the course of events during the past year. He might, with perfect truth, write something in this style: "Very early in the year the nation was plunged into mourning by the premature death of the Duke of Clarence, and this undoubtedly had a sobering influence on the amusements of the people. The effect on the theatres devoted to light pieces was disastrous. Many farcical comedies were produced, but only two of them were running at the end of the year, and several new comic operas were mounted, but they were all more or less failures, excepting 'Haddon Hall,' in which there is a vein of serious interest. The most prosperous establishments were the Lyceum, with Shakespeare's 'Henry VIII.' and 'King Lear'; the Haymarket, with Shakespeare's 'Hamlet'; and the St. James's and the Garrick, with serious plays of modern life. Turning to music, we find that, while miscellaneous Concerts were neglected, the Philharmonic and the Richter enterprises hold their own well, and the London Symphony Concerts were better attended than in any previous season. But it was in opera that the tendency towards seriousness in art most strikingly displayed itself. 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' a brief, but very tragic work, maintained its popularity, but the same composer's lighter and fresher 'L'Amico Fritz' only had a lukewarm reception. Of the standard operas, 'Faust,' 'Lohengrin,' and 'Roméo et Juliette' were the most in request, and these, as every amateur knows, are largely-proportioned tragic works. The reaction against the tuneful puerilities of Rossini, Donizetti, and Bellini was complete, for not one of these whilom popular composers had a place in the repertory. The success of the Wednesday performances of Wagner's music-dramas was extraordinary, and many extra representations were given at Drury Lane. If it be a libel on the English to say that they take their pleasures sadly, they are certainly inclined to take them seriously at present. The prosperity of the variety theatres, where there are facilities for drinking and smoking, of course proves nothing to the contrary." It is said that an ounce of fact is better than a bushel of argument, but here we have given bushels of the former against our contemporary's ounce of the latter. Of course it is open for him to reply that if the facts are against him, so much the worse for the facts.

In the course of his interesting articles on "Falstaff" in the Daily Graphic, Dr. Stanford has some good remarks on the use and abuse of the vibrato. The part of Mrs. Ford, he tells us, was entrusted to a singer "whose vibrato was so persistent that at times it was difficult to tell within three tones the note which she intended to sing. This fault, from a superabundance of which the male voices were fairly free, seemed in the case of the soprani to be a malignant disease. The short unaccompanied quartet in the first act, consisting entirely of a rapid staccato, was so quavered and shaken that it was a matter of sheer impossibility to follow either the harmonies or even the single notes. To succeed in imparting a vibrato to a staccato quaver at presto speed would have seemed a strange paradox, but, strange to say, the feat was accomplished." And then Dr. Stanford utters some weighty words of warning: "It is a matter of serious danger to music that this evil habit is spreading everywhere. Not only is cantabile singing destroyed by it, not only is the finest melody corrupted by it, but the vibrato itself, a power by which, when used in its proper place, an overpowering effect can be produced, is reduced to a position of that contempt which familiarity proverbially produces. It is the duty of the Land of Song to keep its sources of vocal supply pure. If singing is polluted in Italy the world will be infected by the stream. The very street boys in Italy are afflicted now with this vocal delirium tremens." Some critics are in the habit of speaking of the vibrato as a thing which, under all circumstances and at all times, must necessarily be vicious, whereas in emotional passages a certain amount of vibration is not only a natural indication of genuine feeling, but also enhances the effect of the song.

In view of the deep interest taken at the present time in early English music, Mr. W. Barclay Squire's long letter on the vanished fifteenth century school in the Times of the 21st ult. deserves special attention. Until quite recently all that was known to exist of the work of the founder and chief glory of this school—John Dunstable—consisted of four motets (at Bologna), a three-part chanson (at Rome and Dijon), and a three-part composition, without words, in the British Museum. And "not only had Dunstable's work vanished, but also there was hardly any trace to be found of English music of his day." Happily, within the last few years, this regrettable lacuna has been satisfactorily filled by discoveries at Trent and Modena of representative collections in MS. of the works of Dunstable and his contemporaries. With regard to the Trent MSS. which were unearthed by Dr. Haberl, of Ratisbon, and copied by Mr. Squire in 1889, an annoying embargo was laid on their publication in any form whatsoever by the Dean and Chapter of Trent, and subsequently by the Austrian Government. Happily the subsequent discovery of an extremely fine collection of MS. music in the Biblioteca Estense of Modena has rendered the Trent manuscripts of less importance to the student of early English music. This volume contains no fewer than thirty-one motets for three and four voices by Dunstable, copies of all of which have been made by Mr. Squire and are now deposited at the British Museum. The historian and student have now access to ample material for the formation of a definite estimate of the position which Dunstable deserves to occupy in the annals of music, as well as of his relation to Dufay and the great Netherlandish school of which he was the precursor.

The musical critics are in hot water again! "There's a good time coming, boys," sang Mr. Henry Russell, long, long ago, but it hasn't come yet—for musical critics. Every few months or so some one "runs amok" at the whole tribe, because, forsooth, they do not all agree in their estimate of a work or its interpreters, or because some irresponsible scribbler has "written himself down an ass" in black and white and with all the dignity conferred by printer's ink. The last attack comes from one of those who sit in high places and who should consequently have been wiser than to make it—the Editor of The Overture. As usual the critics are spoken of as if they were all on a level and laid claim to infallibility. What a howl would be set up if critics were to write in this wholesale way of "Composers," or "Amateurs," or "Performers." Surely it cannot be necessary to point out that every profession has its mediocrities, and even its quacks, and that the best of us are but human. Why, then, are the faults of the incompetent, or even the occasional errors of the competent, regarded as justification for an attack on the whole body? We need not hesitate to confess that first-rate critics are rare—so are first-rate poets, composers (yes, really!), novelists, and dramatists. Yet while in a creative artist second and even third-rate merit meets with reasonable recognition, we are asked to believe that in a critic anything short of perfection is a crime. Many people, it would seem, think that those only who are themselves perfect have the right to sit in judgment on others. In other words, "who drives fat oxen should himself be fat." But, cries some one, "Quis custodiet custodes?" By all means let the critics be criticised; only we would point out that "to criticise" means "to judge," and to judge does not mean "to condemn wholesale" but "to discriminate." verb. sap.

But it is so easy, and such a relief to the feelings to condemn wholesale: so difficult and so unsatisfying to discriminate. This, no doubt, is a difficulty; yet shall justice be done, though the ceiling fall! We have a proposal to make. Several societies have lately been formed by musicians for their own protection. It was felt that sheep should be sharply divided from goats, and accordingly action was taken, with what results we all know. The Bogus—or, as Dr. Mackenzie calls him, the "Bogie" man—has been, if not altogether killed, at least very considerably "scotched." Has anybody reflected that there possibly may be such things as Bogus musical journals as well as Bogus musical colleges?—that there are Bogus musical journalists as well as Bogus musical degree men?—and that Bogus musical journalism is as powerful for harm as Bogus musical education? Why, then, should not the genuine journalist—musical or otherwise artistic—do as the genuine musician has lately done—protect himself? Let there be organized an Incorporated Society of Critics. There will not be the slightest difficulty in deciding who are to be the "original members"; afterwards, those seeking admission should be made to pass an examination in Logic, English Grammar, and the History, Theory, and Æsthetics of the art they intend to write about. After all, the existence of the Bogus critic, in any branch, is a testimony to the incompetence of Editors, so that these gentlemen would necessarily welcome the existence of a Society to which, when seeking for critics, they might look for help in the selection of persons fit for the work to be entrusted to them. As to the incompetent critic, he would, of course, be mutinous; but this would only serve to emphasise a distinction which, in our opinion, cannot be too strongly drawn. Clearly there is room for a Society of Critics. When its founder appears, our guinea and our support are at his service. Who speaks first?

The regulations concerning Edinburgh Musical Degrees, which have recently been published, contain at least one novelty the importance of which is likely to provoke discussion. The Doctor's Degree is to be granted in three departments: (1) Composers, (2) Executants, (3) Theorists or Historians. Candidates for the degree of Doctor of Music as Composers will be required to submit a prescribed number of vocal and instrumental compositions in the larger forms, such as oratorio, opera, cantata, symphony, sonata, overture; those offering themselves as Executants must show their special skill in the execution of various solo and ensemble works, in sight-reading, in playing from orchestral scores, extemporizing transitions and modulations, and further be examined in the history and literature of their special instrument and the method of teaching it; and candidates selecting the third department must present one or more treatises on theoretical or historical subjects which shall be the result of original thought or research, not mere abstracts or compilations of existing works. Whether a Doctor's degree should be granted without the exaction of an "exercise" is, of course, a question to which various answers may be given. On the one hand, it may be argued that the old plan gives an undue advantage to the musician whose special gift lies in the direction of composition; on the other, it may be said that as the composition of a large musical work is the highest manifestation of musicianship, Professor Niecks's innovation, by obviating its necessity, places the Doctor's degree on a lower level than it now occupies. One thing is certain—that the existence of different standards at different Universities, for degrees ostensibly of the same rank and known by but one title, is a matter which, sooner or later, will have to be dealt with by the State. Musical degrees should be granted by one central Institution and one only, and that Institution should be exclusively musical.

There are no surer guides to an understanding of men's "ways of seeing things" than the illustrations by which they enforce the points of an argument. Language now deals so much with abstract terms that we are apt to assume a unanimity for their use which they do not possess; until an illustration, reducing the abstract precept to a concrete example, shows us how different are the meanings attached by different men to the commonest idioms of speech. Thus, for instance, the other day Professor Aitchison, at his second Royal Academy Lecture on Architecture, was urging, very sensibly, that the doors and windows of a private house should be large enough to be useful; and this was the anecdote by which he drove the idea home: "When the late William Burges built his house, a man said 'Your friend is not fond of music,' and when asked for his reason he said, 'A piano cannot be got into the house through any of the doors or windows.'" The phrase "singing and music" is familiar to all who have ever enjoyed the privilege of conversing with a school girl; but the anecdote quoted by Professor Aitchison is even stronger testimony to the preposterous way in which we have allowed the ubiquitous pianoforte to set our standards and rule our thoughts about music. We learn from it that even in the most cultured circles a "fondness for music" implies the possession of a pianoforte. To sing, to play the violin, viola, violoncello, flute, zither, concertina even—proves nothing. You may have a string quartet or a glee party at your house every day in the week—what of that? You cannot be regarded as "fond of music" unless you possess—or yearn to possess—a pianoforte.

N.B. This is not a trade advertisement.

Next year will see the three hundredth anniversary of the death of the greatest and last of the composers of the Flemish school, Orlando di Lasso, and both at his birthplace, Mons, and at Munich, where he died after spending the greater part of his life as court musician to the Duke of Bavaria, preparations are being made with a view to celebrating the event in an appropriate manner. Nothing more worthy of the great master could, however, be conceived than a monumental, complete edition of his works, similar to the splendid Gesammtausgaben of the German classics, for which we are indebted to the research and learning of the musicians and musical experts, and the enterprise of the publishers of Germany. It is therefore with great pleasure that we announce the impending publication of such an edition of Orlando di Lasso's works. The editor will be Dr. A. Sandberger, the "Conservator" of the musical department of the Royal Court and State Library at Munich, who has been engaged for many years past with the preparations for what will be a gigantic enterprise. For to the greater majority of our readers it must come as an absolute surprise to hear that Dr. Sandberger's edition will comprise fifty volumes of about 180 pages each. Nine thousand pages of music by a composer of whom most amateurs know scarcely nineteen! Dr. Sandberger estimates that it will take from twenty to twenty-five years to complete the work. May he live to see the last volume through the press!

An interesting letter by Richard Wagner has just been published in the German Genossenschafts-Zeitung by Herr Th. Mehring, in an obituary article devoted to Herr Freny, the late basso buffo at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater. Freny having been cast for the part of Beckmesser in a newly mounted representation of "Die Meistersinger" at that theatre in 1872, wrote to Wagner requesting his guidance in respect to the interpretation of the part, to which the master replied as follows:—"Dear Sir,—You are quite on the right tack as regards Beckmesser, only do not exaggerate his foppishness. It will come out of its own accord. He need not be old; many men are old when only forty. Let him appear throughout decidedly serious; for this man never is jocular, except when feigning to be merry. He combines great narrow-mindedness with a deal of spleen. Take any spiteful critic you like for your model in this respect! There is in him unbounded passionateness without the strength of giving vent to it, his voice breaking into falsetto whenever he becomes irate. The extremely high notes are, of course, intended only as vehement and ludicrous spoken accents, not as vocal efforts. Pray pay great attention to every direction in the score, and to strict conformity with the orchestra at the performance.—Yours faithfully, Richard Wagner. Bayreuth, October 25, 1872."

The Methodist Times has set a good example by starting a musical column. This has been entrusted to the Rev. F. L. Wiseman, whose remarks on the subject of our art are liberal and sympathetic. In the issue of our contemporary for January 26, Mr. Wiseman asks, "What is sacred music?" and combats with much good sense the popular notion that the sacredness or secularity of music depends on the words to which it is set. "Music," he says, "is sacred or secular, not according to the words to which it is set, nor the use that is made of it, but according to the emotions that it calls forth or the ideas it conveys. And each piece must be judged for itself. If it ennobles, if it raises longings for the higher or the purer, if it is the expression of a lofty and purified spirit, if even it has caught the better feelings of some baser soul, who could deny its sacred character?" This is excellent; and the following is, perhaps, still better: "There are many who would be shocked at the idea of singing a song like 'The Worker' or 'The Requital' on a Sunday, and above all in a church—they are secular songs; but they will swallow without a murmur, indeed, will enjoy, 'Sound an Alarm' or 'Honour and Arms,' because they come from an oratorio. Albeit it is only in the Apocrypha that you can find about Judas Maccabæus; and as for Harapha, his song, though immensely stirring, is as barbaric and unchristian as the god he worshipped." Mr. Wiseman is evidently able to live, or at any rate to write, "up to" his name.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

The Concerts given during eleven years past in the City Temple have come to an end. Mr. E. Minshall, the Conductor, in announcing the resolution of the church authorities to close the series, evoked loud cries of "Shame!" and one might expect that such a statement would call up warm feeling. But, happily, the Concerts are to be continued in another building—in one no less associated with musical memories than Exeter Hall. "Of course," explained Mr. Minshall, "the difficulty was this: you cannot have Exeter Hall without paying a good rent. This building we have had free, but for Exeter Hall we shall have to pay rent. I have made myself liable for that. (Applause.) I felt justified as your servant in taking Exeter Hall; and I have no doubt you will see that the expenses are met. A person said to me to-day when I told him of this, 'You have great faith.' Yes, my friends, I have great faith—I believe that you will follow to Exeter Hall and that the collections there will be more liberal than they have been here when you know the circumstances of the case. I am making arrangements to have special Concerts in that hall. I will try to improve them, make them more attractive and more varied, than ever they have been. I hope by this day fortnight to place in your hands the arrangements for the whole of the month of March, and I think when you see the names of the singers and performers generally you will see that the Concerts in future will be even on a better scale than they have been in the past." Our comment upon this is "Well done!"

Following the recent performance of Gounod's "Redemption" by the Royal Choral Society, there were signs of something like an organised attack upon that work from a quarter where certain critics of a superfine order dwell. In one journal we read that "it seems useless for critics to continue to point out the many weaknesses and vulgarities of the score." The writer of these words seems to have no misgiving on the point that he may be wrong, and the public right in refusing to be influenced by his opinion. But where have critics pointed out the "vulgarities" aforesaid? We should like to know, and may also suggest that when next "The Redemption" is given its detractors might better further their views by backing up mere assertion (which weighs nothing) with proof. Another newspaper sapiently remarked that "The Redemption" is "not a work which reveals new beauties at each successive hearing." This means, apparently, that it has not an unlimited stock of "new beauties." What work has? There must come a time to all when novelty is exhausted, as, in this sense, "The Messiah" and "Elijah" are exhausted. Happy the composition in which are familiar charms that age cannot wither nor custom stale. We claim that felicitous position for Gounod's Trilogy, and the best judges of sacred music in the world—English amateurs—are with us.

We are glad to reproduce the following from the New York Musical Courier. It refers to a state of things not unknown in our own country: "If one were to believe all the assertions to that effect, whatever musical genius a citizen of the United States may possess is due to contact with the German Fatherland. Whenever an American player or singer scores over here the critics give themselves no end of trouble to find out if the artist has not learned in some German or Austrian music institute, or, at least, received instruction from an expatriated compatriot, as if talent and genius passed from hand to hand, like groceries! It is useless to remind the asserters that other countries have produced musicians without recourse to the 'Fatherland,' and that an exceptionally high proportion of the prizes awarded by the various institutions on the Continent is won by English speaking students. Fully appreciating the great merits of the Continental schools, it is yet high time to understand that, if an inborn taste for music is wanting, no amount of tuition will raise the performer above the status of a first-class mechanic, who, even with the finest technic in the world, will still remain inferior to the (in respect of education) faultless musical box."

There is a writer in the Blackheath magazine, Pianissimo, who goes straight to the point, if ever man did. How many of us have thoughts like the following, and how few of us have blurted them out!: "Why, almost every Concert-room is a hot-bed of artistic lies. We applaud Madame Patti well, because everybody says her singing is perfectly delightful and that she is undoubtedly the finest vocalist of the day—not because her songs have given us any genuine pleasure, or done us any real good. We lift up our hands and a very rapture takes possession of our faces when Paderewski is mentioned, because, you know, every one says he is the most exquisite pianist that ever lived, is living, or will live, and because it is the fashion to adore him; but whether we appreciated him when we heard him, or whether we ever have heard him, is quite another thing. We pretend to be delighted, charmed when a strictly classical programme is put before us, when all the while we are longing for something vulgar—vulgar in a musical sense I mean, of course. O for the man that despises Handel, that hates Mozart, and sees nothing in Beethoven, and that tells you so; it is delicious to come across him."

The imposition of a tax upon pianofortes in France has, no doubt, a financial rather than a musical significance. M. Carnot's Government wants money, and, if one source of revenue fails, another must needs be opened up. As the tax is only ten francs per instrument, it will not much affect the business of the pianoforte makers and sellers, nor go a long way towards suppressing what "unmusical neighbours" hold to be a nuisance. The significance of the measure lies in the fact that it is a beginning which may have consequences possibly detrimental to art. While the advocate of the tax was speaking in the Legislative Chamber, a member exclaimed, "How about violins?" "We tax dogs," was the retort, "is that any reason why we should also tax cats?" The comparison, not complimentary to the fiddle, nor convincing in its logic, may have suggested the question "Why not?" wherefore let the owners of cats and fiddles (now not for the first time associated) be prepared for the worst.

From the Staffordshire Sentinel, with hearty commendation: "At a meeting of the General Purposes Committee of the Newcastle (Staff.) Town Council a deputation was received from the committee of the North Staffordshire Musical Festival, and a resolution was passed recognising the advantages conferred on the district by the Festival, and promising support. The Mayor was appointed to represent the Corporation on the committee. Mr. Briggs said the desire of the committee was that the whole of the district should share in the advantages of the Festival. They wished for the co-operation of the various governing authorities, and that a sympathetic interest should be shown in the undertaking, so that the Festival might hold its own with the other great musical festivals in the country."

The following is "communicated," and we are glad to reproduce it: "The Royal Academy of Music continues to grow so rapidly that the authorities have found it necessary to provide increased facilities for the study of certain branches of the curriculum—so far, that is to say, as the limited accommodation of the Tenterden Street premises will permit. The most important of these developments is the formation of a supplementary orchestral class, under the direction of Mr. Frye Parker, for the string-players who are unable to find room in the regular band of the Institution. It is also announced that an additional organ is being constructed, and as professor of this instrument an excellent new member of the staff has been found in Mr. George Riseley, the well-known Bristol organist."

News comes from Berlin, by way of America, that Mr. Otto Lessmann has ceased to represent the Cologne Gazette in that capital. We are sorry for the Rhenish journal, which, probably, has been "got at" by enemies of the distinguished critic. Several charges are brought against Mr. Lessmann: that he warmly praised an opera which turned out to be a fiasco (how does that necessarily place him in the wrong?); that he left the theatre after the first act of an opera which he condemned; that he was the only one who praised a certain performance of Beethoven's E flat Concerto. These are curious reasons, and if the Cologne Gazette has acted upon them, it favours espionage upon the comings and goings of its representatives, and plainly sets its face against independent judgment.

A correspondent sends us the following as an example of "cheek" worthy of preservation in these columns: "An amateur vocalist picked up in the street a roll containing a copy of a song, evidently just bought. There was no mark by which to identify the owner, but the name of a well-known musicseller was stamped on the copy. The gentleman was not greatly pleased with his find—it did not happen to be suitable to his voice, perhaps—but, anyhow, he took it round to the shop whence it came and coolly requested the people to change it, as he really did not care about it! This, after some demur, they consented to do, though stating it to be quite against their rules; and the lucky finder went off happy with a new song he had particularly wanted."

Mr. F. H. Cowen was better advised than he knew of when withdrawing his opera from the incompetent hands at Genoa. It could hardly have entered into his expectation that "Signa" would be taken up by Sonzogno, whose hands were full of enterprises connected with Italian composers and works. Yet that has come about, after the mysterious, silent man with the facial expression of Napoleon III. had taken his own time to think the matter over. Sonzogno's acceptance of "Signa" means all that Mr. Cowen can desire—a good performance (probably at Florence) and generally a presentation of the work such as will give it a fair chance. The date of the production is, we believe, still uncertain, but will not be long delayed.

We are indebted to a correspondent for a real curiosity among advertisements, compared with which the desire of English clergymen to find an organist and a groom in the same person takes second place: "Precentor wanted, for the U.P. Church, Woodside; if not qualified to play Organ, must provide efficient Organist. Salary £15 per annum. Applications, with Certificates, &c., to be lodged with," &c. Our correspondent naturally desires to know how much would remain to the precentor after paying the organist. The elders, we should say, have not considered that matter, deeming it to be one for candidates only.

The report prevalent in Milan during the "Falstaff" excitement that Verdi had been offered the title of Marquis of Busseto, must have sprung from the heated fancy of some commonplace person who believes that a title can honour a great artist. What has Verdi to do with a patent of nobility, or it with him? Between the two there is nothing in common, nor even anything that can be construed into a sense of fitness. The master took prompt measures to show his mind on the matter. He wired to Rome imploring the Minister of Education to stop further proceedings if steps had already been taken, and was much relieved by a reply stating that nothing of the sort was in contemplation. Guiseppe Verdi, Marquis of Busseto, indeed!

Sir Arthur Sullivan is preparing a Concert of English music at Mentone, and has decided to produce the following works: Sterndale Bennett's Symphony in G minor, the Courante from Mackenzie's music to "Ravenswood," the same composer's "Benedictus," Hubert Parry's Overture to "The Frogs," and the Scherzo in Stanford's "Irish" Symphony, with, of course, some examples of his own music. We are not informed as to the object of this Concert, if there be any other than proof that such a thing as English music actually exists—a fact of which it is as difficult to convince foreigners as, according to common belief, it is to make a Scotchman see a joke.

The Brighton and Hove Choral and Orchestral Society, of which Dr. Sawyer is Conductor, will shortly enter upon a new and promising year's work. Dvorák's "Requiem" (repeated by desire) will be performed in Hove Town Hall on the 23rd inst., in company with Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony.

The second Concert is fixed for June 8; programme—Purcell's "Dido and Æneas" and a miscellaneous group of orchestral and vocal works. For the third and last Concert (December 7), Mackenzie's "Bethlehem" has been chosen, with an alternative in Stanford's "Voyage of Maeldune." The same occasion will witness the production of a new Concert-Overture by Mr. Herbert Botting.

The musical critic of the Hawick Express should be careful to guard against impulses towards prose-poetry. He is safe in working through a programme with the usual distribution of adjectives, but beyond that he runs risks. In his notice of a recent Concert we read: "Mr. Blackwood's two violin solos exhibited the violin in its two phases—first, of exquisite softness, where the music seemed to lull, as it were, a child to sleep; and, second, of brilliant and sparkling execution, both of which showed his mastery over his instrument." Steady, young gentleman, steady!

The following paragraph is official, with reference to musical arrangements for the Chicago Exhibition:—September: During this month Mr. Camille Saint-Saëns, of Paris, and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, of England, will visit the Exposition, conducting several programmes of their own choral and instrumental works in both Festival Hall and Music Hall. Mr. Saint-Saëns will also appear as Organist, and in Chamber Concerts.

The first of the Exhibition Concerts will take place on May 15, when the Boston Symphony Orchestra will appear. In June there will be three Choral Concerts, with an orchestra of 200 and a chorus of 2,000. Programme—June 7, Cantata "Festo Ascensionis Christi," Bach; "Israel in Egypt" (selections), Handel. June 8, "Elijah," Mendelssohn. June 9, "Hallelujah" Cantata (Op. 50), A. Becker; "Moses" (selections), Rubinstein; Vorspiel, Quintet, and Chorus from Act 3, "Die Meistersinger," Wagner.

Other Concerts are announced for the same month to be given by visiting societies. As in June, so in the months following, but with abundant variety. The musical directors add to their provisional table of arrangements: "The above list represents that portion of the special musical demonstrations for which dates are absolutely fixed. Regular musical features of the entire Exposition period include semi-weekly Orchestral Concerts in Music Hall; semi-weekly popular Orchestral Concerts in Festival Hall; and Organ Recitals. Plans for Chamber Music will be announced." That the forthcoming World's Show will be entitled to rank as the first in which music has taken its proper place seems now beyond possibility of dispute.

The organ-grinder is always with us, and so are complaints against the misery he inflicts. Something will have to be done, but short, as yet, of prohibiting the organ-grinder altogether. The happy, though ragged, children who, in court and alley, dance to his dulcet strains, are an argument against total abolition. Some day the County Council may step in and provide music for the "slums." Then send the "grinning Italian" home.

The novelties to be heard during the forthcoming (21st) series of Richter Concerts are Fibich's Overture "Auf Carlstein," Goldmark's Overture "Gefesselter Prometheus," Grieg's music for soli and chorus to Björnson's "Olav Trygvason," R. Strauss's Poëme Symphonique "Don Juan," Schubert's "Des Teufels Lustschloss," and Smetana's Poëme Symphonique "Vltava." Beethoven's Fifth, Seventh, and Ninth Symphonies and Mozart's in G minor are also promised. There will be six Concerts, the first of which is announced for June 5.

Here is a list of some among the works to be performed at Norwich in October: "Messiah," "Elijah," "Golden Legend," "Judith" (Parry), "Water Lily" (Cowen), "Una" (Gaul), "Ancient Mariner" (Barnett), Symphony in A minor (German). The vocalists engaged are Mesdames Albani, Anna Williams, Helen Trust, Belle Cole, and Marian Mackenzie; Messrs. Lloyd, Ben Davies, Salmond, Pierpoint, and Henschel.

Our Glasgow correspondent points out that the Choral Union of the great city on the Clyde recently accomplished a notable feat; that is to say, performed three oratorios in one week. "Belshazzar" was given on January 31, the "Creation" on the 2nd ult., and "Elijah" on the 4th ult. Bravo the Choral Union! This is almost equivalent to a Festival, and assuredly celebrated in worthy fashion the Jubilee of the Society.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's music is not strange to the great Handel orchestra at the Crystal Palace, and the most popular of his serious works, the "Golden Legend," will be given there on June 24 next, under Festival conditions, for the second time. It would not be rash to predict the character of the audience, as to numbers, which will attend on that occasion.

We are sorry to read in the Norfolk Chronicle, after an enumeration of the oratorios, cantatas, and vocal artists to be connected with the next Festival, that "what undoubtedly gives the greatest possible satisfaction to the public" is the engagement of Messrs. Paderewski and Sarasate. Perhaps the Chronicle is right, and there's the sting of the situation.

Madame Albani left London for Vienna on the 21st ult. She will sing at one of the Philharmonic Concerts in the Austrian capital, and appear in opera not only there, but at Prague and Buda-Pesth. May all success attend her, for she is much more an artist than the special evolution of musical life known as a prima donna.

The 800th anniversary of the Consecration of Winchester Cathedral will be commemorated on April 8 and 9 by special services. The music is to include, besides selections from Mendelssohn, Handel, Wesley, and Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, a new Anthem, specially composed for the occasion by Sir Herbert Oakeley.

A French translation of "Voice, Song, and Speech," by Mr. Lennox Browne and the late Emil Behnke, being in course of publication, the former has written a sympathetic biographical memoir of his colleague by way of Introduction.

A Suite for Orchestra, by Sir Herbert Oakeley, was recently performed in Rome in the presence of Her Majesty the Queen of Italy, who expressed her warm approval of the music.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

The Ash Wednesday performance of Gounod's sacred trilogy "The Redemption" is now looked for as a matter of course at the Albert Hall, and so far from the work fading in popularity it appears to rise in the estimation of the great oratorio-loving public, the attendance on the 15th ult. exceeding, it is said, 8,000 persons. The French master's deeply impressive musical illustration of the sublime tragedy of Calvary is more effective in the huge building at Kensington Gore than in any other concert-room, though of course a Cathedral is the most fitting place for its presentation. Though not faultless, the rendering on the present occasion was well worthy of Sir Joseph Barnby's forces, the clear enunciation of the words in the choruses calling for special commendation. Among the soloists the greatest effect was won by Miss Esther Palliser, whose sweet, well-trained voice told so well in the lovely air with chorus, "From Thy love as a Father," that an encore was demanded with irresistible force. Mr. Iver McKay made one unfortunate slip but was otherwise efficient, and the services rendered by Miss Margaret Hoare, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. Norman Salmond, and Mr. Watkin Mills were in all respects satisfactory.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

At the fifth Concert, which took place on the 2nd ult., Mr. Henschel brought forward his newly-formed choir, the pieces chosen for its trial-flights being Mendelssohn's beautiful "Hear my Prayer" and the superb chorale "Wach auf!" from "Die Meistersinger." Both performances justified a belief that this choral force will, in the near future, take high rank among Metropolitan choirs. Its tone is powerful, rich, and brilliant—its attack and discipline excellent. That a certain lack of ease and subtlety should have marked its contrasts and gradations of speed and power was not surprising, since the débutant's sense of responsibility necessarily leads to excess of zeal. Such defects will soon remedy themselves. The solo in Mendelssohn's charming work had for its interpreter that perfect artist, Mrs. Henschel, who also introduced an air from Massenet's "Esclarmonde." The purely orchestral numbers were Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony, Schumann's fine Overture to "Manfred," and a selection from "Die Meistersinger." Of the first-named, better performances have been heard, but Schumann and Wagner had full justice done to them, which is not saying a little. The audience was the largest that, until then, had attended a London Symphony Concert, but was exceeded by that which assembled at the next Concert, on the 16th ult. On this occasion some three hundred eager applicants for admission had to be sent away. The attractions were Beethoven's "Eroica," and, for the rest, a Wagner programme. The Symphony was very well played, if we except a little loss of dignity at the outset, and Mr. Henschel was recalled at its close. The "Siegfried Idyll," the Prelude and Closing Scene from "Tristan," the "Procession of the Gods" from "Das Rheingold," and two vocal excerpts from "Die Meistersinger" formed the Wagner selection which, with the Symphony, had been chosen in commemoration of the anniversary of Wagner's death (the 13th ult.), and was rendered with much of the effect intended by the composer. The vocal pieces consisted of the Prize Song and the famous Quintet. The Walther on this occasion was Mr. Henry McKinley, who has a voice of genuine tenor quality and a good method. His phrasing was not broad enough for our liking, but nervousness must perhaps be held accountable. Mr. McKinley's first appearance awakened a desire to hear him again, and the audience said so, quite plainly, in the usual way. His colleagues in the Quintet were Miss Nancy McIntosh, Miss M. Brema, Mr. C. Karlyle, and Mr. K. Rumford, a new baritone who made a favourable impression in the music of Hans Sachs.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

The Saturday series was resumed on the 18th ult., when Master Otto Hegner was the instrumental soloist. His chief effort was in Beethoven's G major Pianoforte Concerto, the solo part of which he rendered accurately, neatly, and rhythmically, though without any depth of feeling. In a Valse Caprice by Strauss-Tausig he displayed his excellent technique to great advantage, and was also heard in Chopin's Ballade in G minor, playing Schumann's "Des Abends" as an encore. Mr. Manns, who was very cordially and sympathetically greeted on resuming his place at the Conductor's desk, introduced a couple of numbers from Nicodé's "Carnival," a bright and showy composition of considerable merit. Fine performances were given of Beethoven's C minor Symphony and Sterndale Bennett's beautiful "Naiads" Overture. Madame Duma, the vocalist of the afternoon, was heard to considerable advantage in the familiar scena from "Tannhäuser" in which Elizabeth greets the halls of her ancestors, and in some Lieder by Lassen.

SIR CHARLES HALLÉ'S CONCERT.

The statement widely circulated last year that Sir Charles Hallé would give no more Concerts in London with his famed Manchester band, in consequence of the small measure of support he had received, has happily proved to be erroneous, and the large and brilliant audience which attended the performance in St. James's Hall, on the 22nd ult., may probably induce him to continue his enterprise next season. Certainly, the programme on the occasion referred to was singularly attractive, the addition of a little vocal music being no doubt welcome to the general public. The orchestral pieces included Beethoven's Symphony in C minor, Weber's "Der Freischütz" Overture and Wagner's to "Die Meistersinger," and these were all given in a manner that it would be no exaggeration to describe as superb, the ensemble being absolutely faultless. Dvorák's picturesque Suite in D (Op. 39), first introduced last season, was repeated by desire, and again proved very enjoyable. An extremely fine performance was given of Brahms's masterly Double Concerto in A minor, for violin and violoncello, by Lady Hallé, the two artists being twice recalled. Mr. Santley, who was in excellent voice, sang the aria "Hai gia vinta la causa" from "Le Nozze di Figaro," and Mdlle. Landi gave Berlioz's very expressive song "La Captive." The new-comer has a moderately powerful mezzo-soprano voice of wide range and pure quality, and her method and phrasing proved her to be an artist of the first grade.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

The lyric drama is accustomed in this country to free treatment, and at Covent Garden, during the past month, it had to submit to the exigencies of Sir Augustus Harris's fancy balls. With the stage occupied by a gallery for performers of dance music, it became necessary to give opera, if at all, off the regular boards and on some others of an improvised character. The manager, equal to the occasion, hit upon the idea of a "Recital," in costume and with action, but on a platform built up in front of the proscenium and without scenery. A first representation under these conditions passed off well. Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "L'Amico Fritz" were the chosen works—happily chosen in view of the novel conditions, because nothing in the dramatic situations tended to provoke hilarity in the wrong place. Some delay was experienced in getting the chorus on and off the stage with sufficient quickness, but this was made up for by the added effect of the music as delivered in the very heart, so to say, of the audience. Of course, both artists and audience had to "make believe" a good deal, as when a single cherry in Suzel's hand stood for the whole tree required by the mise-en-scène. This, however, was no bar to the enjoyment of the evening's programme, and the artists—Mesdames Del Torre, Guercia, and Palisser; MM. Giannini, Dufriche, and Guetary—played up to their task with unflagging spirit and much success.

The second venture was not so fortunate, nor could any reasonable person have expected that it would be. In "Faust" two of the characters have to die in presence of the audience, and, with no curtain to hide the fact of their return to life, it became necessary for Valentine and Marguerite to "resurrect" before the public eye. This was too much even for a confiding British public, who discovered that their sense of dramatic propriety had, under the circumstances, been offended. So "Faust" was not a success, albeit its familiar strains won the applause they usually evoke. Should the manager resume these Recitals at any time, he must be careful to put up operas in which nobody is required to give up the ghost.

PROFESSOR STANFORD'S MUSIC TO "BECKET."

Thanks to the enlightened and liberal policy of modern managers, with Mr. Irving at their head, the supply of incidental music to the poetic drama by composers of the highest rank among us multiplies with gratifying rapidity. We wish it were possible to chronicle a corresponding increase, among audiences, of appreciation in such work; but the truth that music requires to be listened to, as well as heard, has not yet been realised by theatre-goers in general. At any rate, our impressions of Professor Stanford's music to "Becket" were acquired, as to the Overture and Entr'actes, through a hubbub of conversation. To this perhaps we may attribute the fact that it hardly realised our expectations, based as these were on the composer's previous achievements. Of the four Entr'actes, "King Henry," "Rosamund's Bower," "Becket's Rest," and "The Martyrdom," the first and last seem to us to show most inventive power. The grace and fitness of the other two are obvious, but distinction seems wanting. The Overture appears to need a larger orchestra for its due effect, which is agitated and stormy. The music heard during the progress of the play gives evidence of abundant tact, but surely the clap of thunder which follows the death of Becket did not need an orchestral accompaniment! The curtain would fall more impressively in absolute silence. The performance, under Mr. Meredith Ball, was in every respect praiseworthy.

MONDAY AND SATURDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

More than ordinary activity has marked the conduct of Mr. Arthur Chappell's enterprise during the past few weeks, and for this he should be thanked, as the winter musical season has been for the most part characterised by dulness. The first performance of which notice must now be taken is that of Saturday, January 28, but of this little more than formal record is required. The concerted pieces were Beethoven's early Quintet for strings in E flat (Op. 4) and Brahms's somewhat hackneyed Pianoforte Quartet in G minor (Op. 25). Mr. Leonard Borwick gave a highly intelligent rendering of Beethoven's familiar Sonata in D (Op. 10, No. 3), and Mr. Plunket Greene sang in his finest manner Lieder by Brahms and Schubert, and also three old Irish airs effectively arranged by Professor Villiers Stanford, forming part of a new collection shortly to be published.

The scheme of the following Monday was of unusual interest. The most recent publications of Brahms are two books of short pianoforte pieces comprising seven Fantasias (Op. 116) and three Intermezzi (Op. 117), and of these Miss Fanny Davies introduced five—namely, two of the second book and three of the first. Though brief, the pieces are not trivial, and require close attention in order to estimate them at their proper value. At first acquaintance the most charming was the simplest—an Intermezzo in E flat in the manner of a Berceuse, though not so denominated. The rest depend for effect, not so much on their melodic interest as on the musicianly and ingenious writing with which Brahms invariably stamps everything that proceeds from his pen. The sketches are far from easy, but Miss Fanny Davies had fully mastered them and her interpretation could not well be surpassed. Another piece, marked "first time of performance," was a series of five Vocal Quartets by Mr. Henschel, being settings of old Russian national poems, the authorship of which is said to be uncertain. They were translated into German by Mr. Julius Altmann, and were sung in that language, though an English version from the pen of Mr. Henschel was given in the programme. This music is strongly rhythmical and simple in phraseology, as befits illustrations of verses so homely in character. The Quartets received the fullest justice from the composer, Mrs. Henschel, Miss Janson, and Mr. Shakespeare; and the same executants were heard in five numbers of the first set of Brahms's Gipsy Songs (Op. 103), Mr. Henry Bird being an excellent accompanist in both instances. Mendelssohn's beautiful Quartet in E minor (Op. 44) and Schubert's magnificent Trio in E flat (Op. 100) completed a singularly attractive programme.

The Concert of Saturday, the 4th ult., may be lightly passed over. Mr. Henschel's new Vocal Quartets and Brahms's Gipsy Songs were repeated, and the instrumental concerted works were Schubert's Quartet in A minor (Op. 29) and Schumann's Pianoforte Quartet in E flat (Op. 47). The pianist of the afternoon, Miss Ilona Eibenschütz, played Beethoven's Sonata in C minor, a work for which she seems to have a special predilection. Her rendering lacks distinctiveness, but it is chaste and intelligent, and her purity of touch was noticeable in the marvellous Arietta.

Dvorák's Quartet in C (Op. 61), which headed the programme of the 6th ult., though comparatively an early work, had not been heard previously at these Concerts. It is remarkable for the length and elaboration of the first movement and the Brahms-like complications of rhythm in the slow movement. The Scherzo and Finale are simpler and the themes more characteristic of the Bohemian composer, but the Quartet, as a whole, cannot be properly judged after a first hearing. A second novelty was a remarkably refined and elegantly written Romanza in A for violin, by Mr. Piatti, which was played to perfection by Lady Hallé. Miss Eibenschütz contented herself with one of Mendelssohn's simplest "Lieder ohne Worte" and the same composer's Capriccio in E minor (Op. 16, No. 2), and was of course called upon for more, her response being a piece which we understand was from the pen of Ignaz Brüll. Mr. Eugène Oudin sang and accompanied himself admirably in two charming Lieder by Robert Franz and Grieg's "Ein Schwan," but a new ballad, "More than all to me," by Mr. F. H. Cowen, was somewhat coldly received. Beethoven's Trio in E flat (Op. 70, No. 2) concluded the programme.

The Concert of the following Saturday only needs formal record. Dvorák's Quintet in A (Op. 81) was repeated by desire, and also Mr. Piatti's Romanza for violin. Mr. Borwick gave a very fine interpretation of Beethoven's Variations in C minor, and the Concert ended with Mozart's familiar Trio in E (No. 6). Miss Louise Phillips, a pleasant vocalist, gave entire satisfaction in two Lieder by Brahms, and in a musicianly song, "Home they brought her warrior dead," by Mr. Somervell.

On Monday, the 13th ult., Mr. Joachim made his first appearance this season and received an enthusiastic welcome from a large audience. The greatest violinist of his epoch quickly proved that his natural force remains unabated by his splendid tone and firm, virile execution in Beethoven's favourite Quartet in C (Op. 59, No. 3). His solos were the Adagio in E minor from Spohr's Concerto (No. 11, Op. 70) —not Op. 50, as printed in the programme—and an expressive Capriccio in A minor by Gade, a movement of Bach being given as the inevitable encore. Miss Agnes Zimmermann gave a delightfully finished if not very powerful rendering of Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques, and Miss Liza Lehmann was charming in a once popular song "Vieni, Dorina bella," by Bianchi, a composer of many operas at the time successful but now forgotten. The final work was Haydn's rarely played Quartet in B minor (Op. 64, No. 6).

The Concert of Saturday, the 18th ult., commenced with Mozart's Quartet in C (No. 6) and ended with Schubert's Rondeau Brillant in B minor for pianoforte and violin (Op. 70). Mr. Joachim repeated Gade's Capriccio, and also played his favourite "Garten Melodie," transcribed from Schumann's "Pieces for Four Hands" (Op. 85). Four movements from Bach's Suite Anglaise in A minor (No. 2) were added to the repertory by Mr. Leonard Borwick, who rendered them with perfect clearness and masculine vigour. Miss Fillünger was the vocalist.

The last Concert we can notice at present is that of Monday, the 20th ult., which commenced with Cherubini's Quartet in D minor (No. 3). This remarkably melodious and genial work had not been heard for thirteen years, and it was enthusiastically received, thanks, in part, to a brilliant performance. The statement in the programme that only three Quartets by Cherubini have come to light is, of course, erroneous. Three more were published a few years ago and were performed at Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts in 1889. One of them, in F, was given twice at the Popular Concerts in November of the same year. The remaining instrumental pieces on the present occasion were Beethoven's String Trio in G (Op. 9, No. 1), Tartini's Violin Sonata in G (played of course by Mr. Joachim), and four pieces by Scarlatti, rendered with beautiful finish by Miss Eibenschütz. Mrs. Creser, who kindly appeared at short notice as the vocalist in place of Madame Gomez, was most acceptable in her last song, Mr. F. H. Cowen's "For a Dream's sake."

THURSDAY SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS.

Schubert is a good name with which to conjure musically, as Messrs. William Nicholl, Septimus Webbe, and Hans Adolf Brousil realised on the 2nd ult. Steinway Hall was filled with admirers of the master whose honours were destined to be of a posthumous description, and had the programme been devoted entirely to his works gratification rather than regret would have been declared. But it is the plan of the three musicians forming the directorate of these high-class Concerts to assign the first part only to one of the eminent composers and to make the latter half miscellaneous. Thus, on this occasion, Popper's Violoncello and Pianoforte Duet "Im Walde" (for Messrs. Brousil and Webbe) figured towards the close. Summoning the assistance of Mr. Otto Peiniger, the violinist, it was in the power of the pianist and violoncellist just-named to set before the subscribers Schubert's Trio in B flat (Op. 99), an admirable example of the constructive skill as well as of the wealth of melody with which the ill-fated composer was endowed. It was played with much brightness, spirit, and feeling, as also was the Rondo Brillant (by Messrs. Peiniger and Webbe). Madame Clara Samuell gave an impassioned rendering of "The Young Nun," and the exquisite sentiment of the ever-welcome "Serenade" was brought out in an extremely sympathetic and earnest style by Mr. William Nicholl, to whose voice it is so perfectly suited.

"THE GOLDEN WEB."

After many vicissitudes the last opera of the lamented composer, Goring Thomas, was presented for approval by the Royal Carl Rosa Company, at the Court Theatre, Liverpool, on the 15th ult., and the event aroused considerable interest, many musicians, and a strong contingent of critics from London and the provinces, being present, although the work itself is of a more ephemeral nature than those which gave Goring Thomas name and fame in lyric drama. It was not originally intended for the Royal Carl Rosa "Light" Company, as the following extract from an official announcement will show: "The late Mr. Arthur Goring Thomas was commissioned by the late Mr. Carl Rosa to compose this opera in the spring of 1887, Mr. F. Corder having previously submitted to Mr. Carl Rosa a libretto in which the historical subject of marriage within the precincts of the Fleet was the leading incident. At the time Mr. Goring Thomas received this commission, Mr. Carl Rosa had not made any arrangements for the formation of the Light Opera Company, which was not decided upon until the summer of 1888." All this may be true, but the astute manager must have had the light company in his mind when he commissioned "The Golden Web," for even in its present form the book savours of the bouffe order, though it is understood to have been practically re-written by Mr. B. C. Stephenson, while the music never once approaches what, for the sake of distinction, is known as grand opera. A few words concerning the story will suffice in this place. The hero, Geoffrey Norreys, is desirous of wedding the fair Amabel, daughter of Mr. Bullion, a rich city merchant; but being impecunious and, at the same time, entitled to a considerable sum on his wedding day, he consents to marry an unknown masked female, provided for the purpose by the unscrupulous but kindly-hearted Fleet parson, Dr. Manacle. Amabel is pursued by an elderly beau, Lord Silvertop, who thinks he marries her, also in the Fleet, but when the disguises are removed Geoffrey finds to his delight that he is united to his lady-love, while the old fop discovers that he is chained for life to Amabel's spinster aunt, Pamela Patch. In writing the music it would seem that Goring Thomas had the idea of striking a happy mean between the puerilities of opéra bouffe and the necessary elaboration of serious opera. It is a delightful score, full of refined and elegantly written melodies, approaching perhaps nearer to those of Adolphe Adam and of Ambroise Thomas in his lighter moods than any other composers of lyric drama. Without entering into a full analysis, mention may be made of the bright opening choruses in the Fleet market; a sentimental air for the hero, "Fly, summer, fly"; an expressive song for the spinster aunt, "I knew a love-song years ago"; and a quintet, "A Golden Web's before them" in the first act; a remarkably humorous song for the old beau, in which he is constantly interrupted by the listeners; an air for the Fleet parson, "Like a kindly spider," in the second act; and the chorus of market people in the third, as being gems in their unpretentious way. Something more may be said of the work next month, when it will be running at the Lyric Theatre, but meanwhile it is only just to chronicle a remarkably good performance by the Royal Carl Rosa Company. Among the principals Miss Alice Estey, Mr. Edwin Wareham, Mr. Aynsley Cook, and Madame Amadi are the most entitled to praise; but all were equal to their duties, and the orchestra, chorus, and scenic arrangements were all of the first class. The company is evidently maintaining the standard of excellence it reached under its lamented founder.

AMATEUR ORCHESTRAL CONCERTS.

We have only two of these performances to notice this month. The Royal Amateur Orchestral Society gave its second Concert this season on Saturday, the 11th ult., the principal piece in the programme being Beethoven's Symphony in C minor. Mr. George Mount's players were a little overweighted in this colossal masterpiece, the wind instruments being chiefly at fault, and the pace adopted in the Andante was decidedly too fast. Far more commendable was the rendering of Sir Arthur Sullivan's charming Masque Music from "The Merchant of Venice." A selection from "Cavalleria Rusticana," two Dances from Mr. E. German's music to "Henry VIII.," and a ballet movement by Tschaikowsky completed the instrumental portion of the programme. Miss Evangeline Florence and Miss Sarah Berry supplied the vocal music, the latter in place of Mrs. Helen Trust. Both were highly commendable, alike in their selections and in the manner of interpretation.

A highly ambitious programme was put forward by the Stock Exchange Society at its second Concert, on the 21st ult. Schubert's beautiful but misnamed "Tragic" Symphony in C minor (No. 4) was welcome as it is so rarely heard, and the same may be said of Cherubini's noble Overture to "Medea." Both were played with much vigour under Mr. George Kitchin's direction, but more refinement was needed in many passages, a real piano being never once obtained. By far the best results were gained in Mr. Ebenezer Prout's tuneful Suite de Ballet, originally composed for the Westminster Orchestral Society. With the composer at the desk, all the details of the picturesque orchestration were brought out with admirable clearness, the performance being one of the best we have ever heard by an amateur body of executants. Mr. C. Rawdon Briggs, a violinist of considerable attainments, won deserved applause in Max Bruch's impressive Romanza in A (Op. 42), and Miss Estelle Thomson was equally successful in a pianoforte Caprice Valse by Saint-Saëns (Op. 38), which she rendered with the requisite lightness and crispness of touch. The male voice choir attached to the Society sang with its customary artistic care a refined part-song "Evening Rest," by Santner, Clarke-Whitfield's picturesque glee "Wide o'er the brim," and a humorous setting, by Mr. C. Lee Williams, of Shakespeare's "Song of the Pedlar," from "A Winter's Tale." Miss Sarah Berry was highly commendable in her rendering of Rossini's "Di Tanti Palpiti" and in a ballad which she introduced in the second part; but she might easily have chosen songs more worthy of her ability and of a high-class Concert.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Regular frequenters of the Students' Concerts cannot but have been struck of late with the general excellence of the violin playing, and more especially with the somewhat remarkable fact that for absolute purity of intonation, for finish and charm of style, the lady students are not only facile principes, but leave their male colleagues simply "nowhere." We cannot stay to inquire into the cause of this singular phenomenon; perhaps some champion of the "Ewig Weibliche" will come forth to give good reasons why the so-called weaker sex is so much the stronger in an important matter like that first requisite of violin playing, perfect intonation. Surely there must be a more potent factor at work than such a prosaic one as mere hard study. Of the students who excelled in the qualities referred to above, we must name Misses Ruth Howell and Jessie Grimson who, at the Concert of the 2nd ult., played the Adagio from Spohr's Eleventh Concerto and an Air with Variations by Rheinberger respectively. Miss Grimson was heard to even greater advantage at the following Concert, on the 9th ult., when she introduced an impassioned and elaborate Andante by F. Kufferath. In this her double-stopping and octave playing were exceptionally good. Of the many remaining pieces in the interesting programmes of these two Concerts, we can only refer to a spirited performance of Beethoven's Pianoforte Trio in D, by Misses Hester Sloman and Jessie Grimson and Mr. Paul Ludwig; and a delightfully tuneful and finished rendering of Beethoven's first String Quartet, by Misses Lilian Wright and Ruth Howell, Messrs. Leonard Fowles and Paul Ludwig. At the Orchestral Concert, on the 17th ult., Mr. Alfred Wall attempted Brahms's Violin Concerto, a task than which no more formidable one could have been put before a student. To expect him to do full justice to a work which even a Sarasate has thought well to leave severely alone would be unreasonable, and, as a matter of fact, Mr. Wall's technique is not yet equal to the exceptional demands this Symphony-Concerto makes upon the soloist. That he is a student of unusual promise, however, there can be no doubt, and that to natural gifts of no mean order he unites the earnestness of purpose which alone leads to success, the fact of his studying Brahms's work should prove. Miss Ethel Cain sang the "Ave Maria" from Verdi's "Otello" with sympathetic voice and appropriate expression, and the orchestra had thoroughly congenial tasks in Gade's joyous little Symphony in B flat (No. 4), Mendelssohn's "Hebrides" and Beethoven's "Leonore" (No. 3) Overtures. It was worth a journey to Kensington Gore to hear the splendid strings play the whirling, tempestuous scale passages in Mendelssohn's matchless sea piece, the bustling Finale of the Symphony, and the famous unison runs starting the final presto of Beethoven's work. The least satisfactory part of the Concert was the indifferent playing of the wood-wind in the lovely pastoral Adagio of the Concerto. Professor Holmes conducted.

LENTEN MUSICAL SERVICES.

The penitential season has again served to develop the musical resources of some of the leading metropolitan churches possessing a reputation for the introduction of appropriate compositions at special periods. At Marylebone Parish Church the first part of Gounod's "Redemption" and Stainer's "The Crucifixion" are being given on alternate Thursday evenings. A better choice could not be made, inasmuch as, whilst calculated to inspire the purest spirit of Christian worship, each work invariably commands the closest attention, no matter how frequently it may be heard. The natural impressiveness of "The Redemption" is vastly enhanced when heard amid sacred surroundings, more particularly when, as at Canon Barker's church, it is prefaced by Sir John Stainer's setting of the Miserere. At the first of these services, on the 16th ult., Mr. Francis Lloyd was the tenor soloist in Gounod's work and Mr. Henry Bailey was the bass. Mr. F. B. Riddle, the new Assistant-organist, accompanied with discretion, and Mr. W. Hodge, the Organist of the church, conducted. The choir, numbering some eighty voices, exhibited adequate spirit.

For the Friday evenings of Lent at St. Anne's, Soho, Mr. E. H. Thorne, the Organist, has again provided an abbreviated version of Bach's "St. John Passion Music." This setting of the sacred theme is in great favour here, and has become so well known that the congregation spontaneously join in the chorales, thus fulfilling the intention of the original designer of this species of composition. It is probable that the "St. John" will never acquire the popularity of the "St. Matthew Passion," but the work can lay claim to a persuasive charm that has the peculiarity of not only winning friends, but of keeping them. At St. Anne's the Miserere and Walmisley's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D minor usher in Bach's pathetic yet noble strains. On the 17th ult. the soloists included Messrs. Sweeney (who sang the music of the Saviour), Ackerman (Pilate), and Pennington. One of the choirboys gave the beautiful aria "I follow Thee also, my Saviour, with gladness." In order that Mr. E. H. Thorne might conduct the choir (about fifty voices) and small orchestra, Mr. E. Naylor played the accompaniments to the recitatives on the organ.

DR. PARRY ON DESIGN AND EXPRESSION IN MUSIC.

Large audiences were attracted during last month to the Royal Institution by Dr. Parry's Lectures on "Design and Expression in Music," a report of the first of which appeared in The Musical Times for February. Dr. Parry had much to say about folk-songs, which were happily defined as "epitomes" of the most advanced artistic music of the people amongst whom they were found. Nearly all the devices employed by the greatest masters to make their music definite and coherent were shown to be existent in miniature in folk-music. Wagner, for instance, made extensive use of a method characteristic of early folk-song —viz., the repetition of the same phrase at different levels of pitch. Speaking of the use of harmony by savages, Dr. Parry said isolated harmonies were very different from the employment of harmony as a basis of design, which had taken European races fully eight hundred years to systematise. The slowness with which this had been achieved was one of the most remarkable things in the history of musical art. For centuries men seemed to have been wholly absorbed by solving the principles of harmony, and their sole aim seemed to have been the writing of simple counterpoint so as to give an agreeable impression. Much of the formlessness of early music was traceable to the influence of the early Church. Dancing and gesture, two great incentives to definiteness of design, had no place in its ceremonies. Its teaching called for introspection and an attitude of mental contemplation and mystic ecstasy. As a consequence early sacred music was totally unrhythmic. The aim of Palestrina, Marenzio, and others was to produce a series of soft-flowing harmonies of dreamy indefiniteness, suggestive of vague intangible beauty; and this ideal was the true expression of the spirit of the Christian religion in their day. Secular music also was at first characterised by a similar indefinite style, but man's instinct soon led him to make his everyday music more rhythmic and intelligible in design. Peri's, Caccini's, and Monteverde's operas and cantatas, however, consisted for the most part of an aimless kind of recitative. Monteverde strove, in a wild experimental way, to secure dramatic expression, and occasionally, by chance, achieved striking results. At first instrumental music was merely vocal music played instead of sung, and consequently was of the same indefinite nature. Aided, however, by the desire for dance rhythms, design gradually crept in, although it took men half a century to even make up their minds to adopt a tonic and dominant succession as a basis of design. When, however, this was accepted, music rapidly became more definite, ultimately going to the other extreme. Cesti poured forth a multitude of well-balanced little tunes, and Scarlatti established the operatic aria form, which, through its persistent use in opera, eventually became as wearisome as the previous formless recitative. Since the time of Palestrina no group of Italian musicians had done so much for the musical honour of their country as Vivaldi, Tartini, and other violin composers. These men were not only composers, but great players, and had every opportunity of observing how their music affected their audiences, and thus they were gradually led to adopt a cycle of movements which laid the foundation of the Sonata form—viz., an opening Allegro, an expressive slow movement, and a lively Finale. The reason why this series had been so persistently adopted was because it afforded the best possible contrasts. The first appealed to the intellect, the second to the emotion, and the third to action and gesture. Common-sense caused the addition of a solidly written slow introduction, and of the Minuet as a true dance form to come directly after the cantabile slow movement. It was soon felt that the graceful quiet character of this dance did not provide sufficient contrast, and composers endeavoured to make it more lively and rhythmic. It was, however, reserved for Beethoven to replace it by the Scherzo, who thereby not only introduced one of the most characteristic of modern movements, but also emphasised the fact that expression of the widest and most comprehensive kind was the true object of art; for in the Scherzo Beethoven endeavoured to write not only a beautiful movement, but one which should faithfully reflect the humorous side of human nature. The Italians, the inventors of all our musical forms, stopped short in their development at the point at which the forms became a means of expression. Then it was that the Germans stepped in and applied them to their true artistic purposes. Gluck protested in favour of expression, and the truth of his aims was shown by the attractive qualities which his music still possessed. His success was the more remarkable when it was considered that in his time design of the harmonic kind was still in its earliest stage, and that orchestral writing as we knew it had not then begun. Mozart, gifted with a marvellous instinctive perception for abstract beauty, strove more to secure perfection of form and appropriate orchestral colour. He established the principles of instrumentation and perfected various types of design. Haydn, always the true-hearted peasant, genial, homely, and human, was not so gifted as Mozart but was more characteristic, and his orchestration, though often crabbed, was always graphic and individual. But over all these composers decorum and conventional propriety ruled supreme. The day, however, was ripe for new departures, and Beethoven's sympathies, like those of Shelley and Byron, were all with freedom and emotional expression; but his mind was so perfectly balanced and his instinct for design so strong that he of all men secured the highest degree of expression within the limit of perfect design. For that purpose, however, he had to use the type of design which was best understood; and that accounted for the preponderance in his works of the Sonata form. With Beethoven, therefore, musical art entered on a new phase, in which progress had been remarkably rapid. Before he was fifty years old, Berlioz, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schumann, Liszt, and Wagner had all arrived, whose very names suggested a different kind of art to that of Beethoven—a kind of art in which the Sonata was neglected. Berlioz, with his impetuous striving after intense and definite expression, could scarcely be thought of in connection with sonatas. Chopin, it was true, wrote sonatas, but, inasmuch as they were sonatas they were not Chopin, and when they were Chopin they were not sonatas. The field in which Schumann was truly characteristic was quite independent of sonata influence. Even Mendelssohn, the classicist, was least known by his sonatas; while Liszt deliberately attempted to replace the sonata type by programme music. In our own day Brahms had written a fine Sonata and was great enough to do so again, but he was best known by "Rhapsodies," &c., and Dvorák, with his unsophisticated, half savage spirit, was not a sonata writer. This showed that the day of sonatas had passed; they were not the suitable type of the instrumental music of our age. People liked now the characteristic more than the artistic. Very few really cared for the artistic side of any subject. A hundred years ago art served a set, formal purpose; now it was required to represent sensations and emotions. We wanted the portrayal of peculiar human characteristics, be they from the "slums" or the palace—on the whole, we preferred the "slums," because they were more marked. The stories of "Carmen" and "Cavalleria" were from the "slums." There thus arose a new consideration in art—viz., the necessity of varying the style of treatment in accordance with the conditions under which the music was to be presented. Many apparently did not perceive this, and hence judged all music to be good or bad in proportion as it approached in style that of the Sonata or Chamber Quartet. There was a curious analogy between the present and a former crisis in musical art. The music of to-day was the revival of the polyphonic methods of Bach, combined with the most advanced types of harmonic design as represented by Beethoven; just as the music of Bach and Handel was the product of the revival of the contrapuntal traditions of the early age of pure chord music, in combination with the simplest phase of harmony in the modern state of tonality. The greatest operatic works of to-day were the most polyphonic the world had ever seen. We were now able to enjoy a complexity which to former ages would have seemed incoherence; and our minds had become so imbued with the principles of tonality, that composers now frequently reckoned on our knowledge to produce certain effects; as when the tonalities were purposely obscured to suggest the mysterious. The latest addition to the composer's resources—viz., orchestral colour, the most subtle in its effects was peculiarly illustrative of the extreme nervous sensibility of the present age. The effect of colour, however, was only to make the listener more susceptible to impression; it was not a true means of expression, which existed in the musical figures themselves. There was a danger that undue indulgence in the excitement of colour would deaden sympathy with the more intellectual side of music. In conclusion, the lecturer said that the chief factors in musical art had each developed into a means of expression: melody, first regarded as a beautiful design, became subsequently applied to expression; harmony, primarily used as a basis of form, afterwards utilised as a means of securing instant expression; and colour, originally used to secure contrast, was now made to enhance expression. Design not only made expression clear, but gave it its full force; and by the quality of the thing expressed and the design in which it was announced were we able to distinguish that which was truly great and sound in art.

The instructive character, as well as the enjoyment of the Lectures, were considerably increased by the musical illustrations selected from the works of the composers to whom reference was made.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

Since our last notice of these interesting meetings, papers have been read by Mr. McNaught and Dr. C. W. Pearce. The former dealt with the "History of Solmisation," and pointed out that since the eleventh century names had been used to localise scale notes, identify pitch, and as voice aids. It was the employment of the same signs for these three distinct purposes that had caused so much confusion and led to such difficulty. The great merit of Guido's hexachord system was that the position of the half-tones was fixed, always occurring between the third and fourth notes. But it was necessary, whenever the music exceeded the limits of a hexachord, or any tone foreign to it occurred, to change the syllables and pass into another hexachord. Such a change was called mutation, and was practically the same as the method of change notes employed by the modern Sol-faist. With the growth of modern tonality the hexachord system proved insufficient, and many and various expedients were suggested and more or less widely adopted. Amongst them were Hitzler's Ba-bi-sa-tion or La-be-ce-da-tion and Graun's "Da-me-ni-sa-tion." In the latter was shadowed forth Hullah's idea of backward and forward vowel sounds for the flat and sharp deflections. The addition of "Si" for the seventh note of our scale was a great advance. The title of "Do," in place of "Ut," objectionable from its awkwardness to vocalise, for the initial note of the scale was derived from the first syllable of the name of Signor Doni, whose friends also tried to secure the adoption of "Ni" for the seventh of the scale. The "Ut and Re" method was still retained in France, but had practically died out in England as far back as 1650. Other innovators to whom we were indebted were Wilhelm and Jeu de Berneval. In the book of the latter we had the suggestion of Mr. Curwen's doctrine of "mental effect." To Mr. Curwen we were indebted for the application of "Te" to the seventh of the scale, whereby the sibilant "Si" was avoided. After a reference to the Lancashire and "Chevé" systems, Mr. McNaught concluded by strongly advocating the adoption of different names for pitch denominations and scale relationships.

Dr. Pearce's paper was based on Sir John Stainer's remarkable essay "Music in its Relation to the Intellect and the Emotions," and had for its title "On Listening to Music." Mr. Prout was in the chair. There was an interesting discussion, in which the practice of following orchestral performances with a score in hand came in for plenty of praise and blame.

GRESHAM COLLEGE.

Professor Bridge began his Hilary Term of Musical Lectures at Gresham College on the 7th ult., when he entitled his discourse "An hour with my Spinet," and a very pleasant one it proved to be. The Professor exhibited his fine specimen of this ancient instrument, which was effectively played by Mr. E. Silas, and spoke in his usual vivacious and instructive manner about the "Parthenia, or the Maydenhead of the first musicke that ever was printed for the Virginalls, composed by the famous Masters William Byrd, Dr. John Bull, and Orlando Gibbons," the original edition of which, "entirely engraven upon copper plates by William Hole," was published in 1611. Referring to the characteristics of the twenty-one pieces which were contained in this volume, the Professor read a description of the "Pavan," which would seem to indicate that this name was derived from the figures of the dance, rather than from the costumes of the dancers. The passage ran as follows: "Pavan, an old stately dance, which received its name from the dancers, who with curious steps and settings of the feet, placing themselves one before the other, formed a wheel, almost like the peacocks when they puff themselves."

At the second Lecture the Professor based his remarks on John Playford, who effected many improvements in music printing. In his "Tunes to the Psalms" the "Courteous Reader" was thus addressed: "These following tunes of the Psalms are much used, not only for young probationers in song, but for those Parish Clerks which live in Country Towns and Villages where their skill is as small as their wages: But to them of this City of London which are most of them skilful and judicious men (in this matter) it will add little to their knowledge, yet I hope and wish it may to some of their congregations, who I am very sensible have great need of Instruction therein." Playford himself being a parish clerk to the Temple Church in 1683 might, the Professor said, have had something to do with the above expressed superiority of the London men over their country brethren. A very enjoyable selection of catches, ayres, dialogues, and glees from "Playford's Musical Companion" were sung during this Lecture by Mr. Dan Price and some of the Westminster Abbey choirboys.

The two concluding Lectures were continuations of "Talks about the Orchestra," the instruments under consideration on this occasion being the trumpet, trombones, and bass tuba. The principles of construction, capabilities, and peculiarities, together with examples of the use by composers of these instruments, were graphically described, and an interesting explanation given of the three varieties of the slide trumpet—viz., the original, invented about the end of last century by John Hyde; Mr. Wyatt's, which had four tubes sliding on each other in such manner that only half the wrist movement was necessary; and Messrs. Boosey's, in which the slide worked from the performer. The modern "Bach trumpet" in A alt, consisting of a long straight tube of narrow bore and provided with two pistons, was also commented on, and the cornet-à-piston referred to in Berlioz's words as an instrument "used in circles of society in which elevation and purity of style were not considered essential."

The illustrations on the trumpet were played by Messrs. Solomon and Morrow, and those on the trombones and bass tuba by Messrs. Colton, Davis, Gutteridge, and Booth, the ensemble playing of the latter admirably displaying the delicate gradations of tone of which trombones are capable. Mr. C. Ackerman, by his excellent singing, also contributed to the enjoyment of the audience.

MR. DAVID JENKINS'S ORATORIO "DAVID AND SAUL" AT SWANSEA.

An event of some interest to the music-loving Welsh, and one which has been looked forward to with considerable interest for some time, was the first performance of the Oratorio "David and Saul," composed by David Jenkins, which took place at Swansea on January 26 last. Generally, it may be assumed that music in Wales is mainly made up of choral singing, and therefore the production of a new Oratorio by a Welsh composer is an event always viewed with keen interest. "David and Saul," although now performed for the first time in its entirety, was written some ten years ago, and two or three of its choruses have become widely known in the Principality, having been freely used as test pieces at the National Eisteddfod competitions, a purpose for which they are well adapted. The work, commendably moderate in length—twenty-four numbers—deals prettily and poetically with the episode in the life of Saul, wherein the melancholy is dispelled by the power of music performed by David and the musicians who accompany him. This affords opportunity for musical treatment of various emotions, such as Saul's melancholy, his despair, pride, rage, terror, and repentance, and his comfort at the return of the Divine favour, which changes his anguish into joy, whereon "the Fiend departs, and David concludes with a song of triumph on the powers of harmony and the seraphic hymn that attends her as the minister of heaven on the creation of the world." The Oratorio is written for soprano, contralto, tenor, and bass soli, and the usual chorus and orchestra. It opens with an Overture—Adagio in A minor, leading to Allegro in A major—in the regulation "two-subject" form. The principal vocal numbers include the airs "Almighty Lord" and "Ye woods and lakes," for tenor; "And lo! the radiant sun" and "Descend, Celestial visions," for bass; "Happy King, thy woes are o'er," for contralto, and solo for same, with male-voice chorus, "Sweetly let the numbers roll"; and for soprano, "Hark, the solemn nightingale" (with chorus), and "Come, fair repentance." All of these are more or less effective. One of the most attractive numbers is the quartet "Softly breathe your numbers." It is well written for voices, and met with an irresistible encore, and will probably be heard again as a detached concert piece, for which it seems well adapted.

The choruses, as might be expected in Welsh compositions, are the most successful portions of the work. They are original in subject and ingenious in treatment, and possess a considerable amount of dramatic power, which culminates in the chorus "Now th' impetuous torrents rise" (one of the test pieces at the Grand National Eisteddfod at Swansea in 1891). Others specially worthy of notice are "Thus Heav'n's decree in thunder's sound" (National Eisteddfod Competition at Aberdare), "Fly, ye sons of Israel," and the concluding chorus, "'Twas then, ye sons of God" (National Eisteddfod Competition, Brecon).

Taken as a whole, the work possesses plenty of vigour and greater originality than we are in the habit of expecting from Welsh composers of oratorios. There are, in places, certain small matters that betray a want of experience—such as an occasional abruptness of modulation and a crude progression in the vocal solos, as well as passages for the orchestra—the latter not at all to be wondered at in Wales, where it would almost seem as if the average choral conductors considered instrumental or orchestral music quite a superfluity, and where it is not at all an uncommon thing in the performance of an oratorio for the conductor to cease beating when the voice stops, thereby depriving what orchestra there may be of help just when it is most wanted.

Certain it is that to hear a fairly decent orchestra at an oratorio performance in South Wales is almost impossible. The performance now under notice was marred by a very shaky rendering of that portion of the score for which the composer has our sympathy, and therefore it would be hardly fair to say much about it. The chorus, on the contrary, had been well trained, and did, as Welsh choruses generally do, excellently well. In quality of tone, balance of parts, precision in attack, and just intonation they are worthy of all praise.

The solos, too, were in good hands. Miss Medora Henson, the soprano, a most intelligent and capable artist, confirmed the good impression which she made in the town not long since, and is likely to be in request for similar performances in the district. Miss H. M. Jones, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. David Hughes, who made up the quartet, are all well known. They were in excellent form and had a very warm reception, which was all the more hearty from the fact that they are all Swansea born and are three artists of whom Swansea people are very justly proud.

The audience was a large one and very appreciative, and the cordial reception given to his work must have been very gratifying to the composer, who conducted, and was heartily applauded and recalled at its conclusion.

OBITUARY.

Vincenz Lachner, the youngest of the three brothers who have attained distinction in the musical world, died at Carlsruhe on January 22. He was born at Rain (Bavaria), on July 19, 1811, his father being Organist of that place, and the early and most thoroughgoing instructor of his gifted sons. After having passed through an educational course at the Gymnasium of Augsburg (maintaining himself the while by singing in churches and giving music lessons), Vincenz became for a time private tutor in an aristocratic family at Posen, and in 1833 was appointed vice-capellmeister at the Kärnthner-Thor Theater, in Vienna, where his brother, Franz, occupied the post of principal Conductor. On the appointment of the latter shortly afterwards to a similar position at the Mannheim Court Theatre, Vincenz succeeded his brother in the Viennese appointment; and again, two years later, when Franz accepted the important conductorship at the Munich Opera, the younger Lachner stepped into his place at Mannheim, a position from which he retired in 1873. Since then he has lived in Carlsruhe, actively employed until the last in his art, composing and conducting an occasional Concert performance. Vincenz Lachner was a most able and genial Conductor, and his artistic influence upon the musical life of Mannheim has been most marked. As a composer he followed the traditions of the classical school, and without being endowed with a distinctly creative power, will always occupy an honoured place in the musical history of his country. Vincenz Lachner visited this country in 1842, in the capacity of Conductor of a German Opera Company performing in London. Ignaz Lachner, though greatly advanced in years, still lives, in retirement, at Hanover.

Josepha Lang, a niece of Mozart, died, in the latter part of January last, at Vienna, aged seventy-three. She had lived for many years past in the Austrian capital in great poverty, and on more than one occasion Concert performances were organised in her aid.

After a long illness, Miss Bettina Walker, whose "Musical Experiences," published in 1890, revealed an interesting writer as well as earnest student, has passed away. Born in Dublin, Miss Walker's musical studies were not at first her main object in life, but, as narrated in her book, she ultimately found her vocation in music, and particularly in promulgating the views on pianoforte playing of Adolphe Henselt, her last and best appreciated instructor. Miss Walker was resident in London for the last few years, and died, on the 4th ult., at Fulham.

With regret we announce the death, on the 10th ult., of Mr. George Ferrey, until lately Organist of Christ Church Priory. This appointment has been held by only two organists since the organ was built in 1788, Mr. Hiscock, who was the first holder, being succeeded by Mr. Ferrey in 1851.

We have to record the death, on the 13th ult., at Edinburgh, of Mr. George Lichtenstein, a well-known and much-esteemed professor of music there. A native of Hungary, he was brought up for the law, but being concerned with the Revolution in the capacity of private secretary to Kossuth, he was actively engaged throughout the struggle, and when it was terminated by the intervention of the Russians he retired to Königsberg. The convention between Austria and Germany in 1851 compelled him to make a hurried departure from thence, and, accompanied by his brother, Mr. F. L. Lichtenstein, now editor of the Correspondence de Pesth, he arrived in London, where he soon made many friends, including the house of Broadwood, to which he always remained much attached. In 1856 he settled in Edinburgh, and, entirely devoting himself to music, became one of the leading pianoforte teachers and exercised an important influence on the musical taste of that city. When the Duke of Edinburgh (then Prince Alfred) was resident at Holyrood pursuing his studies, Mr. Lichtenstein was honoured by being chosen to accompany His Royal Highness's performances on the violin. He was for many years a Director of the Edinburgh Philosophical Institution and one of the founders of the Edinburgh Society of Musicians, of which he was at one time the President. He was also a Director of the Charlotte Square Institution, in which he acted as head of the music department. Of refined and distinguished manners and imbued with a wide culture, he had a large circle of friends, not only among the residents, but including nearly every musician of note who visited Edinburgh. He was in his seventieth year and unmarried.

The death is announced, on the 15th ult., at Lille, of Gabriel Sinsoilliez, the chef d'orchestre at the Grand Théâtre, a few days after the first French performance there, under his direction, of Wagner's "Der fliegende Holländer," referred to in our Foreign Notes. Sinsoilliez was the composer of several comic operas and operettas, including "Les Francés d'Yvonne," "Kahnfar," and "Sakodo," and had just completed a lyrical drama, entitled "Mariana." He belonged to a family which has produced a number of musicians, and was only forty-five years of age.

We regret to hear of the death, on the 22nd ult., at Brighton, of Mr. George Wood (head of the firm of J. B. Cramer and Co.). Mr. Wood was born in Edinburgh, in 1812, and, succeeding to the pianoforte business of his father, introduced many English and foreign artists to the public of the Northern capital. In 1861 he came to London and joined Messrs. Beale and Chappell in the business at 201, Regent Street, of which he finally became the sole proprietor; and in 1863 took the Prince of Wales's Bazaar, 207-9, Regent Street, and turned it into a pianoforte gallery—then the largest in Europe. He afterwards gave Concerts at Exeter Hall, took Christine Nilsson and Santley on professional tours, and in 1870 opened Drury Lane with a strong operatic company, producing, amongst other works, "Mignon" and the "Flying Dutchman." Of late years he devoted himself exclusively to the pianoforte business, in which he is succeeded by his nephews, Messrs. John and G. Muir Wood.

We have also to record the following deaths—viz., On January 25, at Bologna, Nazareno Gatti, bassoon player, and professor of his instrument at the Liceo Rossini, aged seventy-three.

On January 26, at Bremen, August Meinhardt, music publisher in that town.

On January 28, at Altenburg, Baron von Liliencron, for many years the Intendant of the Ducal Court-Theatre of Altenburg, aged eighty-seven.

On the 5th ult., at Dresden, August Büchner, violinist, for a period of sixty-one years a valued member of the orchestra of the Dresden Royal Opera.

On the 11th ult., in London, Suzanne Lagier, a highly popular Parisian actress and singer during the latter days of the second French Empire, and a successful composer of chansons. She was born at Dunkerque, in 1833.

MUSIC IN BIRMINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Taking up the record of Concerts here since my last letter, reference must be made to the annual Concert of Mr. and Madame Oscar Pollack, which took place in

As it began to dawn.

ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

S. Matt. xxviii. 1—6; S. Luke xxiv. 6; and part of Hymn by Bishop WORDSWORTH.

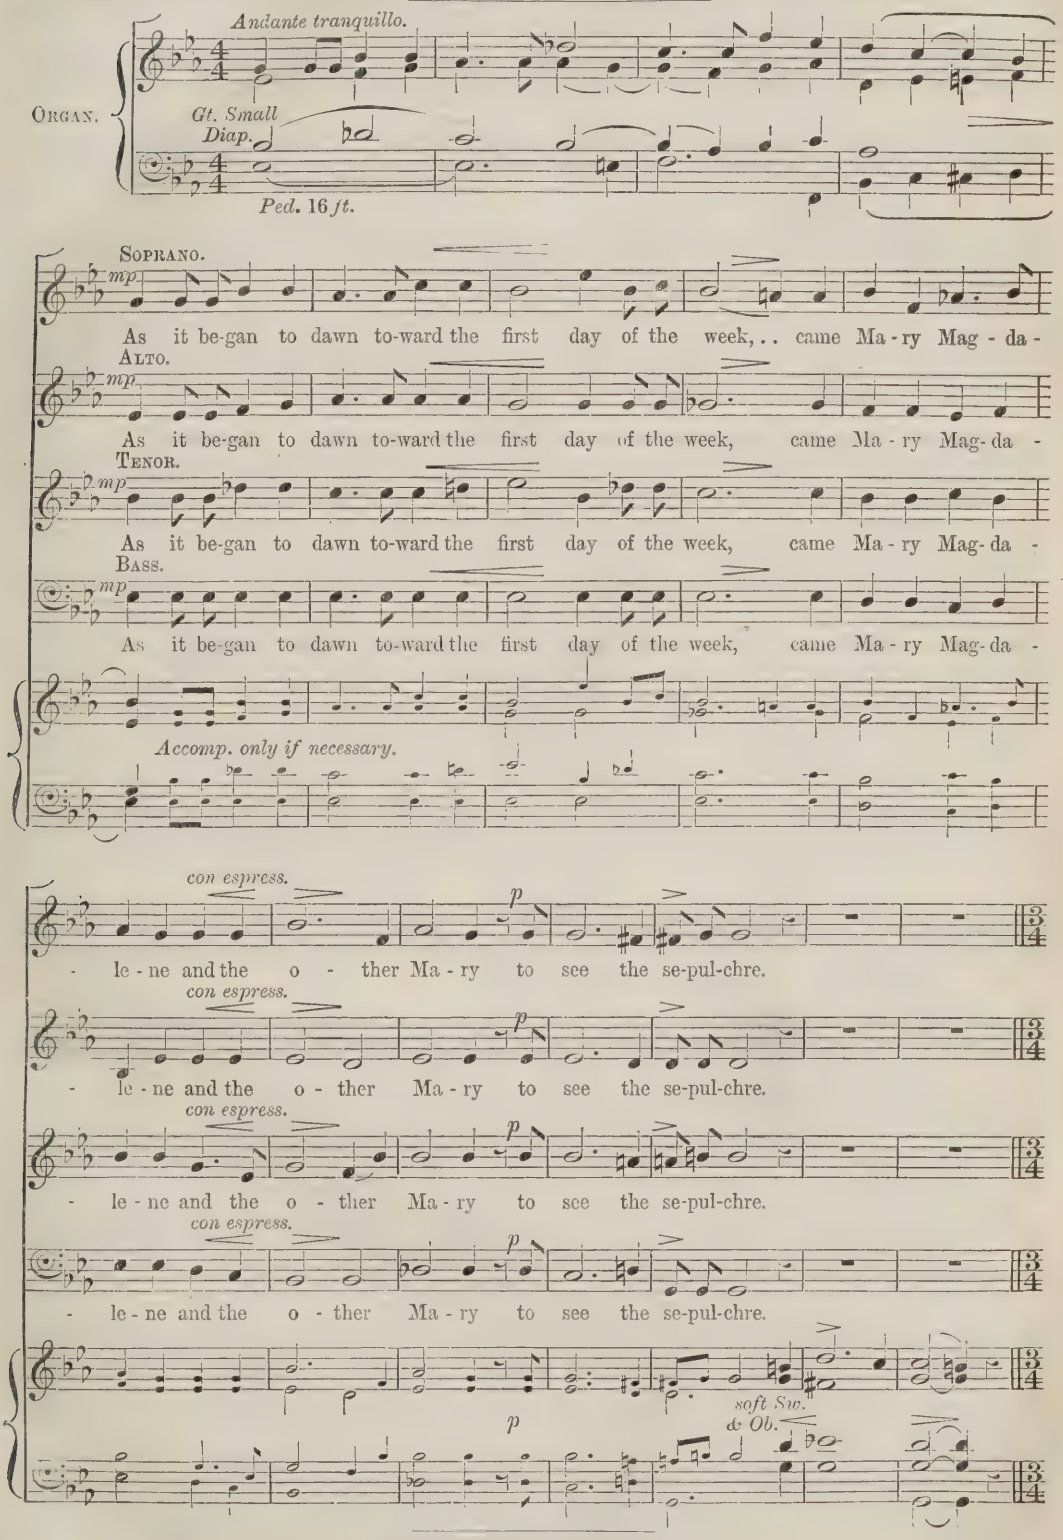
Composed by MYLES B. FOSTER.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.



Andante tranquillo.
ORGAN.
Gt. Small Diap.
Ped. 16 ft.
SOPRANO. mp
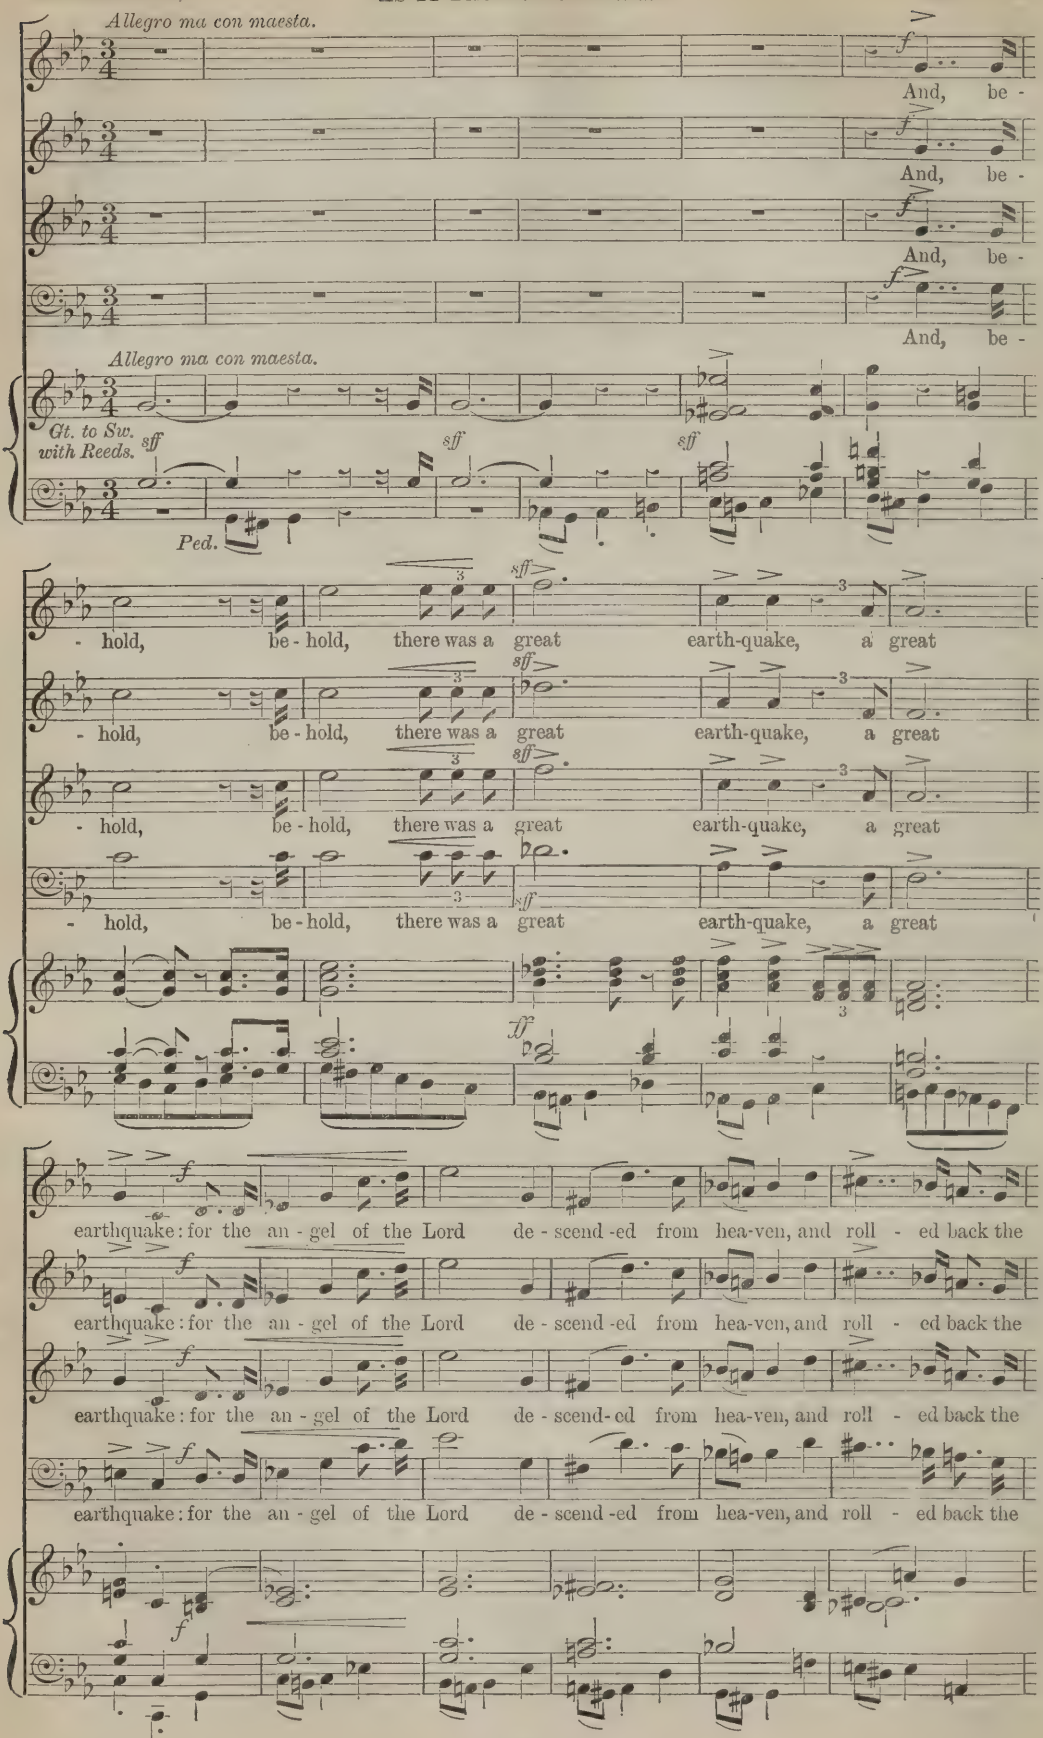
As it be-gan to dawn to-ward the first day of the week, . . came Ma - ry Mag - da -
ALTO.
mp
As it be-gan to dawn to-ward the first day of the week, came Ma - ry Mag-da -
TENOR.
mp
As it be-gan to dawn to-ward the first day of the week, came Ma - ry Mag-da -
BASS.
mp
As it be-gan to dawn to-ward the first day of the week, came Ma - ry Mag-da -
Accomp. only if necessary.
con espress.
p
- le - ne and the o - ther Ma - ry to see the se-pul-chre.
con espress.
p
- le - ne and the o - ther Ma - ry to see the se-pul-chre.
con espress.
p
- le - ne and the o - ther Ma - ry to see the se-pul-chre.
con espress.
p
- le - ne and the o - ther Ma - ry to see the se-pul-chre.
soft Sw. & Ob.
p

Copyright, 1893, by Novello, Ewer and Co.



Allegro ma con maesta.
And, be -
And, be -
And, be -
And, be -
Allegro ma con maesta.
Gt. to Sw. with Reeds.
sff
Ped.
- hold, be - hold, there was a great earth-quake, a great
- hold, be - hold, there was a great earth-quake, a great
- hold, be - hold, there was a great earth-quake, a great
- hold, be - hold, there was a great earth-quake, a great earthquake: for the an - gel of the Lord de - scend - ed from hea-ven, and roll - ed back the earthquake: for the an - gel of the Lord de - scend - ed from hea-ven, and roll - ed back the earthquake: for the an - gel of the Lord de - scend - ed from hea-ven, and roll - ed back the earthquake: for the an - gel of the Lord de - scend - ed from hea-ven, and roll - ed back the stone, . . the stone . . from the door, And sat up - on it.

stone, . . the stone . . from the door, And sat up - on it.
stone, . . the stone . . from the door, And sat up - on it.
stone, . . the stone . . from the door, And sat up - on it.
sf
meno animato.
f
His coun - ten-ance was like light - ning, and his meno animato.
f
His coun - ten-ance was like light - ning, and his meno animato.
f
His coun - ten-ance was like light - ning, and his meno animato.
f
His coun - ten-ance was like light - ning, and his dim.
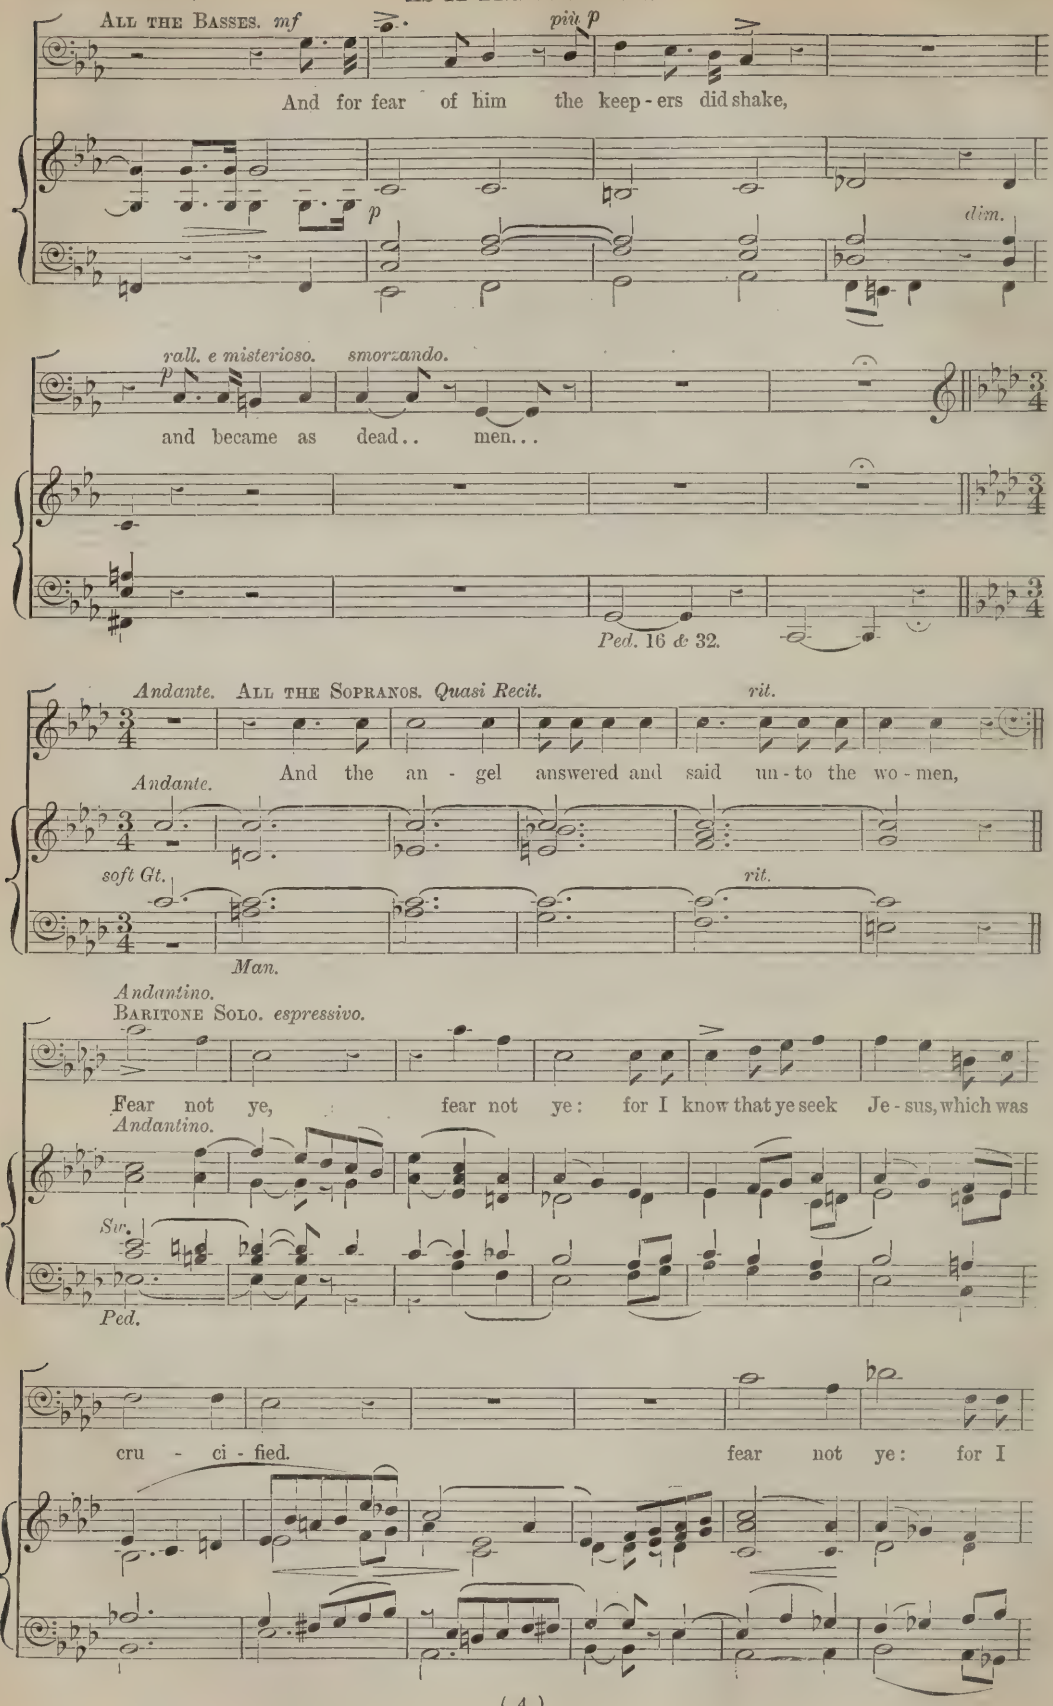
Full Sw.
uncoupd.
rall.
Adagio, non troppo.
rai-ment white as snow, . . his rai - ment white as snow: . . .
rall.
rai-ment white as snow, . . his rai - ment white as snow: . . .
rall.
rai-ment white as snow, . . his rai - ment white as snow: . . .
rall.
rai-ment white as snow, . . his rai - ment white as snow: . . .
Adagio, non troppo.
rall.
Sw. 16 & 8 feet.



All the Basses. mf
più p
And for fear of him the keep-ers did shake,
p
dim.
rall. e misterioso.
smorzando.
and became as dead.. men...
Ped. 16 & 32.
Andante.
All the Sopranos. Quasi Recit.
rit.
And the an-gel answered and said un-to the wo-men, Andante.
soft Gt.
rit.
Man.
Andantino.
Baritone Solo. espressivo.
Fear not ye, fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Je-sus, which was Andantino.
Sw.
Ped.
cru-ci-fied.
fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Je - sus, Je - sus which was cru - ci-fied. He is not dim. p cres. ed accel.

dim. cres. ed accel.
here, He is not here : (re - mem- ber how He spake un- to you
Più lento. Recit. con espress. rit. parlando.
Più lento.
molto cres. p colla voce. when He was yet in Ga - li - lee.) Fear not ye : He is not Tempo 1mo. cres.
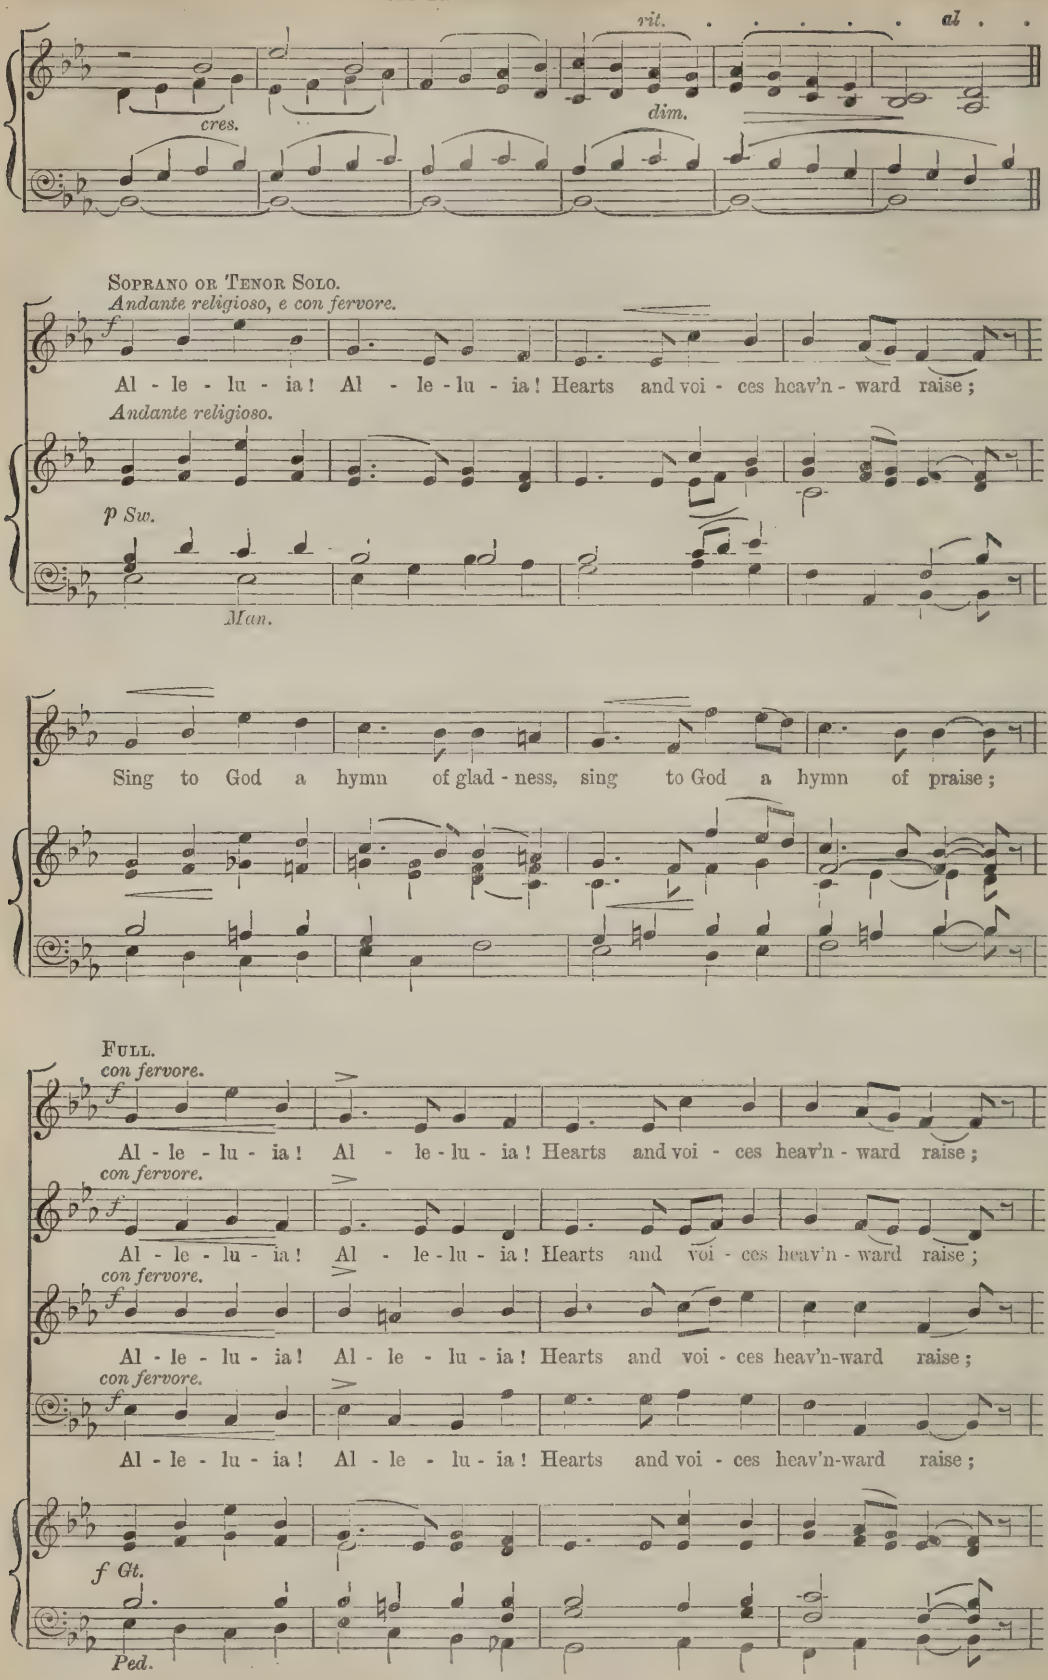
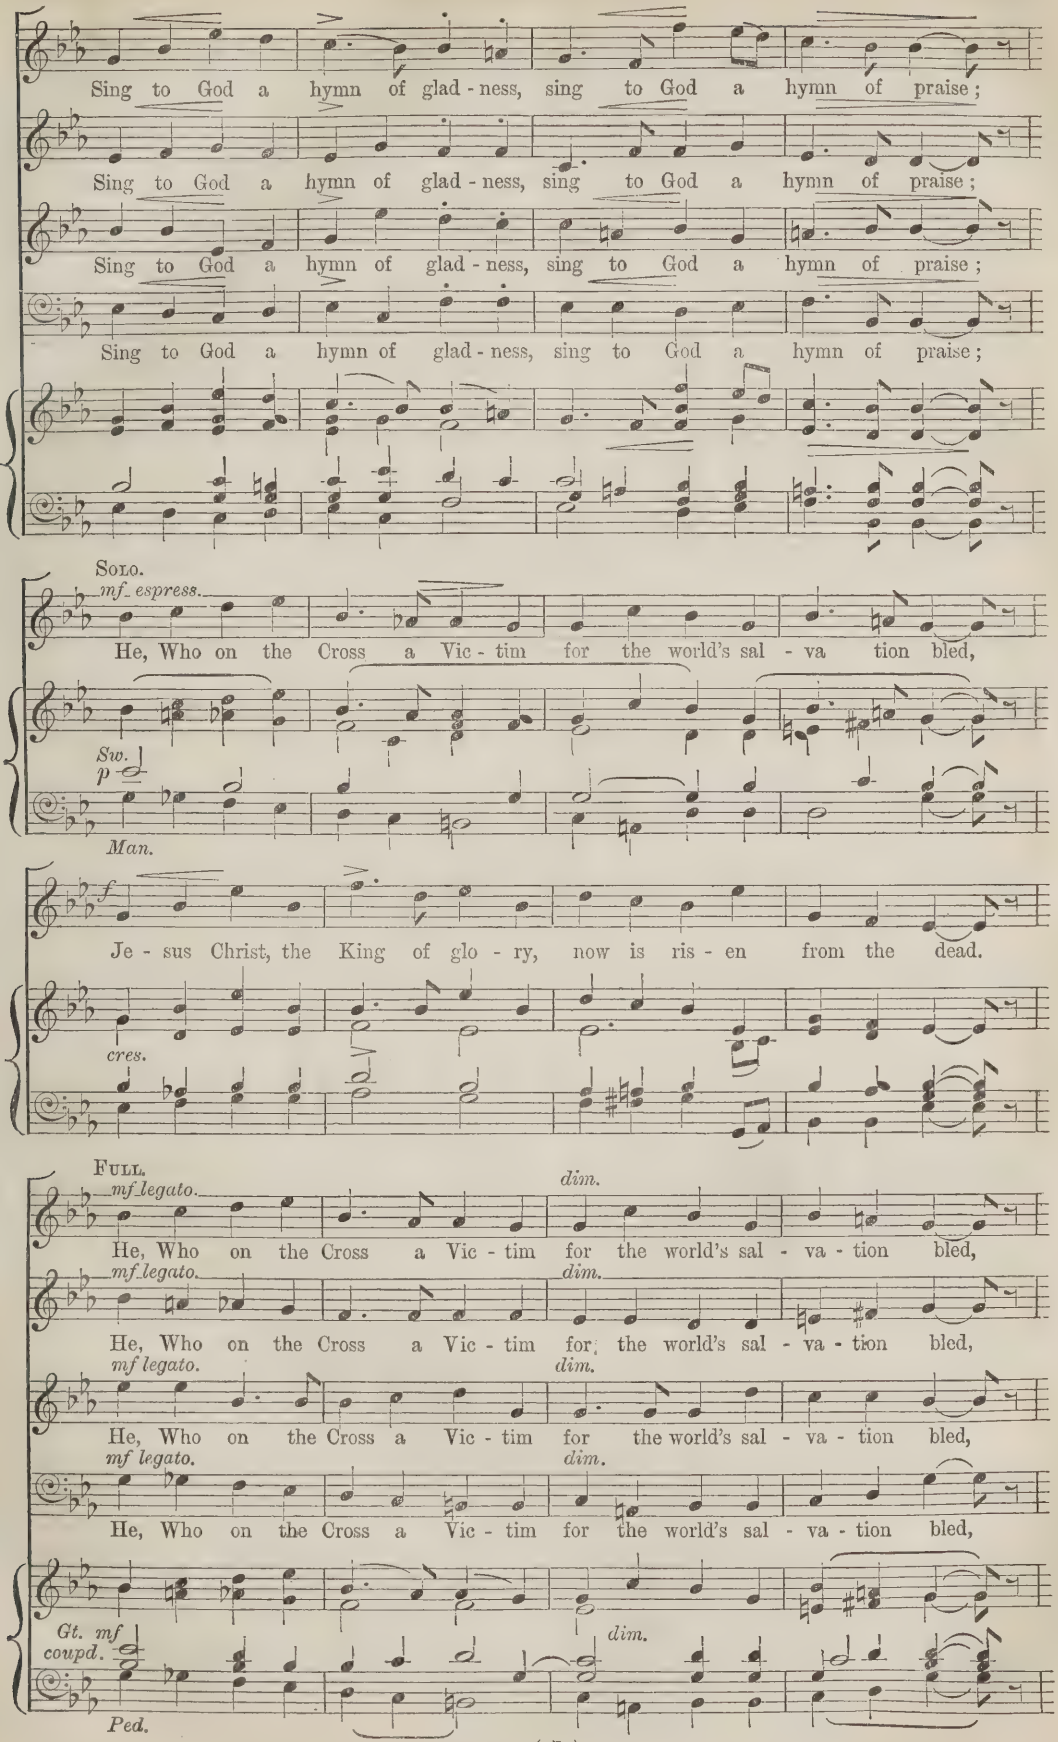
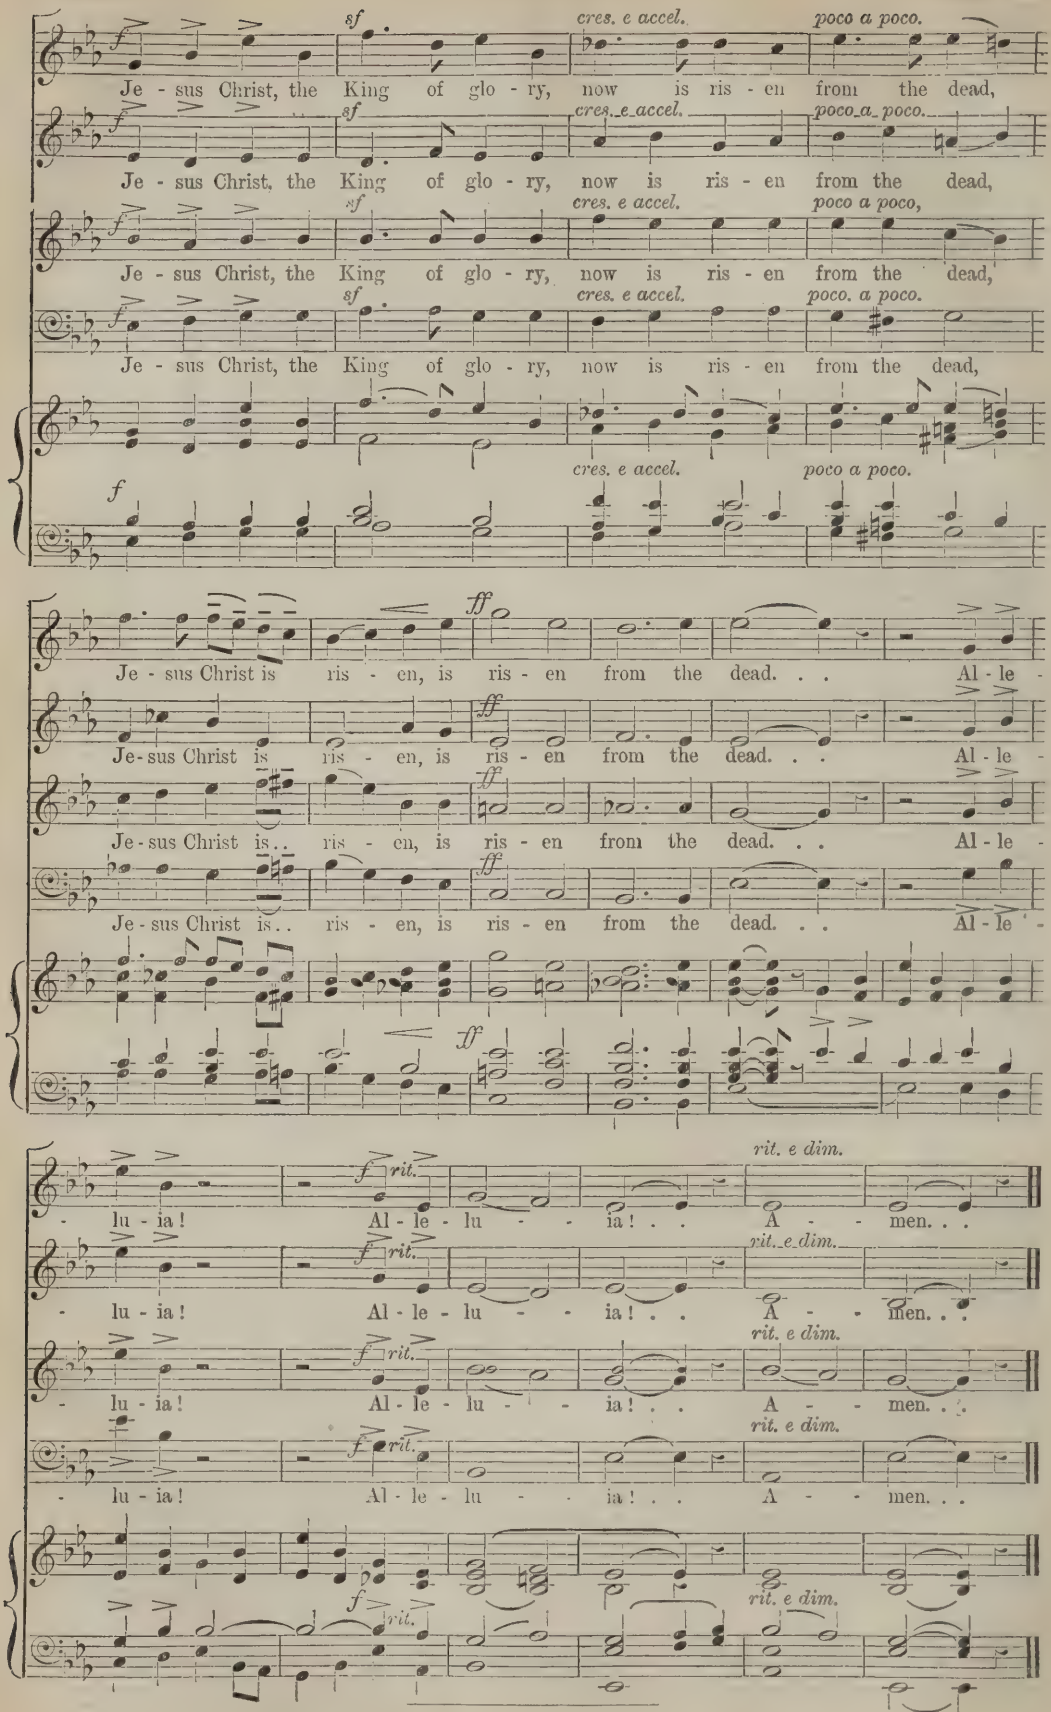
Tempo 1mo.
cres. molto.
here : He is ris - - - - - - - en.
f allarg.
accel. e molto animato.
f colla voce. Gt.
Full.
sff ff fff
Ris - en, ris - en, ris - - - - en !
Allegretto.
ff mp
p



rit.
al
cres.
dim.
Soprano or Tenor Solo.
Andante religioso, e con fervore.
f
Al - le - lu - ia! Al - le - lu - ia! Hearts and voi - ces heav'n - ward raise;
Andante religioso.
p Sw.
Man.
Sing to God a hymn of glad - ness, sing to God a hymn of praise;
Full.
con fervore.
f
Al - le - lu - ia! Al - le - lu - ia! Hearts and voi - ces heav'n - ward raise;
con fervore.
f
Al - le - lu - ia! Al - le - lu - ia! Hearts and voi - ces heav'n - ward raise;
con fervore.
f
Al - le - lu - ia! Al - le - lu - ia! Hearts and voi - ces heav'n-ward raise;
con fervore.
f
Al - le - lu - ia! Al - le - lu - ia! Hearts and voi - ces heav'n-ward raise;
f Gt.
Ped.



Sing to God a hymn of glad - ness, sing to God a hymn of praise;
Sing to God a hymn of glad - ness, sing to God a hymn of praise;
Sing to God a hymn of glad - ness, sing to God a hymn of praise;
Sing to God a hymn of glad - ness, sing to God a hymn of praise;
Solo.
mf espress.
He, Who on the Cross a Vic - tim for the world's sal - va tion bled,
Sw.
p
Man.
f
Je - sus Christ, the King of glo - ry, now is ris - en from the dead.
cres.
Full.
mf legato.
dim.
He, Who on the Cross a Vic - tim for the world's sal - va - tion bled,
mf legato.
dim.
He, Who on the Cross a Vic - tim for the world's sal - va - tion bled,
mf legato.
dim.
He, Who on the Cross a Vic - tim for the world's sal - va - tion bled,
mf legato.
dim.
He, Who on the Cross a Vic - tim for the world's sal - va - tion bled,
Gt. mf
coupd.
dim.
Ped.



Je - sus Christ, the King of glo - ry, now is ris - en from the dead,
Je - sus Christ, the King of glo - ry, now is ris - en from the dead,
Je - sus Christ, the King of glo - ry, now is ris - en from the dead,
Je - sus Christ, the King of glo - ry, now is ris - en from the dead, cres. e accel.
poco a poco.
Je - sus Christ is ris - en, is ris - en from the dead. . . Al - le -
Je - sus Christ is ris - en, is ris - en from the dead. . . Al - le -
Je - sus Christ is.. ris - en, is ris - en from the dead. . . Al - le -
Je - sus Christ is.. ris - en, is ris - en from the dead. . . Al - le -
- lu - ia! Al - le - lu - - - ia! . . A - - men. . .
rit. e dim.

the Masonic Hall on January 26. Apart from the efforts of the Concert-givers as pianist and vocalist, interest centred in the first appearance here of that gifted Royal Academy student, Miss Ethel Barns. Her violin-playing is certainly of a very high order, and the Polonaise from her own pen shows that she has no mean capacity as a composer.

Mr. Stockley's second Orchestral Concert was given in the Town Hall on the 2nd ult. Beethoven's Symphony (No. 8) in F was the principal work performed, and some acceptable novelties were presented in the Notturno by Stewart Macpherson (conducted by the composer) and two movements from the Suite by Walter Wesché. Miss Wietrowetz made her first appearance here on this occasion, and created a great impression by the almost masculine vigour and breadth of style with which she played Spohr's "Dramatic" Concerto. The vocalists were Miss Anna Williams and Mr. Brereton.

The Festival Choral Society's Concert on the 16th ult. was of more than usual importance, for it was the means of introducing to a Birmingham audience the "German Requiem" of Brahms. The work had been well prepared, and the choral portions were given with delicacy or vigour as required. Some of the movements were taken too quickly, the great fugue in the sixth number suffering somewhat in effect thereby. The soloists were Miss Maggie Davies and Mr. Ffrangçon Davies, who were very successful in their parts. The choruses were given with massive effect, and the work, sombre in treatment though it was, deeply interested the audience throughout. Following the "Requiem" came Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," a work presenting contrast and yet similitude in principle. This was most admirably performed, Miss Davies, Miss Mabel Grove, and Mr. Iver McKay taking the solo parts. The choruses were given in grand style and the Symphony was admirably played. Mr. Perkins presided at the organ and Mr. Stockley conducted.

Mr. and Mrs. Henschel gave their first Vocal Recital in Birmingham, at the Masonic Hall, on the 20th ult., when a very interesting programme was admirably performed.

The annual Concert of Miss Fanny Davies was given in the Masonic Hall on the 22nd ult. As on the previous occasion, Miss Davies was assisted by Dr. Joachim and Mr. Piatti. The programme comprised Schumann's Trio in F (Op. 80) and Beethoven's Trio in E flat (Op. 70, No. 2). The solo pieces included the new Intermezzo (Op. 117, No. 1) of Brahms, Tartini's "Trillo del Diavolo," and the Suite in G for violoncello, by Sebastian Bach. Some idea of the popularity of Miss Davies in her own city may be gathered from the fact that the whole of the seats in the hall were let at reserved prices.

The Turner Opera Company is still doing well at the Grand Theatre. To the previous repertory Balfe's "Siege of Rochelle" was added on the 3rd ult., and Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor" on the 8th ult., with Miss Amelia Sinico in the title part. "Cavalleria Rusticana" continues to attract large audiences, but the theatre presents the most remarkable sight on Saturday nights, when upwards of 4,000 people are crowded into it.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Several of the smaller choral societies of Bristol and neighbourhood have given Concerts during the past month, but in no case was anything pretentious attempted.

Bishopston Choral Society, a body increasing in membership and efficiency, sang a number of part-songs under the direction of Mr. Cedric Bucknall, on January 26. Among the pieces were Henry Smart's "Sing to the Maidens," Mackenzie's "Hark! 'tis the horn," Schumann's "Gipsy Life," Mendelssohn's "Old Romance," and Filby's "The Mice in Council," which were creditably sung.

St. Barnabas Choral Society brought forward Vincent's Choral Fantasia on old English Airs, and several part-songs and glees at the Concert on the 10th ult. Mendelssohn's "The Woods," Bishop's "Daughter of Error" (solo by Miss Agnes Sharland), Leslie's "Lullaby of Life," and Caldicott's "The Boy and the Bee" were also examples of excellent singing on the part of the choir. Mr. Mathews conducted.

The ninety-third Saturday Popular Concert, given on the 11th ult., was a great success. Madame Gomez was the chief attraction; but, as furthering local music, the excellent singing of several choruses and part-songs by the choir was the most important feature. The pieces were Leslie's "Lullaby of Life," "To Rome's Immortal Leader" (Mozart), "The Song of the Vikings" (Faning), a "Cradle Song" of Smart, Hatton's "Lady, rise," and Mozart's "Sweet peace descending." Mr. E. T. Morgan and Mr. Strugnell contributed songs, Miss Duckham pleasingly played some violin pieces, and the band performed overtures and selections. Mr. G. Gordon conducted.

The annual Concert of the Orpheus Glee Society took place on the 9th ult., when an unusually large assemblage came to hear some of the most perfect singing in the country of compositions for male voice choirs. No absolute novelty was contained in the scheme, but several pieces which have not been heard for many years came with renewed freshness. They included "Past is the race of heroes" (Hargreaves), "Go, idle boy" (Calcott), "I wish to tune" (Walmisley), "Hush'd in death" (H. Hiles), "The old church bells" (G. Riseley), "Battle Song" (Schumann), "Ossian" (Beischnitz), and "The Mariner's Return (Hoesler). Tom Cooke's "Strike the Lyre" held its time-honoured place at the head of the programme. Sullivan's "The long day closes," Krugh's "Drum March," and Cruickshank's "Stars of the summer night" were also listened to with delight. "Come, follow me," for four voices, from the pen of E. T. Driffield, who has local associations, was given for the first time by the Society, and it met with the warm approval of the audience. The humorous pieces were Kunze's "Sailor's Song" and Dr. J. F. Bridge's "Peace," which were both greatly relished. Mr. Harper Kearton and Mr. Montague Worlock were the soloists, and they acquitted themselves well. Mr. Riseley conducted in his usual inspiriting manner.

The first Subscription Orchestral Concert of a short series took place on the 13th ult. The works brought forward were Beethoven's Seventh Symphony in A, the same master's "Egmont" Overture, and Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" Overture, which were admirably performed. Mr. Leonard Borwick played Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, a posthumous Prelude in B flat of Mendelssohn, and a Hungarian Rhapsody of Liszt. With these Mr. Borwick made his first appearance before the public of Bristol—although he has taken part in a Concert at Clifton College before—and made a most favourable impression, his playing of the Rhapsody winning him a triple recall. Among the vocal contributions of Miss Bertha Moore were two songs, "To the Moon" and "Adieu," written by Mr. P. Napier Miles, a cultured local amateur.

The novelty at the popular Chamber Concert on the 11th ult. was Brahms's Clarinet Quintet (Op. 115), which was beautifully played by Messrs. G. A. Clinton (clarinet), Theo. Carrington, H. Bernard, F. S. Gardner, and E. Pavey, and rapturously received by the crowded assemblage. The same executants gave a faithful interpretation of Mozart's Clarinet Quintet in A. Miss Lock and Mr. Theo. Carrington united their efforts in Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, which was finely played. Mr. Worlock contributed songs.

Bishopston Orchestral Society came before the public on the 6th ult., for the first time, and won approval by its playing, under the direction of Mr. Adams, of an interesting programme of music, which included movements from Haydn's Seventh Symphony and Mozart's "Jupiter" Symphony.

A thoughtful and instructive Lecture on "Chopin" was given at the Victoria Rooms, on the 7th ult., by Mrs. Liebich. Mr. Liebich played, and Miss Lena Phillips sang the musical illustrations.

Mr. Carl Armbruster commenced a series of five Concert-Lectures—one each week—on Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde," at Clifton, on the 16th ult. During the course he will play through the whole of the work, and, aided by Miss Pauline Cramer, will sing vocal excerpts.

Kingswood and District Choral Society gave its first Concert on the 1st ult. The vocal body, which was formed in the autumn of last year, has made surprising progress (under the direction of Mr. J. F. Nash), as shown by the intelligent singing of Van Bree's "St. Cecilia's Day" (with Miss Cromey as soloist), Beale's glee "Come, let us join," Edwards's "In going to my lonely bed," and Garrett's "Good-Night, Farewell." A good beginning has thus been made in a large and important district of Bristol, and the Society gives promise of growing into a large and successful organisation.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Dublin Musical Society entered on its seventeenth season with a truly fine performance of Verdi's "Manzoni" Requiem, with the first part of Haydn's "Creation," on the 13th ult. The Concert took place at the Royal University, Earlsfort Terrace, and, notwithstanding several counter attractions, brought together a fairly large audience. The principal artists engaged were Miss Ella Russell, Miss Marie Brema, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. David Hughes, whose rendering of the solo numbers in each work was in every point unexceptionable. The band and choir of about 400 executants claim more than an ordinary meed of praise for their admirable precision of attack, excellent tone, and just observance of gradation of sound, bidding fair to surpass the best traditions of the Society; and perhaps the ensemble of chorus, band, and soloists in the number beginning "Rex tremendæ majestatis" has never been equalled in Dublin for grandeur and sublimity of tone and expression. Mr. Horan was Organist and Dr. Joseph Smith occupied a handsome presentation Conductor's chair, which, with music stand, was the gift of the choir at the final rehearsal, to emphasise their appreciation of the indefatigable labours and distinguished merits of their talented Conductor.

The Chamber Music Recitals at the Royal Dublin Society's Theatre are now overcrowded on Monday afternoons. The quartettists, as usual, are Signor Papini and Messrs. Delany, Grisard, and Bast, with Signor Esposito, pianist.

Dr. Houston Collisson's benefit Concert took place in the Leinster Hall on the 18th ult., and attracted a large and fashionable audience. The soloists were Madame Rosina Isidor, Madame Marian McKenzie, Misses Liza Dorizi, Isabel Maddock, Mr. Philip Newbury, Mr. Bantock Pierpoint, Miss Kate Chaplin (violin), and Dr. Collisson (pianoforte). The programme included a Recital from Gounod's "Faust," with a miscellaneous second part.

The Dublin Choral Union announced a Concert to take place in the Antient Concert Rooms on the 25th ult., consisting of Beethoven's "Engedi," and, in the second part, a "Tone Scene," by Dr. Annie Patterson, entitled "St. John's Vision of Heaven." It is understood that this performance is preliminary to the production of the work at Chicago this year under the direction of the composer.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The most notable personality in musical circles, and one of the most familiar figures in the social life of Edinburgh, passed away, on the 13th ult., in the death of Mr. Lichtenstein. A short account of his varied career will be found in another column.

Professor Niecks surprised even his warmest well-wishers at the second Reid Concert given under his direction. The nervousness of last year has quite disappeared, and a really splendid orchestra responded readily to his beat. The strings were particularly good and well balanced, and the brass was excellent. Most refreshing was the tone of the real trumpet. The programme did not fall much short of the generous dimensions of last year, as it lasted fully three hours, but its interest was rich and varied. The "Egmont" and the "Fingal's Cave" Overtures, Liszt's "Festklänge," Mackenzie's First Rhapsody, and MacCunn's "Dowie Dens o' Yarrow" were the orchestral pieces. Herr Julius Klengel played a Concerto by Volkmann and several shorter pieces for the violoncello, and Mr. Reynolds in a few short arrangements from Bach, called forth the exquisite tones of the oboe d'amore for the first time, in Edinburgh, at least, within the memory of the "oldest inhabitant." Fräulein Fillunger deserves every credit for her choice of songs. Beethoven's scena "Ah! Perfido," Schubert's "Gross ist der Herr," and two examples of the modern art song by Schumann and Brahms, so artistically sung as they were, proved a veritable treat, and her programme stands at the end of our season a grave reproach to many vocal artists whose names are better known. Mr. Francis Gibson accompanied with great taste.

Messrs. Paterson's sixth season of Subscription Concerts was brought to a successful close by a grand Orchestral Concert, at which Mr. Manns produced Brahms's E minor Symphony for the first time here. Mr. Willy Hess, who took the place of M. César Thomson, scored a great success in Bruch's G minor Concerto.

Mr. William Townsend gave a most interesting Pianoforte Recital in the Queen Street Hall on the 4th ult., in which he showed all his well known perfection of technique. Chopin's G sharp minor Etude was, perhaps, the greatest artistic success. The "Appassionata" was rather coldly played, but some of Schubert's "Wanderer" Fantasia was in every way satisfactory.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Choral and Orchestral Concert season proper came to an end on the evening of the 4th ult. with a performance of "Elijah." A couple of Chamber Concerts will actually complete the season's scheme, but their dates preclude notice in our present issue. Mendelssohn's work attracted an enormous audience to St. Andrew's Hall, and as the Glasgow Choral Union know "Elijah" almost to perfection, it goes without saying that the performance was an exceedingly fine one, and rendered remarkable, moreover, by Mr. Andrew Black's powerful exposition of the part of the Prophet. His coadjutors were Miss Medora Henson, Miss Sarah Berry, and Mr. E. Houghton; and at the close of the Oratorio Mr. Joseph Bradley (the Conductor) was accorded an ovation. On the 2nd ult. the "Creation" was produced, and on the evening of January 31 "Belshazzar" was given. The Choral Union, in presenting three oratorios within one week, had clearly accepted a responsibility of some consequence, and the management were thus justified in claiming the occasion as a "Choral Festival." The performances were, moreover, part and parcel of the Society's Jubilee celebration, an interesting epoch which may be signalised in other ways later on. Handel's long-neglected work was well sung throughout, and if the band had been in better order it would have been a very good thing. As regards the soloists, Mr. E. C. Hedmondt, of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, made a decided hit in the tenor rôle, and Mesdames Clara Samuell and Patey, and Messrs. Norman Salmond and Grice amply sustained their reputations. The abiding popularity of the "Creation" was well attested by the dimensions of the audience, and in Haydn's Oratorio the choristers seemed to revel in their work. Mr. Hedmondt was again the tenor soloist, but on this occasion he did not seem to be in thorough sympathy with his text. Mr. Salmond renewed his success in "Belshazzar," and Miss Antoinette Trebelli fairly carried everything before her. It is, indeed, many a day since a débutante held a local audience so spell-bound.

On the evening of the 8th ult. the annual Conversazione of the Choral Union was held, when Mr. Bradley was presented with an address and a purse of sovereigns, in recognition of his signal services on behalf of the Society. Mrs. Bradley was, at the same time, the recipient of a beautiful bracelet.

At Mr. William Townsend's Pianoforte Recital, on the 6th ult., the programme included examples of Bach, Beethoven, Schubert, and Liszt, and on the 9th ult. the Glasgow Quartet resumed their Concerts in the Queen's Rooms. On this occasion the players had the assistance of Miss Fanny Davies in Dvorák's Quintet in A (Op. 81), an inestimable advantage, and an experience, moreover, which ought to attract the attention of all local lovers of chamber music to these Concerts. The programme otherwise contained Haydn's Quartet in D minor (Op. 76, No. 2) and Beethoven's Sonata in A (Op. 69), for pianoforte and violoncello.

Macfarren's Cantata "May Day" formed the chief part in the programme submitted by the Caledonia Road United Presbyterian Church Choir on the 14th ult., and secured a very good performance, under the bâton of Mr. Turnbull. At the final Concert for the season of the Greenock Choral Union "The Redemption" attracted a large audience to the Town Hall. Mr. W. T. Hoeck's choristers were in thorough sympathy with Gounod's impressive work, and while Misses Henson and Berry and Mr. E. Houghton gave great satisfaction, the honours fell to Mr. Frangçon Davies, the bass soloist. The orchestra came from the Glasgow Choral Union, a compact phalanx of forty-five performers, Mr. Bates presided at the organ, and Mr. Hoeck conducted with conspicuous ability.

On the 16th ult. an excellent performance of Stainer's "The Crucifixion" was given in the Free West Church, Greenock, under the direction of Dr. Paton. The solos and choruses were sung, indeed, with unusual care, and the "Meditation" made an impression of no ordinary significance on the large congregation.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

After a lengthy period of comparative idleness the Philharmonic Society has at last put forth its strength, and at the ante-penultimate Concert of the present season, on the 14th ult., the second and third acts of Wagner's "Flying Dutchman" were made to form the programme. The tendency both here and elsewhere in this locality seems to lie at present in the direction of adopting the more dramatic order of things than that which is generally recognised as the special property of the concert-room. Without, however, going further into that which is open to debate, congratulations may be extended to the premier local Society for giving anything at all which has not been worn threadbare. Sir Charles Hallé conducted with an amount of verve which recalled his earlier days as operatic chief during a period now passing out of the ken of the present generation. The eleventh Concert of the present season was fixed for the 28th ult., with Brahms's Symphony (No. 4) as the chief feature of the programme.

At the second Orchestral Concert of the Liverpool Sunday Society, on the 5th ult., in St. George's Hall, the Sisters Pauline and Elise Joran played respectively Mendelssohn's E minor Concerto for violin and G minor Concerto for pianoforte. The two Concertos have probably not been heard before at the same Concert, and certainly have never within recollection been performed under similar conditions by two sisters. The young ladies in question are virtuosi of high rank and hail from America. Other pieces given on the occasion in question were the Introduction to Act III. of Wagner's "Lohengrin" and Haydn's Symphony (No. 2 of the Salomon set). Mr. Argent, as usual, conducted the Concert, which was attended by an audience of 3,000.

The West Derby Philharmonic Society (under Mr. Cooper), the Basnett Choral Society (under Mr. D. O. Parry), the St. Michael's Choral Society, the St. Matthias Choral Society (under Mr. H. Jennings), and other smaller bodies have given Concerts recently, but no special departure is to be recognised in regard to such things except a performance of Mr. John Henry's Cantata "Olga," under the direction of the composer, at the Walton Institute. An orchestra of sufficient proportions to give very fair indications of the more ample intentions of the score, and a competent chorus had been retained, and having been thus introduced to the public, the work in question, which is interesting and tuneful, ought soon to make new friends.

At Warrington the Musical Society, under Mr. F. H. Crossley, gave a successful performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," on the 14th ult.

At the Liverpool Music School Mr. John Ross lectured on "The Violin, its History and Music," on the 16th ult., and at the same Institution an historical Song Recital has been promised by Mr. Barton McGuckin.

Mr. C. F. Lloyd has been lecturing to the members of the Liverpool Welsh National Society on music in the Principality, and has been hitting hard at the land of his fathers, stating that Wales is fifty years behind the times. A great deal that followed this remark might be taken to heart with advantage by those who control the national Eisteddfodau. Mr. Lloyd advocated, in particular, the encouragement of orchestral music and the commissioning of works by native composers at these monster meetings, and he deprecated the retention of musical matters in the hands of local committees, whose views were often limited and inadequate. In place of the latter it was suggested that a special musical council should be formed in connection with these national festivals.

Mr. W. T. Best has been again ill and Mr. Grimshaw has been doing duty in place of the Corporation Organist in St. George's Hall. On the 9th ult. Mr. Best was, however, able to re-appear and gave the regular Thursday and Saturday Recitals, as well as that on Sunday, the 12th ult. A week later Mr. Grimshaw was again announced to take his seat at the Console.

Concerts have been given during the past month by the Liverpool Orchestral Society, conducted by Mr. H. S. Welsing in the absence of Mr. Rodewald, and by the Societa Armonica. In regard to the latter, Mr. Wilfred Cafferata has succeeded his father, recently deceased, as Conductor.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The production, at Sir Charles Hallé's Concerts, of the second and third acts of Wagner's "Flying Dutchman," came too late in January for due record to be made at the time of the efficiency of all concerned in the performance, of the entire preparedness of the choir, and of the really splendid dramatic singing of Miss Palliser, whose fame in this part of the world has been enhanced at each visit. May she come often. Possibly, amid present dearth of tune, Wagner might be regarded as a fertile melodist; still no one would imagine the Wagnerian song to be grateful to the vocalist. So that, without the scenic accessories which the composer deemed indispensable for due appreciation, Miss Palliser and Mr. Black should have been able, all through the work, to engage the full sympathy of the audience in such a story, proves the completeness and adequacy of unallied music, and should suggest a large field for enterprise.

Passing lightly over the programme of the 2nd ult.—at which Sir Charles Hallé's playing of Beethoven's Concerto in G was aided by the unusual crispness of the orchestral accompaniments under the admirable direction of Mr. Willy Hess, and the whole atoned to a great extent for the weariness and noise of Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony in E minor and for the melodramatic ambition of Saint-Saëns's "Danse Macabre"—the splendid rendering, on the 9th ult., of Beethoven's C minor Symphony, of "The Meistersinger" Overture, and (by Lady Hallé and Herr Hugo Becker) of Brahms's Concerto in A minor for violin and violoncello, must be chronicled. The vocal relaxations of the two evenings were supplied by Mdlle. Landi and Madame Sandon.

But the most interesting event of the season was reserved for the 16th ult., when, after long expectancy, Dr. Hubert Parry's "Judith" was essayed for the first time here. That the great strength of the composer lies in his choral work has been abundantly proved—and most thoroughly, perhaps, in his twelve-part Psalm "De Profundis." And in "Judith"—although there are many places where interest is excited by the graceful placidity of the writing, or by the declamatory utterances of the heroine and the king—the most complete absorption is enjoyed in those contrapuntal choruses (such as "It is the gods' decree") wherein the solidity of construction aids, and is consecrated by, dramatic instinct. The choir appeared to feel the responsibility, and did ample justice to the care taken in the preparation of the work by Mr. R. H. Wilson. The band also was excellent, especially under the fact that the parts were played almost at sight. Of the solo portions the most rhythmic and developed fell to the tenor, and Mr. Edwin Houghton greatly advanced his reputation here by his delivery of them. The two boys acquitted themselves admirably, and Master Dodd elicited the warm plaudits of the audience by the unusual fervour which he threw into his part. The combined dignity and pathos of the Queen was happily portrayed by Miss Hilda Wilson, and Mr. Watkin Mills did his best with the less developed and more rugged strains of the Priest and the Messenger. Upon Judith herself devolves the duty of infusing such life and energy into the story as may atone for the weakness of the character of Manasseh and for the long prevalence of somewhat mournful strains. The vocalisation of Miss Anna Williams was, of course, irreproachable; but, perhaps, a greater vigour of style would not only have more accurately brought out the character of the heroine, but have served to better balance the work generally.

The Orchestral Concert, on the 20th ult., of the Gentlemen's Society was interesting for many things. Mr. Santley's rendering of "L'Orage c'est calmé" (Bizet) was marked by all his accustomed finish, and his own "Ave Maria" could not fail to gratify his many friends. But the playing of Mr. Willy Hess in Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto proved that Sir Charles Hallé's splendid leader is almost equally valuable as a soloist.

Another novelty to a Manchester audience was the presentation, by the Vocal Society, under Dr. Watson, of Haydn's almost unknown "Stabat Mater." That it is a great work no one would contend; still it was interesting, in spite of occasional trivialities, especially in the solo parts, and a great want of that seriousness which we look for in sacred choral works, and in which the well-balanced choir of the Vocal Society usually appears to such advantage. The close similarity of the subject of the "Quando Corpus" to the theme of the setting of the same words in Rossini's hymn could not fail to attract attention; and another point worthy of remark is the employment in several of the movements of the small bassoon (in E flat), an instrument unknown in our orchestras.

The Pendleton Choral Union essayed an experiment which might give an idea to Concert-givers who have exhausted all ordinary modes of attraction, by the illustration, by limelight and changing views, of the different phases depicted in the music of the Cantata "The World's Changes," by the Conductor, Mr. Frederick Blacow. It is doubtful, however, whether the appeal to the eye, as well as to the ear, did not serve to draw the mind away from the music, and to disturb instead of concentrating the attention and effect.

Mr. Lane has striven hard to please his many patrons on Saturday evenings. The provision of vocalists has been so liberal that it is difficult to understand how even the crowded audiences could adequately repay the expenditure. These Concerts and Mr. Barrett's afford capital opportunities for the display of our local talent, as well as for the occasional introduction of London artists, and for that reason it would be a pity should the sinews of war prove insufficient.

But the display of local talent of which we are most proud was the readiness with which Mr. Frederick Dawson filled the gap caused by Signor Albeniz's inability to fulfil his engagement at the Gentlemen's Afternoon Pianoforte Recitals, on the 13th ult. For nearly two hours the young pianist kept his large audience in full sympathy while he interpreted a programme ranging from Brahms's Rhapsodie in G minor to Liszt's similarly named, but most different, Fantasy (No. 2) upon Hungarian Themes. That Mr. Dawson had attained unsurpassed power and variety of executancy was proved long ago; that he is now possessed of all the delicacies and refinements of expression necessary to a great artist was proved by the unanimous verdict of the listeners, that the most enjoyable and entirely successful morceaux were the strongly contrasted selections from Chopin.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On January 26 Mr. and Mrs. Henschel appeared in Nottingham at the Sacred Harmonic Society's performance of "Acis and Galatea." Miss Montgomery and Mr. Henry Piercy sustained the other principal rôles. The chorus again deserved the highest praise, and we doubt if it be possible to present a better rendering of "Wretched Lovers." In the miscellaneous second part Mr. and Mrs. Henschel sang most delightfully Mr. Henschel's pretty duet (in canon) "O that we two." Beethoven's dramatic "Crugantino's song" was also finely sung by Mr. Henschel.

On the 2nd and 3rd ult. Mr. Frederick Dawson gave two Pianoforte Recitals to crowded audiences. His performance of programmes selected from the most diverse styles of classical music showed him to possess talent and versatility as an executant of the first order. He will be heartily welcomed on another occasion.

Mr. Charles Fry recited a selection from Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" in the Albert Hall on the 4th ult., before a keenly appreciative audience, who followed his performance with increasing interest. Mr. Fry was particularly successful in investing every one of his dramatis personæ with life-like character, his conception of Shylock being particularly impressive. The success of the Recital was much enhanced by the music performed by the Nottingham Amateur Orchestral Society and a choir of picked voices under the direction of Mr. Ralph Horner. This comprised the incidental music written for the second Act by Sir Arthur Sullivan, which includes a sprightly Valse, melodramatic music, Bourrée and Finale accompanying the revels, and a lovely Serenade very tastefully sung by Mr. Alfred Clarke. Additional music by Tours, Leslie, Higgs, and Pinsuti was introduced with good effect in the subsequent scenes.

Herr Ellenberger's second Chamber Concert, on the 16th ult., was signalised by a highly creditable rendering of the Brahms Pianoforte Quartet in G minor (Op. 25), by Fräulein K. Ellenberger, Herren Ellenberger and Carl Courvoisier, and Mr. Edwin Thorpe. Beethoven's Violin Sonata in F major (Op. 24), played by Herr and Fräulein Ellenberger, Beethoven's String Trio in G (Op. 9, No. 1), and three selections from Schumann's pianoforte music completed the programme.

The Philharmonic Choir made a new departure on the 23rd ult. in giving a performance of Spohr's "Last Judgment" and Professor Stanford's "Revenge," with full orchestral accompaniment. Unaccompanied choral music has hitherto been its chosen work, and it cannot but be with mingled hopes and fears that musical Nottingham sees this fine choir changing its policy and challenging a solution of the question whether the town can support two large choral societies in organising oratorios or kindred works on a complete scale.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

During the past four weeks Leeds has been more than usually occupied with musical pursuits. In the first place come the Subscription Concerts, the second and third of which took place within the comparatively short space of a fortnight. Both were of orchestral music, played by Sir Charles Hallé's band, without whose services the North of England would be in some danger of a symphonic famine. The programme of the former Concert, which took place on January 25, included Beethoven's Second Symphony; Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto, the solo part in which was very finely played by Mr. Willy Hess; and the "Ruy Blas" and "Guillaume Tell" Overtures. An emphatically "safe" programme; yet not a whit more so than that of the succeeding Concert on the 8th ult. At this were heard Mendelssohn's "Italian" Symphony; Beethoven's Fourth Pianoforte Concerto, in which Sir Charles Hallé played with a neatness and precision quite phenomenal in a septuagenarian; and the "Coriolan" and "Tannhäuser" Overtures. Bizet's "L'Arlesienne" Suite was also inserted as a bonne bouche. Madame Marian McKenzie was the vocalist on the former occasion, Miss Dews on the latter. On the 1st ult. Mr. Edgar Haddock gave the fourth of his series of Musical Evenings, the programme being supplied by the touring party of which Mr. Edward Lloyd is the star. On the 6th ult. a Chamber Concert was given by Mr. S. B. Wilkinson, a Leeds violin maker, the primary object of which was to demonstrate the excellence of his instruments. This it must be admitted to have done to a considerable extent; but it also showed the good quality of a quartet of native artists—Messrs. John Dunn, Harmer, Nichols, and F. Weston. In Schumann's Quintet they were joined by Miss Eisele, a brilliant and artistic pianist. The most striking feature of the Concert was the powerful and romantic rendering, by Mr. Dunn, of Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's beautiful "Pibroch," which roused the enthusiasm of the audience to an extraordinarily high pitch. On the 11th ult. a Concert was given by Miss Fleischmann, a local violinist, who played Max Bruch's Concerto in G minor and Saint-Saëns's Rondo Capriccioso. Miss Louie Heath, the pianist, displayed a delicate touch and considerable executive power in pieces by Chopin and Godard. At a Concert on the 16th ult., given in aid of a charity, the promoter, Mr. F. R. Spark, the Hon. Secretary of the Leeds Festival, succeeded in inducing Madame Albani, Miss Hope Glenn, Messrs. Ben Davies and Norman Salmond, together with Mr. Alfred Hollins (as solo pianist) and the clever Meister Glee Singers to give their services, the result being, as was to be expected, a crowded and enthusiastic audience and a very material addition to the funds of the charity.

At Huddersfield the Subscription Concerts have been pursuing their wonted course. The eighth of the series was given on January 24, by Mr. Edward Lloyd's party, and was a ballad Concert of the ordinary type. The ninth, which took place on the 7th ult., was, on the other hand, of high artistic value, and served to introduce Miss Wietrowetz, Dr. Joachim's gifted pupil, to Yorkshire. Miss Wietrowetz's playing of the Andante and Finale of Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto can be best described as a reflection, and that not a very pale one, of her master's rendering of the same work, and the impression her performance left was that she has succeeded, more than any other of Dr. Joachim's pupils with whom we are acquainted, in catching the spirit of his style. Miss Fanny Davies was the pianist, and joined Miss Wietrowetz and Mr. Whitehouse in a sympathetic performance of the revised version of Brahms's Trio in B major (Op. 8). The vocalist was Miss Liza Lehmann.

The Dewsbury Choral Society, under Mr. G. H. Hirst's honorary conductorship, gave a miscellaneous Concert on January 26. The powerful chorus was heard to especial advantage in Eaton Faning's "Daybreak." Mr. Norman Salmond's singing of several solos was, however, the most attractive feature of the varied and interesting programme, nor should the pianoforte solos played by Mrs. Norman Salmond be allowed to be passed over without mention.

At Ilkley Subscription Concerts were given on January 23 and the 13th ult. On the earlier date Mr. Henrich was the pianist, and played solos by Brahms, Grieg, Liszt, Chopin, and Stojowski with exceptional brilliance. The vocalists were Miss Mabel Berry, Miss Lizzie Neal—an excellent ballad singer—Mr. Blagbro, and Mr. J. Coates. At the second Concert the five sisters who style themselves the "Fraser Quintet" supplied the programme, Miss Mabel Fraser and Miss Stella Fraser especially distinguishing themselves as violinists, and Miss Ethel Fraser showing herself to be a pianist of ability.

The Driffield Choral Society gave its inaugural Concert on the 14th ult., Cowen's "Rose Maiden" being the work selected, followed by a miscellaneous second part. The choruses were sung with precision by a choir numbering 100 voices, under the direction of Mr. Harold Shann, Organist of the Parish Church. The principals were Miss Edith Clay, Miss Lottie Sweeney, Mr. Shakespeare Robinson, and Mr. Chilver Wilson, all of whom combined to make the Concert a success.

A goodly company gathered on the 14th ult., in the Hall of "ye Antient Barnard's Inn," to "assist" at Mr. Dolmetsch's second Concert of Chamber Music of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. As on the previous occasion the interest and attractiveness of the performances were considerably enhanced by the Concert-giver's remarks on the peculiarities and merits of the pieces brought forward. Amongst these was an arrangement for three viols by Henry VIII., of an air "If love now reigned," concerning which Mr. Dolmetsch said that those present "might think it was too good for a king, but they must remember that its author in his youth was not expected to occupy the throne, but was brought up for the Church, the education for which, in those days, included thorough musical training, one of the good old customs it would be well to revive"—a sentiment which so pleased the audience that they encored the music. Another pleasing piece was John Wilson's setting of "Where the bee sucks," which from its remarkable similarity to that subsequently written by Dr. Arne would seem to indicate that the "bump of acquisitiveness" must always have been a characteristic of the heads of composers. Other pieces favourably received were a Fantasie for six viols and harpsichord, by Richard Deeringe, interesting as showing a transitional stage; and a "Dialogue between a Nymph and Shepherd," by John Jenkins, sung by Miss Florence Monk and Mr. Fairbairn, the naïve nature of the nymph's questions exciting considerable amusement. The pieces were played con amore, little Miss Hélène Dolmetsch's clever performances on the viol da gamba being greatly appreciated; in short, but one thing now seems needed to complete the old-world charm of Mr. Dolmetsch's Concerts—namely, an audience in contemporary costume.

The West Hampstead Choral and Orchestral Society gave a very successful Concert on January 25, at the West Hampstead Town Hall, when Mendelssohn's 42nd Psalm and A. Goring Thomas's "The Sun Worshippers" were performed. The soloists were Miss Emily Davies, Messrs. Edwin Bryant, George W. Clifton, George Kentfield, and Percy Webster. Miss Emily Davies won much applause by her brilliant singing in "The Sun Worshippers." The other soloists acquitted themselves well. The second part of the programme was miscellaneous; the orchestra played with much spirit the first movement of Haydn's Symphony in C major (No. 7) and Mozart's "Figaro" Overture; Mr. Handley-Davies, the leader of the orchestra, played with much feeling a Rêverie by Mr. Edward G. Croager; Miss Adela Drayton recited a selection from "Romeo and Juliet," displaying great histrionic ability; and Mr. C. W. Evans, who also presided at the pianoforte, played with much taste Brahms's Waltz in A flat and Chopin's Polonaise in A. The choir showed great improvement both in tone and attack as also expression in the quieter numbers. The performance was under the conductorship of Mr. Edward G. Croager.

The first of the second series of Chamber Concerts at the North-East London Institute, Dalston Lane, was given on January 28. The programme included Dvorák's Pianoforte Quintet in A (Op. 81), Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata, and Haydn's Quartet in G (Op. 77, No. 1). All the works were excellently performed, giving evidence of very careful rehearsal. The quartet party consisted of Messrs. René Ortmans, Miotowski, Batty, and Van der Straeten, and the pianist was Mr. Ebenezer Prout. The vocalist of the evening, Miss Rose Dafforne, gave an admirable rendering of Handel's "Chi vive amante," from "Poro," and Liszt's "Loreley," the latter song especially producing a great effect. The attendance was good, and there seems reason to believe that the effort being made by the managers of the Institute to further the cause of classical music will meet with the success it deserves.

The Preliminary Examination in connection with the Associated Board of the Royal Academy and Royal College of Music of candidates who have entered for the approaching Local Centre Examinations, to be held at the different centres throughout the United Kingdom, was held on the 22nd ult. These examinations were, in the provinces, with few exceptions, held in buildings the use of which had been freely granted by the various University and municipal authorities concerned, whilst in the Metropolis, by the cordial co-operation of the Lord Mayor and Corporation, and the Managers of the City of London School, the large Concert Hall and several class-rooms in the School on the Victoria Embankment were utilised for the purpose. The examination lasted for three hours and was attended by a number of the members of the Associated Board.

Mr. Edward Cutler at Erard's Rooms, on the 23rd ult., gave a Matinée almost entirely devoted to his own compositions, comprising instrumental pieces, vocal solos, and part-songs. For the latter the quartet party consisted of Miss Teresa Blamy, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. A. Coward, and Mr. A. Strugnell, who appropriately led off the programme with an agreeable morceau called "Clear the way." "Slovanka" and an Impromptu in G major, as interpreted by Miss Florence Henderson, proved to be taking pianoforte sketches from Mr. Cutler's pen, and some command of sentiment was exhibited in his Violin Romance in B flat, played by Mr. W. H. Bolt. Several of the songs introduced (notably "The story of our love," rendered by Mr. Strugnell) were marked by taste and feeling.

Sir Charles and Lady Hallé's Recital drew a very large audience on the afternoon of the 18th ult. to the Hampstead Conservatoire, and the programme was in every particular worthy the distinguished executants. Beethoven's Pianoforte Sonata in A flat (Op. 26) and the "Kreutzer" Sonata respectively headed and terminated the programme. Lady Hallé played in her neatest and most brilliant manner Tartini's quaint "Il Trillo del Diavolo" and Saint-Saëns's Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso in A minor. Her husband's lighter performances were the Minuetto Grazioso and Tambourin (Gluck and Hallé) and the Study in E (Paganini-Liszt). The accomplished pair were also heard together in Bruch's Swedish Dances (Op. 68, Book I.).

The fourth of the Clapham Philharmonic Concerts was given at the Assembly Rooms on Thursday, the 9th ult. It consisted of a Lecture by Mr. Walter Macfarren on "The Pianoforte and some of its Composers," with musical illustrations. Tracing the rise and development of the instrument from Cristoforo to the present day, the lecturer began his exemplification by playing a piece by Haydn, and passed on to Clementi, Mozart, Dussek, Beethoven, Weber, Potter, Moscheles, Chopin, Schumann, and Sterndale Bennett—Mendelssohn was purposely omitted, the lecturer having devoted the whole of a previous evening to his music. The musical and literary excerpts were followed intently by a crowded and enthusiastic audience.

Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" was given at St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road, on Sunday afternoon, January 29, when the soloists were Master Willoughby, Miss Florence Schilbach, Mr. Gilbert Denis, and Mr. Frederick Winton. On Sunday, the 19th ult., Sterndale Bennett's rarely heard Oratorio "The Woman of Samaria" was the work chosen. On this occasion Miss Gertrude Izard, Miss Isabel Lucas, Mr. Gilbert Denis, and Mr. Frederick Winton undertook the solo portions. Mr. S. S. Martyn conducted, while Mr. Henry J. B. Dart presided, as usual, at the organ. Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" and a new setting of the 84th Psalm by Mr. Dart are announced for performance on the 19th inst.

At the "Benediction of the Rood" in St. Alban's Church, Holborn, on the 14th ult., Rossini's "Stabat Mater" was sung with orchestral accompaniment. The Church was packed and many persons were refused admission. The service was very impressive, owing to the circumstances under which it was given. The solos were well rendered by Masters Gough and Brown, Mr. T. Powell, Mr. John Probert, and Mr. James Blackney. The orchestra was excellent, and kept well in hand by the Conductor, Mr. Thomas Adams, Organist of the Church. Mr. John E. West presided at the organ. At the conclusion Gounod's Te Deum in C was sung. The Duke of Newcastle, the donor of the Rood, was present.

The 288th consecutive monthly Concert of the St. George's Glee Union took place at Pimlico Rooms on the 3rd ult., when Sir A. Sullivan's dramatic Cantata "On Shore and Sea" was rendered in a highly creditable manner, the soloists (Miss Maud Bond and Mr. Harper Kearton) singing with perfect taste, and the choir performing its share of the work excellently. The first part of the Concert consisted of solos by the above-named artists, Miss Susetta Fenn, and Mr. S. Jamieson, and part-songs by the choir. Mr. F. R. Kinkee accompanied and Mr. Joseph Monday conducted with his usual care and ability.

The second Concert of the season given by the Woodside Park Musical Society took place at the Woodside Hall, North Finchley, on the 16th ult. The programme was of a miscellaneous and popular character, and contained Mendelssohn's "Judge me, O God," Dr. Bridge's "Crossing the Bar," and a Requiem for Lord Alfred Tennyson, "Ave! atque Vale," by the Society's Conductor, Mr. Alfred J. Dye. Songs were contributed by Mr. T. R. Johnson and Miss E. M. Johnson, and instrumental pieces by Miss Preston (pianoforte), Mr. J. H. Frewin (violin), and Mr. Edmund Woolhouse (violoncello).

Collectors of rare musical instruments, violoncello players, or philanthropic music lovers anxious to present some budding English Gérardy with an instrument worthy of his genius, will not fail to mark a big N.B. against an advertisement in our present number, in which the genuine Joseph Guarnerius violoncello, formerly in the possession of the late famous virtuoso Jules de Swert, is announced for sale. There will, no doubt, be a keen competition to obtain such a prize, and we trust that it may eventually be secured for this country.

A performance of Sir A. Sullivan's Cantata "The Golden Legend" was given at Brockley, on the 7th ult., by the St. Peter's Choral Society, conducted by Dr. C. J. Frost. The work was enthusiastically received by a crowded audience, who re-demanded two solos, a duet, and two choruses. The principals were Miss Medora Henson, Miss Marie Hooton, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. R. E. Miles; and the accompanists, Mr. J. Curran and Mr. E. F. Barker, Mr. W. F. Sarjeant playing the bells.

A performance of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" was given at the People's Palace on Ash Wednesday, by the People's Palace Choral Society and orchestra, before a crowded audience. The soloists were Miss Effie Stewart, Mrs. Graham-Coles, Mr. O'Shaughnessy, and Mr. Egbert Roberts. Organist, Mr. B. Jackson; leader, Mr. W. R. Cave; Conductor, Mr. Orton Bradley. A miscellaneous selection of sacred music preceded the work.

On Thursday, the 9th ult., Stainer's Cantata "The Daughter of Jairus" was given at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road, by the Choir of the Church. The solos were sung by Miss Edith Luke, Mr. Edwin Bryant, and Mr. W. P. Richards. Mr. J. P. Attwater presided at the organ, and Mr. J. R. Griffiths, the Organist of the Church, conducted. The Cantata was followed by a miscellaneous selection.

On the 18th ult., at the Royal Institution, Lord Rayleigh commenced a series of six Lectures on "Sound and vibrations," which promise to be of considerable interest to musicians who concern themselves with acoustical phenomena. The opening Lecture necessarily travelled over more or less familiar ground, but the lecturer hinted that at subsequent discourses some new deductions from recent experiments would be brought forward.

The students of the Brixton School of Music gave their second annual Concert at Erard's Rooms on the 4th ult. The character of the works selected and their interpretation testified abundantly to the excellence of the work carried on at this flourishing Institution, of which Mr. Fritz Hartvigson is president; Miss Annie Stocken, directress; and Mr. J. Shedlock, professor of harmony and composition.

At the Concert by students of the Guildhall School of Music, held at the City of London School on the 22nd ult., Henry Smart's Cantata for female voices, "King René's Daughter," was performed. The solo parts were sung by Misses Jessie Bradford, Louie Bonham, Northcroft, and Coleman. The accompaniments were played by Miss Kate Augusta Davies.

Schubert's little-known composition "Sois tranquille" will be sung in French at the Swiss Church, Endell Street, Shaftesbury Avenue, during Easter. A well-trained choir will render the work, conducted by Mr. R. A. Northcott, he Organist of the Church.

At a Congregation held in the Cambridge Senate House, on the 2nd ult., the Degree of Doctor of Music was conferred on Mr. G. J. Bennett, Professor at the Royal Academy of Music and Organist of St. John the Evangelist, Wilton Road.

We are glad to learn that the support given to the London Chamber Concerts last season has induced the Director, Mr. G. A. Clinton, to give a second series of three Concerts at Princes' Hall, the first of which will take place on the 21st inst.

REVIEWS.

Richard Wagner's Prose Works. Translated by William Ashton Ellis. [Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner and Co.]

Notwithstanding the fact that since the production of his tetralogy "Der Ring des Nibelungen," at Bayreuth, in 1876, Wagner has generally been regarded as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, composer of dramatic music that ever lived, and though his æsthetical and philosophical writings have been widely recognised as those of a deep thinker and pregnant with meaning, it is disappointing to learn that it has been impossible to find a firm of publishers in London of sufficient enterprise and readiness to undertake the publication of an English version of his prose works at their own risk. It is a matter of congratulation, therefore, that the London Branch of the Wagner Society, by furnishing an adequate subsidy, have put it into the hands of Mr. William Ashton Ellis, the indefatigable editor of the Society's quarterly journal, The Meister, to carry out this task. The scheme of supplying the members of the Society (as well as the outside public who like to buy) with bi-monthly instalments of Mr. Ellis's translations was inaugurated two years ago, and has been uninterruptedly carried on to the present. That the Society's surplus funds will be far better spent in this way than on the provision of Pianoforte Recitals of "Tristan und Isolde," &c., will not be disputed.

The operations of the past two years have resulted in the issue of a goodly volume of 422 octavo pages, printed in good bold type and on excellent paper. In addition to a few dedicatory lines to Frau Cosima Wagner, a preface by the translator, an appendix, summary, and index, it comprises the following of Wagner's works—viz., the author's Introduction to his "Collected Works," an "Autobiographic Sketch," "Art and Revolution" (with an Introduction), "The Art-work of the Future," "Wieland, the Smith," "Art and Climate," and "A Communication to my Friends." The volume covers a far wider field than one would be led to expect from the above summary of its contents. It is no exaggeration to say that in a clever and well-written preface Mr. Ellis, though he often appears in the light of a special pleader, has at one and the same time constituted himself one of Wagner's most enthusiastic historians and commentators; and having, to some extent, posed as his own reviewer, has left little for the reviewer proper to do but to re-echo his own words. It abounds in comments upon Wagner's literary essays now brought before us, and furnishes much information as to the circumstances which led to or accompanied their composition and publication.

Speaking of the early "Autobiographic Sketch," he tells us that this was originally written in 1843 for a German paper (Zeitung für die Elegante Welt), and was intended as a mere collection of notes which the editor, Heinrich Laube, was to extend into a more connected history, but which he produced as it stood, prefacing it with the remark: "The storm and stress of Paris have rapidly developed the musician into a writer. I should only spoil the life-sketch, did I attempt to alter a word of it." This, as Mr. Ellis avers, accounts for the touch of jerkiness in what is otherwise a life-like picture.

"Art and Revolution" and "The Art-work of the Future"—which, by-the-bye, should not be confounded with "Music of the Future," written for Paris in 1860—we are told, mark a distinct epoch in Richard Wagner's thought, and, with "Opera and Drama," stand almost apart from any of his prose writings before or since. These two works were written, within the space of a few months, under the immediate influence of the events of 1849 in Germany, Wagner's own share in which Mr. Ellis has outlined in a little book, called "1849. A Vindication" (Kegan Paul and Co.). "Art and Revolution" is very properly characterised as "a poem, in everything but form"; for in it Wagner has painted a glowing picture of the condition of Art in the glorious days of Ancient Greece, with which he contrasts its decadence under the Roman Empire and in modern times, and finally suggests a plan for its rehabilitation.

In speaking of "The Art-work of the Future," Mr. Ellis seems to have posed too much as a special pleader, and to have gone out of his way in his attempt to minimise Wagner's indebtedness to Feuerbach for certain terms of abstract nomenclature which, at a later date, Wagner confessed to have borrowed from this philosophical writer, and to have found prejudicial to his clearness of expression. The question of Wagner's indebtedness to Feuerbach seems to have been long ago settled by a foot-note to Mr. Edward Dannreuther's article on Wagner in the "Dictionary of Music and Musicians," in which, on page 367, he says: "Wagner came across a copy of Feuerbach's 'Das Wesen der Religion' in the writer's library and remarked: 'Solch confuses Zeug liesst sich leicht in jüngeren Jahren—ist an-und-auf-regend—ich habe lang daran gezehrt; jetzt (1877) wär mirs aber unverdaulich.'" *

After remarking that had space permitted he would have liked to point out the deep spirit of true religion and warm humanity that breathes through all these works of Wagner, despite their occasional wrestlings with formalistic dogma, Mr. Ellis goes on to speak of "A Communication to my Friends." Of this he writes: "If it had been penned as a fiction, it would probably have long ago been greeted as one of the most notable psychological studies ever written, and found a place in every library. . . . The most remarkable of the features of this work is the boldness that prompted an artist to stop short in the middle of his career and tell the world that was scoffing at him what he felt and how he worked. . . . From such a work the word 'self' is inseparable; but the extraordinary thing about it is that the author has had the daring to write of himself from an 'objective' standpoint, to record his weaknesses, and his faculties too, as though he were another man. No other eyes have ever seen Wagner, the man and artist, so clearly as he has seen himself in this 'Communication.'" These may seem to be strong words, but they are true.

When we said above that Mr. Ellis has to some extent posed as his own reviewer, we had in mind what he says in his preface as to his own share in the present volume. He admits that it would be affectation to pretend that the translation has not been an arduous task; but maintains that it was not such by reason of the unwonted difficulties often alleged to exist in the original; and further argues that anyone who has a moderate knowledge of German, and is accustomed to thinking a little deeper than the ordinary light literature of the day, can read Wagner's prose in the original and profit by it. We demur to this statement as it stands, but had he for "light literature" substituted "æsthetical, philosophical, and metaphysical writings" we should be fully in accord with him. In adducing instances of the difficulty of rendering German into English in a faithful and readable manner, he points to the fact that for philosophic and æsthetic terms we have to depend too much upon words of Greek or Latin derivation, whereas the German classic has at his disposal words that have sprung from the spirit of the language, and which, however philosophically used, have still a direct relation with what may be called concrete—as opposed to abstract—modes of thought. As an instance of English impatience in getting to the end of a sentence, which in translation often leads to misquotation and to splitting up a single sentence into two or three, he gives the following homely example: An English mother might tell her child "You may go into the garden," and off runs the child without waiting to hear the finish—"after dinner"; whereas the German mother would be more cautious, and say: "After dinner into the garden mayst thou go." Thus, says Mr. Ellis, in translating from German into English, one has always to be on the look-out for the saving efficacy of a comma—the most difficult thing of all to translate; for it is used in another fashion to ours, and often represents our semicolon. So one has to stand over one's rough transcript with a pepper-box of commas, semicolons, colons, and full stops, ready to spice it up for the English table.

Recalling the fact that when, during 1871-3, Wagner came to republish his pamphlets and dramas in book form, he decided on presenting them in the chronological order of their original appearance, it seems strange that Mr. Ellis should have diverged from this plan. He excuses himself by stating that in acting thus he was governed by the desire to lose no time in bringing out the real substance of Wagner's art-theories, which found their first unfaltering voice in "Art and Revolution." Further, he wished to avoid the inconvenience of cutting "Opera and Drama" into two separate portions. To have included the prose of Vols. I. and II. of the "Collected Writings" in this opening volume would have involved a delay of two years, for they occupy a space as large as itself. He therefore deemed it best to reserve them for the last—probably the sixth—volume of the series, as "Wagner's Earlier Works." He promises, however, that the chronological order shall not be broken again. We venture, therefore, to express a hope that he will reconsider this determination; and this we do on the ground that Mr. E. Dannreuther's thoroughly adequate and reliable translations of "Zukunfts-musik" ("Music of the Future"), "Ueber das Dirigiren" ("On Conducting"), and "Beethoven," with its valuable Schopenhauer appendix, are still accessible, and that if, for the sake of furnishing a uniform edition of Wagner's Prose Works, it be deemed advisable to re-translate these, together with the "Programmatische Erläuterungen" ("Explanatory Programmes"), which have so repeatedly figured in concert programme-books, it will be well to leave these to the very last. With the translation of "Opera and Drama," "A Communication to my Friends," &c., which were commenced in the Musical World in 1855, the case is quite different, as they have long ago been out of print and, at this date, may therefore be regarded as non-existent.

* "Such ebullient stuff is pleasant enough to read so long as one is young—it is exciting and suggestive—I fed upon it for a long time—nowadays, however (1877), I should find it indigestible."

As to the manner of Mr. Ellis's translations, which have evidently been a work of love, resulting from his veneration for the Bayreuth master, we have nothing but praise to award. He seems to have steered a middle course between the too verbally literal and the too free, and, while making it his first aim to furnish the exact equivalent of the sense of the original—as is apparent from the frequency with which, that there may be no misconception of Wagner's meaning, he has intercalated not only single German words but also complete sentences into the text—has, at the same time, fairly succeeded in reproducing the author's literary style. This, in common with that of his operas and music-dramas, each of which marks a distinct epoch in his career, underwent many changes, as will be apparent to any reader of the excerpts contained in the present volume, the composition of which ranges from the "Autobiographic Sketch" (1843) to the Introduction to his "Collected Writings" (1871). As Mr. Ellis has pointed out, the style of Wagner's prose will be seen in its progress from the terse and almost journalistic phrases of the "Autobiographic Sketch," through the somewhat involved but epigrammatic sentences of the "Art-work of the Future," to the calmly flowing periods of the two Introductions—i.e., to "Art and Revolution" and to his "Collected Writings."

For this reason the advice we offer to intending readers is that they should commence with the "Autobiographic Sketch" and then go on to the "Communication to my Friends," which is tolerably easy reading, before tackling the more difficult parts of the volume, and by this means gradually habituate themselves to Wagner's idiosyncracies and peculiarities of diction.

We cannot close this notice without congratulating Mr. Ellis on the highly successful manner in which he has so far progressed in a more than ordinarily difficult task, for the completion of which, at the present rate of issue, at least another ten years will be required. That the Wagner Society will hit upon some means of expediting this is much to be desired.

Musical Ornamentation. Part I. By Edward Dannreuther. (Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers, No. 37.)
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The information conveyed in "this little book"—as its author modestly calls it—is gathered from sources so numerous and so generally inaccessible, and the matters with which it deals are treated with such fulness of detail and wealth of illustration, that the volume when completed will be rather a history (we had nearly said an encyclopædia) than a primer of the subject. In the literal sense, of course, a history of musical ornamentation would amount practically to a history of melody, in all at least but its simplest forms, and this Mr. Dannreuther's work is not, since he begins no earlier than the close of the sixteenth century, and deals less with the art of "Division" or "Figuration" than with the Embellishments of melody—"the curlicues and twirligigs," as he aptly calls them, that are expressed by signs. At first little or no distinction was made between ornaments proper and the various artifices of Division or Diminution. In the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries both were extemporised by singers, and players on the lute, organ, &c., according to taste and a system of more or less well-understood rules; but a little before the beginning of the seventeenth century the inevitable process of differentiation set in, and at the time of Bach and Handel we find that divisions are for the most part written out in full, a variety of signs remaining to express the ornaments. Bach, however, says Mr. Dannreuther, went even farther than this. "Not only did he accept the highly specialized signs and the practice of writing 'les agréments' in full, but, finding that the license of executants was still an impediment, he chose to incorporate many of the ordinary ornaments, and virtually to embody them in his text. . . . Thus it has come to pass that certain traditional ornaments fully written out form a by no means inconsiderable part of J. S. Bach's figuration. In the mature works of Bach's two greatest successors, Beethoven and Wagner, the instinct for a grand style has led to the almost total extinction of the graces as such, and to the absorption even of some of the simplest of them, witness the very frequent occurrence of the common turn broadly written out and fused with the context in Wagner's 'Tristan' and 'Meistersinger.'" This, the first part of the primer, consisting of about 225 pages, quarto, carries us from Diruta to J. S. Bach. It is chiefly for the purpose of illustrating the latter's ways by reference to antecedent practices that the details which it contains have been "gathered and grouped," for Bach, says our author, "appears to include everybody and everything." In the second part of the work "the use, partial perversion, and gradual disuse of Bach's ornaments up to the present day" will be traced.

The first section of the book consists of a long extract from Diruta's "Il Transylvano," a dialogue between a master and a pupil, in which the proper way of playing divisions and ornaments is clearly explained. Examples from the two Gabriellis, Merulo, and Sweelinck follow; and the next sixteen pages are devoted to the music of Byrde, Bull, and Gibbons, as seen in the "Parthenia." Vocal music next receives attention, Caccini, Monteverde, and Carissimi being quoted, and a number of graces written out being reproduced from Prætorius's "Syntagma." An important section is that devoted to Frescobaldi, whose directions for the correct performance of his works will probably astonish those who hold that the tempo rubato is only permissible in music written since Beethoven. Mersenne, Christopher Simpson, Locke, Frohberger, Purcell, Mace, Playford, Murschhauser, Kuhnau, Chambonnières, Lully, Rameau, Couperin, the Muffats, Corelli, Scarlatti, Handel, Tosi, Tartini, Dieupart, Marpurg, Quantz, and many others furnish materials for the well-filled pages which follow, the last fifty of which are devoted to a minute and exhaustive study of the ornaments found in the works of Bach, and to a consideration of the fingering and tempi best suited to the performance of his music. The book generally is a mine, not only of information, but of thought, and the student or teacher—especially the latter—who overlooks it does a foolish thing.

Progressive Studies for the Pianoforte. Edited, arranged in groups, and the fingering revised and supplemented, by Franklin Taylor. (Twenty-five books.)
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

These Studies, the majority of which have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent writers, include compositions by Clementi, Cramer, Czerny, Bertini, Duvernoy, Loeschorn, Lemoine, Kalkbrenner, Moscheles, Döhler, Steibelt, Berens, Köhler, Wolff, L. Berger, A. and J. Schmitt, Rosellen, and the Editor himself. Every teacher knows that in no department of pianoforte literature is the embarrassment of riches more often or more strongly felt than in that provided for the attainment of familiarity with the various branches of technique—the mere purchase of anything like a reasonably complete collection of the Studies written for his instrument would impoverish the least impecunious of pianists—yet in none, perhaps, has the work of selection been more neglected. On this account alone Mr. Taylor's work would deserve the attention of musicians; but he has surely earned their gratitude by his classification of the selected materials. There are altogether nineteen groups, headed respectively "Five Finger Studies," "Scales," "Broken Chords," "Left Hand," "Arpeggio," "Velocity," "Figures in Sequence." "Broken Thirds, Sixths, and Octaves," "Shakes," "Double Notes," "Octaves," "Chords," "Staccato," "Repetition and Tremolo," "Part-playing," "Ornaments," "Accompanied Melody," "Extensions and Skips," and "Rhythm." The exercises in each of these groups are arranged progressively as regards difficulty; and it will be obvious from the list just given that the same arrangement obtains, to a certain extent, in the order of the groups themselves. To the experienced, therefore, Mr. Taylor acts as time and thought economiser; to the inexperienced, as guide, philosopher, and friend. The important matter of fingering has received careful attention. A uniform and consistent system having been kept in view throughout, it has not always been possible to preserve the original marking. This, however, has been adhered to as much as possible. The fifty-two books into which this admirable collection is divided contain something like five hundred Studies, a number sufficient for all but the most enragés of keyboard knights.

Two Sonatinas in C and D major. By Walter Carroll.
Gigue, Elegy, and Scherzetto. By Algernon Ashton. (Op. 63.)
Schneeflocken. Sechs Clavierstücke. Von Nicholai von Wilm. (Op. 8.) [Forsyth Brothers.]

Of the above pianoforte music the Sonatinas have been written for educational purposes, and of the two the second is the more attractive. Mr. Algernon Ashton's three pieces are all clever, but, to our thinking, the expressive Elegy is the best of the set. The Gigue scarcely opens in "Gigue" style; in that respect, however, the section in the dominant is more satisfactory. The "Wilm" pieces are short and of light structure; still, they are not easy. All are skilfully written. There may be slight reminiscences of modern composers, but, for all that, the pieces may be described as fairly original. The "Mazurka" (No. 2), with its well-balanced rhythms, and the "Mélodie" (No. 3), with its interesting harmonic support, deserve special praise.

Quatrième Gavotte à l'ancienne mode. Pour Violoncelle avec accompt. de Piano. Par David Popper. (Op. 68.)
Largo à l'ancienne mode. Pour Violoncelle avec accompt. de Piano. Par David Popper. (Op. 69.)
Gavotte Ancienne. Pour Violoncelle et Piano. Par Leo Stern.
Sérénade. Pour Violon ou Violoncelle. Par Leo Stern. [Robert Cocks and Co.]

The two pieces by Popper, the accomplished violoncellist, are, as one would expect, admirably written for the solo instrument, and the music displays both skill and charm. The two by Leo Stern are also effectively written for the violoncello; they are light salon compositions.

The sweetest songs I ever sing; Revenge; Lullaby; The Daffodils. Four songs, all by L. Heritte-Viardot. [Stanley Lucas, Weber and Co.]

The composer of these songs displays both skill and earnestness. No. 1 is perhaps the least satisfactory; the melody is not particularly attractive, and the pianoforte accompaniment is somewhat tame. In No. 2 there is considerable variety of rhythm and the harmonies are bold; it is a decidedly effective song. The "Lullaby" attracts notice by harmonic colouring rather than by melodic charm. The last is bright and pleasing; its accompaniment will need careful playing.

Home. Scenes for the Pianoforte. By J. F. Barnett. [Patey and Willis.]

There are moments in these pieces when the musical thought is not very strong, and indeed, at times, the influence of a certain composer is felt; but in two respects they deserve very high praise. Mr. Barnett expresses himself in a perfectly natural manner, and also writes for the pianoforte as one having knowledge and experience. The "Fireside Tale" is a pleasing number; the "Cradle Song" has an attractive theme, but is somewhat long; the "Old Violin," with its realistic effects is not only clever, but, as music, is one of the most successful of the set. The Album, which consists of nine pieces, is dedicated to Princess Christian.

FOREIGN NOTES.

A dramatic version of M. Pierre Loti's pathetic Idyll "Les Pêcheurs d'Islande" was brought out, on the 18th ult., at the Paris Grand Théâtre, under the direction of M. Eugène Porel. The adaptation is by M. Loti, in co-operation with M. Tiercelin, and some very effective and imaginative incidental music has been added to it by M. Guy Ropartz. The piece is remarkably well mounted, and met with a very favourable reception.

Berlioz's "La Damnation de Faust" was produced as an opera at Monte Carlo, on the 18th ult. M. Jean de Reszké sang the part of Faust, Mdlle. d'Alba that of Marguerite, and M. Melchissédec was the Mephistopheles. The performance also included a magnificent ballet, and the success of the experiment was in every way complete.

Wagner's "Die Walküre" is in active preparation at the Paris Grand Opéra, and the parts have been definitely cast, including MM. Van Dyck (Siegmund) and Delmas (Wotan); Mesdames Rose Caron (Sieglinde) and Bréval (Brunnhilde). The work is being mounted with very special care, in accordance with Bayreuth traditions—the composer's widow being, moreover, shortly expected in Paris to render any assistance in her power towards a worthy representation of the dramatically most powerful portion of the "Nibelungen" tetralogy. The first performance is expected to take place at the beginning of next month.

Wagner's "Der fliegende Holländer" was produced, under the title of "Le Vaisseau fantôme," last month at Lille, this having been the first performance of the work in France. Mdlle. Tylda, a talented young soprano, was the Senta, and MM. Cobalet and Dulin, formerly of the Paris Opéra Comique, sang the parts of the Dutchman and Daland respectively; M. Sinsoilliez, since deceased, being the Conductor. The performance, which was witnessed by a number of well-known musicians and critics from the capital, seems to have been very successful.

Offenbach's comic opera "Les Contes d'Hoffmann" (first produced in 1881 at the Paris Odéon) was successfully revived last month at the Théâtre Lyrique, Paris.

The Rossini prize of the Paris Académie des Beaux Arts has been awarded this year to M. Henri Hirschmann, a young pupil of M. Massenet at the Conservatoire. The successful work, a Cantata, entitled "Ahasuerus," the verses by M. de Lassus, is shortly to be performed at one of the Concerts given at the Conservatoire.

The famous Amsterdam Choir, consisting of only some twenty members, under the direction of Herr Daniel de Lange, is just now in the French Capital, where it was announced to appear at the Châtelet Concert of the 26th ult.

Mdlle. Marie Panthès, a young pianist who seems to be much appreciated in Paris, was announced to give a Concert there, with the assistance of the famous Lamoureux Orchestra, on the 27th ult., at the Salle Erard. Her programme included Rubinstein's fine D minor Concerto and a liberal and varied selection of shorter pieces from the classics and the writers of the modern French school. Of the latter, M. Fissot was represented by a something bearing the cheerful English title of "Blue Devils." Perhaps Mdlle. Panthès will give us an opportunity of enjoying this effusion when she comes to London, as we are informed she intends to do in May next.

The new Théâtre Lyrique, formerly known as the Renaissance, in Paris, was opened, on January 30, with M. A. Messager's new comic opera, or, as it is styled, "comédie lyrique," entitled "Madame Chrysanthème," which was exceedingly well received.

M. Ernest Reyer's opera "Sigurd" was produced for the first time at Nice, on January 31, and met with a brilliant reception. The composer, who was present, received a perfect ovation from the audience.

M. Massenet's new opera "Werther" met with very successful performances last month at Brussels, Antwerp, and Nice, as well as in a number of the leading provincial towns of France.

Another work by a French composer—viz., M. Widor's Ballet "La Korrigane," met with a highly flattering reception last month at the National Theatre, Buda-Pesth, in the presence of the composer.

According to the Leipzig Tageblatt, it is proposed to amalgamate the well-known Dresden Choral Societies—viz., the "Dreyssigsche," the "Neustädter," and the "Schuman'sche," under the direction of some eminent conductor to be appointed, and for the purpose of organising regular performances of choral works on a larger scale than has hitherto been attempted in the Saxon capital.

Herr Heinrich Vogl, the eminent tenor of the Munich Court Theatre, is just now arranging Concert performances in Leipzig and elsewhere, when he will introduce a number of songs of his own composition. Herr Vogl, as is well known, is an excellent musician, but has not, as yet, published any of his works.

A new opera, "Hagbart und Signe," by Herr Richard Metzdorff, has been accepted for first performance at the Weimar Hof-Theater, where the same composer's opera "Rosamunda" was brought out some years since.

A highly successful first performance of Signor Leoncavallo's opera "I Pagliacci" took place recently at the Royal Opera, Dresden. Signor Leoncavallo, it may be mentioned, is expected to visit London during the coming season, accompanied by Signor Sonzogno, the famous music publisher and "discoverer" of Mascagni.

The director of the Berlin Opera has acquired the right of first performance in Germany, for a period of ten years, of future operatic works by Herr Enna, the Danish composer, whose opera, "The Witch," has been so well received here, as well as in Weimar, Prague, and elsewhere. August Enna, we learn, was born in 1860, in the island of Laaland, and was apprenticed to his father, a shoemaker. It was only in his eighteenth year that he began to devote himself to the study of music, and for many years afterwards his life was a continued struggle for bare existence, until the performance of the above-named opera at the Royal Theatre, Copenhagen, brought his name prominently before the public. The first production, at Berlin, of Enna's new operatic work "Cleopatra" is shortly to take place.

Antonin Dvorák has been elected a member of the Berlin Royal Academy of Arts.

Special performances were announced last month in Germany and elsewhere in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the death of Richard Wagner. At the German Theatre in Prague a cycle of the master's stage works, commencing with the resuscitated early opera "Die Feen" and concluding with the "Nibelungen" tetralogy, took place, under the energetic management of Herr Angelo Neumann. At a final commemorative performance here portions of "Parsifal" (non-scenic) and Beethoven's Ninth Symphony were to be given. It may be added that the present is the seventh occasion of the complete production of the giant Tetralogy at the Prague Theatre.

Bizet's lately revived opera "Djamileh" was performed for the first time at the Leipzig Stadt-Theater on the 3rd ult., with great success.

The opera "Spartacus," by the Italian composer, Pietro Platania, is in course of being mounted at the Royal Opera of Berlin, where the composer's name has been already most favourably known by some sacred works performed by the Cathedral choir. Signor Platania, who has entered the field of opera somewhat late in his career, is in his sixty-fifth year, and occupies the post of Director at the Conservatorio of Naples.

Wagner's "Der Ring des Nibelungen" was produced between the days of January 30 and the 4th ult. at the Royal Opera, Buda-Pesth, for the first time in its entirety in the Hungarian language. The Conductors were HH. Erkel and Josef Rebicek.

The newly established Bayreuth training school for lyrical artists only numbers, at present, seven female and five male pupils. The committee of management not having succeeded in securing, as was hoped, the services of Fräulein Marianne Brandt, Herr Eisner, an actor at the Mannheim Theatre, has been engaged for the dramatic class.

A series of special performances of some of Wagner's operas is announced to take place from August 13 to September 30 next, at the Royal Opera, Munich, for which purpose engagements have been entered into with the most eminent Wagner interpreters of the day. There will be no festival performances at Bayreuth this year.

A new three-act comic opera "Der Landstreicher," the libretto (founded upon Holtei's novel "Die Vagabunden") by L. van Horst, the music by Alfred Oehlschlegel, was brought out with great success, on the 4th ult., at the Wilhelm Theater, Magdeburg.

The fiftieth anniversary of the foundation of the Leipzig Conservatorium will be celebrated by that world-famed Institution on the 10th inst.

Anton Rubinstein was announced to give a farewell Concert at Bonn on the 18th ult., the proceeds of which were to go to the fund in connection with the Beethoven-Haus.

Johann Strauss's new operetta "Ninetta" was brought out in the latter half of January at the Friedrich Wilhelmstadt Theater of Berlin, without, however, finding much favour in the eyes of the public; it has already been withdrawn from the repertory.

A new opera, "A Daughter of Granada," by the Swedish composer Christjernsson, was brought out with conspicuous success last month at the Royal Theatre, Stockholm.

Baron von Putlitz has been appointed Director of the Court Theatre in Stuttgart

Mr. Henry Such, a young English violinist, made a very successful first appearance in Berlin at a Concert recently given at the Singakademie, supported by the Philharmonic orchestra, under direction of Herr Herfurth. The young artist more particularly gained applause in his rendering of the Concerto in F sharp minor, by Ernst, and the local papers speak in terms of praise both of his technical and general artistic acquirements.

We read in the Frankfurter Journal of the highly favourable impression created by an English pianist, Miss Mabel Seyton, at a recent Concert of the Frankfurt Philharmonic Society, by her interpretation of pieces by Brahms, Chopin, Liszt, and others.

A string quartet party of Bohemian artists, MM. Hoffmann, Suk, Nedbal, and Berger, have created quite a sensation in the Austrian capital these last few weeks by their admirable interpretation of chamber works by Smetana, Dvorák, and Idenko Fibich, nearly all of which were entire novelties to Viennese audiences.

In connection with the Columbus celebrations, two ballets have recently been brought out in Italy, in which the great navigator figures as the hero—viz., at the Regio, of Turin, a "Cristoforo Colombo" by Danesi, the music by the Maëstro Gugliemo Branca; and at the Guillaume Theatre of Brescia, one with a similar title by Bruner, the composer being Signor Angelo Chibbaro.

The Teatro Illustrato, a musical and dramatic journal published for some twelve years by Signor Ed. Sonzogno, has ceased to appear since the beginning of the present year.

A new two-act operetta, "La Potenza di una Coda," the music by the Maëstro Bernardino Lanzi, was produced last month with much success at the San Gemini Municipal Theatre.

A new ballet-opera, entitled "Irene," the music by Alfredo Keil, a Portuguese composer, whose opera "A Donna Branca" was brought out with great success at the San Carlos Theatre in Lisbon, is shortly to be produced at the Regio Theatre of Turin.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE "EROICA" AND ITS CRITICS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—It may interest the writer in Musical News, as well as your readers, to learn Beethoven's own reply to contemporaneous criticism on the length of the "Eroica Symphony," as recorded by Ludwig Nohl: "If I wrote one to last an hour, they ought to find it short enough!"

Yours faithfully,

Henry Knight.

4, Umfreville Road, Harringay, N.,
February 4, 1893.

FOLK-TUNES IN BEETHOVEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Referring to your Beethoven Number, I find, on p. 28, a short article on "Folk-Tunes in Beethoven's Orchestral Works." The most conspicuous example of his utilising "Volkslieder" is surely in the Rondo of the Pianoforte Concerto in C, viz. :—

This is note for note the Austrian Folk-song "Zu Mantua in Banden der treue Hofer sass."

I am, Sir, yours very faithfully,

Copenhagen. R. L.

TECHNIQUE v. TASTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—May I, through your influential journal, draw attention to what the undue development of technique seems to be doing for our organists?—undue, because not accompanied by a similar development of taste and general musicianliness. They become perhaps such gymnasts of the pedal-board that they can play nothing without a display of this facility. One often hears every verse of a long Psalm accompanied by the pedal—the lowest part of the Service or Anthem ditto—often even the tenor part of a Fugue played on the pedal organ because there may be no bass part for the poor feet. These gentlemen do not seem to trouble themselves about the composer's intentions. Dr. Stanford or Sir John Stainer may mark a passage senza Ped., and may even put rests for the pedal part—no matter, boom go the 16 and 32-ft. all the way through.

Then there are organists who cannot keep their fingers from the keys. The composer may write rests for the organ part, but our organist wishes to show that he can read from the four-line stave (prodigious!) and so brutally destroys the effect intended, say by Spohr in "Blest are the departed." I trust that Sir John Stainer's recent remarks on technique will not be overlooked by organists.

Yours truly,

Musician first, Organist afterwards.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

* Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Ashford.—A performance of Haydn's Creation was given by the Choral and Orchestral Societies on the 9th ult., the soloists being Miss Pierce, Mr. Oldroyd, and Mr. Dewhurst, whose artistic rendering of the various solos was greatly appreciated. The orchestra played with much expression. Owing to the much regretted illness of Dr Wilks, the conductorship was undertaken at very short notice and with great ability by the Rev. S. Longden.

Bandon, Co. Cork.—The second Concert for the season was given by the Philharmonic Society on the 7th ult. in the Town Hall. Locke's Music to Macbeth, which formed the first part of the programme, received an excellent rendering by the Society. The orchestra was ably led by Mr. T. A. Ludlow-Hewitt, with Miss Beamish at the pianoforte. Miss Ethel Johnston, Mr. McGovern, Mr. Lee, and Mr. Hewitt Poole sang the solos very efficiently. The choruses were given throughout with steadiness and precision. The second part consisted of a miscellaneous selection, the principal vocalists being Mr. J. Murphy (Arnott Scholar, Cork) and Mr. Cowperthwaite. A clarinet solo, Eighth Air Varié, by Mr. J. Cronin, was much admired. Mr. J. P. Mills conducted.

Bangor.—Mr. T. Westlake-Morgan, the Cathedral Organist, has been arranging a series of Winter Organ Recitals in the Cathedral, in aid of a fund to improve the organ. Amongst those who are assisting him to give these Recitals we notice the names of Dr. A. H. Mann (Cambridge), Mr. B. Jackson (People's Palace), and Mr. John Williams, of Carnarvon. A novel Carol Service, at which the nave was crowded, took place at Christmas time; while the Crucifixion will be given in Holy Week, and several Choral Festivals in the summer.

Basingstoke.—On January 31 the Harmonic Society gave a performance of Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise, in the Town Hall, with full orchestra. The soloists were Mrs. Clare Wright and Mr. Herbert Clinch. The chorus and orchestra were very praiseworthy, and the whole performance was a great success. Mr. J. S. Liddle led the orchestra and in the second part played a portion of Moszkowski's Violin Concerto. The Minuet from Schubert's Octet was also included. Mr. W. H. Liddle conducted and Miss Arkwright and Mr. A. D. Arnott accompanied. There was a crowded audience.

Belfast.—On the 2nd ult. a most successful Concert was given in the Parochial School House, Neutounbreda, by the Church choir, assisted by several amateurs, in aid of the fund for Church expenses. The Concert was conducted by Mr. Eustace Purdon, Organist of the Parish Church. It is intended by the Rector to have one or two other Concerts in aid of various objects, and as this locality is an important suburb of Belfast they will no doubt be much appreciated.

Berkhampstead, Herts.—A very successful Concert in connection with the School, and under the direction of Mr. J. T. Bavin, was given in the Town Hall, on the 13th ult. The artists: Miss Ethel Winn, Miss Bessie Grant, Mr. A. Weston, Mr. H. J. Durance, and Mr. E. Jackson, acquitted themselves admirably; but Miss Grant and Mr. Jackson deserve special mention for their singing. Mr. J. Saunders (violin) and Mr. A. Cole (pianoforte) were very successful, and Mr. Bavin accompanied throughout the evening. The programme concluded with Shelley's "To the night," well rendered by the masters of the School, for whom it was specially set as a part-song by Mr. Bavin.

Cheltenham.—Herr Lortzing's Choir Concert took place at the Rotunda on Tuesday evening, the 7th ult. Reinecke's Cantata Rosebud and Snowdrop, for female voices, stood first on the programme, and was very successfully rendered. Solo parts were sung by Mrs. F. Daubeny and Miss A. Boissier, and the recitation given by Mrs. Ringer. Dr. A. E. Dyer accompanied, and in the second part played a very attractive solo of his own composition, responding to a hearty encore with an arrangement of the Pilgrims' Chorus from Tannhäuser. Three part-songs for mixed choir, two pieces for the Guitar Band, and a duet from "Marta," sung by Mrs. F. Daubeny and Mr. R. Prior, completed a programme which was well rendered throughout.

Chigwell.—The Parish Church choir was augmented by the choirs of the Grammar School and the Parish Church, Loughton, for the special Evensong on the 2nd ult., in connection with the Dedication Festival. The music, which was under the direction of Mr. Henry Riding, included Gadsby's Evening Service in C, Barnby's "O how amiable," and an Organ Recital from the works of German composers.

Deal.—The Deal and Walmer Choral Society (newly formed), under the capable conductorship of Mr. T. Troman, gave a capital rendering of Barnett's Ancient Mariner at St. George's Hall, on Thursday, the 2nd ult., before a large and enthusiastic audience. Miss Susannah Pierce, Mrs. Hugh Massey, Mr. Halward, and Mr. Byron Dewhurst acquitted themselves admirably as the soloists. A small body of instrumentalists, led by Mr. W. P. Mathews, supported the voices in the Cantata. The second part was miscellaneous, opening with Schumann's E flat Quartet: Mr. Mathews (violin), Mr. Hammond (viola), Mr. Henniker (violoncello), and Mr. Troman (pianoforte).

Epping.—The Choral Society gave a successful Concert in the Church Room on January 25. The programme included Schubert's Song of Miriam, the soprano solo being artistically rendered by Miss Carrington. Messrs. James Bell and Arthur Strugnell contributed songs, and Miss M. Elder a violin solo. Miss Cooke played Pauer's "Cascade," and, as an encore, Weber's "Invitation." Messrs. Horace Norton and Allan Clark accompanied, and Mr. Donald Penrose conducted.

Eydon, Northants.—The Choral Society gave its second Concert on Friday, the 3rd ult., before a very crowded and attentive audience. The work given was J. More Smieton's dramatic cantata King Arthur. The performance throughout was highly satisfactory, the choruses being given with a precision and spirit which did the members great credit. The soloists were—Guinevere, Miss Pettifer; King Arthur, Mr. C. J. Golby; Sir Bedivere, Mr. G. Thompson; while the double part of Merlin and Conductor was essayed by Mr. J. T. Andrews, Organist of the Parish Church and Hon. Secretary and Conductor to the Society. The receipts were highly satisfactory, nearly £10 10s. being taken. The instrumental parts were ably sustained by a small orchestra composed as follows: pianoforte, Mrs. G. Thompson; American organ, Mr. A. Walker; first violins, Dr. Jacobs and Mr. A. Fletcher; second violin, Mr. F. Wells; cornet, Mr. C. Hatton. Eydon is a village containing barely 400 inhabitants and is ten miles from a town. The Choral Society numbers forty members—more than ten per cent. of the population.

Hastings.—Two capital Concerts were given by Miss Florence Lenton at the Public Hall, on Wednesday, the 8th ult. Amongst others she was assisted by Miss Minnie Chamberlain, Miss Angela Vanbrugh (violin), and Mr. Lawrence Kellie. Miss Lenton has a powerful yet sweet and sympathetic soprano voice which she uses artistically. The arrangements were admirably carried out by Mr. S. Sherrington Chinn.

Hemel-Hempstead.—The Choral Society brought its fifth season to a close with a very creditable performance of Handel's Messiah (Parts I. and II.) in the Town Hall on the 7th ult. The solos were well sustained by Miss Kate Fusselle, Madame Eliza Thomas, Mr. W. Anstice, and the Rev. P. E. Tuckwell. The accompaniments were ably rendered by Mrs. Clark-Hill (pianoforte), Mr. R. J. Acford (harmonium), and a small band. Mr. Frank Gatward, of Berkhampstead, was, as usual, Conductor. The Concert was well patronised, and proved to be most successful.

Hereford.—Mr. George Robertson Sinclair gave his twentieth Organ Recital in the Cathedral on Monday, the 13th ult. The programme included works by Bach, Haydn, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Schumann, and Gounod. The vocalist was Miss Jessie King.

Ilford.—A high-class Concert was given in the Reading Room, on the 10th ult., by Mr. Fred. Brand. The artists were Miss Ada Loaring, Miss Knowles, Mr. Herbert Clinch, Mr. Herbert Gadsdon, Mr. Antonio Medcalf, and Mr. H. Riding (accompanist).

Lee.—On the 1st ult. a special Evening Service was held at St. Mildred's Church, when The Messiah was given, the choir, largely augmented for the occasion, numbering about 100 voices. The soloists were Mrs. Dilly, Miss L. Etheridge, Mr. Taylor, and Mr. W. Dilly. Mr. F. L. Kett (Choirmaster) conducted with his usual skill, and Mr. S. G. Mayor (Organist) presided at the organ.

Loughton.—An Organ Recital and Special Service was given in the Parish Church on the 8th ult. Mr. Henry Riding played compositions by Deshayes, Handel, Wagner, Haydn, Guilmant, Rossini, and Driffield; and the choir, directed by Mr. F. Brand, sang Anthems by Barnby, Handel, and Roberts.

Malvern (Victoria, Australia).—The Orchestral and Choral Society gave the first Subscription Concert of its second season, 1892-3, on Tuesday evening, December 13, in the local Shire Hall, in the presence of a very large and enthusiastic audience. The principal piece in the programme was Gade's Erl-King's Daughter, which occupied the first part. The solo parts were undertaken by Miss Fanny Bristow, Miss Alice King, and Mr. S. J. Bruce, who sang the music allotted to the Erl-King's Daughter, the Mother, and Oluf respectively. The choruses were well rendered. Mrs. J. P. Clarke and Mr. H. I. Bilton rendered invaluable assistance at the pianoforte and organ, and the work was conducted by Mr. J. Hasler. The second part consisted of miscellaneous selections. The orchestra, conducted by Mr. Bilton, contributed three numbers, including the Intermezzo from Cavalleria, and accompanied Mendelssohn's Capriccio in B minor (Op. 22), the pianoforte solo of which was played by Mr. J. Hasler. The second Concert will be given early in April.

Morecambe.—The Musical Society gave a performance of The Messiah in the Winter Gardens, on the 8th ult., before a very large audience. The principals were Miss Marjorie Eaton, Miss Pendlebury, Mr. Child, and Mr. Cradock. Mr. Nuttall led the orchestra. The chorus, numbering 100, showed how carefully Mr. J. W. Aldous had trained them.

Newport, Shropshire.—On the 14th ult. the Choral Society gave a Concert under the patronage of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland and leading gentry of the neighbourhood. There was a crowded audience and a very good performance, the works given being the Daughter of Jairus and Hear my Prayer. Solos: Miss Matthews (soprano), Mr. Carr (tenor), Mr. A. Brotherhood (bass). In the second part the band, led by Mr. Hood, gave a selection from the Mountebanks and Zavertal's "Wee bit of heather," and Miss Matthews and Mr. Brotherhood each a song. Mr. Smart conducted as usual.

Northampton.—An evening Concert was given at the Town Hall, on the 10th ult., by Mr. Frank Hollis, who was assisted by Miss Blanche Powell (Mrs. Frank Hollis), Miss Greta Williams, Mr. S. Heath, and Mr. Bernhard Carrodus. The large hall was filled to overflowing by a very enthusiastic audience.

Reading.—Several Organ Recitals have been given lately in the Town Hall with complete success, by Mr. Tirbutt. Programmes have been devoted exclusively to the music of England, France, and Germany; and others have included music of the three countries. A Recital of English music will be given on the 6th inst.

St. Germans.—Two very successful Concerts were given in the Town Hall on the 2nd ult., by the St. Germans Church Choir, assisted by Mr. John Hele, Mrs. Hele, Miss Harris, Mr. Tanner, and Mr. C. F. Hocking, under the conductorship of Mr. F. S. Hawke, Organist of St. Germans Church. A novel feature in the programme was a comic operetta by S. Hardcastle, "Sing a Song of Sixpence," by the choir-boys in costume. Lord and Lady St. Germans kindly lent the scenery and stage accessories. The youthful actors acquitted themselves wonderfully well, reflecting great credit on Mr. Hawke, who had trained them. The Choir gave several part-songs, which helped to complete a most attractive and effective programme.

St. Neot's.—On the 7th ult. Haydn's Creation was given by the resuscitated Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. A. C. Edwards, Organist of the Parish Church. The choruses were well rendered by about fifty voices, accompanied by a pianoforte and harmonium. The solos received full justice from Mrs. John Stott, of Peterboro', Mr. R. A. Stott, and Mr. J. B. Smith (Peterboro' Cathedral). The Concert was a complete success and thoroughly appreciated.

Totnes.—A very successful Concert was given in the Assembly Rooms of the Seven Stars Hotel, on Thursday, the 2nd ult., by Miss Florence M. Adams, a violinist of considerable talent. She was heard in two movements from the Sonata in C minor (Op. 45) by Grieg—the pianoforte part of which was ably played by Mr. G. L. Loam, Organist of Bridgtown Church—and in a "Bolero" by E. J. German, for which she received a well-merited encore. The other artists who assisted at the Concert were Miss Mutten (soprano), Mr. Dean Trotter (tenor), Mr. W. Balhatchet (baritone), Mr. A. J. James (violin), and Mr. A. J. Pomeroy (violoncello), who all acquitted themselves well and contributed much to the enjoyment of a large and appreciative audience.

Ulverston.—On the 3rd ult. the members of the Choral Society, under the leadership of Dr. Brown, of Barrow, gave an excellent performance, in the Holy Trinity Schoolroom, of A. R. Gaul's historical Cantata Joan of Arc—a composition of considerable musical and dramatic interest. There was a good and thoroughly appreciative audience, but the performance was not patronised so largely as its general excellence merited. The characters in the Cantata were ably supported by Madame Laura Smart, Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Telfer. Miss Benson presided at the pianoforte and Mr. Griffiths at the harmonium.

Waterford.—The Philharmonic Society gave a Recital of Maritana in the City Hall on January 31. The whole of the principal characters (with the exception of the title-rôle) were taken by members of the Society. The Committee secured the services of Miss Marjorie Eaton for Maritana, and her sweet, clear, flexible voice gave unqualified satisfaction to a crowded and brilliant audience. The whole reflected great credit upon Messrs. Ashworth and Colverford, the Conductors.

Windsor.—A very successful Sacred Concert was given at the Baptist Chapel on January 26 by the Æolian Glee Union, of London, assisted by Mr. J. P. Attwater. The unaccompanied renderings of "O Gladsome Light," "Lift thine eyes," and "God is a Spirit," by members of the Union, together with some pianoforte improvisations by Mr. Attwater, met with much appreciation, and the Concert concluded with a spirited performance of that gentleman's setting of "Abide with me" in anthem form. Mrs. Barthorpe was the accompanist.

Worthing.—The Sacred Harmonic Society celebrated its twenty-first year with a fine performance of Costa's Eli on the 8th ult. Madame Emily Squire, Miss Marie Hooton, Messrs. E. Branscombe, G. Fielder, and W. H. Brereton were the soloists, and Dr. F. J. Read conducted.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Percy Alderson, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Kingston-on-Thames.—Mr. W. H. Sampson, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Luke's, Redcliffe Square.—Mr. Henry E. Maggs, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Didsbury, Manchester.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. Thomas Sweeney (Solo Bass), to St. Anne's, Soho.—Mr. Walter J. Hobson (Choirmaster), to St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, Liverpool.—Mr. W. A. Pittman (Alto), to St. Luke's, Westbourne Park.—Mr. S. J. Thompson (Bass), to St. Paul's, Knightsbridge.—Mr. Charles Ray (Alto), to Lichfield Cathedral.—Mr. George Green (Principal Tenor), to the Liverpool Cathedral.—Mr. George Trotman (Bass), to St. Luke's, Westbourne Park.—Mr. Wakeling Dry (Choirmaster), to All Saints', Westbrook, Margate.—Mr. W. P. Richards (Principal Bass), to Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road.

MISS JEAN HUNTER (Soprano)
(Gold Medalist, L.A.M.; Medalist, R.A.M.)
For every description of Concerts.
Messrs. Barth and Black, 2, Oxford Mansions, W.; or, Cromer House, Herbert Road, Plumstead, S.E.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS ETTA WRIGHT (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios. At Homes, &c.
Address, Brightholme, 28, Albany Road, Stroud Green, N.

MRS. HAMILTON ROBINSON (Contralto)
Concerts, At Homes, &c. Lessons in Voice-Production and Solo Singing. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MISS ANNIE NORTHCROFT (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 38, Gunter Grove, Chelsea.

MISS RINA ROBINSON (Contralto)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. 67, Carleton Rd., Tufnell Park, N.
References kindly permitted to Dr. A. H. Mann, Dr. E. H. Turpin, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker.

MISS MARY TUNNICLIFFE
(Solo Contralto of St. Nicholas, Cole Abbey, E.C.)
For terms, address, 94, Fentiman Road, Clapham, S.W.

MR. STIRLING WELLS (Tenor)
(Pupil of Mr. Henry Blower).
Oratorios, Ballads, Glees, Banquets (Masonic, &c.).
Address, 190, Clapham Park Road, S.W.

MR. RICKARD (Basso)
(Pupil of the late Sig. Pinsuti).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Halifax, Yorkshire.

MR. GEORGE TROTMAN (Bass)
For Concerts, Oratorios, Dinners, &c.
187, Portobello Road, W.

MR. CARL BRANDT (Basso-Profundo)
For Oratorio, Masonic work, Concerts, &c.
12, St. Mark's Villas, Dalston, N.E.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

DANNREUTHER, EDWARD.—"Musical Ornamentation." (Part I. From DIRUTA to J. S. BACH.) (No. 37. Novello, Ewer and Co.'s Music Primers, edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.) Paper cover, 5s.; paper boards, 6s.

LIBOTTON, G.—Six Pieces. Composed and arranged for the Violoncello, with Pianoforte Accompaniment:—

	s.	d.
No. 1. Etude Caprice	2	6
„ 2. Rêverie	1	6
„ 3. Caprice Hongrois	2	0
„ 4. Nocturne (CHOPIN)	1	6
„ 5. Chant sans Paroles (TSCHAIKOWSKY)	1	6
„ 6. "Du bist die Ruh'" (SCHUBERT)	1	6

BENDL, KAREL.—Twelve Songs (Set 2). ("Stimmungsbilder.") With Pianoforte Accompaniment (Op. 101). The English version by the Rev. Dr. TROUTBECK. Paper cover, 2s. 6d. For contents, see advertisement, page 188.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 9. "The Over-Crafty Fox." Unison Song. Adapted by G. LINLEY. "The Little Valley." Trio, for S.S.B. Arranged by LOWELL MASON. "The Swallows." Two-part Song. By SCHUMANN. Specimen Time and Tune Tests, for Pupil-Teachers and Schools. By W. G. MCNAUGHT. Price 1½d.

VARGE, JOSEF.—"Harmony Unravelled; or, The Neutral in Music." (Simplified Music Series.) Paper cover, 1s.; limp cloth, 1s. 6d.

DOLAN, W. I.—"Regina Cœli." (Latin and English words.) 1st Violin, 4d.; 2nd Violin, 4d.; Viola, 4d.; Violoncello and Bass, 4d.; String Parts, 2s. 2d.

STEWART, H. J.—"His Majesty." An Original Comic Opera, in three Acts. Libretto, paper cover, 1s.

CALKIN, GEORGE.—Six Kyries. (No. 130. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 1½d.

KIMMINS, GEORGE J.—Four Kyries. 1½d.

KING, OLIVER—(in C). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 127. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

SEWELL, JOHN.—Four Quadruple Chants, for the Benedicite, omnia Opera. 2d.

WARD, A. GORDON—(in E flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

WHIPP, ALBERT—(in F). The Office for the Holy Communion, with Benedictus and Agnus Dei. 8d.

PRIOR, GEORGE NELSON.—"Lo! the Angels' Food." Hymn. 1d.

BRADFORD, W.—Six Original Hymn Tunes. 4d.

CLARKE, HAMILTON.—"Behold, how good and joyful." Anthem, for Four Voices. (No. 419. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

—— "I have set God always before me." Anthem, for Four Voices. (No. 420. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

GARRETT, GEORGE M.—"The Lord is risen." Anthem, for Easter-day. (No. 422. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

VINNING, WILLIAM S.—"Song of the Passion." Hymns and Tunes, to be sung by the Congregation. 2d.

NOVELLO'S SCHOOL SONGS.—Edited by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

Book 13. Six Sacred Songs (Set 1) ..	ALFRED MOFFAT	8d.
Book 14. Six Sacred Songs (Set 2) ..	ALFRED MOFFAT	8d.

BENNETT, GEORGE J.—"The trysting tree." A Four-part Song, for Male Voices. (No. 253. The Orpheus.) 2d.

GAUL, A. R.—"Morning." Choral Song, for Four Voices. Words written by ALLAN CUNNINGHAM. 3d.

KING, OLIVER.—"Bright be thy dreams." A Four-part Song. The words written by THOMAS MOORE. (No. 639. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 2d.

—— "Echoes." A Four-part Song, for Men's Voices. The words written by THOMAS MOORE. (No. 243. The Orpheus.) 2d.

ROGERS, ROLAND.—"March like the victors." Choral March, for Schools. Arranged for Two Voices. (No. 8. The School Music Review.) 1½d.

SLATTER, J. W.—"Friends." A Two-part Song. Words written by CAROLINE NORTON. 2d.

AGNESI, S.—"Come not when I am dead." Song. The poetry by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. 2s.

ALLEYN-HARRIS, R.—"Around the throne of God in heaven." Sacred Song. 1s. 6d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

CHEETHAM, F. H.—"Crossing the bar." From "Demeter." The poem written by ALFRED, Lord TENNYSON. (No. 2, in G minor.) 1s.

HENSCHEL, G.—"Shouggie shou, my bairnie." A Mither's Sang. The words written by J. WILSON M'LAREN. 2s.

SCHLESINGER, SEBASTIAN B.—"Ave Maria." English version by HELEN D. TRETBAR. 2s.

OESTEN, MAX.—Twelve Easy Voluntaries, for the Harmonium. (Op. 186.) Paper cover, 1s.

CALTHORPE, L. EVELYN G.—"Ma Première Pensée." For the Pianoforte. 2s.

CHAMBERLAYNE, E. A.—Sonata, in F minor (No. 1). For the Pianoforte. (Op. 16, No. 1.) 3s.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

	s.	d.
No. 170. Five Sketches. No. 1. Prelude .. H. W. PARKER	1	0
„ 171. Five Sketches. „ 2. Vision .. H. W. PARKER	1	0
„ 173. Five Sketches. „ 4. Pastoral Interlude H. W. PARKER	1	0
„ 174. Five Sketches. „ 5. Nocturne H. W. PARKER	1	0
„ 175. Fourth Grand Concert Sonata (Christmas Sonata) OTTO DIENEL	3	6
„ 176. Fantasia in F minor (Op. 118) .. .. E. SILAS	2	6

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 776. March like the victors .. .. ROLAND ROGERS	2	d.
„ 778. Hark! the vesper hymn .. .. Sir J. STEVENSON	1	d.
„ 779. The Skylark .. .. KING HALL	1	d.
„ 780. To the Audience .. .. HAMILTON CLARKE	1½	d.
„ 783. Crusaders' Song .. .. GADE	3	d.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (LOW VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (LOW VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (HIGH VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (HIGH VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS EACH PART.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

AVE VERUM

(Latin and English Words)
FOR FOUR VOICES
BY H. B. WALKER.

PRICE THREEPENCE.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Specimen Copy free from COMPOSER, Ratby, Leicester.

COMPOSITIONS by MARIE MOODY.

FULL SCORES.

		s.	d.
Ouvertüre in A dur, für grosses Orchester	net	5	0
Der Sterbende Krieger, Concert Ouvertüre für grosses Orchester	„	4	0
Concert Ouvertüre in C dur, für grosses Orchester ..	„	5	0
Concert Ouvertüre in E moll, für grosses Orchester ..	„	5	0
Concert Ouvertüre zu König Lear, für grosses Orchester	„	7	6
Concert Ouvertüre in Fis moll, für grosses Orchester ..	„	5	0
Themistokles Ouvertüre, für Militär Musik	„	5	0
Ouverture en Fa dièze mineur, pour Grand Orchestre. Arrangée pour Piano à quatre mains	„	3	6
Ouverture en Mi mineur, pour Grand Orchestre. Arrangée pour Piano à quatre mains	„	3	6
Great Lord of Lords. Anthem for Four Voices	„	0	4

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

NO. 5.—DR. H. KEETON'S CHURCH and CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD. Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net; post-free.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S LIST of GLEES, &c., containing a choice Selection, by the most eminent Composers, of Two and Three-part Songs for equal voices and Songs for Classes in unison; many numbers in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Just Published. arranged by JAS. BATCHELDER for Alto, two Tenors, and Bass, "The Anchor's Weighed," "The Men of Harlech," "Ye Banks and Braes."

IMPORTANT TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

F. H. COWEN'S favourite CANTATA for FEMALE VOICES, "THE FAIRIES' SPRING" (An Elfin Legend). Price 2s. 6d. net; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S new Edition of STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES. List on application.

ALSO

CLASSICAL MUSIC (new Series) selected, fingered, and edited by ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER, Professor at the Royal Academy of Music. List on application.

THE CANDIDATES' PRACTICAL SCALE and ARPEGGIO HANDBOOKS. Specially arranged for the use of Students preparing for the Examinations (Pianoforte) of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music.

By GRAHAM P. MOORE,

(Member of the Examining Staff of the Associated Board).

Compiled in strict accordance with the Syllabus of the Associated Board, and each Book containing full directions as to the requirements of the Examiners. Issued in four Books, each Book being complete in itself, and containing only those scales required by Candidates for their respective Examinations.

Book 1, 1s. net; Book 2, 1s. 6d. net; Book 3, 1s. 6d. net; Book 4, in two Parts, each 2s. net.

Full particulars on application.

COMPLETE SCALE and ARPEGGIO TUTOR. By ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER. Containing all the Scales and Arpeggi required by Pupils preparing for the Metropolitan, Local, and other Examinations, including the Associated Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. Engraved in bold style, and printed on best paper, giving clear directions how to practise.

Part 1. Scales. 33 pages .. .. 5s.
„ 2. Arpeggios. 45 pages .. .. 5s.
Complete .. .. 8s.

ORGAN MUSIC.—BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES. BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS. New Compositions and Arrangements. Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY and CONSTRUCTION of the ORGAN.. By Dr. E. J. HOPKINS and Dr. E. F. RIMBAULT. This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net. Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN and VIOLONCELLO MUSIC.—New Compositions by TIVADAR NACHÉZ, DAVID POPPER, LEO STERN, and other well-known Authors. Lists on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL. Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronized and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music. Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. and Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS by HAMISH MACCUNN. Six Settings of Poems by ROBERT BRIDGES:—

No. 1. My bed and pillow are cold .. .. Shorter Poems III. 10.
„ 2. Fire of heaven, whose starry arrow .. „ „ IV. 16.
„ 3. The idle life .. .. „ „ IV. 17.
„ 4. Angel spirits of sleep .. .. .. „ „ IV. 18.
„ 5. Crown Winter with green .. .. „ „ IV. 26.
„ 6. Pedlar's Song .. .. .. From "Achilles in Scyros."

Price 2s. net each.

THE BENEDICITE.—Set to music by EDWIN H. LEMARE (in B flat), price 3d. net; and ARTHUR E. GODFREY (in C), price 3d. net. THE PATER NOSTER. Composed for the celebration of the Holy Communion, by EDWIN H. LEMARE. Price 3d. net. THREE KYRIES, and A SEVENFOLD AMEN. By ARTHUR E. GODFREY. Price 3d. net.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
"Falstaff" and the Land of Song	137
Bizet's "Djamileh"	141
Mozart's Wife	143
Occasional Notes	144
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	147
Royal Choral Society	150
London Symphony Concerts	150
Crystal Palace Concerts	150
Sir Charles Halle's Concert	150
Royal Opera, Covent Garden (Opera Recitals)	150
Professor Stanford's Music to "Becket"	151
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	151
Thursday Subscription Concerts	152
"The Golden Web," Goring Thomas	152
Amateur Orchestral Concerts	152
Royal College of Music	153
Lenten Musical Services	153
Dr. Parry on Design and Expression in Music	153
Musical Association	154
Gresham College	155
Mr. David Jenkins's Oratorio "David and Saul" at Swansea	155
Obituary	156
Music in Birmingham	156
„ Bristol	165
„ Dublin	166
„ Edinburgh	166
„ Glasgow	166
„ Liverpool	167
„ Manchester	167
„ Nottingham	168
„ Yorkshire	168
Anthem for Easter—"As it began to dawn." Myles B. Foster	157
General News (London)	169
Reviews	171
Foreign Notes	173
Correspondence	174
General News (Country)	175
List of Music published during the last Month	177

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-THIRD

OF EACH MONTH.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal Tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio, or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

WANTED, thoroughly efficient BOOK-KEEPER and SALESMAN. Must be good correspondent. Only those whose references will bear the closest investigation need apply. Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

THE HORSE-SHOE GLEE SINGERS.

ALTO: Mr. PERCY COWARD (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle); TENOR: Mr. ARTHUR S. COWARD; BARITONE: Mr. RANDULPH L. COWARD; BASS: Mr. W. BELL KEMPTON (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle).

For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to W. Bell Kempton, 16, Horse-Shoe Cloisters, Windsor Castle.

ST. STEPHEN'S, Wandsworth. — BASS WANTED. Two services, one practice. £15. Apply to Mat. Hy. Atkin, 127, Sugden Road, Clapham Common, S.W.

A VIOLINIST wishes to meet with a PIANIST (Gentleman) to play his Accompaniments one evening a week. Must be a good sight reader and used to playing Violin Accompaniments. Terms, 4s. an hour. Address, R. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

THE NORTHERN CONCERT AGENCY provides ARTISTS in all BRANCHES of MUSIC.
Artists, Vocal, Instrumental, and Humorous are asked to send names and addresses, and quote lowest exclusive terms.
Secretaries of Choral Societies and entrepreneurs generally may obtain full particulars on sending name and address to 60, Winterscale Street, York. Manager: Mr. J. S. Robinson (Principal Tenor, York Minster).

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK
CONCERT AGENTS
A MUSICAL AGENCY UNDER PROFESSIONAL DIRECTION.
Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are Agents for—
THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,
THE WALENN STRING QUARTET,
THE CELIA MALE VOICE QUARTET,
AND
THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS
(Operatic Concert Party under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK).
Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, &c.
BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.C.O. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., personally or by post. Classes. Preparation for Examinations. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

TO INTENDING CANDIDATES for MUS. BAC. DEGREE.—PREPARATION by Correspondence for MATRICULATION RESPONSIONS, and other Entrance Examinations at Oxford, Cambridge, London, Durham, and Dublin. Payment may be based on success. Method strictly individual. Single subjects if desired. Address, Mr. J. Charleston, B.A., Kenilworth House, Oxford.

RESIDENT PUPIL (Vocal or Organ).—A Professor has VACANCY for above. Has been exceptionally successful in placing former pupils in both subjects. Organist, 6, Christchurch Terrace, Doncaster.

ORGANIST, or ASSISTANT.—Post desired, by a Gentleman of long experience. Can take advanced service—either Anglican (full Cathedral) or Gregorian (with elaborate accompaniments). R. W. Middlemist (B.A., Oxford), Willsbridge, Bristol.

ORGANIST.—GENTLEMAN holding important appointment will be very shortly DISENGAGED. Communicant. Nine years' experience. Excellent references (including three clergymen). Cornopean, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGANIST will take Week-day SERVICES or CHOIR PRACTICE, in return for Singing or Violin Lessons, or use of good Organ. A. C. O., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER (good) for the country. Must have a knowledge of Harmoniums, American Organs, and small repairs. Highest references. Apply, stating age, salary required, with particulars, to A. W., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, thorough good TUNER, with knowledge of repairing and reed instruments preferred. Factory experience. Permanent situation. State references and salary. Apply to R. Klitz and Son, Music Saloon, Lymington, Hants.

REPAIRER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Pianos, Harmoniums, and Organs. Address, K., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER and REPAIRER.—A YOUNG MAN (aged 22) is open to an ENGAGEMENT. Provincial and London Factory experience. Highest references as to character and ability. Address, A. B., 54, Havelock Road, Hastings.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS WANTED, to PURCHASE. Must be well established, with good Tuning connection. Capital, about £1,500. Apply, C. A., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGAN for SALE, stands about 8 ft. 6 in. One manual. Fine diapason tone; 65 pipes. Pine case. Suit Mission Room. Apply, Miller, Bushy Park, Totterdown, Bristol.

ORGAN PEDALS.—For SALE, set of RUMMENS' Concave Pedals and Attachment. As good as new. £5, stool included. Organist of Parish Church, Brackley, Northants.

GRAND PIANO, by BROADWOOD.—7 octaves, full trichord, iron frame, under dampers. Little used; like new. A great bargain. 55 gns.; cost 175 gns. View at Mr. Fieldwick's (Organist, St. John's), 108, Upper Richmond Road, Putney (near Railway station).

ORGAN (Pipe), 8 ft. 9 in. high. Excellent Gothic Case. Decorated front pipes (blue and gold), 6 stops, pedals. Really good instrument; perfect order; lead about 400 persons; suit Village Church admirably. Price £35. Photo, six stamps. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London, W. Inspection by appointment, evenings preferred.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.

RUMMENS' ORGAN PEDAL ATTACHMENT
FOR PIANOFORTES.

NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR
AT THE
INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.

NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

TE DEUM IN C
COMPOSED EXPRESSLY FOR THE USE OF PARISH CHURCH CHOIRS
BY
LORAINE HOLLOWAY, F.C.O.
Price Threepence.
The Service is full, and the voice parts are not difficult, F being the highest melody note and D the highest unison note. The Organ Accompaniment is independent and somewhat free, and full directions are given for the management of the stops, &c.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS BY B. JACKSON, F.C.O.,
Organist of the People's Palace, London.
ORGAN PIECE FOR PALM SUNDAY.
Variations on the Hymn-Tune "St. Theodulph"
("All glory, laud and honour").
Price 2s. net; to the Profession, 1s. 4d. post-free.
AWAKE, THOU THAT SLEEPEST. Easter Anthem. "Bright, easy, and effective." Price 2d.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1d.
Press Notices, &c., and List of other Compositions on application, of the COMPOSER, 18, Cambridge Road, Battersea Park, London, S.W.

EASTER FESTAL HYMN
"HE IS RISEN"
RECITATIVE AND CHORUS
BY
ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, MUS. BAC., CANTAB.
Suitable as an Anthem. Price Twopence net.
London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

To be performed at the
HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC, ON MARCH 20.

GIDEON
AN ORATORIO, SET TO MUSIC BY SIR W. G. CUSINS.
Paper cover, 3s. 6d.

The Eye of the Lord.	Contralto Solo, from the above	.. 4s.
March for the Organ.	From the above	.. 3s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

MUSIC PRINTING.—A few dozen COPIES of any short unpublished or non-copyright work LITHOGRAPHED, in very close imitation of Engraving, cheaply. Before sending copy send 1d. stamp for terms, and state number of copies, size of page, about how many pages. Specimen of work (a good song), 6d., post-free. W. Gee, 71, Barrett Street, Old Trafford, Manchester.

THE OLD FIRM.
P. CONACHER & CO.
Organ Builders,
SPRINGWOOD WORKS,
HUDDERSFIELD.
TWO GOLD MEDALS.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.
Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.
A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.
500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.
The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.
Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

VIOLINS AND CELLOS.
COLLIN-MÉZIN (of Paris),
VIOLIN, VIOLONCELLO, AND BOW MAKER.
Gold and Silver Medals at the Exhibitions of Paris, 1878; Paris, 1879; Paris, 1889—Academical Palms (Fine Arts).
THE MOST PERFECT IN THE WORLD,
USED BY THE GREATEST ARTISTS,
AND CONSIDERED BY MASTERS
THE MODERN STRADIVARIUS.
METZLER AND CO., 43, Marlborough Street, London, W., Sole Agents (Wholesale and Retail) for the United Kingdom and Colonies.

SHEET MUSIC.
TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.
120,000 COPIES
OF
SONGS, PIANOFORTE PIECES, AND DANCES
(The best Editions, all clean and saleable)
TO BE SOLD, IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES.
100 Copies, 8s. 4d.; or made up in £1 Parcels, 50 Parcels for 21s.
Sample Parcel of 20s. worth, 1s., Post-free.
WILLIAM LEA,
50 and 52, CHURCH STREET, LIVERPOOL.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

ESTABLISHED 1843.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS'
PIANOFORTES.
(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)
NOBLE IN TONE.
HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.
UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.
THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.
PIANOS
FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.
ALSO YACHT PIANOS.
GEO. ROGERS & SONS,
60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
For quality of tone and workmanship are not to be surpassed.
Write for Professional Price List.
T. D'Almaine and Co., 91, Finsbury Pavement, London, E.C.
Established 106 years.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

SEVEN SONGS
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY
J. STAINER.
Contents:
Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).
Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.
"It is refreshing, after wading through countless specimens of the ordinary British ballad, to come across a set of songs so artistic in design as those contained in the album labelled 'Seven Songs,' by Sir John Stainer. . . . Amateurs on the look-out for something really good may confidently be recommended to devote their attention to these admirable songs."—Morning Post.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

TWELVE OFFERTORY SENTENCES. By George B. Arnold, Mus. Doc., Oxon. Price 4d.
London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS

WRITTEN BY THE

REV. E. MONRO.

Words only, price 1s. 6d. per 100.
Large Type Edition, price 2s. 6d. per 100.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PASSION MUSIC

FROM THE ORATORIO "ST. PETER"

BY

SIR JULIUS BENEDICT.

VOCAL SCORE
PRICE ONE SHILLING & SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE CRUCIFIXION

A MEDITATION

ON THE

Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer

The Words selected and written by the

REV. W. J. SPARROW-SIMPSON, M.A.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. STAINER.

This Work is an attempt to supply the want long felt of an easy and short form of Passion Music suitable for use in ordinary parish churches. It is composed for two solo voices, a Tenor and a Bass, and for the church choir. At intervals hymns occur, in which the whole congregation can join. The performance will probably not extend over forty minutes in duration, thus giving an opportunity for a suitable "address" if thought advisable. No orchestra is required, the accompaniments being specially adapted for the organ only; much of the expense usually attending Passion Services will therefore be avoided. The book of the words, for distribution among the congregation, will contain the music of the Hymns; by this means it is hoped that the congregation will be induced to take part heartily in the service.

Vocal Score, Paper Cover, One Shilling and Sixpence.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings. Tonic Sol-fa, Ninepence.
Words only, with Hymn Tunes, Twopence.
Words of Hymns, Five Shillings per Hundred.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE

LAST NIGHT AT BETHANY

A SHORT CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS

Price 2s.; paper boards, 2s. 6d.
Tonic Sol-fa, One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ANGEL HOSTS DESCENDING

SACRED SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND ADAPTED BY

ALFRED PHILLIPS

TO THE CELEBRATED MELODY FROM

"MORS ET VITA"

BY

CHARLES GOUNOD.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

GETHSEMANE

A CHURCH CANTATA

THE WORDS WRITTEN AND COMPILED BY

JOSEPH BENNETT

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

C. LEE WILLIAMS.

Price Two Shillings.
Paper Boards, Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE ABRIDGED VERSION

AS USED IN

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

OF THE

PASSION OF OUR LORD

(ACCORDING TO ST. MATTHEW)

SET TO MUSIC BY

JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Seventh and Eighth Thousand.

PASSION SERVICE

NEW SACRED WORK

FOR THE SEASON OF

LENT AND GOOD FRIDAY

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL,

Composer of the "Holy City," "Ruth," &c.

"Scholarly writing, combined with unmistakable talent, and eminently adapted to the purpose for which it was written and composed, the work will probably be largely used, and Mr. Gaul have to be congratulated upon another success."—Sheffield Independent.

"The course of sacred events connected with the Passion is laid out by the writer so as to form a series of six distinct 'scenes.' The subjects of these divisions, each occupied with a particular stage of the Mystery, are respectively: 'The Traitor at the Table,' 'The Denial,' 'The Condemnation before Pilate,' 'The Mockery on Calvary,' 'The Shadow of Death,' and 'The Holy Sepulchre.' The style of the composition resembles generally that of Mr. Gaul's previous writings—the same effective, grateful part-writing, and the same expressive and melodious treatment of the solo voice. In those sections, notably that of the Unjust Condemnation, where the realistic element is predominant, the composer has manifested his ability to write with dramatic force and intensity as well as with lyric charm. In this respect the choral writing distinguished itself in comparison with that in the 'Holy City,' and other of the composer's works. Mr. Gaul has not written new hymn tunes for the author's lyrics; the tunes selected are from among those in ordinary congregational use. Altogether considered, Mr. Gaul's new work will, undoubtedly, greatly enhance his already high reputation in the line of sacred composition."—Musical Standard.

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; scarlet cloth, 4s.
Words only, 7s. 6d. per 100.
The loan of Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer.
London and New York: Novello Ewer and Co.

BENEDICITE.—The best rendering is by the Quadruple Chant. See FOUR SETTINGS by J. Sewell, Organist, Bridgnorth. Price 2d.
London & New York: Novello, Ewer & Co.; or, of the Composer.

ANTHEMS FOR EASTER.

*Why seek ye the living	A. Alexander	3d.
*Now is Christ risen	G. B. Allen	1½d.
Awake up, my glory	J. Barnby	1½d.
*As we have borne the image	„	1½d.
Break forth into joy	„	1½d.
We declare unto you glad tidings	J. F. Bridge	4d.
*The Lord is my strength	S. Coleridge-Taylor	3d.
This is the day	S. C. Cooke	3d.
*Christ is risen	J. M. Crament	3d.
*Christ is risen from the dead	George Elvey	1½d.
*Christ being raised from the dead	„	1½d.
*As it began to dawn	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
He is risen	Henry Gadsby	1½d.
Lo, the winter is past	„	3d.
*God, who is rich in mercy	G. M. Garrett	1½d.
*The Lord is risen	„	4d.
Christ our Passover	John Goss	1½d.
*If we believe that Jesus died	„	1½d.
*O give thanks unto the Lord	„	3d.
Blessed is he who cometh	Ch. Gounod	1½d.
Christ our Passover	E. V. Hall	3d.
Christ the Lord is risen to-day	„	3d.
Come, ye faithful	„	3d.
This is the day	„	4d.
*At the Lamb's high feast we sing	„	3d.
*Lift up your heads	J. L. Hopkins	1½d.
Why seek ye the living	E. J. Hopkins	1½d.
*For it became Him	Oliver King	1½d.
*Now on the first day of the week	H. Lahee	1½d.
On the first day of the week	E. M. Lott	1½d.
*The Lord is my strength	Albert Lowe	3d.
The Lord is my strength	W. H. Monk	1½d.
If ye then be risen	J. Naylor	3d.
*The Easter Hymn	V. Novello	1½d.
The Lord is my strength	„	1½d.
*Why seek ye the living?	F. Peel	4d.
The Lord is King	Josiah Pittman	1½d.
Break forth into joy	Ridley Prentice	6d.
*I will magnify Thee	Luard Selby	1½d.
*This is the day	J. Sewell	2d.
*The Lord is my strength	Henry Smart	1½d.
*They have taken away my Lord	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Awake, thou that sleepest	„	6d.
*I will mention the loving-kindnesses	Arthur Sullivan	6d.
*Christ is risen	E. A. Sydenham	3d.
Christ is risen	E. H. Thorne	1½d.
*The Lord hath brought us	„ „	3d.
*God hath appointed a day	Berthold Tours	1½d.
*Christ our Passover	„ „	1½d.
*Behold, the Angel of the Lord	„ „	1½d.
*The Lord is King	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
This is the day	J. Turle	4d.
As it began to dawn	Charles Vincent	3d.
Christ being raised from the dead	Samuel Webbe, Sen.	1½d.
O give thanks unto the Lord	S. S. Wesley	4d.
*Blessed be the God and Father	„ „	4d.

*Anthems marked thus * to be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d., 1½d., and 2d. each.*

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NINE HYMNS WITH TUNES FOR EASTER

SELECTED FROM

THE HYMNARY

PRICE ONE PENNY.

Christ the Lord is risen to-day	Sir George Elvey.
Far be sorrow, tears, and sighs	C. Steggall, Mus.D.
Welcome, happy morning	Arthur Sullivan.
Come, ye faithful, raise the strain	„ „
At the Lamb's high feast we sing	German.
The Day of Resurrection	Henry Smart.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day	Ch. Gounod.
Jesus Christ is risen to-day	Old Melody.
O blessed Trinity	„
Soon the fiery sun ascending	German.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EASTER ANTHEM. Easy. Effective.

CHRIST IS RISEN

BY

J. H. MAUNDER.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Will be ready March 10.

NEW ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

NOW IF CHRIST BE PREACHED THAT HE ROSE FROM THE DEAD

BY

W. WOLSTENHOLME, Mus. Bac., Oxon.

Short and easy. Price Twopence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Specimen copy free from the Composer, Oswald Street, Blackburn.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS

NOW READY.

AS IT BEGAN TO DAWN

ANTHEM FOR EASTER

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price Three-Halfpence; Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.

THE LORD IS RISEN

ANTHEM FOR EASTER

BY

G. M. GARRETT, Mus. Doc.

Price Fourpence; Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

Will be Published March 6.

WHY SEEK YE THE LIVING AMONG THE DEAD?

ANTHEM FOR EASTER.

BY

F. PEEL.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ANTHEM FOR EASTER

"An attractive and effective composition."—Musical Times.

"An easily learnt Anthem."—Sheffield Daily Post.

"A most devotional composition."—Newcastle Chronicle.

"This Anthem will be much appreciated by all who wish something fresh and not too difficult."—Aberdeen Journal.

"Smoothly and pleasantly written."—Western Times (Exeter).

"Tuneful, and easy to sing."—Leeds Mercury.

CHRIST IS RISEN

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

Price Threepence. Tonic Sol-fa, price Three-Halfpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

EDWYN A. CLARE'S

EASTER ANTHEMS, &c.

These compositions are very effective and not difficult.

Now is Christ risen. New. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
A very attractive and easy Anthem.

Benedicite in D. Chant. New. 3rd 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
With effective Organ Accompaniment for Unison verses.

He is risen. 10th 1,000. A favourite Anthem .. .. .. 3d.

Why seek ye? 7th 1,000. With good Bass Solo .. .. 3d.

Hallelujah! now is Christ risen. 6th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.

{ Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 11th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
{ The Lord reigneth. New. Sol-fa, 2d. .. .. 3d.
Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special occasion.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Full of vigour and flowing melody.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE LORD IS RISEN INDEED, HALLELUJAH! Anthem for Easter. By Benjamin Congreve. Price 2d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Recently Published.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By Frank Frewer, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. Easy and effective. 3d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW EASTER ANTHEMS, &c.

BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

*CHRIST OUR PASSOVER. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
*THIS IS THE LORD'S DOING. New. 4th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
*KING OF KINGS. New. 8th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
TE DEUM IN G. New. 6th edition .. .. 4d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G. New. 5th edition .. 4d.
*HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN G. New. Just published .. 4d.
An easy Service complete, with Benedictus and Agnus Dei.
*BENEDICITE IN B FLAT. New. 3rd 1,000 .. .. 2d.
A shortened Setting. Can be sung in half the usual time.
*I AM HE THAT LIVETH. 9th 1,000 .. .. 4d.
Sung at two Choral Festivals.
HE IS RISEN. 58th edition .. .. 3d.
AND BEHOLD, THERE WAS A GREAT EARTHQUAKE. 11th 1,000 .. 3d.
THE LORD IS MY STRENGTH. 8th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
O SING UNTO THE LORD. 5th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
WHY SEEK YE? 17th edition .. .. 3d.
HALLELUJAH! NOW IS CHRIST RISEN. 11th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
An easy arrangement of a portion of Handel's Hallelujah Chorus.
*AWAKE, THOU THAT SLEEPEST. 10th 1,000 .. .. 3d.
CHRIST IS RISEN. 9th edition .. .. 4d.
IF WE BELIEVE THAT JESUS DIED. 10th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
POPULAR TE DEUM IN F. 21st edition .. .. 3d.
HOLY COMMUNION IN F. Complete. 6th edition .. .. .. 6d.
FAVOURITE MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F. 43rd edition 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Lismore, Derry, and Downpatrick Cathedrals; also at Barrow, Skegness, Great Budworth, East Devon, &c.
POPULAR MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN E FLAT. 15th edit. 4d.
Sung at a Choral Festival in Llandaff Cathedral.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT. 7th 1,000.. .. 4d.
Highest note E flat. Complete, with Benedictus and Agnus Dei.
BENEDICITE IN A FLAT. Quad. Chant Form. 7th 1,000 .. .. 2d.
Sung in Worcester Cathedral.
BENEDICITE IN F. Quad. Chant Form. 3rd 1,000.. .. .. 2d.
COME UNTO ME. Easy Lent Anthem. 3rd 1,000 .. .. .. 2d.
O HOW AMIABLE. Festivals. 2nd 1,000 .. .. 3d.
GIVE GLORY UNTO THE LORD. Festivals. 11th edition .. .. 3d.
*BREAK FORTH INTO JOY. Festivals. 7th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Sung at Choral Festivals in Downpatrick Cathedral and at Begelly.

Those marked * are also published in Tonic Sol-fa.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, Wabash Avenue.

WINCHESTER'S
CHURCH MUSIC FOR LENT.

	s.	d.
THE STORY OF THE CROSS (Words only, 1s. per 100) ..	0	1½
THE STORY OF THE CROSS, Another Setting with five Metrical Litany Tunes	0	2
THE CROSS. Special Hymn for Lent (Words only, 1s. per 100)	0	2
BENEDICITE. Three Settings .. .. each	0	2
THE LITANY	0	2
BENEDICTUS, 2d. (another, 1½d.); CANTATE DOMINO..	0	2
GREGORIANS: Venite, 1d.; Te Deum, 1½d.; Benedictus, 1½d.; Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 2d.; Deus Misereatur ..	0	1
VERSICLES and PRECES and RESPONSES (minor key)..	0	1
ANTHEM—"Blessed is He that cometh" (Palm Sunday) ..	0	1½

FOR EASTER.

ANTHEM—"Hallelujah! Christ is risen"	0	3
ANTHEM—"I will give thanks"	0	4
ANTHEM—"The Lord is my Shepherd"	0	3
TE DEUM. Service in F	0	3
JUBILATE	0	1½
BENEDICTUS	0	2
COMMUNION SERVICE in F	0	4
AGNUS DEI, 1½d. BENEDICTUS QUI VENIT	0	1½
OFFERTORY SENTENCES (Ten). For S.A.T.B.	0	3
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in F	0	3
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS in G	0	3
GRAND FESTIVAL MARCH for ORGAN	1	6
TEN ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for ORGAN	4	0

BOUND VOLUMES OF
WINCHESTER'S CHURCH MUSIC SERIES,
Nos. 1 to 50, bound in Cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

ANTHEMS BY SIR HERBERT OAKELEY.

(1.) FOR EASTER.—THIS IS THE DAY WHICH THE LORD HATH MADE. Sung at a Peterborough Choral Festival, and at the Enthronement of the late Archbishop of Canterbury, &c. (2.) For Palm Sunday.—WHO IS THIS THAT COMETH FROM EDOM? Sung at the Cathedrals of Canterbury, York, Winchester, Durham, Lichfield, Exeter, Norwich, Wells, Bristol, Edinburgh, and at Westminster Abbey. Also at Dublin, at the Jubilee Concert of that University's Musical Society; at a Cambridge Festival of Choirs, by Mr. Henry Leslie's Choir, and at St. Michael's College, Tenbury. This Anthem is scored for Orchestra. Vocal Score and Organ, 1s.
London: SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street, W.

Now Ready.
NEW MUSICAL WORK FOR THE LENTEN SEASON AND GOOD FRIDAY.

SONG OF THE PASSION

(ACCORDING TO ST. JOHN)
A SACRED CANTATA
FOR SOLO, RECITATIVE (MALE VOICES), AND CHORUS
With Hymns introduced to be sung by the Congregation, the words specially written for this work
BY MILDRED GAUNTLETT
THE MUSIC BY
WILLIAM S. VINNING
Mus. Bac., Cantab.
Price One Shilling and Sixpence.
Words with Hymns to be had separately. Price 2d.

BENEDICITE
Set to Music by the same COMPOSER. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC
BY EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., CANTAB.

ANTHEMS.

EASTER.—"If we believe."	Four voices	4d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
FESTIVAL.—"I was glad."	Four voices	3d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	2d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E.	Chant form	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	" "	3d.
	Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	.. ..	1½d.
" " "	A	1½d.
" " "	E	1½d.

HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord.	With words	1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes	.. ..	6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes	.. ..	3d.
Amen (on Card)	.. ..	1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ .. net	2s. 0d.
Ave Maria .. .. "	1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat .. .. "	1s. 0d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR LENT, &c. (DORAN and NOTTINGHAM).

	s.	d.
BENEDICITE. Intermodal Harmony	0	2
MISERERE. Simple Harmonies	0	1
MISERERE. Verse Harmonies	0	1
REQUIEM ÆTERNAM. Music at Burials, with Form of Consecration of a Grave .. .. cloth	1	4

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ANTHEM or MOTET for Chorus, &c., and Orchestra or Organ, THE GLORY OF LEBANON. Composed by Sir HERBERT OAKELEY for the Eighth Centenary of the Consecration of Winchester Cathedral, to take place in April. Price 2s. net. London: SCHOTT and Co., or from the COMPOSER, Dover.

NEW CHURCH MUSIC
BY
THOMAS ADAMS, F.C.O.,
Organist and Choirmaster of St. Alban's, Holborn, E.C.

	s.	d.
EASY COMMUNION SERVICE IN G. 2nd edition. Including the Ritual Music for Choir	0	6
EASY MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS (Chant Form) IN D	0	2
"AVE MARIA." For two voices, Soprano and Contralto. Pianoforte or Organ Accompaniment	1	0
ST. ALBAN'S SUPPLEMENTAL TUNE BOOK. 2nd edition	3	0

Copy of each of the above, post-free, for 3s. 6d.
Address as above.

THE

OFFICE FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION

(Including Benedictus qui venit and Agnus Dei)

SET TO MUSIC IN THE KEY OF A FLAT

BY

BASIL HARWOOD.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

W. H. HIGGINS.

Communion Service. E flat (Third Edition) .. .. .. 8d.
Benedictus. E flat (from Morning Service) .. .. 4d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

I will lift up mine eyes (Treble Solo and Chorus) .. .. .. 3d.
LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY.

NEW FESTIVAL SERVICE

BY

HENRY GADSBY.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS

IN THE KEY OF F MAJOR

Performed at the Festival of the Sons of the Clergy, at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1892.

Price Sixpence.

Full Score and Orchestral Parts may be had on hire.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

	Staff.	Sol-fa.
CANTATAS.	s. d.	s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 1s. 6d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE STORY OF THE CROSS (for use during Passion Week). Music by C. STOTT, Organist of the Parish Church, Queensbury, Yorks. Price Three-Halfpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

VESPER HYMN. To be sung after Evensong. Words and music by GEORGE KETT. "A very charming hymn-tune."—Sir John Stainer. On card. Price One Penny.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Words alone, for congregational use, One Shilling per hundred, of the AUTHOR, 100, Gordon Road, Nunhead, S.E.

Just Published.

THE KYRIE of the English Liturgy, arranged to themes in R. WAGNER'S "PARSIFAL," by the Rev. R. SEALY GENGE, M.A. Price, net, Fourpence.

A CROWN OF THORNS. Sacred Song. The Words by C. Marston Haddock; the Music by G. PERCY HADDOCK.
No. 1, in G, for Soprano, Violin, Pianoforte, Organ, and Chorus (ad lib.), net, 2s. 6d.
No. 2, in E, for Mezzo-Soprano or Contralto; and the same, Obbligato parts, net, 2s. 6d.
No. 3, for Soprano with Pianoforte, net, 2s.
No. 4, for Mezzo-Soprano with Pianoforte, net, 2s.
Obbligato Harp parts to Nos. 1 and 2, each, net, 1s.
Sung with immense success by Mdlle. Trebelli at Leeds and Manchester.
SCHOTT & Co., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.—A large quantity of VOCAL MUSIC, CHORUS PARTS, and SCORES, consisting of Cantatas, Part-songs, &c., for SALE. Application for list to Dr. Bunnett, The Close, Norwich, when all information will be given.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

Second Edition. Third and Fourth Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.'"—The Referee.

"The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Sixteenth to Twentieth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description."—Shields Daily News.

	s. d.		s. d.
Paper cover .. .. price	2 6	Tonic Sol-fa .. .. price	1 6
„ boards .. .. „	3 0	Vocal parts .. each „	1 0
Scarlet cloth .. .. „	4 0	Words only .. per 100 „	7 6

FOR THE USE OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. ELLIOTT. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the COMPOSER, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO EWER AND CO.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.

And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER

(PUBLIC SCHOOL EDITION)

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

Where the whole verses are to be sung by the congregation they are marked by a line at the side.

Where half-verses are to be sung by the congregation they are printed in italics.

All other verses and half-verses are to be sung by the choir only.

Cloth, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK

A SELECTION OF SINGLE & DOUBLE CHANTS

ARRANGED FOR THE DAILY PSALMS

TOGETHER WITH

SINGLE CHANTS FOR THE CANTICLES

BY

Rev. HENRY J. BIDDER, B.D.

FELLOW OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND VICAR OF ST. GILES', OXFORD,

AND

J. VARLEY ROBERTS,

MUS. DOC., OXON.,

ORGANIST OF MAGDALEN COLLEGE AND ST. GILES' CHURCH, OXFORD.

PRICE, IN PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING.

CLOTH, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Third Edition. Seventh and Eighth Thousand.

This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. Mr. Gaul's works have placed him in the front rank of English composers."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"A career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.'"—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE

GREAT DAY OF THE LORD

SACRED CANTATA

MUSIC BY W. CLARK AINLEY,

Mus. Bac., Cantab.

SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Price, in paper cover, 2s.; in paper boards, 3s.; in scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.

London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.

Leeds: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN.

Huddersfield: WOOD and MARSHALL.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind! ..	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ..	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.)..	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.)..	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ..	3d.	The Dream of Home ..	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter ..	2d.
Over the mountain side ..	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
The Stormy Petrel.. ..	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ..	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (EDWARD OXENFORD)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES FOR S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the COMPOSER, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.) ..	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE CLANSMEN. By T. W. BLAKEY. "This is a stirring part-song (S.A.T.B.) dedicated to Dr. A. C. Mackenzie. The music is bright and cheerful, without being commonplace."—Monthly Journal (N.S.P.M.). Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SIX ELIZABETHAN PASTORALS

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B.) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

1. To his flocks	3d.	4. Sweet love for me	3d.
2. Corydon, arise	3d.	5. Damon's Passion	3d.
3. Diaphenia	3d.	6. Phœbe	3d.

ALSO

FOUR PART-SONGS.

1. Soft, soft wind	2d.	3. Airly Beacon	2d.
2. Sing heigh-ho!	2d.	4. The Knight's Tomb ..	2d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER AND Co.

Just Published. 8vo, 3d.

THE SKATERS

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

BOOK 15.

SOFT VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE CALKIN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.	4. The Skylark.
2. The Nightingale.	5. The Owl.
3. The Dove.	6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the Play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

By EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.
PRICE FIVE SHILLINGS NET.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO HENRY VIII.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

ARRANGEMENT FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE, 3s.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

REGISTRATION OF MUSICIANS.—For Mr. Carte's paper see March Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

Edwin Ashdown's selection of Choruses for Treble Voices.

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT. Price 4d. each net.

1. Steersman, steer our bark. Three-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
2. The winds now are still. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
3. Spinning chorus. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) .. Wagner
4. Singing liketh me. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
5. Parting. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
6. The Mermaids. Three-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
7. Raise high the song. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. Wagner
8. Adown the wav'ring billows. Three-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
9. 'Tis ours this happy season. Two-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
10. Barcarolle ("Oh! 'tis pleasant"). Three-part (Oberon) Weber
11. Whispering breezes. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
12. Joy! joy! joy! Three part (Knight of Palestine) .. Weber
13. The earth is clothed in flowers. Four-part (Fall of the Leaf) O. Barri
14. With hearts of joy. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. O. Barri
15. Sing, sweet bird. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. .. O. Barri
16. Haste to the church! Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
17. Chorus of angels. Four-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
18. Awake from slumber. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. F. Abt
19. O'er the flower-bespeckl'd meadows. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
20. I saw a land of wondrous beauty. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
21. Come, let us wreathe the bridal flowers. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
22. Now on music's wings. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
23. Homeward we are wending. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
24. Trip it lightly, gaily, brightly. Three-part (Harvest Queen) Godwin Fowles
25. Angel of peace. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. .. Wagner
26. In Thee we trust. Three-part (Pilgrims' Chorus, Tannhäuser) .. .. Wagner
27. Awake! awake! Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
28. Music and sunshine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
29. Joyous our life. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
30. Sing, sisters, sing. Four-part (All-Hallow Eve) .. B. Gilbert
31. Sunrise. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. .. F. Romer
32. Sunset chorus. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. F. Romer
33. Our old piano. Three-part .. .. F. Auger
34. Home bells. Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
35. Dear home. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
36. Summer. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
37. For thee hath beauty. Three-part (Oberon) .. .. Weber
38. I remember one eve. Three-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
39. Vintage time. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
40. Odours come with quiet spell. Three-part (A Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
41. Sad is the parting. Two-part (Volkslied) .. .. .. German
42. Not in our grief alone. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
43. A Christmas song. Two-part .. .. A. Adam
44. The Hymn of peace. Two-part .. .. .. W. H. Callcott
45. O! Southern wind. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
46. Dwellers of the spirit land. Two-part .. .. .. O. Barri
47. 'Tis summer. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
48. O! come to the grove. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
49. The snow. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
50. Come back. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
51. A Christmas carol. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
52. The midnight bell. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Roeckel
53. Where the scented violet. Two-part (The Magic Well) F. Abt
54. See, the star of eve. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
55. The cuckoo kept calling. Two-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
56. Come, let us go. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
57. We will seek thee. Two-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
58. We are only village maidens. Two-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
59. John Peel. Two-part (Hunting song) .. .. D. Pentland
60. O! come hither. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
61. O! give thanks. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
62. O! praise the Lord with me. Two-part (Sacred Mendelssohn
63. Hark! the hunter's merry horn. Two-part .. L. Zamboni
64. Old English pastimes. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
65. The organ-grinder. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
66. The happy fireside. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
67. Hark! from yon old abbey. Two-part .. .. J. Barnett
68. Merry May. Two-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
69. The Alpine sisters. Two-part .. .. .. D. Tagliafico
70. Heap high the golden corn. Two-part .. .. .. Raphael
71. Lull'd by the silence. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
72. Fairy sisters. Two-part .. .. F. Packer
73. Merry May. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
74. The swallows' return. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
75. The sea-nymphs. Two part .. .. T. Distin
76. Merrie gipsies. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
77. Hail! pretty babe. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
78. Sleigh-bells. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
79. For so hath the Lord. Two-part (St. Paul) .. Mendelssohn
80. And Paul came to the congregation. Two-part Mendelssohn
81. To God on high. Three-part (Chorale, St. Paul) Mendelssohn
82. O! Thou true and only light. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
83. How lovely are the messengers. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
84. Away! away! Three-part .. .. J. L. Roeckel
85. The angels' song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
86. A farewell. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
87. The dawn. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
88. Come away to the woods. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
89. Miserere Domine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
90. Rest while the noon. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
91. At break of day. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
92. Haste away. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
93. The morn is bright. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
94. Hail to thee. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
95. Around the maypole. Three-part (May-tide) .. P. Mazzoni
96. O'er the smiling meadows. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
97. O! praise the flow'ret sweet. Three-part .. F. F. Rogers
98. She sleeps. Three-part (The Magic Flower) .. F. F. Rogers
99. So pure, a sister's tender love. Three-part .. .. Weber
100. Gone is every pleasure. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
101. From Oberon in fairyland. Three-part .. .. .. Stevens
102. Blow, gentle gales. Three-part .. .. Bishop
103. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre. Three-part .. .. Bishop
104. The winds whistle cold. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
105. The chough and crow. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
106. Sound the loud timbrel Three-part .. .. .. Avison
107. Ye shepherds tell me (The wreath). Three-part Mazzinghi
108. Harvest home. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop and Foster
109. But now the pearl-crown'd moon. Three-part E. Aguilar
110. O! find a song. Three-part (Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
111. When the wind blows. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
112. A lullaby Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
113. Come over the hills. Three-part .. .. H. Foster
114. The sower. Three-part .. .. D'Albano
115. Home and rest. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
116. Memories. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
117. Good-bye, sweetheart, good-bye. Three-part .. J. L. Hatton
118. The city of the king. Three-part .. .. O. Barri
119. Erin mavourneen. Three-part .. .. .. J. L. Hatton
120. Blessed are the poor in Spirit. Three-part (Sacred) .. Mozart
121. Through the old cloisters. Three-part .. .. Beethoven
122. Roll on, fair orb. Three-part .. .. .. Beethoven
123. In Thee I trust. Three-part (Sacred) .. .. .. Handel
124. Ring on, sweet bells. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
125. The minstrel. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
126. An evening song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
127. The wood-nymph's home. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
128. The songs our fathers loved. Three-part .. Wagner
129. Gipsy chorus. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
130. Now to the fair. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
131. Yet droops the maiden. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
132. Deign to forgive the gipsy maid. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
133. The maiden's dream. Three-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
134. From out Thy starry dwelling. Three-part (Prayer, Moses in Egypt) .. .. Rossini
135. Father of Heaven. Three-part (Prayer, Masaniello) Auber
136. A sylvan song. Three-part .. .. Wagner
137. A lady fair (Villanelle). Three-part .. .. Niedermeyer
138. Stay, prithee, stay. Three-part .. .. Bishop
139. O! skylark for thy wing. Three-part .. .. Mendelssohn
140. Light as fairy foot can fall. Three-part .. .. .. Weber
141. The evening bell. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
142. Haste thee, boatman. Two-part .. .. .. F. Kücken
143. On the margin of that river. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
144. Bird of the morn. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
145. Wandering wind. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
146. Song of the sea breezes. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
147. Heavenly music. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
148. Adieu, ye woodlands. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
149. Nightingales are singing. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
150. Sing to me, gondolier. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
151. Now, merry fays. Two-part .. .. C. Gounod
152. The voices of Spring. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
153. The haymakers. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
154. Now the meadows. Two-part .. .. Lotti
155 In Thy service. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. .. J. Blockley
156. I think of thee. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
157. O! ye sunny hours. Two-part .. .. .. R. Schumann
158. Good night. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
159. Cradled by the heaving billow. Two-part .. .. H. Foster
160. Serenade. Two-part .. .. J. B. Wekerlin
161. The sailor's return. Three-part .. .. .. Wagner
162. The song of June. Three-part .. .. .. Mendelssohn
163. Singing in the rain. Two-part .. .. .. J. P. Knight
164. The ferry boat. Two-part .. .. L. Williams
165. When spring descendeth. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
166. Where art thou, beam of light? Three-part .. .. Bishop
167. Far away. Two-part .. .. J. R. Thomas
168. Italy's music. Three-part .. .. C. E. Horn
169. Nina's farewell. Two-part .. .. Pergolesi
170. The gipsy home. Two-part .. .. Herbert Foster
171. Three vivandières. Three-part .. .. F. Schira
172. Peace. Two-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
173. Sing, pretty maiden. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
174 Angelus. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
175. Pretty gitana. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Wallace
176. Alas! those chimes. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
177. Turn on, old time. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
178. God save the Queen. Three-part .. .. .. National
179. Say, sad heart, why art thou beating? Two-part .. F. Abt
180. Eve's lamentation. Two-part .. .. .. M. P. King
181. Thy spirit is near. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK. HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON. TORONTO.

Just Published.

IRISH
SONGS AND BALLADS
THE WORDS BY
ALFRED PERCEVAL GRAVES
THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS:

The Song of the Turf.
The Exiles.
Arranmore Boat Song.
The Roving Pedlar.
The Zephyrs blest.
Colonel Carty.
The Ploughman's whistle.
Love's hallowed seal.
The March of the Maguire.
Lullaby.
A Lament.
The Song of the Ghost.
Silver and Gold.
Mavourneen Dhu.
The Darling.
O Mary, thy laugh was sweet.
Hush song.
The Kilkenny cats.
Sweet Isle.
The Hero of Limerick.
Loved bride of O'Byrne.
Our Inniskilling boy.
Festival Song (Pleraca).
Johnny Cox.
The Irish Reel.
Molleen Oge. [true love.
Last night I dreamt of my own
Bright love of my heart.
My Colleen rue.
Chieftain of Tyrconnell.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TWELVE SONGS
SET 2
(STIMMUNGSBILDER)
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED BY KAREL BENDL.
(Op. 101.)

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY THE REV. DR. TROUTBECK.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

CONTENTS.

A little Song.—Ein kleines Lied.
Scented Spring.—Ich möchte gern.
Over the clustered rose-trees.—Über dem Busch der Rose.
Night.—Die Nacht.
The gloomy lake.—Am schwarzen Teich.
Peace.—Frieden.
Beside the way.—Am Wege.
Come, faithless Maiden.—Komm, falsche Dirne.
The Mother's Kiss.—Küss' ich die Mutter.
Three Garlands.—Drei Kränze.
Good Night.—Gute Nacht.
Her Grave.—Ihr Grab.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

AVE MARIA
English version by HELEN D. TRETBAR.
COMPOSED BY
SEBASTIAN B. SCHLESINGER.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

SHOUGGIE SHOU, MY BAIRNIE
A MITHER'S SANG
The Words written by J. WILSON M'LAREN
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
G. HENSCHEL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW MUSIC by T. E. SPINNEY. Words by AMY THORN. THE SINGER, NOT THE SONG. Price 2s. net. (One of the prettiest songs of the day.)
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

CROSSING THE BAR. Song. Compass, D flat to E flat. Composed by VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM. Price 2s. net.
REID BROS., 436, Oxford Street, W.

Just Published.

Dedicated, by gracious permission, to H.R.H. THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

MOURN IN HOPE
LINES ON THE DEATH OF
H.R.H. THE DUKE OF CLARENCE AND AVONDALE
BY ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON
AND SET TO MUSIC BY
SEBASTIAN B. SCHLESINGER.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SONGS by LORD TENNYSON, set to Music by Sir HERBERT OAKELEY. From "The Princess"—"Bugle Song," "Tears, idle tears," "Swallow Song," "Home they brought," "Ask me no more," "Now sleeps the crimson petal," and "Come down, O maid" (the Shepherd's Idyll); also "Flow down, cold rivulet," "Break, break," and "Edward Gray." These settings, which have the addition of German translations, may be obtained from SCHOTT and Co., or from the COMPOSER, Dover. Also, just published, Stanzas from "In Memoriam," commencing "Strong Son of God," Short Anthem or Hymn for Chorus and Organ. Price 1s. 6d. net. FORSYTH BROS., 267, Regent Street, W.

A SONG OF LIFE
(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. Song of the Redeemed.

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS
BY
ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Second Edition in the Press.

THE WILD HUNTSMAN
A LEGEND
FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
The Poetry by Mrs. HEMANS.
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY
R. MACHILL GARTH.

Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

HORA NOVISSIMA
The Rhythm of Bernard de Morlaix on the Celestial Country
SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY
HORATIO W. PARKER
(Op. 30).

Composed for the Church Choral Society, New York.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

BUTTERCUPS AND DAISIES
A PASTORAL CANTATA FOR CHILDREN'S VOICES
Written by EDWARD OXENFORD
COMPOSED BY
EATON FANING.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

Just Published.

SIX PIECES
FOR THE VIOLONCELLO
WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT
COMPOSED AND ARRANGED BY
G. LIBOTTON.

		s.	d.
1.	Etude Caprice .. .. net	2	6
2.	Rêverie .. .. „	1	6
3.	Caprice Hongrois .. .. „	2	0
4.	Nocturne (Chopin, Op. 27, No. 2) .. .. „	1	6
5.	Chant sans Paroles (Tschaikowsky) .. „	1	6
6.	Du bist die Ruh' (Schubert).. .. .. „	1	6

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

TWELVE
EASY VOLUNTARIES
FOR THE HARMONIUM
COMPOSED BY MAX OESTEN
(OP. 186).

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR ORGAN RECITALS.

ANDANTE
FOR VIOLIN AND ORGAN
COMPOSED BY
G. F. BRUCE.

Price, with Violin Part, Two Shillings net.
To Organists, One Shilling post-free.
London: MUSICAL NEWS OFFICE, 130, Fleet Street;
AUGENER and Co., 86, Newgate Street.

Just Published, by the AUTHOR,

WHITE ROSE GAVOTTE, WHITE ROSE VALSE, WHITE ROSE QUADRILLE, WHITE ROSE SCHOTTISCHE, GRAND DUKE OF HOLYROOD VALSE, and Song, THE ROYAL SAILORS, all composed by PRINCE CHAS. ED. STUART. Price 2s. net each. Copies may be had of all Music Dealers, or direct from the London Agents—
B. WILLIAMS, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

BOEKELMAN'S EDITION
OF BACH'S FUGUES
PRINTED IN COLOURS.

In this Edition the essential parts of each Fugue—viz., Subject, Answer, Counter-subject, Episodes, &c., are each printed in a distinct colour, with a view to helping the Student to a clear understanding of the structure and form of the composition.

Book I. contains—

Vol. 1.	Fugue 3, C sharp major.	Vol. 1.	Fugue 10, E minor.
„ 1.	Fugue 4, C sharp minor.	„ 2.	Fugue 7, E flat.

Book II. contains—

Vol. 1.	Fugue 1, in C.	Vol. 1.	Fugue 21, in B flat.
„ 1.	Fugue 7, in E flat.	„ 1.	Fugue 22, in B flat minor.

Price Two Shillings net each Fugue.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Sole Agents for Great Britain and the Colonies.

REQUIEM MASS
FOR
SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
COMPOSED BY
ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.
(Op. 89.)

FULL SCORE.
PRICE THREE GUINEAS.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

FOURTH GRAND CONCERT SONATA
(CHRISTMAS SONATA)
COMPOSED BY OTTO DIENEL
(OP. 32).

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

In the Press.

CANTATA
SET TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM
CROSSING THE BAR
FOR FULL ORCHESTRA, CHORUS, AND PIANOFORTE
BY ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String and Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Now Ready.

THE MUSICAL DIRECTORY, ANNUAL, AND ALMANACK FOR 1893.

Containing Names and Addresses of Musicians in Great Britain; List of Copyright Music published during the past year; Musical Events, &c.

Price, in paper, 3s.; by post, 3s. 3d.
Price, in cloth, 4s.; by post, 4s. 3d.

RUDALL, CARTE and Co., 23, Berners Street, London, W.

SOLMIZATION OF THE MINOR KEY.—
l, t, d r m f s l
or d r ma f s la t d'
Dr. Merrick's paper read before the Society of Incorporated Musicians. See March Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

THE
ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS
BY
G. C. MARTIN
Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir JOHN STAINER.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately.
Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

INTERVAL EXERCISES
FOR SINGING CLASSES
TO WHICH ARE ADDED A FEW TWO-PART TIME EXERCISES
BY FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

Price Eightpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TWO-PART SONGS

FOR

USE IN SCHOOLS, &c.

TWELVE CANONS

FOR TWO-PART FEMALE CHORUS OR TWO SOLO VOICES

With Accompaniment for the Pianoforte

BY

CARL REINECKE.

The English translation by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; or, singly:—

In life if love we know not	2d.
The rose is queen	2d.
Waken not the sleeper	2d.
Good night	2d.
Eat the fruit, but give the seed	2d.
Woe to him that, when life doth close	2d.
Look upward	2d.
Happiness ever is fugitive found	2d.
A Christmas Carol	2d.
O beautiful violet	2d.
Prayer on the waters	2d.
Invitation to the dance	4d.

SONGS OF THE FOREST

SIX TWO-PART SONGS FOR LADIES' VOICES

The Poetry by

EDWARD OXENFORD

The Music by

JOHN KINROSS.

Price One Shilling; or, singly, Threepence each.

Early morning.	Flow'rets fair.
Hunter's song.	The waterfall.
Merry songsters.	Shades of night.

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

BY

F. MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

Price One Shilling; cloth, 2s.; or, singly, Twopence each.

Ditto, English and German words, 2s.; cloth, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.

I would that my love.	The Sabbath morn.
The Passage-bird's farewell.	The harvest field.
Greeting.	Song from "Ruy Blas."
Autumn Song.	Home, far away.
O wert thou in the cauld blast.	Evening song.
The May bells and the flowers.	My bark is bounding.
	Zuleika and Hassan.

SIX TWO-PART ANTHEMS

FOR LADIES' OR BOYS' VOICES

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling; or, singly, Threepence each.

The night is far spent	Advent.
There were shepherds	Christmas.
Is it nothing to you	Good Friday or Lent.
Why seek ye the living among the dead?	Easter.
If ye then be risen with Christ	Ascensiontide.
Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard	Whitsuntide.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS

FOR LADIES' OR BOYS' VOICES

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling; or, singly, Twopence each.

To Sea.	Song should breathe of scents and flowers.
If hope were but a fairy.	March.
The willow and its lesson.
The promised land.

THREE HUNDRED AND NINETY-SIX TWO-PART EXERCISES

FOR CHOIRS AND SCHOOLS

(Novello's Music Primers, No. 23). May be used with any system of Sol-fa.

BY

JAMES GREENWOOD.

Price One Shilling; paper boards, 1s. 6d.

A COLLECTION OF TWO-PART SOLFEGGI

IN THE PRINCIPAL MAJOR KEYS

DESIGNED FOR THE PRACTICE OF CHORISTERS AND VOCAL CLASSES GENERALLY.

Selected from Durante, Handel, Leo, Scarlatti, Steffani, Nares, Webbe, &c.

BY

JAMES HIGGS.

Price One Shilling.

FIVE MINUTES' EXERCISES

IN TWO PARTS, FOR THE USE OF SINGING CLASSES IN SCHOOLS

BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

Price Sixpence.

For further list of Two-part Songs, see Novello's list of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

GEORGE L. ALLAN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. Edward Stubbs, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the Author, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, Joseph Williams, 24, Berners Street, W.

THE TRUTH about STAMMERING.—Any one interested will receive the latest information and important books on the cure, on loan, post-free, without charge, from Ithuriel, Messrs. Deacon's, 154, Leadenhall Street, E.C.

CHOIR BOYS' MANUAL. Post-free, 6d. (stamps), of Austin Blake, Albany Villas, Grove Hill. Dr. Martin: "Likely to be very useful." Church Times: "Very good." Church Bells: "Most useful," &c.

PART-SONGS for TREBLE VOICES

SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR HIGH SCHOOLS

EDITED BY

MRS. CAREY BROCK

AND

M. A. SIDEBOTHAM

(Editors of the "Children's Hymn-Book," &c.)

Price One Shilling each part.

PART I. CONTAINS:—

Hail! Star of Eve	R. Spofforth.
Here in cool grot	Lord Mornington.
The Wreath	J. Mazzinghi.
Evening	Henry Smart.
To stay at home is best	Berthold Tours.
There is a Spirit singing aye in air	M. A. Sidebotham.

PART II. CONTAINS:—

Blow, gentle Gales	Sir Henry Bishop.
The Bird at Sea	Henry Smart.
Elves of the Forest	Mozart.
Bird of the Wilderness	Burnham W. Horner.
Boscobel	M. A. Sidebotham.
All among the Barley	Elizabeth Stirling.

PART III. CONTAINS:—

May Day	Müller.
Glorious Apollo	Samuel Webbe.
The Corall'd Caves of Ocean	Henry Smart.
In sleep the world reposes	Richard Hol.
Fair Summer Morning	F. Sor.
If she be made of white and red	M. A. Sidebotham.

PART IV. CONTAINS:—

From Oberon, in Fairyland	R. J. S. Stevens.
Lullaby	Storace.
See the chariot at hand	Wm. Horsley.
Now golden day again is dawning	Mozart.
Oh! Skylark, for thy wing	Henry Smart.
Sweet Content	M. A. Sidebotham.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
BRAHMS, J.—Intermezzo ("Lullaby"). Arranged for Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 117, No. 1	3	0
—— The same. Arranged for Viola and Pianoforte	3	0
—— The same. Arranged for Violoncello and Pianoforte	3	0
CARL, C.—"Mussinan." March. For Pianoforte Duet and Two Violins	4	0
—— The same. For Pianoforte Duet, Violin, Violoncello, Flute, and Trumpet	6	0
—— The same. For Pianoforte Duet, Violin, and Violoncello	4	0
DOMBAY, A. von—Five Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 52:—
No. 1. Louisa	1	0
„ 2. Dreaming	1	0
„ 3. Ballet scene	2	0
„ 4. Phantasma	2	0
„ 5. Impromptu	2	0
FLÜGEL, E.—Three Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 32:—
No. 1. Elegie	2	0
„ 2. Intermezzo	2	0
„ 3. Ballade	3	0
FREUDENBERG, W.—Spanish Dance. For Violoncello and Pianoforte	4	0
—— The same. For Violin and Pianoforte	4	0
GODARD, B.—"Sérénade à Mabel" (Scotch scene). For the Pianoforte. Op. 138, No. 2	4	0
HASSENSTEIN, P.—Choral Overture. For Harmonium and Pianoforte. Op. 36	5	0
HERZOG, J. G.—Twelve Pieces. For the Organ. Op. 65. Books I., II., III., IV. each	3	0
HOFMANN, J. C.—"Durch die Wolken." For the Pianoforte. Op. 18	4	0
—— Op. 19. No. 1. Ungarisch	3	0
—— Op. 19. „ 2. Polnisch	2	0
LIMBERG, F. L.—Rhapsodie, in F minor. For the Pianoforte	3	0
LIPPOLD, MAX.—Three Valses. For the Pianoforte. Op. 22 each	2	0
MÜLLER, O.—Two Easy Pieces. For Pianoforte and Violin (First position). Op. 24:—
No. 1. Rondo Mignon	3	0
„ 2. Evening song	2	0
—— Two Sonatinas. For Pianoforte and Two Violins (First position). Op. 26:—
No. 1. In C major	6	0
„ 2. In G major	6	0
PACHE, J.—"It was a dream." For Strings:—
Score and Parts net	3	6
REINECKE, C.—Op. 86B. No. 3. Bolero. For Orchestra:—
Score net	2	6
Parts „	3	9
—— The same. No. 4. "The Mandolin Player":—
Score „	2	6
Parts „	3	9
RHEINBERGER, J.—"Meditations." For the Organ. Op. 167:—
No. 7. Intermezzo; No. 8. Alla marcia; No. 9. Thema variato; No. 10. Passacaglia; No. 11. Fugato; No. 12. Finale.. each	2	0
—— The same. Arranged as Pianoforte Duets:—
No. 1. March	3	0
„ 2. Intermezzo	2	0
„ 3. Thema con variazioni	3	0
SAURET, E.—"Gradus ad Parnassum du Violiniste." Part I.	12	0
SJÖGREN, E.—Sonata, No. 2, in E minor. For Violin and Pianoforte. Op. 24	13	0
THOMAS, O.—Pastorale. For Organ	3	0
TRIEBEL, B.—Salon-Orchestra. For Two Violins, Viola, Violoncello, Bass, Two Flutes (or Flute and Clarinet), Pianoforte, and Harmonium:—
No. 1. Bellini. "Norma" Overture net	5	0
„ 2. Reissiger. "Felsenmühle" Overture „	5	0
„ 3. André, L. "Heart to heart" „	2	9
„ 12. Spohr. Polonaise from "Faust" „	2	9
WACHS, P.—"Joyeux Babil." Scherzetto. For Violin and Pianoforte	5	0
—— Pastorale. For Organ	5	0
WIDOR, CH. M.—Variations sur un thème original. For the Pianoforte. Op. 29	6	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SIXTY-ONE

MELODIES AND UNFIGURED BASSES

(To be Harmonized in Four Parts)

For the use of ADVANCED MUSICAL STUDENTS and CANDIDATES FOR DIPLOMAS

BY

ROWLAND M. WINN, Mus. Doc., Oxon., F.C.O.

Price One Shilling.

"Both the melodies and the basses are designed with no little ingenuity, and form the means of bringing out in the student all the amount of skill of which he may be possessed."—Musical Times.

PART-SONGS

By the same Composer:

EVENING BELLS (6th thousand)	2d.
GO! HARK! (Hunting Song)	3d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

This Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the Studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	.. .. ..	Part 1*	28.	SHAKES	.. .. Part 1*
2.	„ „	.. .. ..	„ 2*	29.	„	.. .. „ 2*
				30.	„	.. .. „ 3
3.	SCALES	.. ..	Part 1*
4.	„	.. ..	„ 2*	31.	DOUBLE NOTES	.. .. Part 1*
				32.	„ „	.. .. „ 2*
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	.. ..	Part 1*	33.	„ „	.. .. „ 3
6.	„ „	.. ..	„ 2*	34.	„ „	.. .. „ 4
7.	„ „	.. ..	„ 3*
8.	„ „	.. ..	„ 4	35.	OCTAVES	.. .. Part 1*
9.	„ „	.. ..	„ 5	36.	„	.. .. „ 2*
10.	LEFT HAND	.. ..	Part 1*	37.	CHORDS	.. .. Part 1*
11.	„ „	.. ..	„ 2*	38.	„	.. .. „ 2
12.	„ „	.. ..	„ 3
13.	„ „	.. ..	„ 4	39.	STACCATO	.. ..
14.	ARPEGGIO	.. ..	Part 1*	40.	REPETITION	.. .. Part 1
15.	„	.. ..	„ 2*	41.	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	.. .. „ 2
16.	„	.. ..	„ 3	42.	„ „	.. .. „ 3
17.	VELOCITY	.. ..	Part 1*	43.	PART-PLAYING	.. .. Part 1
18.	„	.. ..	„ 2*	44.	„ „	.. .. „ 2
19.	„	.. ..	„ 3
20.	„	.. ..	„ 4	45.	ORNAMENTS	.. .. Part 1
21.	„	.. ..	„ 5	46.	„	.. .. „ 2
22.	„	.. ..	„ 6
23.	„	.. ..	„ 7	47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	.. .. Part 1
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	.. ..	Part 1	48.	„ „	.. .. „ 2
25.	„ „	.. .. ..	„ 2
				49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	.. .. Part 1
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	.. ..	Part 1	50.	„ „	.. .. „ 2
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	.. ..	Part 2	51.	RHYTHM	.. .. Part 1
				52.	„	.. .. „ 2

* These Parts are already published.

FIFTY-TWO BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Printed by Novello, Ewer and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by Kent and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Wednesday, March 1, 1893.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 602.—Vol. 34. APRIL 1, 1893. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.

Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

WEDNESDAY, April 19, at Eight,

MENDELSSOHN'S "ST. PAUL."

Madame CLARA SAMUELL, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. BEN DAVIES, Mr. JOHN WOODLEY, Mr. F. STUART HYATT, and Mr. WATKIN MILLS. Organist: Mr. HODGE.

Prices: 10s. 6d., 7s., 5s., 4s. Gallery (Promenade only), 1s.

MIDDLESEX CHORAL UNION.

Patron: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF YORK, K.G.

ST. JAMES'S HALL, WEDNESDAY, April 26, at 8 o'clock.

"JOB"—Dr. C. H. H. PARRY.

"HYMN OF PRAISE"—MENDELSSOHN.

MISS ESTHER PALLISER
MISS MARGARET HOARE
MR. HENRY PIERCY
MR. BANTOCK PIERPOINT
MR. ROBERT NEWMAN.

Full Orchestra of 70 performers, selected from the Richter and Philharmonic orchestras.

Leader: Mr. ALFRED BURNETT. Organist: Mr. MARTIN SHAW.
Chorus of 400 Voices.
Conductors: Dr. C. H. H. Parry, Mr. JAMES SHAW.

Sofa Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Area and Balcony Stalls, 5s.; Balcony (Unreserved), 3s.; Area, 2s.; Gallery, 1s.; of the usual Agents, and Basil Tree, St. James's Hall. N. VERT, 6, Cork Street, W.

RYDE CHORAL UNION

(Founded by Miss Margaret Fowles in 1874).

NINETEENTH YEAR. SPRING CONCERT.

THE "ELIJAH"

Will be given by this Society, in the Ryde Town Hall, on THURSDAY EVENING, April 6 next.

Soloists: Madame EMILY SPADA, Miss ETHEL BEVANS, Mr. PHILIP NEWBURY, and Mr. CHARLES COPLAND.
Band and Chorus of 120 Performers.

Hon. Conductor: Miss MARGARET FOWLES.

GRESHAM COLLEGE,

BASINGHALL STREET, E.C.

EASTER TERM, 1893.

Professor BRIDGE will deliver the LECTURES in MUSIC for this term as follows:

Tuesday, April 25.—"The Music of the Pageant and Play."
Wednesday, April 26.—"The Music of the Masque."
Thursday, April 27.—"The Elements of Musical Form."
Friday, April 28.—"A Talk about the Orchestra" (The Strings).

These Lectures are free to the Public, and commence at 6 p.m.

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE

Limited.

Founded 1878.—Incorporated 1893.

Central Office, 113, Great Portland Street, Oxford Street, W.

Principal: Professor EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.
Vice-Principal: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

LOCAL PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS may take place at any time (excepting in the months of August and September) at the various centres throughout the United Kingdom.

LOCAL THEORETICAL EXAMINATIONS on May 17 and November 29.

THE HIGHER EXAMINATIONS for the Diplomas of A.Mus. M.I.C. and L.Mus.M.I.C.; also the Certificates of Associate Pianist, Associate Vocalist, Associate Violinist, Associate Organist are held in May and November, and at other times as may be found necessary.

CERTIFICATE HOLDERS and others wishing to further the objects of the College may be admitted as Members.

Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d.; Life, £10 10s.

W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Bac., Secretary.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

The Midsummer Term begins Thursday, April 27. Entrance Examination, Tuesday, April 25, at 2. Intending Students should attend, bringing with them music which they can perform.

Entry forms may be obtained from the Secretary, and should be returned by April 21.

F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

May 2, at 8, Lecture on "Modern Harmony," by Dr. F. J. Sawyer, with Vocal and Instrumental Illustrations
May 8, Annual Dinner, at 7.
June 6, Lecture, at 8.
July 11, 12, and 13, F.C.O. Examination.
July 18, 19, and 20, A.C.O. Examination.
July 25, Annual General Meeting.

Members may have occasional access to the College Organ for practice. For conditions applications should be addressed to the College.

The Library is open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9.

E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.

Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

TO CANDIDATES FOR FELLOWSHIPS, COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The undermentioned pieces have been selected by the College Council for the next Fellowship Examination, July, 1893:—

		s.	d.
Prelude and Fugue in E minor (The Wedge), Bach	price net	2	9
Fantasia in F minor (Op. 118), E. Silas	,,	2	6
Sonata in F sharp, Rheinberger	,,	3	0

THE ORGAN WORKS OF JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH

EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., & JAMES HIGGS, Mus. Bac.

IN TEN BOOKS (to be continued).

BOOK VIII. contains the Prelude and Fugue in E minor (The Wedge), selected by the College of Organists for the July Examination.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

MR. RICHARD MACKWAY'S SCHOOL OF VOCAL MUSIC,

295, OXFORD STREET, W.

(100 Yards West of Regent Circus).

Inclusive Fees for Private Lessons and all the Classes, from 2½ Guineas per Term. Classes alone, from 7s. per Term. Pupils can join at any time during the Term on payment of proportionate Fees. Prospectuses post-free upon application.

Mr. Richard Mackway can recommend the following, his Pupils, for Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c.:—

Miss JANE HUNGERFORD .. .. SOPRANO.
Miss LOUISE WEAVER .. .. CONTRALTO.
Mr. EDMUND BADGER .. .. TENOR.
Mr. GILBERT THORNE .. .. BARITONE.

Mr. ISIDORE MARCIL (Bass) has been engaged by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company.

Applications to Mr. Richard Mackway, at the School; or, at 36, Priory Road, Bedford Park, Chiswick.

IRVING AMATEUR ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY

Conductor: Mr. ARNOLD DOLMETSCH.

In connection with the IRVING DRAMATIC CLUB (President HENRY IRVING, Esq.), it is proposed to form an AMATEUR ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY, for the purpose of assisting at the Club performances, and also with a view of giving Concerts.

Full particulars on application to the Hon. Secretary of the Club, 108, Clifton Hill, N.W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MISS MABEL G. BERREY (Soprano)
Oratorios, Miscellaneous Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Care of Forsyth Bros., 267, Regent Street, London; and 122, Deansgate, Manchester.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MISS ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Lyndhurst, Hendon, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MISS CORDELIA GRYLLS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 33, Hamilton Terrace, N.W.

MISS BESSIE HOLT (Soprano)
Rawtenstall, near Manchester; and 6, Ducie Street, Clapham, S.W.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 75, Friern Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MASTER SYDNEY LOVETT (Soprano)
"Possesses a really fine voice, and his rendering of the various solos was worthy of great praise, and gained the hearty approval of the audience. He received an undeniable encore for 'Angels ever bright and fair.'"—Canterbury Press and Kentish Times, March 18, 1893.
For Church Festivals, Concerts, &c., apply to Thos. Kempton, Bass, Vicar-Choral, St. Paul's Cathedral.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS LILY PEARCE, L.R.A.M. (Soprano)
(From the Weimar Conservatorium).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 25, Cliff Road, Leeds.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, Festival Services, &c. Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS ALICE ASHFORD (Mezzo-Soprano)
"Sang with remarkable sweetness and beauty of expression."—Denbigh Free Press.
"A rare treat was afforded by the fine voice and clear expression of Miss Alice Ashford."—Bedfordshire Mercury.
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c. 32, Gold Street, Northampton.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS ELLA CLEUGH (Contralto)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti) is open to Engagements for Concerts, At Homes, &c. 3, Sussex Street, Warwick Square, S.W.

MISS FLORENCE CROFT (Contralto)
88, Lady Margaret Road, Tufnell Park, N.

MISS TERESA DEVIENE (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. 70, St. George's Avenue, Tufnell Park, N.; and Barth and Black, 2, Oxford Mansions, W.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
42, Pembridge Road, Notting Hill Gate, W.

MISS EMILY FOXCROFT (Contralto)
Associate, Gold Medalist, and Prize Scholar, L.A.M.
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 76, Calabria Road, N.

MRS. HADINGHAM (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Ballads, Concerts, &c. 37, Amhurst Road, Hackney; or, Eva Villa, Wolverhampton.

MISS RINA ROBINSON (Contralto)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. 67, Carleton Rd., Tufnell Park, N.
References kindly permitted to Dr. A. H. Mann, Dr. E. H. Turpin, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker.

MADAME SCHLUTER (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, and Lessons. Address, 20, Conduit Street, W.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Miss Sweeney, Vocalist, Armley, near Leeds.

MISS LILIAN VERKRÜZEN (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 119, Petherton Road, Canonbury, N.

MISS ISABELLE WATERS (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 34, Defoe Road, Tooting.
"At the Vestry Hall, Tooting Graveney, on Tuesday evening, a Concert was given by Miss Isabelle Waters. For the Cavatina 'Lieti Signor' (Gli Ugonotti), Meyerbeer, Miss Waters, who gave evidence of careful training, was distinguished for clear enunciation, and was emphatically recalled. With taste and expression she sang 'War and Romance' (E. Parnam), and was encored for Mascagni's 'Ave Maria,' with violin obbligato by Mr. Paul Parnum."—Mid-Surrey Gazette, February 4, 1893.

MR. ERNEST MARRIOTT (Alto)
(St. Paul's Cathedral). 76, Burgoyne Rd., Harringay, N.; or, Cathedral.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c.
46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. CHARLES BLAGBRO' (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Bradford, Yorkshire.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. GEORGE GREEN (Tenor)
(Of the Liverpool Cathedral).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 99, Cedar Grove, Liverpool.

MR. C. EMLYN JONES (Tenor)
MADAME EMLYN JONES (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 348, Kennington Road, S.E.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND
(Principal Tenor, St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W.).
Darlington Choral Society, "Samson."—"Mr. James Leyland is new to Darlington audiences, but it cannot be long before we shall have the opportunity of hearing so admirable a tenor again. His voice is rich, and his vocalisation in the elaborate arias as neat as an instrumentalist could make it. No less admirable is he in the pathetic airs, and 'Total Eclipse' was delivered in a most touching manner. As far as it is safe for any one to prophesy, we have no hesitation in saying there is a brilliant future before Mr. Leyland."—Northern Echo, February 15, 1893.
For terms and vacant dates, apply, 106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. GEO. RILEY (Tenor)
For Oratorios, Ballad Concerts, &c.
Address, 36, Chetwynd Terrace, Leeds.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor)
(Of St. George's Chapel, Windsor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. STIRLING WELLS (Tenor)
Church Festivals, Oratorios, Concerts, Glees, Masonic Banquets, &c.
Secretary to the "Grafton Glee Singers."
Address, 190, Clapham Park Road, S.W.

MR. EDWARD MARLOWE (Baritone)
Oratorio, Ballad, and Operatic Concerts. 25, Winterwell Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. SMALLWOOD METCALFE (Bass)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
"Special praise must be given to Mr. Smallwood Metcalfe for his admirable singing. He is the possessor of a fine bass voice of considerable compass and sonority."—The Times, December 6, 1892.
Terms, &c., address, 142, Belsize Road, London, N.W.

MR. CHARLES ACKERMAN (Bass Baritone)
(Soloist, Westminster Abbey and St. Peter's, Eaton Square),
73, Eccles Road, Lavender Hill, S.W.

"Last Judgment" (Spohr) at St. Peter's, Eaton Square.—"The quartet of soloists all did well, but we cannot help saying that the gentleman by whom the bass solos were sung is an artist with qualifications for a high position. He has a good voice, and uses it as a vocalist should, while, in point of expression, he leaves scarcely anything to desire."—Daily Telegraph, London, Dec. 2, 1892.

"Elijah."—"Mr. Ackerman showed himself to be a finished singer."—Daily Gazette, Exeter, Dec. 21, 1892.

"Mr. Ackerman is the happy possessor of a very full, soft voice, rather of the baritone than the pure bass quality, with a particularly clear and resonant timbre. He phrases carefully and with great expression."—Morning Leader, London, February 10, 1893.

Prof. Bridge's Lectures, Gresham College.—"Mr. C. Ackerman was a most capable vocalist."—Musical News, February 18.

"Mr. C. Ackerman, by his excellent singing, also contributed to the enjoyment of the audience."—Musical Times, March.

"Messiah."—"Mr. Ackerman's artistic style and dramatic power were more than ever conspicuous."—Musical Standard.

MR. JNO. W. GREENWOOD (Bass)
For Concerts, Ballads, &c. 140, Queen's Road, Halifax

MR. HENRY SUNMAN, L.R.A.M. (Bass)
For Concerts, &c., address, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford.

MR. GEORGE TROTMAN (Bass)
For Concerts, Oratorios, Dinners, &c.
187, Portobello Road, W.

MR. JAMES M. PRESTON
(Organist of St. George's Church, Jesmond, Newcastle-on-Tyne).
For Organ Recitals, &c., address, 7, Abbey Terrace, Gateshead.

"Mr. Preston's reputation as an Organist is a growing one. He has already given evidence of exceptional skill, and we cannot but think that ere long he must take rank as one of our representative English Organists."—Monthly Journal, N.S.P.M.

"Mr. Preston is a local Professor, and a performer of the very first rank. It is seldom that one is permitted to listen to such artistic and finished organ playing."—Musical News.

MISS E. HOWORTH (Accompanist)
9, Harewood Street, Harewood Square, N.W.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU
(Violinist, A.L.A.M.).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c. Address, Heimath, Sidcup, Kent.

MISS GORDON NUNN (Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Address, Maylands, Fallowfield, Manchester.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MISS EDITH NOTT BOWER, Town's End, Richmond, Surrey (Pupil of Mr. William Shakespeare), for Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Will take pupils.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.—MR. W. CARTLEDGE-WHITE (Tenor) begs to announce his CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 7, Guildford Road, South Lambeth, S.W., where all communications respecting Concerts, Opera, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons should be addressed.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—MR. DAN PRICE (Baritone, of Westminster Abbey) begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 37, Torrington Square, W.C., where all communications respecting Concert, Masonic, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons should be addressed.

MR. ROBERT NEWMAN (Bass), of the Crystal Palace, St. James's Hall, and Royal Albert Hall Concerts. For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., 9, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS LANE (Accompanist) can undertake to play from manuscript. References: Miss Zippora Monteith and Mr. Isidore de Solla. 38, Beckenham Road, S.E.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER, Pianist, L.R.A.M. (Perf. and Teacher); Pupil of Hy. Eyers, R.A.M., Prof. Heinrich Barth (Court Pianist, Berlin), and Woldemar Bargiel; highly certificated from the Berlin Königliche Hochschule für Musik (Principal, Dr. Joachim), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Special terms for Schools. Highest testimonials. Prepares for all Examinations. Address, 2, Colosseum Terrace, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS
FANNY BOUFFLEUR
(PRINCIPAL SOPRANO, St. Peter's Church (Catholic), Seel Street, Liverpool).
For Oratorios, Cantatas, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Répertoire includes "Messiah," "Elijah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Creation," "Acis and Galatea," "Alexander's Feast," "May Queen," "Rose Maiden," "Bride of Dunkerron," &c.; also "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Imperial Mass" (Haydn), "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart), "Requiem" (Mozart); Haydn's, Hummel's, Mozart's, and Beethoven's Masses and Motets, Cherubini's Mass in C, "O fons amoris," "Alma Virgo," "Ave Maria," &c.

For complete répertoire, Press opinions, photo, &c., address, 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool; or, Agent, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS
MARIE HOOTON
(CONTRALTO)
(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)
AND
MR.
EDWARD BRANSCOMBE
(TENOR)
(LAY-VICAR OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present and ensuing seasons.

ENGAGED:—

October: Blackpool, Crystal Palace, Freemasons' Hall, Glasgow, Polytechnic, City, Salisbury, Aberdeen ("Judas"), Long Eaton, Bermondsey, City.

November: West Bromwich, Stratford, Brighton, Woolwich, Leamington ("Redemption"), City, Gresham College, West Norwood, Salters' Hall, Dover, Northampton ("Bride of Dunkerron" and "Hymn of Praise"), Bradford, St. James's Hall, Luton, Keighley ("Stabat Mater" and "Walpurgis Night"), Broderer's Hall, Freemasons' Hall, Bristol, Balham, Richmond.

December: Dalston, Stratford, Perth ("Elijah"), Great Yarmouth ("Samson"), King's Lynn, Islington, Bow and Bromley ("Acis"), Banbury ("Messiah"), St. James's Hall ("Joshua"), Holborn, Dublin ("Spectre's Bride"), Belfast ("Messiah"), Pollokshields, Dunfermline ("May Queen"), Mossley ("Judas"), Paisley ("Redemption"), Dundee ("Messiah"), Blackpool ("Messiah"), Nottingham ("Messiah"), Derby ("Messiah"), Northampton ("Messiah"), Greenock ("Acis").

January: Edinburgh ("Messiah"), Glasgow ("Messiah"), Biggleswade ("Creation"), Shoreditch, Nottingham, Dover, Woolwich, Bermondsey, Brixton, City, Burton-on-Trent, Newport (I.W.), Llanelly, Stratford, Workington ("Messiah"), Darwen.

February: Kegworth, Nottingham, Skinners' Hall, Kennington, Maidstone, Brockley ("Golden Legend"), Worthing ("Eli"), Epsom ("Elijah"), Westminster, Cambridge ("The Shunnamite"), Sheffield, St. Martin's Hall, Freemasons' Hall, Stationers' Hall, Bermondsey Town Hall, Bedford, New Cross ("Widow of Nain" and "Stabat Mater").

March: Dowlais, Pontypool ("Samson"), Woolwich, Freemasons' Hall, Girdler's Hall, Stratford, Malvern ("Lobgesang"), Accrington ("Sun Worshippers," &c.), Ipswich, Birmingham, Bermondsey ("Messiah"), Croydon, Freemasons' Hall.

April: Chester ("Ancient Mariner"), Kirkcaldy ("Saul of Tarsus"), Bath, Blackburn ("Lobgesang"), Edinburgh ("Sleeping Beauty"), Ipswich ("Sleeping Beauty"), Rochester ("Last Judgment"), Southsea, Ryde ("Golden Legend"), Hastings ("Elijah"), New Brompton, Vintners' Hall, Nottingham, Derby.

For vacant dates and terms, please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or, Mr. W. B. Healey, 17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER
(BARITONE)
(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

Leeds Symphony Concerts, Albert Hall, Leeds.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 20, Blenheim Terrace, Leeds.

CHOIR BOYS.
Carefully trained SOLO and LEADING BOYS for permanent Appointments, Festivals, &c.
MR. GEORGE BUDD,
10, Hafer Road, Clapham Junction.

STEDMAN'S MUSICAL AGENCY

(Established 1877, for the transaction of all Musical Business, Professional and General),

12, BERNERS STREET, LONDON, W.

CHURCH FESTIVALS of all kinds arranged.
ONE HUNDRED CHOIR BOYS.
CHOIRS of LADIES and GENTLEMEN from 25 to 300 Voices.
ORCHESTRAS of 20 to 100 Performers. All Classes of Artists for Opera, Theatre, Concerts, and for Banquets and Garden Parties.
PERSONAL SUPERVISION.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.
Excellent testimonials and criticisms.

Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

SOLO BOYS.
For Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, &c.

SOLO BOYS.
Exceptional references, testimonials, criticisms.

SOLO BOYS.
Can be heard in London by appointment.

Address, Mr. James Bates, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MADAME LESLIE ARNOTT.
MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS.
MR. BOWYER BRISTOL.
MR. EDMUND EDWARDS.
Solo Pianoforte—
MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.
Solo Violin—
MR. W. H. HENLEY.
Solo Harp—
J. H. COCKERILL
(Sir Charles Hallé's Band).

Conductor and Accompanist—
MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Gounod's Opera

PHILEMON AND BAUCIS.

Having made special arrangements with Sir Augustus Harris, the above Party are prepared to accept Engagements for Concert Recitals of the above Opera. For terms address as below.

"... The whole affair, indeed, was very successful, and reflected the greatest credit upon Mr. Walter J. Evans and his associates in its production."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"The English Concert Party, directed by Mr. Walter J. Evans, gave the first provincial rendering in the Town Hall, and must be complimented on the success of the presentation of the opera."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Applications for terms and vacant dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, London, N.W.

THE NORTHERN CONCERT AGENCY

60, Winterscale Street, York,
Is the best medium in the Provinces between Artists and Concert-givers.
Manager: Mr. J. Shakespeare Robinson,
Principal Tenor, York Minster.
Agents for many eminent London artists. Concert-givers, please note.

THE HORSE-SHOE GLEE SINGERS.

Alto: Mr. PERCY COWARD (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle); Tenor: Mr. ARTHUR S. COWARD; Baritone: Mr. RANDULPH L. COWARD; Bass: Mr. W. BELL KEMPTON (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle).
For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to W. Bell Kempton, 16, Horse-Shoe Cloisters, Windsor Castle.

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK

CONCERT AGENTS

A MUSICAL AGENCY UNDER PROFESSIONAL DIRECTION.
Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are Agents for—
THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,
THE WALENN STRING QUARTET,
THE CELIA MALE VOICE QUARTET,
AND
THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS
(Operatic Concert Party under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK).

Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, &c.
BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

THE MISSES TULLOCH'S

POETIC AND MUSICAL RECITALS.

Songs, Operatic Arias and Ballads, Recitations, Duologues, Guitar and Mandoline Solos and Duets.

MISS EDITH TULLOCH (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Wm. Shakespeare).
MISS ADA TULLOCH (Guitar)
(Pupil of Madame Sydney Pratten).
MISS BERYL TULLOCH (Mandoline).
MISS DORA TULLOCH (Recitations).

Concert Hall, Maidstone, April 6; Foresters' Hall, Canterbury, April 7; Public Hall, Gravesend, April 10; Assembly Rooms, Sevenoaks, April 11; Corn Exchange, Rochester, April 12; Assembly Rooms, Ashford, April 13; Tunbridge Wells, April 14; Folkestone, Leatherhead, &c.
For Programmes, Press Notices, &c., address, The Misses Tulloch, Erith, Kent.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.
Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.
Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.
The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians),
35, WELLINGTON STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.

For Organists, Choirmasters, Precentors, and Choristers.

President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.

Annual Subscription (Membership), 10s. 6d.; Life, £5 5s.
Choirs Enrolled in Union, 10s. 6d.
July, 1893.—Diploma Examination for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G.
Full set of last Examination Papers, post-free, 13 stamps.
The 1893 Calendar gives full particulars of the Guild, also contains a Table of University Degrees and College Diplomas, with Academic Costume, post-free, 14 stamps.
April 5 (Wednesday).—Lecture by Dr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. Doc., Cantab. At 8 p.m.; doors open at 7.30. Admission free, by Ticket only.
For further particulars see The Church Musician, and apply to Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By Order of the Council.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. de M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

THE

London College of Music,

LTD.

FOUNDED 1887. INCORPORATED 1892.

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,

LONDON, W.

PATRONS.

The Most Noble The Marquis of Carmarthen, M.P.

Sir Francis W. Brady, Bart, Q.C.

The Honourable Sir William Grantham.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

W. J. Westbrook, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.

Horton Allison, Esq., Mus. D., Dublin; Mus. B., Cantab.

C. G. Verrinder, Esq., Mus. D., Cantuar; Mus. B., Oxon.

Alfred J. Caldicott, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Educational Department).

F. J. Karn, Esq., Mus. Doc.; Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Vice-Principal).

G. Augustus Holmes, Esq. (Director, Examination Department).

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 300 Provincial Centres in July next, when certificates will be granted to all successful candidates.

SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary, who will supply all particulars. The last day of entry is June 15.

SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES are offered for competition in accordance with the regulations.

APPLICATION for the formation of NEW CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will furnish all necessary information.

The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are Associate (A.L.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.L.C.M.), Licentiate (L.L.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.L.C.M.). Regulations and list of Diplomées on application.

The "Annual Register" of the College is now ready. Price 2s. 6d.

In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors.

NEXT TERM begins April 17

An OPERATIC CLASS for Ladies and Gentlemen is held every Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Thorough instruction in Elocution, Musical Declamation, and Stage Deportment is given to Members of this Class. Conductor: Herr Albert Henning.

T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

VICTORIA COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

Founded by the Victoria College Corporation, Ltd. Incorporated 1891.

Patrons:

The Right Hon. The Marquis of Lorne, K.T.

The Right Hon. The Earl of Dartmouth.

The next Examination for the Diplomas of Licentiate and Associate will take place on April 5. Names should be sent in at once.

Local Theoretical Examination, April 27. Practical Local, during April, May, June, and July, at various centres.

For further particulars apply to the Secretary.

ARTHUR KING, Secretary.

London: 11, Burleigh Street, Strand, W.C.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1892); L.R.A.M., 1893; L.L.C.M., 1893; F.C.O., 1893; A.L.C.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M., 1892. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS and Three Silver Medals. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—New Music, by Arnold Birch: "A Bunch of Violets," 2s.; "Mirthful Monk," 2s. Technical Exercises for the Pianoforte, 3s. A book of new Kyries, Chants, and Hymn Tunes, 6d. Master Butterfield may be engaged for Concerts, &c.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

W. WERREN CURNOW, Organist of Great Queen St. W. Church, receives and visits Pupils for Violin, Piano, Singing, and Harmony LESSONS. Candidates prepared for musical exams. by post. Schools attended. 16, Gt. Russell St., W.C.

MR. ALBERT HAM, Mus. Bac., Trin. Coll., Dublin, F.C.O., L.M.T.C.L., gives LESSONS in THEORY by Post. Latest successes, F.C.O. and A.C.O., 1893. 1, Linden Grove, Taunton.

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First Exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. MSS. Revised. Fifty successes annually.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS. D.Mus. Lond., L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS, personally or by post, in the Theory of Music (including acoustics). Recent successes. 48, Highbury Grove, N.

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, rapidly and efficiently taught through Correspondence Lessons, by Mr. F. SOMMER, Associate of the London Academy of Music (certified as having "highly distinguished himself as a Harmonist" by the late Professor Wylde, Mus. Doc., Cantab., Gresham Lecturer on Music, &c.). Terms very moderate. Prospectus, giving particulars, and containing an interesting comparison of English and German methods of teaching HARMONY, sent free on application, to 14, Mardale Street, Shepherd's Bush, London, W.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

VOICES TRAINED and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.C.O. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., personally or by post. Classes. Preparation for Examinations. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MR. ALFRED W. TOMLYN, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, L.Mus., T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, CANON, FUGUE, HISTORY, &c., by Post. Pupils specially prepared for Examinations.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. J. WARRINER prepares Candidates successfully for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, and receives Resident and Professional Students, on advantageous terms, if talented. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

MORECAMBE MUSIC COMPETITION, April 29, 1893. £50 in prizes. Open Male Quartet and Choir Competitions, &c. Particulars from Mr. J. W. Aldous, East Road, Lancaster.

ARTICLED PUPIL.—Mr. W. S. HOYTE (Organist and Director of the Choir, All Saints', Margaret Street, W.) has a VACANCY for a RESIDENT ARTICLED PUPIL. Exceptional advantages offered. Address, 68, Boundary Road, N.W.

RESIDENT PUPIL.—MR. BRUCE STEANE, Mus. Bac., T.C.T., A.C.O., Org. and Mus. Dir., St. Mary's Parish Church, Whitechapel, has a VACANCY for a promising Pupil. A reduction to one able to take a simple Service. Fine three-manual Organ. Address, 13, Chancellor Road, West Dulwich, S.E.

LLANDUDNO, N. Wales.—MR. R. H. WHALL, F.C.O, Organist of Trinity Church, will have a VACANCY for a RESIDENT PUPIL (Gentleman's Son) in May. Address, Deganwy Street, Llandudno.

THOROUGHLY trained Contralto Vocalist, to increase her Clientèle, will give her services in London and suburbs in Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expenses only. Address, Concert, 24, Glengarry Road, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

CHOIR BOYS WANTED, for St. Michael's, Chiswick (close to Turnham Green Station). £5 to £10, according to voice. Also, ALTO and BASS, for expenses. Apply, Mr. Arthur Winter, 30, Elliott Road, Chiswick, W.

SOLO TREBLE.—BOY (not over 10 years of age, living in S.W. district) WANTED, to train for Solo Singing. Good remuneration. Apply to Hon. R. Strutt, 70, Eccleston Sq., S.W.

SOLO BOY REQUIRED, for a North London Church. Permanent engagement. Or arrangements might be made for occasional Services, or for Sunday evenings only. Liberal stipend. Address, Choirmaster, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, Cheapside, E.C.

SOLO BOY WANTED, for Christ Church, Brondesbury. Stipend, about £10. Apply, F. Leeds, 51, Streatley Road, Brondesbury, N.W.

SOPRANO (Lady), for City Church. Stipend, £5. Good voice and reader. M. A., 8, Brownlow Street, Holborn.

MEZZO-SOPRANO WANTED, to engage to sing a song (compass, E to F sharp) at Public Concerts, &c. Good fee. Address, H. B., care of Russell Lochner, Esq., 27, Tavistock Road, Westbourne Park, W.

ALTO WANTED, for Church near Marble Arch. Cathedral Service. Salary, £15 to £20, according to ability. None but good readers and those who can promise punctual and regular attendance need apply. Address, Vero, Novello and Co., 1, Berners St.

ALTO WANTED, for St. Paul's, High Road, Kilburn, N.W. Two Sunday Services and Friday evening Practice. Good voice and reading indispensable. £15. Apply to A. W. S. Hanes, Organist and Choirmaster, 20, Cambridge Avenue, Kilburn, N.W.

ALTO REQUIRED, for Saint John's Church, Wilton Road (adjoining Victoria Station). Communicant and good reader. Salary, £20 to £25. Apply, Hon. R. Strutt, 70, Eccleston Square, S.W.

TENOR WANTED, for voluntary Evening Choir. Travelling expenses. Apply, by letter, to Mr. George Cooper, Christ Church, Newgate Street, E.C.

TENOR and ALTO WANTED, for St. Peter upon Cornhill. £12 salary. Apply, Organist, in writing.

MR. HENSCHEL'S CHOIR.—Mr. Henschel having arranged to enlarge his regular Choir there are VACANCIES for FIRST TENORS and SECOND BASSES. Application should be made at once to the Secretary, Mr. Stedman, 12, Berners Street, W.

BASS WANTED, at once, Marylebone Presbyterian Church. £15. Apply, by letter, to F. Riechelmann, 8, Cunningham Place, Maida Vale, N.W.

BASS (not Baritone) WANTED, for St. Peter's, Regent Square, King's Cross. Communicant, and must read well. £10. Vicar, 14, Russell Square, W.C.

MR. THURLEY BEALE (Baritone-Bass) desires an APPOINTMENT in Church Choir. Address, 10, Lalor Street (Holcroft's), Fulham, S.W.

BASS (aged 23) desires APPOINTMENT. Excellent qualities; thoroughly trained for Cathedral Choir. Highest testimonials to character and musical abilities. Bass, 3, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

BERWICK-UPON-TWEED PARISH CHURCH.—WANTED, immediately, an ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER. Salary, £60. Organ, Three Manuals. Further particulars may be learned from the undersigned, to whom applications, with testimonials, should be sent on or before 8th proximo.

ROBERT WEDDELL, Vestry Clerk.

Berwick-upon-Tweed, March 18, 1893.

N.B.—There is a good opening for a Teacher of the Violin in Berwick-upon-Tweed.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for a London Congregational Church. Salary, £50. Apply, by letter, to G. H. Turner, 35, Rosslyn Hill, Hampstead, N.W.

DEPUTY-ORGANIST, experienced. London and Suburbs. Usual terms. Proceeds for Church. Address (state Psalter), G. Swainson, Rectory, Old Charlton, Kent.

ORGANIST, holding APPOINTMENT in London, is at liberty for similar Duty on Sunday afternoons and one or two evenings in the week. H. G., 13, Parliament Hill Road, Hampstead.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Excellent testimonials. Moderate salary. Would deputise. Anglican. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

MR. CHARLES C. ROBEY (for 20 years Organist of St. Paul's Church, Brighton) will be at liberty to ACCEPT APPOINTMENT after June next. In or near London preferred. Address, 14, Prestonville Terrace, Brighton.

WANTED, a SITUATION as ORGANIST. Mrs. Swanson Pyne (the blind Soprano), late Organist of Elizabethan Grammar School, Tooley Street. Care of C. O. S., 29, High Street, Lewisham, S.E.

ORGANIST requires APPOINTMENT. North London preferred. Nominal salary; or would not mind voluntary engagement for a time. S. B. M., 4, Cloudesley Square, N.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER seeks APPOINTMENT. Can Tune. Excellent testimonials. Twelve years present post. A. Burton, Organist, Egerton, Kent.

ORGANIST or ASSISTANT.—APPOINTMENT DESIRED, in London or suburbs. Sunday and week-night services. Good testimonials. Address, C. K. W., 38, Doddington Grove, Kennington Park, S.E.

TO MUSICIANS.—A Clergyman's Son is anxious to obtain the services of a thoroughly efficient PIANIST and VOCALIST (Tenor preferred); also, LADY PIANIST and VOCALIST, for out-door performances. Apply, by letter, stating qualifications, Omicron, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE MASTER (L.R.A.M) desires APPOINTMENT in School or Musical Academy. Address, S. G., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

LADY PIANIST wishes to join CONCERT TOUR for APRIL or AUGUST. Agents required. T. Z., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

A YOUNG LADY PIANIST and VOCALIST (Performer and Teacher), preparing for Metropolitan Exam. of R.A.M. next Christmas, desires EMPLOYMENT in or near London next September. "Honours" (Piano) and "Pass" (Singing) Certificates in Assoc. Board Exam. of R.A.M. and R.C.M. for 1892. Address, J. M. F. S., Glenholm, Whitehaven, Cumberland.

ENGAGEMENTS WANTED, as ACCOMPANIST (quick Reader) or SOLOIST. Also Pupils for Organ, Piano, and Singing. Miss R., Library, Church Parade, Hounslow.

ACCOMPANIST (Lady) desires ENGAGEMENTS. Experienced. Good reader. Concerts, At Homes, &c.; or for Private Practice. A. T., 2, Penn Road Villas, Camden Road, N.

WANTED, Good TUNER, pianos, organs, small repairs. Married, no children preferred; strictly sober, honest, respectable, gentlemanly address. Live on premises, take charge branch establishment. Wife able to play. Strictest investigation. Photo, age, terms, letter only, Bruce, Mr. Maynard, Music Warehouse, Hackney Road, London.

WANTED, PIANOFORTE TUNER, well up in American Organs and Harmoniums. One who can repair preferred. Apply to S. Davidson, Musicseller, Dumfries.

TUNER WANTED. Send particulars of salary, experience, and age, to Lee and Sons, Belfast.

PIANOFORTE TUNER and TONER WANTED, by a London Firm. Good salary and permanent situation offered to a thoroughly experienced and reliable man. Only such need apply. Write, stating age, experience, and salary required, to Toner, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE.—SECOND TUNER WANTED, for Indoor Work. Town near Wolverhampton. Must be a player able to show off Pianos for sale and push sales. One preferred who understands Organs and Harmoniums, but this may be learnt. Send photo and references, with wages required, including board and lodging, to live in, to E. P. W., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, for the Country, a PIANOFORTE TUNER (equal temperament), with a knowledge of Harmoniums and American Organs. Must be thoroughly competent, steady, and reliable. Address, with references, stating age and salary required, to M. M., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, a thorough REPAIRER, who understands Pianos, American Organs, and Small Goods. Must be able to polish. Bertram Isaacson, 30, High Street, Newport, Mon.

ASSISTANT SALESMAN WANTED, in Pianoforte and Music Stores. Experienced. State age and salary. Address, M. Campbell, 58, Leinster Square, Bayswater, W.

SALESMAN and MANAGER for Branch Shop WANTED. Principally small goods. Must be experienced, pushing, and energetic. Apply, with photo, W. A. Bezant, Leamington.

EXPERIENCED ASSISTANT REQUIRED, for Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Must be of good address and able to do ordinary book-keeping. State age, experience, and salary required, with all particulars, to Experience, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

EXPERIENCED TUNER seeks good and permanent ENGAGEMENT. American Organs, Harmoniums, &c. Address, F. F., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER is open to ENGAGEMENT. 15 years' experience. Thoroughly respectable. Good address; highest references. Thoroughly understands Pianos, Harmoniums, American Organs. Excellent player. Could act as Salesman. Apply, A. B., Camden, Langton Grove Road, Charlton Kings, Glos.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER and REPAIRER (21), by competent young man. Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. First-class reference. A. E. H., 3, Palk Street, Torquay.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Town, country, or abroad. Competent testimonials. Address, A., 23, Hampden Street, Balsall Heath, Birmingham.

AS MANAGER, or PRINCIPAL TUNER, with a view to Partnership. Good Buyer. 15 years' experience. A. H., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER and REPAIRER seeks ENGAGEMENT. Tuner, 30, Wordsworth Street, Lodge Lane, Liverpool.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER (Brinsmead) seeks APPOINTMENT. Permanent or season; on Coast preferred. London and provincial experience. Excellent references. Musicus, Wiveliscombe, Somerset.

TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER.—Pianos, American Organs, and Harmoniums. Gentlemanly, steady, reliable, and smart business Man is open to engage. Veola, Massingham House, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

WANTED, ENGAGEMENT as ASSISTANT TUNER. Aged 21. Good experience, including Reed Organs and small goods. Apply, C. A., care of Abel and Sons' Music Warehouse, Northampton.

YOUNG GENTLEMAN desires a SITUATION in Music Warehouse. Can play Piano and Violin. Good references. Address, J. E. T., care of Handel House, Oldham.

BOOKKEEPER.—WANTED, by a Young Man, of good address, a SITUATION as BOOKKEEPER in Pianoforte and Music Warehouse. Nine years' experience. Good references. Apply, Ledger, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

REPAIRER.—ASSISTANT seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Pianos, Harmoniums, and Organs. Address, Key, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ASSISTANT.—Young Man seeks SITUATION in Music Warehouse. Well educated; fair pianist; good appearance; good reference. E. W., Wood View, Weston-super-Mare.

PIANO SALESMAN desires ENGAGEMENT. Well up in sheet music and small goods. Understands hire system. Management of Branch preferred. Provinces not objected to. Aged 32. P. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MANAGER or TRAVELLER.—Gentleman, experienced, thoroughly practical with good business qualities, desires APPOINTMENT. Would join financier opening Music Warehouse. Music, 10, Fleetwood Street, Stoke Newington.

MUSIC TRADE.—Advertiser, with good connection amongst Organists, Conductors, and Dealers in the North of England, is open to REPRESENT first-class Wholesale House as TRAVELLER. Practical acquaintance with Orchestral Instruments and Sheet Music of every description. Highest references given. Apply, Instruments, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, SITUATION as ASSISTANT in Musical Instrument Warehouse. Can tune fairly well and do small repairs. Plays piano and organ. F. S., 40, Leicester Street, Leamington Spa.

YOUNG LADY desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in a Music Warehouse. Thoroughly understands the Music Business and Book-keeping. Has had for the last nine years management of a branch house. Address, Viola, 17, The Crescent, Birmingham.

WANTED, RE-ENGAGEMENT as MUSIC SALESMAN and MANAGER. Well up in all departments. Good testimonials, &c. W., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 45, Lemon Street, E. Organ and Piano Lessons by a F.C.O.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

ORGANS, Church, Chapel, and College, with every modern improvement. Established 1845. W. E. Richardson and Sons, to Her Majesty, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester. Specification and Estimates.

ORGAN for £150.—Extraordinary Bargain.—A fine toned modern 2-manual ORGAN, in solid oak case, containing 500 speaking pipes, 3 couplers, and complete Bourdon. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

TWO-MANUAL ORGAN for SALE. 23 stops, 2 CC reeds, 30 notes; pedals. £180, prompt cash; or terms to suit purchaser. E. Whomes, Organist, Bexley Heath, Kent.

ORGAN for SALE (Second-hand). 5 stops. In handsome carved walnut case. R. Cope, 21, Jardin Street, Camberwell, S.E.

ORGANS.—Several New and Second-hand in Stock up to £500. Also Organs returned from Hire. 6 stops, blown by foot, 144 pipes, for small Churches, £30. W. Beales and Co., Organ Builders, Limes Road, Croydon.

ORGAN.—For SALE, the 2-manual Organ now in use at Holy Trinity Church, Barnes. Price £60; a bargain. Further particulars, specification, &c., of Mr. H. Scott, 14, Woodville Gardens, Barnes, S.W.

ORGAN (Pipe), 8 ft. 9 in. high. Excellent Gothic Case. Decorated front pipes (blue and gold), 6 stops, pedals. Really good instrument; perfect order; lead about 400 persons; suit Village Church admirably. Price £35. Photo, six stamps. Stoneham, 52, Hazlewood Crescent, Westbourne Park, London, W. Inspection by appointment, evenings preferred.

ORGAN.—Modern 2 manuals, 24 stops, at Dunblane Cathedral. Price £170. Apply, Eustace Ingram, Organ Builder, Eden Grove, Holloway, London, N.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

CC ORGAN for SALE and HIRE, on easy terms of payment. Price very low. 3 manuals, 30 stops, 2 on pedals, 3 reeds. Apply, G. T., 23, Brunswick Street, Poplar.

SECOND-HAND CHURCH ORGANS.—NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, Organ Builders, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich, have several good Second-hand ORGANS for SALE, from 1 manual and 6 stops, to 3 manuals, 27 stops.
Full particulars will be sent on application.

LARGE HARMONIUM for SALE (Bargain), by DEBAIN, of Paris. Suitable for chapel or small church. Contains 4½ rows of vibrators, 16 stops, 2 knee swells. Original cost, 50 guineas; sell for £18 cash. May be seen at 31, Beauchamp Place, Pont Street, S.W.

MAGNIFICENT toned combined HARMONIUM, AMERICAN, and PIPE ORGAN. 8 swell, 4 great, 2 pedal. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, London, W.C.

HARMONIUM (GILBERT BAUER). Two manuals and Pedal, hand, foot blower, and stool complete. Suit student's practice. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, London, W.C.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

For Musical Education and Examination.—Inst. 1872.

President: The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.
Warden: Professor E. H. Turpin, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations: Professor Jas. Higgs, Mus.B.

Session 1892-1893.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL SERIES OF LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN INSTRUMENTAL AND VOCAL MUSIC.

The subjects are: Pianoforte, Violin, Organ, Harmonium, and Pianoforte Duet Playing, Solo Singing, and all Orchestral Instruments. The examinations are conducted in two divisions, Junior and Senior, and in Pianoforte and Violin Playing there is also a Primary (Elementary) Division. Pass and honour certificates are awarded in the Junior and Senior Divisions. Arrangements are being made for holding these examinations at the following, amongst other centres:—

In April.—Cardiff, Dover, Grimsby,, Maidstone.

In May.—Aberdeen, Ballymena, Belfast, Bolton, Burnley, Brockley and New Cross, Carmarthen, Dublin, Douglas (I. of Man), Elgin, Falkirk, Haverfordwest, Hawick, Inverness, Jersey, Londonderry, Peterborough, Pembroke Dock, Portsmouth, Sheffield, Swansea.

In June.—Aberystwyth, Banbury, Barrow-in-Furness, Bath, Bradford, Brentwood, Bristol, Bury St. Edmunds, Carnarvon, Chatham, Cheltenham, Chesterfield, Cirencester, Colchester, Crieff, Dumfries, Dundee, Edinburgh, Exeter, Glasgow, Gloucester, Great Yarmouth, Guildford, Halifax, Hull, King's Lynn, Keswick, Lancaster, Liverpool, Llandudno, Macclesfield, Manchester, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Northampton, Oldham, Perth, Preston, Southport, Stockport, Southampton, Surbiton, Swindon, Stockton-on-Tees, Stroud, Taunton, Tiverton, Torquay, Walthamstow, Ware, West Hartlepool, Weymouth, Whitby, Worcester.

In July.—Bedford, Birmingham, Blackpool, Bodmin, Brighton, Blackburn, Cambridge, Chichester, Croydon, Folkestone. Goole and Howden, Harrogate, Hereford, Ipswich, Leamington, Leeds, Leicester, London, Lowestoft, Margate, Newport (Mon.), Norwich, Nottingham, Ramsgate, Reading, Shrewsbury, Sleaford, Stroud, Tunbridge Wells, Wellington (Salop), Wisbech, Walsall, Wolverhampton, Worthing.

Any or all of the following printed papers may be had on application to the undersigned: (a) Regulations and list of music to be performed for the Local Examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music; (b) List of Local Centres; (c) Regulations for the (Theoretical) Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge; (d) Regulations for the Higher Examinations for Diplomas and Certificates; (e) List of Music to be performed for the Higher Certificates in Vocal and Instrumental Subjects; (f) Prospectus of the Classes and Lectures Department; (g) General Prospectus containing List of Honorary Officers, &c.

By Order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.
Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

MUSICAL ORNAMENTATION

PART I.

(FROM DIRUTA TO J. S. BACH)

BY

EDWARD DANNREUTHER.

Price Five Shillings.
Paper Boards, Six Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR APRIL.

Price 1½d. Annual Subscription, Postage free, 2s.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR APRIL

Contains: General Notes—New Music Syllabus for Scotch Pupil Teachers—School Songs in the Welsh Language and the Code—How to combine Time and Tune, by W. G. McNaught—How I Teach the Staff Notation, by T. P. Sykes—Lecture on Music in Schools at the Society of Arts—Test Theory Questions for Pupil Teachers and Students—Cambridge University Local Examinations—The Aberdeen School Board and Pianoforte and Violin Teaching—Reviews of School Music—London School Board Items—News from all Parts.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR APRIL

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"Our Ship at Sea," Action Song, by H. E. Button—"Over Rock and over Weed," Two-part Song, by W. W. Pearson—"'Tis Hum Drum," School Catch, with Actions, by Dr. Harrington—Studies in Reading Keys (Staff Notation) and in Time and Tune Combined (Tonic Sol-fa), by W. G. McNaught.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)

PIANOFORTE MAKERS

BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES

HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH

AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "Broadwood" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	Mdme. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street),
LONDON, W.

Just Published.

TWELVE SONGS

Set 2

(STIMMUNGSBILDER)

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

KAREL BENDL.

(Op. 101.)

The English version by the Rev. Dr. Troutbeck.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Contents.

A little Song.—Ein kleines Lied.
Scented Spring.—Ich möchte gern.
Over the clustered rose-trees.—Über dem Busch der Rose.
Night.—Die Nacht.
The gloomy lake.—Am schwarzen Teich.
Peace.—Frieden.
Beside the way.—Am Wege.
Come, faithless Maiden.—Komm, falsche Dirne.
The Mother's Kiss.—Küss' ich die Mutter.
Three Garlands.—Drei Kränze.
Good Night.—Gute Nacht.
Her Grave.—Ihr Grab.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SPRING SONGS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. P. GRAVE

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE

(Op. 44).

Contents.

The first rose.
Hope.
Spring's Secrets.
Spring is not dead.
April weather.
A May Song.
Summer at last.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
APRIL 1, 1893.

FRANZ LISZT'S LETTERS.

When, in 1888, the letters* which passed between Wagner and Liszt made their appearance in an English dress, it may certainly be averred, without any disparagement of Wagner, that a preference was very generally shown for those of Liszt—a preference arising no doubt from their extreme geniality, and from the fact that they for the first time revealed to the English reader the almost unparalleled nobility of character of a man who had hitherto only been known by repute as a virtuoso of the highest eminence. It is not surprising, therefore, that the time should have come for a goodly number of Liszt's letters to other people to be given to the world. In accordance with the expressed wishes of the late Princess Caroline Wittgenstein, who inherited Liszt's art-treasures, this has now been done. Under the editorship of La Mara, a lady well known in Germany for her literary skill as a musical biographer, two volumes, containing six hundred and fifty-nine letters,† of which only fifty have previously appeared in print, have recently been issued by Messrs. Breitkopf and Härtel, of Leipzig. They range over a period extending from 1828 to 1886, and, appearing as nearly as possible in chronological order, are divided into four sections—viz., (1) Liszt's wanderings as a virtuoso (1828-47); (2) his residence at Weimar (1848-61); (3) Rome (1861-8); (4) Weimar, Pesth, and Rome (1869-86). That they were all written from the places specified above cannot be said, for Liszt was frequently on the move, and even during his journeying did not neglect the numerous circle of people with whom he was in constant correspondence, either in a friendly way or on matters of business.

Some are given in French, some in German; for Liszt, though a born Hungarian, was thoroughly at home in both languages. His choice of language seems to have been dictated by his knowledge, supposed or actual, of the linguistic attainments of the persons whom he was addressing, rather than by any necessity on his part of expressing his thoughts in this or that language. Whether written in French or German, they are models of epistolary excellence; for what we nowadays should commit to a post card, Liszt, in the manner of our forefathers, always took the trouble to express in a thoroughly graceful and courtly manner. They may be read, therefore, quite as much for the sake of their literary style as for the information they convey. This is not a little, and, with the help of the editor's footnotes, we learn almost as much about the addressees as about the writer. Those who take up these letters solely with the view of finding new biographical particulars of Liszt's artistic career will, to a certain extent, be disappointed. For instance, on turning to the Weimar period (1848-61), which, as giving birth to some of the most celebrated of his compositions, may be regarded as forming the most important epoch in his career, one naturally longs and expects to find some information as to the circumstances which dictated the choice of this or that subject for his Symphonic Poems, &c. But we meet with nothing of the kind, and have to content ourselves with a few stray dates fixing the completion of the composition of this or that work, and recording its first performance. This is to be accounted for by the fact that Liszt, at least so far as concerned his own compositions, was one of the most modest and unselfish of men, and was one who made it his first aim to help on the works of other composers rather than his own. In more than one instance we find him speaking of his Symphonic Poems as "my symphonic things," his Songs as "chaotic" (Undinge), and advising concert-givers to leave his works alone, even when there was the prospect of a good performance; and on one occasion, when the proposition was made to him that Hans von Bülow should play his A major Concerto in Vienna in 1859, he even urged that the preference should be given to a Concerto by Bach or by Beethoven.

Here and there, however, we come across stray allusions to certain of his compositions which will be useful and instructive both to executants and conductors. Besides giving a pretty complete analysis of the form of his E flat Concerto, he has some pertinent remarks on the treatment of instruments of percussion employed therein, especially as to that of the too obtrusive triangle, which he directs should be lightly struck with a tuning-fork.

Concerning his beautiful setting of the Thirteenth Psalm, which he regarded as one of his most finished compositions and "indited with tears of blood," he writes that for its due effect a dramatic tenor singer is indispensable. He must sing as if he were praying, bewailing his sins, lamenting, and must be able to rise to thanksgiving and religious inspiration.

The first of this collection of letters is addressed to his early musical instructor, Carl Czerny; the last to the well-known pianist, Madame Sophie Menter. Of those which come between it must suffice to specify a few addressed to eminent personages, more or less closely connected with the musical world—e.g., the Abbé de Lamennais, Dr. Ed. Liszt (Liszt's uncle), Ferdinand Hiller, Schumann, Clara Wieck, Chopin, George Sand, C. Reinecke, Th. Uhlig, L. Köhler, P. Cornelius, Fr. Brendel, R. Pohl, C. Klindworth, Ant. Rubinstein, J. W. von Wasielewski, M. Hauptmann, J. Raff, J. von Herbeck, H. Porges, W. Bache, C. Riedel, Ed. Grieg, C. Saint-Saëns, L. Nohl, Sophie Menter, O. Lessmann, L. Ramann, L. Damrosch, M. Erdsmannsdörfe, R. Wagner, Hans Richter, L. von Bronsart, R. Franz, H. von Wolzogen, Ad. Henselt, P. Viardot Garcia, M. Remmart, César Cui, F Mottl, A. Siloti, E. d'Albert, and the Princess Wittgenstein. The list given above comprises but a small portion of the people with whom Liszt corresponded, and has been thus selected and compiled rather because the names are all more or less familiar to the present writer than for any other reason. It would be easy to extend it by specifying many other letters addressed to private individuals, publishers, public bodies, festival committees, &c.

Liszt, who, like St. Paul, could be "all things to all men," was endowed with wonderful powers of penetration, and always seems to have been able to adapt himself to the feelings and position of the individual to whom he was writing. His prescience—almost that of a seer—was truly wonderful. In establishment of this assertion it is sufficient to refer to some of the earliest of his letters in which, without any hesitation, he forecast the success of Schumann and Wagner. In his reply to a letter from J. W. von Wasielewski, Schumann's earliest biographer, who had asked him for some particulars of Schumann, we learn that he first made acquaintance with Schumann in 1836. In the following year Maurice Schlesinger, proprietor of the

* "Correspondence of Wagner and Liszt." Translated into English, with a preface, by Francis Hueffer. London: H. Grevel and Co. 1888.
† "Franz Liszt's Briefe." Herausgegeben von La Mara. Leipzig: Breitkopf und Härtel. 1893.

Gazette Musicale, who from month to month was in the habit of supplying him with the most important musical novelties, among which Liszt could find nothing worthy of praise, at last sent him Schumann's Impromptu in C, the "Etudes Symphoniques," and the "Concert sans Orchestre." These reached him at the Lake of Como. Without having previously heard a note of Schumann's music, he at once recognised their extraordinary merit, and wrote a glowing review of them, which appeared in the Gazette Musicale towards the end of 1837. It was probably in recognition of the good service done to him by this review that Schumann shortly afterwards dedicated his Grand Fantasia in C to Liszt, a compliment which three years later Liszt returned by dedicating his Sonata in B minor to Schumann.

No less remarkable is it that at such an early date as 1849, if not before, we should find Liszt fully alive to the extraordinary powers which animated Wagner, whom he designated as "a skull-splitting genius" ("un génie si trépantique"), and for whom he at once predicted the unparalleled success which he eventually secured.

Of Joachim, too, he writes prophetically in 1852 as "un artiste hors ligne et qui peut légitimement ambitionner une réputation glorieuse. De plus c'est une nature tout à fait loyale, un esprit distingué et un caractère doué d'un singulier charme dans sa droiture et son sérieux."

He was the first, too, in Germany, to acknowledge Berlioz's extraordinary powers, and to bring his works to a public hearing.

With like prescience he readily recognised, at an early date, the makings of a great conductor in Hans von Bülow, which subsequent events have fully borne out. In 1859 he wrote: "Bülow especially should more frequently be seen at the conductor's desk. For such a vocation he has the necessary feeling, inclination, and talent." Again, in 1862, he writes: "Bülow's extraordinary success in Leipzig has greatly delighted me. He is the born Protostat of progress, and noble even to superfluity. Without his active co-operation as conductor and standard-bearer, a gathering of musicians at the present date would at least be an anachronism."

One has been too much wont to regard Liszt as a child of fortune, and as having been born under a lucky star. That from the very commencement of his career, when, during his early life in Paris (1829), he was giving lessons every day from half-past eight in the morning until ten at night, he always had to work hard for a living is made very apparent; and that he was by no means run after by publishers, but—at least in his early days—had to run about after them, is equally manifest. In his dealings with publishers, as well as with other people on business matters, his strict conscientiousness and high sense of honour come largely to the fore. Though he was often meanly treated and despitefully used by others, there is not a suspicion that he himself was ever guilty of a mean action.

A large number of these letters are addressed to Dr. Franz Brendel, at one time editor of the Neue Zeitschrift für Musik and President of the Allgemeiner Deutscher Musik-verein (General German Musical Association), a Society founded by Liszt in 1861 for the advancement of art by the establishment of musical festivals, at which the revival of neglected masterpieces and the performance of compositions of the best living composers should be the first aim. They are specially interesting as showing the immense interest and trouble which Liszt took in rearing this bantling, which in its time has done excellent service, and still flourishes.

It does one good to read of the kindly interest that Liszt always felt for his old pupils, and of the good advice which he continued to give them after they had left him. Nor was he by any means backward in his attentions to those who were not his pupils, but came to him for counsel. Under this head the case of Anton Rubinstein may be quoted. Writing to C. Klindworth in 1854, he says: "Rubinstein is a splendid fellow. With the exception of the 'Murls' (i.e., the Weimar confederation, which included Bülow, Cornelius, Pruckner, Reményi, Laub, Cossmann, &c.), he is the most remarkable musician, pianist, and composer that I have met among the younger generation and one of the most ambitious. He brought me some forty or fifty manuscripts (symphonies, concertos, trios, quartets, sonatas, songs, and a couple of operas, which have been performed in St. Petersburg), which, during the four weeks that he spent with me at the Altenburg, I read through with much interest." In writing to Rubinstein, whom he generally addresses as "Van II.," in consequence of his likeness to Beethoven, he does not, however, refrain (but in the kindliest manner possible) from pointing out to him some of the shortcomings in his compositions. Except for a single early letter to his mother (his letters to whom La Mara hopes to include, with others which have not yet been forthcoming, in a future volume), the only blood-relation whom he addresses is his uncle, Dr. Eduard Liszt, a noble and highly important personage, who, as Procurator-General, died at Vienna in 1879. Addressing him as "cousin," Liszt regarded him as his dearest and most intimate friend. It is no wonder, therefore, that it was in his frequent letters to him that Liszt unburdened himself more freely than to any other of his correspondents.

Perhaps the most remarkable of all these letters is one addressed to his friend the Princess Wittgenstein in 1860. Written on September 14, the Feast of the Elevation of the Cross, it is couched in the most fervently religious terms imaginable. To some extent it serves as his "last will and testament," for therein he directs that after his death certain of his art-treasures, which he specifies, are to be given to his daughter Cosima, his son-in-law Von Bülow, and his cousin Eduard Liszt. Nor does he forget his brothers in art, Hans von Bronsart, Peter Cornelius, E. Lassen, Dr. Franz Brendel, Richard Pohl, Alex. Ritter, Felix Dräseke, Professor Weitzmann, and Carl Tausig; and expresses his wish that, having regard to the honour of Art and the inner worth of artists, they will carry on the work which they had begun with him. A ring and a crucifix are devised respectively to the Countess St. Crig and the Princess Constantin Hohenlohe, and sums of money to his copyist, Herr Grosse, and his secretary, Gaetano Belloni, who, "as a faithful servant and friend," accompanied him in his concert-tours throughout Europe in 1841-7, and at a later period, as a "Neudeutscher," assisted at his Berlioz and Wagner Concerts. He expresses his desire to be buried in a simple manner, without pomp, and, if possible, at night. "May eternal light illuminate my soul!" are his concluding words.

Messrs. Grevel and Co. having announced an English version of Liszt's Letters as in course of preparation by Miss Constance Bache, we have here spoken of them less in detail than we should otherwise have done, and look forward to reverting to them again at greater length on their appearing in an English dress.

THE MUSIC OF "FALSTAFF."

No overture! No "introduction"! Verdi, with the zest of an eager boy, plunges at once into the action of the drama. Is this to be the rule in future?

In the opening scene, Dr. Caius comes to upbraid Falstaff for certain amorous demonstrations. (See "Merry Wives of Windsor," where Slender is the remonstrant.) The vocal parts being wholly declamatory, musical interest chiefly abides in the orchestra, and the very first bar is important:—

The first two chords for full orchestra have a suggestive weight of tone, but the great feature is the group of semiquavers. That figure, melodic and rhythmic, runs through the scene, now direct, now inverted. It is the expression of vivacity to which another brief passage acts as a foil, while having a direct application to the ponderous person of the fat knight. When Sir John calls upon Caius to hear his answer, the basses introduce the following—which is so often heard in the subsequent dialogue that one begins to look upon it as a Leitmotif. As a matter of fact, it goes no farther than the present scene. The foregoing, with a semiquaver triplet, very prominently used, makes up the chief thematic material. Little enough and simple enough it is, but it suffices for the noisy altercation on the stage, as treated with abundant ingenuity.

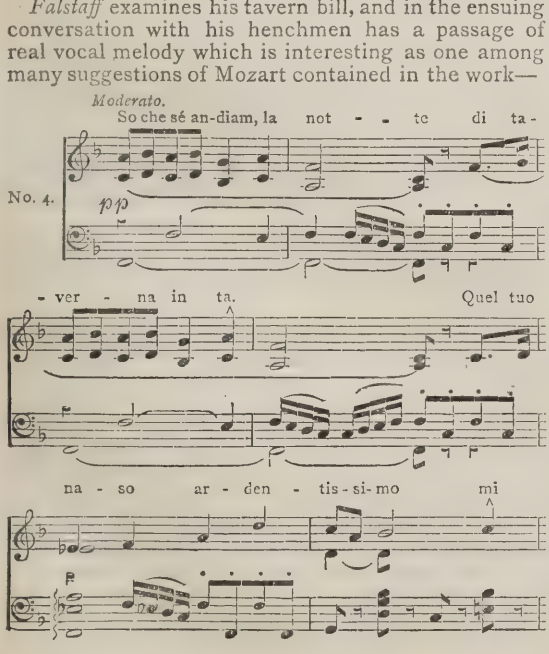
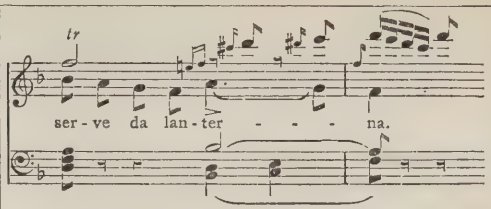
Irate Dr. Caius, going away, vows that, for the future, he will associate with those "that have the fear of God," to which Bardolph and Pistol, accompanying him to the door, ceremoniously respond with a burlesque "Amen"—canon in the major second above—

Falstaff examines his tavern bill, and in the ensuing conversation with his henchmen has a passage of real vocal melody which is interesting as one among many suggestions of Mozart contained in the work—





From this point to the end of the first part of the act is a long harangue for the knight, broken only by a few short passages for his attendants. The music varies considerably, passing from amorous apostrophes to contempt and anger as Bardolph and his fellow refuse to carry the letters. Much of it is a kind of modified Verdi—tempered, chastened, lightened, but unmistakable. Here is an example—

Again the orchestra has a theme easily recognisable—and much insisted upon by the composer as the knight boasts of his coming conquests, till, warming with his theme, he breaks into strains of ponderous vivacity—

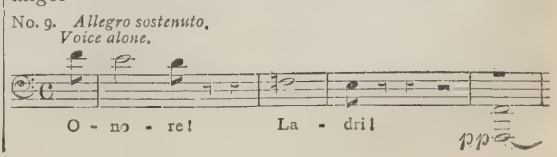
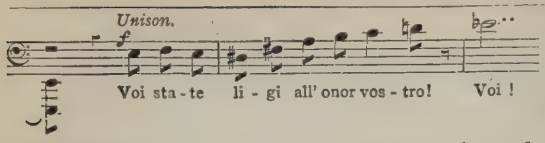
On the refusal of Bardolph and Pistol to act as panders, Falstaff calls his page and charges him with the letters, the orchestra, meanwhile, being as light and dainty as possible—

This lasts no longer than the exit of the boy. There is a sudden silence, and the knight turns upon the fastidious mutineers with mingled contempt and anger—





This, heightened by contrast, is a master-stroke, and, listening, one supposes that the effect of the E flat on the word "Voi!" is withering to the delinquents.

I have quoted largely from the first part of the opening act in order that some idea as to the character of the music might as soon as possible be obtained, and readers will now understand that, while not employing set musical forms (which no one expected he would do), the composer deals with each sentiment or situation as it arises, unfettered by systems, and that his style and method, though retaining Verdian characteristics, lean towards the clearness and simplicity of older masters in comic opera.

In the second part of the act we have the concerted vocal music as to the sprightliness and charm of which so much has been said. First of all, the four women meet, and Sir John's amorous letter is read. The mirth of the opening dialogue has this orchestral expression—frequently repeated, and the tunefulness and simple charm of the vocal passages may be represented by the following extract—

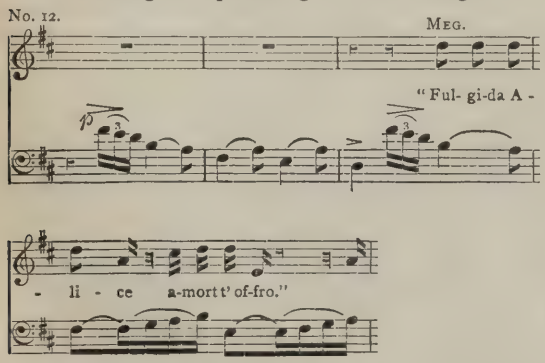
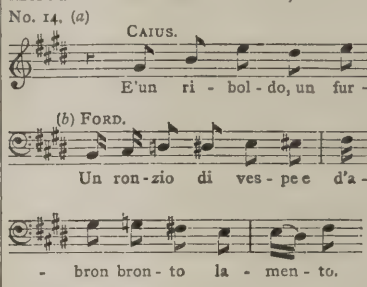
The reading of the letter is attended by one of the touches of musical humour which abound in this opera. Waiting upon the actual words of Falstaff are passages (unaccompanied) in which one seems to see the bowings and posturings of the fat knight—



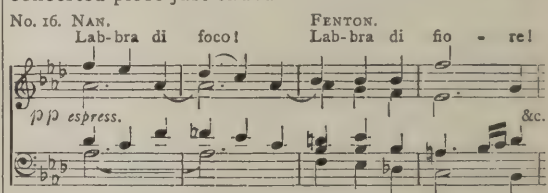
Between this and the interjected comments of the women there is a wide difference of treatment, so as to throw it into relief. Another happy touch is the "doubling" of the reading by one or other of the eager ladies as they look over Alice's shoulder, and, in one place, even its quadrupling. The letter perused and laughed at we have a delightful example of the gossips' concerted chatter—that which at the Scala evoked a tempest of applause. It is all as simple as possible, but with simple means great masters often work out their ends. Listen to the clatter of tongues—

The quartet becomes a nonet when Ford and his companions appear in the garden, but the character of the music does not change, although the men introduce some new themes, such as these—



Through the whole of the scene the spirit of the foregoing is sustained, though the manner varies, as when, for example, Pistol acquaints Ford with Falstaff's design upon his honour—

We now come to a first instalment of the love music for Anne (Nanette) and Fenton. It is a tranquil strain (Allegretto) having an effective foil in the bustling concerted piece just ended—



The merry women interrupt these chaste discoursings, the orchestra hailing them with a congenial theme which enters largely into the scene it opens—

It is to the accompaniment of this hilarious subject that the women discuss Falstaff, styling him a bull, a mountain of lard, and so on, while anticipating their revenge. Presently, the "wives" having retired, the suspended love music is resumed, gradually warming to stronger feeling than that before expressed, and losing somewhat of its previous simplicity. All the characters in the nonet soon come together again, and the themes used before are now treated in a more extended form; the vivacious vocal music (the orchestra simply doubles the parts) running on in the most fluent manner, and babbling, as though, like a mountain stream, it could not help itself. Towards its close Fenton throws in a sentimental strain—his broad cantabile passing with slow grace through the ebullient music of the other parts. In the sprightly humour of the nonet the first act ends, leaving the student of its pages to wonder at the sustained gaiety which there receives refined and classic expression.

No. 18.

There is a suggestion of the "Beer Song" in "Marta" about the orchestral passage which, at the beginning of Act II., attends the professedly penitential return of Pistol and Bardolph to their chief, who is enjoying his sack—

No. 19. Unison.

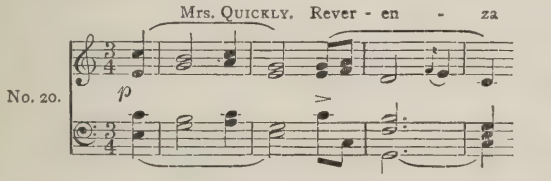
The henchmen introduce Mrs. Quickly, who makes obeisance in time to the orchestra, which seems to make obeisance no less—

No. 20.



Observe, also, the suggestion of finicking hesitancy in a passage preceding wily Mrs. Quickly's statement—

No. 21. Allegro moderato.

It is by such touches as this that the opera well repays close examination. The duet following is extremely flexible in point of musical expression. There is no specially salient feature, the object throughout being the best illustration of the particular sentiment without reference to anything else. As Mrs. Quickly reverentially takes her leave, the passage shown in Ex. 20 above is repeated.

The soliloquy of the beguiled but, in his own feeling, triumphant knight is not a remarkable section, nor is it long. Pistol announces the disguised Ford, and another duet begins. In this number the composer appears more like his old self than, perhaps, in any other. The opening passages of recitative are attended by an orchestral theme quite familiar in character—

No. 22. Allegro moderato.

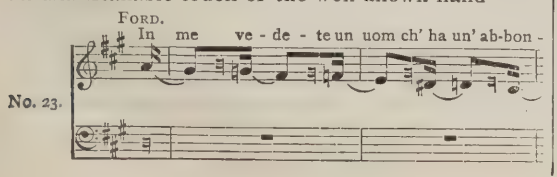
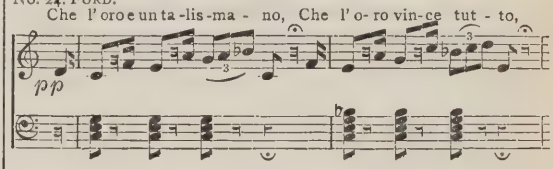
A little later, when the pretended Mr. Brook (called Fontana in the libretto) comes to the point, there is an unmistakable touch of the well-known hand—

No. 23.



Another example soon presents itself—

No. 24. Ford.



and all are interesting as continuing, so to speak, amid many modifications and much that is new, the absolute identity of the composer. Signor Fontana continues his story in an Andante. He refers to the lady with whom he affects to be in love, and the following elegant passage gives another reminder of Mozart—

No. 25. Ford.

There is a second theme (poco string.) which completes the material of the solo—

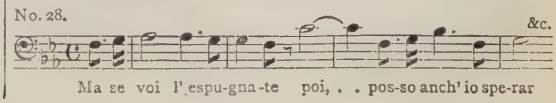
No. 26. Ford.

Subsequently, when Signor Fontana refers to the unaccommodating virtue of the lady, a chromatic passage of 6-3 chords is Verdi "all over"—

No. 27.

Falstaff is to undermine the troublesome obstacle in the way of his visitor, and the suggestion comes in large phrases—

No. 28.



He accepts the task with the air of a conqueror in anticipation—

No. 29.

The knight proceeds to inform Fontana of the assignation already made with Mrs. Ford, reference to whom is again attended by graceful phrases. Mark the parenthesis in the music as well as in the words—

No. 30. Falstaff.

Ford, ignorant of the scheme set in operation by the women, now hears not only of an assignation, but of the dishonour in store for himself. Falstaff's solo, anticipatory of this humiliation, is one of exceeding energy, the knight's glee finding expression in roulades, exclamations, declamatory phrases—everything that can add to the effect. He pictures the husband—

No. 31.

—also as an ox—

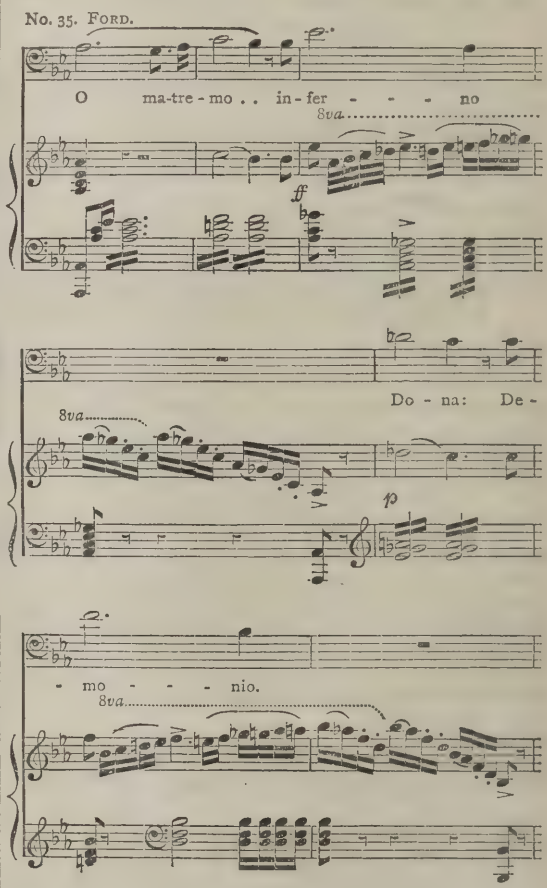
and thus proclaims his fate—

Not less vigorous and dramatic than Falstaff's solo is that in which, after the knight has retired to adorn himself for gallantry, Ford empties the vials of his wrath and shame. Its energy and expressive force are, indeed, tremendous, and remind the listener of the Verdi of tragedy. Pages might be filled with an analysis, but there is room only for one or two extracts. Take the opening phrase, with its sequence of "diminished sevenths"—

No. 34. Due ra-mi e-nor-mi Cresconsul-la mi te - sta

Another passage should not be omitted in sampling this remarkably fine and dramatic solo. In the midst of his shame and anger, Ford invokes marriage and women to this tune—

No. 35. Ford.



Unfortunately, space does not allow citations from the truly humorous music attendant upon the elaborate politeness with which Falstaff and Ford seek to give each other precedence in making their exit. Enough that it fitly ends an act which fairly claims to be a dramatic masterpiece and a wonderful proof of artistic vitality in a man of eighty. With Verdi fourscore years do not mean strength which is labour and sorrow, but ease and pleasure.

J. B.

(To be continued.)

THE MUSIC OF NEGATION.

Besides the somewhat rudimentary function of soothing the savage breast, the youngest and most modish of the arts has a number of other powers, privileges, and charms. The whole music of the stage, from the most subtle music-drama to the conventional "slow music" of popular melodrama, owes its existence to the descriptive power of the art, and both parties in the modern warfare between "absolute" and "descriptive" music must recognise the fact that the art does possess such a power, at least for a large number of persons. It is given to music to suggest almost every emotional state of the mind and feelings, with an intensity beyond verbal expression; although it cannot by itself direct the thoughts of the hearer to any definite picture or mood, it can carry its descriptions or its emotional or descriptive portraiture farther than any words can do, when once the impulse has been given, whether by words in a song, a descriptive "programme," or action on the stage.

In one particular direction its powers are entirely, or almost entirely, limited; it can show us what there is to be seen, and help us to realise even the details of a landscape, as in the Pastoral Symphony and elsewhere, but it cannot bring before us the absence of certain features; it can tell us what the heroine of an opera is feeling, but it is powerless to suggest what she is not going through; and, in short, the musical setting of negatives must for ever remain a difficulty to the thoughtful composer—of those negatives, that is to say, which may be called pure negatives, for of course the absence of light is identical with darkness, the absence of sound identical with silence, &c. It has occasionally been found possible to express not merely negation of certain definite qualities, but nullity, pure, simple, and complete. Haydn's naïve representation of Chaos at the beginning of "The Creation" is, of course, masterly, especially if the period at which it was written be considered; but it is safe to say that no one who heard it without knowing its title would guess what it was meant to represent. Perhaps the greatest masterpiece in this kind is the Finale of Chopin's "Funeral March" Sonata, a movement which can hardly fail to suggest the thought of utter annihilation. "Without form, and void" it is, but with the desolation of a world extinguished rather than that of a still uncreated planet. Though a fairly continuous rhythm is felt, melody and harmony are alike absent, for their absence is only made more conspicuous by the momentary suggestions of each that appear but to be swallowed up in the wild waste of nothingness. Beside this, the climax of Iago's godless creed, "La morte è la nulla," in Verdi's great opera seems brought about by a trick of the most obvious kind.

But it is not of pure negations such as these that I would speak. The every-day difficulty of the composer is to know how far he ought to go in the direction of suggesting, as much as in him lies, the quality or mood that is asserted to be absent in the words he sets. Two very conspicuous examples of the reality of this difficulty have lately come before musicians in London. Lord Tennyson's death has had the result of adding innumerable musical settings to the already large number of those which had been written to his famous "Crossing the Bar." The list of composers now ranges from Professors Stanford and Bridge down to sundry amateurs. In the poem there are two lines which happen to come in the same part of their respective stanzas:—

> And may there be no moaning of the bar.
> And may there be no sadness of farewell.

In examining a number of these settings it becomes clear that the composers have divided themselves into two classes in setting these lines. One party, with Professor Stanford at its head, refuses, either entirely or almost entirely, to give to the music the touch of gloom that seems to be suggested by each of the above lines, arguing, no doubt, that the words convey to a thoughtful reader no such suggestion. The other side, and it is by far the most numerous, is represented by Dr. Bridge's unaccompanied setting for four voices, in which he manages to convey in the harmonies a distinct suggestion of the "moaning" and the "sadness" alluded to. Which is right?

I mentioned two examples of the dilemma in which composers find themselves placed. The second occurs in Tschaikowsky's opera "Eugène Onegin," produced last autumn. The characters of Larina's two daughters, Tatjana and Olga, present that marked contrast which is so very usual in fiction and so rare in life; like Minna and Brenda, or like Agathe and Aennchen in "Der Freischütz" (is it not a reproach to English operatic managers that it is necessary to mention the name of the opera in which these characters appear?), one is all sentiment, takes herself most seriously, and, as a matter of course, ends more or less tragically; while the other is nothing if not light-hearted, and one can imagine that the part might have been interpreted even skittishly by a less massive singer than the lady to whom it was allotted. In an aria in the first act, Olga, as the cheerful sister is named, describes her own nature, beginning thus (the English translation seems to represent the meaning fairly enough, though the German version is a good deal stronger):

> My talent's not for meditation,
> I've not the slightest taste for dreams;
> On balcony I take no station,
> To sigh beneath the moon's soft beams.

The strain to which these words are set is of the gloomiest description, and at the words "to sigh," three times repeated, the flute and voice carry on a most poignant little dialogue. Subsequently the air gets rather more cheerful, but the return of the sombre opening stamps the whole song with a character entirely at variance with what seems to have been the librettist's intention. Of course it is just possible that the proper tradition of the song is that it is pure burlesque; but, if so, the joke is carried rather too deep for ordinary mortals, and in so careful a performance as that given it is unlikely that this would have been allowed to escape notice, more especially as a burlesque song, in a later scene, was duly made as comic as the very limited powers of the singer would allow. It is fairly clear, I think, that Tschaikowsky is wrong in thus suggesting the qualities that are being described as absent, and it is very easy to see what absurdities might result from too general an adoption of his practice. What of the church composer who in setting the words "There is no peace to the wicked" should suggest the quality denied by introducing a pastoral movement on a pedal bass? What of a music hall song whose catchword "No fear!" should be set to music expressing terror?

Should we be right, however, in embracing altogether the theory that the suggestion of a thing by its opposite should never be permitted? It will be of service, I think, to take a few examples at random from the acknowledged masterpieces of the art, and see if some definite and satisfactory conclusion cannot be arrived at.

If we begin with Beethoven we shall be left still in doubt; for the same hand that wrote the "Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage," with its splendidly graphic effect at the words—

> Keine Luft von keiner Seite!
> Not a breath from any quarter!

—in which it seems as if the singers had not breath enough to sing more than one syllable at a time—has also created that wonderful close of the Mass in D, where the prayer for peace, "Dona nobis pacem," is emphasised by the introduction of warlike strains, giving most dramatic point and suggestiveness to the words of the Office. It will be seen on consideration that these two examples correspond exactly to the two divergent styles of treatment just spoken of.

In Schubert's "Wanderer" it is quite clear that an additional effect is reached, and surely it is a legitimate one, by the suggestion of peace and rest at the words "Wo bist du, wo bist du? mein geliebtes Land," coming, as it does, between the restless strains that show us the condition of the mental wanderer with his constant longing for the unattainable.

It would be useless to multiply instances from dramatic or lyrical compositions to illustrate the diversity of practice among musicians in this respect; but it is not really difficult to see that, as a matter of fact, one principle underlies this diversity, at least with the greatest models. That principle appears to be this: if the image called up by a word or phrase be strong enough to turn the thought of the reader or listener to itself, momentarily away from the main subject of the piece, such a change must be reflected in the music. If the impending evil or the unattainable good is presented vividly enough to make us think of it, for however short a time, as in the Mass in D and the "Wanderer," then the music must take cognisance of the episode. To go back for a moment to the two instances spoken of at first: Tschaikowsky's light-hearted heroine exists only as a foil to her serious sister, and we have no desire to imagine all the possible moods she might have passed through; it is enough to know that she is not sentimental or given to sighing, without bringing before our minds the idea of the sighs which she does not heave. Tennyson's poem is on rather a different footing, for while it is possible to maintain that it expresses the serenity of peaceful departure, and only refers to the "moaning of the bar" and the "sadness of farewell" as evils that are scarcely feared or even thought of, it will be clear to the ordinary reader that the lines convey an earnest desire to escape from two accompaniments of death which are a very present dread in the poet's mind. So that in this case each party may find support. In cases where there is a possibility of question as to the right and wrong way of treating such words as these, it may safely be said that, as it is better to err on the side of reticence rather than on that of exaggerated expression, the safer course will be to avoid rather than to seek out such suggestions in the words to be set. On the other hand, it is equally certain that not seldom effect, and even legitimate effect, may be sacrificed, from an excessive dread of offending against that purity of art which all true musicians must desire to preserve.

J. A. F.-M.

WAGNER AND RICHTER.

In a recent number of the Guide Musical appear some very interesting anecdotic reminiscences of Wagner, communicated to a contributor by Dr. Hans Richter. The famous Conductor, it will be remembered, after fulfilling a long engagement as a horn player in the band of the Kärnthnerthor Theatre in Vienna, was recommended by Esser to Wagner, then in need of a copyist, and proceeded to Triebschen, near Lucerne, where he spent upwards of a year (October, 1866—December, 1867) under his roof, and made the first fair copy of the "Meistersinger." Of his early experiences, Dr. Richter speaks as follows:—

I was installed in a room on the upper story of the villa, and during the first three months of my sojourn lived there absolutely alone, taking even my meals in solitude. Wagner's study was just under my room, and there he worked, as a rule, all the morning without interruption. He was then engaged on the "Meistersinger," and when he had finished a page of the score he used to bring it to me himself, often with the ink still wet; and I, in my turn, set to work to copy it immediately.

In the afternoon, after the mid-day meal, which was regularly served at one o'clock, I was with equal regularity expected to accompany Wagner on his walk, which always lasted several hours. On these walks Wagner generally appeared to be deeply absorbed and did not speak. I imagine that he was still engaged in composition. However, he insisted that I should always accompany him. At that time I was still extremely shy and reserved, with little experience of the ways of society; but as these walks were to a certain extent part of my duty, I fancied that it was obligatory upon me to entertain the master who strode silently by my side. Goodness knows what tortures I underwent in my efforts to find subjects likely to interest him! I positively trembled as I started the dialogue on the spur of the moment. One day, shortly after my arrival—it was, I think, our second or third walk—I thought I had hit upon a capital subject, and ventured to sound Wagner upon his own works. "Can you tell me, Herr Wagner, which opera you prefer, 'Tannhäuser' or 'Tristan'?" Wagner burst into a loud fit of laughter, and replied, "How can you ask me such a silly question?" That was all his answer, and the conversation ended there! From that day I never ventured to break silence, unless Wagner gave me the lead, so that our walks became more silent than ever.

Finally, on Christmas Day, after I had been nearly three months in his house, I was invited for the first time and presented to Madame Cosima Wagner. From that day onward I was treated like one of the household, and dined every day and spent every evening in the family circle. Every evening Wagner used to read aloud. At that date the stories of Hoffmann were in great favour, and Wagner read them incomparably, with the utmost animation.

In this connection, I remember that when "Tristan" was first put in rehearsal at Vienna, in 1862, Wagner came one day to read his poem to the artists, in order to enable them to enter into the spirit of the work. Some of them afterwards declared that if Wagner had devoted himself to the histrionic career he would certainly have become the most remarkable actor of his time. He accompanied his reading with a wealth of gesture and of facial play which—to quote the words of one of the artists of the Burg Theatre—while betraying his complete ignorance of the tricks of the trade, nevertheless revealed an extraordinary talent in diction and representation.

I have mentioned that Wagner's workroom, where he was engaged on the score of the "Meistersinger," was exactly underneath the room which I occupied in his house. During the thirteen months which I spent at Triebschen, I can positively state that I never once heard the sound of the pianoforte in his room. This shows that when composing or noting down his ideas he was never in the habit of trying how it would sound on the pianoforte.

In reply to a question whether Wagner ever consulted him on the use of the different instruments, Dr. Richter replied with a smile—

No. On this point Wagner had no need of advice. He was better informed than any one else. On one single occasion, however, he came up to my room with a page of his score still unblotted, and, pointing out a passage, said: "Do you think that this phrase can be performed on the horn at so rapid a tempo? Isn't it too difficult?" The passage in question is in the Finale of the second act of the "Meistersinger," where the horn takes up the theme of Beckmesser's Serenade. I examined the passage and reassured him immediately: "Certainly it can be played, but it will sound very queer and nasal." "Capital!" cried Wagner, "that's exactly what I meant it to be. It is sure to have a comic effect." And accordingly I had to take my horn and play the passage over several times, each quicker than the last. Wagner was overjoyed; the effect was exactly what he had intended.

I had brought my horn with me from Vienna, and in the summer evenings I used to take a boat and row off to a little islet opposite the villa, where, ensconced in the long grass and undergrowth, I would play on my favourite instrument till I was out of breath. Next day Wagner would question me: "I say, Richter, what were you playing yesterday evening?" "Well, Meister," I would reply, "it was a passage from the 'Meistersinger,'" and Wagner would smile and appear delighted.

Soon a regular legend grew up on the banks of the lake about this horn which every evening used to waken the echoes of the little islet. People heard the sounds, but could not see the performer, and used to rack their brains guessing where the music came from. At last an Englishman, more enterprising than the rest, determined one evening to solve the mystery. I was playing away as usual, absorbed in one of the most beautiful passages, when suddenly I saw the reeds divide and a boat suddenly appeared with the son of Albion therein. When he saw me he exclaimed: "At last, I have found you! You then have been playing the wonderful music. Let me thank you, sir, for the pleasure you have given me on so many evenings."

Fifteen years after this incident I was at Oxford, where the University had conferred on me the honorary degree of doctor, and after the ceremony an imposing personage came up to salute me. It was none other than the Englishman of the island, who had since become one of the most distinguished professors of the University. We shook hands cordially, and as he recalled to me the circumstances of our first meeting, he spoke of the pleasant memories associated with it. "Well," replied I, "it was indeed an experience worth remembering; for you can boast that you were unquestionably the first to hear selections from the 'Meistersinger.'"

The following curious anecdote is of interest in connection with that brilliant brochure "Der Fall Wagner," the author of which, Frederick Nietzsche, a distinguished philosopher, assailed the principles of the Wagnerian system—of which he avowed himself to have been once a devoted admirer—in the most trenchant style:—

Wagner had a servant, a sort of factotum, in whom he had the most absolute reliance. He was a Swiss, named Stöcker, and used to wander about the house at all hours in his shirt sleeves wearing a cap with huge red tuft. He was a very knowledgable man, mind you, seeing that he acted as general servant, coachman, valet, and gardener, and, in consequence, he was treated like one of the family. At meals, while he waited, he used to join in the conversation, and would even address the guests, to Wagner's great amusement. Frederick Nietzsche, who, at this time, was a professor at Basle, used often to visit Wagner on Sundays. One day he arrived with a parcel of music under his arm. "Ah!" he said as he came in, "to-day I have brought you one of my compositions. If you have no objection, I will play it for you with Richter." Had a thunderbolt struck the house it could not have produced a greater effect than this proposal. Wagner seemed petrified. He had never imagined that this Nietzsche, who had hitherto shown himself a devoted admirer of his works, this philosopher who had interested him by his profound and original views, was a musical composer as well. At any rate, up to that hour there had never been the slightest hint of such a thing. What was he to do? Nietzsche had already opened the pianoforte, and I had to sit down by his side to play his composition—an overture for four hands. Hardly had we begun when Wagner's face grew dark. At the end he was pale with fury. I anticipated a terrible storm, but he had the self-control to contain himself in Nietzsche's presence. Without saying a word he got up and left the room—or, rather, darted out of it. Tableau! I was at a loss how to control my countenance before Nietzsche, when the door opened and Wagner returned, literally shaking with laughter. "Well, I never!" he said; "that Stöcker is a funny fellow! What do you think he did when he saw me coming out in such a rage? Why, he laid his great hand upon my shoulder, and said, in his broadest Swiss dialect: 'I say, master, I don't think much of that!'" A general laugh greeted this sally. The storm had blown over. But thenceforth Nietzsche never alluded to his compositions again.

It is worthy of note, as a writer in the Allgemeine Musik-Zeitung has pointed out, that four years after the incident related in the foregoing anecdote—which certainly does not reflect creditably on Wagner's courtesy or good feeling—Nietzsche published his work, "The New Birth of Tragedy from the Spirit of Music," full of admiration for the genius of Wagner; while his brilliant palinode, "Der Fall Wagner," was not written till 1888. It is impossible, therefore, to ascribe Nietzsche's revolt to wounded amour propre on account of Wagner's boorish treatment of his efforts as a composer.

In conclusion, it is interesting to learn, on Dr. Richter's authority, that Wagner's estimate of Mendelssohn was decidedly more favourable than that generally ascribed to him. In particular he often expressed to Dr. Richter his great admiration for the "Hebrides" Overture. As for Brahms, it should be borne in mind that Wagner's depreciatory attitude was, in a measure at least, the result of imperfect acquaintance with his works, to say nothing of the efforts made in some quarters to pit the younger master against him.

The Leipzig Conservatory has just celebrated its jubilee. Though the "idea and the foundation of the Leipzig Conservatorium" are generally attributed to Mendelssohn, yet the idea itself was suggested to him by a certain Saxon advocate named Conrad Schleinitz, who, in the thirties, was the centre of musical life in Leipzig and an intimate friend of the composer of "Elijah." The first step towards its practical foundation was, however, due to Mendelssohn, who, in 1840, petitioned Kreis-director Paul von Falkenstein to obtain the King's sanction to use a sum of 20,000 thalers (£3,000) which had been bequeathed to His Majesty as trustee by Oberhofgerichtsrath Dr. Heinrich Blümner (d. 1839), "zur Begründung eines neuen oder zur Unterstützung eines bereits bestehenden gemeinnützigen vaterländischen Institutes für Kunst und Wissenschaft" (for founding a new or assisting an already established public national Institute for Art and Science). Mendelssohn asked that the money be used "zur Errichtung und Erhaltung einer gründlichen Musikschule in Leipzig" (to establish and maintain a thorough music school in Leipzig), and his request was granted in November, 1842. A board of directors was next decided upon, among whom were the above-mentioned Schleinitz and Friedrich Kistner, the famous music publisher. After the settlement of the usual formalities, an announcement was published in the Allgemeine Musikalische Zeitung (January 18, 1843), and in other papers, containing a prospectus of the recently founded Institution. This prospectus contained the names of Mendelssohn, Hauptmann, Ferdinand David, Schumann, C. F. Becker, and August Pohlenz, but before the opening ceremony the last of these illustrious musicians died (March 10, 1843). He was never professor of singing in the Conservatorium, as stated in Grove's Dictionary, Vol. II., p. 115, the place appointed for him being filled by Frau Bünau-Grabau. Some lessons were also given by Madame Schumann, Plaidy, Böhme, Wenzel, and Moritz Klengel. The prospectus further states that the fee for tuition, payable quarterly in advance, was eighty thalers per annum (not seventy-five, as generally stated), and that the income derived from Dr. Blümner's legacy was, by the grace of the King, to be devoted to the establishment of free scholarships for poor natives. This announcement was followed by another, dated February 8, 1843, in which notice was given that the classes would meet, and lectures be delivered, on April 3. It seems, however, that April 1 was afterwards chosen for the opening ceremony, but that, through the instrumentality of Mendelssohn, the date was altered to the 2nd, owing to the "ominous import of the 1st of April!" On that day the Music School was opened (it was first called "Conservatorium" in 1844) with twenty-two pupils on its books, the first to sign his name being the Dresden composer and teacher, Herr Theodor Kirchner. In the course of the first academic year the number of pupils rose to upwards of sixty, and in consequence the professorial staff had to be enlarged, when Rudolf Sachse, E. F. Richter, and others joined it. The first public "Prüfung," or examination, was held in the old Gewandhaus, in the presence of about 800 persons, on March 29, 1844. No English names, however, appear on the list of those who took part, but Schumann's biographer, W. von Wasielewski, played the violin. This was so successful that another followed on October 18, 1844, when among the pianoforte players we find the name of Otto Goldschmidt. In this year Schumann retired, and, in the place of Ferdinand Hiller (who had undertaken the direction of Mendelssohn's composition class when the latter went to Berlin), Gade was instituted. In March, 1845, Mendelssohn returned, and in the following year Moscheles was induced to leave London and undertake the principal pianoforte classes, a post he continued to occupy until his death in 1870. Ferdinand David was then at the head of the violin classes, and retained this position until 1873. On Mendelssohn's death, Julius Rietz, then conductor of the Leipzig Opera, was called to fill his place, which he occupied until 1860, when he withdrew to Dresden to take up the duties of conductor at the Court Opera. He was succeeded by the present Principal, Dr. Carl Reinecke. Conrad Schleinitz was lay head until his death in 1881, since when Dr. Otto Günther has been (and still is) director. In 1868, when the Conservatorium celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary, the number of pupils who had studied there was 1,600; in 1883 this number had increased to upwards of 4,000, and at the present time the number of past and present pupils is more than 6,200, of which 970 are present. Up to 1883, 439 English students had entered their names, but this number has been largely added to in the last ten years. In 1887 the New Conservatorium was opened with truly Teutonic festivities, and on March 10, 1893, the Jubilee was celebrated. The King was present; concerts were given at which a new "Festouvertüre" by Reinecke, with choral Finale, was played by the pupils; Dr. Günther delivered an oration; and the proceedings closed with a performance of the immortal "9th," under Hans Sitt's direction. In the evening performances were given in the Albert-halle, followed by a banquet and a ball. It is unnecessary to give a list of eminent musicians who have studied at the Leipzig Conservatorium (it would, indeed, be an easier task to give the names of those who have not). Such a list would include the names of Joachim, Grieg, Stanford, Sullivan, and many another now well known to fame. It is worthy of remark that Professor Friedrich Hermann, professor of the violin at Leipzig Conservatorium, entered as a student in 1843, and became a member of the teaching staff in 1848, a post he still occupies with credit to himself and the Institution.

A correspondent writes to a contemporary pathetically deprecating the "repeats" in symphonies generally and the "Eroica" particularly. Waiving the fact that in this particular work the repeats are neither so numerous nor extensive as in most, we wish to point out that this is a very typical remonstrance. "In these days," says the correspondent frankly, "people want to get on, they do not want to go back." This is, alas! too true, and the same sentiment was still more bluntly expressed the other night at the production of Thomas's opera "The Golden Web." The gallery took it into their heads to suppress all attempts at encores, and in the middle of the first act, when the applause caused some momentary delay, one of the "gods" shouted to the conductor: "Git on, Bunning! Git on with it and let us git 'ome!" Observe the British love of art! People will wait for hours to get into a theatre or concert, but once the performance begun, their one idea is that of Christopher Sly: "An excellent piece of work; would 'twere done!" Shakespeare, you see, knew the vulgar mind as he knew everything else, and hit it off exactly in that one sentence. The way our stall and balcony audiences trail in half-an-hour late is bad enough, but the way they make a wild stampede when the end of the entertainment is drawing near can only be described as a disgrace to our boasted civilisation. We have often said that were the programme only twenty minutes in length a certain section of the audience would come ten minutes late and depart ten minutes before the end, from force of habit. Not but what there are symphonies in which the repeats might very well be dispensed with, but (with the exception of the Scherzos of Nos. 7 and 9, the omission of the repeats in which is justified by tradition) the Beethoven Symphonies are not among them. Mere duration should not matter—indeed, it should be a positive merit—if the work be really fine. Did not Beethoven play his first four Symphonies all in one programme—with repeats too? And did not Hans von Bülow, a few years ago, give a Concert somewhere in which he played the Choral Symphony twice through? With an interval of half-an-hour between the repetitions, it is true, but it must have been a strain on the audience. The great conductor declared that in this way only could the sublime work be properly appreciated. Perhaps so, but as an eminent critic lately remarked of "Siegfried," it demands a higher race of listener.

In his letter, which will be found in another column, the Editor of the Overture asserts of critics (1) that they are all on a level; (2) that they lay claim to infallibility; (3) that they claim superiority over those whom they criticise. (1) Our esteemed correspondent admits that some critics are cultured and honest gentlemen; but he says they are all on a level because "they all wear the same domino and mask." Is that so? Is the "domino and mask" of the critic of (say) The Times, or the Daily Telegraph, or the Athenæum the same as the "domino and mask" of the critic of (say) the New Cut Observer, or the Old Kent Road Gazette, or the Petticoat Lane Pioneer? We trow not. Anonymous critics are identified with the journals on which they write, and take rank accordingly. To say they are all on the same level is to say that journals are all on the same level—which is "flat burglary." (2) After asserting that critics "do" lay claim to infallibility, our correspondent admits that the critic's infallibility is derived from his "million readers," who, we are told, "will think far more of him than they do of the Pope." How this proves that the critic "lays claim" to such homage we fail to see. (3) The contention that critics "claim" superiority over those whom they criticise is, at first sight, more plausible, but will hold water even less than the arguments we have numbered 1 and 2. A critic's power of estimating artistic work is based solely on his power of comparing that under examination with other examples of a similar kind, or, at any rate, with a standard of excellence which he has derived from other examples. "Good" and "bad" are not absolute, but relative terms. If a critic write disparagingly of a work or a performer, it implies, not that he thinks he can produce better work, or considers himself a better performer; but that he has heard or seen works, or performances, that he thinks better. For this reason the most valuable possession of a critic is experience—which explains why many amateurs, who know comparatively little of the technique of art, are, nevertheless, excellent judges; while young musicians, with much technical knowledge but little experience, are apt to go astray. These last cannot "place" anything; their judgment of artistic work is not an estimate of its comparative value in relation to the highest standards, but a simple record of its absolute value in relation to them. This, of course, is not Criticism at all, but Impressionism.

The Musical Standard, also replying to the remarks on criticism which occur in our last issue, says: "Something would be gained if our critics simply gave their personal impressions and did not pretend to be infallible. The god-like attitude they take, when, hidden behind the cloud of the editorial 'we,' they hurtle forth their thunderbolts against some new composer, is too irresistibly funny to those who know the stuff of which the majority of critics are made." The simplicity revealed in these sentences is quite staggering. Our contemporary would evidently have us believe that when a critic speaks in the plural it is a proof that he is putting forward, and claiming infallibility for, opinions which are not his own. If the remarks we have quoted do not mean this then we confess our inability to understand English—or that of the Musical Standard to write it. But perhaps our rosy-cheeked contemporary meant to suggest that the "we" of musical criticism is taken literally by the public, and regarded as representing a sort of committee of members of the editorial staff, who discuss matters with the musical critic before they allow him to write his article. . . . Seriously, does any one suppose for a moment that, as regards opinions, it makes the slightest difference either to a writer or his readers whether in the course of an article he uses "I," or "we," or neither? With respect to the supposed claim of critics to infallibility we have only to say that it is to be found nowhere but in the minds of those who assert its existence.

In the course of a sympathetic and, on the whole, accurate little biographical note on Professor Marshall Hall, a musical contemporary says: "A few years ago, Mr. Marshall Hall, disgusted with the state of musical affairs in England, left his native country, and is now the occupier of the 'Ormonde' Chair of Music at the Melbourne University." This sentence carries a meaning entirely at variance with facts. Mr. Marshall Hall "left his native country," not because he was "disgusted" with the state of its "musical affairs"—this would, on the contrary, have been a reason for staying at home in order to mend matters—but because he had accepted the post he now holds. When that appointment was offered to him, Mr. Marshall Hall was living in London; but as it naturally occurred to him that a continued residence in town would not be altogether favourable to the efficient performance of professional duties at the Antipodes, he left. But what does our contemporary mean by "disgusted with the state of musical affairs in England"? This is one of those vague phrases that, sounding well, but meaning nothing in particular, serve, no doubt, admirably as safety valves for a soured temper, but are otherwise the bane of literature, and, indeed, of conversation. Let the general term "musical affairs" be resolved into particular instances, and we shall then be better able to judge whether or no Mr. Marshall Hall had reason to feel "disgusted."

Mr. W. Beatty Kingston, writing upon Liszt in the Daily Telegraph, observes: "On the 31st of the ensuing July I received a telegraphic announcement of Liszt's death. It is a sad thought for every English musician that the excessive fatigues imposed upon him during his sojourn in London completely broke down his already failing strength, and that, after leaving this country, he never really rallied from the exhaustion which was only too manifest in his appearance on the eve of his departure, when I pressed my lips upon his wonder-working hands for the last time." This may be picturesque, but it is not accurate. In point of fact, all the statements personal to Liszt are erroneous. During his stay in England the composer-pianist never showed any signs of special fatigue, nor did he express any feeling of it. His vital power was the wonder of all who saw him. He continued his habit of rising at 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning, and on his way from Dover to Calais he said that, if spared another two years, he would certainly re-visit this country. With regard to circumstances which may have hastened his death, the fact should not be overlooked that, after leaving England, he travelled to Antwerp, thence to Paris, where he caught cold, thence to Weimar, thence to Luxemburg, thence to Bayreuth, for his granddaughter's marriage, back again to Luxemburg and again to Bayreuth, where, though he had to be carried to the theatre, he insisted on attending the Wagner performances. Whether all this travelling and excitement had to do with his decease we cannot say; one thing is certain: he was quite well and hearty on leaving England.

The probably unique private correspondence which passed between the late ill-fated King Louis of Bavaria and Richard Wagner has, for obvious reasons, so far been strictly withheld from the public. Some of the letters written by the King in 1864-5, together with some verses addressed to him by the composer, have, however, just found their way into the columns of the Wiener Fremdenblatt. The originals had, we are credibly told, been copied years ago by a lady moving in high social circles in the Bavarian capital and now residing in Vienna; and while there is no reason, from intrinsic evidence, to question their genuineness, our Viennese contemporary has no doubt cheerfully taken upon itself the onus of the indiscretion involved in their unauthorised publication. Without possessing any particular historical value, the few letters in question are distinctly interesting as presenting the relations existing between composer and King in a clearer light than has hitherto been available, and assist us in forming a more accurate opinion of the remarkable character of the latter.

A musical contemporary has drawn attention to a statement, said to have been made by Dr. Parry or Dr. Mackenzie, or both, that "the sonata (form) has been played out, and the opera overture has no longer a raison d'être in the scheme of dramatic music." We have only to say that if the meaning be that the capacity of the sonata is exhausted, and that the opera overture has ceased to have significance and acceptation, we traverse the judgment most positively. With regard to the sonata form, Beethoven has shown, in his pianoforte works of that class, how, by developments and modifications, a skilful and gifted composer can endow it with freshness and new vitality. The sonata form is exhausted only in the sense that our living composers have not the genius to re-animate it. With regard to the opera overture, will those who say that it is played out be good enough to tell us why, at representations of the "Meistersingers," "Fidelio," "Der Freischütz," "Tannhäuser," and half-a-dozen other works, the orchestral introduction is more eagerly heard and loudly applauded than almost anything else? The lesson is that we should avoid the use of sounding generalities, which, when looked into, prove as hollow as a drum.

We all know how, from time to time, friends accounted by us as belonging to the "salt of the earth" drop out of the private circle and leave behind them a precious memory to be cherished by no more than a few. Thank heaven, there are many such—men and women unknown to the busy world, but really doing more than the fussy and self-assertive to keep it sweet. The writer of these remarks puts on record, with regret, but with admiration for long years of quiet and unobtrusive virtues, the death of Mrs. Littleton, widow of the late head of the firm of Novello, Ewer and Co. The event took place on March 15, at 19, Fellows Road, and the deceased lady's remains were laid to rest at Lee Cemetery, with those of her late husband. Mrs. Littleton's memory—wholly pure and fragrant—will be cherished not only by her surviving family, but by all who had the privilege of her acquaintance. They have the consolation of knowing that she "sleeps well."

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

A correspondent has sent us an article from a Portsmouth paper. It is headed "An Angry Pianist," and has reference to some alleged eccentricity of behaviour on the part of Mr. Pachmann when giving one of his Recitals. Everybody knows that the Russian pianist has funny ways of his own, which the public tolerate for the pleasure he affords them as an artist. On this occasion, we read, he remarked, first of all, "Too few people; I cannot play. This is a sham." The audience applauded and were told: "Not now! Not now! Listen till I have done; then I like you to applaud." A row of gas jets having offended his eyes, Mr. Pachmann stopped playing. They must be extinguished. "I like to play in not too much light"—this confidentially to the audience—"I like to look up and think. But all that light—no, no." The artist then left the stage for ten minutes, whereat the public grew restless.

Returning, Mr. Pachmann asked his patrons to be patient. Meanwhile, the hall-keeper could not be found and the lights blazed on. Finally, however, they were extinguished, and the pianist got to work again. But the comedy had not ended. The hall-keeper returned, and, seeing no gas jets, marched on with a taper to relight them. "Go away, go away!" exclaimed Mr. Pachmann, "I do not want you." Noticing some ladies quitting the hall, the artist remarked—playing, as we understand, all the time—"Ladies! They are not ladies. They ought to stay and hear such an artist. In Paris and in London, when I play the audience go—euh! but you—you are stupid." It cannot be denied that the Portsmouth Recital was an entertainment. Apart from the droll episodes, it rose to a high artistic level. "The performance was exquisite," we read, "and the furore of applause that followed the concluding notes showed that the audience had quite forgiven the wonderful musician."

The Secretary of the Worcester Festival requests publication of the following: The Musical Festival of the Three Choirs will be held this year at Worcester on September 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15. Engagements have been concluded with Mr. Burnett as leader, and with Madame Albani, Miss Anna Williams, Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Hilda Wilson, Madame Belle Cole, Miss Jessie King, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Edwin Houghton, Mr. Watkin Mills, Mr. Brereton, and Mr. Plunket Greene as principal singers. Besides "The Messiah," "Elijah," the "Last Judgment," and the "Hymn of Praise," the programme will include Brahms's Requiem, Bach's Mass in B minor, Parry's "Job," Handel's "Israel in Egypt," orchestral works by Beethoven, Mozart, Weber, and Sullivan, and an instrumental work to be composed for the occasion by Dr. Hubert Parry.

Some inconvenience having been caused by a report that Mr. C. Lee Williams will again conduct the Worcester Festival, as locum tenens for Mr. Done, we are requested to state that the duties of chef d'orchestre on that occasion have devolved upon Mr. Blair, who is now, for all practical purposes, Organist of Worcester Cathedral, and, therefore, ex-officio Conductor of the Festival. Mr. Williams has had nothing whatever to do with the arrangements for the "music meeting."

The managers of the Worcester Festival are, of course, within their right in giving the post of principal first violin to whomsoever they please, and they have now passed over Mr. Carrodus in favour of Mr. Burnett. But the change has been made in a regrettable manner. Mr. Carrodus has "led" the Worcester orchestra ever since the retirement of the late Prosper Sainton, and it was unseemly—we leave courtesy out of the question—to dismiss him without a word of explanation or of acknowledgment as regards past services. Are these Midland manners?

We have received from the Bureau of Music, Chicago Exhibition, a catalogue of works by American composers which it is intended to perform. The list is too long for reproduction here, but we may state that the composers represented in it are Messrs. John K. Payne, G. W. Chadwick, Arthur Foote, G. F. Bristow, Arthur Bird, H. R. Shelly, and A. M. Foerster. These gentlemen are all to be honoured in their own country and among their own people, as is right and proper, though contrary to traditional experience.

Further musical arrangements in connection with the Chicago Exhibition are these:—In addition to the Concerts announced for May and June, the New York Symphony Orchestra (Walter Damrosch, Conductor) will give two Concerts in the Music Hall, on May 19 and 20. The Apollo Club of Chicago will give performances of Handel's "Messiah" on June 14 and 28, and of Bach's "Saint Matthew" Passion on June 16 and 30. Following the Festival in July of the Second Section of representative Western Choral Societies, there will be given in the Music Hall, Symphony Concerts, including the Ninth of Beethoven; and in the Festival Hall, Wagner Concerts, conducted by Hans Richter. Engagements for band music have been made with Gilmore's Band for September, and with the band of the 13th Regiment of New York City, F. N. Innes, Conductor, for October.

The subjoined paragraph is translated from the Vienna Tagblatt: "A new and interesting artistic event was the appearance of Miss Ethel Sharp, prize Scholar of the Royal College of Music, London, in which Institution she received her musical education under the care of Mr. Franklin Taylor. The young lady's performance of Chopin's Nocturne in G minor, and Liszt's transcription of Schubert's 'Auf dem Wasser zu singen,' was received with unusually hearty applause, and she had to comply with the unanimous demand of the audience by playing in addition Grünfeld's charming Barcarolle. Among the characteristics of this young and attractive pianist are a faultless technique, a remarkably soft and distingué touch, and, above all, a conception full of poetry and soul. We hope to meet her frequently again in the concert-rooms of Vienna."

According to the pianist, Joseffy, Americans are too quick. He says: "Hasty attempt without sufficient preparation is the bane of all American effort in the realm of art." Again: "His (the American's) rapidity of apprehension too often gives him a distaste for the slow, patient labour and study absolutely essential to the thorough elaboration of every great thought in art. The slow-thinking, plodding German, and the tenacious, bull-dog Englishman have thus a very great advantage over him in their efforts to achieve the highest art perfection." Mr. Joseffy does not seem to know that we English are also in a hurry, and very often do bad work in consequence.

Apropos to the foregoing, another observer of American life, Mr. Carl Hecker, speaks, and his words might be a description of things English:—"As soon as the student is able to earn a little money she stops studying and begins to teach. And that is a very bad thing—bad for art. Nothing is gained and erroneous principles inculcated. There is, as I say, a tremendous talent for art in America, but it is turned to money-making as soon as possible. Art students, who should still be in the class-room, are hired by money-making institutions as art teachers. They are, of course, unable to teach. Their pupils make no progress, and consequently and naturally come to the conclusion that they have no talent. They never dream that if they had been properly taught their success would be unlimited."

Our attention has been called to a case of distress, consequent upon the premature death of Mr. Edwin Richards, of whom a correspondent writes: "Apart from his practical skill as a violin maker and repairer, he possessed much of the traditional knowledge of the violin trade, and as, unfortunately, the number of persons acquainted with this knowledge is every day becoming less, the loss of such a life carries with it much information that can never be regained." Mr. Richards was a son of the well-known violin dealer in Wardour Street. He leaves a widow and three orphans without provision. Subscriptions in aid will be thankfully received by Messrs. Hill and Sons, 38, New Bond Street.

From the Globe: "American gossip-mongers have found a wife for Paderewski, it being alleged that he has fallen a victim to the charms of a New York girl, and now divides his time between the shrines of Eros and Apollo. He denies the charge with a smile that gradually grows into a hearty laugh. But he modestly admits that the lady, whose name is freely mentioned, is among his dearest friends, though he insists that there is nothing serious between them, saying it is ridiculous that one so wedded to his art should have time for tender thoughts. The way in which he says this, however—blushing and bungling—is held to be more convincing than his words." We believe there is nothing in the report.

Anger does sometimes get hold of celestial minds, and there is trouble at the City Temple, whence Mr. Minshall, honorary organist for seventeen years, has, it is said, been abruptly dismissed by Dr. Parker. We read in the Echo: "According to the statement of Mr. Minshall's friends, the primary cause of the dispute was that Mrs. Parker was not asked to sing solos sufficiently often. Their account is of a highly sensational character, but Dr. Parker's version of the matter has yet to be given, and possibly may put quite a different complexion on the business."

In his speech to the audience at the close of the season in Liverpool, Mr. Bruce, Managing Director of the Royal Carl Rosa Company, said: "With respect to any indication as to our intentions for the future, I fear I can only repeat what I have so often said before—namely, that opera and everything appertaining to it is so surrounded with an atmosphere of doubt and uncertainty that we think it wiser not to commit ourselves to any specific promises for future events." This is prudence, born of experience.

A correspondent calls our attention to the following advertisement, and asks us what we think of it: "An exceptionally great and refined attraction.—A high-class titled lady (soprano) may be secured for 'At Homes,' Banquets, &c., by immediately addressing," &c. In reply to our correspondent's query we simply observe that the announcement would be possible only in the natural home and favoured habitat of snobs. The inference is plain.

Shakespearian students may be glad to note that a catalogue of the Shakespeare music published by Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co. has just been compiled by Mr. Charles Fry and issued by the firm. It includes lists of vocal and instrumental music incidental to nineteen of the plays, besides several settings of the poems, and should prove a valuable index to musical directors of theatres and Concert and entertainment givers generally.

A morning contemporary, referring in advance to the appearance of Herr Foerster at the Popular Concerts, confounded this pianist with a violinist of the same name, of whom particulars were given, and the statement made that he came to Mr. Chappell "with excellent credentials from Vienna and Paris." Namesakes are often troublesome to writers of the hasty notes demanded by modern journalism.

Mr. Frederick F. Rogers has been appointed Manager of Steinway Hall, a position so long held by the late Mr. J. W. Downer. Mr. Rogers is a man of great business capacity, an excellent musician, and the author of many cantatas for ladies' voices, songs, and pianoforte pieces. He is Organist and Choirmaster at an important church in the S.W. district. We wish him every success in the new sphere upon which he has entered.

"It has at length," says the Manchester Guardian, "been finally decided to establish a College of Music in Manchester. . . . There was no discordant note heard at the meeting held in the Mayor's Parlour at which the decision to open the College in October next was arrived at." Sir Charles Hallé, not having already enough to do for a man of his years, will be the Principal.

"Plunket Greene," says a New York paper, is a tall young man with nothing of the conventionally artistic appearance about him. "He sings earnestly, with judgment and good taste." This is all very nice, but the critic adds that he "manages skilfully, save for a tendency to wander from the key." The defect—a grave one—must be due to some American influence. Mr. Greene never showed it here.

This is from an American journal: "Mr. E. Eberhard, the president of the Grand Conservatory of Music, then addressed Mr. Giovanni Conterno, and conferred upon him the degree 'Doctor of Music.'" How nice for Mr. Giovanni Conterno! especially as no American Musical News asks who is Mr. E. Eberhard and what is the Grand Conservatory of Music.

Nobody disputes the great musical services of Sir Charles Hallé, but it is unwise to exaggerate them. We read in the Times that Berlioz and Dvorák are "two composers whose popularity in England is, perhaps, more certainly due to Sir Charles Hallé than to any other person." The saving word "perhaps" is not superfluous here.

Our excellent contemporary, the Daily News, is half suspected of poking fun at the rage for titular honours in music when, referring to the proposed Doctors' Concert at Cambridge, it speaks of "Dr. Max Bruch," "Dr. Saint-Saëns," "Dr. Tschaikowsky," "Dr. Boïto," and "Dr. Grieg." "What for I be made a Doctor?" exclaimed sturdy old Handel.

It appears that at the "Doctors' Concert," the following selections will be given: Part of "Odysseus" (Bruch); Concerto Fantasia (Saint-Saëns); Prelude to "Mefistofele" (Boïto); Symphonic Poem, "Francesca da Rimini" (Tschaikowsky); Suite, "Peer Gynt" (Grieg); Ode, "East and West" (Stanford).

The Times seems bent upon dealing with Gounod in the spirit of the late Sir Peter Laurie, the champion putter-down. It now speaks of the "pseudo-sacred sentimentalities" of the French master. There are so many repetitions of the letter s in the words quoted that they sound like a hiss, and distinctly suggest venom.

A Scottish critic has just made an important contribution to the new phraseology of his craft. We read that "Mrs. Taggart found full scope for her soprano propensities in a recit. entitled," &c. "Soprano propensities" is good—very good; the word propensity being defined by Webster as "bent of mind."

Dr. Hubert Parry is to conduct a performance of his "Job" at the second Concert of the Middlesex Choral Union in St. James's Hall on the 26th inst. This will be the first presentation of the work in central London. The "Hymn of Praise" (Conductor, Mr. James Shaw) completes the programme.

Mr. Mapleson is in New York on business which the newspaper men cannot quite make out because, singular to relate, the old operatic hand refuses to show his cards. "Brer Rabbit, he lay low." The "Colonel" is, however, vehemently suspected of being after the proposed new opera-house.

We desire all manner of success for the amateur orchestra which Mr. Charles Fry has suggested (and Mr. Arnold Dolmetsch will conduct) as a desirable complement of the Irving Dramatic Club. Once formed, this body will make the addition of incidental music to plays an easy matter.

The German colony in London will have another opportunity of supporting Wagnerian art at Covent Garden, seven performances being arranged for in June and July. For the season proper, Sir A. Harris promises "I Rantzau," "I Pagliacci," "Armida," and a host of artists.

In Sir John Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus" there is a duet called "Love divine." The Warrington Observer, reporting a Concert at which the Cantata was performed, gave this piece as "Oh, lovely Rhine."

Sir Arthur Sullivan is expected home about the 12th inst. His return route lies through Spain as he desires to visit Seville. We all recognise the good service he has done to his country's musical repute by conducting the two English Concerts at Monaco.

What does a morning contemporary mean by stating that a certain artist "well breasted the exactions on the voice of Meyerbeer's 'Roberto tu che adoro'"?

According to a paragraph in the Boston Home Journal, Madame Nordica has asked leave to remain in America till May 20. It is not said that Sir Augustus Harris has consented.

Mr. W. A. Morgan, honorary secretary of the Cardiff Festival, 1892, has been presented with a silver tea service in recognition of his labours on behalf of the new enterprise.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

A few words will meet the requirements of the performance of "Israel in Egypt" given by this Society on the 8th ult. The Oratorio is on the active list at the Albert Hall—first, on account of its surpassing merits as a choral work, and, next, because it gives Sir Joseph Barnby's army of singers an opportunity such as hardly anything else affords. Regular performances have, of course, familiarised the public with a degree of excellence which it now suffices to acknowledge in general terms. As on many former occasions, the duet for basses was sung by the whole of the male voices, and applauded, not, we hope, on the question of principle, but because the rendering under such conditions was very good. The solo parts were taken by Miss Anna Williams, Miss M. Hoare, Miss Clara Butt, and Mr. E. Lloyd. Of those artists the first and last made a success familiar both in character and measure, Mr. Lloyd obtaining the honours of the evening in "The enemy said." Miss Butt displayed her rare voice to great advantage in the contralto music, but she is a beginner, and needs to go on with careful and assiduous study. Sir Joseph Barnby conducted.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

This Institution has now got fairly into its eighties, and has flourished nearly the whole length of Mr. Gladstone's life. The Premier is accounted an old man even in this age of longevity, but the Philharmonic, though two years younger, is far older, judged, of course, by the average term over which the career of musical enterprises extends. Aged though it be, however, the Society preserves its vitality, and even, to some extent, renews the best features of its youth.

The first Concert of the eighty-first season took place in St. James's Hall on the 9th ult., when Dr. Mackenzie made his début as Conductor in succession to Mr. Cowen. It is needless to say that the popular Scottish musician was well received both by orchestra and audience, from whom he will, no doubt, have the support and encouragement which one in a position so difficult and responsible largely requires. We may add, at once, that the performance under Dr. Mackenzie was fully up to the standard and an assurance that all will be well in the future. The programme contained a selection from Dr. H. Parry's music to "Hypatia," specially arranged and conducted by the composer. It included the Overture, two Entr'actes, music to Street Scene, and the Orestes March, all of which were heard, for the first time, under proper conditions. A theatrical audience does not listen to overtures and entr'actes. It talks and drowns them in a sea of voices. At St. James's Hall Dr. Parry really had a hearing, and his music, so artistic and, at the same time, so well supplied with the elements of popularity, met with ample appreciation. Need we state that the composer had a hearty welcome? Mr. Slivinski, who essayed to play (it is said for the first time) Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, cannot be congratulated upon a success. His performance was, in various respects, below the mark of a first-class effort, and he did not appear to be quite at his ease either with the work or the conditions of its performance. The artist was much more at home amid the freedom of his solos, and with such music in hand as Chopin's Nocturne in F sharp and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody (No. 12). Special notice should be taken of the work of the orchestra in the "Eroica" Symphony—a fine display. The Overtures were "Euryanthe" and "Marco Spada," and the vocalist was Miss Nancy Macdonald, an American lady, who took the place which, through indisposition, Miss Macintyre could not fill.

At the second Concert (23rd ult.) the audience was smaller than at the first, perhaps because the programme contained much English music. Never mind. When the English music is as good as that in Mr. Cliffe's Leeds Symphony and Mr. Somervell's Ballad "Helen of Kirkconnel" it can afford to wait. The work first-named had not previously been heard in central London, but there is no need to discuss it here for the third or fourth time. Its merits are well known to connoisseurs and we will only say that the Symphony would bear still further compression and be the better for the process. Probably it will pass again under the composer's revising eye. Mr. Somervell's Ballad we take to be his first orchestral work. In that case there is every reason for encouragement, since the music is well put together, nicely scored, and thoroughly in keeping with the poetic basis. Everybody knows the legend of the devoted maid who saved her lover's life at the cost of her own. Mr. Somervell's lament over her tragic fate, and his expression of the survivor's emotion as he recalls the dastardly deed of his rival and its prompt punishment, are both happily conceived, while the music abounds in delicate touches which show in equal degree both taste and feeling. The composer was twice summoned to receive the congratulations of the audience. A brilliant performance of Brahms's not uniformly interesting Concerto in D for violin, by Miss Wietrowetz, was a conspicuous feature of the evening. The Overtures on this occasion were Sullivan's "Macbeth" and Wagner's "Flying Dutchman." The vocalist was Mr. Norman Salmond.

LONDON SYMPHONY CONCERTS.

Mr. Henschel brought his series of Concerts to a successful close on the 2nd ult. The programme contained two works of surpassing interest: Schubert's "Unfinished" and Beethoven's "Choral" Symphonies. The Henschel Choir sang with marked spirit and intelligence. Mr. Henschel may not have given quite an ideal rendering of Schubert's Symphony, but rather than pick holes we would praise him for his earnestness and energy in the cause of the highest art. The attendance at these entertainments has of late improved so greatly that the London Symphony Concerts now bid fair to become one of the standing musical institutions of the metropolis; and the excellent choir which has been formed will help to make the programmes exceedingly attractive in the future. Mr. Henschel seems now on the point of being rewarded for his perseverance amid circumstances for a long time the reverse of favourable.

The extra Wagner Concert given on Tuesday, the 14th ult., was a brilliant success. The hall was crowded and many were sent empty away. The rise of Wagner's music has been most striking, and its progress in popular favour most rapid. Its success may be due to foolishness or to fashion, but it is a fact, and one of which Mr. Henschel has taken due advantage. The programme was devoted entirely to the works of the Bayreuth master, and contained excerpts from his early operas and later music-dramas. Mr. Henschel conducted with his usual energy and intelligence. The fine renderings of the "Lohengrin" duet by Miss E. Florence and Madame Brema, and of the "Liebestod" from "Tristan" by Miss Esther Palliser, deserve special mention.

THE BACH CHOIR.

The wisdom of the homely adage respecting the advisability of the cobbler sticking to his last, was plainly exemplified when the Bach Choir gave a Concert consisting entirely of the Leipzig cantor's works, on the 10th ult., at St. James's Hall, the spectacle of well-filled benches being very welcome after the array of empty seats at the previous performance, when Verdi's Manzoni Requiem occupied the programme. The scheme on the present occasion could not well have been more interesting, almost every piece being given for the first time in England. The most important was the "Trauer Ode," a lengthy Cantata composed for the funeral service in honour of the Electress Christiane Eberhardine, wife of Frederick Augustus I. of Saxony, who, for reasons of policy and ambition, became a Roman Catholic, while his wife remained a staunch Protestant and died greatly lamented. The words of the Ode were written by Dr. Gottsched, and they deal so fully with the virtues of the deceased Princess that Bach regarded the work as of an ephemeral nature; but in order to preserve the music from oblivion he afterwards utilised much of it for a setting of the Gospel according to St. Mark. This unfortunately has been lost, but the score of the "Trauer Ode" is preserved in the Berlin Royal Library and the present performance was probably the first with the original text since 1727. The music is in Bach's ripest manner, and several of the numbers recall the St. Matthew Passion Music. The next work was an orchestral Suite in D, also performed for the first time in England, the parts only being published last year. It is a very vigorous work in five movements, the most pleasing of which, for reasons stated below, being the fourth, a very graceful Minuet. Next came the brief Church Cantata "Herr, wie du willt," composed for the third Sunday after the Epiphany, within the first five years of Bach's residence in Leipzig. The music is deeply expressive though less elaborate than many of the master's choral works. The very fine Concerto for three claviers in D minor, with string accompaniment, used to be frequently heard at the Popular Concerts, but it had dropped out of notice for many years, and its revival was welcome, the solo parts being admirably rendered by Miss Fanny Davies, Mr. Leonard Borwick, and Mr. Henry Bird. This highly interesting Concert ended with the opening chorus of the Cantata "Es erhub sich ein Streit," written for Michaelmas Day, 1725. With regard to the manner of performance, commendation in general terms may be bestowed on the choir, which acquitted itself of its unfamiliar duties, if not faultlessly, at any rate in very creditable fashion. Justice was rendered to the vocal solo parts by Mrs. Hutchinson, Miss Hilda Wilson, Mr. Houghton, and Mr. Henschel, the excellent artist last mentioned especially distinguishing himself. Some of the instrumentalists, notably Mr. W. L. Barrett (flute), Messrs. Lebon and Smith (oboi d'amore), and Messrs. Howell and Ould (violoncelli), are also worthy of individual mention, and Professor Villiers Stanford conducted the Concert with musicianly care and intelligence. Something remains to be said concerning the well meant but imperfect efforts to reproduce the original orchestration of Bach. Parts for the viola da gamba were played upon the violoncello, and lute parts were divided between the viola and the violoncello; but three of the re-manufactured long trumpets were used with a compass extending to D above the treble staff. That the effect was anything resembling that intended by Bach cannot be supposed for an instant. In the Suite—the Minuet excepted—the din was earsplitting, and the balance of the parts completely destroyed. It has been suggested that Bach intended the trumpet notes to sound an octave lower than written, but this cannot have been the case, and the suggestion of the late Robert Franz, that the parts should be played by clarinets, seems, on the whole, the least objectionable way of meeting the difficulty.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

Dvorák's Symphony in G (No. 4) had not been heard at Sydenham before February 25, on which occasion it was introduced with great success by Mr. Manns. The merits and the weaknesses of this remarkably interesting and attractive work have already been discussed at length in The Musical Times. It is enough to state that it created a very marked impression on the habitués of the Crystal Palace, the fascinating Allegro grazioso, in which the waltz rhythm is treated on a symphonic scale with such delightful results, being especially appreciated. Mr. Manns, who conducted con amore, had evidently taken abundant pains in rehearsing the work, and was successful in securing an exceedingly animated and sympathetic rendering. A débutante of considerable promise was heard in Miss Mary Cardew, a pupil of Dr. Joachim's, whose performance of Bach's Chaconne was noticeable, not merely for fluent execution and sound technique, but also for intelligent and scholarly phrasing. Miss Cardew also gave a graceful rendering of the solo part in Max Bruch's romantic Concerto in G (No. 1), and altogether must be congratulated on a decidedly successful first appearance. Mr. Santley gave the picturesque baritone aria from Bizet's "Pêcheurs de Perles" with great fervour, and introduced a suave and gracefully-written "Salutation Angélique" of his own composition, scored for small orchestra, which, it is needless to say, he sang with incomparable skill. The programme, which opened with the Overture to "Oberon," concluded with that to the "Flying Dutchman," both excellently played by the band, under Mr. Manns's inspiriting leadership.

On the 4th ult. Mr. Manns, ever ready to encourage native talent, introduced a new Concert-Overture from the pen of Mr. Marshall Hall, the young composer who was appointed three years ago, when only twenty-eight, to the Chair of Music in the University of Melbourne. The new Overture, to which Mr. C. A. Barry contributed a sympathetic analysis, is long, ambitious, and difficult, and to judge by the notes contributed by the composer, is designed to give musical expression to a period of Sturm und Drang, of strife and struggle, despondency and renewed resolve. In fact, magnis componere parva, it is Mr. Marshall Hall's musical rendering of the same emotions and experiences as those which prompted Wagner to compose his "Faust" Overture. For the rest, Mr. Marshall Hall's work, though characterised by force and breadth of treatment, is too deeply saturated with the influence of Wagner to exact the praise due to an original work. It was played with vigour by the band and very cordially received by the audience. M. Slivinski chose Tausig's vulgarised version of Chopin's Pianoforte Concerto in E minor for his chief effort, but failed to come up to the high standard of excellence reached by him on many previous occasions. He was more successful in minor solos by Schumann, Rubinstein, and Liszt. The Symphony was that by Brahms in F major (No. 3), of which better renderings have been heard at the Crystal Palace. Madame Belle Cole was the vocalist, and gave the air "Lo! the King," from "The Rose of Sharon," and Gounod's "Easter Eve," with considerable effect. The programme was completed by Mendelssohn's "Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage" Overture.

At the Concert held on the 11th ult. the chief interest centred in Dvorák's Mass in D, of which a detailed account will be found in another column. The remainder of the programme was of a miscellaneous sacred character. The orchestra were heard to advantage in the Prelude to Part II. of the "Light of the World" and the Andante and Finale of Mendelssohn's "Reformation" Symphony. Mr. Andrew Black gave a vigorous and effective delivery of "Why do the nations?" and Madame Clara Samuell sang the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria" with her usual taste and accuracy. The female voices of the choir gave a highly creditable rendering of Schubert's setting of the 23rd Psalm, to which Mr. Manns has fitted an orchestral accompaniment.

Dr. Joachim's appearance in the programme of the Concert on the 18th ult. attracted an excellent audience. The great violinist was heard in Mozart's Concerto in A, a work which, if we mistake not, was unearthed by Dr. Joachim himself at Salzburg. It had not been heard in England since 1884, and though hardly representative of Mozart at his greatest is well worth the honour of an occasional performance. It is needless to say that the Concerto was splendidly played by Dr. Joachim. He also gave the Capriccio by Gade, recently introduced by him at one of the Popular Concerts—a posthumous work of the genial Scandinavian master, to which Reinecke has supplied a suitable orchestral accompaniment. The Capriccio, though not strikingly original, is a very pleasing and brilliant piece. For an encore Dr. Joachim added an unaccompanied movement from one of Bach's works for violin. By way of an orchestral novelty Mr. Manns introduced two numbers—a Prelude and a Processional March—from Moszkowski's "Boabdil," the opera produced this winter in Berlin. Herr Moszkowski is an undeniably dextrous craftsman, and handles the orchestra with confidence and tact; but the elements of spontaneity and individuality are lacking. The Symphony was Schumann's "Rhenish," splendidly played under Mr. Manns's guidance, and the orchestral portion of the programme also included the Vorspiel to "Tristan" and Mr. MacCunn's brilliant and delightful Overture "Land of the Mountain and the Flood." Miss Mary Harris, a new-comer, exhibited a pleasing soprano in "Mi tradi," from Mozart's "Don Giovanni," and Schubert's "Ave Maria." Her taste, however, is sadly in need of cultivation, for she scrupled not to introduce an irrelevant high note at the close of the last-named song.

The sixteenth Concert, held on the 25th ult., was miserably attended—the afternoon certainly was glorious enough to tempt all but confirmed melomaniacs out of doors—but proved one of the most delightful Concerts of the year. Herr Julius Klengel introduced a Violoncello Concerto of his own—hitherto unheard in England—which will still further enhance the high estimate of his musicianship entertained by connoisseurs in this country. Herr Klengel is a fine player in the classical style: he is also a superb technician; and the Concerto illustrates these two sides of his artistic nature. The themes are broad and flowing, the workmanship sound and scholarly; on the other hand, the ornamentation is so elaborate that we doubt if any other violoncellist living could do full justice to it. Herr Klengel created a furore, not only among the audience, but amongst the orchestra, by his amazing performance of this interesting and enjoyable work. But further wonders were still in store for them in the shape of Paganini's Moto Perpetuo, transcribed for violoncello by Herr Klengel and played by him with extraordinary agility and endurance. It was quite pretty to see the enthusiasm of the excellent violoncellists in the orchestra when Herr Klengel wound up with an astonishing cataract of octaves from the top to the bottom of the instrument. He also played with rare beauty of expression the famous Largo from Handel's "Serse," and gave a transcription of one of Massenet's songs. The singer was Mdlle. Landi, a stranger to the Palace, who made a complete conquest of her hearers by the end of the afternoon. She has a beautiful voice, of the operatic contralto range, and has been perfectly trained. Her enunciation is admirable and her expression instinct with intelligence and charm. But for an occasional undue use of the vibrato she really leaves a critic nothing to say. Her songs were the great aria of Fides, "Ah! mon fils" ("Le Prophète"), Gounod's "Biondina," and an arietta by Pergolesi, and she sang all three to perfection. Goldmark's "Sakuntala" Overture and an orchestral selection from the "Meistersinger" completed the programme of a most delightful Concert.

DVORÁK'S NEW MASS.

The circumstances to which this work owes its origin and present form having been indicated with all necessary fulness on page 144 of our last issue, our present and pleasant duty is confined to a consideration of the musical beauties of the score, and a record of their setting forth at the Crystal Palace Concert of the 11th ult., under the direction of Mr. Manns. Everyone acquainted—even superficially—with Dvorák's music will anticipate our statement that the Mass is marked in a high degree by melodious charm, rhythmical life, and lucidity: that it is lacking neither in appropriateness of expression nor devotional feeling will be easily believed by all who are familiar with the Bohemian composer's "Stabat Mater" or "Requiem." The new work is, however, let us hasten to say, far less pretentious than these sacred masterpieces, and far less difficult to perform. Its advantage in this last respect is so obvious that we may confidently anticipate for it more frequent hearing than is possible in the case of its elder sisters—a hope strengthened by the fact that the work may be performed by chorus without the aid of soloists. It will need, however, on the part of those who essay its interpretation, command of the whole gamut of emotional expression, without which nothing like justice can be done to its subtlest beauties. Take, for instance, the Kyrie, with its delicately confidential, trustful, and tender theme in 6-4 time; the plaintive Agnus Dei; the graphic and striking Credo, so wonderfully expressive of simple faith and its resulting serenity; or the beautiful Benedictus, in which, by the way, the organ conspicuously figures—how full are all these of risks and of opportunities for singers! At the Crystal Palace, of course, the latter were most in evidence. Neither the soloists, Mesdames Clara Samuell and Marian McKenzie, Messrs. Andrew Black and E. Houghton, nor the choir found in the music anything to unduly test their powers, while the orchestra, it need hardly be said, was more than equal to the demands made upon its resources. The important organ part was played throughout with perfect taste by Mr. A. J. Eyre, and Mr. Manns conducted the work as though he loved it.

MONDAY AND SATURDAY POPULAR CONCERTS.

Our record of these performances during the past month need not be lengthy, as the tide of novelty has slackened considerably and the programmes have consisted mainly of familiar works performed by well-known artists. There is certainly no occasion to linger over the Concert of Saturday, February 25, when Schubert's Pianoforte Quintet in A (Op. 114), sometimes known as the "Trout" Quintet, and Mendelssohn's in the same key (Op. 18), were the principal features. Miss Eibenschütz gave a careful and intelligent performance of Beethoven's Sonata in E flat (Op. 27, No. 1) and Mr. Joachim played his favourite Sarabande and Tambourin from Leclair's Violin Sonata in D. Mrs. Helen Trust introduced a curious old song called "A favourite Air," by Cocchi, from the Pastoral of "Daphne and Amaryllis," composed about 1760.

On the following Monday there was a new feature of some importance—namely, a Pianoforte Quartet in E flat, by Dvorák (Op. 87). The work is understood to be a comparatively recent composition and it is in all respects a ripe production, though it does not display the Bohemian master's genius in any new light. The first movement is noteworthy, as usual, for the reiteration of the principal figure, but relief is given by the melodious and ballad-like second subject. The slow movement, Lento, in G flat, might be described as an extended love song, being unusually sentimental for Dvorák. An Allegretto moderato which stands in place of a Scherzo is graceful and charming, and the Finale is more distinctly Slavonic than any of the preceding sections and very lively. The Quartet evidently made a very favourable impression on the audience, thanks, in part, to a splendid performance by Messrs. Leonard Borwick, Joachim, Straus, and Piatti. The young English pianist repeated the four movements of Bach's English Suite in A minor he had recently introduced. Mr. Joachim played his own Romance in B flat (Op. 2), and Beethoven's great Quartet in C sharp minor (Op. 131) completed the instrumental programme. Mr. Braxton Smith sang airs by Rubinstein and Mendelssohn and Mr. George Bennett's effective song "The Miller's Daughter," in an agreeable manner.

Bach's Concerto in D minor for two violins drew a great audience on Saturday, the 4th ult., and the favourite work was received with the customary enthusiasm—the executants, Lady Hallé and Mr. Joachim, being recalled so many times that eventually they repeated the slow movement. Beethoven's Quartet in F minor (Op. 95) and Schubert's Trio in B flat (Op. 99) were in the programme, and Miss Fanny Davies repeated the selection from Brahms's new pieces (Op. 116 and 117) she had introduced on a previous Monday. The vocalist was Mrs. Elene Eaton, who displayed a fine soprano voice and an excellent method in an air from Handel's "Semele" and Rubinstein's fine song "The Asra."

Cherubini's brilliant Quartet in E flat (No. 1) opened the Concert of Monday, the 6th ult., and the other concerted works were Beethoven's Sonata in G for pianoforte and violin (Op. 96) and the same composer's Trio in C minor (Op. 9, No. 3). Miss Fanny Davies gave a beautifully finished rendering of Schumann's Papillons, reminding the listener of her revered teacher, whom probably we shall never hear again; and Miss Evangeline Florence introduced a new and charming song, "Spring," by Mr. Henschel, which she sang with perfect taste.

On Saturday, the 11th ult., Mozart's Quintet in C and Beethoven's Trio in G (Op. 1, No. 2) were the concerted pieces in the programme, and the last-named composer's Sonata in E flat (Op. 31, No. 3) was intelligently played by Mr. Schönberger. Mr. Joachim gave Tartini's Sonata "Il Trillo del Diavolo," a performance of which is looked for annually. The vocalist was Madame Boyanoska, who made a very favourable impression in airs by Mozart and Gluck.

The Concert of Monday, the 13th ult., may be dismissed with equal brevity. A magnificent performance was given of Mendelssohn's Quintet in B flat (Op. 87), the audience endeavouring, though in vain, to secure a repetition of the slow movement. Mr. Leonard Borwick was admirable in some pieces by Chopin, including the stormy Etude in B minor, which was given for the first time. Mr. Piatti was unapproachable, as usual, in Max Bruch's "Kol Nidrei," and Madame Alice Gomez gave entire satisfaction in songs by Pergolesi, Paradies, and Goring Thomas. The performance ended with Haydn's Quartet in G (Op. 64, No. 4).

On Saturday, the 18th ult., there was a new pianist, Mr. Charles Foerster, of whose antecedents nothing was said. He selected for his introduction Schumann's popular Carnaval, but it cannot be said that the result was very satisfactory. Mr. Foerster's technique is fairly good, but his style was too affected and altogether lacking in the breadth required for the interpretation of Schumann's music. The tricks played with the tempo in some of the movements were very irritating. Mr. Joachim being engaged at the Crystal Palace, his place was taken by Miss Wietrowetz, his clever pupil, who was quite equal to her duties as leader in Beethoven's Quartet in B flat (Op. 18, No. 6) and Mendelssohn's Trio in C minor (Op. 66), and also gave a brilliant performance of Spohr's "Dramatic" Concerto, with Ferdinand David's pianoforte accompaniment. Mr. Santley sang with all his accustomed charm Mr. Piatti's tasteful song "The Lover's Appeal" and Gottfried von Jacquin's "L'Addio," which, as usual, was attributed to Mozart.

An admirable programme on the following Monday drew a very large audience. Brahms's Quintet in G (Op. 111), Bach's Violin Chaconne, Mendelssohn's Trio in D minor (Op. 49), and Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op. 57) are acknowledged masterpieces. Miss Eibenschütz essayed the Sonata, and issued from the trying ordeal fairly well, although her performance was that of a clever young aspirant rather than that of an experienced artist. Mr. Eugène Oudin sang with much effect a choice selection of French songs, including two quaint ditties by Guedron and Monsigny, and two of Gounod's charming lyrics.

THURSDAY SUBSCRIPTION CONCERTS.

For the last of their Concerts this season, held at Steinway Hall on the 16th ult., Messrs. William Nicholl, Septimus Webbe, and Hans Adolf Brousil drew extensively upon Mendelssohn, and the large attendance proved that belief in the continued attractiveness of the master was fully warranted. The two instrumentalists played with spirit the Sonata in B flat major for pianoforte and violoncello, whilst for solo Mr. Webbe selected the familiar Andante and Rondo Capriccioso. The tender beauty of the airs "The Garland" and "When thro' the Piazzetta" was brought out by Mr. Nicholl with a sentiment and earnestness corresponding with the words, and Miss Elsie MacKenzie made a good impression by neat delivery of "Das erste Veilchen" and "Auf Flugeln des Gesanges." The second part of the Concert, embracing several examples of various composers, was headed by three Canons for female voices, by Carl Reinecke (Op. 163). A dozen young ladies appeared on the platform as interpreters of "Waken not the sleeper," "Happiness ever is fugitive found," and "Prayer on the Waters." Miss Elsie MacKenzie sang morceaux by Blumenthal and Liza Lehmann, Mr. S. Webbe played Chopin's Ballade in A flat, and Mr. Brousil concluded the programme with violoncello soli by Davidoff. The most interesting feature of this section, however, was the rendering by Mr. Nicholl of three songs from the pen of Miss Mary Carmichael, who accompanied. With such grace and finish were "Love's Wishes," "O Mistress mine," and "The Milkmaid" sung, that the audience insisted upon an encore of the last-named. Next season Mr. Otto Peiniger, the violinist, will join the party, and the composers particularly represented will be Beethoven, Chopin, Dvorák, and Saint-Saëns.

LONDON CHAMBER CONCERTS.

Under this heading a new series of three Concerts was commenced at the Princes' Hall on Tuesday, the 21st ult., the director being Mr. G. A. Clinton, the eminent clarinettist. The principal object of the undertaking is to present works either for wind instruments alone or for wind in combination with strings and pianoforte. In order to ensure first-rate performances, Mr. Clinton has associated himself with a number of excellent artists, among whom on the present occasion were Messrs. E. Sauret and J. Blaha (violins), H. Krause (viola), E. Howell (violoncello), C. Winterbottom (double bass), A. Fransella (flute), W. M. Malsch (oboe), A. Borsdorf (horn), T. Clinton (trumpet), T. Wotton (bassoon), and Septimus Webbe (pianoforte). The performance commenced with a charming Quintet in E flat for pianoforte and wind by Mozart, a little-known but very melodious and pleasing work. Next came a Septet in the same key, for the curious combination of pianoforte, strings, and trumpet, by Saint-Saëns (Op. 65). This is a vigorous and effective work, written for the most part in the broadly diatonic and almost Handelian style which the French composer sometimes affects. In the second part were Lalo's delightful "Aubade," which it may be remembered was introduced last year at the Steinway Hall, and was now repeated by special desire; and Beethoven's familar, but ever-welcome, Septet. Two violin solos, composed and played by Mr. Sauret, and two songs, contributed by Miss Mary Harris, completed an excellent programme.

"THE GOLDEN WEB."

After having been produced at Liverpool, as recorded in our last issue, Goring Thomas's opera was performed for the first time in London, on the 11th ult., at the Lyric Theatre.

The standard of that which is known in this country as "comic opera" is, as a rule, so carefully kept within reach of the most ordinary statures that we are bound to rejoice when it is raised ever so little. We accordingly give thanks for "The Golden Web," which in grace, musicianship, and all that makes for refinement is head and shoulders above other works of its class. At the same time it is not an "opera," as we understand the term, but simply a concert of songs, duets, trios, &c. (of greater musical value and interest than usual), fitted to a play in such a manner that the play and the music "mutually incommode one another." We are not now pointing to an unrealised ideal as the standard by which such works should be measured; we ask only that the best examples of opera comique (Auber, Boieldieu, Halévy, Adam, Flotow, and others may be instanced) should be kept in view. Compared with these, our lamented countryman's posthumous work must surely be found wanting by all who are competent to judge. We say so with regret, but at the same time with a conviction that higher praise would not only involve injustice to other composers, but also encourage the prevalent notion that there is no essential difference between music for the theatre and music for the concert-room, or, at any rate, that the distinction is of importance only when serious work is concerned. It cannot be too often urged that whether dramatic music be heavy or light, it must at all events have character appropriate to the situations it accompanies and in harmony even with the atmosphere of the piece as a whole. Lacking this, it lacks the essential that entitles it to praise as operatic music, however much it may charm us in other respects. The music of "The Golden Web" charms so much—its orchestration alone would suffice for this—that susceptible listeners are likely to forget the rules of the game, and, in consequence, to over-rate the work qud opera. Four of the principal parts were sustained by the artists who played them in Liverpool; others were taken by Messrs. Wallace Brownlow, Richard Temple, Furneaux Cooke, and J. A. Shale, with fair success. The chief honours fell to Miss Alice Estey, who has a capital voice which she knows how to use; Madame Amadi, and Mr. Arthur Wilkinson, who, as Lord Silvertop's Valet, acted with much point. Mr. Herbert Bunning conducted with all necessary vigilance.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The Concert given on February 23 (too late to be referred to in our last number) deserves to be mentioned, if only for the sake of a highly creditable rendering of Haydn's String Quartet in B flat (Op. 55, No. 3), by Misses Marie Motto, Winifred Foster, Maud E. Aldis, and Mr. F. Williams, and more especially the excellent manner in which the first-named young lady "led." Another good performance was that of two Hungarian Dances (Brahms-Joachim), by Miss Lilian Wright. At the afternoon Concert on the 9th ult. a new String Quartet in D, by a student, Mr. H. Walford Davies, was produced. Performances of students' compositions are very rare at the College, but when a work is thus honoured it is generally safe to anticipate a display of more than average promise. Mr. Davies's Quartet is no exception to this rule, for it is in many and important respects an achievement of distinct value. Although not altogether free from reminiscences, more especially of Brahms, it shows sufficient individuality and excellence, both in its subjects and their treatment, to deserve a public hearing and to be judged by a higher standard than that generally applied to students' works. It was played by Mr. Alfred Wall, Miss Ruth Howell, Mr. Leonard Fowles, and Mr. Paul Ludwig in thoroughly satisfactory style.

On the 15th ult., at the annual examination of the Operatic Class, the pupils performed Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," with full orchestra, under Professor Stanford. Criticism, under the circumstances, is of course out of the question, but it is permissible to say that a representation of such excellence should be repeated, in public, as soon as possible.

The last Concert of the term, on the 24th ult., was, as usual, orchestral. It opened with a stirring and graphic rendering of the "Flying Dutchman" Overture, which was followed by Beethoven's third Pianoforte Concerto, the solo part being played with refinement, fluent execution, and nice touch by Miss Edith Green. Miss Ena Bedford and Mr. William Green made the most of the parts of Margaret and Golo in the Finale to Act I. from "Genoveva," The orchestra had in Berlioz's extraordinary Symphonie Fantastique a task the difficulty of which might well have appalled young players. But, like Napoleon, they seem to have no such word as "impossible" in their dictionary, for even those passages were played with ease and accuracy which Berlioz himself marks in the score as being d'une extrême difficulté. The performance was one of the best ever given at the College and a triumph for all concerned, especially so for the conductor, Professor Stanford.

The repetition at the Lyceum Theatre, on the 11th ult., of Gluck's Orfeo, by the pupils of the Royal College of Music, was quite as praiseworthy as its predecessor in December. If possible, indeed, Miss Clara Butt, in two or three particulars, improved upon her reading of the devoted hero, and both by her singing and acting—specially in the long scene in the third act terminating with the death of Eurydice—completely held the attention of a large audience, which included the Prince of Wales, the Duchess of Teck, and the Princess May. The interest evoked was unmistakable. Miss Maggie Purvis again sang the music of Eurydice sympathetically, and Miss Ethel M. Cain was a spirited Eros. The efficiency of the chorus-singing, as of the execution of the orchestral accompaniments, greatly added to the pleasure afforded by a performance honourable to all concerned.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Some very creditable work was done at the Concert in St. James's Hall on February 27, the most noteworthy feature of the programme being a series of eight Variations for quartet of pianoforte and strings by Amy Horrocks, played by Misses L. Davies and E. Reynolds and Messrs. A. and H. Walenn. These are remarkably clever and may be regarded as a distinct advance upon any of Miss Horrocks's previous efforts. The female choir was heard to much advantage in Brahms's beautiful Trios, with horn and harp accompaniments, "The Death of Trenar" and "The Gardener." A decidedly singular performance was that of Handel's "Largo" by pupils of the Ensemble Class, consisting of eighty violins, eight harps, and organ. Mention should be made of two nicely written songs, "As the flight of a river" and "When stars are in the quiet skies," by Roland Revell (student), sung by Mr. Arthur Appleby; and of a Romance and Toccata for violin by Mr. G. B. J. Aitken (student), admirably played by that very promising young performer, Miss Ethel Barns. Mr. Cuthbert Cronk was rather over-weighted in Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques, or rather in a selection from that work; but commendation may be given to Miss K. A. Field (organist), Miss Lily West (pianist), and Mr. H. Lewis Thomas and Miss Kate Lewis (vocalists), all of whom displayed promise.

Thanks are due to the Principal, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, and to Mr. G. H. Betjemann, the able director of the operatic class, for the performance of Lortzing's opera "Peter the Shipwright" ("Czar und Zimmermann") at the Lyceum Theatre, on the 25th ult. The work is still popular in Germany, but in London it has not been heard since 1871, when it was produced at the Gaiety with Mr. Santley and a generally strong cast. Lortzing was in no sense a great composer, but he had a facile pen, and, unlike many musicians of limited creative powers, he never went beyond his depth, and therefore his music is agreeable, though it may not impress the hearer with a sense of originality and power. It is a very simple story which forms the basis of his acknowledged masterpiece. Peter the Great, while working as a common shipwright in Flanders, is approached on important political matters; but the obtuse and egotistical Burgomaster of the town of Saardam mistakes another Peter, who is in love with his niece Maria, for the Czar, and facilitates the wooing which he had previously discouraged. The details are fairly comic, but the humour is rather of the heavy and Teutonic order. The music, perhaps, more nearly resembles that of Flotow's "Martha" than any other opera of the same class. In other words, it is bright, melodious, and in the concerted numbers nicely put together, with a decided feeling for dramatic appropriateness, though without any individual phraseology or expression, the Italian composers of the period (1837) being mostly drawn upon, though the influence of German masters is also perceptible at times. Half-a-century ago the quality of terseness was not so much valued as in these days, or so meagre a story would not have been spread over three long acts, the performance on this occasion lasting three hours and a half, though the waits were not inordinately long. It would be unwise to dwell in detail on the individual efforts of the young aspirants, and there is the less temptation to do so as nothing was done of a nature to deserve special praise or blame. Vocally, the most commendable were Mr. Arthur Appleby as Peter the Czar and Miss Vena Galbraith as Widow Brown, proprietress of the shipyard and landlady of a neighbouring tavern; and dramatically, the greatest promise was shown by Mr. Arthur Barlow as the densely stupid Burgomaster, Mr. Philip Brozel as the plebeian Peter, and Miss Lilian Redfern as Maria, the last-named young soprano being bright and agreeable in appearance and manner, though, unfortunately, she was not perfect in her notes. The chorus and orchestra were highly creditable, the opera was carefully staged, and a Sabot dance, executed with much grace and rhythmical precision, was encored. In short, it is only just to describe the performance as, on the whole, a decided and gratifying success.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Since the appointment of Sir Joseph Barnby as Principal of this prosperous Institution increased attention has been paid to choral music, and the newly formed choir, which made a very favourable impression at a Concert at the Guildhall in December last, was called upon to take part in a performance of the "Golden Legend" at St. James's Hall on the 22nd ult., the orchestra and the principal vocalists also consisting of pupils, with the assistance of a few professional players in the wind department of the band. Taken in its entirety the force proved itself well qualified for the duties it was called upon to undertake, and it is doubtful whether higher artistic results have ever been gained at a students' Concert; but by far the largest share of praise is due to the choir which, from first to last, showed clearly the beneficial results of Sir Joseph Barnby's training. The Evening Hymn was sung with exquisite refinement, and even after the repetition, which was imperatively demanded, there was scarcely any perceptible fall in the pitch. The tenors and basses were scarcely equal in power to the sopranos and contraltos, but considering the youthfulness of the force this was not surprising. The orchestra, on the whole, acquitted itself well, but more delicacy might have been gained in piano passages, where there was sometimes a tendency to overpower the voices. Trenchant criticism of the efforts of the young people who undertook the principal parts would, of course, be out of place. Miss Annie Swinfen sang carefully as Elsie, and Mr. Charles Saunders was good in intention as Prince Henry, but unfortunately he was suffering from a cold which deprived him of his upper notes; Mr. Edward Epstein was genuinely artistic as Lucifer, and more than confirmed the favourable impression formed of him on previous occasions; and Miss Florence Oliver sang with much taste as Ursula, winning a hearty encore in the air "Virgin, who lovest the pure and lowly." The small part of the Forester was efficiently rendered by Mr. G. Masgreave Edwards.

HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

English art was placed under a fresh obligation to Mr. Betjemann on the 20th ult., when the enterprising Society which he directs with such conspicuous ability gave the first public performance of Mr. R. H. Walthew's Cantata "The Pied Piper of Hamelin." By his clever setting of Browning's humorous poem, this young composer, a pupil still of Dr. Parry at the Royal College of Music, has marked himself as one from whom in the future much may be expected. He has humour, he has invention; he has already acquired the art of producing striking effects by simple means: and while he avails himself freely of the resources of modulation and contrapuntal device, he does so with a measure of discretion that in these days is all too rare. It is to be hoped that so large a step upwards at the outset of his career will not have the effect of inducing Mr. Walthew to "mark time." Progress, he will have to remember, is measured from the starting-point—proportionate to the height of this must be the journey's end. Mr. Walthew was exceptionally fortunate in having Mr. Ben Davies and Mr. Santley as the Piper and the Mayor. These admirable artists were concerned also, with Madame Valda and Miss Dews, in the interpretation of Sir W. Cusins's "Gideon," which formed the first part of the Concert. Part II. contained, in addition to the Cantata, a selection from "Cavalleria," a graceful Minuet and Trio by Professor Bridge, and a Liszt Rhapsody. Mr. G. H. Betjemann conducted with customary grip and élan.

MISS EIBENSCHÜTZ'S PIANOFORTE RECITAL.

The present season has not been so prolific as usual in Pianoforte Recitals, and the only performance of this nature which has at present to be chronicled is that of Miss Clara Eibenschütz, which took place at St. James's Hall on the 15th ult. The young artist, who certainly cannot complain of any lack of opportunity for the presentation of her talents to the notice of musical amateurs, arranged a somewhat modest programme, the only work of large proportions being Beethoven's Sonata in E flat (Op. 27, No. 1). This was rendered with commendable neatness and chastened expression, the reading being apparently based upon that of Madame Schumann, with whom the Sonata was a favourite. A group of Brahms's miscellaneous pieces came next, including the early Scherzo in E flat minor (Op. 4) and four of the recently published Intermezzi and Capricci (Op. 116 and 117). These were all artistically played, but Miss Eibenschütz was at her best in a group of Schumann's minor compositions, including the familiar Novellette in F, the Romanze in D minor, and the trifle "Vogel als Prophet," the last-named being especially well interpreted. Among a group of minor pieces by Chopin, Scarlatti, Ignaz Brüll, and Tschaikowsky, which brought the Recital to a conclusion, a charming little piece, entitled "Chanson Triste," by the Russian composer last-named, merits special mention. The playing of Mdlle. Eibenschütz, on the whole, afforded satisfactory evidence of the progress she is making as an artist.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

On the 14th ult. Mr. C. F. Abdy Williams read a paper on the application of Rudolph Westphal's theories of rhythm to Bach's Forty-eight Fugues. Westphal, the lecturer said, was Professor of Greek at Moscow University, and one of several who, since the beginning of the present century, had devoted much time and study to the works of Aristoxenus of Tarentum, who lived in the fourth century and was a pupil of Aristotle. Westphal's claim on the attention of musicians consisted in his discovery that not only did Bach's fugues supply examples of almost every kind of rhythm described by Aristoxenus, but that all modern composers of note obeyed the laws of rhythm set forth by this ancient writer. Bach, indeed, would seem to have unconsciously revived all the rhythms of the Greeks. From this it might be averred that though the laws of harmony were variable, those of rhythm were immutable. With the Greeks the rhythm of poetry and music was identical, but under Roman rule strict rhythm in poetry was neglected, and since the third century poetry had depended on accent for its rhythm. The basis of Greek rhythm was a "foot," which consisted of a certain number of "times," corresponding to our "three-four" and other time measures. The Trochaic foot corresponded to a crotchet followed by a quaver; the Dactylic, to a crotchet followed by two quavers; the Pæonic, to a crotchet followed by a quaver and another crotchet; and the Ionic, to six quavers, grouped in four and two. Other groupings of the "times" in the respective feet were also used. A certain number of consecutive feet was called a "kolon"; two or more "kola" formed a "period"; and a "strophe" consisted of several "periods." Good phrasing was the proper marking of these divisions, and the chief importance of the Aristoxenian theory consisted in its giving a scientific basis for phrasing. Another important point was the "cæsura"—i.e., a cutting off, effected on the keyboard by a momentary raising of the hand or finger. The "cæsura" mostly occurred at the end of a kolon, to show the commencement of the next. The unaccented note or group of notes at the beginning of a kolon was called an "anacrusis." The "anacrusis" would in most cases be found to occur in rhythms of a passionate or elevated character. Both the kolon and cæsura were independent of the bar line, although the bar line in Bach's music would frequently be found to enforce them. Bach, in fact, used the bar line more scientifically than his predecessors; he also employed more variety of kola than feet, in this latter particular approaching nearer to the Greek ideal of beauty than any other composer. The lecturer played numerous examples illustrative of the phrasing resulting from the application of Westphal's theories to Bach's "Wohltemperirte Klavier," and concluded by expressing his conviction that a study of these laws would prove beneficial to all musicians.

The Lecture was followed by an interesting discussion, during which Mr. Prout, who occupied the chair, said that he most cordially agreed that the unit of rhythm was the "foot" and not the bar, and Mr. Banister took exception to some of the phrasing which resulted from the application of Westphal's rules.

MR. SANTLEY'S NEW MASS.

The production of an important musical work by Mr. Santley is an event to which the personality of the composer lends a special interest, and it served to attract a large audience to Kensington Town Hall on the 13th ult., when his new Mass in A flat, for chorus, soli, and orchestra, was performed at Mr. Edward Plater's Sacred Concert. The Mass is not yet published, so that a detailed criticism of the score is impossible; but the impression given on a first hearing is distinctly favourable. Mr. Santley has wisely not attempted any profound or original treatment of his subject, and, like his previous contributions to Church music, the new work is simple in construction, tuneful, and, as might be expected, eminently "singable." The style appears to have been influenced by the class of music now generally prevalent in Catholic choirs in this country, and which, though differing widely from the liturgical ideal, appeals more readily to the popular ear.

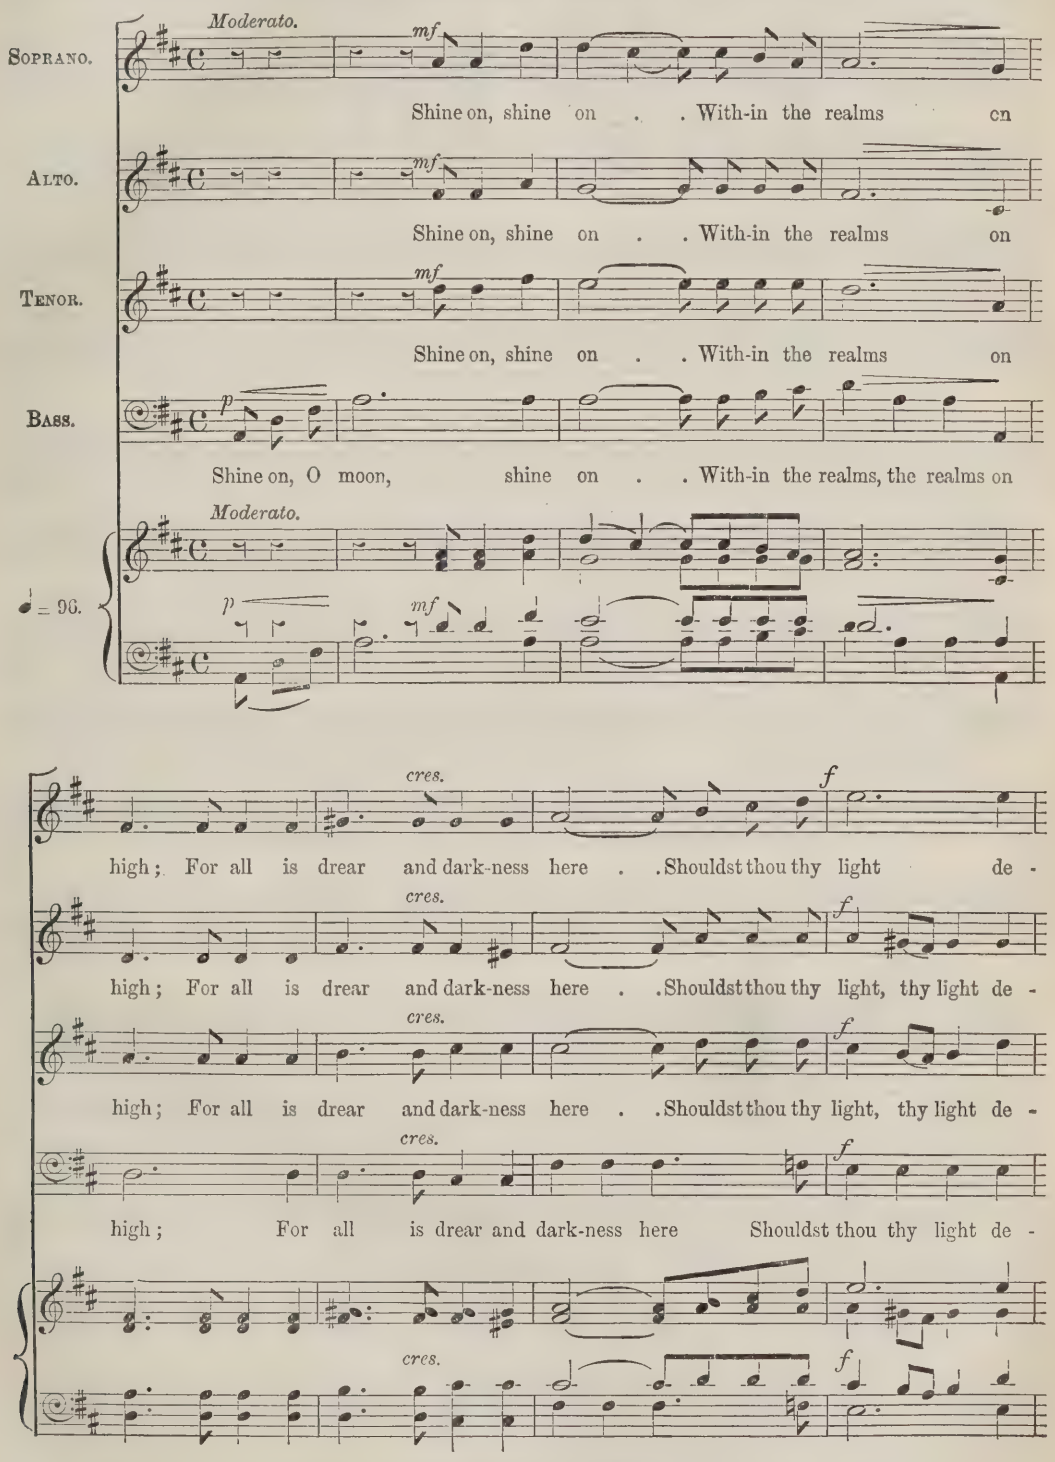
The Kyrie opens with a simple devotional theme given out by the different voices in "imitation" and developed with much ability—being treated in a subdued manner throughout, this movement is very effective. The Gloria is in the conventional form, opening fortissimo, followed by a melodious quartet at the "Gratias agimus," and closing with a repetition of the first subject. The Credo is, perhaps, the least satisfactory movement. With the exception of the "Et Incarnatus"—a contralto solo with quaint bassoon obbligato—it is entirely in unison, but there is a swing about the melody which is not quite church-like and hardly suitable to a portion of the liturgy demanding, in especial, a broad and dignified treatment. The Sanctus, a short choral movement, is strongly reminiscent of Gounod; and the Benedictus, a charming trio for solo

Shine on, O Moon!

A FOUR-PART SONG.

Words by EDWARD OXENFORD. Composed by MICHAEL WATSON

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.



Soprano.
Moderato.
mf
Shine on, shine on . . With-in the realms on Alto.
mf
Shine on, shine on . . With-in the realms on Tenor.
mf
Shine on, shine on . . With-in the realms on Bass.
p
Shine on, O moon, shine on . . With-in the realms, the realms on Moderato.
♩ = 96.
p mf
cres.
f high; For all is drear and dark-ness here . . Shouldst thou thy light de - cres.
f high; For all is drear and dark-ness here . . Shouldst thou thy light, thy light de - cres.
f high; For all is drear and dark-ness here . . Shouldst thou thy light, thy light de - cres.
f high; For all is drear and dark-ness here Shouldst thou thy light de -
cres.
f

Copyright, 1893, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

pp
- ny! Thy cres - set fair bid cast its rays Up - on.. the.. land and
- ny! Thy cres - set.. fair bid cast its rays Up - on.. the.. land and
- ny! Thy cres - - set bid cast its rays Up - on the
- ny! Thy cres - set.. fair bid cast its rays Up - on.. the.. land and cres.
rall. e dim.
p sea, For, when the day has passed a-way, Our trust we place in thee! O moon, shine sea, For, when the day has passed a-way, Our trust we place in thee! Shine land and sea, For, when the day has passed a-way, Our trust we place in thee! Shine sea, For, when the day . . has passed a-way, Our trust we place in thee! Shine
rall.
Allegretto.
on, O moon, shine on, . . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er on, O moon, shine on, . . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er on, O moon, shine on, When day's fair glo - ry, fair glo - ry dies, and take com-mand o'er on, O moon, shine on, . . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er Allegretto. ♩. = 80.

cres.
sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, . . . When sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, . . . When sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, When day's fair sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, . . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the glo-ry, fair glo - ry dies! And take command o'er sea, o'er sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the day's fair glo - ry dies! And take command o'er sea, o'er sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the f
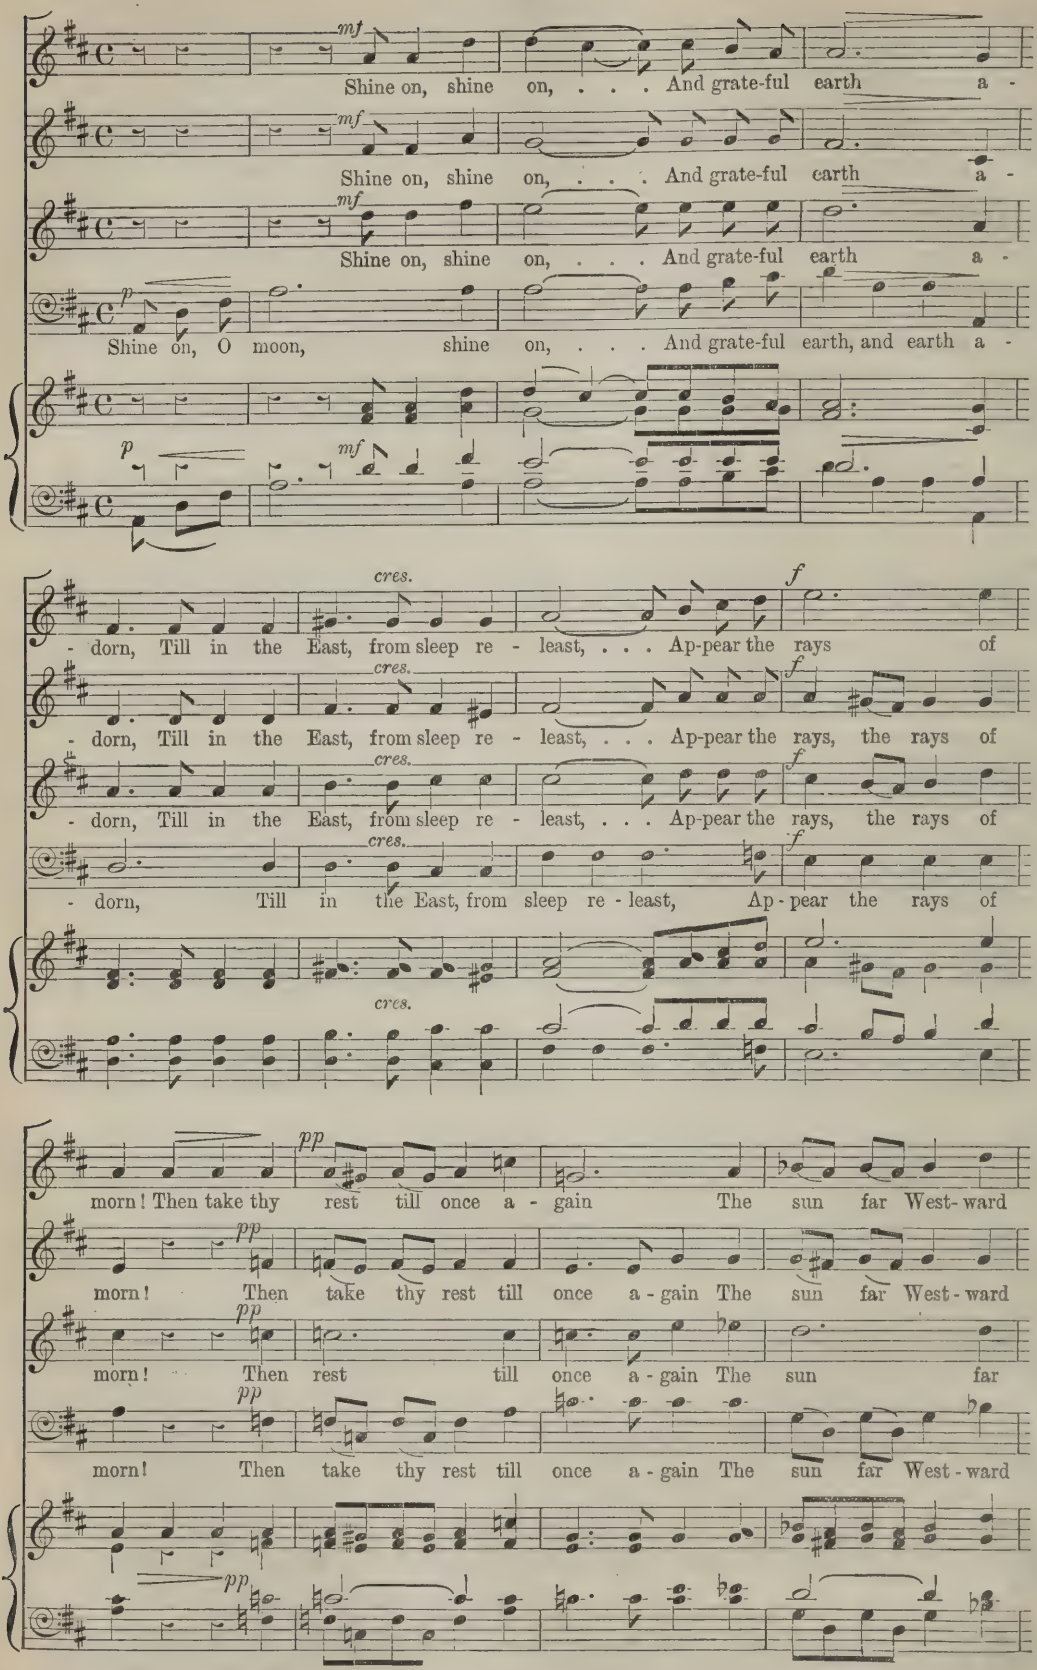
ff
skies, thou mis - tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of the skies! . .
skies, thou mis - tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of the skies! . .
skies, thou mis - tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of the skies! . .
skies, thou mis - tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of the skies! . .



mf
Shine on, shine on, . . . And grate-ful earth a -
mf
Shine on, shine on, . . . And grate-ful earth a -
mf
Shine on, shine on, . . . And grate-ful earth a -
p
Shine on, O moon, shine on, . . . And grate-ful earth, and earth a - p mf
cres.
f
- dorn, Till in the East, from sleep re - least, . . . Ap-pear the rays of cres.
f
- dorn, Till in the East, from sleep re - least, . . . Ap-pear the rays, the rays of cres.
f
- dorn, Till in the East, from sleep re - least, . . . Ap-pear the rays, the rays of cres.
f
- dorn, Till in the East, from sleep re - least, Ap - pear the rays of cres.
pp morn! Then take thy rest till once a - gain The sun far West - ward
pp morn! Then take thy rest till once a - gain The sun far West - ward
pp morn! Then rest till once a - gain The sun far
pp morn! Then take thy rest till once a - gain The sun far West - ward pp

cres.
rall. e dim.
p dies, And all im- plore thy light once more, Thou mis -tress of the skies! O moon, shine dies, And all im - plore thy light once more, Thou mis -tress of the skies! Shine Westward dies, And all im-plore thy light once more, Thou mis -tress of the skies! Shine dies, And all im - plore . . thy light once more, Thou mis -tress of the skies! Shine
rall.
Allegretto.
on, O moon, shine on, . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er on, O moon, shine on, . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er on, O moon, shine on, When day's fair glory, fair glo - ry dies! And take com-mand o'er on, O moon, shine on, . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er Allegretto. ♩. = 80.
sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, . . When sea, and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, . . When sea, and land, Thou mis- tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, When day's, when sea and land, Thou mis - tress of the skies! . . O moon, shine on, shine on, . . When day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er sea and land, Thou mis-tress of the day's fair glo - ry dies! . . And take command o'er sea and land, Thou mis-tress of the day's fair glo - ry dies! And take, and take command o'er sea and land, Thou mis-tress of the day's fair glo - ry dies! And take, and take command o'er sea and land, Thou mis-tress of the f ff

rall.
skies, thou mis - tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of . . the skies! . .
f ff
rall.
skies, thou mis-tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of the skies! . .
f ff
rall.
skies, thou mis - tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of . . the skies! . .
f ff
rall.
skies, thou mis-tress of the skies, . . thou mis - tress of the skies! . .
ff
rall.

voices with violoncello obbligato. The Agnus Dei is pleasing, but contains no features of special interest.

A small, but complete, choir and orchestra, led by Mr. J. T. Carrodus and comprising many of our best professors, gave an excellent performance of the Mass under Mr. Santley's direction, and at the conclusion he was recalled and warmly applauded by the audience. It may be mentioned that the solo parts had full justice done them by Miss Ethel Winn, Miss Florence Hoskins, Messrs. Harper Kearton and F. H. Horscroft.

"KUNIHILD" AT WÜRZBURG.

(From our special Correspondent.)

One may search through Grove's Dictionary of Music for the name of Cyrill Kistler, the composer of "Kunihild," and search in vain; while in the Cyclopædia of Champlin and Apthorp (American) one will find him dismissed in half-a-dozen lines. It will therefore surprise your readers if I suggest that Kistler is the coming composer in the newer German style of tragic music drama; but after hearing three performances of "Kunihild" at Würzburg, I cannot honestly arrive at any other conclusion—a conclusion, moreover, endorsed by the opinions of some of the most eminent Professors of the Conservatorium in that University town, among whom I may instance Dr. Hermann Ritter, the inventor of the viola alta. How is it, then, that such a work, after three performances at Sondershausen in 1884, should have been passed by in silence by the larger German theatres, and left to the enterprise of a city numbering under 60,000 inhabitants to bring into wider notice? This is one of those questions which can only be answered by the general remark, that Germany is no exception to the rule that a work of solid worth must lie buried many years before it ripens into fame; personal reasons there may well have also been, for I have been shown certain "open letters" of Kistler's to declining managers which were, to say the least, undiplomatic. For such communications, however justified, a man has mostly to pay the penalty of long delay, engendered by too much haste. Nevertheless, this period of penance seems now to be over, and bygones are to be bygones; this I gather from the contents of a telegram received by Kistler between the acts of what must virtually be called the production of "Kunihild" on February 24—the Sondershausen performances of 1884 having been far more of the nature of a private celebration of a resident composer. The telegram in question was sent by Hofkapellmeister Levi; besides hearty congratulations on the event of the evening, it contained the announcement that the composer's second work, called "Eulenspiegel" (a musical comedy in two acts, but now to be condensed into one), would be produced at Munich for the first time in the coming autumn. So that one may now take it that the cloud at last is lifted, and Kistler's works will spread as they deserve throughout the whole of Germany

To hasten to an estimate of "Kunihild": in the first place, Kistler has been fortunate enough to lay hands on a text-book of high dramatic effectiveness and, indeed, of great poetic beauty. The story is simplicity itself in its broader outlines, and is founded on a mediæval legend current in the Riesengebirge. It is not, however, a mere fairy-tale, for the supernatural element is kept well behind the scenes (in the shape of an invisible chorus of spirits); the interest is strictly human, making many a powerful appeal to emotions with which we all can sympathise. Here lay a grand opportunity for the musician, and he has seized it with a grasp that lifts him with one wrench into the front rank of dramatic composers. One has only to hear the brief overture, containing barely eight-and-forty bars, to become aware that one will not have to do with milk and water in this work. This overture is built on two contrasted themes of two bars each—themes connected later with the "legend of Kynast"—with the introduction of two subsidiary phrases, one of which, consisting of only two notes three times reiterated, forms the symbol of "redemption" from the tragic curse that rests upon the castle and its mistress, Kunihild. The solemnity and impressive force of this overture, or rather prelude, admirably foreshadow the general mood of the succeeding drama. But it is not in a dismal, or merely a gloomy vein, that the work is conceived, any more than is Beethoven's "Fidelio." The tragic element is bound to predominate in a tragedy, yet not to the exclusion of lyric outbursts such as we here find in the exquisite love-strains of the second act, or even of light-minded gaiety such as figures in some of the choral music in the first and third. I may add that these choruses are the only instances of Kistler's adherence to the older forms, unless one may take Kunihild's (soprano) legend in the first act, and Jutha's (mezzo-soprano) soliloquy in the second as somewhat akin to the aria-scheme. The major part of the opera consists of dramatic declamation; but in this Herr Kistler has displayed so large a fund of inventiveness, and moreover of knowledge of what is singable, that it would be difficult to find a more tuneful example of "continuous melody." For form, in its larger sense, he has gone to the system of Leitmotiven, of which he furnishes some score or so; these he introduces with the skill of a past master in the art, though it is but rarely that we find him sounding two at once. Lucidity and boldness seem to have been his guiding principles, not only in their invention, but in their use; yet the tender element is given full play in the beautiful scenes between the lovers and in those for Kunihild and her companion, Jutha. As for the harmonisation, it has a distinctive stamp of its own; it does not go out of its way in search of strange chromatic progressions, but when these occur they fascinate one by their vividness and apparent necessity. To the orchestra a very large share of the musical interest is naturally allotted by the Leitmotiven plan, and in this department Kistler shows a fertility of resource that is only accountable for by the fact that he has never lost an opportunity of seating himself by the side of each instrument in turn, in rehearsals of no matter what orchestral work, and thus acquiring a practical acquaintance with what each organ of sound can best bring forth. The result of this study—too often neglected—is obvious in his descriptive music of, for instance, the two "rides," in the first and third acts.

To turn for a moment to the executants: Fräulein Kreuziger as Kunihild, Frau Ritter-Häcker as Jutha, and Herr Julius Malten as Kunibert could scarcely be bettered—at any rate, for a stage of the Würzburg dimensions—and the same may be said of the Kapellmeister, Herr Max Wolfheim. The only drawback was the insufficiency of strings and the crass indifference of the routine German chorus. The latter defect will no doubt be set right as time goes on; for, though the operatic season ends here with Easter, three gala performances of this work are announced for July, as a bonne-bouche for certain learned societies, and will be followed by about a dozen in August, for the special entertainment of the travelling world. The mere announcement is a sufficient index of the success this work has reaped in Würzburg; but it would be wrong to omit to mention the brilliant "ovation" with which the composer was greeted during and at the end of the performances just over, especially the first and third. The house was "sold out" on each night, and I hear that the same thing occurred on the fourth evening, Saturday, the 11th ult. Further, at one or two Concerts given at Würzburg, under Conductor Heinrich Witt, the Prelude to Act 3 of "Kunihild" (obtainable as a pianoforte solo) was played to a miscellaneous audience with a success so great that the band indulged in the proverbial "Tusch" reserved for great occasions. In conclusion, I must add that Kistler has written a third music-drama, entitled "Baldur's Tod," and that a fourth is already on the stocks. Besides these, he has composed a quantity of music for four voices and for choirs, his German National Hymn being now sung all over the Fatherland. Of chamber music he has not been guilty, for his muse appears to need something concrete to arouse it; it is no exception to this statement, if I adduce his really masterly "Trauerklänge," inspired by the death of Franz Xaver Witt, the reformer of Catholic church-music, and written as a pianoforte solo. Of Kistler's talents perhaps this work will give as good a notion as any other.

W. A.-E.

OBITUARY.

Frau Hermine Spiess, the eminent German contralto singer, well-known and appreciated also in this country, died at Wiesbaden, on February 26 last. She was a pupil of Professor Sieber and of Julius Stockhausen, and excelled in the interpretation of Lieder and in oratorio; her grand and excellently trained voice and refined style never failing to produce a profoundly artistic impression upon her hearers. Since her marriage, some few years ago, to Herr Hartmuth, Frau Spiess had retired from her public career.

M. Henry Warnots, the excellent professor of singing at the Brussels Conservatoire, died on February 27 last, in the Belgian capital, aged sixty-four. He was, in his earlier days, a popular operatic tenor both at the Paris Opéra Comique and the National Flemish Theatre, and was the successful composer of several cantatas and of a number of songs.

We record with much regret the death, on the 2nd ult., of Mr. George Thomas Rose, for many years, and until 1889, a partner in the firm of John Broadwood and Sons. Death happened suddenly through failure of the heart's action. It was only on the previous Saturday he was a guest at the dinner of the Royal Society of Musicians, apparently in the full enjoyment of health. He had just completed his seventieth year. Mr. Rose was always appreciated as a kind and courteous friend by the musical profession, and was widely esteemed. He found a pleasure in continuing those excellent traditions for which the house of Broadwood is noteworthy. He died at his house in Rosary Gardens, South Kensington.

Mr. Sidney Naylor died at his residence at Shepherd's Bush on the 4th ult., after ten days' illness from rheumatic fever and other complications, aged fifty-one. As an accompanist the deceased artist had few equals, as was fully recognised by Mr. Sims Reeves, with whom he was associated on all his tours from 1870 upwards. As a composer Mr. Naylor has produced, besides numerous pianoforte arrangements, some sacred music, including an excellent Te Deum. He was married to Miss Blanche Cole, a popular soprano in her day, who preceded him in death some years ago.

Mr. R. S. Hughes, at one time a pupil of the Royal Academy of Music, and one of the best known composers of songs in Wales, died suddenly at his residence, at Bethesda, on the 5th ult.

The death is also announced, on the 7th ult., at Milan, of Angelo Zanardini, the eminent musical critic and librettist, aged seventy-three. He was the author of the libretto of Ponchielli's "The Prodigal Son," and has done some excellent work as the translator into Italian of the books of Wagner's operas and those of some of the French operatic masters. He also did much to introduce the songs of Schumann, Schubert, Mendelssohn, and others to his countrymen by his able Italian versions of the poetry. Signor Zanardini was for many years a leading contributor to the Gazetta Musicale of Milan.

Miss Helen d'Alton, the well-known contralto singer, died at Horsleydown on the 15th ult.

Mr. Ernest Lake, Organist of All Saints' Church, died suddenly on the 22nd ult., at the early age of thirty-eight. He was at first Organist of St. John's, Edinburgh, then of the Parish Church, Weybridge, and was appointed to the post at All Saints' on the resignation of Mr. E. H. Birch, in 1885. Mr. Lake was known as a song-writer, one of his most successful attempts in that branch of musical literature being the one entitled "My Love and Delight." His father was the late George Lake, composer of an Oratorio "Daniel," produced some thirty years ago at St. James's Hall.

With much regret we announce the death, on Friday, the 24th ult., of Mr. Thomas Wingham, the well-known organist and composer and musical director at the Oratory, Brompton. He was born in London, January 5, 1846, and at the early age of ten became Organist of St. Michael's Mission Church, Southwark. Mr. Wingham studied under Sterndale Bennett and Harold Thomas at the Royal Academy of Music, at which Institution he afterwards became professor of the pianoforte. He occupied a similar post at the Guildhall School of Music. Mr. Wingham wrote four Symphonies, six Overtures, an orchestral Serenade, a Grand Mass in D, and other works. Almost his last wish was that the performance of a Mass specially composed by Professor Stanford for the Oratory, for which he had arranged, should take place, and this wish will be religiously carried out.

Mr. James Kendrick Pyne, for many years Organist of Bath Abbey, departed this life last month at the ripe age of eighty-two. Mr. Pyne was one of the earliest of the students at the Royal Academy of Music under Dr. Crotch. He gained his first post as Organist of St. Mary's, Pentonville, as far back as 1829.

The death is announced, last month, at Madrid, of Don Francisco de Valdemora, one of the most distinguished of modern Spanish musicians. He was born about the year 1815 at the Island of Majorca, and studied at Palma and afterwards at Paris, where he was a pupil of Elwart and Collet. In 1841 he was appointed singing master to Isabella II. and her sister, and subsequently became director of the opera in Madrid, and also took a professorship at the Royal Conservatorio in that capital, where for nearly half a century he occupied the leading position in matters musical. His numerous compositions, including cantatas, four-part songs, and dances, bear a distinctly national character, but are little known outside the Peninsula.

The following deaths, not yet recorded by us, have occurred during the past three months abroad, viz.:—

On January 24, at Hamburg, Rudolf Freny, excellent bass singer at the Stadt-Theatre, aged sixty-seven.

On January 25, at Vienna, Julius Price, distinguished mimic artist and singer at the Imperial Opera, a Russian by birth, aged sixty.

On February 7, at Paris, Ernest l'Epine, author and composer of some successful operettas, romances, &c.

On February 12, at Lemberg, Wilhelm Czerwinski, pianist and composer.

On February 23, at Berlin, J. Hermann, well-known impresario and arranger of the concert tours of many eminent prime donne.

On February 28, at Naples, Pasquale Savoja, highly esteemed basso-buffo of the Naples Opera, until quite recently in active engagement, aged eighty.

On the 3rd ult., at Milan, Disma Fumagalli, one of the most distinguished professors of the pianoforte at the Conservatorio of that town, aged seventy.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Concert of the Musical Association at Colston Hall, on the 4th ult., differed from many that have preceded it; as, instead of being wholly miscellaneous, the first division comprised parts I. and II. of Haydn's "Creation." The soloists were Miss Monk, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. Dan Price. Mr. George Gordon, as usual, conducted.

Dr. Borsdorf has given Lectures on Goethe's "Faust" at the Memorial Hall, Clifton; and Mr. Liebich played on the pianoforte selections by Berlioz, Gounod, and Boïto, as illustrations to the Lectures.

A well attended Concert was given at the large Vestry Hall, Pennywell Road, by some vocalists who have studied under Mr. D. W. Rootham, Choirmaster to the Festival Society. Two of them, Mr. C. Lodge and Mr. W. E. Young, were chosen to take part in a performance of Cowen's "St. John's Eve" at Newport, Mon.

The Ladies' Night of the Society of Bristol Gleemen, on the 8th ult., was successful musically, and also as regards the attendance. Pieces which had not before been given by the choir and were heard now, were Mendelssohn's Cantata "To the Sons of Art," an arrangement of "The Banks of Allan Water," W. Noel Johnson's "Where shall the lover rest," and Engelsberg's "Students' March."

Gaul's Passion Music was given on the 9th ult. at St. Mary Redcliff Church, with an orchestra. We learn with regret that this may be the last service of the kind that will be held in this church. It was here that the musical services which have been so generally adopted in other sacred buildings in Bristol were initiated by the Vicar and Mr. J. W. Lawson, the Organist; but the lack of support and other discouragements have caused the performances to be discontinued.

On the 16th ult. Mr. Carl Armbruster concluded his Lectures on Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde" at Clifton. In the course of five Lectures he went through the whole of the opera and analysed different passages, Miss Pauline Cramer assisting to illustrate the work.

On the 10th ult., under Mr. Fred. Watts as Conductor, a new sacred Cantata, "Song of the Passion," by W. S. Vinning, was sung at St. Thomas's Church, with orchestral accompaniment; Mr. Areskog being leader of the band.

At the second Orchestral Subscription Concert at Colston Hall, on the 13th ult., Dr. Hubert Parry was present and conducted the Orchestral Suite, arranged from his "Hypatia" music, which was given for the first time at the Philharmonic Concert on the previous Thursday. The work was enthusiastically received, the March in particular winning favour. Other compositions given, which had not previously been heard in Bristol, were the second Symphony by Brahms, and a Pianoforte Concerto by Miss Dora Bright, who was at the solo instrument. The vocalist was Miss Brema.

Dr. Hubert Parry remained in Bristol over the following day, and directed a preliminary rehearsal of his "L'Allegro" by the Choral Society, who intend giving it with Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Golden Legend" at a Concert this month. Dr. Parry expressed his gratification at the result of the practice, and he has promised to conduct the performance of his work.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Choral Union continues to make satisfactory progress towards a much higher platform than it has hitherto been able to attain. Steadiness, fulness of tone, certainty of attack, and an excellent balance of parts were evidenced at the Spring Concert on the 6th ult., when "Judas Maccabæus" was performed. Madame Duma, Misses Edmonds and Marion Brown, Mr. Henry Piercy and Mr. Montague Worlock were the soloists. The hall was very crowded. It is a pity that the orchestra was so unworthy of the chorus; in the solos it was scratchy and rough, and in the choruses it was nearly inaudible; and the fact that Edinburgh can offer no better organ for a public performance than that in the Music Hall is little short of a disgrace.

Messrs. Wood's Concert scheme included the most important orchestral engagement of the year, when, on the 10th ult., Sir Charles Hallé's famous band again provided us with a standard by which to judge and an ideal after which to strive.

On the 20th ult. Mr. Lingard's Ladies' Choir gave the second Concert of the third season in the Literary Institute. The principal work was Vincent Wallace's Cantata "The Maypole," and the second part consisted of miscellaneous choruses, part-songs, and solos (Dr. Lloyd's "Every heart," Macfarren's "St. Dunstan's Bells," &c.).

Messrs. Paterson are early in the field with a scheme of Orchestral Concerts next year. They offer ten Concerts by the new Scottish Orchestra under Weingartner. The subscriptions are already being well taken up.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Guarantors of the Glasgow Choral Union scheme are not in the least dismayed at the deficit on the past season. On the contrary, these doughty champions of the faith within them recently marshalled their forces in pretty large numbers, and resolved to carry on the campaign so soon as the necessary sinews of war were forthcoming. The minimum amount was, indeed, subscribed in a few days and with remarkable facility. Arrangements are, then, being actively made in connection with next winter's operations. Mr. August Manns has again signified his acceptance of the post of orchestral Conductor, and the band, as on former occasions, will number about ninety performers. Another scheme is also in the field, that of the Scottish Orchestra Company, an organisation which intends giving a series of Concerts from October to April next throughout Scotland, and with its headquarters on the banks of the Clyde. Negotiations have been in progress with a view to securing Mr. Felix Weingartner, of the Imperial Opera, Berlin, as the Conductor of the new scheme, and applications for places in the orchestra are already invited. It will thus be gathered that next musical season promises to be somewhat lively. Competition will, moreover, be further intensified by the operations of several touring parties, and by the position now secured in Glasgow by the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company.

The month of March is pre-eminently associated with Concerts under the auspices of the smaller choral societies. These get their chance after the big events are over for the season, and very often some remarkably meritorious work is accomplished. This was noticeably the case with the Kyrle Choir in their selections submitted in the Berkeley Hall on the 6th ult.; with the efforts of the Glasgow Unitarian Musical Association, whose programme on the 7th ult. included a good performance of Cowen's popular Cantata "St. John's Eve"; and with the Park Parish Church Choir, which successfully produced, on the same evening, Barnby's "Rebekah." An excellent programme, which included Roeckel's melodious Cantata "Westward Ho!" served to show the progress undoubtedly made by the students of the Athenæum School of Music at their annual Concert on the 9th ult. They tackled, moreover, on the 21st ult., and four following evenings, Ignaz Brüll's Opera "The Golden Cross," for which great preparations had been made to secure adequate representations of this singularly attractive work. Mr. Allan Macbeth, the Principal of the School, conducted, and he had every reason to be gratified with the success of his labours. During the same active week the Philomel Club gave three interesting performances of Sullivan's "Princess Ida," and Dr. Joachim and party brought the Choral Union season to a close with a fine programme of chamber music.

Kinning Park Free Church Musical Association was to the fore on the 14th ult. with a wonderfully good performance of the "Creation," and on the following evening the Woodside Church Musical Association essayed, with marked success, Coward's Cantata "The Story of Bethany." To Bennett's "May Queen" the Glasgow Eastern Choral Society did ample justice on the 16th ult., and the same evening a performance of Haydn's work just named was given by the Maryhill Musical Association. Chamber music during last month was also fittingly represented through the medium of the Glasgow Quartet, more particularly on the 14th ult., when Madame Haas made her welcome re-appearance. Warm testimony to the good work accomplished by Mr. W. H. Cole and his excellent band at the Fine Art Institute ought to be made. Some recent programmes have, indeed, been uncommonly good, notably those which included Dr. A. C. Mackenzie's "Benedictus" (for violins and orchestra), the same composer's ever-popular Scottish Rhapsody (Op. 21), and Mr. German's stirring Dances from the Music to "Henry VIII."

The Paisley Choral Union announced a performance of "The Golden Legend" for the 27th ult., notice of which must, of course, be reserved. It may, however, be here recorded that much interest centred in the production of Sullivan's fine work.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The final Concert of the Philharmonic Society, on the 21st ult., served to introduce to a Liverpool audience Gounod's "Mors et Vita." The work, which was given in its Anglicised form, has been so often mentioned in these columns that nothing need now be said of its many merits and beauties. The principals on this occasion were Miss Macintyre, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Albert Cornish, and Mr. Watkin Mills. Extra rehearsals had been attended and no pains spared in preparation of the Oratorio. As a result the performance proved to be of the highest order, and upon the closing effort of a season not otherwise extremely noteworthy all concerned are to be congratulated. Sir Charles Hallé, as usual, conducted.

Among the events of the past month of principal interest the following performances may be chronicled: Gaul's Passion Music, given with good effect at the Pro-Cathedral, as the Lenten Oratorio, on the 9th and 16th ult., under Mr. F. H. Burstall, with Mr. C. Collins at the organ. Haydn's "Creation," on the 14th ult., by the Wallasey Musical Society, with orchestra and chorus of 150, under

Mr. W. I. Argent. The same Oratorio on the same date, by the Rock Ferry Amateur Choral Society, under Mr. W. R. Pemberton, attracted deserved attention, a novel feature being the engagement of a small orchestra of strings, in conjunction with the long-established chorus of the organisation. At St. George's Hall, on the 11th ult., the Southport and Birkdale Philharmonic Society, with an orchestra and chorus of about 350, gave Mendelssohn's "Elijah," the occasion being one of Father Nugent's People's Concerts, given on Saturday evenings in Liverpool for many years past, free of charge. Another performance worthy of record would be that of Handel's "Messiah" at St. George's Hall on Good Friday. The now time-honoured custom of thus catering for the poor of the city cannot but be highly commended. On the occasion in question Mr. Branscombe and Mr. Thorley were announced respectively as Conductor and Organist. The Post Office Choral Society gave a selection of Mendelssohn's "Open Air" Music, under the conductorship of Mr. Argent and Mr. Ross, on the 28th ult. The choir of the Liverpool Institute of Music, under Mr. S. Hardcastle, gave Cowen's "St. John's Eve" on the 23rd ult. The Gordon Choral Society, under Mr. R. V. McCulloch, gave Romberg's "Lay of the Bell" on the 22nd ult. Mr. Clarke's Choral Society, at Southport, gave Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" on the 23rd ult.

Other recent performances by choral societies possessing less numerical strength may be recorded as follows: The Mount Pleasant, now in its forty-seventh year of existence, Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus," under Mr. W. Lee. St. Michael, Barnett's "Ancient Mariner," under Mr. T. C. Jones. The Runcorn Musical, Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," under Mr. Crossley; and it is pleasant to note that this excellent Society is still keeping up its old standard, the orchestra and chorus numbering about 100. The Bunbury and the Gresford (Cheshire) Societies, Van Bree's "St. Cecilia's Day" and Bennett's "May Queen," under Mr. Robinson and Mr. Morton Bailey respectively. The Chatham Choral Society, under Mr. Humphrey Lloyd, have been rehearsing miscellaneous work, notably Dr. J. Parry's "The Lord is my Shepherd."

The close of the series of the Schiever Chamber Concerts was signalised by the production, on the 4th ult., of Brahms's Quintet for clarinet and strings. These Concerts are happily growing more and more popular season by season, and must ere long emerge from the comparatively small gallery of the Art Club, where they have till now been held. Beethoven's "Pastoral" Symphony brought the Concerts of the Liverpool Sunday Society to a close on the 5th ult., there being the usual crowded audience in St. George's Hall. Last to be named, but by no means the least enjoyable feature of the month, has been a capital Smoking Concert, with Schumann's C Symphony as the leading feature, at the City Hall, given by Mr. A. E. Rodewald's truly fine amateur orchestra, conducted on this occasion by Mr. H. S. Welsing.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

During the closing performances of Sir Charles Hallé's subscription season (the thirty-fifth) we had a rendering of "Elijah," chiefly remarkable for the excellence of the choir; and we also enjoyed the two visits of Herr Joachim (as we still call him here, in spite of his Cambridge diploma), which have, for so many years, brightened the cold spring months; and, according to the plan of the later seasons, Lady Hallé joined him at the final gathering in order to give us, before our long silence, some idea of what duet playing may become when two such violinists meet. Perhaps we have had enough, for a time, of Bach's D minor Concerto; but the Spohr "Duet Concertante" (Op. 48) is less known, and will, we hope, be supplied to us again. Whether Mendelssohn's "Italian" Symphony or the No. 8 of Beethoven was the more exquisitely played, or the more thoroughly enjoyed, it would be difficult to judge. But the evidence was abundant that the orchestra still maintains its admirable qualities: the wind is—as it has for years been—as nearly perfect as we may hope ever to hear it; and, although the strings would bear some strengthening, their attack, under Mr. Willy Hess, is very spirited and prompt. Among the lighter pieces, Bizet's Suite "L'Arlesienne" was full of charming fancies vividly portrayed; but we are getting rather tired of "Peer Gynt," who seems reluctant to depart.

But this time Sir Charles is leaving us some slight consolation for the termination of his subscription series, having become the president of an Orchestral Association, including the greater part of his band, which announces Popular Concerts to be given—should public encouragement be vouchsafed—until such time as most of its members must disperse to their summer duties. The first was given in St. James's Hall on the 15th ult., to a numerous and most enthusiastic audience, and the feeling was general that the movement is highly praiseworthy and deserving of liberal support. Signor Risegari proved an extremely sympathetic Conductor; and it is announced that on Good Friday evening Sir Charles will himself direct a performance of "The Messiah."

The undertakings during March of the Gentlemen's Concerts Society included a very interesting Pianoforte Recital by the Conductor, and an admirable Lecture on "English National Melodies," by Miss Wakefield, who, with wonderful endurance and undiminished freshness of voice, for nearly two hours secured the close attention of a large audience while she told her tale respecting our boundless treasure of folk-song, and illustrated her remarks by well chosen selections of varied style. Miss Wakefield is well known as an advocate of the early musical claims of the "Four Nations," and of the necessity to rebuild our art-school upon the old and natural lines.

Justice demands that mention should be made of the introduction of Costa's "Eli" into this city by the Athenæum Musical Society, with small band and choir, under Dr. Watson. It is something to get away from the regular routine of oratorio selection, and any exertion in this direction deserves approval: and, on the fourth meeting of the Vocal Society, Dr. Watson's "Hymn of Adoration" and other novelties were produced and admirably sung.

Mr. Frederick Dawson, who has been greatly in request of late, undertook, on the 25th ult., a very arduous Recital in the vast St. James's Hall. A programme embracing the Sonata "Appassionata," the "Papillons," and the "Rhapsodie Hongroise" (No. 12) would suffice to test the powers of any pianist; but the seven selections from Chopin proved the poetic sensibility of the player as well as his executive ability, which has never been questioned.

MUSIC IN NOTTINGHAM.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Philharmonic Choir Concert of February 23 should be noticed for the complete artistic success of the rendering of Spohr's "Last Judgment" and Stanford's "Revenge," under Mr. Marshall-Ward's direction. The orchestral accompaniments were well played by a complete band led by Mr. F. Ward, of Birmingham, which did full justice alike to the picturesque scoring of the "Revenge" and Spohr's lovely orchestration in the "Last Judgment." The principals were Miss Maggie Davies, Miss Sarah Berry, Messrs. Maldwyn Humphries and David Hughes.

The Sacred Harmonic Society finished its season on the 16th ult. with "Elijah." The chorus left nothing to be desired, and at times, notably in the "earthquake" chorus, touched the highest point of excellence in tone, finish, articulation, and complete control. The band, too, was excellent. The principals were Madame Anna Williams, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. Watkin Mills, assisted by Miss Honeybone, Mrs. Richards, and Mr. Sudworth, who gave valuable help.

The Saturday Organ Recitals by Mr. E. H. Lemare at the Mechanics' Institution closed for the season on the 11th ult., the interest and attendance being steadily maintained up to the last.

MUSIC IN OXFORD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

"A busy term"—this is the record of things musical since the beginning of the year. Indeed, our local societies started, before term began, with a visit of the Oxford Gleemen to Reading, where they united with the Reading

Orpheus in a performance of Dr. F. J. Read's "Sigurd." Such combinations as these might with advantage be more numerous than they are. Later on, this same Society gave an excellent Invitation Concert in the Town Hall, on February 14.

Perseverance has been rewarded in the Public Classical Concerts—in other words, they have paid their way. This result was mainly due to the Concert of February 14, when a good programme, a fine performer, and a wet afternoon combined to collect a numerous audience. Artistically, also, this Concert was a success, which is more than can be said for its successor on the 2nd ult., when the orchestra played with a deplorable lack of delicacy and refinement. All the same, it is difficult to see how such miscarriages can be guarded against when only one very hasty rehearsal is possible.

The Choral and Philharmonic Society gave a Madrigal Concert, under Dr. Roberts's bâton, on the 9th ult. The chorus sang well, though we have heard them better, and the Hon. Mrs. Lyttelton, who was the soprano soloist, delighted everybody; but the Concert was far too long. Mr. Lomas, of Magdalen College Choir, filled the place of bass soloist, at very short notice, in a most creditable manner.

A novelty of the term was the use of the New Theatre for a Concert of Chamber Music on February 23. It was a bold experiment but proved entirely successful, and it is to be hoped that the University Musical Union, who ventured on the risk, will be encouraged to adhere to the theatre as a concert-room. It was quite a new sensation in Oxford to listen to good music in a comfortable chair. For the rest, we had some new incidental music by Mr. F. C. Woods to the "Two Gentlemen of Verona," and have heard Sir Charles and Lady Hallé, Mr. Edward Lloyd, and Señor Sarasate, not to mention many smaller stars. As has been said already—"a busy term."

MUSIC IN WILTS AND HANTS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

During March Concerts have, as a matter of course, been few and far between, and in Salisbury not a single musical performance calling for notice here has taken place. Active preparations are, however, being made for the future. The Sarum Choral Society, under the conductorship of Mr. C. F. South, the Cathedral Organist, has selected Macfarren's "King David" for the Easter Concert; and as the works of the older masters have hitherto almost monopolised the attention of the Society, the performance of this modern composition is being looked forward to with more than usual interest. Mr. Moberly's Festival Concert, announced to take place here in June, will undoubtedly be an event of considerable importance. The Corn Exchange, the largest available building in the city, will be specially equipped for the occasion, a capacious platform being erected for the accommodation of the chorus and orchestra, which will number about 500. The band will include several well-known amateurs, but the "wind" department will be supplied entirely by professionals of the first rank.

The usual Lenten performance of "The Crucifixion" took place in the beautiful Parish Church of Wilton, on Wednesday, the 15th ult. Mr. H. J. Naish, Organist of the Church, accompanied the work, and the solos were sung by the Rev. S. Buchanan and members of the choir.

At the Minster, Warminster, Sir John Stainer's "Meditation" was also sung at a Special Service on the 3rd ult., under the direction of Mr. J. F. Glass, the soloists being the Rev. H. W. Carpenter and the Rev. J. P. May.

The people of Trowbridge have to thank Mr. Millington for affording them an opportunity of hearing M. de Pachmann, who gave a Pianoforte Recital in the Town Hall on the 8th ult. to a fashionable audience. The distinguished pianist was enthusiastically received, and his playing evidently highly appreciated.

Preparations are being made at Bournemouth for the grand performances of "Judas Maccabæus," announced to be given this month in the Shaftesbury Hall, under the direction of Dr. W. Lemare. The professional vocalists engaged are Miss Annie Shinner, Miss Reeks, Miss Clara Spencer, Mr. Alfred Kenningham, and Mr. Fred. Bevan. Signor Bertoncini will lead the band, which, together with the chorus, will number about 200.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Leeds has, during the past month, been exceptionally busy with musical matters. In the last week of February no fewer than five Concerts took place, the first being a Recital of pianoforte music, from Beethoven to Liszt, which was given by Mr. Christensen, a local pianist and composer, on the 20th. Two days later the Leeds String Quartet gave their second Concert. The last of this series took place on the 8th ult. On February 27 a Chamber Concert was given by a quartet of native artists, with Mr. John Dunn as leader, and Messrs. Harmer, Sewell, and Whitehouse as his associates. The first of the Rasoumowsky Quartets and Dvorák's original and powerful Pianoforte Quintet in A, in which they had the assistance of Miss Eisele, were performed with admirable spirit, and Mr. Dunn gave a remarkably fine and sympathetic rendering of Dr. Mackenzie's "Pibroch," the fantastic beauty of which is exactly suited to his style. On the 6th ult. the Leeds Symphony Society, under Mr. Gutfeld's conductorship, gave a creditable performance of Mozart's E flat Symphony, with overtures and miscellaneous pieces by Gade, Weber, Bach, and Svendsen; and on the 14th ult. Mr. Haddock brought his series of Musical Evenings to a close, the appearance of the Huddersfield Glee and Madrigal Society giving an air of novelty to the programme, which suffered greatly from the non-appearance of the pianist, Madame de Pachmann. The final Concert of the Subscription series, which took place on the next evening, proved to be distinctly the chief event of the musical season. The performance of the Rasoumowsky Quartet in F, by Messrs. Joachim, Rawdon Briggs, Gibson, and Piatti, was not far removed from perfection, while no less sympathy with the composer and excellence of ensemble was noticeable in the Schumann Pianoforte Quintet. In the latter work the pianist was Miss Fanny Davies, who joined Dr. Joachim in Brahms's Sonata in A (Op. 100), the finished rendering of which provoked a display of enthusiasm not often witnessed in Leeds in connection with music of this type. On the 17th ult. choral music was in the ascendant, Mr. Hamish MacCunn's "Bonny Kilmeny" being given by the Leeds Scottish Vocal Society, under Mr. J. W. Haywood's conductorship; and Spohr's "Calvary" forming the chief feature of a special Service at the Leeds Parish Church. The excellent singing of Mr. Browning, the principal bass of the parish choir, and the skilful performance of the accompaniments by Mr. Benton, the Organist of the Parish Church, deserve especial mention.

At Huddersfield the Subscription Concerts have been of more than usual interest. On February 21 Sir Charles Hallé's band was heard in Mozart's G minor Symphony, and Mr. Willy Hess gave a broad and artistic rendering of Beethoven's Violin Concerto; on the 7th ult. the programme included Brahms's Clarinet Quintet, played with much refinement by Messrs. Clinton, Wessely, Collins, Krause, and Squire; together with Spohr's fine Nonet, Lalo's fanciful "Aubade," and a couple of movements from a Sextet by Thuille. On the 3rd ult. the Huddersfield Choral Society, which boasts of the most powerful chorus in the West Riding, revived Handel's "Joshua," the music of which is well suited to their powers. The principals were Miss Anna Williams, Miss Dews, Messrs. Iver McKay and Watkin Mills. Mr. John Bowling, the Society's Conductor, directed the Concert.

The Halifax Choral Society gave, on the 9th ult., a Concert, of which Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Golden Legend" formed the chief feature. Unfortunately Mr. Garland, the able Conductor of the Society, was prevented by illness from superintending either practices or performance, but an efficient substitute was found in Mr. T. Smith, who conducted a generally creditable performance. Saving that the tenor was at times slightly overweighted, the principals—Miss Henson, Miss Dews, Messrs. Piercy and Black—were highly satisfactory, while the band was of more than ordinary excellence.

The Whitby Choral Society completed its fourteenth season on the 2nd ult., when Gounod's "Messe Solennelle" was finely rendered by the well-balanced choir and by the excellent soloists, Miss Emily Davies, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail. Mr. Hoggett and Mrs. Alder were the accompanists, and Mr. Hallgate the Conductor.

The St. Cecilia Musical Society gave an admirable performance of "St. Paul" in the Albert Hall, Sheffield, on the 18th ult. A capable quartet of soloists, consisting of Madame S. Conway, Miss Clara Meek, and Messrs. B. Sedgwick and Dan Billington were heard to much advantage, but the chief credit of the performance rested with the chorus. The tone and attack were excellent, and the shading was duly observed. Mr. W. J. Phillips at the organ and Mr. Acomb as leader did excellent service. Mr. William Brown conducted.

The Mansfield Harmonic Society performed "Acis and Galatea" on the 21st ult., in the Town Hall. The chorus singing reflected high credit on Mr. J. Adcock, who conducted. The principals were Miss Norledge, Miss Maggie Large, Mr. H. Stubbs, and Mr. Lightowler.

The Masbro Choral Society, an organisation which numbers 150, gave its first Concert on February 28, in the Mechanics' Hall, Rotherham. T. M. Pattison's Cantata "The Ship of Life" was the work given, and its performance was in every respect satisfactory. Part-songs and miscellaneous pieces concluded the programme. Mr. S. Hadfield conducted.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

New York, March 15.

On February 23, the second service of the Church Choral Society, under Mr. R. H. Warren, was notable both on account of the work and the manner of its performance. The "Stabat Mater" of Dvorák was given with the assistance of Madame Clementina de Vere-Sapio, Miss Emily Winant, Mr. J. H. Ricketson, Mr. Franz Remmentz, and a competent orchestra, reinforced by Mr. H. W. Parker, who presided at the organ with customary skill. This pre-eminently beautiful and scholarly work of the distinguished master has never received more adequate and loving interpretation; small wonder that many of those who then heard it were so eager for a renewal of the pleasure that they flocked to our neighbouring city (Brooklyn), where, on the evening of February 28, the noble work was given by the Brooklyn Choral Society, under the direction of Mr. C. Mortimer Wiske, and with Miss Emma Juch, Miss Helen O'Donnell, Mr. J. H. Ricketson and Mr. Carl Dufft as soloists.

On Thursday, February 23, at Calvary Church, Mr. C. Lee Williams's Cantata "Gethsemane" was given, under the direction of Mr. Clement R. Gale. The forces employed were the usual members of the choir, but the performance would have done credit to any body of singers. This was the first performance of Mr. Williams's work in America, and its beauty was at once made evident. Great interest is shown just now in Stainer's "Crucifixion," no less than four performances being announced for early dates by as many leading choirs in this city.

Among suburban societies it is a pleasure to record the marked success of the Mount Vernon Choral Society at Port Chester, under Mr. Hallam, who, with the assistance of Miss Edmunds, Mr. George W. Campbell, and Dr. Carl Martin, gave Haydn's "Creation" in a way that elicited warm praise from a large audience and the local press.

The influence of Wagner is felt in such far-away centres as Nashville (Tenn.), whence come accounts of a fine Memorial Concert given by the Choral Society, under Miss Hollinshed, assisted by Professor Fischer. The programme consisted entirely of excerpts from the great music-dramas, and served admirably to charm the audience.

On February 21, at Carnegie Music Hall, the second Concert of the Banks Glee Club was given, under Mr. R. H. Humphries. A very interesting programme, including Cooke's "Strike the Lyre," was excellently performed, and the soloists of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manners, added greatly to their already well-earned popularity. These two artists are now, in conjunction with Messrs. Wolff and Holman, accomplishing a provincial tournée in Canada, whence come pleasing reports of their success.

Accurate information leads to the conclusion that Dr. Dvorák's Mass in D (recently published) has already excited great interest among choirmasters, and several are contending as to which shall be first in the field. To his fame it may add little, but it will do much to strengthen the admiration already felt for the great composer who is now with us.

Mr. Walter Damrosch has brought his Sunday night Concerts to a degree of excellence and an elaboration of detail which makes them a valuable educational as well as artistic feature in the musical life of the Metropolis. Two of his notable successes in the matter of soloists have been Mr. Henri Marteau, violinist, and Mr. R. Plunket Greene, whose admirable singing of Dr. C. V. Stanford's Irish Ballads has caught the popular fancy in a marked degree.

The London Sunday School Choir, founded in 1871, assembled at the Royal Albert Hall on February 25 for its annual Concert. According to custom, sacred compositions were sung in the first part, among those given on this occasion being Sir John Goss's Christmas Anthem "Behold I bring you good tidings," Sir John Stainer's "Leave us not, neither forsake us," the chorus from "St. Paul," "How lovely are the messengers," and the Rev. E. V. Hall's Anthem "Praise, O praise our God and King." Each of these, like the majority of the secular pieces in the second part, received smooth and sympathetic interpretation under the bâton of Mr. Luther Hinton. Madame Antoinette Sterling and Mr. James Horncastle gave some songs, and Mr. David Davies was at the organ. The fête at the Crystal Palace of this choir will, as usual, take place in June, when two new pieces expressly composed by Sir Joseph Barnby and Mr. A. R. Gaul will be included in the programme.

The North-West London Philharmonic Society, conducted by Mr. Bernhard M. Carrodus, took possession of St. Martin's Town Hall, on the 3rd ult., for the first Concert of the second season. The instrumental force was fairly balanced, and the good quality of the strings was manifested in a "Berceuse" for that department alone composed by A. Simon. In Sterndale Bennett's "Wood Nymphs" Overture, in the accompaniment to the first movement of Beethoven's Violin Concerto (solo part finely played by Mr. J. T. Carrodus), and in excerpts from Schubert, Haydn, and others, abundant evidence was afforded of careful rehearsal. Miss Kate Cove (who deserved the encore obtained in Walter Macfarren's "Awake, O heart," accompanied by the composer), Miss Helen Pettican, and Mr. Arthur Thompson were the vocalists; and facility of execution was exhibited by Mr. J. F. Carrodus in a violoncello solo by Popper.

At the temporary Church of St. Gabriel's, Willesden Green, which has already acquired a reputation for its musical services, a very excellent rendering of the first part of Gounod's "Redemption," on the 26th ult., brought to a fitting termination a series of special Lenten Sunday Evening Services. The authorities of the church were fortunate in obtaining the services of Madame Florence Winn, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Frederic King, and these excellent artists, with Miss Wilkinson and Mr. Henry Baker (the Choirmaster of the Church), combined to give a most satisfactory rendering of the solo parts. The choral portions of the selection were sung with precision by the choir of the church, considerably augmented. Mr. Clement Locknane and Miss Fisher played the accompaniments on the Liszt organ and a pianoforte. The Lenten Services, which have included selections from "The Messiah," "Last Judgment," "Crucifixion," &c., reflect great credit on the energy and enterprise of the Choirmaster.

Miss Amy Louise Reeves, a promising young pianist, pupil of Mr. Francesco Berger at the Guildhall School of Music, where she has gained high distinction, gave a Recital, on the 4th ult., at Steinway Hall, before a crowded audience. In the opening number—Beethoven's Sonata in F minor (Op. 57)—the lady proved herself an earnest and thoughtful student of the great master.

Her solo pieces also included numbers by Liszt and Chopin, Raff's difficult "Giga con variazione" (from Suite, Op. 91), and a charming Gavotte and Musette by Mr. Berger, in all of which she proved herself possessed of an excellent technique and refined taste. The lady was also associated with Messrs. L. Duloup and E. de Munck in a capital performance of Mendelssohn's breezy and joyous Pianoforte Trio in D minor. Madame Giulia Valda and Mr. Iver McKay contributed vocal numbers, Mr. F. Berger being the accompanist.

A very fine Sacred Concert was given by the St. George's Glee Union on Friday, the 3rd ult., at Pimlico Rooms. The first part consisted of performances of Cowen's part-song "Light in darkness" and Dr. Bridge's Anthem "It is a good thing" by the choir, and solos tastefully sung by Mr. R. F. Roberts, Miss Annie Wilson, Mr. Albon Nash, and Madame Jessie Griffin, who also took part in Spohr's Cantata "God, Thou art great." The second part was taken up by Sir W. S. Bennett's sacred Cantata "The Woman of Samaria," in which the same artists appeared and Mr. Fred. Bevan sang the music allotted to the bass. The earnestness which the choir brought to bear on this trying work is worthy of special notice, and much credit is due to Mr. J. Monday (Conductor) for the preparation of the Concert. Mr. F. R. Kinkee accompanied with his usual ability.

The programme of Mr. Dolmetsch's third Concert, at Barnard's Inn, included instrumental pieces by Martin Pierson (c. 1613), William Byrde, "Coperario," Mace, Locke, Christopher Simpson, Rameau, and Bach, the last-named being represented by his Sonata in G for flute and viola d'amore, with accompaniment for harpsichord and viola da gamba. Mr. Vivian was the flautist, and the viols, lute, and harpsichord were respectively handled by Mr., Mrs., and Miss Helène Dolmetsch, Misses Milne and Ethel Davis, and Messrs. J. A. Milne and W. A. Boxall. Mr. W. H. Cummings sang, with much charm and evident appreciation of their tender quaintness, songs by Purcell, Lawes, and Thomas Campion. Most instructive descriptions of the lute, spinet, and harpsichord were given by Mr. Dolmetsch during the evening.

A Conversazione was held on the 16th ult., by the students of the National Art Training School, in the South Kensington Museum. A very large number of students and their friends were present, and the two Concerts given in the large Lecture Theatre were attended by crowded audiences. The artists included Miss Maggie Purvis, Miss Maude Macfarlane, Miss Clara Butt, Mr. Henry Piercy, Miss Daisy Irvine, and Miss Nettie Atkinson (violin), Mr. J. Mills (saxophone), Mr. John Le Hay (ventriloquist), and Mr. Charles Fry who gave several recitations. The Art Students' Glee Society sang several part-songs, under the direction of Mr. J. Hirst. Concerts were also given during the evening by the London Military Band, conducted by Mr. Warwick Williams.

Miss Lottie Williams gave a Concert on the 16th ult. at the Hampstead Vestry Hall, assisted by Miss Lilian Redfern, Miss L. Johnstone, Messrs. Reynolds, Wood, and R. Newman (vocalists), Mr. Alfred Slocombe (violin), and Mr. B. P. Parker (violoncello). In her rendering of a Polonaise by Liszt and of the Andante con variazioni (Op. 82) by Mendelssohn (both encored), Miss Williams again exhibited to the best advantage the excellent artistic qualities noticed by us on a previous occasion. Mr. Slocombe contributed a Ballade and Polonaise by Vieuxtemps, and Mr. Parker gave violoncello pieces by Thomé and Goltermann. Mr. James Shaw, whose pupil Miss Williams is, acted as Conductor.

The fifth of the current series of Clapham Philharmonic Concerts was given on the 9th ult., at the Assembly Rooms, Gauden Road. The first part consisted of Dvorák's "Stabat Mater," the principals being Miss Whitmell, Miss Etheridge, Mr. Lawrence Fryer, and Mr. Wingrove Ives; and the accompanists Messrs. Sidney Hann and J. P. Attwater. The choruses were sung with a precision and delicacy which reflected great credit on the Conductor, Mr. Walter Mackway. The second part opened with the "Gloria" from Dr. Mackenzie's "Dream of Jubal," followed by a selection from Macfarren's "St. John the Baptist," closing with the fine fugal chorus "My soul, praise the Lord."

The third and last Chamber Concert of the season of the North-East London Institute took place on Saturday evening, the 25th ult. The programme was an excellent one, including Mozart's lovely Clarinet Quintet in A, Schumann's interesting Quartet for strings in A (Op. 41, No. 3), and Mr. Prout's pleasing Pianoforte Quartet in F (Op. 18). It is interesting to find that this high-class undertaking has been well supported, and that the directors, Messrs. Ebenezer Prout and W. G. McNaught, intend to continue the Chamber Concerts next season, when their efforts will, no doubt, be well rewarded. London is ever extending, and its centre is scarcely aware of all the good things taking place in its suburbs.

Miss Cowen's dramatic and musical Matinée at Steinway Hall, on the 23rd ult., was an effective combination of the two elements. Besides delivering with judgment several recitations, Miss Cowen appeared in a Comedietta by Mr. Malcolm Bell, entitled "The Substitute." Miss Elsie Holme, a young vocalist of some promise, sang in an agreeable style Righini's "Venni Amore" and Stanford's "The little red Lark." Mr. Eugène Oudin gave with such refinement Cowen's "More than all to me" that the numerous assemblage asked for a repetition of a portion; and Mr. Norman Salmond did justice to Frances Allitsen's setting of "Come not when I am dead" and "Thy voice is heard thro' rolling drums."

Miss Helen Hulme gave a Concert at Steinway Hall on February 25, which passed off as satisfactorily as could be wished, a well-selected list of pieces gaining the full approval of a large audience. Miss Hulme displayed a pleasing voice together with considerable command of expression in Vaccaj's "Ah! se tu dormi," Bache's "Farewell" (encored), M. P. King's "Eve's Lamentation," and in a duet from "Martha" with Mdlle. Otta Brony. The last-named distinguished herself in the brilliant soprano air from "Guillaume Tell," and Mrs. Maude Panton, Mr. Reginald Groome, and Mr. Wilfrid Cunliffe also sang. Instrumental pieces were played by Miss Edith Drake, Mr. Harry Lee, and Mr. Jules Hollander.

An interesting and fashionably attended Concert was given on the evening of the 7th ult. at Steinway Hall, by two well-known artists, Signora Borghi and Mr. Sidney H. Brooks, assisted by Mrs. Clare Wright, Miss Anna Roeckner, Mr. Langdale Monton, and Mr. Paul Berton. The lady Concert-giver was heard to good advantage in several vocal numbers, and her associate, Mr. Brooks, met with much well-deserved applause in his rendering of Grieg's Sonata (Op. 36), Schumann's Suite (Op. 102), and other pieces for the violoncello. Signor Carlo Ducci and Mr. Spencer Lorraine officiated as Conductors, the latter being a most efficient accompanist. The hall was well filled with a highly appreciative audience.

The Westminster Orchestral Society's second Concert, on the 15th ult., may be dismissed with little more than formal record, as the programme was made up of familiar material. Highly creditable performances were secured of Mendelssohn's "Italian" Symphony and Mozart's Overture to "Zauberflöte," the remaining orchestral pieces being the Danse des Sylphes from Berlioz's "Faust" and the Triumphal March from Mr. Prout's Cantata "Alfred." Max Bruch's Violin Romanza in A minor and major was excellently played by Mr. Frye Parker, and vocal music was supplied by Mr. Herbert Thorndike and the Queen Vocal Quartet.

Mr. E. Minshall last month transferred the Thursday evening Concerts he has for many years successfully held at the City Temple to Exeter Hall. There was a good attendance on the 9th ult., when the vocalists were Miss Emily Davies and Mr. Alexander Tucker, both of whom were warmly complimented for their rendering of several songs. Mr. J. D. Macey skilfully played Smart's Festal March in D on the organ, Miss Bessie Poole as violin soloist gave the Rondo from De Beriot's seventh Concerto and Sainton's "Scotch Fantasie," Mr. J. Evans was heard in a cornet solo, and an orchestra, numbering about forty, supplied selections.

A clever and musician-like setting of the 84th Psalm by Mr. Henry J. B. Dart was performed for the first time on the 19th ult., in St. John's, Waterloo Road, of which church the composer is Organist. The work, which took a little over half-an-hour in performance, was well rendered by the choir, the soprano and bass solos being effectively sung by Miss Gertrude Izard and Mr. Frederick Winton. The Psalm was followed by an excellent interpretation of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," in which the soloists were the above-named lady, Master Willoughby, and Mr. Gilbert Denis.

Miss Alice Suter, a talented young soprano, gave an Evening Concert on the 23rd ult., at the Athenæum, Camden Road, in the presence of an audience as sympathetic as it was numerous. In songs by Birch and Ph. Ottway, and an air by Meyerbeer, the Concert-giver proved herself the possessor of a charming and fairly well trained voice, and the applause which followed each of her appearances was well merited. Miss Suter was supported by her mother, Madame Clara Suter, and several other vocalists, as well as by a very able violinist, Miss Clara Fisher.

On the 16th ult. Madame de Broc gave a Concert-Lecture at Erard's Rooms, in which she dealt with the systems in use for reading and retaining music. In a forthcoming lecture the lady proposes to describe her own system, which, she stated, is based on three principles. Madame de Broc, who is one of the many pupils of Liszt, was heard in some pianoforte solos, and, with Mr. E. Pitts, in a duet. She was assisted by several other meritorious artists, and found no difficulty in pleasing and interesting her audience, which was large and enthusiastic.

Special Lenten Services have been held at St. Peter's, Eaton Square. On the 2nd and 9th ult. the first and second parts of Gounod's "Redemption" have been sung with the accompaniment of trumpets, harp, and organ; and on the 16th and 23rd ult. a shortened version of Bach's St. Matthew Passion with the accompaniment of organ and pianoforte. Mr. W. de Manby Sergison presided at the organ on each occasion, and the excellent rendering of these Services is the result of his zealous and intelligent training and direction.

Oratorio performances have been given every Wednesday in Lent at St. Mark's, Notting Hill. On the 1st and 15th ult. Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" and "Christus" were given, and on the 8th and 22nd Gounod's "Mors et Vita" (Selections). Mr. Hamilton Robinson, Organist of St. Stephen's, South Kensington, was at the organ, Mr. G. T. Miles played the important harp part, and Mr. Warren Tear, Organist and Choirmaster of St. Mark's, conducted. The solos were sung by members of the voluntary choir of the church.

The Lenten Oratorio at Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, this year was Handel's "Messiah," which was sung on the 22nd ult. The soloists were Master Sydney Lovett (soprano), Madame Alice Sampson (contralto), Messrs. Charles Strong and J. W. Turner (tenors), and Henry Pope (bass). The choruses were very well sustained by the Oratorio choir of the church, numbering 120 voices. Mr. Henry W. Richards, the Organist, accompanied, and Mr. James Bates, the Choirmaster, conducted.

Notice of a Dramatic Recital would not, in the ordinary course of things, come within the scope of this journal; but Mr. Charles Fry's Recital of "Hamlet," at the Birkbeck Institution, on the 22nd ult., deserves record here, on account of the performance, conducted by the composer, of Mr. Berthold Tours's graceful and musicianly incidental music to that play. For the rest, Mr. Fry's Recitals of Shakespearian plays are so well known that comment is unnecessary.

A Concert was given, on the 14th ult., at the Athenæum, Camden Road, in aid of the St. George's Boys' Brigade, and, judging from the crowded attendance, with very satisfactory financial results. The artists who appeared included Miss Alice Gomez, Misses Agnes and Violet Molyneux, and Mr. Charles Fry, who recited the "Dream of Eugene Aram," with Dr. Mackenzie's music. Mr. Metcalfe was the accompanist

The second Smoking Concert of the Somerset House Orchestral Society was given at Anderton's Hotel on the 2nd ult. The orchestral music was interpreted in a highly commendable manner. Special praise should be accorded to Mr. James Connah for work as honorary Conductor to the Society, not a little of the present success being due to his exertions.

At Collyer Hall, Peckham, on the 20th ult., Mr. J. D. Talbot gave a short, but interesting, Lecture on Mendelssohn. The vocal illustrations were given by Miss Helen Rose, Miss Annie Williams, Mr. Roddis, and Mr. J. Ortner; the instrumental by Mr. and Miss Fuller (violins), Mr. T. H. Bertenshaw (viola), Miss Lilian Watson (violoncello), and Mr. G. Middleton Rowe (pianoforte).

Three performances of Stainer's "Crucifixion" have been given during Lent, at St. Michael's, Star Street, Paddington, under the direction of Mr. Edmund Rogers, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church. The solos were excellently sung by Messrs. Pollard, McBeath, Russell, and Kebble, while the rendering of the choruses by the choir left nothing to be desired.

On the 13th ult. Mrs. Marion Mason and Mr. John Josey gave an evening Concert at the Athenæum, Goldhawk Road. The principal artists were Madame Edith Gordon-Bartlett, Mr. John Josey, and Mr. Herbert Emlyn. Mrs. Mason played pianoforte solos with much ability. Mr. Louis Schnieder conducted.

H.R.H. the Duchess of Fife, Vice-President of the Popular Musical Union, has forwarded a donation of £5 to the Secretary of the Society, 33, Brewer Street. The Society will give a performance of Haydn's "Creation" on the 29th inst., in the Queen's Hall of the People's Palace, and one of Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" on Saturday, June 3.

A new Cantata, "The Light of the World," set to music by Mr. John Guest to a libretto by Mr. Ogilvie Mitchell, was performed on the 23rd ult. at Edith Road Chapel, Nunhead. The work was well received, and was done full justice to by both the choir and soloists, under the bâton of Mr. W. Dixon.

On May 27, at the Royal Institution, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie will commence a course of three Lectures on Verdi's "Falstaff." By the permission of the composer and publisher of the work, musical illustrations will be included.

A very successful Concert of a popular character was given on the 1st ult., at the People's Palace, by Mr. Sinclair Dunn, assisted by the Misses Emma and Susetta Fenn, Miss J. Radford, and the Balfe Quartet.

Miss Bell Macdonald gave a Concert at Brondesbury Hall on the 23rd ult. The Concert-giver was assisted by some of her pupils, and several of her own compositions were sung. Recitations were given by Mr. Charles Fry.

Mr. Alfred Physick gave an Organ Recital at St. Paul's Church, Clapham, on the 11th ult.

REVIEWS.

Irish Songs and Ballads. The words by Alfred Perceval Graves; the music arranged by C. Villiers Stanford. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

This is not the first time that Messrs. Graves and Stanford have collaborated in a work of this sort, the admirable collection of "Songs of Old Ireland," published some years back by Messrs. Boosey, supplying an enduring evidence of their fitness to undertake the task of reconstructing the folk-song of their native land. For let it be noted at the outset that the tunes in each of the thirty songs of the present, as in each of the fifty of the former volume, are all genuine old Irish airs, drawn from the collections of Petrie, Bunting, Hoffmann, and other musical antiquaries. Dr. Stanford has furnished these with new and suitable accompaniments, and Mr. Graves has, in nearly every case, written original words to fit the character of the melody. In many cases a clue is given by the name of the tune—e.g., "The ploughman's whistle," "Consider well, all ye pretty young maids," "The Irish lad's a jolly boy"—of which the author of the words has availed himself with considerable ingenuity. Thus the air traditionally known as "Better let them alone" is wedded to a description of the appalling fate of the Kilkenny cats. Excellent, however, as are the essentially lively tunes in this collection, the plaintive, the martial, and the tender melodies are even more characteristic of the Muse of Erin. As an instance of the latter we may single out the exquisitely beautiful air "O'Connor's Lament." Another most fascinating air is that with the romantic title of "Red Regan and the Nun," the admirable words to which are from the pen of Mr. J. K. Casey. Here the return to the opening phrase on the flat seventh has a perfectly irresistible effect. Another charmingly tender air is the flowing § tune, "My wife is sick." Of the essentially martial numbers, perhaps the finest is "The March of the Maguire," while of the barbaric laments it is hard to choose between the superb "Chieftain of Tyrconnell," with its impressive repetition of the tonic at the close; the lament, "Dark, dark drives the tempest," and the wonderfully wild Arranmore air, "Loved Bride of O'Byrne," which Dr. Stanford has set to a brilliant accompaniment of inverted arpeggios, following the usage of old Irish harp-playing. Another of his happiest efforts in arrangement is the weird "Song of the Ghost"—an Irish version of "The Spectre's Bride." But Dr. Stanford's work has been throughout performed with the utmost skill, scholarship, and sympathy. As a shrewd critic has recently remarked, even in setting the most elementary Volkslieder there is a right and a wrong way. "The few chords which they require may contain the affirmation or denial of some harmonic truth, and occasionally their value may be enhanced by a skilful setting which loses no whit of their purity and lustre." This comment, which was illustrated by a reference to Dr. Stanford's work in the earlier collection of Irish songs, is even more strictly applicable to his treatment of the airs in the present volume, which ranks on a level with the romantic and beautiful accompaniments furnished by Korbay to his unique collection of Hungarian melodies. We may add that as the words of the songs are racy of the soil, a glossary of the Irish terms used has been considerately appended for the enlightenment of the untutored Sassenach. The volume is appropriately dedicated to Dr. Graves, the Protestant Bishop of Limerick, father of one and godfather of the other of the pair of collaborators.

Songs and Ballads of Northern England. Collected and edited by John Stokoe. Harmonised and arranged for Pianoforte by Samuel Reay, Mus. Bac., Oxon.
[Newcastle-on-Tyne and London: Walter Scott, Limited.]

This handsomely printed volume presents, in a form favourable to popularity, a most interesting collection of folk-songs, the bulk of which are practically unknown to the musical public. It forms a portion—but a small one, we are glad to hear—of the store gathered by the Melodies Committee of the Society of Antiquaries at Newcastle-on-Tyne, and contains nearly a hundred carefully selected specimens. Of these a score or so derive additional interest from the fact that they are in the old "modes" (Dorian, Æolian, and Mixolydian); others offer examples of the pentaphonic scale, the plagal cadence, and of modulatory peculiarities alien to modern habits; and a few, already familiar as Scottish airs, are included because here accompanied by words of Northumbrian origin. The "antiquarian" interest of these melodies is not, however, their chief claim to the attention of music lovers. Their wild, pathetic beauty, their originality and vigorous life, are qualities that will be appreciated by thousands whose relish for the quaintness of earlier epochs is yet in a rudimentary stage; and this, of course, is the most valuable testimony to their fitness for preservation. It is extremely difficult to accompany such airs upon a pianoforte without doing violence to the character either of melody or instrument; indeed it may be questioned whether this has ever been accomplished in a completely satisfactory way. Most work of the kind sins by excess, and though it cannot be asserted that Mr. Reay's accompaniments are always absolutely free from this defect, it may be cheerfully admitted that they are far superior to the majority of efforts in the same direction. A few critical and historical notes are appended, but this portion of the work should have been treated with greater fulness, especially as regards the musical contents of the volume, which deserve detailed analysis.

Catalogue of the Music in the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge. By J. A. Fuller-Maitland, M.A., F.S.A., and A. H. Mann, Mus.D., Oxon. [C. J. Clay and Sons.]

Catalogues, like dictionaries, are, as a rule, considered dry reading, but the one now under notice is full of interesting matter. Mr. J. Henry Middleton, director of the Fitzwilliam Museum, in a prefatory note, says of the music therein that it "may fairly be said to rank third in importance among the chief musical libraries of Britain." One of its greatest treasures is the "Queen Elizabeth's Virginal Book." That wonderful collection of virginal music has already been most carefully described by Mr. W. Barclay Squire in Sir George Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians," and that article, with slight alterations and additions, has been reprinted in this book. Another important possession of the library is the set of sketches and miscellaneous manuscripts in the handwriting of Handel; the description of these, by Dr. Mann, occupies over sixty pages of the volume. There are studies for fugues; workings of the subjects used in the chorus "O God, behold our sore distress" in "Jephtha"; workings for the "Amen" chorus in "The Messiah"; studies for "Samson," and many other sketches which seem to show that the statements as to Handel's rapidity in composing must be taken cum grano salis; he may have written quickly, but the way was already prepared. A perusal of these Handel pages will be found most interesting. With regard to his autographs, there are eight pages of a sheet of the original score of the opera "Ottone," and it is curious to note that the loss of these caused the Handel-Gesellschaft edition of that work to be issued in an incomplete state. There are also numbers belonging to the opera "Imeneo," supposed to be lost. But we must pass on, and indeed pass away, for time and space would fail us to tell of the many precious inheritances from old masters which well deserve mention. The long and patient and valuable labour devoted to the work by Mr. Fuller-Maitland is specially acknowledged by the director of the Fitzwilliam Museum, and the valuable services of Dr. Mann are also fully recognised.

Original Compositions for the Organ. Nos. 165-171.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Since our last notice, new numbers of this esteemed publication have been issued in rapid succession. The first of the series at present to be noticed is an Offertory in F, by G. F. Blatch. It possesses nothing in common with the brilliant Offertoires of the French School of organ composers, being a quiet and unassuming composition written with musicianly feeling in the sober English style, and commencing and ending in a very quiet manner. The piece might well be described as a solemn march. The next three consist of six "Church Preludes," two in each number, by R. E. Bryson. As their title indicates, they are little pieces suitable for opening voluntaries, and quite easy, though not by any means commonplace, the modulations and general use of chromatic harmonies being frequently unconventional, and even startling. Mr. Bryson might well essay some larger form of composition. No. 169, Postlude in G, by H. Elliot Button, is a brief march-like piece, very bright and tuneful, and neither elaborate nor difficult. The last two numbers of the present instalment consist of the first and second of "Five Sketches" by H. W. Parker. A Prelude in G is a quiet and elegantly written sketch with no special characteristics, but the other, entitled "Vision," is more varied and piquant, and rather orchestral in feeling. Mr. Parker has evidently ideas of his own in the matter of organ music, and, so far, he has been entirely successful.

Pictures from Abroad. A set of fourteen pieces for pianoforte. By Maude Valerie White.
Douze pièces pour piano. Par G. Flaxland.
[Edwin Ashdown.]

In this set of short pieces the composer gives us tone pictures of many foreign countries: in one we have Isold di Capri, the "loveliest pearl in Naples," in another we are "On a Fjord in Norway," and so on, until we arrive "Home Again." They are all admirably well written for the instrument, and the music is both charming and characteristic. In some of the numbers the influence of certain modern composers is somewhat strongly felt, as, for instance, Chopin in No. 2, Heller in No. 4; and in one or two the rhythms are rather forced, but all are interesting. No. 3, with its quiet movement and choice harmonies, the expressive "Katia" (No. 8), and the original Norwegian picture, Grieg notwithstanding, are, in our opinion, the gems of the set.

G. Flaxland's "Douze Pièces" all have titles, and, indeed, exceedingly appropriate ones. They are easier to play than Miss White's tone pictures, but still they require careful and delicate phrasing. They all display skill and are effectively written for the instrument; but some, such as the Berceuse (No. 1), the Pantomime (No. 3), and Souvenance (No. 4) are not particularly striking. The simple quaint Menuet is most attractive, the Caprice fully bears out its title, the Bluette is of Heller-like simplicity, the Rêverie changes from key to key after the manner of events in a dream, and the closing number "Cloches et Horloge" shows plenty of fancy and some humour.

Fileuse, Mazurka, Valse expressive. Each for pianoforte solo. By Joseph Lamberg. [Leipzig: Fr. Kistner.]

These salon pieces are of more than average merit. They reflect in some measure the style of Chopin, but not sufficiently to stamp them as devoid of individuality. The Fileuse, indeed, has a second part of great originality and charm. Reasonably proficient players will find them effective and not difficult, but the second and third are easier than the first, for the adequate rendering of which a fluent finger is indispensable.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The highly interesting and valuable Royal collection of antique musical instruments at Berlin has just been thrown open to the public. It was only commenced some five years since, and embodies some important purchases made of the famous Leipzig connoisseur, Herr Paul de Witt. The collection includes such priceless relics as the clavecin with double keyboard used by Johann Sebastian Bach, the hammer-klavier belonging to C. M. von Weber, the pianoforte made by Erard, of London, for Mendelssohn, and the quartet of string instruments associated with the musical performances held at Beethoven's residence in Vienna.

A once famous operatic singer, whose name even will scarcely be known by the present generation of opera-goers, the tenor Wachtel of the phenomenal range of voice, has just appeared once more before the Berlin public at a Concert given by him, in association with Mdlle. Nikita and other artists; reviving, not altogether unsuccessfully, the memories of the days when he was the ideal representative (on some twelve hundred occasions, it is said) of the hero in "Le Postillon de Longjumeau." Wachtel is now seventy years of age.

Madame Albani had a most enthusiastic reception from the music-loving public of Vienna last month. The prima donna sang at two Concerts in the Musik-Verein Saal, the largest hall in the Austrian capital, before crowded audiences. Madame Albani also appeared at Concerts in Pesth, Gratz, and Prague.

We are glad to gather from Berlin papers that Mr. Henry Such continues to improve upon the favourable impression recently created by his playing in the German capital. The young English violinist, assisted by Miss Isabel Hirschfeld (pianist), gave his fourth Concert at the Bechstein Hall last month, and the performance is spoken of most flatteringly in the Reichs-Bote and other papers.

The programme for the projected special operatic performances, during the ensuing summer, at the Court Theatre of Gotha, has, according to the Gothaer Anzeiger, been determined upon in its main features. The first performance is to take place on July 27, when Isouard's "Joconde" will be given, under the direction of Capellmeister Levi, of Munich. On July 29 Cherubini's "Medea" will be produced, conducted by Herr Mottl, of Carlsruhe. The new operatic work which may have been successful in the prize competition connected with this special artistic undertaking is to be brought out on the following day, July 30, under the direction of Herr Schuch. Some forty operatic scores will, it is said, be submitted to the jury constituted for the purpose. Important engagements have been entered into with eminent German artists, and the undertaking promises to be a very interesting and successful one.

Signor Franchetti's opera "Colombo," having undergone considerable revision by its composer, is to be brought out shortly, for the first time in Germany, at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater.

A Dresden correspondent writes to us concerning the favourable reception accorded to a Symphony written by an Englishman, Mr. Percy Sherwood, and produced for the first time at the Gewerbehaus, in the Saxon capital, on the 18th ult. The Dresdener Anzeiger speaks of the work in terms of high praise, characterising it as "a composition of distinct value; clear and transparent in design, and calculated, by simple and truly artistic means, to arouse a sympathetic warmth and interest in his hearers, even where there are no great flights of imagination." Mr. Sherwood, who gained the Berlin Mendelssohn Prize in 1889, is at present a professor at the Dresden Conservatorium and Conductor of the Dresden Choral Society.

A new opera, "Harald und Theano," the libretto by Felix Dahn, the music by Herr C. A. Lorenz, met with a very favourable reception on its first production, February 26, at the Royal Opera of Hanover; Count Hochberg, of the Berlin Opera, being present on the repetition of the performance a few days later.

It is stated in well-informed quarters that next year's Bayreuth Festspiele will, in addition to "Parsifal," include representations of "Tannhäuser" and of "Lohengrin." The last-named work, which has not been given here before, will, it is scarcely necessary to add, be performed strictly in accordance with the intentions of the master, without any curtailments whatever.

A new one-act opera "Der Asket," by Herr Carl Schröder, met with a very favourable reception on its first performance, on the 4th ult., at the Leipzig Stadt-Theater. The composer holds the conductorship at the opera in Sondershausen.

The annual Musical Festival of the Lower Rhine is to be held this year at Düsseldorf, Whitsuntide. Herr Buths, the Düsseldorf capellmeister, will be the principal conductor.

Goldmark's opera "Merlin" was successfully revived on the 4th ult. at the Imperial Opera of Vienna, the work having undergone a revision at the hands of its composer, which has greatly enhanced its effectiveness. The principal parts were well filled by Fräulein Beeth, Messrs. Winkelmann and von Reichenberg.

An opera, "Hertha," by Herr Franz Curti, has met with a most enthusiastic reception on its first performance last month at Chemnitz, under the direction of Capellmeister Weissleder. The performance is described as a very good one, and the composer was the recipient of a perfect ovation at its conclusion.

Verdi has presented all the first interpreters of his new opera "Falstaff" with his photograph, inscribed with some special dedication from his pen. On the one sent to Signor Mascheroni, the distinguished Conductor of La Scala, he wrote the words: "To the gallant captain of a gallant army!"—The autograph score of "Falstaff" has been presented by the Maëstro to Signora Ginetta Origoni, the married daughter of Signor Giulio Ricordi, the head of the eminent publishing firm.—"Falstaff" is to be interpreted in the course of the next few months at Rome, Genoa, Venice, Vienna, Buda-Pesth, Dresden, and Berlin, by an Italian company, under the joint direction of Signori Piontelli (of La Scala) and Molnadi.

On the occasion of the first production, last month, at the Verdi Theatre, Padua, of the opera "A Canareggio," by the Count Carlo Sernagiotto, a wealthy amateur, the Conductor, Signor Podesti, was obliged to discontinue the performance when only half completed, the work having literally been hissed off the stage.

A new opera on the subject of "Manon Lescaut," by Signor Puccini, one of the most gifted of the younger generation of Italian composers, was brought out lately with great success at the Teatro Regio, of Turin.

The successful first performance is reported recently, at the Trinity Theatre, Lisbon, of a new opera, "Leitura da Infanta," the author of the libretto being Senhor Eça Leal, and the composer Senhor Augusto Machado, already favourably known by several operatic works.

Signor Leoncavallo's successful opera "I Pagliacci" has been brought out at Moscow, where in the course of six weeks it was produced no less than sixteen times. The work is also being mounted at the Marie Theatre of St. Petersburg, at which house Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" still continues to draw crowded audiences.

The new opera, "A Santa Lucia," by the Maëstro Tosca, which met with such marked success on its recent performance at Berlin, was brought out, on the 7th ult., at the Teatro Communale in Trieste, but failed to obtain the favour of the audience.

It is stated in Italian papers that M. Maurel has waived his objection to sing before the German Emperor during the latter's visit to the Italian capital, when a gala performance of Verdi's "Falstaff," with the popular French baritone in the titular part, will be included in the scheme of the festivities.

Under the title of "Les Drames Sacrés" a series of dramatic pictures of the "Passion," from the pen of MM. Armand Silvestre and Eugène Morand, with incidental music by M. Gounod, was enacted at the Paris Vaudeville, last month, the performances being very well attended. The musical numbers comprise a prelude, an Ave Maria and chorus of the Annunciation, the choruses in the Garden of Olives, and a symphony indicative of the Resurrection.

At the Municipal Theatre in Dijon an opera, entitled "Charles d'Anjou," was successfully performed for the first time last month. The composer is M. Dietrich, an esteemed organist and professor at the Conservatoire of that town.

According to the Romania Musicala, a series of performances of Wagnerian opera was to be given last month (for the first time) at Bucharest, by the company of the German Theatre in Prague.

A Concert performance in which, amongst other eminent artists, Mesdames Krauss and Rose Caron took part, was held last month in the salon of Madame Alboni, in Paris, in celebration of the sixty-seventh birthday of that famous songstress, who delighted her audience by once more taking an active part in the performance.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE MS. OF MOZART'S QUARTET IN A MAJOR (No. 5 OF THE SIX DEDICATED TO HAYDN).

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—The following authentic information will no doubt be interesting to many of your readers.

The order of the movements in this Quartet differs in various editions; the Peters' editions, for example, of both score and parts, have the Minuet and Trio placed after the Andante instead of before it, while, oddly enough, their arrangement of the Quartet as a duet for pianoforte shows this order reversed. The majority of editions place the Minuet and Trio after the first movement and before the Andante; but there has been certainly some doubt on the point among the editors, the origin of which I am unable to explain.

At a recent performance of the Quartet at the Oxford Musical Club, under the excellent leadership of Mr. L. Straus, the Peters' edition was used, and the Minuet and Trio were performed after the Andante. Feeling sure that this was the wrong order, but wishing to set my doubts at rest if possible, I thought of trying to obtain the infallible evidence of the original manuscript, which I knew was in England. By the kind help of Sir George Grove—who took much trouble for me, which I most gratefully acknowledge—I was enabled to write to the lady in whose possession this MS. is, together with those of the other nine best known Quartets of Mozart. Miss Plowden responded most promptly and obligingly to my appeal, and, with the help of a musical friend, wrote out for me the exact order of movements in all the ten Quartets, together with the time indications attached to them in the MSS.

Among the ten there are three in which the Minuet and Trio precede the slow movement—viz., No. 1 in G major, No. 4 in B flat major, and No. 5 in A major. This last is the one about which the doubt seems to have arisen, and it is satisfactory to know once and for all that the Peters' edition is here misleading, and that all scores which place the Minuet and Trio third in the order should be at once discarded.

I venture to think that in these days our sense of the inter-connection of movements in chamber music is apt to be blunted by performances in large Concert-rooms, where applause, and consequent delay, follows each movement. If any of your readers will take the score of this Quartet, which is clearly "built" throughout on a single coherent design, and will read it through at leisure, he will probably see why the Minuet was placed second instead of third in the order. It is almost identical in tone and feeling with the first movement, if it does not actually arise out of it—as indeed I think it does. To place it after the Andante would be to cause a recurrence to a phase of quiet feeling which has by that time given place to deeper tones; and also to lose entirely the effect of the entrance of the last movement in A major, immediately after the close of the Andante in D major—about which there should surely be as little delay as possible—the subject stealing in on one violin with a sense of relief, but without any violence of contrast.—Yours faithfully,

W. Warde Fowler.

Lincoln College, Oxford.

"FOLK TUNES IN BEETHOVEN"; OR, "BEETHOVEN IN FOLK TUNES."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—There appears to be some confusion of dates on the part of your correspondent "R. L.," in his letter published in the March number of The Musical Times. Beethoven's Concerto in C, according to Grove, was written, "at latest," in 1796, and published in 1801. The tragic death of Andreas Hofer, commemorated in the Folk Song quoted by "R. L.," took place in 1810, and the song itself is said to have been written several years later. If there is any appropriation in the case, it does not seem to have been on the part of Beethoven.—I am, Sir, yours faithfully, March 12, 1893. A. J.

CRITICS CRITICISED.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Allow me to join issue with your effort to defend the critics against my "attack," as you call it. Most people who write nowadays have, I admit, a sadly sweeping way of generalising, speaking of "composers," "amateurs," and "performers" as doing this, that, or the other in much the same reckless way that they speak of "Englishmen" and "Germans" or even "Men" and "Women"—applying some little fact they have noticed in a few members of a class to the entire class itself. I remember a funny character in a farce of thirty years ago; a Frenchman travelling in England and making notes for a book. Hearing one of the characters complain of the November fogs, for instance, declaring that it makes him feel fit to hang himself, the Frenchman instantly pulls out his note-book: "All ze Eengleesh," he writes, "hang zemselves in ze fog in Novembair!" . . . But critics!

Your writer complains, bitterly:— "As usual the critics are spoken of as if they were all on a level and laid claim to infallibility." But they are and they do; for infallibility is the primal condition of their existence. The musical opinions of John Smith may be good or bad, but so long as he is a private individual they matter nothing to anybody. But once let him be engaged as critic to the Daily Phonograph and every one of its million readers will think far more of him than they do of the Pope, while if he happens to be engaged on six papers at a time (as sometimes occurs) he will be thought to be six equally powerful and omniscient individuals. Moreover, if he is taken ill or goes for a holiday his deputy—who is possibly cleverer than he, or may be a mere ignoramus—will command just the same amount of credence and respect. Of course, musicians know well enough that some critics are cultured and honest gentlemen, but if all wear the same domino and mask, if all claim superiority over those whom they criticise (let alone over each other), we are forced to be as reckless as they in our estimate of their value. One little point I would fain raise for your consideration. What about dead critics? Is there one whose opinions have survived him (save for the purpose of ridicule)? We read the opinions of Weber, Spohr, and Schumann on their contemporaries with pleasure, but who cares now what the most eminent journalist of twenty years ago said about music and musicians?

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
The Editor of The Overture.

A CORRECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—Permit me to correct an error which occurs in The Musical Times of this month anent the composer of the new Swedish opera "A Daughter of Granada." The opera is not, as you state, composed "by the Swedish composer Christjernsson," but by Ivar Hallström, a well-known Swedish opera composer, and the creator of the Swedish National Opera. Mr. Christjernsson, who is a literary man, is the writer of the libretto to Hallström's latest opera "A Daughter of Granada."—Yours faithfully, Hildegard Werner.

Newcastle-on-Tyne, March 16, 1893.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

H. Conway.—The speed we should adopt for Chopin's Impromptu (Op. 51) is ♩.=104 or 108; and for Raff's Minuet ♩.=96.

Enquirer.—The portrait of Beethoven to which you refer is out of print and not procurable through the ordinary channels.

Rex.—Messrs. Skeffington, Piccadilly, publish a few of Dr. Woodward's services.

A. Smith (Homerton).—England produced a composer worthy to rank with the greatest in the person of Henry Purcell. Your second question admits of no direct answer, since the "intelligence" of an orchestra resides chiefly in its Conductor.

Viola.—Address your communication to the firm.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Brockley.—Miss Edith Purvis gave a very successful Pianoforte Recital at St. Peter's Hall on the 2nd ult. Beethoven's "Waldstein" Sonata and pieces by Chopin, Raff, T. A. Matthay, and others were played with much refinement. Mr. P. Brozel and Miss K. Richardson sang, and Miss Lilias Pringle accompanied.

Calcutta.—The Messiah was performed at the Town Hall on Ash Wednesday, by the Calcutta Musical Association. The band and chorus numbered about 120. Mr. J. E. Johnston and Mr. S. Sarkies trained the choir and band respectively, and Mr. E. Slater was the Conductor for the occasion. Miss Maud Ellicott was the principal vocalist.

Chapeltown.—On the 14th ult. the Chapeltown and District Sacred Harmonic Society gave a good performance of Prout's revised edition of Handel's Joshua, in Mount Pleasant Wesleyan Church, kindly lent for the occasion. The band was augmented to about thirty performers. The chorus, which numbers about eighty members, sang the choruses creditably, attacking with the vigour and precision that many of them demand. The soloists were Miss Vinnie Beaumont, Miss Alice Bertenshaw, Mr. James Leyland, and Mr. John Browning. Leader of the orchestra, Mr. James Cox; Organist, Mr. Frank Senior; Conductor, Mr. Thomas Bool.

Cork.—The Amateur Orchestral Society gave its second Concert of the season in the Assembly Rooms on the 3rd ult. The programme was an interesting one and included pieces by Verdi, Ambroise Thomas, Suppé, and Mascagni. The Musical Club contributed two choruses, one from Ernani, "All welcome the bowl," and the "Tyrolese Hunters' March" (Koschal), which were both well rendered; and Mrs. C. O. Weekes, Miss Lizzie Hackett, Mr. H. J. Hickie, and Mr. Cowperthwaite sang solos with much artistic taste. Mr. R. Howard, who is responsible for the present efficient state of the orchestra, conducted with his usual ability; Herr Gmür accompanied the songs.

Darlington.—The thirteenth annual Concert of the Orchestral Society was given in the Central Hall on the 9th ult. The band, numbering fifty, performed Mozart's G minor Symphony and other pieces with great precision. Miss Florence Daly, who was the vocalist, was well received. Miss Jenkinson (a pupil of the Conductor) was solo pianist; her rendering of Mendelssohn's Capriccioso Brillante for pianoforte and orchestra was much admired. The Honorary Conductor, Mr. Fred. Tovey, directed as usual.

Shifnal.—The Choral Society gave a most successful performance of Haydn's Creation on the 10th ult. The choruses were sung with great spirit, and showed the continued progress of the choir. The solos were rendered by Miss Rose Long, Mr. W. Anstill, and Mr. W. H. Smith, all of whom acquitted themselves admirably. The accompaniments were well played by a capital band of about twenty performers. Mr. Rowen presided at the organ, and Mr. C. H. Payne conducted. There was a large and enthusiastic audience.

Uttoxeter, Staffs.—On Friday, the 3rd ult., the Uttoxeter and Tutbury Choral Societies gave a performance of Spohr's Last Judgment and a miscellaneous selection in the Town Hall. The principals were Miss Sheldon, Miss Mary Reeve, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. Musgrove Tufnail; and Mr. T. R. Abbott, of Birmingham, led a well selected band of thirty performers. The hall was crowded by a fashionable audience. Mr. Herbert Drury, of Derby, conducted with marked ability.

Warminster.—On Friday, the 3rd ult., the Crucifixion, by Sir J. Stainer, was given in the newly restored Minster Church of this town, to a large and appreciative congregation, who joined in the interspersed hymns most heartily. The choir had been augmented for the occasion, and the solos were well rendered by the Rev. Canon H. W. Carpenter, of the Cathedral, Salisbury, and the Rev. J. P. May, of Andover. The accompaniments were played by Mr. Thomas J. Leaman, Organist of the Church, and the whole conducted by Mr. F. Glap. It was preceded by shortened Evensong, the Offertory amounting to £4 19s. The performance is to be repeated on Tuesday in Holy Week.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Harry H. Baker, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Devizes.—Mr. H. E. Dalby, Organist and Choirmaster to Deal Parish Church.—Mr. A. Godwin Fowles, Organist and Choirmaster to Christ Church, Plymouth.—Mr. Frank Gatward, Organist and Choirmaster to Halifax Cathedral, Canada.—Mr. Theodore S. Hill, Musical Director and Choirmaster to St. Michael's Church, Birkenhead.—Mr. Arthur Mangelsdorff, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, Carbrooke Watton.—Mr. Clifford Parker, Organist and Choirmaster to the Priory Church of St. Bartholomew the Great.—Mr. Fredk. S. Marsh, Organist and Choirmaster to St. John's Church, Hammersmith.—Mr. Fred Shaw, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Matthew's, Ardwick, Manchester.—Mr. Bruce Steane, Organist and Choirmaster to the Parish Church, St. Mary's, Whitechapel.—Mr. E. M. Drew, to St. Mary's Parish Church, Little Ilford.—Mr. T. Lee Lloyd, to Boscombe Arcade and Winter Garden.—Mr. C. W. Miller, to St. John the Baptist, Kensington.—Mr. R. W. Pringle, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Andrew's, Willesden.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. Frederick Williams (Tenor), to St. Andrew's, Wells Street.—Mr. G. W. Burgess (Bass), to St. Mary Abbots, Kensington.

MISS FUSSELLE (Soprano)
Licentiate (Artist) R.A.M.
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 37, Harrington Square, N.W.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MASTER GEO. TURNBULL SINCLAIR (Sop.).
For Church Festivals. DISENGAGED Sunday Evenings. Oratorios, Concerts, and Banquets. Terms, &c., 102, College Place, Camden Town, N.W.

SOLO BOY WANTED, for the Choir of St. George's, Bloomsbury. Salary, according to ability. Apply, Organist, after Sunday Services; or, Thursday evenings, 8.30.

TWO ALTOS WANTED, for St. Mary's Church, The Boltons, South Kensington. Good readers. Salary, £10 to £12. Address, Choirmaster, 8, Disraeli Road, Ealing, W.

BASS WANTED, St. Mary's, Berkeley Square, W.
Apply, Fridays, 8.30, Vestry.

WANTED, experienced ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER, for All Saints', Babbacombe, Torquay. Gregorian Psalter. Best personal references required. Communicant. Unmarried preferred. Apply to the Vicar.

TUNER desires RE-ENGAGEMENT. Thoroughly understands Harmoniums and American Organs. Age 40, and single. Wages not so much a consideration as comfortable and permanent situation. Is also a good Violinist. Good references can be given. Address, Gordon, Bay House, Newtown, Montgomeryshire.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

WALTHEW, RICHARD, H.—"The Pied Piper of Hamelin." By Robert Browning. Set to Music for Tenor and Bass Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra. Paper cover, 2s.

MOZART, W. A.—Songs with Pianoforte Accompaniment. Paper cover, 1s. 6d. For contents, see advertisement, page 251

STANFORD, C. VILLIERS.—Irish Songs and Ballads. The Words by Alfred Perceval Graves. Paper cover, 4s. For contents, see advertisement, page 251.

CONCONE, J.—Fifteen Vocalises. A sequel to the Twenty-five Lessons for the Medium part of the Voice. Edited, with Marks of Expression and Phrasing, by Alberto Randegger. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

NUNN, ELIZ. A.—Mass in C. For Soli, Chorus, and Orchestra (Op. 4). Paper cover, 2s.

MOODY, MARIE.—"Themistokles." Overture für Militar Musik. Full Score, paper cover, 5s.

ROGERS, ROLAND.—"March like the victors." Choral March. 1st Violin, 6d.; 2nd Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 6d.; Wind Parts, 4s. 6d.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 10. "Fairies' Dance." Two-part Song. By Florence A. Marshall. "Marching Song." Trio (unaccompanied). By Franz Abt. Exercises in Changing Key and Accidentals. By W. G. McNaught. Price 1½d.

BEVAN, PAUL.—"Miyako-Dori." Japanese Melodies. Collected and arranged for the Voice or Pianoforte. The English Lyrics by Antonia Williams. With Illustrations in the Text from Drawings by Hokusai (d. 1849), Kuniyoshi (d. 1861), and other famous Japanese Artists. Paper cover (Illustrated), 5s.

BRIDGE, J. FREDERICK.—"Mount Moriah." An Oratorio. Book of Words, 7s. 6d. per 100.

LEWIS, T. C.—"When my feet have wandered." Words only, 2s. per 100.

ARMSTRONG, WM. D.—(in A). A Choral Evening Service. 6d.

BARWELL, G. E.—(in D minor). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. 3d.

BREWER, A. HERBERT—(in A). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 129. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

DART, HENRY J. B.—(in D). Morning and Evening Service, for Four Voices. No. 3. Kyrie, 1d.; No. 4. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis, 4d.

EDWARDS, CHARLES—(in G). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 132. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

KING, ALFRED—(in B flat). A complete Service for the Office of the Holy Communion, containing Kyrie, Credo, Sursum Corda, Sanctus, Benedictus, Agnus Dei, Gloria in excelsis. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

LANE, E. BURRITT—(in F). Te Deum laudamus. (No. 131. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

LUCAS, P. TOTTENHAM.—Six Settings of the Kyrie eleison. 2d.

McMURDIE, HENRY G.—Benedictus qui venit and Agnus Dei. 4d.

PARKER, HORATIO W.—(in E flat). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 133. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

SPARK, WILLIAM.—Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 134. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 3d.

MACDERMOTT, T. H.—Six English Hymns. No. 1, "Cradle Hymn of the B.V. Mary"; No. 2, "Ave Maria"; No. 3, "To Christ the Prince of Peace"; No. 4, "Heart of Jesus all for Thee"; No. 5, "O Jesu, our Redemption"; No. 6, "Art thou weary." Complete, 1s.; or separately, 2d.

DEWEY, W. H.—"The Lord's Prayer." Harmonised for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. 3d.

BUNNETT, EDWARD.—"The Lord is my Shepherd." Anthem for Four Voices, with Organ Accompaniment. 3d.

GREENISH, FREDERICK R.—"Awake, put on thy strength." 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

PEEL, F.—"Why seek ye the living among the dead." Anthem for Easter. (No. 423. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 4d.

WOLSTENHOLME, W.—"Now if Christ be preached that He rose from the dead." Easter Anthem. 2d.

ARNOLD, A. W.—"To Cynthia." Song. 6d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

BENNETT, GEORGE J.—"I love my Jean." Four-part Song for Male Voices. The words written by Robert Burns. (No. 254. The Orpheus.) 2d.

DENNIS, HENRY.—"Life's fair morning." (School Anniversary Music, No. 43.) 2d.

FLETCHER, A. W.—"Blow, Western Wind." A Four-part Song. The Words written by Edward Oxenford. 2d.

—— "Lo! the Lark." A Four-part Song. The words written by Edward Oxenford. 2d.

GOODHART, ARTHUR.—"The Eton College Hunt." Words by Arthur Benson. 6d.

KING, OLIVER.—"Jean." Four-part Song. Words by Robert Burns. (No. 666. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

LLOYD, CHARLES H.—"Little thoughts that grow." Trio. For Female Voices. The words written by Harold Boulton. (No. 273. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

—— "Cupid is a wayward boy." A Six-part Song. The words written by Arthur C. Ainger. (No. 667. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 4d.

—— "Honey-bees love heath'ry heights." Trio. For Female Voices. The words written by Harold Boulton. (No. 285. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

MUNDELLA, EMMA.—"What the birds said." Two-part Song. Words by George Macdonald. (No. 80. Novello's School Songs.) 2d.

WURM, MARIE J. A.—"Good Night" ("Gutenacht"). A Four-part Song. The English translation from the German of Fried. Aug. Leo, by Lewis Verne. (No. 269. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "Under the greenwood tree" ("Unter des Laubachs Hut"). A Four-part Song. The German translation by Schlegel-tieck, from the English of Shakespeare. (No. 268. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 3d.

—— "Whenever life some joy does bring" ("Wo nur dem Leben Lust erblüht"). A Four-part Song. The English version from the German of August Kurs, by M. J. A. W. (No. 267. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

EYTON, W. H. PLOWDEN.—"Ave Maria." For Soprano or Tenor. 2s.

FEARNLEY, JOHN.—"Wanderer's Night-song" ("Wanderer's Nachtlied"). Translation from Goethe by Longfellow (No. 1, in D flat). 2s.

LÖHR, HARVEY.—"Ask what thou wilt." Song. The words written by M. C. Gillington. 2s.

NUGENT, MARY E.—"A shadow." Song. The words written by Adelaide A. Procter. 2s.

PARSONS, BENJAMIN.—"The wind's story." Song. The words written by Alice E. Gillington. 3s.

PEACE, A. L.—Concert-Fantasia on Scottish Melodies. For the Organ. 3s. 6d.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN:—

		s.	d.
No. 172. Five Sketches.
No. 3. Scherzo ..	H. W. Parker	1	0

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. McNaught.

No. 782. The Lord is risen .. .. George M. Garrett 2d.
„ 787. Hurrah for merry England Francesco Berger 1½d.

FARMER, HENRY.—Mass in B flat. 1s.

DIAPASON MUSICAL AGENCY (Est. 1890)
Supply SOLOISTS and INSTRUMENTALISTS for At Homes, Dinners, Concerts, Matinées. Also Best Agency for ORGANISTS and CHOIRMASTERS.
Master J. CLARKE (Solo Boy, All Saints' Church), Master J. PARKER (Solo Boy, St. Paul's Church), for Concerts.
THE LONDON QUARTET, for Part-Songs, Glees, &c. STRING BAND, for Balls, Parties, &c.
Dramatic Entertainments.
Please address, Mr. Norris, Secretary, 55, Chancery Lane, W.C.

ORGAN.—Suitable for small Church or Mission Hall, in stained mahogany case, with speaking front. Stopped diapason, treble and bass; open diapason, flute, Gamba, and Hautboy. Two octaves pedals. In excellent condition. Price £30. Foster, 107, King Street, Hammersmith.

TO CONDUCTORS and MUSICAL SOCIETIES. A Large Collection of ORCHESTRAL MUSIC for DISPOSAL, comprising Score Copies and full Band Parts of "The Messiah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Lauda Sion," "Elijah," "Hymn of Praise," the "Creation," and a large number of other works. All in good condition. Will be Sold at one-third the reduced price. Catalogue on application to Mrs. White, The Widenings, Loughborough.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

NO. 5.—DR. H. KEETON'S CHURCH and CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD. Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net; post-free.

Nearly Ready.

NO. 6.—CHARLES WEBB'S TONIC SOL-FA CLASS-SINGING METHOD. Limp cloth, 2s. net; post-free.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S LIST of GLEES, &c., containing a choice Selection, by the most eminent Composers, of Two and Three-part Songs for equal voices and Songs for Classes in unison; many numbers in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Just Published, arranged by Jas. Batchelder for Alto, two Tenors, and Bass, "The Anchor's Weighed," "The Men of Harlech," "Ye Banks and Braes."

IMPORTANT TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

F. H. COWEN'S favourite CANTATA for FEMALE VOICES, "THE FAIRIES' SPRING" (An Elfin Legend). Price 2s. 6d. net; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S new Edition of STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES. List on application.

ALSO

CLASSICAL MUSIC (new Series) selected, fingered, and edited by Adolphe Schloesser, Professor at the Royal Academy of Music. List on application.

THE CANDIDATES' PRACTICAL SCALE and ARPEGGIO HANDBOOKS. Specially arranged for the use of Students preparing for the Examinations (Pianoforte) of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music.

By GRAHAM P. MOORE,

(Member of the Examining Staff of the Associated Board).

Compiled in strict accordance with the Syllabus of the Associated Board, and each Book containing full directions as to the requirements of the Examiners. Issued in four Books, each Book being complete in itself, and containing only those scales required by Candidates for their respective Examinations.

Book 1, 1s. net; Book 2, 1s. 6d. net; Book 3, 1s. 6d. net; Book 4, in two Parts, each 2s. net.

Full particulars on application.

COMPLETE SCALE and ARPEGGIO TUTOR. By Adolphe Schloesser. Containing all the Scales and Arpeggi required by Pupils preparing for the Metropolitan, Local, and other Examinations, including the Associated Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. Engraved in bold style, and printed on best paper, giving clear directions how to practise.

Part 1. Scales. 33 pages .. .. 5s.
„ 2. Arpeggios. 45 pages .. .. 5s.
Complete .. .. 8s.

ORGAN MUSIC.—BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES. BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS. New Compositions and Arrangements. Detailed Lists on application.

THE HISTORY and CONSTRUCTION of the ORGAN. By Dr. E. J. Hopkins and Dr. E. F. Rimbault. This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net. Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN and VIOLONCELLO MUSIC.—New Compositions by Maude Valérie White, Tivadar Nachèz, David Popper, Leo Stern, and other well-known Authors. Lists on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL. Translated by John Bishop. The only version approved by Spohr. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronized and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music. Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. and Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS by MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE.

Infinite Love. Words by Dante G. Rossetti .. .. 2s. net.
Si j'étais Dieu. Words by Sully Prudhomme .. .. 2s. net.
Ich bin Dein—"I am thine" (one of Six Volkslieder, the remaining Five in the Press) .. .. 2s. net.

Also, in the Press.

Douleurs Divines .. .. Words by Emile Augier.
Ton Nom .. .. Words by Sully Prudhomme.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

—CONTINUED.

CROSSING THE BAR. Lawrence Kellie's Popular Setting of Tennyson's Words. ARRANGED AS AN ANTHEM by Edwin H. Lemare. Price 6d.

THE BENEDICITE.—Set to music by Edwin H. Lemare (in B flat), price 3d. net; and Arthur E. Godfrey (in C), price 3d. net. THE PATER NOSTER. Composed for the celebration of the Holy Communion, by Edwin H. Lemare. Price 3d. net. THREE KYRIES, and A SEVENFOLD AMEN. By Arthur E. Godfrey. Price 3d. net.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
Franz Liszt's Letters	201
The Music of "Falstaff"	202
The Music of Negation	207
Wagner and Richter	208
Occasional Notes	209
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	212
Royal Choral Society	214
Philharmonic Society	215
London Symphony Concerts	215
The Bach Choir	215
Crystal Palace Concerts	216
Dvorák's New Mass	217
Monday and Saturday Popular Concerts	217
Thursday Subscription Concerts	218
London Chamber Concerts	218
"The Golden Web," Goring Thomas	218
Royal College of Music	218
Royal Academy of Music	219
Guildhall School of Music	219
Highbury Philharmonic Society	220
Miss Eibenschütz's Pianoforte Recital	220
Musical Association	220
Mr. Santley's New Mass	220
"Kunihild" at Würzburg	227
Obituary	227
Music in Bristol	228
„ Edinburgh	229
„ Glasgow	229
„ Liverpool	229
„ Manchester	230
„ Nottingham	230
„ Oxford	230
„ Wilts and Hants	231
„ Yorkshire	231
„ America	232
Four-part Song—"Shine on, O Moon!" Michael Watson	221
General News (London)	232
Reviews	234
Foreign Notes	236
Correspondence	237
Answers to Correspondents	238
General News (Country)	238
List of Music published during the last Month	239

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£ s. d.
Two Lines	0 3 0
Three Lines	0 3 4
For every additional Line	0 0 10
Half a Column	2 0 0
A Column	4 0 0
A Page	7 10 0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-SECOND

OF EACH MONTH.

GRAND PIANO, by Broadwood.—7 octaves, full trichord, iron frame, under dampers. Little used; like new. A great bargain. 55 gns.; cost 175 gns. View at Mr. Fieldwick's (Organist, St. John's), 108, Upper Richmond Road, Putney (near Railway station).

VIOLIN, by Banks, Salisbury, for SALE. In perfect condition. Price, F., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO COLLECTORS OF MUSICAL CURIOS.—One of the earliest Pianos known, bearing following name: "Johannes Zumpei et Buntebart. Londini, Fecerunt 1776. Princes Street, Hanover Square. No. 64." For SALE, cheap. Apply, E. A. Marriott, 235, High Street, Exeter.

HARPSICHORD (Schudi, 1785). Ready for Concert or other use. 5 stops, 2 manuals. Morley, Harp Maker, near South Kensington Station.

THREE PANORMO GUITARS. Perfect condition. £5, £10, £20. Morley, Harp Maker, near South Kensington Station.

AN ERARD Gothic HARP. Ready for use. £50. Morley, near South Kensington Station.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d., post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing. Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

HARPS.

HARPS repaired cheaply and well (for the Trade) by J. G. MORLEY, Harp Maker (formerly with Erard, in London and Paris).

Reference permitted to Messrs. Forsyth, Manchester; Gough and Davy, Hull; Duck and Co., Bath.

Write for testimonials of all the great Harpists (including Oberthur, Thomas, Wright, and Aptommas) to J. GEO. MORLEY, 6, Sussex Place, South Kensington Station, London, S.W.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Collecting orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

TO ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, and others. Messrs. Dinham and Co., by their Method, print Anthems, Services, and every Description of Music, from 12 copies and upwards, at a trifling cost. Specimens and scale of charges free. Dinham and Co., 28, Fenchurch Street, London. Est. 1872.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.

MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE. Large Tuning and Hiring connection. Handsome, well furnished premises. W. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

OLD-ESTABLISHED MUSIC BUSINESS in West of England for DISPOSAL. Profits from Tuning alone about £170 per year. No Goodwill. Stock at Valuation, £800 to £1,000. L. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO BE SOLD.—An Old-established MUSICAL INSTRUMENT BUSINESS in Stamford. Death of Proprietor reason for disposal. Apply, for particulars, to H. Edwards, South View Farm, Stamford.

AN Old-established PIANO and MUSIC BUSINESS, in fashionable inland Watering-place. Valuable Tuning and Hiring Connection amongst the nobility and county families. Purchase, including stock, about £1,700. Apply, Midlands, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE and FANCY BUSINESS. South Coast. Averaging one Piano weekly, besides large trade in Sundries. Good opening for Tuner. Fixtures, fittings, goodwill, and part stock, £150. Rent, £30. Address, D. B. A., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TEACHING CONNECTION (small) WANTED, to PURCHASE. Full particulars and price, A. G. W., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNERSHIPS in (or to buy) established PIANO and MUSIC BUSINESS REQUIRED, by two Gentlemen. York or Midlands preferred, but not essential. Apply to Mr. Bulman, Solicitor, 15, Abbey Street, Carlisle.

ADVERTISER, with 15 years' practical experience, wishes to hear of a good general MUSIC BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. Must be a going concern, capable of development. £500 down, and balance by instalments. Full details, to Business, Messrs. Bowerman and Co., 48, Poland Street, Oxford Street, W.

TO THE MUSIC TRADE.—Advertiser is desirous of PURCHASING or entering into PARTNERSHIP in a well-established MUSIC BUSINESS. Either Publishing or Retail Pianoforte and Music Store. Full particulars to Purchaser, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, ORGAN BUILDERS, NORWICH, by Royal Warrant of Appointment to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, refer with pleasure to the following Organs built by them during recent years:—

King's College, Aberdeen. 3 Manuals.
Woughton Church, Bucks. 3 Manuals.
Brentwood Church, Essex. 3 Manuals.
Christ Church, Blackheath. 4 Manuals.
Feather Market, Port Elizabeth. 3 Manuals.
Jesus College, Cambridge. 4 Manuals.

Illustrated list, with testimonials, &c., sent on application.
NORMAN BROS. and BEARD, St. Stephen's Gates, Norwich.

WALCKER & CO., ORGAN BUILDERS.

ESTABLISHED 1820, AT LUDWIGSBURG (GERMANY).

Highest Awards: Diplomas of Honour and Grand Gold Medals.

Builders of the celebrated Organs of St. Stephen's Cathedral, Vienna, 104 stops; Dom-Kirche, Riga (Russia), 174 stops; Cathedral, Ulm (Germany), 114 stops; St. Petri Cathedral, St. Petersburg, 76 stops; Temple of Music, Boston (U.S.A.), 110 stops; St. Paul's-Kirche, Frankfort, 82 stops; Gewandhaus and Conservatory of Music, Leipzig; Ministry of Fine Arts, Berlin (Electric action); 33 Organs at Frankfort, 11 at Stuttgart, 10 at St. Petersburg, and the principal Organs at Moscow, Hamburg, Rome, Rotterdam, Bremen, Wiesbaden, Darmstadt, Madrid, Lausanne, Vienna, Leipzig, &c., &c.

Walcker's Tubular Pneumatic and Electric Systems.

Specifications of the Representative for Great Britain,
H. Thieme, 44, Berners Street, London, W.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.

Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.

A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.

500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.

The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.

Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,
ORGAN BUILDERS,
PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.
(ESTABLISHED 1841.)
Specifications and Estimates sent free.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.

RUMMENS'

ORGAN

PEDAL ATTACHMENT

FOR

PIANOFORTES.

NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.

EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.

ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

AWARDED MEDAL OF HONOUR

AT THE

INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.

NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.

WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO

H. J. RUMMENS,

47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

D'ALMAINE'S

PIANOS AND ORGANS

CLEARANCE SALE.

EXTENSION OF PREMISES, 89, FINSBURY PAVEMENT.

Dealers specially invited.

D'ALMAINE and Co. (Established 108 years), 89 and 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

SHEET MUSIC.

TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.

120,000 COPIES

OF

SONGS, PIANOFORTE PIECES, AND DANCES

(The best Editions, all clean and saleable)

TO BE SOLD, IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES.

100 Copies, 8s. 4d.; or made up in £1 Parcels, 50 Parcels for 21s.

Sample Parcel of 20s. worth, 1s., Post-free.

WILLIAM LEA,

50 AND 52, CHURCH STREET, LIVERPOOL.

PUBLISHED THE 15TH OF EVERY MONTH. PRICE 2D.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION, 3s., POST-FREE.

BARGAINS

THE MUSIC TRADERS' MART

HAS NOW REACHED

8,000 CIRCULATION MONTHLY.

EMINENT CONTRIBUTORS WRITE FOR THIS PAPER.

IT IS BRIGHT, RACY, INTERESTING, AND INSTRUCTIVE TO ALL MUSICIANS.

THREE EXERCISE PAPERS APPEAR MONTHLY FOR STUDENTS.

MUSIC PRIZE COMPETITIONS.

LOAN, EXCHANGE, AND MART COLUMNS.

BEAUTIFULLY PRINTED ON FINE PAPER.

ADMIRED BY ALL WHO HAVE SEEN IT.

SAMPLE COPY, POST-FREE, 2d.

OF

BARGAINS OFFICE, BARNSLEY;

OF ALL NEWSAGENTS, AND CAN BE ORDERED AT ANY OF

SMITH AND SON'S BOOKSTALLS.

NOS. 37, 38, 39, AND 40 STILL ON SALE.

ADVERTISEMENTS INSERTED AT REASONABLE RATES.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.—A large quantity of VOCAL MUSIC, CHORUS PARTS, and SCORES, consisting of Cantatas, Part-songs, &c., for SALE. Application for list to Dr. Bunnett, The Close, Norwich, when all information will be given.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PERFORMED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

MASS IN D

FOR SOLO VOICES (OR SMALL CHORUS), CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the Full Score by

BERTHOLD TOURS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Full Score and Orchestral Parts, MS.

TIMES.

The most remarkable sections of the Mass in D are the Kyrie, with its well-contrasted "Christe eleison" for solo quartet or small choir; the curiously dogmatic opening of the Credo, in which an alto solo, originally designed for four voices in unison, seems to usurp some of the functions of the priest; and the beautiful Agnus Dei, with its striking close in which a theme of four descending quavers is treated with much success. The effect of this passage is greatly heightened by the division of the soprano choir into three for a short time.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

There are no serious difficulties for executants to surmount, while the expression of the music is so plain and direct that it can be felt and appreciated by all. For the result last named it may be that we have to thank the conditions under which the work was written. The unfettered Dvorák, as a composer of sacred music, appears in the Birmingham Requiem, with which simplicity is not even on speaking terms. Here, on the other hand, comparative simplicity was essential, and in the result we have that which will rank as an exemplification of high art in a form generally attractive. . . . We welcome this Mass with peculiar pleasure. It is a most useful work, and will be everywhere a pleader, eloquent and intelligible, not only for the solemnities of religion, but for the beauty and sufficiency of pure art.

STANDARD.

Naturally, the Mass is not planned on the same extensive scale as the "Stabat Mater" and the Requiem, being, indeed, studiously non-pretentious throughout, and occupying less than an hour in performance; but it is in no sense unworthy of the gifted Bohemian composer. . . . There are many passages of marked originality and beauty, the composer being invariably at his best when he is concerned with the most mysterious dogmas of the Catholic Church.

DAILY NEWS.

The Mass is perhaps hardly so characteristic of its composer as his larger sacred compositions; but, on the other hand, being written for a comparatively small church, it is more concise, and presents fewer choral difficulties. It is therefore likely to become popular with ordinary choirs, the more especially as, if desirable, the services of expensive soloists may be dispensed with altogether, their parts being sung by a semi-chorus. Some portions of the music are more or less conventional, but this cannot be said of the setting of the Nicene Creed, parts of which are almost secular in character, while frequently—at the "Crucifixus," for example—the master-touch is obvious.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The Mass in D is concise and free from commonplace motives and effects tending to detract from its religious object. . . . The final Agnus Dei peacefully brings to a close a work that is marked by sincere devotional feeling rather than by power, and as executive difficulties are throughout absent, there is nothing to stand in the way of its adoption by choral associations with limited means. Taken as a whole, the work is certainly worthy of Dvorák.

GLOBE.

The new work was heartily welcomed, and proved worthy of its able composer, by whom it was last year re-written, so far as concerned the instrumentation. It cannot be said that the Mass presents any novel features, but the score contains many passages worthy of praise. The music is always in character with the words to which it is attached, and the Credo (notably the "Incarnatus" section) and the Agnus Dei may rank among the best efforts of the gifted composer.

SUNDAY TIMES.

The Mass, which is its composer's Opus 86, bears evidence throughout of an endeavour to avoid technical difficulties such as might place it beyond the reach of an executive body of limited resources. This is unusual with Dvorák, and it may explain in a measure the absence of certain features that characterise his choral writing as a rule. The progressions are comparatively simple; sudden modulations are rare; the development of the subjects is seldom extended to half Dvorák's usual length, and certain portions of the setting are treated with a brevity which for him is altogether remarkable. Hence a work which a child could follow with ease on first hearing. But it is not on that account less interesting, nor, we may add, is it less charged with the individuality of style and the beauty and appropriateness of sentiment that Dvorák has taught us to look for in all his religious works, from the "Stabat Mater" downwards. . . . The charm of the whole is irresistible, and we think that the latest is destined to be among the most popular of the choral works that have emanated from the pen of the Bohemian genius.

ATHENÆUM.

Having regard to the special object for which it was composed, it is not surprising to find the Mass concise, unpretentious, and far less arduous for the executants than the "Stabat Mater" or the Requiem; but it is not less characteristic of Dvorák, several of the simplest passages being remarkable as displaying alike his musical idiosyncrasies and his religious fervour.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

ANTHEMS for ASCENSIONTIDE.

Awake up my Glory	M. Wise	3d.
Christ became obedient unto death	J. F. Bridge	1½d.
Christ is not entered into the Holy Places	Eaton Faning	1½d.
For it became Him	Oliver King	1½d.
God is gone up	Croft	4d.
Grant, we beseech Thee	H. Lahee	1½d.
If He then be risen	J. Naylor	3d.
*It shall come to pass	B. Tours	1½d.
King all glorious	J. Barnby	6d.
*Leave us not, neither forsake us	J. Stainer	1½d.
*Lift up your heads	J. L. Hopkins	1½d.
*O clap your hands	J. Stainer	6d.
O clap your hands	T. T. Trimnell	3d.
*O God, the King of Glory	H. Smart	4d.
*O how amiable	J. Barnby	3d.
*O Lord our Governor	H. Gadsby	3d.
O Lord our Governor	Marcello	1½d.
*O risen Lord	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	J. Baptiste Calkin	3d.
*Rejoice in the Lord	George Elvey	1½d.
The earth is the Lord's	T. T. Trimnell	4d.
The Lord is exalted	J. E. West	1½d.
The Lord is King	H. Gadsby	6d.

WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw	J. Stainer	6d.
And when the day of Pentecost	Charles W. Smith	3d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
*Come, Holy Ghost	T. Attwood	1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost	J. L. Hatton	3d.
Come, Holy Ghost	George Elvey	4d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God is a Spirit	W. S. Bennett	6d.
Grieve not the Holy Spirit	J. Stainer	3d.
Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad spiritum Sanctum)	G. C. Martin	1½d.
I was in the Spirit	Blow	6d.
If ye love Me	C. S. Heap	1½d.
*If ye love Me	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*If ye love Me	Tallis	1½d.
*If ye love Me	R. P. Stewart	1½d.
In my Father's House	J. Maude Crament	3d.
It shall come to pass	G. Garrett	6d.
*Let not your heart be troubled	H. G. Trembath	3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
Praised be the Lord daily	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
There is no condemnation	H. S. Irons	3d.
When God of old came down from Heaven	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
We will rejoice	Croft	4d.

TRINITYTIDE.

Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and Glory	Boyce	1½d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt show me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.

Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

OFFICE FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION

(Including Benedictus qui venit and Agnus Dei)

Set to music in the key of A flat

BY

BASIL HARWOOD.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

POPULAR FESTIVAL ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

THE LORD IS MY LIGHT	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
GREAT IS THE LORD	(Ditto 1½d.)	3d.
O GIVE THANKS	(Ditto 1½d.)	3d.
SING UNTO THE LORD	(Ditto 1½d.)	3d.

The above Anthems are especially suitable for Church Festivals.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

ANTHEMS.

Easter.—"If we believe."	Four voices	4d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
Whitsunday.—"If ye love Me."	Four voices	3d.
" "I will magnify Thee"	"	3d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E.	Chant form	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	"	3d.
	Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F		1½d.
" " " A		1½d.
" " " E		1½d.

HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words	1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes	6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes	3d.
Amen (on Card)	1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ	net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria	" 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat	" 1s. 0d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

New Whitsunday Anthems, &c.

BY

EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are effective and not difficult.

AND WHEN THE DAY OF PENTECOST

Will be ready April 10 3d.

The Eyes of all. 17th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.) 3d.

Sung by 1,500 Voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

{ The Lord reigneth. New. (Sol-fa, 2d.) 3d.
{ Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem. 10th 1,000 3d.

Sung by 400 Voices at Doncaster.

Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special service.

Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in D. 5th 1,000 4d.

Full of vigour and flowing melody.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HYMN for ASCENSION. Music by Benjamin Congreve. Price 1½d. Also, "May." Part-Song for Four Voices. Price 1½d. "A thoroughly meritorious production."—Sunday Times

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE NICENE CREED IN C

By R. BENTLEY.

For Parish Choirs.

Reid Bros, 436, Oxford Street, London, W.

WHITSUNDAY ANTHEMS, &c.

By CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

Let not your heart be troubled. 8th edition	3d.
Day of Pentecost. 10th 1,000. If ye love Me. 7th 1,000 each	3d.
What shall I render. 5th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.)	4d.
Fear not, O land. 24th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.)	3d.
Give glory. 11th Edition. O how amiable. New each	3d.
New Easy Holy Communion Service in G (Sol-fa, 4d.)	4d.
New Te Deum in G. 6th edition	4d.
New Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in G. 5th edition	4d.
Te Deum in F. 21st edition	3d.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F. 45th edition	4d.
Easy Holy Communion Service in E flat. 7th 1,000	4d.

London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: Clayton F. Summy, 174, Wabash Avenue.

MASS in C. For Solo Voices, Chorus, and Orchestra. By Eliz. A. Nunn. Price Two Shillings.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

NEW ANTHEM.

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD

FOR FOUR VOICES

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by VINCENT MORGAN.—"Praise waiteth for Thee, O God," Full Anthem for Harvest or General Use. Price 3d. "It is thoroughly singable, devotional, and effective."—Daily News, U.S.A. "The Morn of May." Trio for Female Voices. Price 3d. "A bright and pleasing Trio, with characteristic accompaniment."—The Music Review, U.S.A.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries	3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries	1s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Thousand.

VESPER HYMN. To be sung after Evensong. Words and music by George Kett. "A very charming hymn-tune."—Sir John Stainer. On card. Price One Penny.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Words alone, for congregational use, One Shilling per hundred, of the Author, 100, Gordon Road, Nunhead, S.E.

Recently Published.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in F. By Frank Frewer, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. Easy and effective. 3d.
London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

AVE VERUM

(Latin and English Words)

FOR FOUR VOICES

By H. B. WALKER.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Specimen Copy free from Composer, Ratby, Leicester.

TO CONDUCTORS OF CHORAL SOCIETIES.

Just Published.

LORD ULLIN'S DAUGHTER

BALLAD FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA

BY

HERBERT HAM.

Price Fourpence.

"The Ballad is well worth the attention of our Choral Societies on the look out for novelties."—Musical News.

"The workmanship is admirable. Not only is the part-writing very fine and the orchestration skilful, but throughout the piece the composer displays the power of producing great effects by comparatively simple means."—East Essex Times.

"A very realistic piece of music."—Colne Valley Gazette.

"The selection of the evening was a Choral Ballad, 'Lord Ullin's Daughter,' composed by Mr. Ham. . . . It was rendered in a faultless manner, and round after round of applause greeted its performance."—Essex County Chronicle.

Orchestral Parts and Full Scores may be hired of the Composer, Halstead, Essex.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ALFRED R. GAUL'S WORKS.

Second Edition. Third and Fourth Thousand.

PRODUCED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE, JULY 9, 1892.

ISRAEL IN THE WILDERNESS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

THE TONIC SOL-FA FESTIVAL.

"Mr. Gaul's latest work is another proof of his practical wisdom as well as of his ability as a composer. We welcome 'Israel in the Wilderness' as one of those works which foster the love and induce the practice of music amongst the people."—Musical Standard.

"The work was given under Mr. Gaul's own direction by some 3,000 singers, accompanied by the Palace orchestra, with Mr. A. J. Eyre as organist. Mr. Gaul has presented in no previous work better characteristics or more successful efforts than are to be found in 'Israel in the Wilderness.' The popular composer was enthusiastically cheered at the close of the performance."—Musical News.

"Altogether worthy of the composer of that amazingly popular work, 'The Holy City.'"—The Referee.

"The Cantata contains all the elements of popularity, and it was excellently performed under the composer's direction, and very warmly received."—Standard.

"The part-writing is excellent. . . . Melodious throughout. There is sufficient variety to prevent any feeling of monotony. . . . At its close the composer was heartily cheered."—Daily News.

"Without being unduly difficult, it is indisputably effective."—London Figaro.

"At the close of the work, portions of which were loudly applauded, Mr. Gaul, who conducted, was warmly complimented on a Cantata which is likely to become quite as great a favourite with choral societies as 'The Holy City' and other of his compositions."—Daily Chronicle.

"Characterised by the same refinement as that of Mr. Gaul's extremely successful work 'The Holy City.'"—The Athenæum.

"We may say at once that the music is characterised by Mr. Gaul's usual felicity of treatment. Mr. Gaul had every reason to be gratified with the performance and reception of his Cantata, and he may expect to hear of many more performances."—Musical Times.

"Musicianly and excellent, and not too difficult to imperil its popularity."—Musical Opinion.

"One of the most musicianly, melodious, and well conceived works of its popular composer."—School Music Review.

Price 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.
Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s.; Words only, 5s. per 100.

Staff Edition. Sixteenth to Twentieth Thousand.

JOAN OF ARC

A DRAMATIC CANTATA

FOR THREE SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

PRODUCED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS BY THE BIRMINGHAM FESTIVAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

"The Exeter Oratorio Society last night achieved a brilliant success, and it may safely be said, without fear of exaggeration, that never before have they performed a work more satisfactory to themselves or more interesting to the audience than 'Joan of Arc.'"—Western Times.

"One of the most delightful Concerts ever given by the South Shields Choral Society was that of last evening, when the principal piece was 'Joan of Arc.' We cannot speak too highly of Mr. Gaul's work, which is of the most interesting description."—Shields Daily News.

	s. d.		s. d.
Paper cover .. .. price	2 6	Tonic Sol-fa .. .. price	1 6
„ boards .. .. „	3 0	Vocal parts .. each „	1 0
Scarlet cloth .. .. „	4 0	Words only .. per 100 „	7 6

For the use of Choral Societies.—An Arrangement of the Orchestral Parts for Pianoforte and Harmonium, by J. W. Elliott. Price 7s. 6d.

The gratuitous loan of Instrumental parts may be had on application to the Composer, and full liberty is given to perform these Cantatas and to insert the words in any programme without further permission.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth.. ..	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.
The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE

CATHEDRAL PSALTER

(PUBLIC SCHOOL EDITION)

POINTED FOR CHANTING.

Where the whole verses are to be sung by the congregation they are marked by a line at the side.

Where half-verses are to be sung by the congregation they are printed in italics.

All other verses and half-verses are to be sung by the choir only.

Cloth, Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

PARISH CHURCH CHANT BOOK

A SELECTION OF SINGLE & DOUBLE CHANTS

ARRANGED FOR THE DAILY PSALMS

TOGETHER WITH

SINGLE CHANTS FOR THE CANTICLES

BY

Rev. HENRY J. BIDDER, B.D.

FELLOW OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE AND VICAR OF ST. GILES', OXFORD,

AND

J. VARLEY ROBERTS,

MUS. DOC., OXON.,

ORGANIST OF MAGDALEN COLLEGE AND ST. GILES' CHURCH, OXFORD.

PRICE, IN PAPER COVER, ONE SHILLING.

CLOTH, ONE SHILLING AND SIXPENCE.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Third Edition. Seventh and Eighth Thousand.
This Edition contains the additional Soprano air "Sun of my Soul."

THE TEN VIRGINS

A SACRED CANTATA

FOR FOUR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA.

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"The work will certainly go through Saxondom in the wake of its predecessors from the same pen."—London Daily Telegraph.

"Must attain popularity wherever heard. Infinitely superior to any previous effort of the composer."—Liverpool Daily Courier.

"The Cantata is replete with charming music of that school which every one can appreciate, and which found so distinguished a master in Mendelssohn. Mr. Gaul's works have placed him in the front rank of English composers."—Newcastle Daily Journal, Dec. 17, 1890.

"A career that will rival that of the same composer's 'Holy City' may be predicted for 'The Ten Virgins.'"—Musical Times, Dec. 1, 1890.

"A distinct advance upon any of its predecessors."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"That 'The Ten Virgins' is a much finer work than the everywhere favourite 'Holy City' we have no doubt whatever."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

The above Cantata has been specially planned to meet the requirements of Musical Societies, the greater portion being choral, including three numbers for Sopranos and Contraltos (The Virgins).

Price, paper cover, 2s. 6d.; paper boards, 3s.; cloth, gilt, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa, 1s.; Vocal parts, each 1s. Words only, 5s. per 100.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

THE

GREAT DAY OF THE LORD

SACRED CANTATA

MUSIC BY W. CLARK AINLEY,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Price, in paper cover, 2s.; in paper boards, 3s.; in scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.
Leeds: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN.
Huddersfield: WOOD and MARSHALL.

Popular Part-Songs for S.A.T.B.

By W. W. PEARSON.

Blow, Western Wind! ..	3d.	The Oyster Dredgers ..	2d.
Stars of the Night	3d.	*Sweet to live (32nd thou.) ..	2d.
The Lake	3d.	*Welcome, young Spring!	2d.
*'Tis Morn	3d.	*The Anglers (12th thou.) ..	2d.
Sweet Spring (Madrigal) ..	3d.	The Dream of Home ..	2d.
The River	3d.	Summer and Winter ..	2d.
Over the mountain side ..	3d.	*Departed Joys	2d.
Soul of living music ..	3d.	There's beauty in the deep	1½d.
The Stormy Petrel	3d.	Soldier, rest!	1d.
The Coral Grove	3d.	Woods in Winter	1d.
Pibroch of Donuil Dhu ..	3d.	Autumn	1d.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS.

*Three Doughtie Men. (50th thousand)	3d.
Three Children sliding. (8th thousand)	3d.
A Ryghte Merrie Geste	4d.
The Snow-white Doe	4d.
*Ben Bowlegs (Edward Oxenford)	3d.
The Carrion Crow	3d.

DESCRIPTIVE CHORUSES for S.A.T.B.

Orchestral Parts on application to the Composer, Elmham, Dereham.

The Iron Horse	4d.	The Ocean (6th thou.) ..	3d.
Off to Sea	4d.	*The Ironfounders (32nd thou.)	3d.
The Lifeboat	4d.	The Jäger Chorus (6th thou.)	3d.

Tonic Sol-fa Editions at half the above prices of those marked *.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by Alfred Allen.

Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published. 8vo, 3d.

THE SKATERS

PART-SONG FOR S.A.T.B.

COMPOSED BY

W. W. PEARSON.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

Book 15.

SOFT VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

ORGAN

COMPOSED BY

GEORGE CALKIN.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

IMMENSE SUCCESS.

HOME SCENES

BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

NINE NEW ORIGINAL PIECES FOR THE PIANO.

Contents:

WELCOME HOME
GRANDFATHER'S LEGEND
THE OLD VIOLIN
CHILDREN'S DANCE
CRICKET ON THE HEARTH.
FIRESIDE TALE
FALLING SHADOWS
CRADLE SONG
MERRY MAKING.

Review—"Some of the most melodious and pleasing pieces we have seen." May be obtained of all musicsellers. Price 3s.

Patey and Willis, 44, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

Sixth Thousand.

THE MONTHS

TWELVE VOCAL DUETS FOR SCHOOL USE

Words by Edward Oxenford

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

"There are in this series of duets the sweetest things of the kind we have ever met with. Things to be treasured in households where sisters or friends delight in joining voices."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Parts I. and II. .. .. each	1	0
Complete, paper cover	1	6
Ditto, paper boards	2	0
Ditto, scarlet cloth	3	0
Or, in Twelve Numbers .. .. each	0	2

Tonic Sol-fa (complete), 9d.; or, singly, 1d. each.

VOCAL TRIOS FOR SCHOOL USE.

THE BIRDS

Words by Edward Oxenford

MUSIC BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

1. The Robin.
2. The Nightingale.
3. The Dove.
4. The Skylark.
5. The Owl.
6. The Swallows.

"By the production of these Trios our townsman, Mr. A. R. Gaul, has made a valuable addition to the many beautiful and useful compositions he has formerly given to the public. Mr. Gaul's music is unfailingly charming . . . and both in the home circle and in the school class is sure to be heartily welcomed."—Birmingham Daily Gazette.

	s.	d.
Complete, paper cover	1	0
,, scarlet cloth	2	6
Or, in Six Numbers .. .. each	0	2

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the Play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

By EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.
Price Five Shillings net.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO HENRY VIII.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings.
String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte, 3s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CORNETS and CORNET PLAYING.—See April Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

Edwin Ashdown's selection of Choruses for Treble Voices.

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT. Price 4d. each net.

1. Steersman, steer our bark. Three-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
2. The winds now are still. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) Wagner
3. Spinning chorus. Four-part (Flying Dutchman) .. Wagner
4. Singing liketh me. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
5. Parting. Three-part .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
6. The Mermaids. Three-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
7. Raise high the song. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. Wagner
8. Adown the wav'ring billows. Three-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
9. 'Tis ours this happy season. Two-part (The Sea-Maidens) J. L. Roeckel
10. Barcarolle ("Oh! 'tis pleasant"). Three-part (Oberon) Weber
11. Whispering breezes. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
12. Joy! joy! joy! Three-part (Knight of Palestine) .. Weber
13. The earth is clothed in flowers. Four-part (Fall of the Leaf) O. Barri
14. With hearts of joy. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. O. Barri
15. Sing, sweet bird. Three-part (Fall of the Leaf) .. .. O. Barri
16. Haste to the church! Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
17. Chorus of angels. Four-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
18. Awake from slumber. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. F. Abt
19. O'er the flower-bespeckl'd meadows. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
20. I saw a land of wondrous beauty. Three-part (The Magic Well) .. .. F. Abt
21. Come, let us wreathe the bridal flowers. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
22. Now on music's wings. Three-part (Orpheus and Eurydice) .. .. Offenbach
23. Homeward we are wending. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
24. Trip it lightly, gaily, brightly. Three-part (Harvest Queen) Godwin Fowles
25. Angel of peace. Three-part (Lohengrin) .. .. .. Wagner
26. In Thee we trust. Three-part (Pilgrims' Chorus, Tannhäuser) .. .. Wagner
27. Awake! awake! Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
28. Music and sunshine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
29. Joyous our life. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
30. Sing, sisters, sing. Four-part (All-Hallow Eve) .. B. Gilbert
31. Sunrise. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. .. F. Romer
32. Sunset chorus. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) .. F. Romer
33. Our old piano. Three-part .. .. F. Auger
34. Home bells. Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
35. Dear home. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
36. Summer. Three-part (Tannhäuser) .. .. .. Wagner
37. For thee hath beauty. Three-part (Oberon) .. .. Weber
38. I remember one eve. Three-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
39. Vintage time. Three-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
40. Odours come with quiet spell. Three-part (A Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
41. Sad is the parting. Two-part (Volkslied) .. .. .. German
42. Not in our grief alone. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
43. A Christmas song. Two-part .. .. A. Adam
44. The Hymn of peace. Two-part .. .. .. W. H. Callcott
45. O! Southern wind. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
46. Dwellers of the spirit land. Two-part .. .. .. O. Barri
47. 'Tis summer. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
48. O! come to the grove. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
49. The snow. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
50. Come back. Two-part .. .. O. Barri
51. A Christmas carol. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
52. The midnight bell. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Roeckel
53. Where the scented violet. Two-part (The Magic Well) F. Abt
54. See, the star of eve. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
55. The cuckoo kept calling. Two-part (Elfin Knight) I. Gibsone
56. Come, let us go. Two-part (Elfin Knight) .. I. Gibsone
57. We will seek thee. Two-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
58. We are only village maidens. Two-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
59. John Peel. Two-part (Hunting song) .. .. D. Pentland
60. O! come hither. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
61. O! give thanks. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. Henry Smart
62. O! praise the Lord with me. Two-part (Sacred) Mendelssohn
63. Hark! the hunter's merry horn. Two-part .. L. Zamboni
64. Old English pastimes. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
65. The organ-grinder. Two-part .. .. .. J. L. Battmann
66. The happy hreside. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart
67. Hark! from yon old abbey. Two-part .. .. J. Barnett
68. Merry May. Two-part .. .. .. Sir G. A. Macfarren
69. The Alpine sisters. Two-part .. .. .. D. Tagliafico
70. Heap high the golden corn. Two-part .. .. .. Raphael
71. Lull'd by the silence. Two-part .. .. Zamboni
72. Fairy sisters. Two-part .. .. F. Packer
73. Merry May. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
74. The swallows' return. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
75. The sea-nymphs. Two part .. .. T. Distin
76. Merrie gipsies. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
77. Hail! pretty babe. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
78. Sleigh-bells. Two-part .. .. T. Distin
79. For so hath the Lord. Two-part (St. Paul) .. Mendelssohn
80. And Paul came to the congregation. Two-part Mendelssohn
81. To God on high. Three-part (Chorale, St. Paul) Mendelssohn
82. O! Thou true and only light. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
83. How lovely are the messengers. Three-part (Chorale) Mendelssohn
84. Away! away! Three-part .. .. J. L. Roeckel
85. The angels' song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
86. A farewell. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
87. The dawn. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
88. Come away to the woods. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
89. Miserere Domine. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
90. Rest while the noon. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
91. At break of day. Three-part (The Mountain Maidens) F. Romer
92. Haste away. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
93. The morn is bright. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. F. Schira
94. Hail to thee. Three-part (Bride of Burleigh) .. .. F. Schira
95. Around the maypole. Three-part (May-tide) .. P. Mazzoni
96. O'er the smiling meadows. Three-part (May-tide) P. Mazzoni
97. O! praise the flow'ret sweet. Three-part .. F. F. Rogers
98. She sleeps. Three-part (The Magic Flower) .. F. F. Rogers
99. So pure, a sister's tender love. Three-part .. .. Weber
100. Gone is every pleasure. Three-part (Knight of Palestine) Weber
101. From Oberon in fairyland. Three-part .. .. .. Stevens
102. Blow, gentle gales. Three-part .. .. Bishop
103. Hark! Apollo strikes the lyre. Three-part .. .. Bishop
104. The winds whistle cold. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
105. The chough and crow. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
106. Sound the loud timbrel. Three-part .. .. .. Avison
107. Ye shepherds tell me (The wreath). Three-part Mazzinghi
108. Harvest home. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop and Foster
109. But now the pearl-crown'd moon. Three-part E. Aguilar
110. O! find a song. Three-part (Summer Night) .. .. E. Aguilar
111. When the wind blows. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
112. A lullaby Three-part .. .. G. Schmitt
113. Come over the hills. Three-part .. .. H. Foster
114. The sower. Three-part .. .. D'Albano
115. Home and rest. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
116. Memories. Three-part .. .. C. Pinsuti
117. Good-bye, sweetheart, good-bye. Three-part .. J. L. Hatton
118. The city of the king. Three-part .. .. O. Barri
119. Erin mavourneen. Three-part .. .. .. J. L. Hatton
120. Blessed are the poor in Spirit. Three-part (Sacred) .. Mozart
121. Through the old cloisters. Three-part .. .. Beethoven
122. Roll on, fair orb. Three-part .. .. .. Beethoven
123. In Thee I trust. Three-part (Sacred) .. .. .. Handel
124. Ring on, sweet bells. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
125. The minstrel. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
126. An evening song. Three-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
127. The wood-nymph's home. Three-part .. .. C. Gounod
128. The songs our fathers loved. Three-part .. Wagner
129. Gipsy chorus. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
130. Now to the fair. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) .. M. W. Balfe
131. Yet droops the maiden. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
132. Deign to forgive the gipsy maid. Three-part (Bohemian Girl) M. W. Balfe
133. The maiden's dream. Three-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
134. From out Thy starry dwelling. Three-part (Prayer, Moses in Egypt) .. .. Rossini
135. Father of Heaven. Three-part (Prayer, Masaniello) Auber
136. A sylvan song. Three-part .. .. Wagner
137. A lady fair (Villanelle). Three-part .. .. Niedermeyer
138. Stay, prithee, stay. Three-part .. .. .. Bishop
139. O! skylark for thy wing. Three-part .. .. Mendelssohn
140. Light as fairy foot can fall. Three-part .. .. .. Weber
141. The evening bell. Two-part.. .. .. Zamboni
142. Haste thee, boatman. Two-part .. .. .. F. Kücken
143. On the margin of that river. Two-part .. .. Henry Smart
144. Bird of the morn. Two-part.. .. .. .. Henry Smart
145. Wandering wind. Two-part.. .. .. .. Henry Smart
146. Song of the sea breezes. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
147. Heavenly music. Two-part .. .. J. L. Hatton
148. Adieu, ye woodlands. Two-part .. .. F. Abt
149. Nightingales are singing. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
150. Sing to me, gondolier. Two-part .. .. .. C. Gounod
151. Now, merry fays. Two-part .. .. C. Gounod
152. The voices of Spring. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
153. The haymakers. Two-part .. .. Offenbach
154. Now the meadows. Two-part .. .. Lotti
155. In Thy service. Two-part (Sacred) .. .. J. Blockley
156. I think of thee. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
157. O! ye sunny hours. Two-part .. .. .. R. Schumann
158. Good night. Two-part .. .. R. Schumann
159. Cradled by the heaving billow. Two-part .. .. H. Foster
160. Serenade. Two-part .. .. J. B. Wekerlin
161. The sailor's return. Three-part .. .. .. Wagner
162. The song of June. Three-part .. .. .. Mendelssohn
163. Singing in the rain. Two-part .. .. .. J. P. Knight
164. The ferry boat. Two-part .. .. L. Williams
165. When spring descendeth. Two-part .. .. .. F. Abt
166. Where art thou, beam of light? Three-part .. .. Bishop
167. Far away. Two-part .. .. J. R. Thomas
168. Italy's music. Three-part .. .. C. E. Horn
169. Nina's farewell. Two-part .. .. Pergolesi
170. The gipsy home. Two-part .. .. Herbert Foster
171. Three vivandières. Three-part .. .. F. Schira
172. Peace. Two-part .. .. Sir Julius Benedict
173. Sing, pretty maiden. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
174. Angelus. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
175. Pretty gitana. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. .. Wallace
176. Alas! those chimes. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
177. Turn on, old time. Three-part (Maritana) .. .. Wallace
178. God save the Queen. Three-part .. .. National
179. Say, sad heart, why art thou beating? Two-part .. F. Abt
180. Eve's lamentation. Two-part .. .. .. M. P. King
181. Thy spirit is near. Two-part .. .. .. Henry Smart

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK. HANOVER SQUARE, LONDON. TORONTO.

COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN

BY

A. L. PEACE, Mus.D., Oxon.

Just published. s. d.

CONCERT-FANTASIA on Scottish Melodies .. .. net 3 6
SONATA DA CAMERA, in D minor (No. 1) .. .. „ 3 0
GRAND DRAMATIC FANTASIA, "A Concert on a Lake," &c. (Neukomm). Adapted to the modern Organ by A. L. Peace .. .. net 2 6

Will shortly be published.

SONATA DA CAMERA, in C minor (No. 2) .. .. net 3 6

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC

By S. S. WESLEY

LARGHETTO in F MINOR.

Price One Shilling net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

NEW WORKS FOR THE ORGAN.

GIGOUT, EUGÈNE.—Méditation .. .. net 2s. 6d.
DUBOIS, TH.—Twelve New Organ Pieces. Vol. II. .. net 8s. od.

Laudy and Co., 139, Oxford Street, London, W.

Just Published.

FOURTH GRAND CONCERT SONATA

(CHRISTMAS SONATA)

COMPOSED FOR THE ORGAN BY

OTTO DIENEL

(Op. 32).

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BOEKELMAN'S EDITION

OF

BACH'S FUGUES

Printed in Colours.

In this Edition the essential parts of each Fugue—viz., Subject, Answer, Counter-subject, Episodes, &c., are each printed in a distinct colour, with a view to helping the Student to a clear understanding of the structure and form of the composition.

Book I. contains—

Vol. 1. Fugue 3, C sharp major. | Vol. 1. Fugue 10, E minor.
„ 1. Fugue 4, C sharp minor. | „ 2. Fugue 7, E flat.

Book II. contains—

Vol. 1. Fugue 1, in C. | Vol. 1. Fugue 21, in B flat.
„ 1. Fugue 7, in E flat. | „ 1. Fugue 22, in B flat minor.

Price Two Shillings net each Fugue.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Sole Agents for Great Britain and the Colonies.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

Part I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (Low Voice).
Part II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (Low Voice).

Part I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (High Voice).
Part II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (High Voice).

Part I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (Medium Voice).
Part II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (Medium Voice).

Price Four Shillings each Part.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

INTERVAL EXERCISES

FOR SINGING CLASSES

TO WHICH ARE ADDED A FEW TWO-PART TIME EXERCISES

BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

Price Eightpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

ART OF TRAINING CHOIR BOYS

BY

G. C. MARTIN

Organist and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Price Three Shillings; in paper boards, 3s. 6d.

(No. 39. NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.'S MUSIC PRIMERS, Edited by Sir John Stainer.)

The Exercises for the use of Boys also published separately. Price One Shilling; in paper boards, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

GEORGE L. ALLAN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. Edward Stubbs, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the Author, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, Joseph Williams, 24, Berners Street, W.

With Preface by Sir Julius Benedict.

LIFE of JOHANN SEBASTIAN BACH, from the German of C. H. Bitter. By J. E. Kay-Shuttleworth. With a Complete List of all his known Works, giving particulars as to Voices, Instruments, and Key for each. Crown 8vo, cloth, 3s.

London: Houlston and Sons, Paternoster Square.

FÉODORA.—Music by W. J. Leaver. Words by F. E. Weatherly. In B flat (C to D), C, D, and E. 2s., post-free.

"A boldly conceived song of a popular type."—Musical News.

"A splendid song. The disappointment that so frequently follows the purchase of a new song is impossible with 'Féodora.' It should be very popular."—The Lyric.

London: Scott and Co., 27, South Molton Street, W.

TWO-PART SONGS

FOR

USE IN SCHOOLS, &c.

TWELVE CANONS

FOR TWO-PART FEMALE CHORUS OR TWO SOLO VOICES

With Accompaniment for the Pianoforte

BY

CARL REINECKE.

The English translation by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence; or, singly:—

In life if love we know not	2d.
The rose is queen	2d.
Waken not the sleeper	2d.
Good night	2d.
Eat the fruit, but give the seed	2d.
Woe to him that, when life doth close	2d.
Look upward	2d.
Happiness ever is fugitive found	2d.
A Christmas Carol	2d.
O beautiful violet	2d.
Prayer on the waters	2d.
Invitation to the dance	4d.

SONGS OF THE FOREST

SIX TWO-PART SONGS FOR LADIES' VOICES

The Poetry by

EDWARD OXENFORD

The Music by

JOHN KINROSS.

Price One Shilling; or, singly, Threepence each.

Early morning.	Flow'rets fair.
Hunter's song.	The waterfall.
Merry songsters.	Shades of night.

THIRTEEN TWO-PART SONGS

BY

F. MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY.

Price One Shilling; cloth, 2s.; or, singly, Twopence each.

Ditto, English and German words, 2s.; cloth, 4s.; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 8d.

I would that my love.	The Sabbath morn.
The Passage-bird's farewell.	The harvest field.
Greeting.	Song from "Ruy Blas."
Autumn Song.	Home, far away.
O wert thou in the cauld blast.	Evening song.
The May bells and the flowers.	My bark is bounding.
	Zuleika and Hassan.

SIX TWO-PART ANTHEMS

FOR LADIES' OR BOYS' VOICES

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling; or, singly, Threepence each.

The night is far spent	Advent.
There were shepherds	Christmas.
Is it nothing to you	Good Friday or Lent.
Why seek ye the living among the dead?	Easter.
If ye then be risen with Christ	Ascensiontide.
Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard	Whitsuntide.

SIX TWO-PART SONGS

FOR LADIES' OR BOYS' VOICES

BY

MYLES B. FOSTER.

Price One Shilling; or, singly, Twopence each.

To Sea.	Song should breathe of scents and flowers.
If hope were but a fairy.	March.
The willow and its lesson.
The promised land.

THREE HUNDRED AND NINETY-SIX TWO-PART EXERCISES

FOR CHOIRS AND SCHOOLS

(Novello's Music Primers, No. 23). May be used with any system of Sol-fa.

BY

JAMES GREENWOOD.

Price One Shilling; paper boards, 1s. 6d.

A COLLECTION OF TWO-PART SOLFEGGI

IN THE PRINCIPAL MAJOR KEYS

DESIGNED FOR THE PRACTICE OF CHORISTERS AND VOCAL CLASSES GENERALLY.

Selected from Durante, Handel, Leo, Scarlatti, Steffani, Nares, Webbe, &c.

BY

JAMES HIGGS.

Price One Shilling.

FIVE MINUTES' EXERCISES

IN TWO PARTS, FOR THE USE OF SINGING CLASSES IN SCHOOLS

BY

FLORENCE A. MARSHALL.

Price Sixpence.

For further list of Two-part Songs, see Novello's list of Trios, &c., for Female Voices.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

PERFORMED BY THE HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE

PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN

BY

ROBERT BROWNING

SET TO MUSIC

FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

A SONG OF LIFE

(ODE TO MUSIC)

No. 1. Lullaby. No. 3. Serenade. No. 5. Ave Maria.
„ 2. King Cricket. „ 4. The Charge. „ 6. Requiem.
No. 7. "Song of the Redeemed."

SET TO MUSIC FOR FOUR-PART CHORUS

BY

ALFRED R. GAUL.

Price One Shilling; Words only, Five Shillings per hundred.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

HORA NOVISSIMA

The Rhythm of Bernard de Morlaix on the Celestial Country

SET TO MUSIC FOR SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

HORATIO W. PARKER

(Op. 30).

Composed for the Church Choral Society, New York.

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

In the Press.

CANTATA

SET TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM

CROSSING THE BAR

For Full Orchestra, Chorus, and Pianoforte

By ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String Parts, 5s.; Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

SIX PIECES

FOR THE VIOLONCELLO

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED AND ARRANGED BY

G. LIBOTTON.

		s.	d.
1.	Etude Caprice .. .. net	2	6
2.	Rêverie .. .. „	1	6
3.	Caprice Hongrois .. .. „	2	0
4.	Nocturne (Chopin, Op. 27, No. 2) .. .. „	1	6
5.	Chant sans Paroles (Tschaikowsky) .. „	1	6
6.	Du bist die Ruh' (Schubert).. .. .. „	1	6

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

FIFTEEN VOCALISES

A SEQUEL TO THE

TWENTY-FIVE LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE

BY

J. CONCONE.

Edited, with Marks of Expression and Phrasing, by Alberto Randegger.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

ASK WHAT THOU WILT

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

M. C. GILLINGTON

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HARVEY LÖHR.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

W. A. MOZART.

The English Version by the Rev. J. Troutbeck, D.D.

Contents:

The Enchanter.
The Violet.
Parting and Meeting.
When evening falls.
To Chloe.
Unhappy Love.
Longing for the Spring.
The oncoming of Spring.
Children at play.
Cupid awakened.
Uncertainty.
Happy friendship.
Why climb.
Worldless woe.
To Loneliness.
Arete.
The Little Spinner.
Life's Journey.
Contentment.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

IRISH SONGS AND BALLADS

THE WORDS BY

ALFRED PERCEVAL GRAVES

THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY

C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

Price Four Shillings.

Contents:

The Song of the Turf.
The Exiles.
Arranmore Boat Song.
The Roving Pedlar.
The Zephyrs blest.
Colonel Carty.
The Ploughman's whistle.
Love's hallowed seal.
The March of the Maguire.
Lullaby.
A Lament.
The Song of the Ghost.
Silver and Gold.
Mavourneen Dhu.
The Darling.
O Mary, thy laugh was sweet.
Hush song.
The Kilkenny cats.
Sweet Isle.
The Hero of Limerick.
Loved bride of O'Byrne.
Our Inniskilling boy.
Festival Song (Pleraca).
Johnny Cox.
The Irish Reel.
Molleen Oge.
Last night I dreamt of my own [true love.
Bright love of my heart.
My Colleen rue.
Chieftain of Tyrconnell.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

CROSSING THE BAR. Song. Compass, D flat to E flat. Composed by Vyvyan Wallis Popham. Price 2s. net. Reid Bros., 436, Oxford Street, W.

SUNG WITH OVERWHELMING APPLAUSE

BY

MADAME MARIE ROSE AND MR. IVER McKAY

AND BY ALL THE LEADING ARTISTS OF THE DAY.

AN IMMENSE SUCCESS.

AVERAGE SALE EXCEEDS 5,000 WEEKLY.

LINDSAY LENNOX'S

GRAND NEW SONG

DREAM MEMORIES

COMPANION SONG TO "LOVE'S GOLDEN DREAM."

FOUR EDITIONS PUBLISHED.

E FLAT (Compass, B to D); in F (Compass, C to E); in G (Compass, D to F); and in A FLAT (Compass, E to G).

EVERYONE CAN PLAY IT. EVERYONE SINGS IT. ALL LIKE IT.

ARRANGEMENTS.

TRANSCRIPTION FOR PIANOFORTE.	By BOYTON SMITH	net	2s. od.
Do. do.	By WILLIAM SMALLWOOD	,,	1s. 6d.
ARRANGEMENT FOR VIOLIN AND PIANOFORTE.	By F. W. DAVENPORT	,,	1s. 6d.
CORNET AND PIANOFORTE.	CELIAN KOTTAUN	,,	1s. 6d.

Cyril Dare's Popular Waltz for Pianoforte, "SWEET SEVENTEEN," on the above Song .... 2s. net.

Piano Solo, 2s. Orchestra, 1s. 6d. Septet, 1s. Brass Band, 1s. 6d. Military Band, 3s.

DREAM MEMORIES

WALTZ

(ON THE ABOVE POPULAR SONG)

Piano Solo, 2s. Orchestra, 1s. 6d. Septet, 1s. Brass Band, 1s. 6d. Military Band, 3s.

BY

THEO. BONHEUR

(Composer of the World-renowned Waltz, "Love's Golden Dream").

Complete Catalogues, gratis and post-free, on application.

London: THE LONDON MUSIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, Ltd.,

7, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET, W.

NOVELLO'S CONCERT EDITION.

HANDEL'S SONGS

FROM THE ORATORIOS.

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

SOPRANO

Edited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing,

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

Air—"Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion" (Messiah).
Air—"Come unto Him" (Messiah).
Air—"How beautiful are the feet" (Messiah).
Air—"I know that my Redeemer liveth" (Messiah).
Recit.—"No more in Zion" .. .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Wise men flatt'ring, may deceive you" }
Recit.—"O grant it, Heaven" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"So shall the lute and harp awake" }
Recit.—"O let eternal honours crown His name" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"From mighty kings he took the spoil" }
Recit.—"To Heaven's Almighty King we kneel" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"O Liberty! thou choicest treasure" .. }
Air—"Pious orgies" (Judas Maccabæus).
Recit.—"Ye sacred Priests" .. } (Jephtha).
Air—"Farewell, ye limpid springs" }
Air—"O! had I Jubal's lyre" (Joshua).
Recit.—"O, worse than death" .. } (Theodora).
Air—"Angels ever bright and fair" }

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

TENOR

Edited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

Recit.—"Comfort ye, my people" } (Messiah).
Aria—Ev'ry valley shall be exalted" }
Recit.—"Thy rebuke hath broken his heart" .. } (Messiah).
Arioso—"Behold, and see if there be any sorrow" }
Recit.—"He was cut off out of the land of the living" } (Messiah).
Air—"But Thou didst not leave his soul in hell" .. }
Recit.—"He that dwelleth in Heaven" } (Messiah).
Air—"Thou shalt break them" .. .. }
Recit.—"'Tis well, my friends" } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Call forth thy powers" }
Recit.—"Thanks to my brethren" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"How vain is man who boasts in fight" }
Recit.—"My arms! against this Gorgias will I go" } (Judas Maccabæus)
Air—"Sound an alarm!" .. .. }
Recit.—"O loss of sight" } (Samson).
Air—"Total eclipse" .. }
Recit —"Deeper and deeper still" } (Jephtha).
Air—"Waft her, angels" .. .. }
Air—"The enemy said" (Israel in Egypt).
Recit.—"My grief for this" .. .. .. } (Samson).
Air—"Why does the God of Israel sleep?" }
Air—"Where'er you walk" (Semele).
Recit.—"O God, who from the suckling's mouth" } (Esther).
Air—"Sing songs of praise" .. .. }

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

CONTRALTO

Edited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing,

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

Recit.—"Behold! a Virgin shall conceive" .. } (Messiah).
Air—"O thou that tellest good tidings to Zion" }
Recit.—"Then shall the eyes of the blind be opened" } (Messiah).
Air—"He shall feed His flock like a shepherd" .. }
Air—"He was despised and rejected" (Messiah).
Air—"Father of Heav'n" (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Return, O God of Hosts" (Samson).
Air—"Their land brought forth frogs" (Israel in Egypt).
Air—"Thou shalt bring them in" (Israel in Egypt).
Air—"O Lord, whose mercies" (Saul).
Air—"Lord, to Thee each night and day" (Theodora).
Recit.—"Great prophetess, my soul's on fire" } (Deborah).
Air—"In the battle fame pursuing" .. .. }
Recit.—"'Twill be a painful separation" } (Jephtha).
Air—"In gentle murmurs will I mourn" }
Recit.—"See, she blushing turns her eyes" } (Semele).
Air—"Hymen, haste! thy torch prepare" }

TWELVE SONGS

FOR

BARITONE OR BASS

Edited, with marks for expression, phrasing, and breathing

BY

ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price Two Shillings.

CONTENTS.

Recit.—"Thus saith the Lord" .. .. } (Messiah).
Air—"But who may abide the day of His coming" }
Recit.—"For, behold, darkness shall cover the earth" } (Messiah).
Air—"The people that walked in darkness" .. .. }
Air—"Why do the nations so furiously rage together?" (Messiah).
Recit.—"Behold, I tell you a mystery" } (Messiah).
Air—"The trumpet shall sound" .. }
Recit.—"I feel the Deity within" } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"Arm, arm, ye brave" .. }
Recit.—"Be comforted" .. .. } (Judas Maccabæus).
Air—"The Lord worketh wonders" }
Recit.—"The good we wish for" .. .. .. } (Samson).
Air—"Thy glorious deeds inspir'd my tongue" }
Air—"Honour and arms" (Samson).
Air—"How willing my paternal love" (Samson).
Recit.—"It must be so" .. .. } (Jephtha).
Air—"Pour forth no more unheeded pray'rs" }
Air—"Revenge, Timotheus cries" (Alexander's Feast).
Recit.—"I'll hear no more" } (Esther).
Air—"Pluck root and branch" }

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

SHOUGGIE SHOU, MY BAIRNIE

A MITHER'S SANG

The Words written by J. Wilson M'Laren

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW MUSIC by T. E. Spinney. Words by Amy Thorn. THE SINGER, NOT THE SONG. Price 2s. net. (One of the prettiest songs of the day.)

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SEVEN SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

Contents:

Das Ferne Land (The far-off Land).
Der Rosenstrauch (The Rose Bush).
Das Meer der Hoffnung (The Ocean of Hope).
Poesie (Poesy).
An Leukon (To Leukon).
Quand je te vois.
Daheim (In Thee).

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

"It is refreshing, after wading through countless specimens of the ordinary British ballad, to come across a set of songs so artistic in design as those contained in the album labelled 'Seven Songs,' by Sir John Stainer. . . . Amateurs on the look-out for something really good may confidently be recommended to devote their attention to these admirable songs."—Morning Post.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

SIX

ELIZABETHAN PASTORALS

SET TO MUSIC FOR CHORUS (S.A.T.B.) UNACCOMPANIED

BY

C. V. STANFORD.

1. To his flocks .. .. 3d.
2. Corydon, arise .. .. 3d.
3. Diaphenia .. .. .. 2d.
4. Sweet love for me .. .. 3d.
5. Damon's Passion .. .. 3d.
6. Phœbe .. .. .. 3d.

ALSO

FOUR PART-SONGS.

1. Soft, soft wind .. .. 2d.
2. Sing heigh-ho! .. .. 2d.
3. Airly Beacon .. .. 2d.
4. The Knight's Tomb .. 2d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

TWELVE

EASY VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

HARMONIUM

COMPOSED BY

MAX OESTEN

(Op. 186).

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SEVEN

OFFERTORY SENTENCES

SET TO SIMPLE AND EASY MUSIC

BY

REV. E. V. HALL, M.A.,

Late Precentor of Worcester Cathedral.

Price Fourpence.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW FOREIGN PUBLICATIONS.

	s.	d.
DIPPE, GUST.—Three Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 14:— No. 1. Gondoliera; No. 2. Serenade; No. 3. Melodie each	3	0
DÖRING, C. H.—Two Easy Sonatas. For the Pianoforte. Op. 83:— No. 1. In C major	3	0
,, 2. In F major	4	0
FLÜGEL, G.—Introduction and Fugue. In F minor. For the Organ. Op. 106	4	0
FUMAGALLI, B.—Gavotte. For Strings. Op. 6:— Score and Parts net	2	0
—— The same. For Pianoforte Solo	3	0
—— Menuetto. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 9	3	0
—— Romanze. For Pianoforte Solo. Op. 10	3	0
—— Sonata. In F minor. For the Organ. Op. 292	6	0
GLUCK, CHR.—Ballet from "Orfeo." Arranged for Violin, Violoncello, Harmonium, and Harp	5	0
GODARD, B.—3me Quatuor. For Two Violins, Viola, and Violoncello Op. 136 net	8	0
GOHTHELF, F.—Hymn. For Violin, Violoncello, Harp, and Harmonium. Op. 6:— Parts	9	0
Score	5	0
HERZOGENBERG, H. von—Quintet. Arranged as Pianoforte Duet. Op. 77	16	0
JADASSOHN, S.—Four Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 117 (Widmung, Frühlingsnahen, Improvisata, Scherzino)	6	0
—— Four Pieces. For the Pianoforte. Op. 118	6	0
LANGE, S. de—Old Dutch Songs. Arranged for the Organ	4	0
—— Hebräische Melodie. For Violin and Pianoforte	4	0
LEONCAVALLO, R.—"Pagliacci." Dramma in due atti. Pianoforte score net	10	0
Intermezzo for the Pianoforte ,,	1	6
Selection I. Pianoforte Duet ,,	2	6
Selection II. Pianoforte Duet ,,	2	0
OBERTHÜR.—Scherzo. For Harp Solo. Op. 341	4	0
SEYDLER, TH.—Fugirtes Vorspiel zu "Ein' feste Burg." For Organ	3	0
SCHARF, M.—Quintet. For Violin, Viola, Violoncello, Bass, and Pianoforte. Op. 41	8	0
SCHURIG, V.—Eight Preludes. For the Organ. Op. 46	4	0
THIERIOT, F.—Serenade. For Strings. Op. 44:— Score net	6	0
Parts	10	0
—— The same. As Pianoforte Duet	10	0
—— Trio. For Pianoforte, Violin, and Violoncello. Op. 45	16	0
—— Seven Pieces. For Violoncello and Pianoforte. Op. 60. Books I., II. each	5	0
WOHLFAHRT, R.—A Course of Instruction in Playing Duets on the Pianoforte during the first year of Study. Op. 228	10	0

Sold at half-price, if not marked net.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

BISHOP'S GLEES, &c.

THE ORCHESTRAL PARTS

Reprinted from the Original Full Scores.

	s.	d.
ALLEGIANCE WE SWEAR	6	6
BLOW, GENTLE GALES. Quintet	2	9
CHOUGH AND CROW. Trio and Chorus	5	0
COME O'ER THE BROOK. Glee	2	6
DAUGHTER OF ERROR	2	6
FISHERMAN'S GOOD-NIGHT. Glee	2	0
GOOD-NIGHT, GOOD REST. Glee	2	0
HARK! 'TIS THE INDIAN DRUM. Round for four Voices	3	9
HART AND HIND ARE IN THEIR LAIR	4	9
MERRY BOYS, AWAY	5	0
MYNHEER VANDUNCK	4	9
NOW BY DAY'S RETIRING LAMP. Quintet	3	6
NOW TRAMP O'ER MOSS AND FELL. Chorus	4	3
O BY RIVERS. Serenade	3	3
SLEEP, GENTLE LADY. S.A.T.B.	2	3
Ditto. A.T.T.B.	2	3
SPIRITS, ADVANCE	3	3
STAY, PR'YTHEE, STAY. Sestet	3	9
THE TIGER COUCHES IN THE WOOD	4	3
TO SEE HIS FACE. Round	3	0
WHAT HO! CLANSMAN. Chorus	6	0
WHAT SHALL HE HAVE THAT KILLED THE DEER. Glee, with Chorus ad lib.	4	0
WHEN THE WIND BLOWS. Round for three Voices	3	9
WHO IS SYLVIA? Glee	2	0
WINDS WHISTLE COLD. Glee	3	3

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE PIANOFORTE

EDITED, ARRANGED IN GROUPS, AND THE FINGERING REVISED AND SUPPLEMENTED

BY

FRANKLIN TAYLOR.

This Collection of Studies is intended to illustrate the various elements of a complete course of pianoforte technique, and to provide students with the means of attacking and overcoming the different special difficulties which have to be encountered. With this view, the Studies have been arranged in groups, those in each group being placed in progressive order, and having reference to some one particular difficulty. The greater part of the Studies themselves have been selected from the standard works of the most eminent Study-writers, and with these are included numerous others, which, though of equally great practical utility, have hitherto been less generally accessible.

1.	FIVE-FINGER STUDIES	Part 1*
2.	„ „	„ 2*
3.	SCALES	Part 1*
4.	„	„ 2*
5.	BROKEN CHORDS	Part 1*
6.	„ „	„ 2*
7.	„ „	„ 3*
8.	„ „	„ 4
9.	„ „	„ 5
10.	LEFT HAND	Part 1*
11.	„ „	„ 2*
12.	„ „	„ 3
13.	„ „	„ 4
14.	ARPEGGIO	Part 1*
15.	„	„ 2*
16.	„	„ 3
17.	VELOCITY	Part 1*
18.	„	„ 2*
19.	„	„ 3
20.	„	„ 4
21.	„	„ 5
22.	„	„ 6
23.	„	„ 7
24.	FIGURES IN SEQUENCE	Part 1
25.	„ „	„ 2
26.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 1
27.	BROKEN THIRDS, SIXTHS, AND OCTAVES	Part 2
28.	SHAKES	Part 1*
29.	„	„ 2*
30.	„	„ 3
31.	DOUBLE NOTES	Part 1*
32.	„ „	„ 2*
33.	„ „	„ 3
34.	„ „	„ 4
35.	OCTAVES	Part 1*
36.	„	„ 2*
37.	CHORDS	Part 1*
38.	„	„ 2
39.	STACCATO
40.	REPETITION	Part 1
41.	REPETITION AND TREMOLO	„ 2
42.	„ „	„ 3
43.	PART-PLAYING	Part 1
44.	„ „	„ 2
45.	ORNAMENTS	Part 1
46.	„	„ 2
47.	ACCOMPANIED MELODY	Part 1
48.	„ „	„ 2
49.	EXTENSIONS AND SKIPS	Part 1
50.	„ „	„ 2
51.	RHYTHM	Part 1
52.	„	„ 2

* These Parts are already published.

FIFTY-TWO BOOKS, PRICE ONE SHILLING EACH.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

NOW READY.

VOICE TRAINING STUDIES

SEQUEL TO "VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES"

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

WITH TONIC SOL-FA TRANSLATION BY KATE BEHNKE.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

The unprecedented success of "Voice Training Exercises" is the best proof that they supplied a real want with regard to the cultivation of the singing voice, and we are thereby encouraged to issue a set of "Voice Training Studies" as an additional step in the same direction. These Studies are intended for the formation of style and are written progressively in three different parts, corresponding in compass with those of the Exercises, so that they may serve as companion volumes or as supplements.

58TH EDITION.

VOICE TRAINING EXERCISES

BY

EMIL BEHNKE, Lecturer on Vocal Physiology and Teacher of Voice Production. | CHARLES W. PEARCE, Mus. Doc., Cantab.

In separate Books, for Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano, Contralto, Tenor, Baritone, and Bass.

PRICE EIGHTEENPENCE. IN CLOTH BOARDS, THREE SHILLINGS.

"Admirable, and doubtless will prove of great utility."—Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley.
"Far more precise in plan than anything I have seen."—Sir Robert Stewart.
"I like the exercises very much; they are scientific, systematic, and ingenious."—Dr. Stainer.

RIMBAULT'S SINGING TUTOR

CHIEFLY SELECTED FROM THE CELEBRATED TUTOR OF LABLACHE.

Comprising directions for the formation and cultivation of the Voice, after the Methods of the best Italian Masters; also a series of Progressive Lessons, Studies in Vocalisation, Solfeggios, &c., with an Accompaniment for the Pianoforte. Editions for Soprano, Tenor, Contralto, or Bass .. .. each net s. 2 d. 6

LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Soprano or Tenor .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Medium Voices .. .. net 2 6
LABLACHE'S PROGRESSIVE SOLFEGGI for Contralto or Mezzo-Soprano .. .. net 2 6
This Edition can also be used for a Bass Voice.
LABLACHE VOCAL EXERCISES .. .. net 2 6
This celebrated work is very largely used by singing masters, and at all the principal Schools of the United Kingdom.

CHAPPELL'S VOCAL LIBRARY OF PART-SONGS.

A COLLECTION OF
GLEES, MADRIGALS, PART-SONGS, &c., FOR ALL VOICES.
CONTAINING WORKS BY
GOUNOD, ARTHUR SULLIVAN, HENRY SMART, J. L. HATTON, &c.
LIST OF CONTENTS ON APPLICATION.

NEW WORKS FOR TONIC SOL-FA.

FAUST

A Dramatic Legend by HECTOR BERLIOZ. Price 3s. 6d. net.
A Tonic Sol-fa Edition of this celebrated Work. Just Published. Price 2s. 6d. net.

JACKDAW OF RHEIMS

Cantata written by THOMAS INGOLDSBY. Music by GEORGE FOX. Price 2s. 6d. net.
Edition for Tonic Sol-fa. Just Published. 1s. 6d. net.

Orchestral and Chorus Parts of the above may be had on Hire of—

CHAPPELL AND CO., 50, NEW BOND ST., LONDON.

Printed by NOVELLO, EWER and Co., at 69 & 70, Dean Street (W.), and published at 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.)
Sold also by KENT and Co., Paternoster Row (E.C.)—Saturday, April 1, 1893.

THE MUSICAL TIMES

AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.

PUBLISHED ON THE FIRST OF EVERY MONTH.

No. 603.—Vol. 34. MAY 1, 1893. Price 4d.; Post-free, 5d.
Registered for transmission abroad. Annual Subscription, Postage-free, 5s.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY,

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

Patron: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN.
President: H.R.H. THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH, K.G.
Conductor: Sir JOSEPH BARNBY.

WEDNESDAY, May 10, at Eight,

STANFORD'S "EAST TO WEST."

AN ODE, COMPOSED FOR THE CHICAGO CELEBRATION OF 1893

(First time of performance)

AND

MENDELSSOHN'S "ELIJAH."

Artists: Miss ESTHER PALLISER, Madame BELLE COLE, Mr. EDWARD LLOYD, and Mr. ANDREW BLACK.

Organist, Mr. W. HODGE.

Prices: Stalls, 10s. 6d.; Arena, 7s.; Balcony (reserved), 5s.; unreserved, 4s.; Gallery (promenade only), 1s.

SOCIETY OF ARTS PRACTICAL EXAMINATIONS in VOCAL and INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

Joint Examiners: Sir Joseph Barnby and W. G. McNaught, Esq.
The Examination in 1893 will commence in the third week in June.
Full particulars can be obtained on application to the Secretary.
(By order) HENRY TRUEMAN WOOD, Secretary.
Society's House, John Street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

May 2.—Lecture at 8, on "Grieg's Harmony," by Dr. F. J. Sawyer, F.C.O., with Vocal and Instrumental Illustrations. May 8.—Annual College Dinner, at 7, at Holborn Restaurant. Tickets for Members and Friends on application. June 6.—Lecture at 8, by Dr. Philip Armes, M.A., F.C.O. July 11, 12, and 13.—F.C.O. Examination. The solo-playing test pieces are Prelude and Fugue (the Wedge) in E minor—Bach; Fantasia in F minor—Silas, Op. 118 (published by Messrs. Novello and Co.), and Sonata, No. 5, in F sharp major—Rheinberger. July 14.—F.C.O. Diploma Distribution at 11. July 18, 19, and 20.—A.C.O. Examination. July 21.—A.C.O. Diploma Distribution at 11. July 25, at 8.—Annual General Meeting. The Library and rooms are open daily from 10 to 5, and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9. Members may have occasional access to the College Organ for private practice, on terms to be ascertained on application.
E. H. TURPIN, Hon. Secretary.
Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

TO CANDIDATES FOR FELLOWSHIPS, COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.

The undermentioned pieces have been selected by the College Council for the next Fellowship Examination, July, 1893:—

		s.	d.
Prelude and Fugue in E minor (The Wedge), Bach	price net	2	9
Fantasia in F minor (Op. 118), E. Silas	,,	2	6
Sonata in F sharp, Rheinberger	,,	3	0

THE ORGAN WORKS OF JOHN SEBASTIAN BACH

EDITED BY

J. F. BRIDGE, Mus. Doc., & JAMES HIGGS, Mus. Bac.

IN TEN BOOKS (to be continued).

BOOK VIII. contains the Prelude and Fugue in E minor (The Wedge), selected by the College of Organists for the July Examination.

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS NET.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

J. F. BARNETT'S CANTATA

PARADISE AND THE PERI

Vocal score (paper) .. .. 4s.
Do. (cloth) .. .. 6s.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,

TENTERDEN STREET, W.

Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.

Patrons: HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN AND THE ROYAL FAMILY.
Principal: Dr. A. C. MACKENZIE.

Lectures by F. Corder, Esq., Wednesdays, May 3, 10, 17, 24, 31, at 3.
Fortnightly Concerts, May 13, 27, at 8.
Midsummer Half-Term commences June 15.
Entry Forms and all information may be obtained from the Secretary.
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

THE ONLY MONTHLY PERIODICAL EXCLUSIVELY DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF MUSIC IN SCHOOLS.

Price 1½d.; Annual Subscription (including postage), 2s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW CONTAINS:—

Articles on Musical Subjects of General Interest to Teachers, contributed by School Music Specialists.
General Notes on Important Musical Events of the Month.
Reports of School Concerts and Competitions.
School Songs in both Notations, and suited to the capacities of the Children in the different divisions of Schools.
Exercises in Sight-Singing in both Notations.
Reviews of School Music.
Solutions to the Questions in Music set at the different Examinations in connection with the Education Department and other Examining Bodies.
Correspondence.
Notes and Queries, &c.

THE MUSIC SEPARATELY, PRICE 1½D.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR MAY

CONTAINS:—

General Notes.
The Education Department Returns for 1892.
Suggestions for Lessons:—
I. The Study of Rhythm; II. The Construction of the Scale. By W. G. McNaught.
At what age may Girls begin to learn Singing?
Singing in Devonshire Schools.
Classification of Voices in Mixed Schools.
Reviews.
School Music in Boston (U.S.A.).
Indian Musical Notation.
News from all Parts.

THE

SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW

FOR MAY

CONTAINS THE FOLLOWING MUSIC IN BOTH NOTATIONS:—

"Swing Song." Two-part Song. By Gustav Ernest.
"Humpty Dumpty." Round. By E. P. Sweeting.
Studies in Time and Tune Combined. By W. G. McNaught.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Office: 1, Berners Street, W.

PROFESSIONAL NOTICES.

MISS FLORENCE ARMRIDING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Mr. Shakespeare and Medalist, R.A.M.).
For Oratorios, Concerts, Lessons, &c., at 20, Conduit Street. Address, Leicester Villa, Ealing, W.

MADAME BARTER (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., Westbury Road, Wood Green, N.

MADAME CARRIE BLACKWELL (Soprano)
(Pupil of the late Madame Sainton-Dolby).
Orchestral, Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 4A, Sloane Square, S.W.

MISS EMILY DAVIES (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Severn House, Seven Sisters' Road, Finsbury Park, N.

MADAME ELEANOR DAY (Soprano)
Concerts, Private Lessons, &c. Strathaven, Hendon, N.W.

MISS MARJORIE EATON (Soprano)
(Pupil of W. Shakespeare, Esq., London).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c. 237, Katherine Street, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MADAME MADELINE HARDY (Soprano)
27, Loughborough Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS TERESA HAYNES (Soprano),
90, Bury New Road, Higher Broughton, Manchester.
Spa, Scarborough.—"The vocalist for the week is Miss Teresa Haynes, who unites a pleasing voice with an equally pleasing and graceful style."—Scarborough Gazette, April 13.
"There was a good attendance at the second sacred concert at the Spa, and Miss Haynes afforded intense pleasure by her rendering of 'Hear ye, Israel,' 'Ave Maria' (Gounod), and 'Pious Orgies.'"—Scarborough News, April 17.

MISS JESSIE HOTINE (Soprano)
For Concerts, Oratorios, At Homes, &c.
For vacant dates, address, 33, Upper Bedford Place, Russell Sq., W.C.

MADAME LITA JARRATT (Soprano)
For Concerts, Pupils, &c., address, 29, Offley Road, Stockwell, S.W.
"Charming voice."—Daily Telegraph, Sept. 25, 1891.
"Admirable voice and methode."—Daily Chronicle.

MISS ADA LOARING (Soprano)
(Pupil of Albert Visetti, Esq.)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 75, Friern Road, Dulwich, S.E.

MISS FLORENCE MONK (Soprano)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., Glebe Field, Stoke Newington, N.

MISS LIZZIE SCOTT (Soprano)
For Oratorio, Ballad Concerts, &c., 38, York Road, Northampton.

MISS FANNIE SELLERS (Soprano)
Oratorios, Concerts, Festival Services, &c., Crag Cottage, Knaresbro'.

MISS ETHEL WEBB (Soprano)
Concerts, &c. 14, Balmoral Road, Nottingham.

MISS GERTRUDE WESLEY (Soprano & Harpist)
(Great-granddaughter of Samuel Wesley).
For Oratorio or Ballad Concerts. Testimonials and Critiques from 53, High Street, Doncaster.

MISS FRIDESWIDE C. SLATER (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Ballad Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons.
17, Wood Lane, Highgate, N.

MISS MARY WILLIS (Mezzo-Soprano)
For Oratorios, Operas, Concerts, or Private Lessons, address, 9, Rochester Terrace, Camden Road, N.W.

MISS M. L. BOOKER, L.R.A.M. (Contralto)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, care of Mr. Wm. Marriott, 295, Oxford Street, W.; or, Shirebrook Villa, Heeley, Sheffield.

MISS EMMIE FINNEY (Contralto)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
42, Pembridge Road, Notting Hill Gate, W.

MRS. HAMILTON ROBINSON (Contralto)
Concerts, At Homes, &c. Lessons in Voice-Production and Solo Singing. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MISS RINA ROBINSON (Contralto)
For Oratorio and Ballad Concerts. 67, Carleton Rd., Tufnell Park, N. References kindly permitted to Dr. A. H. Mann, Dr. E. H. Turpin, and Mr. F. A. W. Docker.

MADAME and MR. SUTTON SHEPLEY
(Contralto and Baritone).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 97, Dalberg Road, Brixton, S.W.

MISS CLARA SPENCER (Contralto)
(Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music (Artist), 1893, Pupil of Mr. Walter Mackway).
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 7, Manor Road, Stoke Newington, N.; or, Holmdale, Parkstone, Dorset.

MISS BRENDA SUTHERLAND (Contralto)
Oratorio, Opera, Concerts, At Homes, &c. 51, Parkhurst Road, N.

MISS LOTTIE SWEENEY (Contralto)
(Pupil of Madame Sainton-Dolby).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, Miss Sweeney, Vocalist, Armley, near Leeds.

MR. MUNRO DAVISON, F.C.O.
(Principal Alto, Temple Church).
For Concerts, Organ Recitals, &c. 101, Tollington Park, N.

MR. WILFRID ACFIELD (Tenor)
For Concerts, Oratorio, Opera, At Homes, Dinners, &c.
46, Messina Avenue, West Hampstead, N.W.

MR. BEN. BURY, L.R.A.M. (Tenor)
Oratorios, Concerts, &c. Church, Lancs.

MR. TOM CHILD
(Principal Tenor, Parish Church, Leeds).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, Parish Church, Leeds.

MR. HERBERT CLINCH (Tenor)
Oratorio, Ballads, &c., address, 41, Frederick St., St. John's Wood, N.W.

MR. C. EMLYN JONES (Tenor)
MADAME EMLYN JONES (Contralto)
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., address, 348, Kennington Road, S.E.

MR. JAMES LEYLAND (Tenor)
106, Bolingbroke Grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

MR. HARRY STUBBS, R.C.M. (Tenor)
(Of St. George's Chapel, Windsor).
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, 18, The Cloisters.

MR. HERBERT ALDRIDGE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c., address, South Street, Romford, Essex.

MR. GILBERT THORNE (Baritone)
For Oratorios, Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, 11, Penryn Street, Oakley Square, N.W.

MR. JNO. W. GREENWOOD (Bass)
For Concerts, Ballads, &c. 140, Queen's Road, Halifax.

MR. SMALLWOOD METCALFE (Bass)
For Oratorios, Concerts, &c.
"Special praise must be given to Mr. Smallwood Metcalfe for his admirable singing. He is the possessor of a fine bass voice of considerable compass and sonority."—The Times, December 6, 1892.
Terms, &c., address, 142, Belsize Road, London, N.W.

MR. GEORGE TROTMAN (Bass)
For Concerts, Oratorios, Dinners, &c.
187, Portobello Road, W.

MISS CHRISTINA BRUMLEU
(Violinist, A.L.A.M.).
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Heimath, Sidcup, Kent.

MISS CLARA FISHER, A.L.A.M. (Violinist)
MISS CHARLOTTE FISHER (Pianist & Accomp.)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c., address, Carrick, Willesden Lane, N.W.

MISS GORDON NUNN (Violinist)
For Concerts, At Homes, &c.
Address, Maylands, Fallowfield, Manchester.

MADAME MARY OWEN (Soprano), returned from abroad. For Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, and Private Lessons. 68, Southampton Row, Russell Square.

MADAME LAURA SMART (Soprano) requests that all communications respecting Oratorio, Operatic Recital, or Ballad Concerts be addressed, 29, Burton Road, Kilburn, N.W.; or, 50, Church Street, Liverpool.

MR. W. CARTLEDGE-WHITE (Tenor) begs to announce his CHANGE OF ADDRESS to 7, Guildford Road, South Lambeth, S.W., where all communications respecting Concerts, Opera, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons should be addressed.

MR. CHARLES ELLISON (Tenor), late principal tenor, Carl Rosa Opera Company, Signor Lago's Royal Italian Opera Company, and the St. James's Hall, Crystal Palace, and Covent Garden Promenade Concerts, is now booking Engagements for Opera, Oratorio, or Ballad Concerts. Address, 42, Florence Road, New Cross, S.E.

MR. LAWRENCE FRYER (Tenor). For Oratorios, Concerts, &c. (Quartets arranged.) Address, 47, Croxted Road, Dulwich; or, St. Paul's Cathedral.

MR. ALFRED GREENWOOD (Tenor Vocalist and Teacher of Singing and Violin) receives PUPILS at his residence, 61, Talgarth Road, West Kensington.

CHANGE of ADDRESS.—MR. DAN PRICE (Baritone, of Westminster Abbey) begs to announce his CHANGE of ADDRESS to 9, Clarendon Road, Holland Park, W., where all communications respecting Concert, Masonic, Oratorio Engagements, and Private Lessons should be addressed.

MR. EGBERT ROBERTS (Bass) requests that all communications respecting Oratorios, Opera, or Concerts be addressed, 45, Pentonville Road, N.

MISS LANE (Accompanist) can undertake to play from manuscript. References: Miss Zippora Monteith and Mr. Isidore de Solla. 38, Beckenham Road, S.E.

MISS CARRIE LEWIS (L.R.A.M.), Performer and Teacher, Accompanist (good reader), and Solo Pianist, accepts ENGAGEMENTS for Concerts, At Homes, Private Practice, &c. 218, Upper Richmond Road, Putney, S.W.

MISS LUCIE HILLIER, Pianist, L.R.A.M. (Perf. and Teacher); Pupil of Hy. Eyers, R.A.M., Prof. Heinrich Barth (Court Pianist, Berlin), and Woldemar Bargiel; highly certificated from the Berlin Königliche Hochschule für Musik (Principal, Dr. Joachim), gives LESSONS at her own or pupil's residence. Special terms for Schools. Highest testimonials. Prepares for all Examinations. Address, 2, Colosseum Terrace, N.W.

MISS CLARA TITTERTON, Associate and Silver Medalist, R.A.M., First Class Certificate Society of Arts, &c., &c., receives PUPILS for the VIOLIN and PIANOFORTE on moderate terms. Lessons given at pupils' own residences. Schools attended. Miss Titterton also accepts Engagements for Concerts and At Homes. 38, Agate Road, The Grove, Hammersmith, W.

HIGH-CLASS SINGING LESSONS.—MDLLE. JEANNE HENRY (Pupil, highly recommended by Madame Viardot-Garcia, Paris Conservatoire). FINISHING LESSONS, VOICE PRODUCTION (Italian method). Highest references. 12 Lessons, three guineas. Engagements for Concerts and At Homes accepted. Apply to Mdlle. Henry, Blandford Mansions, East Street, Manchester Square, W.

MR. FRANK FREWER, L.R.A.M., A.C.O. (Organist, St. James's, Garlickhithe, E.C.), teaches the PIANOFORTE, ORGAN, &c. For terms for Concerts, Organ Recitals, Pianoforte or Organ Lessons, address, 6, Wilmot Place, Rochester Road, Camden Road, N.W.

BASS.—MR. FREDERIC PENNA, having been Solo Baritone at St. Andrew's, Wells Street, St. Mary's, Chelsea, The Oratory, The Bavarian Chapel, &c., gives LESSONS in Church and general Singing, and would accept similar service again. Address, 2, Clarendon Gardens, W.

MR. HAMILTON ROBINSON, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, F.C.O. PIANOFORTE and ORGAN LESSONS. Harmony, Counterpoint, Composition, &c., personally or by post. Classes. Preparation for Examinations. 63, St. Dunstan's Road, West Kensington, W.

MISS

FANNY BOUFFLEUR

(PRINCIPAL SOPRANO, St. Peter's Church (Catholic), Seel Street, Liverpool).

For Oratorios, Cantatas, Operas, Concerts, &c.

Répertoire includes "Messiah," "Elijah," "Samson," "St. Paul," "Creation," "Acis and Galatea," "Alexander's Feast," "May Queen," "Rose Maiden," "Bride of Dunkerron," &c.; also "Stabat Mater" (Rossini), "Imperial Mass" (Haydn), "Twelfth Mass" (Mozart), "Requiem" (Mozart); Haydn's, Hummel's, Mozart's, and Beethoven's Masses and Motets, Cherubini's Mass in C, "O fons amoris," "Alma Virgo," "Ave Maria," &c.

For complete répertoire, Press opinions, photo, &c., address, 239, Upper Parliament Street, Liverpool; or, Agent, N. Vert, Esq., 6, Cork Street, London, W.

MISS

MARIE HOOTON

(CONTRALTO)

(Late Westmoreland Scholar and Parepa-Rosa Gold Medalist of the Royal Academy of Music)

AND

MR.

EDWARD BRANSCOMBE

(TENOR)

(LAY-VICAR OF WESTMINSTER ABBEY)

Are now booking Engagements for the present and ensuing seasons.

Please address, 37, Torrington Square, Bloomsbury; or,

Mr. W. B. HEALEY,

17, Great Marlborough Street, W.

MR. GORDON HELLER

(BARITONE)

(Of St. James's Hall Concerts, London; late Pupil of Henry Blower, Esq.)

Leeds Symphony Concerts, Albert Hall, Leeds.—"The vocalist was Mr. Gordon Heller, who distinguished himself by a highly artistic rendering of Purcell's very difficult air 'Let the dreadful engines,' which displayed to advantage both the extent and quality of his voice, and his command over its resources."—Yorkshire Post, May 11, 1892.

For vacant dates, address, 20, Blenheim Terrace, Leeds.

CHOIR BOYS.

Carefully trained SOLO and LEADING BOYS for permanent Appointments, Festivals, &c.

MR. GEORGE BUDD,

10, Hafer Road, Clapham Junction.

MR. DUTTON (St. Paul's Cathedral) provides SOLO BOYS for Church Festivals, Organ Recitals, Concerts, At Homes, &c.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

Personally trained and thoroughly reliable.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

Specially experienced in Sacred Music.

MR. DUTTON'S SOLO BOYS.

Excellent testimonials and criticisms.

Address, 19, Alpha Road, New Cross, S.E.

SOLO BOYS.

For Oratorios, Festival Services, Organ Recitals, Concerts, &c.

SOLO BOYS.

Exceptional references, testimonials, criticisms.

SOLO BOYS.

Can be heard in London by appointment.

Address, Mr. James Bates, Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, W.

ENGLISH CONCERT PARTY

(CONSISTING OF ENGLISH ARTISTS).

MADAME LESLIE ARNOTT.

MADAME JULIA HUTCHINGS.

MR. BOWYER BRISTOL.

MR. EDMUND EDWARDS.

Solo Pianoforte—

MRS. RICHARDSON, L.R.A.M.

Solo Violin—

MR. W. H. HENLEY.

Solo Harp—

J. H. COCKERILL

(Sir Charles Hallé's Band).

Conductor and Accompanist—

MR. WALTER J. EVANS.

Gounod's Opera

PHILEMON AND BAUCIS.

Having made special arrangements with Sir Augustus Harris, the above Party are prepared to accept Engagements for Concert Recitals of the above Opera. For terms address as below.

"... The whole affair, indeed, was very successful, and reflected the greatest credit upon Mr. Walter J. Evans and his associates in its production."—Birmingham Daily Post.

"The English Concert Party, directed by Mr. Walter J. Evans, gave the first provincial rendering in the Town Hall, and must be complimented on the success of the presentation of the opera."—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Applications for terms and vacant dates to be made to P. Henry Jones, Manager, Midland Musical Agency, Hampden House, Phœnix Street, London, N.W.

THE HORSE-SHOE GLEE SINGERS.

Alto: Mr. PERCY COWARD (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle); Tenor: Mr. ARTHUR S. COWARD; Baritone: Mr. RANDULPH L. COWARD; Bass: Mr. W. BELL KEMPTON (St. George's Chapel Royal, Windsor Castle).

For Concerts, &c. Terms on application to W. Bell Kempton, 16, Horse-Shoe Cloisters, Windsor Castle.

MR. JOSEF CANTOR'S

"GEMS OF THE OPERAS"

CONCERT COMPANY.

All communications, Church Street, Liverpool.

Telegrams—"Cantor, Liverpool."

MUSICAL INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE

Limited.

Central Office: 113, Great Portland Street, W.
Principal: Professor EDWIN M. LOTT, Mus. Doc.
Vice-Principal: J. H. LEWIS, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
LOCAL THEORETICAL EXAMINATIONS, May 17 and November 29. Practical Examinations throughout the kingdom.
W. A. PHILPOTT, Mus. Bac., Secretary.

LONDON CONSERVATOIRE OF MUSIC,

Instituted 1876,
PORCHESTER ROAD, HYDE PARK.

This splendidly appointed historic mansion, with its staff of fifty eminent masters, affords a training of the highest order, with the advantages of a refined and cultured home. Resident and other scholarships awarded to talent. Prospectus, giving opinions of principal London papers recording the success of past and present students, and forms for Liverpool, Manchester, or Birmingham branches post-free.
LANSDOWNE COTTELL, Director.

CHORAL AND INSTRUMENTAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

DERBY SCHOOL. Founded A.D. 1160.
A First Grade Public School.
Head Master .. .. James Sterndale Bennett, M.A.
Assisted by a Chaplain and seven other University Graduates.
Scholarships and other special advantages to musical boys.
The Clergy, Church Organists, and other members of the musical profession are especially invited to write for particulars to the Head Master, Derby School, Derby.

CHURCH CHOIR GUILD

(Guild of Church Musicians).

Under the patronage of the Bishops and Clergy of the Church of England.
For Organists, Choirmasters, Precentors, and Choristers.
President: The Very Rev. Francis Pigou, D.D., Dean of Bristol.
Warden and Licensed Lay Chaplain: J. H. Lewis, Mus. Doc., D.C.L.
Annual Subscription, 10s. 6d.; Life, £5 5s.
Choirs Enrolled, 10s. 6d.
July 5 and 6.—Diploma Examinations for A.C.C.G. and F.C.C.G.
Full set of last Examination Papers, post-free, 13 stamps.
The 1893 Calendar gives full particulars of the Guild, also contains a Table of University Degrees and College Diplomas, with Academic Costume, post-free, 14 stamps.
Wednesday, June 7.—Lecture by Dr. W. J. Westbrook, Mus. Doc., Cantab., at 8 p.m. Admission free by Ticket.
For further particulars see The Church Musician, and apply to Dr. Lewis, "Silvermead," Twickenham, S.W.

By Order of the Council.

MUSICAL PROFESSION.—MR. W. DE M. SERGISON, Organist and Director of the Choir of St. Peter's, Eaton Square, S.W., trains Youths as Musicians, especially as CHOIR-TRAINERS and ORGANISTS. Mr. Sergison's course affords advantages not attainable at any London Academies. Many past pupils are now holding Cathedral and important Church appointments in England, America, and the Colonies. Applications should be addressed to Mr. Sergison, at the Vestry of the Church.

MR. FRANK N. ABERNETHY, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., gives ORGAN, PIANOFORTE, and HARMONY LESSONS, and prepares Candidates for Musical Examinations. 7, Fairmont Road, Brixton Hill, S.W.

MR. W. C. AINLEY, Mus. Bac., Cantab. (1884), teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by Correspondence. Terms moderate. New House, Mirfield, Yorkshire.

DR. ALLISON instructed by Post Candidates who passed the following EXAMINATIONS:—MUS. DOC., OXON. and DUBLIN; MUS. BAC. Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, and Durham (1892); L.R.A.M., 1893; L.L.C.M., 1893; F.C.O., 1893; A.L.C.M., R.A.M., and R.C.M., 1892. FOUR HUNDRED Certificates, "Diplomas," and Degrees have been gained by Dr. Allison's Pupils at Musical Examinations, and they won SIX GOLD MEDALS and Three Silver Medals. Harmony, Counterpoint, Orchestration, and Revision of Compositions, by Post, to Correspondents anywhere. Personal instruction in Theory, Singing, Organ, and Pianoforte. Cambridge House, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MR. J. PERCY BAKER, A.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c., by post. Personal Lessons in Pianoforte or Theory at own or pupil's residence; or at 84, New Bond Street, W. Schools attended. Address, Willersley House, Old Charlton.

EMIL BEHNKE'S System of VOICE TRAINING is carried on by Mrs. and Miss Behnke and assistant. Also Emil Behnke's method of treating STAMMERING. References to doctors whose patients have been cured. Pamphlet, 1s., post-free, of Mrs. Emil Behnke, 18, Earl's Court Square, S.W.

MR. GEORGE J. BENNETT is prepared to receive PUPILS in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, &c. Address, 25, Vincent Square, Westminster, S.W.; or, 1, Berners St., W.

WERREN CURNOW, Organist of Great Queen St. W. Church, receives and visits Pupils for Violin, Piano, Singing, and Harmony LESSONS. Candidates prepared for musical exams. by post. Schools attended. 16, Gt. Russell St., W.C

MR. T. HEMMINGS, Mus. Bac., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus., T.C.L., prepares Candidates for ARTS and MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Stoke-on-Trent.

DR. F. J. KARN, Mus. Bac., Cantab.; Mus. Doc., Trinity College, Toronto; L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS Personally or by post in HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, FUGUE, ORCHESTRATION, ACOUSTICS, &c.; and prepares for Musical Examinations. Latest successes: DURHAM MUS. BAC. and First exam., Sept. 1892; CAMBRIDGE MUS. BAC., 1892; MUS. BAC., LONDON, 1891; MUS. BAC., DUBLIN, 1891 and 1892; F.C.O., and A.C.O., 1892; L.R.A.M. (Composition), 1891; Mus. Doc. and Mus. Bac., Toronto, 1891, Gold Medalist, 1890; L.T.C.L. and A.T.C.L., 1892; F.T.S.C.; Senior Local, R.A.M. and R.C.M., and T.C.L., Theory and Pianoforte; A.R.C.M.; L.Mus., L.C.M. Upwards of 260 Diplomas and Degrees gained by pupils, and several Medals. Terms very moderate. Address, 70, Park Road, Haverstock Hill, N.W.

DR. ORLANDO A. MANSFIELD, Mus. Doc., T.C.T., F.C.O., L.Mus. T.C.L. and L.C.M., Silverton, Torquay, PREPARES CANDIDATES, by Correspondence, for all Musical Exams. MSS. Revised. Fifty successes annually.

VOICE-TRAINING AND SOLO SINGING.

MR. E. DAVIDSON PALMER, Mus. Bac., Oxon., gives LESSONS at his residence, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N. Mr. Palmer's Method is of the utmost importance to Tenors, and to all whose voices have been misused or wrongly trained.

DR. W. JOHN REYNOLDS, D.Mus., Lond., L.Mus., T.C.L., gives LESSONS, personally or by post, in the Theory of Music (including acoustics). Recent successes. 48, Highbury Grove, N.

HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, COMPOSITION, taught by CORRESPONDENCE LESSONS to Pupils in all parts of the kingdom. Preparation for all Exams. Terms very moderate. Prospectus free. "Comparison of English and German Methods of Teaching Harmony." Mr. F. Sommer, A.L.A.M., 14, Mardale Street, Shepherd's Bush, London, W.

MR. R. STOKOE, Mus. Bac., Cantab., F.C.O., gives ORGAN LESSONS at Christ Church, Down Street, Piccadilly. Harmony, Counterpoint, &c., taught personally or by post. 82, Rossiter Road, Balham, S.W.

DR. TAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., F.C.O., L.Mus. (Author of "Vocal Score Reading Exercises for F.C.O. Students"), prepares CANDIDATES for MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS by Post. Address, Wolverhampton Road, Stafford.

MR. A. W. TOMLYN, Mus.B., Dunelm, L.T.C.L., Berwick-on-Tweed, COACHES CANDIDATES for University and all other Exams. by post. Every possible attention and assistance guaranteed. Many past successes.

VOICES TRAINED and SIGHT-SINGING and the PIANOFORTE TAUGHT by Mr. W. A. FROST (Vicar-Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral), at 16, Amwell Street, Myddelton Square, E.C. Many of Mr. Frost's pupils have obtained Cathedral and other choir appointments in open competitions.

MR. W. H. TUTT, Mus. Bac., Cantab., L.R.A.M., teaches HARMONY, COUNTERPOINT, ACOUSTICS, &c., by Correspondence. Ashburn, Derbyshire.

DR. J. WARRINER prepares Candidates successfully for all MUSICAL EXAMINATIONS, and receives Resident and Professional Students, on advantageous terms, if talented. De Crespigny Lodge, Denmark Hill, S.E.

RESIDENT PUPIL REQUIRED.—Thorough training for profession. Preparation for Univ. degree. Three-manual organ. W. E. Thomas, Mus. Bac., Oxon., All Saints', Bloxham, Banbury.

MUSIC PUPIL for LONG VACATION.—Young Man (19), testimonials from German Conservatorium, requires Pupil (15) in June. Offers Tuition and Companionship in good home. Address, Oxon., Shelley's Advertising Offices, 38, Gracechurch Street, E.C.

SOLO BOYS WANTED, for St. Thomas's, Regent Street, accustomed to sing Mass music and Cathedral Services. Payment, £10 to £12 a year. Write, stating age and experience, to A. H. Crowest, 57, Canonbury Park, N.

TREBLE WANTED.—Gentlemanly BOYS (aged 9—12 years), with good characters and promising voices, receive FREE BOARD and EDUCATION in return for singing in the Duke of Newcastle's Church at Clumber. For particulars, and date of trial to fill coming vacancy, apply, The Chaplain, Clumber, Worksop.

CHOIR BOY.—BOY, with good voice, is required for St. Swithin's Church, London Stone. Must have a knowledge of Music. Apply at the Church, on Tuesday evenings, at 7.30.

ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL ROYAL, Windsor Castle.—There is a VACANCY for an ALTO singer in the Choir of the Chapel Royal. Intending applicants should send for information to the Succentor, Cloisters, Windsor Castle. They must not be over twenty-six years of age.

KING'S COLLEGE, Cambridge.—There will be a COMPETITION for a BASS CHORAL SCHOLARSHIP, on June 7, 1893, value £80, for three years. For further information apply to the Dean.

WANTED (Vacancy, Choir), BASS-BARITONE. Sight reader. Address, Freeman, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

MISS FLORENCE MARSHALL (Licentiate of the Royal Academy of Music (Teacher), 1890, Pupil of Mr. Emil Behnke and Mr. Walter Mackway) is open to an ENGAGEMENT as SINGING MISTRESS one or two days a week in London. Pupils have passed the Local Examinations of: The Associated Board, R.A.M. and R.C.M.; Incorporated Society of Musicians; and Trinity College, London. For terms, &c., apply to Miss Florence Marshall, Dromore, Ashby Road, Loughborough.

WANTED, a PRECENTOR, for 1st Newry (Sandys Street) Presbyterian Congregation, to lead the Psalmody and conduct a weekly practice. Anyone well qualified to give instruction in vocal and instrumental music would find a good opening for private tuitions Apply, stating qualifications and salary, to D. Martin, Session Clerk, Littleton, Newry, Ireland.

BANGOR CATHEDRAL. — HON. SUB-ORGANIST REQUIRED. Suitable position for one desiring Cathedral experience. Must be first-class Choir Trainer and judicious Accompanist. Apply, with testimonials (copies only) and references, to the Cathedral Organist.

ORGANIST WANTED, for Park Street Baptist Chapel, Luton. Salary not to exceed £25. Apply, on or before May 10, enclosing copies of testimonials, to the Secretary, 47, Wellington Street, Luton, Beds.

ORGANIST, &c., desires POST in or near London. Moderate salary. Excellent testimonials. Would deputise. Anglican. E., 51, Cumberland Street, Pimlico, S.W.

THE ORGANIST of a well-known Presbyterian Church on the East Coast is open to EXCHANGE DUTIES for a few weeks during summer. Inland preferred. Fine new 3-manual Organ, 40 stops. Address, Mus. Bac., Dunelm, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

ORGANIST requires SITUATION in London. Moderate salary. Good references. Address, E. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 80 and 81, Queen Street, E.C.

WANTED, an ENGAGEMENT as ORGANIST, by a Lady. Good testimonials. Small salary. Address, Medalist, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WELL-KNOWN LONDON ORGANIST will DEPUTISE during August in return for rooms, or might exchange duties. Mus. Doc., Novello and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO MUSICIANS.—A Clergyman's Son is anxious to obtain the services of a thoroughly efficient PIANIST and VOCALIST (Tenor preferred); also, LADY PIANIST and VOCALIST, for out-door performances. Apply, by letter, stating qualifications, Omicron, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for the Country, PIANOFORTE TUNER, with a knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. Address, with references, stating age and salary required (character must bear the strictest investigation), H. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER.—WANTED, an experienced Man. One with a knowledge of American Organs preferred. Apply to W. Saville and Co., Tottenham, N.

TUNER and REGULATOR WANTED. Thorough efficiency and first-class references essential. State salary required. Replies to West, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

WANTED, an energetic and capable Young Man as COUNTER ASSISTANT to the Music Trade. Must be well up in the Catalogues and also be a good Bookkeeper and write a good hand. Apply to William Slade, Music Stores, Hastings.

MUSICSELLER WANTED. One who thoroughly understands the Music Trade and good Salesman. Permanent situation. Apply, J. M., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PARTNER WANTED, to join Advertiser in a well-established PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS. A first-rate opportunity for a gentleman with capital. Write to P. M. B., care of Mr. Haythorn, 132, Upper Thames Street, E.C.

PARTNERSHIP WANTED, by a blind Musician and Composer. Competent to teach PIANO and SINGING. Willing to furnish funds up to £500. Address, G. H., 13, Myddelton Place, Rosebery Avenue.

TUNER, aged 30, seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Harmoniums, American Organs, and Repairs. Address, H. G., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

FIRST-CLASS TUNER seeks APPOINTMENT. Permanent or season. London and provincial experience. Excellent references. Tuner, Post Office, Watchet, Somerset.

WANTED, OUT-TUNING in London. Three days per week; chiefly to improve. Have business in country. Address, C., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE TUNER open to ENGAGEMENT. Knowledge of American Organs and Harmoniums. References good. Address, Tuner P. T., Novello, Ewer and Co.

TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER open to ENGAGEMENT. Experienced. Unison, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER and REPAIRER (from BROADWOOD'S) desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in or near London; out-door, thoroughly understands Harmoniums and American Organs; excellent testimonials. State particulars to Tuner, 44, Sydney Street, Brighton.

PIANOFORTE TUNER seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT as IMPROVER. Town or Country. Good references J. F., 3, Cambridge Lodge Villas, Mare Street, Hackney.

WANTED, SITUATION as TUNER, REGULATOR, and REPAIRER of Pianos, Organs, and Harmoniums. Eighteen years' factory and out-door experience. Aged 31. Town or country. H. N., 56, Vicarage Road, Stratford, E.

FIRST-CLASS PIANOFORTE TUNER desires permanent SITUATION. American Organs and Harmoniums. Highest references. Letters, T., Novello and Co., 1, Berners St., W.

REPAIRER, ASSISTANT seeks RE-ENGAGEMENT. Pianos, Harmoniums, and Organs. Address, Key, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG LADY desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Thoroughly understands the Music Business and Book-keeping. Present situation four years. Senior Certificate R.C.M. and R.A.M. Teacher of Pianoforte. Excellent references. T. Z., Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

YOUNG LADY desires RE-ENGAGEMENT in MUSIC WAREHOUSE. Ten years' experience. Address, Doris, 17, Albany Road, Harborne, Birmingham.

ORGAN PRACTICE (near City), 1s. per hour. Three manuals, C.O. pedals. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman St., E.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals; independent pedals. Terms, One Shilling per hour. Specification post-free. Blennerhasset's Studio, 1A, Vernon Street, King's Cross, W.C.

ORGAN PRACTICE.—Three manuals and pedals. One Shilling per hour. The South London Organ Studio, 343, Coldharbour Lane, close to Brixton Station.

NEW ORGAN STUDIO, with Three-manual PIPE ORGAN, blown by water. Terms for Practice, 1s. per hour. At Smyth's Music Depôt, 54, London Road, Forest Hill, S.E.

ORGANS, Church, Chapel, and College, with every modern improvement. Established 1845. W. E. Richardson and Sons, to Her Majesty, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester. Specification and Estimates.

STUDIO ORGAN, with three Manuals and Pedals, for SALE, nearly new. Price £55, or five guineas per quarter for three years. W. White, Grantham.

ORGAN.—A fine-toned modern TWO-MANUAL ORGAN, containing 13 stops and all the latest improvements and desirable appliances. Price £200. Printed particulars on application. Warranted for five years. Fincham's Organ Factory, 150, Euston Road, London.

ORGAN for SALE, now in use at Axted Church, Surrey, to make room for new three-manual organ. Apply, Henry Speechly and Sons, St. Mark's Road, Dalston, N.E.

CHURCH ORGAN for SALE (new). £250. Great: Open, 56; stopped and clarabella, 56; gamba, 56; dulciana, 44; principal, 56; fifteenth, 56; flute, 44. Swell: Double, 44; open stopped bass, 56; Lieblich, 56; Vox Angelica, 44; gemshorn, 56; fifteenth, 56; cornopean, 56: hautboy, 44. Pedals: Bourdon, 30; great to pedals, swell to pedals, swell to great, swell octave; three compositions to great and three to swell; tubular pneumatic to pedals. Pitch pine case. Samuell and Twyford, Abbey Works, Montague Road, Dalston.

ORGAN for SALE.—Two manuals and pedals. Quite new; too large for present church. 6 stops on great 7 on swell, 1 on pedals, 4 composition pedals. 2 spare slides. Tubular pneumatic action to pedal organ. College of Organists' pedals. Price £200; worth £300. Apply, Vicar, 28, Sun Street, E.C.

FOR SALE.—Two-manual CHURCH ORGAN. 23 stops. Can be examined and played in situ. For particulars apply, J. J Brigg, Guard House, Keighley, Yorks.

AMERICAN ORGANS (Three) for SALE. Oak, 15 stops, 2 swells, £25; walnut, 10 stops, £15; ditto, £8. Harmonium, £6. Smith, 3, Talbot Court, Gracechurch Street, E.C.

ORGAN.—Two manuals, 19 stops, CC to G, 56 notes and pedals, in Emmanuel Church, Bolton, to be SOLD immediately. W. E. Richardson, Central Organ Works, Hulme, Manchester.

ORGAN.—WANTED, to PURCHASE, a Second-hand CHAMBER ORGAN, suitable for a small Chapel, about 25 by 40 ft. Address, with full particulars, price, &c., Organ, care of Messrs. Street Brothers, 5, Serle Street, W.C.

FOR SALE.—A "DEBAIN" HARMONIUM. Four complete rows, concert pitch, 12 stops, handsome rosewood (listed 45 guineas), £16; also a 15-stop "Kelly" American Organ, beautiful walnut, 8 ft. and 4 ft. throughout, and 16-ft. cello, 4½ octaves, with special forte (listed 33 guineas), £12. Bought cheaply; scarcely used. Sold for want of space. Address, H. G. Trembath, Mus. Bac., Isleworth.

FOR SALE, A VIOLONCELLO,
Three-quarters size. Old English, good tone, with wooden case. Price Ten Guineas. May be seen at Messrs. Stilwell and Sons, 21, Great George Street, Westminster, S.W.

"TOWER" ORGAN WORKS.—Specifications, Rebuilding, Repairs, Voicing and Tuning by experienced Artists. Pipes and Fittings. Second-hand Organs and Materials. T. R. Willis (from Minories), 45, Leman Street, London, E.

ORGAN PEDALS to PIANOS.—New method of Attachment by TUBULAR PNEUMATIC. This action surpasses all mechanical actions for prompt and Organ-like Touch. It is less expensive, easier to attach, and does not injure the most delicate Pianoforte. Prospectus, with full description and price lists, on application to Norman Bros. and Beard, Organ Works, Norwich.

VIOLIN STRINGS. Finest imported. Twenty years' reputation. Sixpence each; sample packet of three, 1s. 1d., post-free. Alphonse Cary, 87, Oxford Street, London, W.

HYDRAULIC ENGINES for Organ Blowing Blennerhasset's Patent "Perfect" Prize Medal Engines are the best. 1B, Vernon Street, King's Cross Road, London, W.C.

T. R. WILLIS (from Minories, est. 1827), Maker and Importer of Brass and Wood Instruments, Harmonium Reeds, Strings, Wire, Violins, Concertinas, &c. 45, Leman Street, E.

IMPORTANT TO MUSICSELLERS.—Having the largest and most varied stock in Europe, orders received in the morning are executed the same day. Terms and Catalogues on application.

AUTHORS' WORKS CORRECTED, REVISED, and PRINTED without delay, on exceptionally low terms. Estimates given on receipt of MSS.
London: B. Williams, 19, Paternoster Row, E.C.

TO COMPOSERS.—MARRIOTT & WILLIAMS, Music Publishers, undertake the Revising, Engraving, and Publishing of Authors' Musical Works in the very best style and at the lowest charge. The finest paper used, and the best workmanship in the trade. Estimates free on receipt of MSS. Composers' Works included in List without extra charge. Private rooms for practice and teaching. Lessons by competent Professors given in every branch of Music, vocal and instrumental. Orders for music received by post (every publishers') despatched same day. Academy House, 295, Oxford Street, London, W.

REVISION OF MUSICAL COMPOSITIONS. Dr. Horton Allison, 68, Nelson Street, Manchester.

MUSIC DEALERS.—Collecting orders received in morning for SHEET MUSIC executed same day. Price lists free. Composers' works published. Estimates on receipt of MS. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, E.C.

MUSIC COPIED and DRAWN from the Full Score, with proper cues for the Engraver; also Songs or other Pieces transposed, by J. Peck, 36, Southampton Street, Strand, W.C

MUSIC ENGRAVING.—Messrs. AKERMAN and ATTWOOD, Music Engravers and Printers, 7, Upper John Street, Golden Square, London, W. Estimates and terms Post-free.

Auction Rooms specially for the Sale of Musical Property.
MESSRS. PUTTICK and SIMPSON, Auctioneers, 7, Leicester Square, London, W.C., hold SPECIAL SALES of MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS on or about the 20th of every month. Sales of Musical Libraries, Music Plates, and Copyrights. Trade Stocks, Manufacturers' Plant, &c., are held as occasion may require. Valuations for Probate or Legacy Duty, or for Public or Private Sale. Terms on application.

A HIGH-CLASS PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for DISPOSAL. First-rate hiring and tuning connection. Commanding position and well-fitted premises. Capital required, about £2,000. Apply, W. X., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS for SALE. Large Tuning and Hiring connection. Handsome, well furnished premises. W. S., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

KELLY and CO., PIANOFORTE, AMERICAN ORGAN, and HARMONIUM MAKERS (to Her Majesty), 14 and 16, Mortimer Street, London, W.
Kelly and Co.'s Instruments are the only ones of English manufacture that gained any award at the DUBLIN and PARIS EXHIBITIONS; also PRIZE MEDAL, INVENTIONS EXHIBITION, 1885; GOLD MEDAL and DIPLOMA of HONOUR, YORK EXHIBITION, 1889.
A LIBERAL DISCOUNT for SCHOOLS, CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS, and the PROFESSION.
500 SECOND-HAND PIANOFORTES by the leading Makers, at all times, very cheap. NEW PIANOS (warranted) in elegant Walnut or Rosewood cases, from 19 Guineas.
The Trade, Merchants, and Shippers supplied.
Sole Importers of the celebrated HERMANN PIANOS, CHEAPEST and BEST IN THE TRADE, as recommended by Signor Tito Mattei, the late Sir Julius Benedict, the Abbé Liszt, and others.

D'ALMAINE'S
PIANOS AND ORGANS
CLEARANCE SALE.
Extension of Premises, 89, Finsbury Pavement.
Dealers specially invited.
D'Almaine and Co. (Established 108 years), 89 and 91, Finsbury Pavement, E.C.

A SUCCESSFUL INVENTION.
RUMMENS'
ORGAN
PEDAL ATTACHMENT
FOR
PIANOFORTES.
NO ORGAN STUDENT SHOULD BE WITHOUT THEM.
EQUAL TO ORGAN PRACTICE.
ADOPTED BY THE COLLEGE OF ORGANISTS.
Awarded Medal of Honour
at the
INVENTIONS EXHIBITION.
NUMEROUS TESTIMONIALS.
WRITE FOR PARTICULARS TO
H. J. RUMMENS,
47, CHURCH ROAD, BRIXTON, S.W.

JOH. KUHSE'S
DRESDEN PIANOFORTES
(UPRIGHTS AND HORIZONTAL GRANDS),
54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,
LONDON, W.
Fitted with all modern improvements.
Full Iron Frame Overstrung, Trichord throughout, Check Action, &c.
Brilliant and perfect in Tone and Touch.
Solid construction and beautifully finished.
A great variety of different designs always on view at above address.
INSPECTION RESPECTFULLY INVITED.
Illustrated Price List Post-free on application.
Moderate prices. Liberal discount.
Silver Medal, Antwerp, 1885.
Silver Medal, Amsterdam, 1883.
Sole Agents:
BREITKOPF AND HAERTEL,
54, GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,
LONDON, W.

ESTABLISHED 1843.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS'

PIANOFORTES.

(Makers to the Emperor of Russia.)

NOBLE IN TONE.

HANDSOME IN APPEARANCE.

UNRIVALLED FOR DURABILITY.

THE FINEST PIANOS IN THE WORLD.

PIANOS

FOR INDIA AND THE COLONIES.

ALSO YACHT PIANOS.

GEO. ROGERS & SONS,

60, BERNERS ST., OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.

THE OLD FIRM.

P. CONACHER & CO.,

Organ Builders,

SPRINGWOOD WORKS,

HUDDERSFIELD.

TWO GOLD MEDALS.

SHEET MUSIC.

TO THE TRADE AND PROFESSION.

120,000 COPIES

OF

SONGS, PIANOFORTE PIECES, AND DANCES

(The best Editions, all clean and saleable)

TO BE SOLD, IN LARGE OR SMALL QUANTITIES.

100 Copies, 8s. 4d.; or made up in £1 Parcels, 50 Parcels for 21s.

Sample Parcel of 20s. worth, 1s., Post-free.

WILLIAM LEA,

50 AND 52, CHURCH STREET, LIVERPOOL.

ALPHONSE CARY'S new ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST is now ready and will be sent post-free on application. Address, Alphonse Cary, Clapham Junction, London, S.W.

NICHOLSON AND CO.,

ORGAN BUILDERS,

PALACE YARD, WORCESTER.

(ESTABLISHED 1841.)

Specifications and Estimates sent free.

THE

London College of Music,

LTD.

FOUNDED 1887. INCORPORATED 1892.

GREAT MARLBOROUGH STREET,

LONDON, W.

PATRONS.

The Most Noble THE MARQUIS OF CARMARTHEN, M.P.

SIR FRANCIS W. BRADY, Bart, Q.C.

The Honourable SIR WILLIAM GRANTHAM.

BOARD OF EXAMINATION.

W. J. WESTBROOK, Esq., Mus. Doc., Cantab.

HORTON ALLISON, Esq., Mus. D., Dublin; Mus. B., Cantab.

C. G. VERRINDER, Esq., Mus. D., Cantuar; Mus. B., Oxon.

ALFRED J. CALDICOTT, Esq., Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Principal, Educational Department).

F. J. KARN, Esq., Mus. Doc.; Mus. Bac., Cantab. (Vice-Principal).

G. AUGUSTUS HOLMES, Esq. (Director, Examination Department).

EXAMINATIONS in PIANOFORTE PLAYING, SINGING, THEORY, and all branches of Music will be held in London and at 300 Provincial Centres in July next, when certificates will be granted to all successful candidates.

SYLLABUS and FORMS of ENTRY can be obtained of the Secretary, who will supply all particulars. The last day of entry is June 15.

SILVER and BRONZE MEDALS and BOOK PRIZES are offered for competition in accordance with the regulations.

APPLICATION for the formation of NEW CENTRES should be made to the Secretary, who will furnish all necessary information.

The DIPLOMAS granted by the College are Associate (A.L.C.M.), Associate in Music (A.Mus.L.C.M.), Licentiate (L.L.C.M.), and Licentiate in Music (L.Mus.L.C.M.). Regulations and list of Diplomées on application.

The "Annual Register" of the College is now ready. Price 2s. 6d.

In the EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT Students are received and thoroughly trained under eminent Professors.

The HALF-TERM begins May 29.

An OPERATIC CLASS for Ladies and Gentlemen is held every Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Thorough instruction in Elocution, Musical Declamation, and Stage Deportment is given to Members of this Class. Conductor: Herr ALBERT HENNING. Fee for the Term, £1 1s.

T. WEEKES HOLMES, Secretary.

Just Published.

FOURTH GRAND CONCERT SONATA

(CHRISTMAS SONATA)

COMPOSED FOR THE ORGAN BY

OTTO DIENEL

(Op. 32).

Price Three Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

TRINITY COLLEGE LONDON.

FOR MUSICAL EDUCATION AND EXAMINATION.—INST. 1872.

President: The Right Hon. LORD ST. LEVAN.
Warden: Professor E. H. TURPIN, Mus.D.
Director of Examinations: Professor JAS. HIGGS, Mus.B.

HIGHER EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

The FORTIETH HALF-YEARLY Higher Examinations will commence at the College, July 17, as under:—

1. For the Diplomas of Licentiate in Music (L.T.C.L.) and Associate in Music (A.T.C.L.); also for the special distinction of Fellowship (F.T.C.L.)
2. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Practical Division (Pianoforte, Organ, Singing, &c.)
3. For Special Certificates in separate Subjects, Theoretical Division (Harmony, &c.).

Last day of entry, June 17, 1893.

LOCAL EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC.

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL SERIES.

The next half-yearly Examination in MUSICAL KNOWLEDGE (Theory) will take place on Friday, June 23, at over 100 Centres throughout the Country. Last day of entry, May 23.

Local Examinations in INSTRUMENTAL and VOCAL MUSIC will take place throughout the Session at the various Centres, a list of which may be had on application.

The subjects are: Pianoforte, Violin, Organ, Harmonium, and Pianoforte Duet Playing, Solo Singing, and all Orchestral Instruments. The examinations are conducted in two divisions, Junior and Senior, and in Pianoforte and Violin Playing there is also a Primary (Elementary) Division. Pass and honour certificates are awarded in the Junior and Senior Divisions.

Any or all of the following printed papers may be had on application to the undersigned: (a) Regulations and list of music to be performed for the Local Examinations in Instrumental and Vocal Music; (b) List of Local Centres; (c) Regulations for the (Theoretical) Local Examinations in Musical Knowledge; (d) Regulations for the Higher Examinations for Diplomas and Certificates; (e) List of Music to be performed for the Higher Certificates in Vocal and Instrumental Subjects; (f) Prospectus of the Classes and Lectures Department; (g) General Prospectus containing List of Honorary Officers, &c.

By Order of the Academical Board,
SHELLEY FISHER, Secretary.

Mandeville Place, Manchester Square, W.

Just Published.

IRISH SONGS AND BALLADS

THE WORDS BY
ALFRED PERCEVAL GRAVES
THE MUSIC ARRANGED BY
C. VILLIERS STANFORD.

Price Four Shillings.

CONTENTS:

The Song of the Turf.
The Exiles.
Arranmore Boat Song.
The Roving Pedlar.
The Zephyrs blest.
Colonel Carty.
The Ploughman's whistle.
Love's hallowed seal.
The March of the Maguire.
Lullaby.
A Lament.
The Song of the Ghost.
Silver and Gold.
Mavourneen Dhu.
The Darling.
O Mary, thy laugh was sweet.
Hush song.
The Kilkenny cats.
Sweet Isle.
The Hero of Limerick.
Loved bride of O'Byrne.
Our Inniskilling boy.
Festival Song (Pleraca).
Johnny Cox.
The Irish Reel.
Molleen Oge.
Last night I dreamt of my own true love.
Bright love of my heart.
My Colleen rue.
Chieftain of Tyrconnell.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE BLACK KNIGHT

(DER SCHWARZE RITTER)
CANTATA FOR CHORUS AND ORCHESTRA
The Poem by UHLAND; translated by LONGFELLOW
THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY EDWARD ELGAR.
(Op. 25.)

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

BROADWOOD PIANOS

NEW MODELS;
IRON FRAMES;
Recent IMPROVEMENTS;
TONE—Pure, Equal, Carrying;
TOUCH—Facile; Responsive;
DURABILITY—Unrivalled.

John Broadwood & Sons

(ESTABLISHED 1732)
PIANOFORTE MAKERS
BY SPECIAL APPOINTMENT TO
HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN
THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES
HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS THE DUKE OF EDINBURGH
AND THE REST OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

Gold Medals, London, Paris, Society of Arts, &c. (last—that of the Tasmanian Exhibition, 1892).

Names of a few of the GREAT MUSICIANS and EXECUTANTS who have used and preferred the "BROADWOOD" Pianos:—

BEETHOVEN	HAYDN	MDME. SCHUMANN
WEBER	CHOPIN	WAGNER
MENDELSSOHN	JANOTHA	VON BÜLOW
DVOŘÁK	LISZT	DE PACHMANN
CRAMER	HELLER	HALLÉ
BENNETT	HENSELT	SULLIVAN

33, GREAT PULTENEY STREET (near Regent Street), LONDON, W.

TO BE PERFORMED AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL, MAY 10, 1893.

EAST TO WEST

AN ODE
BY
ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE
Set to music for Chorus and Orchestra
BY CHARLES VILLIERS STANFORD.
(Op. 52.)
(The Pianoforte arrangement by the Composer.)

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

PERFORMED BY THE HIGHBURY PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

THE

PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN

BY ROBERT BROWNING
SET TO MUSIC
FOR TENOR AND BASS SOLI, CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA
BY
RICHARD H. WALTHEW.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

THE MUSICAL TIMES
AND SINGING-CLASS CIRCULAR.
MAY 1, 1893.

THE MUSIC OF "FALSTAFF."

(Concluded from page 206.)

THE second act opens delightfully with a long concerted piece, and incidental solos, for the women who are preparing the Knight's first discomfiture, in the house of Ford. These personages are always welcome. Like the Scandinavian goddess who diffused around her youth and love and beauty, they bring with them pleasantness and mirth. We can never tire of them, and their musical presentment is not less charming than their dramatic characterisation. In the present concerted piece, Verdi remains faithful to the style and method already exemplified in other movements for the same personages. Again we have the vocal simplicity and point of Auber at his best with the clearness and elegance of Mozart. After a short orchestral introduction (Allegro brillante), Mrs. Ford leads off thus :—

No. 1. Pre-sen-te-remo un bill per u-na tas-sa al par-la-

-men-to sul-la gen-te gras - - - - sa

This quotation may stand as a fair specimen of much that follows, but there are incidental passages, especially in Mrs. Quickly's narrative of her visit to Sir John, which have a character of their own. Thus it is worthy of remark that the composer here makes large use of unison, as conveying, perhaps, a sense of pomposity and massiveness. Here, moreover, as was to be expected, he quotes from the music of the interview described. The salutation theme is reproduced, for instance—

No. 2. Imitating Falstaff. Imitating herself.

A feature in the foregoing, and in that which follows, is rhythmical simplicity. Favoured by the structure of Boïto's lines, the composer found himself free from the necessity of breaking the steady flow of his music by changes of accent (his employment of triplets is not taken into account), and he shows himself as far from such a course taken voluntarily as from the rapid alterations of key which, in their excess, destroy the legitimate effect of modulation.

The sparkling flow of the women's merry strains is temporarily diverted by the distress of Nannetta, who rebels against her father's intention to give her, as wife, to Dr. Caius. How skilfully the new and disturbing emotion is expressed in the music may be gathered from the following, as Mrs. Ford accosts her daughter—

No. 3. Tu . . piangi?

This shadow passes, and the cheerful music resumes, in all its fascinating, unaffected gaiety, till the coming of Falstaff is announced. Then it is every woman to her post, and Mrs. Ford, taking up a lute, seats herself, prepared to receive the bulky Lothario. The Knight, on appearing, chimes in with the melody she plays—and, after preliminary dialogue, pompously enlarges upon the advantages it is in his power to confer. Here we have another of the Falstaff unisons, the orchestral basses playing with the voice—

No. 4.

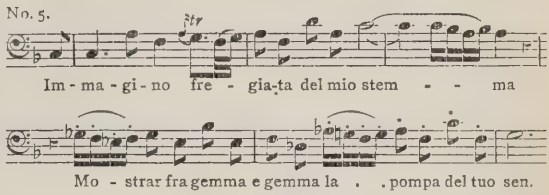
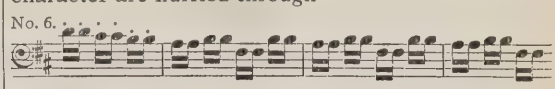
No. 5.



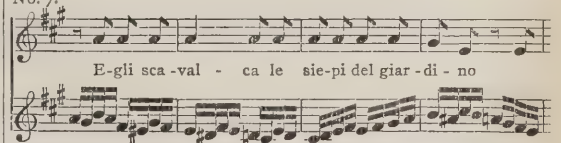
The dialogue goes on to smooth and graceful strains, save where Falstaff indulges in a little bit of autobiography, which the composer sets to amusingly sententious music. At the point where the Knight presses his suit with warmth, there is an alarm of Ford's approach in a condition of by no means pretended wrath. A scene of great musical excitement follows. Passages in unison and in harmony of this character are hurried through—

No. 6.



The unisons chiefly prevail, and the whole is relieved by liberal use of staccato semiquavers for the violins, in the nature of a moto continuo, these alone accompanying the voice when Mrs. Quickly sings as below—

No. 7.



The semiquaver subject is almost continuous through the scene where search is made for Falstaff, the animation and bustle of which it naturally heightens.

When Fenton and Nannetta appear, and take refuge behind the screen, their love strains once more bring diversity of musical interest in the form of graceful cantabile phrases of an Italian character.

(It is noteworthy that the composer becomes essentially Italian when his theme is love.) Following this episode, the semiquaver theme resumes and sparkles along in the old manner. One might fancy it to be the titter of the orchestra at the imbroglio on the stage. As the scene proceeds more and more voices take part, till not only the nine soloists are engaged, but a chorus of Ford's neighbours also. The structure of this ensemble shows considerable elaboration and very great ingenuity, though thematically and harmonically the music is quite simple. In this the master displays consummate art. He obtains characterisation and dramatic point while keeping perfectly clear and doing nothing to distract attention from the scene. The wonderful "go" of the music cannot be shown here. It is simply marvellous. Again the semiquaver subject re-appears, but the throwing of Falstaff, basket and all, into the Thames is emphasised orchestrally only by emphatic unison notes and tremulous violins. A triumphant fanfare ends the Act.

The first part of Act III. opens with a repetition of, and considerable enlargement upon, the bustling passage shown in Ex. 6 above. It, of course, suggests that the thoughts of Falstaff, who, on the curtain rising, is seen seated in front of an inn, are busy with the disagreeable occurrences at Ford's house. The same subject is used, also, as an interlude in the course of the Knight's soliloquy, the accompaniment to which, generally, is full of interest and variety. Falstaff calls for wine, and gradually recovers from the melancholy that has temporarily changed his nature. The return to a jovial humour is most happily expressed in the music, and here the famous series of shakes occurs—one of the most ingenious and effective devices ever employed to illustrate the bubbling up of animal spirits. It is quite impossible to give, upon two staves, an adequate idea of the music as it stands in the score. Enough that by constant increase of the thrilling instruments, the exact idea of Falstaff's words, "E il trillo invade il mondo" is forcibly conveyed. There is humour as well as power in the device.

Mrs. Quickly pays her second visit to Sir John, again attended by the salutation theme by this time familiar. She is received with a torrent of reproaches, in the course of which Verdi once more uses the interval of the diminished seventh as a characteristic feature of the Knight's music—

The artful emissary protests Mrs. Ford's innocence and devotion, and here is opportunity for contrast which the composer turns to account; following Falstaff's bluffly indignant phrases with such seductiveness as the following—

Again, Mrs. Quickly sings, still referring to Mrs. Ford— and the pleading little orchestral phrase goes on while Falstaff reads the letter handed to him. It is by such touches as these that the real dramatic composer shows himself in all the subtlety of his craft.

After Falstaff and Mrs. Quickly have retired to discuss the matter more fully, the two "merry wives" and Ford carry on the scene, and Mrs. Ford has a short and graceful Allegretto, which presently re-appears in the Finale—

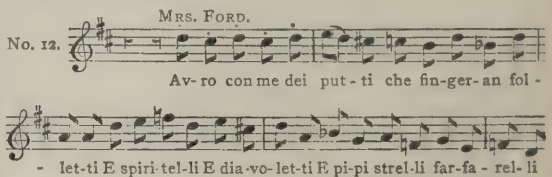
Passing over many recitative passages, we reach the final scene of the first Part, in which the accomplices take leave of each other as darkness falls upon the streets of Windsor. Here a regular theme, of a sprightly kind, presents itself, accompanied by detached chords—



This subject, with connected and kindred passages, is dwelt upon a while, and then gives place to the theme shown in Ex. 11, which charmingly accompanies all the subsequent dialogue, and dies away with the voices as the characters disperse and the scene darkens. There is nothing in the work more beautifully conceived and poetically carried out than this Finale. The effect in representation is exceedingly great.

It is fitting, perhaps, that when, the curtain rising for the last time, we look upon Windsor Park and Herne's Oak by moonlight, the love-sick Fenton should come on and sing an appropriate song. He does so, at all events. The number is very delicately conceived and wrought, being by no means an ordinary example of Italian sentiment. It opens thus—

In the closing bars the voice of Nannetta is heard in the distance, and she, Ford, Mrs. Ford, and Mrs. Quickly appear on the scene. They mask themselves to more of the sparkling, babbling music now so familiar, and go into hiding as Falstaff, wearing the horns, makes his entrance, the orchestra attending him as below—

Midnight sounds, Jack counting the strokes and the orchestra aiding the bell-clang with chromatic chords; Mrs. Ford appears, and another duet begins. Its character differs from any preceding, and may be exemplified by a very brief quotation—

This abrupt, exclamatory style indicates, perhaps, the ardour of Falstaff's wooing, the progress of which, however, is soon interrupted by Mrs. Page. Mrs. Ford runs off in pretended terror, and Falstaff, with a profane remark about the devil, throws himself down in the shadow of the oak. Now enter Nannetta and the fairies, with whose coming a pretty interlude begins, the principal feature in which is a song, with chorus, for the pretended Queen. This belongs to the successes of the work. Nothing more dainty and delicate in structure, or more charming in effect, could have been written by any living composer. It is in strophe form, and while the chorus, at the close of each verse, sings softly in monotone, the fairies dance to an orchestral theme—

The music to the maltreatment of Falstaff by the fairies presents no novel points calling for attention. It has a character of lightness and spontaneity by now very familiar, and, at the same time, it is admirably dramatic, with extensive use of effective unison passages. Presently the terrified Knight appeals for respect to the most prominent part of his person, and, while the tormentors continue their mocking strains, sings as thus—

In the music to the rather complicated dramatic business which follows there are features that well repay attention, especially a charming little piece in the nature of a graceful March for the orchestra. We pass on, however, to the final ensemble, with its fugal opening. The subject of this striking wind-up stands as below—

This theme is worked out in an ensemble for ten solo voices and chorus, the fugal treatment being almost entirely allotted to the former. The whole is, as may be supposed, an elaborate movement, full of ingenious device and of absolutely overflowing energy. Like the Irish postillion, Verdi "keeps a gallop for the avenue," and with infinite dash does the old man approach the end of his journey. It is the triumphant close of a dramatic masterpiece. J. B.

SOME OLD PROGRAMMES.

Sir George Smart was a musician who had several claims to distinction. He lived to be ninety, and during his long life he personally knew Haydn (who gave him a lesson in playing the drums), Spohr, Weber (who died in his house in Great Portland Street), and Mendelssohn, together with many other musicians whose names are writ high up on the roll of fame. Sir George was best known as a Conductor of Festivals and concerts. At one time he had practically the whole of this kind of work in his hands. He possessed exceptional business capacities, and had almost a mania for recording the minutest details in his programmes. Evidence of these characteristics is to be found in a large collection of Sir George Smart's programmes and word-books, presented to the British Museum by his daughter twenty years ago, and which have hitherto been uncatalogued and scarcely noticed. In these forty or more bound volumes are to be found some novel annotations—not of the kind for which we now have the privilege of paying "one shilling"—but of a behind-the-scenes sort, written in the old Conductor's own hand, of which a few samples may be of interest.

Five quarto volumes of the Philharmonic Society's programmes, beginning with the first concert on March 8, 1813, and extending to the last of 1866, at once attract attention. The first four programmes are printed on cards the size of an ordinary post card; afterwards they were slightly enlarged; and in 1819 the words of the vocal pieces were for the first time printed on the back of the cards. It was not till 1831 that a four-page quarto programme was issued, and the first analytical programme, by G. A. Macfarren, with music type, did not appear till 1869. Vocal solos were not introduced till 1816, and instrumental solos are first recorded three years later, with "Concerto, with Grand Orchestra Pianoforte, Mr. Beale...Mozart." The term "conductor" first appears at the second Concert of 1820; previous to this we find "Leader, Mr. ——. Pianoforte (soon changed to 'At the pianoforte'), Mr. ——." With the advent of Costa as Conductor, in 1846, the term "Leader" finally disappeared. For the first four years no information was given as to the key or number of the "Sinfonia" performed. The now familiar "Part I." and "Part II." did not supersede "Act I." and "Act II.," except during the season of 1838, till 1845. "Female Associates" were not admitted till 1825, twelve years after the Society was formed, their number being then only four. Some laxity in regard to subscribers' tickets having evidently been discovered, a circular in 1814 states: "The subscribers are earnestly requested to observe that the Tickets are not transferable, and that any infringement of this unalterable law will incur a forfeiture of the Ticket which may be attempted to be transferred." This "unalterable law" was modified in 1837, when Gentlemen's tickets were still "not transferable"; but "that Ladies' may be transferable between a mother and one unmarried daughter only, the names of such Mother and Daughter being inscribed on their joint ticket; also between Two Sisters, the names, etc." On March 13, 1815, was announced the Overture to "'Anacreon' (at which Mr. Cherubini, who has just arrived in England, will preside)"; and on May 25, 1829, the programme records: "Sinfonia (MS.) never performed, F. Mendlessohn," which, of course, refers to his C minor Symphony, given under Mendelssohn's own direction on the occasion of his first appearance in England.

But we must now refer to Sir George's annotations. "Cuts" were evidently in vogue in the early days, like "Bits" are now. In 1821, the "Pastoral" Symphony has against it, "No cuts and no repeats of any kind." In 1840, Mozart's "Non più andrai" is annotated: "Disapprobation at the end of this song, probably at the last symphony being so curiously cut. Goodwin said this cut was made by Mr Bishop for Mr. Braham in some opera." Three years later Mozart was again "cut" in the performance of his G minor Symphony: "Four bars cut out of the first and of the second parts of the slow movement (played through), as settled with the Directors after the rehearsal. Mr. Goodwin pasted over these eight bars after the rehearsal." In 1825 Beethoven's Choral Symphony was first given in England, and conducted by Smart. It occupied one hour and four minutes in performance. Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" Overture was first given at the Philharmonic in 1830, under Smart's direction, and the conductor's note reads: "First time of performance from Sir G. S.'s score and parts. N.B.—The score was given to Sir G. S. by Felix B. Mendlessohn." Seven years later the Overture fared badly, as it "broke down, owing to . . ." (the name is mercifully withheld). At this same concert Thalberg was encored: "The second time he played a different fantasia, introducing 'God save the King' and 'Rule, Britannia." Ole Bull, the violinist, was here in 1840, and his experiences of the Philharmonic orchestra must have been exceedingly disagreeable. He played a Fantasia, "a part of this was badly accompanied," says our worthy Knight, "some of the band playing in the Minor instead of the Major." Mistakes were evidently frequent, as in 1841 we learn that "the Concert went well—no blunders." Our conductor relates his experience in preventing an encore. He says: "In consequence of a strong attempt to encore this Overture ["Der Freyschütz"] I spoke, stating that Mdlle. S.[ontag] and Madame M.[alibran] were obliged to go to His Majesty's Concert. N.B.—J. Fuller noisy during my speech." The question of pitch was in the ascendancy early in the forties. Such entries occur as "Erard's pianoforte very sharp," "Grand pianoforte from Collard very ♯, as Miss Rainforth discovered." In 1843 Mr. Watts, the secretary, forgot to order a pianoforte for the Concert, therefore for the first time there was none in the orchestra." Smart's punctiliousness was on a par with his punctuality. He used to write against any piece he conducted or accompanied the exact number of minutes it occupied in performance—e.g., Spohr's Symphony "Die Weihe der Töne," "48 m., but I think it ought to be performed in less time." Moreover, he noted the exact minute of beginning and ending each part of the concerts he directed. "Over at 11.20" we should consider very late in these days of long—too long—Philharmonic programmes; but it must be borne in mind that concert-goers formerly lived nearer the concert-rooms than at present, and therefore they had not to make tedious journeys into the suburbs.

We have only room for a few extracts from Smart's provincial experiences. The coach fare (single) from Cheltenham to London, in 1818, was two guineas, luggage cost four shillings and sixpence extra, in addition to food and tips. Mr. Goss had to be satisfied with a seat outside (in the depth of winter), for which he paid one guinea. On one occasion the chorus of prisoners who sang in Beethoven's "Fidelio" were troublesome. "We could not perform this chorus," says Sir George, "in consequence of the chorus singers going away. It seems by this that Mr. H. has no command over them." Being a chorus of prisoners, Mr. H. ought, of course, to have kept them between the bars. Creature comforts received due attention. At a Concert at Bath, for "Loder's widow and orphans," there was "27 minutes stop! instead of 15 m., during which many speeches were made by Mr. W., etc., etc., while drinking Mr. B.'s liberal present of a dozen of wine." The indisposition of artists is also duly chronicled. At Edinburgh, in 1824, a violin solo was "left out, see apology, bile." At the Liverpool Festival in 1836 (when Smart conducted Mendelssohn's "St. Paul" for the first time in England), Mr. Braham could not attend the opening service at the church, as on that same morning "Dr. Brandreth took 60 oz. of his blood." Poor Mr. Braham!

FROM MY STUDY.

I have lately come into possession of an album of autograph letters, once the property of an amateur actor and dramatic critic now deceased. It is a question how far such letters can properly be dealt with in the direction of publicity, the more because those which possess the highest interest are often the very ones which the writers would, probably, object to see printed. I shall pay due regard to the consideration just named, and draw from my album only such documents as are in themselves harmless, the writers and recipients of which have passed from the scene.

There is a letter of Giulia Grisi, presumably to E. T. Smith, written, in imperfect English, at Paris, on December 23 in a year unnamed. It would seem that the manager had contemplated getting up a testimonial to the famous artist, and that the idea failed to please her on the ground that it might be regarded as an honourable dismissal from the stage which Grisi was notoriously loth to leave. Here is a copy, verb. et lit., of her epistle:

Paris, the 23rd of December.

My Dear Sir,—Mario has communicated to me your letter, and he told me that he does not like what you said about the testimonial to me, and I must confess you that that I don't like it too. I certainly thank you for your kind idea but, believe me, it is much better not to have done such a thing. All the people will think that it is a humbug. The English public gave me for so many a year great testimonial of his affection for me, the English have been so good and kind to me, that for all my live I shall love the English and England as my own country, and the idea of leaving for ever this beautiful country makes me quite miserable and unhappy; for that reason, my dear Sir, don't make any subscription for me, this idea makes me quite miserable. Suppose, my dear Sir, that I shall like, or that my own interests will oblige me, to stay on the stage another year? If you do what you said in your letter to Mario, I could not, of course, go back to my dear England again.

With kind regards from Mario and me, believe me always,

Your truly,

Giulia Grisi.

P.S.—My dear Sir, I am sure that the opera of "Ballo in Maschera" of Verdi will have an immense success, it is a beautyfull opera, and the music suit to me very nicely.

There is something quite pathetic in the artist's eager clinging to the idea of a career yet more prolonged. I turn now to quite a different picture. The following letter to E. T. Smith from Therese Tietjens has reference, as will be seen, to the manager's engagement of Grisi. Its somewhat aggressive tone contrasts strangely with the pleading accents of the older prima donna. The world belongs to youth:

Hotel de l'Europe, March 3, 1861.

Dear Mr. Smith,—I have received your kind letter and I feel much pleased that you commence to learn (though late) where your interest lies—however, let bygones pass away and let me see how much of your letter and profession of friendship you intend to carry out. You by now have learn'd that I am not the only difficult artist you have had to deal with; on the contrary, you have never known me to be one atom behind in my duty, and you can never say I have ever disappointed you. It is true you have thought proper to announce me to sing when you had no right, and afterwards, because I have not done so, you have thought proper to forget yourself as a gentleman—but, however, all now is past.

I shall look upon Grisi with respect and admiration for the great position she has occupied, and you may be assured envy will be far from my mind. If Madame Grisi wishes to sing my répertoire I shall not make any difficulties, as I respect always her age and her great reputation; but I cannot give you the permission to announce me in second-rate rôles; that, my dear Smith, I cannot do, with all the friendship I have for you and Grisi. You must think what a step I would descend. I am willing to assist Madame Grisi wherever I can, and she shall be pleased with her young rival. Since I have played in Italie, and after that enormous success I have had, I am more confident than ever of my own power, and, with every respect for Grisi and friendship for you, I must think at my own position. Good-bye, dear Mr. Smith, hoping we may continue better friends for the future.—Yours very truly, Thérèse Tietjens.

The reference to Grisi's age might be taken as an example of what Mr. Punch would call "feline amenities," but only at the cost of injustice to the writer. Tietjens was a good, honest, sympathetic soul, with the best nature in the world. Sneers were out of her line, and, I believe, none was intended here.

I now present a letter which has a curious interest. It appears that one of pretty little Maria Piccolomini's numerous admirers made her an offer of marriage, through E. T. Smith as an intermediary. Who he was cannot be gathered from the damsel's very amiable reply, of which I now give a translation. The letter is dated Liverpool, August, 1859:

Sir,—I cannot express the surprise with which I received your letter, through Mr. Smith, nor, at the same time, my gratitude for your honourable and amiable intentions in my regard. The request you make is so serious that you will not think me wrong if I say that, when it is a question involving my future destiny and life-long happiness, I should at least have the advantage of knowing intimately the person to whom they are to be confided, which, unhappily, is not my case. On that point it is for you to remove all difficulties.

Your father's non-consent is a matter which would grieve me, and I find that my birth, conduct, and education would remove every obstacle. I am happy to tell you that my family have independent means of their own, and would insist only upon one thing—that I should not live too far from them. It is now for you, Sir, to give me your ideas, it being understood that, should fate gratify your wish, there will be other points to arrange with my family.

Accept, Sir, the assurance of my high consideration.

Maria Piccolomini.

A very proper letter, under the circumstances, but nothing came of it, since the fair Italian would scarcely have replied in French to her countryman, the Marchesi Gaetani, whom she married two or three years later.

The following, from Michael Balfe to E. T. Smith, dated St. Petersburg, March 6, 1860, explains itself:

Dear Mr. Smith,—I hear you have taken Her Majesty's Theatre. Will you have me at my old post? To save trouble and time I mention salary—£30 a week. I will work like a slave, and be very useful as well as ornamental. A line here, directed poste restante, will find, yours truly, M. W. Balfe.

A letter from that extraordinary genius, Frederic Robson, to a former possessor of the album, is accompanied by some apparently original "nigger" verses, sent in answer to a request for an effusion of the kind. The letter runs as below, and is dated Queen's Theatre, Dublin, Tuesday:

My dear ——,—I have much pleasure in complying with your request. I suppose you intend astonishing your friends with the exquisite feeling and demon-like pathos exhibited in the poetry (?) Need I say the author is not Tennyson. Will look you up with pleasure when anywhere near you.—Yours very truly,

Fred. Robson.

Here are the verses referred to:—

Oh! when I went down to New Orleans
(ad lib.)
I thought myself a man,
I got on board the steamboat they call the Talleyrand.
Whoop! Jambaree!
Vinegar shoes and paper stockings,
And a wooden collar,
Wid my oh, my boys! (Whistle) Eh?

Oh! I went away down to the engine-room,
(As before)
To see de fires burn,
De engineer he came behind
And gave me anoder turn.
Whoop! Jambaree! &c.

When I got down to New Orleans
Dey took me for a loafer;
I met a policeman in the street
That hit me wid a poker.
I caught the fellow one in the eye,
And made the official holler,
And made him see more stars
Than he'd got upon his collar.
Whoop! Jambaree!

From Balfe to Bunn is an easy transition, and a letter of the librettist to E. T. Smith shows that, in 1856, Smith was looking out for a country residence, with Bunn as a kind of "lion's provider." Here is an extract:

I have made the necessary enquiries, as you suggested, about Tor Abbey—it should be seen at once. As you can command a railway pass, if you will get one, I will run down.

If I remember aright, Smith subsequently became the Lord of Branksea Island, with the castle thereupon, and displayed the banner of his illustrious family from the highest turret.

Another easy transition brings me to a letter of Fitzball, also addressed to E. T. Smith. It is dated November 24, 1863, and written from Great Charlotte Street, Blackfriars Road:—

My dear Smith,—I ought, perhaps, to tell you that I left my "Poor Dog Tray" at your place, but did not have the pleasure of seeing Miss Nicholson, which was a great disappointment, believe me. As regards the melodrama, if you do not see your way in it at Christmas (or any other time) let me have it back if you please, as I have no copy of it, and the Victoria people, I think, would go to some expense about it. The storm, and the dog, and the shipwreck would draw all London, especially after the pantomime. I wrote a little book on the subject, seventy copies of which were purchased in a boys' school at Kensington within a few weeks, so, you see, the story is well known even in our neighbourhood, and the Era strongly recommends it for a drama.

. . . . . .

Sad muddle at English Op.! I told Wallace he'd never have such good luck as with the old poet of "Maritana" and "Lurline."

I wonder if you will read this.

Dear Smith, ever truly yours,

Fitz.

Even Fitzball had a "star" and faith in it.

X.

MUSIC AND MANNERS.

When glancing through some American papers not long since, a contributor to this journal saw that a Californian "professor" had been lecturing upon the flute, and giving illustrations upon five different examples of that instrument. A note was made of the fact, and, at the end of his short paragraph our contributor wrote "Shade of Cherubini!"—the reference being, of course, to the Florentine master's monosyllabic reply when asked what was worse than one flute. In an evil hour, this harmless pleasantry came under the notice of the Californian "professor," whose natural satisfaction upon finding his name in a European journal gave way to a torrent of wrath called up by what he regarded as a sneer at the instrument of his choice. Laying down the flute, the "professor" took up the pen, and, addressing by name the Editor of The Musical Times, unburdened his soul of much vulgar abuse, and also of a threat that unless the Editor apologised he would be shown up here in London as unworthy of his post and a disgrace to his profession. We treated the letter with the ridicule it amply deserved.

While waiting resignedly for the fulfilment of the Californian threat, there was some interest in speculation as to the precise channel through which punishment would flow. It now appears that the "professor" honoured Musical News with his choice, urged thereto, perhaps, by the mysterious sense of affinity which often exerts an influence upon human action. The Californian avenger seems to have had no difficulty with our contemporary. He sent a copy of his letter to some English sympathiser (who wisely, if not bravely, conceals his name), and this congenial accessory embodied it in an epistle of his own, which Musical News published.

We dismiss the "professor," but must address a few words of gentle remonstrance to our young, eager, and not overwise contemporary. The remonstrance shall be gentle because maturity should have patience with youth, and with its "heavenly ignorance of what is called the world, and the world's ways." We cannot suppose that Musical News was altogether unaware of the fact that to assail an editor by name, unless that name be avowed, amounts to a flagrant breach of journalistic etiquette. Some of our contemporary's more severe critics protest that it has not yet quite mastered the orthography and syntax of the English language, but it surely has had time enough for elementary acquaintance with the rules of the Press. That Musical News, knowing what was right, did wrong, we attribute to want of judgment—

"The youth . . . . .
Yielding like wax, th' impressive folly bears."— and also to boyish love of a row. Such shortcomings must be looked upon with a tolerant eye. We were all young and foolish once. The case, however, calls for counsel. We do not mean Queen's Counsel (although gentlemen of the long robe have often been set in action by conduct less libellous), we mean kindly advice, such as we now proceed to give.

Musical News should not mix itself up in other people's quarrels. If a Californian flute player find cause of offence in the editor of this journal, what is that to our contemporary? To meddle is to run the risk of chastisement unrelieved by sympathy. Neither should Musical News open its columns to vulgar abuse of people with whom it has no dispute. It cannot desire the unsavoury distinction of a Cloaca Maxima. Nor should Musical News descend to offensive personalities directed against gentlemen engaged upon a contemporary. It is bad enough to do this in the case of any gentleman whatever, but even an elementary sense of decency and politic behaviour might induce a journal to refrain from throwing mud at persons connected with what is, in some sort, a rival enterprise. Our young contemporary will, we trust, ponder these words, and behave better in future. Meanwhile, we suggest that its present ardent and scarcely responsible spirits should submit to the guidance of some staid and prudent journalist, familiar not only with the etiquette of the profession, but also with the rules which govern the intercourse of gentlemen.

THOMAS WINGHAM.

By Louis N. Parker.

At first we were students together—he at the top of the ladder and I just timidly putting my foot on the lowest rung. He was very earnest, very grave, very ascetic in his ways of thought, and I suppose the violent contrast in our natures drew us together, for very soon after our first meeting, when he favoured me with a quietly sarcastic reproof for wearing a tie of too worldly a colour for the halls of Academe, we were inseparable. It was, to be sure, an unpromising beginning for a friendship which proved lifelong; but I suppose I showed such penitence for my frivolous taste in neck-cloths that he could not but see I had a better nature than appeared on the surface. Those old days at the Academy were very delightful. Somehow the sun used to shine more brightly then, the trees in the parks as we walked homewards of a summer evening—it was summer all the year round, I remember—wore a fresher green, and all the geese on the ponds were swans indubitable. I was firmly convinced in those halcyon days that the greatest achievement of the human mind was an opera libretto—the greatest, that is to say, next to the composition of the music—and I persuaded Wingham that the short road to glory for both of us was by means of a grand opera. We did not, either of us, trouble our heads at all about such sordid details as what we were to do with our great work when it was finished; I daresay we imagined that all the impresarii of Europe would leave whatever they were doing and rush to secure the prize. We both had, afterwards, many opportunities of learning that when impresarii hear there is a new opera in any particular spot they rush in the opposite direction. But it was the period of dreams, and we fed full on them. Wingham was then, in a very beautiful sense, the favourite pupil of Sir Sterndale Bennett. The old class-room in which Bennett taught—spoken of by the students who had no access to it in awful whispers as the Committee Room—was occupied one morning every week by an enthusiastic band of young composers who were all going to do marvellous things some day. Alas, where are the snows of yester-year? The only one who in any degree justified his own hopes was Thomas Wingham—and he is dead. There we used to sit, some of us perhaps little appreciating our privilege, and listen to Sir Sterndale's gentle voice. I have met many men since whom the world calls great, but I have never met any man with so gentle a manner, with so glowing an enthusiasm, with so delicate yet brilliant a wit, or with such absolute mastery of his subject. Wingham was more than a mere pupil; he was the beloved disciple of the great master, and their conferences were not like a lesson between teacher and learner, but like an interchange of thought between kindred minds. We others sat by, only too glad to let our wretched imitation sonatas and pinchbeck anthems be forgotten, and listened while the old great man and the young man who, we believed, had all the elements of greatness, discussed the masterpieces of dead and living composers. Bennett every now and then would jump up with a "Do you remember— ?" and play long extracts from forgotten operas or symphonies with that exquisite touch of his which died with him. The pianoforte was turned by the magician into an orchestra and chorus and a miraculous galaxy of soloists who took no liberties with their composer. And when Wingham and I walked home together after one of these lessons we trod on clouds, and it is no marvel that two impressionable young men thought the world was their oyster. Then the opera would rise in our thoughts again, and we would hammer away at plots. In those days the Academy was given over body and soul to Weber, and it was quite natural that we should struggle with romantic subjects which far out-did "Euryanthe" in an accumulation of horrors. I have that youthful libretto by me now. It seems strange in the cold light of middle age that two young men, who to all outward seeming were no madder than their mates, should for one moment have thought there was any sort of merit in such a farrago of nonsense. I don't know whether Wingham composed any of the music to "Love's Burthen," as the great work was called. But I do know it afforded an excuse for a delightful trip abroad. "Love's Burthen" was all about Charlemagne and feudal castles, and Egginhard the minstrel, and such matters, and it was obviously necessary that we should go and study up our subject on the spot. At Cologne we were hospitably entertained by Ferdinand Hiller, who was then Principal of the Cologne Conservatoire. The mere fact that we came from the Royal Academy of Music seemed to commend itself to him as a reason for overwhelming us with kind attentions. These foreigners have a way of being kind on the slightest excuse. Then we visited a good many of the old-world watering-places, the names of half of which are unfamiliar to most people now-a-days, such as Schwalbach, Schlangenbad, Ems, Kreuznach, Bertrich. But mostly Wingham's interest was centred in the gorgeous cathedrals of the Rhineland; and I remember that after a great night at Freiburg im Breisgau, where my old fellow-students had insisted on giving us an Ehren-Punsch, he got up at a weird hour in the morning to make a pilgrimage to Strasburg. It was the festival of a great Saint, and he could not resist the temptation of being present. For already his mind was made up concerning the change of religion which he embraced soon afterwards, and I have no doubt that the contemplation of so many masterpieces of mediæval architecture and of the outward tokens of a simple, thorough-going old-world faith which met him on every hand, had a great influence in hastening that change. In no case has such a determination been the result of deeper conviction, and I should say that in very few cases has the convert passed through a much severer ordeal or paid a much greater price for the courage of his opinion. Soon after our return from our little vacation ramble our paths took us far apart, but our friendship suffered no diminution. Wingham remained in London, and many of the honours which music holds in store for its servants gradually fell to his share. He was a professor in all the musical institutions of any repute; but however distinguished his position became, he was never above running down to the pleasant townlet in which I was "labouring," and playing the organ or the pianoforte or the kettle-drums in our modest orchestra. Meanwhile composition went on slowly. I should imagine it is not known to many what a mountain of manuscripts he has left behind. Who, for instance, has heard his Choral Symphony? And who, again, knows much about his opera "Nala and Damayanti"? One would like to know what has become of that? The libretto was written by Mrs. Oscar Beringer, and a great deal of the music was finished in sketch form years ago. Has it ever been orchestrated?

Wingham's career as a composer furnishes much food for reflection, and should be taken to heart by all young students who are to-day looking with eager eyes into the future, where they see visions of glory and worldly reward. He was a man of exquisitely delicate fancy, his melodic gift was distinguished, his learning was deep, the modern orchestra had no secrets for him, and his ideals were lofty. He never turned aside for a moment to write ad captandum ballads, he never for a moment made derogatory terms with vulgar popularity, and always he carried about in his mind plans for large and broad compositions in the grand classical style. Now he was planning a symphony, now a quartet, now a concerto, or again an opera. The Philharmonic Concerts were open to him, and Mr. Manns was his staunch friend and admirer. And yet to how few people outside his own circle is he known, excepting as an admirable teacher and, perhaps, as the Director of the music at the Brompton Oratory? Granting his genius, he should by rights have been one of the glories of musical England. Why has he fallen short of that? I venture to think because he got into the whirlpool of teaching and examining which devours so many of our brightest talents. His responsibilities were onerous, and as he was a man of honour he shirked none of them. Two paths lay open to him: either to live for his art or to live for his duties. He chose the latter, and among his friends and those who were dependent on him his memory will be all the sweeter for his choice; but I think his own artistic development was hindered thereby, and I am sure the world is the loser. Social life in England absorbs artistic life and—bitter as it is to say—it seems almost impossible to be at the same time a great artist and a good citizen, unless one has independent means or scorns delights and lives laborious days. Wingham's day was laborious enough in all conscience, but he spent himself on others. His pupils have absorbed what was meant for mankind. It is their duty, as I am sure it will be their joy, to see that his fame does not suffer, to do what they can to bring the compositions he left behind into prominence, perhaps to help him to posthumous popularity.

Mr. F. G. Edwards read, on the 22nd ult., an interesting and amusing paper on "Some musical haunts in London," before the members of the South-Eastern section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians. Mr. Edwards has the true spirit of the antiquary that can find romance in an ancient ledger and that makes the searching of dusty tomes and the revival of forgotten incidents concerning men of cherished memory a duty and delight. Thus on this occasion many tales were told and remarks made about various London houses in which geniuses had dreamed and fretted, and performed life's ordinary duties more or less faithfully. Amongst the places mentioned were Thomas Britton's upper room over his little coal shop in Clerkenwell, in which may be said to have originated "Chamber Concerts"; "Crosby Hall," where Mr. Dando held some of the earliest "quartet parties," and where Mendelssohn's Motet "Hear my Prayer" was first performed; and "The Hoop and Horseshoe" Inn, near the Mint, where Wagner, in 1839, spent his first night in London with "his little wife and a big Newfoundland dog." Exeter Hall naturally called forth many recollections. It seems that when the Sacred Harmonic Society asked permission to hold their concerts there they were refused, until the secretary discovered that music was a science; upon which, and the rent being guaranteed, the Society were allowed to use the hall on condition that the music was of a sacred character and that no applause was permitted. Other notable houses referred to were Mr. Cousins's, "hair-cutter," in Cecil Court, near the National Gallery, where the Mozart family lodged on their first visit to England; and their subsequent apartments in "Thrift," now "Frith" Street, Soho, where "Master Mozart" gave a Concert of which it was announced that "The price for each person is five shillings, or else to take the sonatas composed by this boy and dedicated to Her Majesty (price 10s. 6d.), which he has had the honour of performing many times before their Majesties." Of course, Mr. Edwards had much to say concerning Great Pulteney Street and the long list of celebrities who had frequented Messrs. Broadwood's. How this firm was established by one Burkhardt Tschudi, a Swiss, in 1732, and how one of his journeymen named John Broadwood won a partner and a partnership in his daughter "Barbara." Many interesting details were also given about the old Argyll Rooms in Regent Street which were burnt February 6, 1830; and concerning the Hanover Square Rooms, both at one time the home of the Philharmonic Society. But the remarks most valuable in results were made in reference to Great Portland Street, where Weber, the guest of Sir George Smart, died in 1826. Mr. Edwards expressed a hope that a commemorative tablet would be placed upon this house, now No. 103, and thought that the Society before whom he was speaking should take the matter in hand; a proposition which met with so cordial a response that, at the suggestion of Mr. W. H. Cummings, it was unanimously decided to at once take the necessary steps to ensure this being done.

It was not to be expected that the article on Congregational Music, which appeared recently in these pages, would escape severe criticism at the hands of private correspondents and the public press. We do not propose to reply to these in detail. It may be as well, however, to point out to our readers that church music may be viewed from two totally different standpoints: some see in it only a useful element of public worship, others consider it as being in itself an offering to Almighty God: those who hold the former view naturally become warm advocates of the congregational style; those who hold the latter just as naturally think that, as an offering of the soul and mind, church music cannot be too beautiful as a work of art. Our ancestors certainly thought that a work of art was a worthy offering to God when they raised our splendid cathedrals. Westminster Abbey is, without doubt, not so well adapted for congregational worship as Exeter Hall or Spurgeon's Tabernacle, but it was built as a beautiful gift to God, not as something which would be very useful to a crowd. This is no doubt a mediæval—perhaps it may even be called a sentimental—view, quite unsuited to the closing years of the nineteenth century; but, nevertheless, those who hold it are deserving of some consideration and respect. Just as church music may be gradually reduced to a Moody and Sankey level by a consistent endeavour to spread its utility, so also the art of architecture may be gradually dispensed with until we arrive at a four-square brick building with large round-headed windows, containing within huge galleries on three sides, while the fourth is devoted to the rostrum of the minister; and this cheap and useful place of worship is a true exponent of congregational architecture. May congregational music shun the example! Some critics have credited the author of the article with an assumption that "church music was invented for the sake of the art of music." This he neither stated nor assumed; indeed, such a statement would be as silly as to say that "churches were invented for the benefit of architects." Such an assumption is in fact merely one of those straw men which disputants set up in order to show how cleverly they can knock them down. On the whole, it seems desirable that we should have amongst us men who value highly artistic church music and dread to see its existence threatened, as well as those who come forward as champions of congregational singing.

The announcement that Samuel Sebastian Wesley's "Wilderness" is to be performed, with orchestral accompaniment, at the approaching Bristol Festival recalls a similar presentation of that noble work at the Birmingham Festival of 1852, when the composer conducted, and Madame Clara Novello, Miss M. Williams, Mr. Lockey, and Herr Formes were the solo vocalists. Wesley's anthem, which immediately followed the first performance of Mendelssohn's "Christus," failed to meet with the approval of The Times critic. "Deficient in melody," said the leading journal, "confused in harmony and part-writing, full of intricate combinations and 'modulation run mad,' it by no means gives a true expression to the text which it is intended to illustrate." The Athenæum joined in a similar strain, saying: "It is a weak, tiresome and pedantic exercise, not likely to be again heard of." The Times criticism naturally roused Wesley's indignation, and he thus expressed his feelings in a letter to Aris's Birmingham Gazette. "His criticism is as objectionable from its mongrel phraseology as from the intrinsic worthlessness of the subject-matter; and it may be likened to a glass of very bad porter, the larger and better portion of which is the undrinkable froth." The adverse criticism gave rise to a long correspondence in the Musical World of 1852, to which we refer those who are further interested in the matter. This was not Wesley's first rebuff in regard to his fine anthem. A foot-note appended to the folio edition states that it was "composed for the re-opening of a cathedral organ, 1831" (it would be interesting to know the location of the said cathedral). Wesley came of age in that year, and in 1834 he sent in his "Wilderness" for the Gresham Prize, but failed to get it. Dr. Crotch was the adjudicator, and it is said that he "expressed his opinion of the work in a very characteristic fashion by drawing the portrait of a chorister boy, with his face distorted with agony, in the effort to reach the high A in the concluding verse, 'And sorrow and sighing shall flee away.'" Posterity has long reversed the judgment of the leading critics of the day, and of the Oxford Professor; and the "Wilderness" remains an imperishable monument to Wesley's genius.

To Sir Augustus Harris belongs the credit which is always due to the performance of an act of justice; for so most certainly may be described the revival, after forty-one years of unmerited neglect, of Halévy's "La Juive." But in the spirit which animated Oliver Twist when he asked for "more," we would remind Sir Augustus that there are other operas which he might very well honour in similar fashion—operas which to the present generation are no more than names, and some amongst which, less fortunate than "La Juive," are not to be heard even at the price of a trip to the Continent. To name but one, Cherubini's "Medea"—what, for instance, does the fin de siècle amateur know of that? The overture, perhaps, which he has heard at a concert: for the rest, if he be exceptionally well informed, he may tell you that when this opera was produced here in 1865, it was accounted a great success; that the press, at the time, spoke of it in glowing terms; that Tietjens's impersonation of the title-rôle was the talk of the town; and that, a few years later, "Medea" was laid on the shelf, where it still remains. Yet this work contains some of the noblest and most beautiful music ever written by the master who had been spoken of by Haydn and Beethoven as the greatest dramatic composer of his time. With Madame Klafsky available there should be no difficulty in reviving "Medea." Spontini, too, and Marschner, might, we venture to think, safely be drawn upon. The latter's "Vampyr" once ran for sixty nights at the Lyceum, and his "Hans Heiling" is a stock piece all over Germany at the present day. To show the estimation in which this composer was once held in a country which now entirely ignores him, it is only necessary to say that in 1861 the Musical World spoke of Marschner as "the greatest of living German operatic composers." At the end of that year he died, and with him, apparently, his English reputation. Is the wizard of Drury Lane potent enough to command its revival?

In a Cambridge examination paper, so long ago as 1858, appeared the following formidable problem in higher mathematics: "Bach's 'Well-tempered Clavier' consists of two books, each containing the same number of fugues. In the first book, instead of having (as is usual) one subject, one fugue has two and another has a prime number; in the second book, two less than half the number of fugues in it have two subjects, and one has the same prime number as before, which is a measure of the whole number of fugues, and also of the whole number of subjects diminished by eighteen. If the whole number of fugues were increased by one, one-seventh of the result (which is an integer) is less by two than one-third of the whole number of subjects in the first book. How many fugues are there?" How curiously it reads to musicians to have all the ingenuities of the Calculus brought to bear upon solving a question to which every schoolboy should be able to supply the answer!

Here is a singular blunder on the part of our esteemed French contemporary Le Ménéstrel. Speaking of a performance of Beethoven's A minor Quartet (Op. 132), it says: "By the way, the programme reproduced a typographical error from W. Lenz's book 'Beethoven and his three styles' in giving the headings of the movements, mentioning the Canzone di ringraziamento in modo lidico" (in the Lydian mode) "offerta alla divinita da un guarito. Modo lidico has no sense; it should be modo lyrico—that is, in a lyric style." This wonderful piece of would-be cleverness is signed with the initials A. P., but cannot surely have been written by so distinguished a journalist as Arthur Pougin. Anonymous criticism has its drawbacks, but the use of initials does not seem to be preferable if two individuals have the same. That such is the case in the present instance is, of course, only a charitable supposition on our part. But in any case the editor of Le Ménéstrel must keep his eyes open.

An absurd paragraph has been going the rounds, to the effect that "an orchestral player of Fribourg has copied twenty-one musical compositions on a post card; to wit, seventeen national hymns, of which six are for twenty-four voices, and three orchestral compositions, including Wagner's 'Siegfried' Idyll, and a chorus from Méhul's 'Joseph.' This miracle of minuteness is (of course) going to be sent to the Chicago Exhibition." Now two words in the paragraph—which these are we leave our readers to guess—betray its French and therefore dubious origin. A very slight calculation will show that, even allowing eleven of the "national hymns" to be in short score, one single line of the compositions named would require 206 staves. Further, there are no "national hymns" for twenty-four voices in existence. And, finally, seventeen and three do not make twenty-one.

FACTS, RUMOURS, AND REMARKS.

The Mexborough and Swinton Times has a musical critic of rare humour, and a collection of his articles would be admirable light reading for the next sea-side season. Hear him anent a performance of "Samson": "'Then shall they know' was a chorus of a rather different nature, almost like a round. It opened with the alto voices, followed by the tenors, and was then taken up by the others. It was short but sweet." Regarding "To man God's universal law," the critic remarks: "If difficult to swallow in present day sentiment, is quite as difficult to sing in chorus, but Mr. Popple's followers carried it through with flying colours." Why a thing difficult to swallow should be carried anywhere with flying colours does not appear. But the writer is at his best in a wonderful sentence at the meaning of which our readers may find it of interest to guess: "Her plea to Samson—for Madame Larkcom was taking the part of Dalila, Samson's wife—'My faith and truth,' with the virgin's chorus by the soprano voices, was rendered more attractive by the soloist being a third lower than the chorus, besides being much easier for the soloist, for at this part the soprano is heavily weighted." There!

Dignified musicians are, apparently, becoming very cheap. A gentleman writes to the Newcastle Daily Leader complaining that, in the exercise of his vocation as a "comic and sentimental street vocalist," he is harried by the police. He says: "I am a man who is incapacitated from following any manual labour through a bodily infirmity, from which I have suffered from childhood, and have practically lost the use of both legs. I am, therefore, compelled to resort to some such means as I have above stated to obtain a livelihood, and I consider it very hard that I, who have been born a subject of Her Most Gracious Majesty (and all my ancestors for generations), cannot raise my voice in the streets to procure an honest penny, while German bands, Italian organs, and all the aliens from every country in Europe can carry on ten times a greater nuisance and fraught with ten times greater inconvenience to passengers and street traffic than mine; yet they are never interfered with by the police nor molested in any way." Here is another case of injustice to native artists. But that is not the point. The writer signs himself "Professor James Thompson."

There seems to be an organised attack on Gounod's music, which is now fired at with the monotonous regularity of a machine gun. A writer in Musical Opinion bangs away thus: "Probably Gounod's poorest song, both as regards words and music, is 'There is a green hill far away,' the mawkishness of which has so often been exaggerated by the affectation and bad taste of some of our ballad singers. But in this case the song was made more tolerable than usual by being allotted to a bass, Mr. A. E. Drinkwater. When the epithet 'green' was applied to Mount Calvary, the writer of the words must have been dreaming; of all sterile, rocky wastes, the historic Mount is about the dreariest and most desolate." The writer is entitled to his opinion about the song named, but, happily, we are not bound to accept it. His criticism on the verses is certainly rash. The site of Calvary has been for ages a matter of dispute, while the spot which has the best claim is now occupied by the Empress Helena's church. Wherefore, the poet is entitled to the free exercise of his imagination, and may call a hill green which, in effect, does not exist.

"Paddymania" is the name given in the United States to the disease taken over there by Paderewski. A method of dealing with the disorder has happily been discovered, and made known in the Musical Courier, as thus: "'My God! his beautiful face haunts! I cannot put it away. Oh, that it would leave me for just a moment so that I could sleep!' The speaker was a lovely girl, whose set stare, dishevelled attire, disordered hair and long finger nails proclaimed to the lookers on that she had fallen a victim to that curious fin de siècle neurotic disorder—alas, raging so furiously in this city at the present moment—Paddymania. 'There, there,' said I, soothingly; 'be calm a moment. Think of—well, think of Rummel. That will make you quieter.' With a look of gratitude in her heavy blue eyes the girl knitted her eyebrows a moment in thought, and then fell asleep. 'Saved!' cried her mother in a spasm of gratitude. 'Oh, doctor, how can we ever repay you?' 'A cheque will do, my dear madam,' said I, with true professional instinct." A question arises here: Is not Mr. Rummel entitled to a commission on each cure?

Here are words of truth and soberness from the New York Tribune. As the London hysterical season is close at hand, they may afford opportunity of comparison, if serving no purpose more useful: "It has been said that the frantic silliness of the feminine adoration of Liszt could not be surpassed; it often gave his surroundings the air of an asylum for imbeciles. But we are inclined to think that M. Paderewski has reached a still higher pedestal in the estimation of the Hysterics. All this craziness has nothing to do with musical knowledge or musical criticism: it is supremely vulgar, and it fills the soul of a cool observer with hearty disgust. Appreciative enthusiasm is one thing; sentimental lunacy is another."

A New York contemporary gives, under the head of "Organ Loft Whisperings," the following picture of a fashionable and luxurious church on Easter Sunday: "So gentle, so sweet, so still, one can hear the turn of the leaf under the organist's slender fingers, the muffled shove of the sexton's cautious step through the thick carpet, the click of a bracelet against its fellow upon my lady's gloved wrist, the faint odour of delicate perfumes, carpets rich and thick as those of a drawing-room, pews panelled and gilded, arching domes and rich windows bathed in soft light, a chancel draped in sunset colour and bathed with beautiful blossoms, sacred furniture, an assemblage of refined, well-dressed people, ineffable peace and rest within the walls. As one might imagine the music of the spheres, when the first sun sank to rest, dreamy strains of music rise through the warm colouring and the stillness, and floating over the chancel rail, steal about the place like ministering angels, touching, soothing, blessing the souls assembled on Easter evening." What a striking evolution from the worship on the hill-sides of Judæa!

The Echo has an interesting paragraph re Verdi: "The newly-made Roman citizen has never shown any great affection for the banks of Tiber. Since 1859, when he produced the 'Ballo in Maschera' at the Apollo Theatre, until the other day, he has only visited Rome once, and that was when he had been made a Senator, and was obliged to go there to take the oath. Even then he left again the same day, so that from 1859 to 1893 he has not passed a single night in the Eternal City. But the Maëstro is not a bird of passage, and is never at ease except in his native Lombardy. He has a very strong spice of obstinacy also. The municipality of Busseto, some years ago, refused the post of town organist to one of his protégés—M. Muzio, a mediocre composer, but an excellent musician. Since that day Verdi has never set foot in Busseto, in the neighbourhood of which he lives, and the shifts to which he resorts in order to avoid it are amusing." We must not be understood as pledging ourselves to the absolute accuracy of the quotation.

The Albani concert party having announced an entertainment in Cardiff, to take place shortly before one by the local Musical Society, Mr. T. Evans wrote to the journals in complaint. To him, in answer, Mr. Ernest Gye: "It seems to me that the visits of great artists, even if they do sing ballads, must do great good in the furtherance of the musical education of a town; and if Mr. Evans attains the object he aims at—viz., the keeping away of all good artists from Cardiff, he will do much injury to the musical societies instead of helping them. I must beg leave to offer him a piece of advice also, and that is to use his best endeavours to combine the choral societies of Cardiff, and to have one only instead of two or three choral bodies struggling one against the other. This is why they do not flourish and why they are afraid of outside parties coming into the town."

MR. EVANS, returning to the charge, takes no notice of Mr. Gye's somewhat gratuitous counsel, but remarks on the main point: "How can Cardiff support four first-class concerts in a fortnight? The Orchestral Society had to compete with Sir Charles Hallé, who came two days before, and their Concert was undoubtedly far worse attended in consequence than any in several previous years. Similarly the Musical Society has to compete with Madame Albani, and there is no wonder, therefore, that I wrote to beg the musical public that, while they went to hear the ballad singer on her flying visit to the town, they should not make that an excuse for not patronising a Society which is established for developing the taste for and study of music in the town." A little consideration on both sides might prevent difficulties in future; but concert-giving is free and rival enterprises must take their chance.

THE Liverpool Review has on its staff a remarkable critic and in its printing office a peculiarly mischievous devil. This imp got at the "formes" one day lately, with the following orthographic results: "Cherubin" for Cherubini, "O Fous Amoris," "Ainsley Cook," and "Rossinio." One may smile at this boyish escapade, but the critic, who poses as a comic man, can only be taken seriously. Here are a few gems of depressing humour: "'Tannhäuser' was the chef d'œuvre of the season, and Mr. Goossens—so to speak—was its prophet." "Specialities were provided by the ordinary company, and altogether we had such a high old time as never was." "Mr. McDermott did, as he always does wherever he sings, immense in his various comic songs." The Liverpudlian critic does immense likewise, and we must look him up when too exuberant spirits need correction.

"THE Beethoven House Society at Bonn," says a correspondent of the Standard, is "arranging a great festival of chamber music, which is to take place in that city from the 10th to the 14th of May, in order to inaugurate the Beethoven Museum. This Institution will comprise the house in which the great musician was born, and a collection of his original manuscript music, and other relics. At the performances, the most eminent living artists will appear, including Professor Joachim and the other members of his quartet, Rose's Vienna Quartet, Carl Reinecke, Eugène d'Albert and his wife, Madame Carreño; and the Amsterdam baritone, John Messchaert." England will be represented on this occasion by Miss Fanny Davies, who will play Beethoven's Clarinet Trio with Mühlfeld and Hausmann.

THE musical representative of the Thames Valley Times is entitled to stand high up on our list of curious critics, and some others will have to look to their laurels. But we do not hold him responsible for the misprints in his notice of a Concert by the Richmond Orchestral Society. It was, no doubt, a mischievous printer's boy who perpetrated "concertrate," "subltest," "Mendellsohn," and "secuaing." When, however, we read that the Concert was an "improvement to its predecessors," that the orchestra "conspicuously embraced" Mr. Liddle's "fine free rendering" of a certain piece, and that Miss Florence Hudson has "fine wrought" sensibilities, we recognise the master-hand.

THE death, on March 29, of Count Gigliucci, for fifty years, less five months, the husband of Clara Novello, is an event which we put upon record with genuine sympathy. So long a married life cannot terminate without seriously affecting the survivor, but our hope is, and the hope of all who remember the famous singer when she was before the public, that the love of her children and friends will assuage the grief which no solace can wholly remove. Count Gigliucci, who was born in 1815, early threw in his political lot with the liberal national party, and, in 1848, was a member of the Parliament convoked by the then reforming Pope, Pius the Ninth. In 1849 he was exiled from his Neapolitan estates at a day's notice, and, a few months later, found himself compelled to leave the Papal States, whither he did not return till 1860. Subsequently he was thrice returned to the Italian Parliament and became a Senator in 1889.

VARIETY Theatre and music hall "artistes" are invading the concert-room. A correspondent calls our attention to the following paragraph from the Birmingham Daily Mail, and informs us that the concert-giver is a well-known local tenor: "Last night there was a large attendance in the Smethwick Public Hall, on the occasion of Mr. Lloyd James's third Concert of the fourth series. The artists included Miss Katie Cutler, Miss Madge Smith, Mr. Thomas Collins, Mr. F. L. O'Hare, and Mr. J. Kimberley. Mr. W. G. Sutton gave several of his laughing songs; Signor Alsepti, concertina soloist, played three selections; and Mr. Lawrence Levy, of the Birmingham Athletic Club, gave an exhibition of feats of strength." What next!

THAT Art demands an undivided allegiance is evidently not the belief of Mr. J. W. Chuter, Organist of Andover Parish Church. This gentleman has for some time been enrolled among the "conscript fathers" of the pleasant town in which he resides, and is now the occupant of the Mayor's chair—"and a good and much respected Mayor he is," writes a correspondent. Our informant asks whether this is not the first instance of a professional musician attaining such an honour. We can only mention the case of Mr. Dyson, a lay-clerk of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, who was Mayor of the Royal Borough some time since. This, however, may not be quite a parallel case, because we believe Mr. Dyson is a tradesman in the town as well as a singing man in the Chapel.

DR. HENRY HILES has completed the scoring of an opera, "Harold," upon the composition of which he has been for some time engaged. The libretto, by Miss Marian Millar, includes the most striking scenes of the life of "the last of the Saxon kings": the first Act being occupied by Harold's return to England, his love scene with Edith, and the May day rejoicings with which Bulwer's readers are familiar; the second by his unlucky visit to Rouen; and the third by his Coronation, the victory in the North, and the final catastrophe. It is strange that English history, so full of most striking incident, has not more largely interested our opera writers.

As Mr. Cowen had expressed his determination not to return home until something had been definitely settled with regard to the production of "Signa" in Italy, his return to town a few days ago gave ample proof that his recent negotiations with Signor Sonzogno had been brought to a successful issue. The Italian impresario is now pledged—as much as mortals can be—to produce "Signa" in the autumn of this year. That he himself will throw no difficulties in the way may be confidently assumed. Though an Italian, Signor Sonzogno is too able not to have learnt that success with the public is the result of deeds, not words.

The logic of "Who drives fat oxen should himself be fat" is often disputed, but, according to an American writer, who criticises professional musicians should not himself be one. We read: "Professional musicians are among the severest critics to be found anywhere. Some of them are so biassed and so conceited that they can see no good except in themselves or their special friends. Nobody can do anything to suit such critical gents, and those whom they cannot argue to death they try to kill with sarcasm. We do not say that all musicians belong to this class, but that this pre-disposition to severe criticism does exist among them cannot be denied."

The Globe, mentioning a report that Dr. H. Parry has undertaken a work for the next Leeds Festival, adds that the Corporation offered the Festival Committee £200 for the handsome gallery specially erected by them in the Town Hall last year. This meant a loss of £1,050. The Committee declined, and eventually the price agreed upon was £1,000. It is no secret that many of the Leeds Councillors are wholly out of sympathy with the Festival, for the reason, perhaps, that they are wholly unable to understand it.

Congratulations to a musical Grand Old Man—Mr. Henry Russell, aged eighty—on recovery from a bad attack of bronchitis. Congratulations, also, to a Grand Old Woman—Mrs. Keeley, aged eighty-seven—on having weathered the dangers of another winter and seen her eighty-eighth spring—a season not more bright and genial than herself. Mrs. Keeley was the original Mermaid in Weber's "Oberon," produced sixty-five years ago.

All the talk about Hans Richter leaving Vienna has ended in nothing. He was reported as bent upon that course, regardless of consequences. He may have been, but has changed his mind, as needs must when one party to a solemn contract will not release the other, and when the "party of the first instance" is an Emperor. But let us have patience and, in course of time, we shall have the great Conductor also.

Signor Buonamici was honoured the other day by a command to play before the Queen of England at the Villa Palmieri, Florence. After the Recital Her Majesty conversed with the distinguished pianist, and is reported to have asked him to name his favourite pianoforte maker. He did so, and his illustrious questioner said she agreed with him. Wild horses shall not, however, force us to betray the confidences thus exchanged.

Mr. Edgar Haddock, the English violinist, is going to do something for the music of his native country, one of his forthcoming "Musical Afternoons" in Steinway Hall being devoted entirely to works by English modern composers. The performance will be of double interest to amateurs, as every piece is announced to be produced for the first time in London.

Mr. Carrodus was ill-advised in writing to throw doubt upon a reported appearance of the Covent Garden orchestra on the ground that he himself knew nothing of it. There was nothing to gain by such action, and the violinist had to hear that "it does not matter two straws whether the orchestra is led by Mr. Carrodus or any other equally competent leader."

A Berne orchestra struck work the other day during a performance of "Carmen," and the opera had to go on with a pianoforte accompaniment. The players concerned may be good men of business, though we doubt it, but they have no respect for the public and cannot possibly be artists. Why did they not think once, twice, and even thrice before making such ugly facts known!

Bristol Festival programme: "Samson"; "Faust" (Berlioz); "Lobgesang," "Stabat Mater" (Rossini); "Paradise and the Peri" (Schumann); Wagner selections; "Messiah." Vocal artists: Albani, Nordica, Palliser, Landi, Hilda Wilson, Clara Butt, Lloyd, Davies, Santley, Black, Warlock. October 25 and three following days. Conductor, Hallé.

No printer's boy has done better lately than he of the Totnes Times. The young gentleman in question—for whom we anticipate a distinguished future—by slipping a single letter into the middle of a word made it appear that "the Newton Choral Society intend rendering Haydn's Oratorio 'Cremation.'" There can be no doubt that, if discovered, the juvenile wag "got it hot."

Inasmuch as Mr. Joseph Bennett was knighted by a Welsh paper some time ago, and has just had the same dignity conferred upon him by a New York contemporary, it seems needful to say that he is not entitled to the gold spurs, which, indeed, would be out of all keeping with his modest and peaceful calling as a musical journalist.

The Vienna correspondent of the Telegraph, who is among those who know a thing or two in music, is represented as wiring that the librettist of Rubinstein's "Christ" is "Bulthaupt, the celebrated Wagner playwright." The tricksy spirit employed to carry news now-a-days has evidently been "at it again."

Sir Augustus Harris is credited with an intention to produce "Der Freyschütz." We trust he will carry out his purpose, for Weber's opera is most unjustly neglected. Only let us have the work as the master left it, and not with the recitatives written for an Italian version at Her Majesty's Theatre by, if we remember aright, Sir Julius Benedict.

How well the late Emma Abbott, who was regularly interviewed on the subject of her dresses, knew the public with which she had to deal. With reference to Mrs. Albert Barker, the reciter, the Americans have just been told: "She is a pupil of Herman Vezin in elocution, and claims to design all her own gowns."

Organists will, no doubt, be curious to hear Signor Capocci, of St. John Lateran, Rome, who is now giving some performances in this country. Italian organists often do strange things and show queer taste, but this gentleman, we hear, is a "legitimate."

Curious English appears in some New York papers. When a scribe of the Sun wished to say that "whistling fiends" are a frequent nuisance, he put it that they "infest the environment of daily life." Paid by the line, we imagine.

Music flourishes, or, at any rate, there is a good deal of it in Hampstead. A series of three Recitals of Chamber Music is now in progress at the Drill Hall, with capital programmes and competent artists. This is a good thing, of which we cannot easily have too much.

Southampton is considering the propriety of establishing a College of Music, at the instance, it seems, of Miss Marie Wurm. A public meeting is in prospect, with Sir George Grove as chairman.

Miss Nikita is going, or has gone, to America. She was preceded by the good old story of the Indian chief who captured her when a child, &c.

The Dublin Harmonic Society has broken up after a life of thirty years. We are sorry.

DRURY LANE OPERA.

Sir Augustus Harris opened the "National" house on Easter Monday, for a short season of cheap opera, which is still continuing. So far little has been done that calls for notice, the manager's policy being to repeat a few successful operas, about which, and the manner of their rendering, there remains nothing more to say. He has, however, added one work to his repertory—the "Juive" of Halévy, long denied to the lyric stage of England, its last performance having taken place some time in the early "fifties." In all likelihood the manager was drawn to "La Juive" by its capacity for stage show. Sir Augustus Harris is good at spectacle, and a chance to display alike his capacity and his resources comes to him, no doubt, with much acceptance. At any rate, he put Halévy's work before his patrons so as to please their eyes, if their ears were not in equal measure gratified.

The opera met with more favour than might have been expected. Its story seemed to interest, the more, perhaps, because it resembles somewhat that of Rebecca in "Ivanhoe," and the music proved scarcely so old-fashioned as was feared. Truth to tell, "La Juive" is, both dramatically and musically, a strong work, able to hold its own against the influence of change in public taste. So much has been proved by the Drury Lane revival, and we may now look to see the opera transferred to the stage of Covent Garden. It was first played, as readers of musical history know, at the Grand Opéra, Paris, in February, 1835, and is now nearly sixty years old. Often performed on the Continent, it has partially survived in England through the use of certain airs for concert-room purposes. Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Foli have both done service in this respect, and now that we have the entire work once more the chances are that it will not again be neglected, anyhow for a considerable time. But future performances should be better than that at Drury Lane. The manager will have to find a more competent Rachel than Miss Gherlsen and a more powerful Ruggiero than Mr. De Vaschetti. Mr. Giannini (Eleazar) and Mr. Castelmary (Cardinal) did very well, and are fit to take their place in any representation. But the main weakness lay in the orchestra. Sir Augustus's freshly-imported Germans are by no means a success. They play with sad want of precision, and the tone of the strings is wretched. In brief, they won't do at all, unless there be a considerable admixture of English performers, with their better qualities and finer instruments.

ROYAL CHORAL SOCIETY.

For the sake of maintaining a complete record of the labours of the leading Choral Association in the Metropolis, it should be noted that the customary abbreviated version of "The Messiah" was performed at the Albert Hall on Good Friday. But the sacred Concerts on the most solemn day of the Christian year partake of the nature of religious functions, and are scarcely amenable to criticism. We will, therefore, pass on to the performance of "St. Paul" on the 19th ult., which, artistically, was a marked success, though the comparative smallness of the audience was disappointing, as Mendelssohn's first Oratorio has of late been taken into new favour. The number of empty seats, however, may be accounted for on two grounds: it is a curious, but indisputable fact, that after Easter Oratorio temporarily declines in favour; and, notwithstanding the boasted advance in musical taste, the public is still attracted by eminent names, the list of soloists on the present occasion not being particularly strong. As it happened, however, the rendering of the solos was, in every instance, worthy of the Albert Hall. Mr. Watkin Mills was, of course, thoroughly impressive in the leading part, for he has for some time been recognised as almost without a rival in the forcible music which Mendelssohn has put into the mouth of the great Apostle of the Gentiles; Madame Clara Samuell interpreted the soprano airs with the utmost conscientiousness and noteworthy artistic effect; Madame Belle Cole was wholly satisfactory in the one contralto air "But the Lord is mindful"; and Mr. Ben Davies sang "Stephen's Apology" with fine declamatory emphasis, and "Be thou faithful unto death" with all the fervour it demands. The music of the two witnesses received justice from Mr. J. Woodley and Mr. F. Stuart Hyatt. Sir Joseph Barnby's choir once more showed itself unsurpassable, for every number in the oratorio, from the quietest to the most elaborate, was given without flaw of any sort. Oratorio lovers who stayed away from this performance missed a treat.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.

The third Concert of the present season, given in St. James's Hall on the 20th ult., calls for no extended remarks, the programme being made up chiefly of well-known works. Among these were the "Leonora" Overture, the "Italian" Symphony, and Chopin's Pianoforte Concerto in E minor. In face of these things criticism finds nothing to say that has not been said many times, and we, therefore, are confined to remarks upon the performance only. A notable feature in the rendering under Dr. Mackenzie's bâton was the unusually slow speed at which some parts of the Overture and the Andante of the Symphony were taken. The Conductor, however, simply went back to early usage. In these days of nervous impatience everything is hurried, even music, which especially suffers thereby, and we were glad to find the Andante so given as to bring out all the pensiveness—nay, melancholy, which it contains in so marked a degree. The general performance of both works was a theme of hearty commendation, and it is clear that Dr. Mackenzie is showing more and more the essential qualities of a true chef d'orchestre. Mr. Sapellnikoff made a very favourable impression in the Concerto, which he played throughout with very great finish and delicacy, completely effacing the impression left by an effort of a less acceptable character at his last appearance. On this occasion the artist did not seek to astonish; his endeavour was to interpret Chopin in accordance with truth of style and spirit. This he did, and was rewarded with the unanimous approval of all qualified to judge. In response to an encore, he played Mendelssohn's Caprice in E with equal delicacy and charm.

The remaining orchestral selection was a group of pieces from Mr. Edward German's music to "Henry VIII.," some of which were heard for the first time in a concert-room and, therefore, to full advantage. We like this music much. It is not the production of a flabby and feeble composer, but of one who has a strong grip alike of subject and technical means. Both the Overture and the "Intermezzo funèbre" made this fact clear. Mr. German has a future before him the realisation of which depends entirely on his own perseverance. We believe him to be a serious musician, who will not rest content with partial achievement, and in that confidence we await developments. Miss Marie Brema, who sang a scena by Joachim and Beethoven's "Creation's Hymn," should learn to moderate her powerful voice. She is like an organist who plays through a service with all the stops out, and misses his effect in a monotony of noise.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

The Concert of the 1st ult. was very appropriately prefaced, in memory of its composer, by the late Mr. Wingham's charming Concert-Overture in F, to the unforced beauty and grace of which full justice was done in an admirable performance. Mr. Leonard Borwick was the instrumental soloist of the afternoon, and repeated his familiar and irreproachable reading of Schumann's Pianoforte Concerto, besides giving further proofs of his versatility in minor solos by Mendelssohn, Liszt, and Tschaikowsky. Mozart's noble Symphony in E flat was finely played by the orchestra, and Mr. Manns introduced a bizarre but attractive Egyptian dance from Bizet's "Djamileh." Mrs. Hutchinson, the vocalist of the afternoon, gave a refined rendering of the great air "Divinités du Styx," from Gluck's "Alceste," and introduced an old Welsh melody arranged by Mr. Somervell, and adapted by him to the words of the Psalm "By the waters of Babylon." The melody is beautiful, but the shortness of the tune and the number of the verses render it hardly suitable for a Concert of this description. Cherubini's Concert-Overture in G brought an interesting programme to a worthy close.

On the 8th ult. Mr. Manns introduced the Second Suite from the incidental music composed by Grieg for Ibsen's drama "Peer Gynt," which had not been given in London before, though we believe Sir Charles Hallé has performed it in Manchester. The Second Suite is hardly likely to form a formidable rival to the earlier and deservedly popular selection; but it is none the less a very enjoyable and picturesque work, though more remarkable for its charming lyrical impulse than any deep dramatic intensity. Miss Fanny Davies gave a very careful and well-rounded reading of Chopin's Concerto in F, and later on played minor solos by Brahms, Schumann, and Liszt with fluency and intelligence. Mr. Manns directed excellent performances of Raff's prolix but indisputably clever "Im Walde" Symphony and Weber's "Freischütz" Overture; and Mr. Braxton Smith, the vocalist of the afternoon, revived an aria from one of Donizetti's forgotten operas, besides singing Buononcini's "Per la Gloria."

The performance of Berlioz's "Faust," on the 15th ult., was, taken all round, creditable rather than remarkable. The orchestral numbers and accompaniments were played with spirit and precision, and an efficient, if not ideal, cast of soloists were found in Miss Macintyre, Mr. Ben Davies, and Mr. Henschel—the last-named specially distinguishing himself. But the Crystal Palace Choir, though exhibiting marked improvement in the present season, still lack the musicianship and the quality of tone indispensable to an adequate interpretation of this work.

The concluding Concert of the series, held on the 22nd ult., in the presence of a somewhat sparse audience, was chiefly noticeable for the splendid playing of Mdlle. Gabrielle Wietrowetz in Spohr's familiar and enjoyable Ninth Concerto. The distinguishing features of Mdlle. Wietrowetz's style—immense energy, breadth of phrasing, and deep feeling—find congenial scope in this work, which she rendered with triumphant success on this occasion. Mdlle. Wietrowetz was also heard to great advantage in a Polonaise of Wieniawski. For the performance of Schumann's D minor Symphony Mr. Manns reverted once more to the edition of 1851, discarding the Brahms-Wüllner version which he introduced last year. A fine performance of this and of a selection from Mr. Henschel's Incidental Music to "Hamlet" was given by the band, under Mr. Manns's direction. In the absence, through indisposition, of Miss Liza Lehmann, her place was taken by Miss Nancy McIntosh, who created a moderately favourable impression in songs by Handel, Massenet, and Mr. Henschel.

ROYAL ARTILLERY BAND.

The appreciation in which the admirable Concerts given by Cavaliere Zaverthal and his well-trained orchestra are held was well shown, on the 21st ult., by the crowded state of St. James's Hall and the sympathetic attention given to the works performed. The pièce de résistance was Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, of which a most careful and correct reading was given. The perfect command of dynamic effect, for which this orchestra is now famous, was shown in a remarkable way in a dainty little pizzicato piece, "Al Fresco," composed by the Conductor. No such a pianissimo has been heard in London for many a long day as this orchestra produced on the occasion in question, and other conductors will do well to note the fact. German's three charming dances from "Henry VIII.," the popularity of which grows apace; the Overture to "Ruy Blas," and pieces by Ole Bull, Rubinstein, Gillet, and Schubert completed the programme. Of the Concert which took place on the 28th ult. we must speak in our next issue.

M. SAURET'S CONCERT.

This eminent artist gave a Concert at St. James's Hall on the 15th ult. It was described as a "Violin Recital," but the title was rendered inappropriate by the modesty of the Concert-giver, who figured, as a soloist, in but three of the seven "numbers" which composed his programme. These consisted of three charming pieces of his own ("Canzona," "Impromptu," and "Farfalla"), a Concerto by Vieuxtemps, and Paganini's Variations on "Di Tanti Palpiti." The musical value of the last-named pieces may not perhaps be great, but their difficulty is indisputable, and they served admirably to show the executant's command of his instrument, and his power either to astonish or to charm. M. Sauret also led the great Trio in B flat by Beethoven, which opened the Concert. In this his associates were M. Ernest Gillet, a violoncellist of sterling merit, and Miss Muriel Elliot, a young pianist whose refined, unaffected style and intelligent phrasing made so favourable an impression that it was a pity her solos should have consisted of nothing better than vocal pieces by Chopin, Schubert, and Wagner, "arranged" by Liszt. Surely the number of works originally written for the pianoforte is large enough to render unnecessary these drafts from a répertoire the legitimacy of which is at least debatable. With this protest, however, we are bound to couple the admission that the pieces suited Miss Elliot's expressive style to a nicety. A little more power and brilliancy, at times a little more "passion," and this young artist should take high rank. Miss Dews was very acceptable in songs by Gounod and Hatton.

MADAME FRICKENHAUS'S CONCERT.

The term Matinée as applied to entertainments may cover a multitude of things, and the performance announced under this head by Madame Frickenhaus, at St. James's Hall, on the 19th ult., proved to be a more than usually interesting Chamber Concert. The excellent English pianist was modest in her selection of solos, contenting herself with Beethoven's brief two-movement Sonata in F sharp (Op. 78) and three trifling pieces by other composers. The most important feature of the programme was a Sonata in A for pianoforte and violin, by the late composer César Franck, whose works are very little known in this country. Though Franck was a Belgian by birth, and was naturalised as a Frenchman in 1873, he was scarcely in harmony with French musical art, which, almost invariably, seeks the stage as its medium of expression. He not only wrote two operas, but four oratorios—the best of which is "Ruth," composed in 1846—a number of orchestral and chamber works, and pieces for organ and pianoforte. We believe his Pianoforte and Violin Sonata was one of his latest efforts, and it certainly betrays the influence of the modern German school. It is not a work to be hastily judged, the vague outlines and the bold and frequent drifting of the tonality rendering it difficult to follow at a first hearing. These remarks, however, do not apply to the Finale, which is a bright and genial movement. In the performance, Madame Frickenhaus was associated with that able violinist, Mr. Réné Ortmans. Another novelty, in which the Concert-giver was joined by Mrs. Norman Salmond, was a brilliant and effective Polonaise for two pianofortes, by Saint-Saëns. Songs were contributed by Mr. Norman Salmond, and the Concert ended with Mozart's Pianoforte Trio in E major.

MISS DORA BRIGHT'S CONCERTS.

This clever composer and pianist gave three Concerts of chamber music on the 12th, 19th, and 26th ult., at Princes' Hall, with the assistance of Miss Angela Vanbrugh, Madame Clara Samuell, Messrs. Willy Hess, Emil Kreuz, W. E. Whitehouse, F. Griffith, and Miss Atalja van Niessen, a new contralto with a sympathetic voice (not yet, however, under perfect control) and an obviously artistic nature. The first Concert included Pianoforte Quartets by Mozart and Dvorák, Brahms's Sonata in G for pianoforte and violin, and Beethoven's Variations in C minor for pianoforte alone. In each of these the keyboard instrument was manipulated by Miss Bright with customary ease and skill. The second Concert was made specially interesting by the first performance in England of a Quintet for pianoforte and strings by an English composer, Mr. Moir Clark, once a student at the Royal Academy of Music, but who has since studied much abroad. The movement of the work which pleased us best was the Scherzo, which is very piquant, original, and concise. The slow movement, a broadly melodious piece, comes next in merit, then the opening Allegro, and, lastly, the Finale, which we liked least. But the work as a whole shows much talent and very considerable knowledge of the "arts and crafts" of composition. Mr. Moir Clark's career will be watched with interest. At this Concert Miss Bright played Chopin's B minor Sonata, Mr. Willy Hess and Mr. Whitehouse contributed violin and violoncello solos respectively, and Miss Van Niessen strengthened the favourable impression she had already made by her singing of excerpts from Wagner, Cornelius, and Brahms. The third Concert, devoted exclusively to the music of British composers, and containing a new Quartet for pianoforte and strings by Miss Bright, and a new Suite by Erskine Allon, took place too late for notice in our present issue. It should be said that Miss Bright added to her other labours the duties of accompanist.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

One of the most generally successful public performances given for several years in connection with this Institution was the Orchestral Concert at St. James's Hall on the afternoon of March 28. The only fault that could be found with the scheme was the comparatively humble position assigned to the excellent company of players, consisting mainly of present and past students, the only piece for orchestra alone being Cherubini's brilliant "Anacreon" Overture. Some of the solo instrumentalists, however, did remarkably well, the strongest impression being made by Miss E. Reynolds, a violinist who, though very young in years, gave a remarkably intelligent and even brilliant performance of Max Bruch's Concerto in D minor (No. 3), affording ample ground for the hope that, with further study and experience, she may develop into an artist of the first magnitude. Miss Edith Williams played two movements of Goetz's rarely-heard Pianoforte Concerto in B flat (Op. 18), with technical facility and considerable feeling; and Miss M. Molyneux was heard to even greater advantage in two movements from Rubinstein's Pianoforte Concerto in D minor. A good word may be said for Miss A. E. M. Carnes, who displayed much ability on the harp in an Allegro Brillante from a Concerto in E flat, by Parish Alvars. Equal promise was evinced by the vocal students, Miss Minnie Robinson and Miss Elsie Mackenzie (soprani), Miss Violet Robinson (mezzo-soprano), and Mr. Tom James (baritone), all showing distinct promise in their respective selections. Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, who conducted with marked zeal and ability, may be congratulated on the almost uniformly favourable impression made by the young people who took part in this Concert.

The following prizes have been given during the month: Sterndale Bennett Prize.—Thirty-eight candidates. Awarded to Lilias Pringle. The Examiners highly commended Keith C. Glen, and commended Anna Stern. Sainton Scholarship.—Twenty-two candidates. Awarded to Florence E. Moss. The Examiners highly commended W. J. Read, and commended Lilian O. Cook and W. B. Carter.

FESTIVAL IN WINCHESTER CATHEDRAL.

The long-anticipated celebration of the 800th anniversary of the consecration of Winchester Cathedral took place on Saturday and Sunday, the 8th and 9th ult. The Festival arrangements, which were under the direction of the Dean, Dr. G. W. Kitchin, and the Precentor, the Rev. R. T. Marshall, included an important musical programme, for the rendering of which a choir and orchestra numbering over 500 had been gathered together from different parts of the county and from London, Mr. George Kitchin being the Conductor. On the Saturday afternoon a fine performance of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was given, followed by Mackenzie's "Benedictus," beautifully played by the London Stock Exchange band, which provided the orchestral element during the Festival. The evening programme was as follows: "Hirten" Symphony (Bach); "Dettingen Te Deum" (Handel); Violin solo, Andante (Beethoven), Miss Mary Cardew; Symphony in B minor (Schubert); Solo, "Laudate Dominum" (Mozart), Miss Fillünger; Overture, "In Memoriam" (Sullivan); Chorus, "Hallelujah" (Beethoven). The performance was in every way successful. The choir and orchestra acquitted themselves admirably, as did also the solo vocalists, Miss Fillünger, Madame Alice Grey, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. F. C. Tyack. The stately building was thronged at both performances, notwithstanding the somewhat high prices charged for tickets of admission.

On the Sunday afternoon a special service was held in the Nave, in which the orchestra again took part. The sermon was preached by the Bishop of Newcastle, and the musical portion of the service included Eaton Faning's Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C, Wesley's anthem "The Wilderness," and a new anthem, composed for the occasion by Sir Herbert Oakeley, "The Glory of Lebanon." Haydn's "Hymn to the Emperor," for strings, and Mendelssohn's March of the Priests, from "Athalie," were played by the band as voluntaries. The Festival was a great success.

A WESTMORLAND EISTEDDFOD.

To all who desire to see good music acclimatised in this country, and not merely an exotic plant cultivated for the benefit of the select few, the record of the "Wakefield Music Competitions" should be of exceptional interest and value. The history of this Institution, which is named after its first patron, but must inevitably be associated with its energetic and able Conductor, Miss M. A. Wakefield, the moving spirit of the affair, is both instructive and encouraging. In 1885 a small Industrial Exhibition took place at a village near Kendal, and it occurred to some of those interested in the event to hold, in connection with it, a quartet competition. From this modest beginning the Institution has grown, gathering strength from year to year, until at the seventh competition, which took place in St. George's Hall, Kendal, on the 12th and 13th ult., no less than 650 individual competitors, arranged in seventeen separate classes, made their appearance before the judge, Mr. W. H. Cummings. On the first day the proceedings began at two and lasted till six, the time being occupied chiefly with soloists and junior choirs. Thirteen sopranos sang Mr. A. Somervell's charming "Shepherd's Cradle Song"; eight altos were heard in "Woe unto them"

(Elijah); seven tenors in Sterndale Bennett's "Maiden mine," and as many basses in Mendelssohn's "For the mountains shall depart"; while Rubinstein's duet, "The Angel," for soprano and contralto, formed the subject of another competition. Seeing that the competitions are open only to towns and villages of under 6,000 inhabitants, in the County of Westmorland, and within a fourteen mile radius of Sedgwick, their influence on the music of the district cannot well be exaggerated, and it is not difficult to give credence to the statement that a very marked improvement has taken place in the church music of Westmorland since they were inaugurated. And if the standard of performance has been raised—and of this Mr. Cummings has no doubt—the appreciation of the competitors for good music can hardly fail to have been intensified by the choice of subjects such as the compositions named above, for it is scarcely unfair to assume that not a few of the singers would, but for the competition, have been contented with music of a less artistic character. In a string quartet competition a new departure was made on the present occasion, a departure promising to become one of the most valuable features of the event. Englishmen have little, if any, reason to be ashamed of the vocal music of their country; but as regards instrumental music, much remains to be done; and the performances of our excellent provincial choral societies can hardly be considered thoroughly satisfactory until the orchestras associated with them are as much "home made" as the choruses. In the encouragement of instrumentalists, then, it is possible to see a step towards that much-needed end—the establishment of local orchestras. Three quartet parties entered for the prize, and their playing of the Adagio from Haydn's "Emperor" Quartet was, to say the least, highly creditable. The second day was given up to sight-reading and adult choirs, and displayed a remarkably high level of general excellence. The sight-reading was especially satisfactory, for it argued a considerable degree of musicianship, and in the competition for adults nearly every competitor got through the first exercise chosen by the judge without stumbling. The choral competitions included classes for male voice choirs, and choirs of female voices, village choral societies, and the "Henry Leslie" Madrigal Competition. The singing of the chorus from "St. Paul," "See what love hath the Father," showed a remarkable refinement and finish, and reflected great credit on the amateur conductors who were responsible for the performances, though it may be added that the gyrations of some of these suggested that a special prize for conducting would not be amiss. The proceedings ended with a Concert, the principal feature of which was an excellent performance of Dr. Parry's fine "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day" by the competing choirs, numbering in all some 400 voices, and conducted with remarkable decision and ability by Miss Wakefield, the soloists being Mr. and Mrs. Henschel. Some old Welsh melodies, arranged and orchestrated by Mr. Arthur Somervell and sung by Miss Wakefield, and a delightful "Spring Song" by Mr. Henschel, sung by Mrs. Henschel with perfect refinement, were also worthy to be specially recorded. During the interval the prizes were distributed, and Mr. Cummings gave an interesting address on the general results of the competitions. Were it possible, however, to expand his remarks into a detailed report, which could be printed and circulated among the competitors, this would be greatly to their advantage in preparing for another of these tournaments of song.

THE TONIC SOL-FA COMPOSITION CLUB.

This Club is formed upon the mutual improvement principle. Each quarter the members write such music as the Committee may decide upon, and this work is divided into two grades—elementary and advanced. The settings are copied and made into books and distributed to each member. Criticisms are invited—the compositions are so far anonymous—and when completed are sent round for all the members to peruse. The Club was founded in 1867, and has flourished most successfully ever since. On the 15th ult. a performance consisting entirely of members' compositions was given at the Young Men's Christian Association Hall in Aldersgate Street. There was a large and enthusiastic audience present. The programme consisted chiefly of vocal music. Among the most noticeable pieces, we may mention "Autumn Serenade," a song by W. S. Desborough; and "Eena Deena," a humorous part-song by G. Merritt. The instrumental pieces were a well-written Adagio Cantabile and Trio from a Sonata in G major for pianoforte and violin, by W. G. Waller Goodworth, and a Gavotte (re-demanded) for violin by W. T. Deane. The vocal music was performed by Mrs. Walter Cuff, Messrs. Sinclair Dunn and C. J. Butler, and a select choir under the direction of Mr. T. H. Warner. The violin pieces were admirably played by Miss Gwynne Kimpton (silver medalist, Guildhall School), and the pianoforte accompaniments were efficiently rendered by Miss Fanny Kay.

MUSICAL ASSOCIATION.

At the monthly meeting of the above Association, held on the 11th ult., at the Royal Academy of Music, Mr. James C. Culwick, organist of the Chapel Royal, Dublin, read a paper entitled "Artistic Landmarks." Mr. Culwick began by saying that while some persons objected to criticism altogether, to others it would seem to form the whole of their enjoyment in music. Criticism which judged merely by the letter and by comparison was hurtful, and prejudicial to progress; but criticism which led the reader to take wider and more sympathetic views of art was healthful and helpful. The true critic required to be exceptionally endowed. He must possess knowledge, honesty, courage, and sympathy. His knowledge must be not only technical but far-reaching, and he must possess intuitive artistic perception and sympathy, without which his criticisms would be of no or little real value. An acquaintance with the different schools of philosophy was also necessary. Artistic landmarks were always found in pairs and opposing each other. They formed the limits between which the artist could move with freedom and safety, but beyond which lay many pitfalls. It must be admitted, however, that it was those who went to the extremes of artistic limits who enlarged the boundaries of art. There were limits in art just as there were truths in morals. The salvation of art would seem to lie in the perfect adjustment of opposing forces. This was in accordance with the laws of nature. The true purpose of the discord was to enhance the sweetness of the concord. It was the influence of opposing forces which shaped the progress of art. Not all right lay on one side of the artistic field, nor all wrong on the other. The teachings of Darwin formed the basis of one school of present musical thought, those of Herbert Spencer another. The former would give us agreeable sounds as the soul of music, mere beauty without intellectuality; the latter, deriving the origin of music from emotional expression, would give us any ugliness as art so long as it was a true expression of human emotion. In neither of these extremes lay the truth. The all-important struggle between power and beauty was like the eternal strife between good and evil. The characteristic of much modern music was its excess of power at the expense of beauty. Equipoise was the thing most needed to-day.

In the subsequent discussion, Mr. H. Banister, who occupied the chair, remarked that although progress was highly desirable no pure soul could feel in sympathy with the subject-matter of much that was now produced. Music, as an art, must appeal to our humanity, and that was one reason why we did not want music which dealt with the detestable and vile. Mr. Wesché thought it would be extremely difficult to draw the line between power and beauty. Beauty in itself was powerful, and power very often contained great beauty.

OBITUARY.

The death is announced, on the 10th ult., at Paris, of Xavier Boisselot, a once well known and much valued composer, who had attained the mature age of eighty-one. Born at Marseilles in December, 1811, Boisselot studied, with considerable distinction, at the Paris Conservatoire, and the promise then given by him was in a measure fulfilled by the subsequent production of two operas from his pen—viz., "Ne touchez pas à la Reine," brought out at the Opéra Comique in 1847, and "Mosquita la Sorcière," produced at the Opéra National three years later, both of which met with the very considerable success they merited. Upon the death, at about the latter period mentioned, of his father, a pianoforte manufacturer in a large way at Marseilles, he had to take over the business, in the management of which his time became thenceforth almost entirely absorbed.

German papers apprise us of the death, on March 25, at Leipzig, of August Horn, the able and popular composer of numerous vocal quartets and Lieder, and author of many pianoforte arrangements of classical masterpieces, both operatic and otherwise—a not unimportant department of the art, in which he greatly excelled. Horn, who was a pupil in composition of Mendelssohn, was born at Freiberg, in Saxony, on September 1, 1825.

There has just died at Nice, at an advanced age, a musician of considerable reputation in Italy, Gaetano Amadeo, for many years Maître de Chapelle at the Cathedral in Marseilles. He was born at Porto Maurizio, and for several years pursued the study of his art at Bologna, under Rossini, who entertained a very high opinion of the talent of his pupil—an opinion which was justified in his subsequent compositions. Amongst the latter, those written for the church occupy the first place, but he has also composed a number of excellent secular works—chiefly vocal. He is the author of a treatise on Counterpoint and of another on Fugue.

Signora Metaura Torricelli, a gifted violinist of great continental reputation, died at Padua, on the 11th ult., of consumption. She was only twenty-six years of age.

Thomas Bentick Richardson, for thirty years the highly esteemed Organist at St. Mary's Church, Bury St. Edmunds, died in the third week of last month, aged sixty-two. He was an excellent all-round musician, whose influence upon the musical life of the town had been distinctly elevating, and whose loss will be most keenly felt.

The death is reported of Mr. Carl Jung, the well-known leader of the Crystal Palace orchestra. Since the death of Costa Mr. Jung was also first violinist at the Handel Festivals. He was an able orchestral leader, and was greatly respected by his colleagues and his chief.

On the 12th ult. the much respected vocalist and composer Theodore Distin passed away. He was in his seventieth year. His compositions consist of services, glees, and part-songs, several of which were awarded prizes.

We have also to record the following deaths:—

On March 21, at Graz, Wilhelm Sahla, able violinist, and excellent teacher of his instrument; director of the well-known Academy for violin playing in that town, aged sixty-nine.

On March 30, at Leipzig, Hugo Seelemann, esteemed member of the Gewandhaus and Opera orchestras, aged forty-two.

On the 6th ult., at Buisach, near Mannheim, Frau Jeanne Grohé, daughter of the eminent violinist, Jean Becker, and a pianist of considerable attainments, in her thirty-fourth year.

On the 14th ult., at Brussels, Madame Servais, widow of François Servais, the celebrated violoncellist, and mother of the two gifted brothers, Franz Servais, the composer, and the late Joseph Servais, violoncello virtuoso.

On the 20th ult., at Leipzig, Paul Jesse, director of the Fabrik Leipziger Musikwerke.

MUSIC IN BRISTOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The value of a local orchestra has been demonstrated during last month by the demand made upon Bristol players for performances given by district choral societies. Midsomer Norton and District Society gave Sir John Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus" (Conductor, Mr. Walter J. Kidner), and for the first time the efforts of a band supplemented the singing of the choir. Later in the month the Weston-super-Mare Philharmonic Society (Conductor, Mr. Edward Cook) had a Mendelssohn night, the majority of the instrumentalists coming from Bristol. One of the works presented was the "Hymn of Praise," and as no trombone player was available the suggestive passage at the commencement had to be given by a cornet!

On the 4th ult. a Concert was given at the large Vestry Hall, St. Philip's, in aid of the funds of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul. The vocalists were Madame Nellie Sheedy, Mr. W. F. Hudlestone (Bath Abbey), Mr. W. Lampard, and Mr. G. Morley. A miscellaneous programme was satisfactorily performed, Mr. W. R. Nicholas being accompanist.

The fourth of a series of Concerts intended to interest the poor of St. Philip's was given at the Vestry Hall on the 5th ult., and the following took part: Misses Wilmot, J. Bamborough, H. Nugent, E. Oram, Mrs. A. A. Babb, Miss Oram, and Miss Lewton. Mr. George Trout was Conductor and Mrs. F. E. R. Davey accompanist.

A Concert given in Bedminster Town Hall, on the 5th ult., was interesting chiefly on account of the presence of Miss Clara Butt, who came among her friends and acquaintances and experienced a hearty reception. She sang with effect J. L. Hatton's "Enchantress" and Crouch's "Kathleen Mavourneen." Other vocalists who took part in the Concert were Miss Rose Howard, Mr. E. T. Morgan (Bristol Cathedral), and Mr. Lawford Huxtable. Miss Bessie Morgan was at the pianoforte and Mr. H. E. Logan contributed violin solos.

Bristol South Musical Society gave its fourth Annual Concert on the 11th ult., and there was a large attendance. The programme comprised part-songs and glees, rendered in a manner that reflected credit on Mr. E. T. Morgan, the Conductor, as well as the members. Miss Bessie Morgan played the accompaniments. During the interval the Rev. Canon Tetley delivered an address, and Mr. Morgan, in proposing a vote of thanks to him, said out of twenty pieces in the programme, seventeen were the works of English composers.

The Annual Concert at Colston Hall on behalf of the Widows' and Orphans' Fund of the Great Western Railway Servants was held on the 12th ult., and a long and interesting programme of miscellaneous music was gone through. Miss Florence Cromey, Madame Belle Cole, Mr. Harper Kearton, and Mr. Montague Warlock were the artists engaged, and in addition to their efforts, which were highly appreciated, there were songs by Dr. Lionel Weatherly—an amateur of considerable ability, brother of Mr. F. E. Weatherly, the well-known writer of songs—and Mr. Arthur Jupp. The band of the Bristol Rifle Volunteers, under the direction of Mr. G. Webb, played some selections, and Mr. Augustus Simmons acted as accompanist.

Two Concerts of exceptional merit were given on the 14th and 15th ult. by the Choral Society, under Dr. Hubert Parry and Mr. George Riseley's direction. At the former performance Dr. Hubert Parry's "L'Allegro" and Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Golden Legend" were given, Dr. Parry conducting in the case of his Cantata, which was splendidly given by a choir of 500 and an orchestra of 100 players, the soloists being Miss Anna Williams and Mr. Watkin Mills. In the "Golden Legend" the principal vocalists, besides Miss Williams and Mr. Mills, were Miss Clara Butt and Mr. Edward Lloyd. Miss Butt received a hearty welcome from the Bristolians. The second Concert by the Society was devoted to "Elijah," with the same principals. Much interest was taken in the appearance of Miss Butt, as this was the first time she had sung in the Oratorio, and so impressed were the audience with her rendering of "O rest in the Lord," that they heartily applauded at the close of the air.

On the 17th ult. a meeting, under the presidency of the Mayor, was held to form a relief fund for the sufferers by the explosion at the Great Western Colliery in South Wales. Mr. George Riseley, as Conductor of the Orpheus Glee Society, offered to get up a Concert for the relief of the sufferers and to be answerable for the musical expenses attending it. The offer was accepted. When Llanerch explosion occurred a few years ago Mr. Riseley's Concert resulted in £125 being handed over to the relief fund.

At its annual Concert, on the 18th ult., the St. Mary's (Tyndall's Park) Society gave Cowen's "St. John's Eve," with orchestral accompaniments.

A highly interesting Concert of chamber music was given in the Corn Exchange, Cheltenham, on the 10th ult., by the Hann family, whose classical Concerts at Brixton have for some years past attracted the attention of amateurs in the Metropolis. The party, led by Mr. Lewis Hann (who, as Professor at the Ladies' College, was responsible for the introduction of his clever relatives to a Cheltenham audience), included Mr. E. Hopkins Hann, Mr. W. H. Hann, Mr. W. C. Hann, and Mr. Sidney Hann, and the programme comprised Spohr's 'Quartet in G minor, the "Kreutzer" Sonata, and Brahms's Quintet in F minor, variety being given by songs sung by Miss Girtin Barnard.

Mr. Charles Fry gave his interesting Recital of Shakespeare's "As you like it" at the Corn Exchange on the 11th ult., with the assistance of about sixty members of the Festival Choral and Orchestral Society, under the direction of Mr. J. A. Matthews. The delicate little orchestral movements written for Mr. Fry by Berthold Tours and Dr. Mackenzie added to the interest of the performance, which also included Bishop's "Foresters, sound," "What shall he have that killed the deer," and Tours's "Hymn to the moon" and "Wedding Chorus." Miss Violet Perry sang "Under the greenwood tree," and, with Miss Leatham, Morley's "It was a lover," and Mr. Attree gave Arne's "Blow, blow, thou winter wind." Mr. Fry is well known in Cheltenham, and his Recital of this delightful Pastoral was followed with keen interest by the audience.

The first Concert of the newly-formed Keynsham Choral Society, of which Mr. George Riseley is President and Mr. J. H. Fulford is Conductor, took place on the 19th ult. Haydn's "Spring," the most melodious of the master's "Seasons," was the work essayed. Although the performance on the part of the choir was by no means faultless, it was, on the whole, highly creditable, and showed that the young vocal body is pursuing a course which will ultimately result in a high state of efficiency. The solos in the work were admirably sung by Miss Marion Harris, Mr. E. T. Morgan, and Mr. W. Thomas. Miscellaneous pieces filled the second part of the programme. Miss Rose Thomas ably discharged the duties of accompanist. Mr. Riseley was present at the Concert and delivered a brief congratulatory speech.

MUSIC IN DUBLIN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Gounod's "Redemption" was performed by the Musical Society, at its second Concert of the season, at the Royal University, on the 5th ult. The soloists were Miss Anna Williams, Miss L. Dews, Mr. Edwin Houghton, and Mr. Watkin Mills. A thoroughly good performance was presented, under the direction of Dr. Joseph Smith.

A "Palestrina" Concert was given by the University Choral Society in the Examination Hall, Trinity College, on March 25, consisting of Pierluigi's "Missa Papæ Marcelli," "Improperia," and "Stabat Mater." The choir, of about eighty voices, on the whole acquitted itself creditably, but the "Crucifixus" and "Benedictus" for solo voices suffered from lack of precision and purity of intonation. Sir Robert Stewart conducted.

On the previous Saturday afternoon, March 18, Sir Robert Stewart gave an interesting Lecture on Palestrina in the same hall, with musical illustrations by a small choir.

On the evening of March 25 Sir Charles and Lady Hallé, assisted by the Polymnia Quartet and Mr. Ludwig, gave a delightful Instrumental and Vocal Concert in the Leinster Hall.

The Dublin Choral Union, under the direction of Dr. Annie Patterson, gave a very poor performance of Beethoven's "Engedi" and some new works by the Conductor, at the Antient Concert Rooms, on February 25, and a very good Members' Ballad Concert in the Molesworth Hall on the 4th ult.

Farmer's Oratorio "Christ and His Soldiers" was performed, with orchestral accompaniment and chorus of 100 voices, on the 1st ult., at the Metropolitan Hall, under the direction of Mr. Robertson Coade; and Gade's "Erl-King's Daughter," with a miscellaneous second part, was produced by the St. George's Choral Union in St. George's Parochial Hall on the 14th ult., with a small band, conducted by Mr. Raymond Revelle.

The Scottish Glee Choir gave a most enjoyable Concert in the Antient Concert Hall on the 15th ult. The tone and efficiency of the choir reflects great credit on the Conductor, Mr. Henry Baxter.

Miss Synge's Pianoforte Recital at the Antient Concert Rooms on the 17th ult. was well attended, and the performance of a number of standard works was highly creditable.

The Recitals of Chamber Music on Monday afternoons in the Theatre of the Royal Dublin Society continue to be largely attended. The programme on Monday, the 17th ult., included Haydn's "Rose" Quartet (Op. 64, No. 25), Brahms's Sonata in A major (Op. 100) for violin and pianoforte, and Schumann's Quintet in E flat (Op. 44) for pianoforte and strings. The executants are Signor Papini, Messrs. Delaney, Grisard, and Bast, with Signor Esposito, pianist.

A new Comedy-Opera, entitled "Victoire," was produced for six nights, commencing on the 17th ult., at the Leinster Hall, with full band and chorus, and excellent stage accessories. It is the joint production of Messrs. Alfred Smythe and Edgar Little, whose former work, "The Warlock," had such a success here last year. The principal parts were capably sustained by Miss Du Bedat, Miss Isabel Maddock, Mr. Lowther Campbell, and Mr. Frederick Flint. Mr. Little's music is graceful and melodious, and his vocal and instrumental scoring admirable. The work, however, hardly received justice at the hands of its amateur exponents.

MUSIC IN EDINBURGH AND EAST OF SCOTLAND.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The end of the musical season was the signal for a perfect shower of choral Concerts in Edinburgh and its neighbourhood. Each choral society hastened to present the fruits of the winter work before its friends and the public. In Portobello (Miscellaneous — Conductor, Mr. Tom Craig), Dalkeith ("St. Paul"—Conductor, Mr. Charles Guild; orchestra led by Mr. H. Dambman), Penicuick, and other minor musical centres, evidence was given that the favourite field is being widely and extensively cultivated. In Dundee the Choral Union turned from the modern school to old "Papa Haydn," and under Mr. Carl Hamilton's well-proved bâton secured a rendering of "The Creation" which equalled their very best efforts of the past. At Perth the two important Societies gave the usual Spring Concert. The Orchestral Society presented a programme including examples from Corelli on through Mozart and Beethoven to Mascagni. The Musical Society chose the first part of Haydn's "Seasons," and, under Mr. Graves's guidance, the performance was all that could be desired. The soloists were Miss Grace Richardson and Messrs. Stronach and Glencorse.

In Edinburgh itself the principal choral event was the spring Concert of Mr. Kirkhope's Choir, which gave all the more satisfaction on account of the very capable orchestra engaged for the occasion. The works were Brahms's "Song of Destiny," most impressively sung; Villiers Stanford's "Battle of the Baltic," which had all its good points emphasised by a faultless rendering; and Cowen's "Sleeping Beauty," in which the principal parts were sustained by Miss Bethell, Miss Lizzie Wright, Mr. Branscombe, and Mr. T. Kennedy.

In view of the comparatively limited resources in band, chorus, and soloists, an almost equal success was secured by Mr. Moonie's Choir, who presented the last-named work a few days before in the Literary Institute. Indeed, it would be difficult to commend too highly the energy, enterprise, perseverance, and careful skill of its Conductor. In the "Sleeping Beauty"—even more in the first part of Haydn's "Seasons"—his choir presented an undoubted claim to a high place among the choral societies here.

On the 4th ult. a Concert was given in aid of the Edinburgh Society of Musicians' Benevolent Fund, by Mr. Waddel's Choir and the Glasgow Select Choir, both of which have been conducted for some years by Mr. Millar Craig. A large audience was attracted. All true lovers of concerted vocal music ought therefore to be grateful to Mr. Millar Craig for the opportunity we had of hearing the Glasgow Select Choir with its perfect unanimity of time, tune, and intention. Dr. Macgregor, who was in the chair, made a happy speech in support of the Benevolent Fund.

The annual Concert of the Philosophical Institution, which always closes our season of musical "tourists," was as well attended as its fortunate predecessors, and certainly the "only appearance" of such a strong combination as Dr. Joachim, Signor Piatti, and Miss Davies is attraction enough, even when no more important concerted pieces than a Trio by Herzogenberg, and the very "first period" B flat (Clarinet) Trio by Beethoven are offered. Madame Bertha Moore was the vocalist.

The successive failures of the Edinburgh Classic Chamber Concerts and of the Edinburgh Quartet made Mr. Grant McNeill's Chamber Concert all the more important as an attempt to remove, single-handed, what is a distinct reproach to this music-loving centre. There has been abundant evidence of individual talent in all these schemes; but, alas! the power of combination and the artistic self-sacrifice which that entails have been conspicuously absent. The most interesting number at Mr. McNeill's Concert was a Duo by Popper for violoncelli, played by Mr. McNeill and his former teacher, Mr. Carl Hamilton. In Trios by Saint-Saëns and Mendelssohn, Mr. McNeill had the able assistance of Messrs. Colin Mackenzie and Townsend.

The fifth session of the Edinburgh Bach Society was auspiciously inaugurated in the Waterloo Rooms by Professor Niecks, Honorary President, and Dr. Joachim, Honorary Member, when Edinburgh musical society was largely represented in an audience of about four hundred. Mr. Franklin Peterson, Honorary Secretary, intimated a further increase in the membership and a substantial surplus, and also announced that several distinguished musicians had consented to become honorary members. Among these are Dr. Spitta, Professor Sir John Stainer, Professor Villiers Stanford, Dr. A. C. Mackenzie, Mr. Henschel, and others. Professor Niecks extolled the object of the Society and urged the members on to higher and more strenuous endeavours. Dr. Joachim also spoke and made a touching reference to the late Mr. Lichtenstein, a friend of many years' standing.

MUSIC IN GLASGOW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Lee Williams's "Gethsemane" was given by the choir of Elgin Place Congregational Church on March 28, under the direction of Mr. Harold Ryder. Good work too was accomplished by Mr. W. J. Clapperton on the evening of the 12th ult. On that occasion the amateurs banded together under the name of the Crosshill Musical Association essayed Henry Gadsby's Cantata "The Lord of the Isles," and they had the advantage of assistance from the Glasgow Amateur Orchestral Society. This large and spirited body of instrumentalists—which includes several lady executants—was also to the fore a couple of nights later on with their third and last Concert for the season. The programme, a remarkably attractive one, comprised Mozart's Concerto in E flat for two pianofortes and orchestra, Gounod's Symphony in D, Oliver King's fine Overture "Among the Pines," and the trio of dances from Edward German's music to "Henry VIII."

On the 11th ult. the Glasgow Quartet gave its penultimate Concert of the series, when Mr. Philip Halstead, an accomplished local pianist, lent his valuable aid in Rheinberger's E flat Quartet. The same evening the Glasgow Glee and Catch Club once more communed with Horsley, Cooke, Callcott, Webbe, and other familiar friends, to a large and representative audience. Mr. Young's choristers include, it is no exaggeration to say, the "pick" of Glasgow voices, and they sing, moreover, with refined taste. The Club will, it ought to be noted, soon offer a prize for the best glee or part-song.

At Helensburgh, the local Choral Union, on March 31, gave a very good performance of Mr. J. More Smieton's dramatic Cantata "King Arthur." Later on Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Black gave a Vocal and Pianoforte Recital at the pretty little Clyde watering-place, and on the 13th ult. the choir of the local United Presbyterian Church included in its programme Stainer's ever-popular "Daughter of Jairus." The soundness of Mr. Robert Black's judgment in placing this work in rehearsal was amply justified, and, thanks to careful preparation, the Cantata made an impression of no ordinary interest on the large audience. Gaul's "The Holy City" has also appealed very successfully to our Gourock friends, and at Wishaw a praiseworthy ambition led Mr. Wardrop's choristers to attack no less a theme than Gounod's "Mors et Vita." Some years ago they performed "The Redemption" with wonderful success, and a similar tribute was well earned on the evening of March 30, when the French composer's latest sacred trilogy was performed. Many folks journeyed pretty long distances to form acquaintance with the impressive work, which was given by a band and chorus numbering 130 performers, and with Mrs. Eugenie Morgan, Miss Jessie King, Mr. Charles Ellison, and Mr. W. H. Burgon as soloists. The Wishaw Choral Union ought, indeed, to be encouraged in the artistic course it has all along pursued. Its reputation is not by any means local, and the production of "Mors et Vita" has further enhanced the Society's prestige.

MUSIC IN LIVERPOOL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The past month, if not particularly eventful, has witnessed a fair amount of good work in this city and district, of first importance being a performance of Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," given on the 11th ult., by the Musical Society, an organisation which has recently adopted the title of a once famous, but many years since disbanded, body of singers. Mr. J. F. Swift conducted the performance of the work, which has always been popular in Liverpool, where it was first heard in England on October 7, 1836. The band and chorus were numerous, 350 executants being advertised; but the performance was hardly of equal merit in regard to balance of power or attack. The orchestra, not a very large one, was well led by Mr. T. Shaw, and Mr. Grimshaw, in the absence of Mr. Best, was at the organ.

At Birkenhead the excellent St. Cecilia Society, which Mr. J. W. Appleyard conducts, has given Dvorák's "Stabat Mater" and Hamish MacCunn's "Lord Ullin's Daughter." The performance was, as is usual with this body of singers, of a semi-private order, and all those concerned therein were amateurs. The St. Cecilians are, however, entitled to be viewed from a high level, and, in regard to their latest departure, all their previous worthy traditions of pure intonation and intelligent singing were carried out. At the same place Haydn's "Creation" has been performed by the Brunswick Choral Society, under Mr. Roscoe, and, for a late date in the month just closed, Stanford's "Revenge" was promised by the St. Catherine's Choral Society, under Mr. W. J. Thomas. Both the Societies named, as well as St. Paul's Presbyterian, which gave Gaul's "Ruth," on the 25th ult., under Mr. Bevan, are of somewhat limited membership. They do good work, however, in their respective circles, and form useful musical centres among those whose lot is cast around them. To the general concert-going public, however, such Societies are little more than a name.

The West Derby Society, of which Mr. Cooper is the Conductor, has had to modify the scheme originally mapped out, but closed a useful season with a performance of Sullivan's "Trial by Jury." The object chiefly in view in this connection was benefit to the funds of the Society, and the latter has thoroughly justified its claims to a larger measure of public support than has been accorded for some years past. The Wavertree Choral Society, another useful if not very large organisation, did ample justice to Gaul's "Joan of Arc" on the 18th ult., under Mr. E. Bridson, a good deal of careful preparation being evidenced in the performance. The Societa Armonica gave a Concert on the 22nd ult.

In the locality of which Liverpool is the centre there has been performed—at Rhyl, Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm, and at Denbigh, the same composer's "As the hart pants," under Mr. F. C. Watkin; at Wrexham, Macfarren's "May Day" and Stanford's "Revenge," under Mr. Morton Bailey—for this performance a fine orchestra, recruited in Liverpool and led by Mr. Courvoisier, being engaged; at Warrington, Mendelssohn's "Athalie," under Mr. Crossley; at Southport, Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," by Mr. H. Hudson's Society; at Nantwich, Mendelssohn's "St. Paul," under Mr. Charles Dee; at Chester, Dr. J. C. Bridge's "Rudel"; and in the same city the local Orchestral Society, under Mr. Hughes, Assistant-Organist of the Cathedral, gave a Concert on the 13th ult.

On Good Friday Concerts were given at the Court and Shakespeare Theatres, the Birkenhead Cambrian Choral Society officiating as chorus at the one and the Liverpool Opera Society filling the same position at the other, the Conductors being respectively Messrs. J. O. Shepherd and T. Shaw. On the same day, as briefly notified before, the annual performance of Handel's "Messiah," for the poor of the city, brought together a good chorus in St. George's Hall, under Mr. H. A. Branscombe.

The Liverpool Music School, which was unostentatiously opened early in 1892 with a professorate thoroughly representative of the teaching power of the city, has done such good work and grown to such dimensions as to have acquired civic recognition. The Mayor (R. D. Holt, Esq.) accorded his presence at the public proclamation of medals and other awards at St. George's Hall, on the 22nd ult. The Directors' Scholarships were won by Mr. R. F. Lloyd (Harmony), Master F. Cresswell (Violin), Miss Vera Neville (Pianoforte), and Miss Annie Nelson (Singing). The Organ Scholarship was not awarded, but is to be again competed for next term.

With Eastertide came the conventional Eisteddfodau of various degrees of magnitude in North Wales. At Carnarvon there was a gathering of rival congregational choirs; and at Llandudno, Glyn Ceriog, Twrcelyn, and Llangefni other meetings were held. That at the last-named place being the most noteworthy and historic, claiming as it does the title of the Anglesea Chair Eisteddfod. M. Riviere's orchestra is again in evidence at Llandudno, but Mr. de Jong's has to give place to a smaller band at Rhyl.

Among such events as concern individual religious bodies, the annual gathering of Welsh choristers, mainly recruited from the leading dissenting bodies, is deserving of recognition. The meeting was held at Hengler's Circus, and the programme consisted of hymn tunes and anthems. Many hundreds of voices were engaged, and the singing, almost invariably true in regard to intonation at their celebrations, was of purer quality of timbre than has hitherto been the case. The great drawback was, however—as usual—the lack of adequate accompaniment.

Mr. W. T. Best has been granted three months' leave of absence on half-pay by the finance committee, and it is hoped that this period of rest will restore the veteran organist to health. Up to the time of writing nothing is reported as to who is to fill his place. The minutes of the committee in question merely state that a suitable substitute will be provided by the Corporation. Mr. Grimshaw has, however, acted in this capacity till now.

MUSIC IN MANCHESTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Were we not commencing our annual slack season, the wonderfully fine weather would drive lovers of music to seek it among the flowers and cool glades of the Botanical Gardens, where, during the summer months, sweet sounds will abound. The indoor Concerts terminated on the evening of the 17th ult., with the concluding meeting of the time-honoured "Gentlemen's" Society. During the winter, the luxurious hall has been better filled than for many years past; and the hope has been excited that useful and vigorous life may yet survive for our oldest art-institution. Under present circumstances it would be a great pity should the Concert Hall have to be closed ere its value had been ascertained as a home for chamber music, and for the display of the success which, it is confidently expected, will attend the work of the College of Music soon to be opened near to, and in close connection with, the Owens College.

Although Manchester has, mainly through the energy of Sir Charles Hallé, for many years been largely instrumental in keeping alive the musical activity of this northern part of England, it has been somewhat dilatory in making provision for the future, and in so arranging for the education of local talent as to secure an unbroken career of usefulness. More than ten years ago the need was publicly declared and acknowledged of provincial colleges, wherein the musical proclivities of a tuneful race might be duly fostered. Strangely enough, no steps were then taken to supply the want. But that it was keenly felt is proved by the fact that now, amid great commercial depression, and at a time when the city is engaged with vast schemes of many kinds, the demand is to be met in a worthy manner. May it prove that time has not really been lost, but that the quiet growth and prudent maturing of a wise scheme may be rewarded by a long-continued and ever increasing success.

The Royal Carl Rosa Company has during six weeks occupied our largest theatre; and, in spite of June weather in April, has been fairly rewarded for enterprise, and for the courage whereby difficulties of management have been met, and the loyalty with which its leading members have responded to somewhat unusual demands upon them. A vast amount of work has devolved upon Miss Ella Russell, without whom it is difficult to see how the Opera-house could have been kept open. Miss Russell's exertions have greatly enhanced her reputation here; her acting is always natural and unconstrained; while her singing is free from that utterly unmusical tone, that never-ceasing vibrato with which so many vocalists now regale patient and long enduring audiences. The company has been largely reorganised during the last two years; and, although our colleges should bestir themselves to turn out (but not too hastily) well-prepared dramatic artists, still most of the parts have been very creditably filled, and the general management has been characterised by that completeness which the company has taught us to expect. The chief works have been "Tannhäuser," admirably rendered, and "Othello." The "Mascagni nights"—when "Rustic Chivalry" and "L'Amico Fritz" have been bracketted—have drawn good houses, but it is evident that their attractiveness wanes.

At one of the pleasant gatherings at the Schiller-Anstalt, on the evening of the 22nd ult., Gluck's one-act comic operetta "Der Betrogene Kadi," recently discovered, and additionally orchestrated by the Viennese Kapellmeister, J. N. Fuchs, was very well rendered; and the purely amateur forces (instrumental and choral) of the Institution showed, under the skilful direction of Herr E. Sachs, the continued love and cultivation of the Fatherland strains. The band, led by Herr E. Setzer, was especially good.

The re-opening of the Town Hall organ, after considerable enlargement, is looked for.

MUSIC IN SHEFFIELD AND DISTRICT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Choral Union gave the last Concert of its twelfth season in the Music Hall on the 11th ult., the work performed being Bottesini's devotional Oratorio "The Garden of Olivet." The work had been previously heard in Sheffield—having been given about four years ago by the same Society. The committee of the Choral Union are to be congratulated on having discontinued the series of Concert performances of ballad operas, which threatened to impair the popularity of one of the best and oldest established local choirs. The Choral Union is an excellent Society, fully able to deal with the most difficult modern festival compositions, and the recent "Concert performmances" of "Maritana," "Lurline," and "Satanella," though admirable in themselves, have not properly utilised the resources of so fine a body of singers. In "The Garden of Olivet" the choristers had music to try their mettle, and they came through the task with flying colours. The tone and attack were excellent, and the many difficulties of Bottesini's music were completely mastered. The beautiful chorus, "Our Watch, dear Jesus," with its melodious theme, was expressively sung, and in the vigorous "Lord, shall we smite," the full power of the vocalists was brought out with fine effect. The band and soloists were admirable, and the Concert was in all ways successful. Mr. Suckley conducted.

The Musical Union is a prosperous musical organisation, with an enterprising committee and an enthusiastic

Crossing the Bar.

("The Righteous hath hope in his death."—Proverbs xiv. 32.)

AN EVENING ANTHEM

IN COMMEMORATION OF THE FAITHFUL DEPARTED.

Words—"Crossing the Bar"—by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON.
(By permission of Messrs. Macmillan and Co.)

Composed by Rev. H. H. WOODWARD, M.A.,
Mus. Bac., Oxon.; Precentor of Worcester Cathedral.

London: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO., 1, Berners Street (W.), and 80 & 81, Queen Street (E.C.); also in New York.

Copyright, 1893, by Novello, Ewer and Co.

dim.
bar, When I put out to sea,
But such a tide as moving seems a - sleep,
Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the bound - less deep
Turns a - gain home.
Gamba.
Ch. Stop Diap. coupd. to Sw. Dul.
Sw.
Gt.
Gt. with Ped.
p Sw.
Ch. Stop Diap.

cres.
attacca.
Twi - light and evening bell, And af - ter
Sw.
Gt Diap. Full Sw.
dolce con espress.
that the dark! And may there be no sad-ness of fare - well, When that the dark! And may there be no sad-ness of fare - well, . . . that the dark! And may there be no sad-ness, no sad-ness of fare - that the dark! And may there be no sad - ness, Ch.
senza Ped.
Boldly.
mf
I, when I em - bark. . . . . For tho' from out our
When I em - bark. . . . . For tho' from out our
- well, When I . . . em - bark. . . . . For tho' from out our When . . I em - bark. . . . . For tho' from out our Gt. mf

cres.
f bourne of Time and Place, The flood may bear me . . far, . . I hope to cres.
f bourne of Time and Place, The flood may bear me . . far, . . I hope to cres.
f bourne of Time and Place, The flood may bear me . . far, . . I hope to cres.
f bourne of Time and Place, The flood may bear me . . far, . . I hope to cres.
f couple Sw.
con 8vi.
cres.
ff see my Pi - lot face to face When I have crost the cres.
ff
see my Pi - lot face to face When I have crost the . .
cres.
ff see my Pi - lot face to face When I have crost the cres.
ff see my Pi - lot face to face When I, when I have crost the cres.
ff bar, . . . I hope to see . . my Pi - lot face to face, When bar, . . . I hope to see my Pi - lot face to face, When bar, . . . I hope to see . . my Pi - lot face to face, When bar, . . . I hope to see . . my Pi - lot face to face, When Sw. with Reeds.

fff
I have crost the bar, . . when I have crost the bar, . . when p fff
I have crost the bar, . . when I have crost the bar, . . when p fff
I have crost the bar, . . when I have crost the bar, . . when p fff
I have crost the bar, . . when I have crost the bar, . . when p ff marcato.
con 8vi.
dim.

Also published in Novello's Tonic Sol-fa Series, No. 790, price 1*d.*

NOVELLO'S NEW VOCAL ALBUMS.

ENGLISH FOLK-SONGS

COLLECTED, ARRANGED, AND PROVIDED WITH SYMPHONIES AND ACCOMPANIMENTS FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

WM. ALEXR. BARRETT.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

Good morning, pretty maid.
The country lass.
The painful plough.
Old May song
The Peace-Egger's song.
Sheep-shearing day.
Harvest-home song.
John Barleycorn.
Hunting song.
The buffalo.
Drink little England dry
Ye sons of Albion.
The gallant hussar.
Sheep shearing.
May song.
Cupid, the pretty ploughboy.
The old farmer.
The honest ploughman.
Flash lad.
The birds in the spring.
The Masonic hymn.
The seasons.
Somersetshire hunting song.
Tally ho! hark away.
The barbel.
Go from my window.
The nightingale.
Derry-down Dale.
Bonny light horseman.
The soldier's farewell.
The jolly waterman.
Saucy sailor boy.
Paul Jones.
William and Mary.
Britons, strike home.
Ward, the pirate.
Marlboro'.
Polka mad.
Grand conversation of Napoleon.
The punch ladle.
The churchwarden's song.
A jug of this.
The lost lady found.
Mary of the moor.
Undaunted Mary.
Banks of sweet primroses.
The cuckoo.
New garden fields.
Go no more a rushing.
Richard of Taunton Dean.
Advice to batchelors.
Botany Bay.
Old Rosin the beau.
The new-mown hay.

TWENTY-ONE SONGS

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD JAMES LODER.

1813-1865.

EDITED BY

WM. ALEXR. BARRETT.

Price Two Shillings.

The British Anchor.
Three ages of love.
Wake from thy grave, Giselle.
Father Francis.
The old house at home.
Philip the Falconer.
I cannot flatter.
Oh! here's to the Holly.
There's a light in her laughing eye.
The brave old oak.
Childhood's dreams.
My home.
Sweet village bells.
'Tis night, 'tis night.
Wake, my Love.
Robin Hood.
The Outlaw.
The home of early years.
Old Christmas.
Oh! the merry days.
The Diver.

GIPSY SONGS

COMPOSED BY

KAREL BENDL.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY F. CORDER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence each Series.

FIRST SERIES.

I am a free born Romany.
One old song my Mother taught.
Gipsy boy.
What plaintive dirge.
When the Gipsy heareth.
One pure drop of water.
Sound the harp and cembal.
Sweet is our farewell song.
How silent is the forest grove.
Oh, my fair lost rosebud!
Dulcimer, let me play thee.
Play, oh play, ye gipsies!
The end is nigh, oh! let me die.
Happy, free, and careless.

SECOND SERIES.

Ho, comrades! let wild melody.
Decked in spotless linen.
Wild wanderer, thy heart is strong.
Sound the harp and zither.
Love, hear my lips pronounce thy name.
See 'mid craggy passes.
Jolly rags.
Wand'ring ever wand'ring.
See this pretty girdle.
How long it seems.
On the lake.
When she dances with me.

EIGHTEEN SONGS

COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE.

(Op. 17 and 31.)

Complete, cloth, 7s. 6d.; or, in Three Books, 2s. 6d. each.

BOOK I.

Phyllis the fair.. .. .. Robert Burns.
It was the time of roses .. .. Thomas Hood.
Light slumber is quitting the eyelids .. .. Frederick Locker.
O, hush thee, my babie .. .. Walter Scott.
The earth below and the Heaven above .. .. .. Charles Grant.
If love were what the rose is .. .. .. Algernon Swinburne.

BOOK II.

What does little birdie say? (A) .. .. Tennyson.
What does little birdie say? (B) .. .. Tennyson.
Of all sweet birds .. .. Peire Vidal.
Lift my spirit up to thee .. .. Charles Grant.
Russian Love Song .. .. J. Arthur Blaikie.
While my lady sleepeth (Op. 12, No. 2) .. .. .. J. G. Lockhart.
The Song of Love and Death .. .. Tennyson.

BOOK III.

The first spring day (Op. 17, No. 1) .. .. Christina Rossetti.
When I am dead (Op. 17, No. 2) .. .. .. Christina Rossetti.
A Birthday (Op. 17, No. 3) .. .. Christina Rossetti.
Up with the sail (Op. 16, No. 1) .. .. .. J. Logie Robertson.
O roaming wind (Op. 16, No. 2) .. .. .. J. Logie Robertson.
Something sad (Op. 16, No. 3) .. .. .. J. Logie Robertson.

TWELVE SONGS

COMPOSED BY

HENRY PURCELL.

EDITED AND ARRANGED, WITH ACCOMPANIMENT FOR THE PIANOFORTE BY

WILLIAM H. CUMMINGS.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

The Knotting Song.
Nymphs and Shepherds.
I attempt from Love's sickness.
Full Fathom five.
Come unto these yellow sands.
When I am laid in earth.
I'll sail upon the Dog-Star.
They tell us that you mighty pow'rs.
On the Brow of Richmond Hill.
Fairest Isle, all Isles excelling.
What shall I do?
From Rosy Bow'rs.

SEVEN SONGS

COMPOSED BY

J. STAINER.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

1. Das Ferne Land.
2. The Far-off Land.
3. Der Rosenstrauch.
4. The Rose Bush.
5. Das Meer der Hoffnung.
6. The Ocean of Hope.
7. Poesie (Poesy).
8. An Leukon.
9. To Leukon.
10. Quand je te vois.
11. Daheim. (In Thee).

TEN CANZONETS

COMPOSED BY

J. HAYDN.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

Despair.
Fidelity.
Hark! what I tell to thee (The Spirit Song).
High on the giddy bending mast (The Sailor's Song).
In thee I bear so dear a part (Sympathy).
My mother bids me bind my hair.
Now the dancing sunbeams play (The Mermaid's Song).
O tuneful voice!
She never told her love.
The season comes when first we met (Recollection).

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

conductor. In announcing for their Spring Concert, on the 13th ult., Hiller's "Song of Victory" and Schubert's "Song of Miriam," they adhered to their wholesome rule of alternating classical works with novelties. Both works were, however, practically new to the city, and both were rendered with the accuracy and finish characteristic of the Musical Union's performances. An interesting miscellaneous programme was also submitted, in which the part-singing of the splendid choir surpassed anything ever done by the Society before. To Mr. Henry Coward (who conducted) the highest credit is due for having brought chorus singing to such a pitch of perfection.

The Upperthorpe Musical Society performed "Elijah" in the Music Hall on the 14th ult., under Mr. J. Beaumont. This Society was founded a few years ago under very promising conditions, and, thanks to an excellent conductor, a loyal chorus, and a capital selection of works, a very good record of work done can be shown. The "Elijah" performance last month was a most creditable one, the efforts of the chorus being especially worthy of the highest praise. The singing of "Thanks be to God" will rank as the finest thing they have hitherto done; but the entire work was rendered in praiseworthy style. The principals were Mrs. Robertshaw, Miss Lilian Hovey, Mr. Tom Child, and Mr. J. Browning.

The Amateur Instrumental Society gave its third Subscription Concert in the Montgomery Hall, on the 25th ult., playing Mozart's "Jupiter" Symphony and other works. Mr. H. Coward conducted.

On the 24th ult. Madame Albani sang in Sheffield for the first time. The concert party included Miss Landi, Madame de Pachmann, Messrs. Foli, Chilley, Carrodus, and Wilson.

MUSIC IN WILTS AND HANTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ONE of the best Concerts given for years past by the Sarum Choral Society, which is now in its forty-fifth season, took place at the Assembly Rooms on the 11th ult. The Oratorio selected for the occasion was the late Sir G. A. Macfarren's "King David," a work full of beauty, and an absolute novelty in Salisbury. The members of the Society had rehearsed the Oratorio thoroughly and were well prepared for whatever difficulties it presented to them. In the choruses, "Absolom prepareth chariots and horses" and "Joy in Heaven," especially, they were heard to great advantage. The solos were undertaken by Miss Lilian Redfern, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. Lewis Thomas, and Mr. Lucas Williams, all of whom acquitted themselves admirably, the task of the last-named artist being by no means a light one. The orchestra, which was a little deficient in wind instruments, was led by Miss N. Harding. To Mr. C. F. South, the energetic Conductor of the Society, much credit is due for the success of the Concert. Mr. Alfred Foley gave an Evening Concert in the County Hall on the 5th ult., when he introduced a newly formed choir, which he intends to permanently establish in the city under the name of the Salisbury Philharmonic Society. A number of unaccompanied part-songs were nicely sung by seventy well-balanced voices, Sir Joseph Barnby's "Sweet and low" being given with particular delicacy. A small orchestra, led by Mr. E. Jones, contributed to the programme, and songs were sung by Madame Newling.

The Westbury Philharmonic Society made its second appearance, under the conductorship of Mr. A. Foley, on the 12th ult. Mendelssohn's "Hear my Prayer" and a miscellaneous selection composed the programme, the solo in the Psalm being taken by Madame Newling.

Two performances of Handel's "Judas Maccabæus" were given by the Bournemouth Choral and Orchestral Society on the 7th ult., at the Shaftesbury Hall. Dr. Lemare, the Conductor of the Society, had spared no pains in the preparation of the Oratorio, and the chorus singing was the strongest feature of the Concerts. The principal vocalists were Miss Shinner, Miss Reeks, Miss Clara Spencer, Mr. A. Kenningham, and Mr. F. Bevan, the orchestra being led by Signor Bertoncini. Mr. Duncan Hume accompanied the recitatives on the organ. Dr. Lemare is to be congratulated upon his efforts to provide adequate performances of the works of the great masters in Bournemouth.

The annual Students' Concert given by Mr. T. E. Spinney took place at the Assembly Rooms on the 6th ult., the Mayor presiding. Besides the very creditable renderings of vocal and instrumental music by the students, the Salisbury Orpheus Society sang several glees and part-songs in an admirable manner, and Mrs. Beesley played a pianoforte solo. Mr. Spinney, during the evening, made some interesting observations on the history and progress of music.

MUSIC IN YORKSHIRE.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE approach of Easter means for all practical purposes the cessation of music in its higher aspect, and until the month of October, "Music in Yorkshire" will be of the most al fresco description. On March 20 Mr. Alfred Christensen gave the last of his Concerts, introducing a new Cantata from his own pen, entitled "Kenilworth," the music of which is remarkable for its graceful tunefulness if not for any higher qualities. Its lyrical and melodious character should, however, make it popular. The soloists were Mrs. Ashworth, Miss Marie Rhodes, Messrs. Hinds and Billington. On March 22 the Leeds season was brought to a satisfactory termination by the Leeds Philharmonic Society, the programme of its final Concert being as interesting as the performance was praiseworthy. Modern British art was well represented by Professor Stanford's spirited choral ballad "The Battle of the Baltic," a worthy successor to his well-known setting of Tennyson's "Revenge," and Dr. Parry's Leeds Cantata "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day," while Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night" and Bennett's graceful "Naïades" Overture may be taken to have represented classical art. The performance, under Mr. Alfred Broughton's direction, was in all respects most satisfactory, and the highly artistic singing of Mr. and Mrs. Henschel formed one of the most delightful features of the Concert, the baritone solos in Dr. Parry's fine Ode having seldom, if ever, had such complete justice done to them. The chorus was hardly at its best, but this was chiefly owing to numerous abstentions through illness.

The Bradford Old Choral Society gave, on March 24, a Concert of English music, the programme consisting of Bennett's "May Queen," Mr. Frederic Cliffe's Concert-Overture, or "Orchestral Picture," as he terms it, "Cloud and Sunshine"; and Dr. Parry's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day." The performance, if not free from faults, especially in some portions of the Ode, was of average merit, many of the choruses being sung with a freshness and force worthy of the highest praise. Mr. Cliffe, who is a native of Bradford, was to have conducted his "Picture," but in his unavoidable absence the Society's able Conductor, Mr. Hartwell Robertshaw, took his place. The last of the Subscription Concerts was signalised by the production of a new Symphony in E minor (Op. 64), by Tschaikowsky, a powerful and characteristic work, the Andante cantabile being especially remarkable for its impassioned melody and rich orchestration. Though the Finale is somewhat noisy, it is full of interest and vigour. This was but the second performance of the work in this country, to which it had been introduced a few weeks before by Sir Charles Hallé, who conducted it also on this occasion. While dealing with Bradford, a town specially favoured in musical matters, mention must be made of the excellent work done by the Bradford Permanent Orchestra, a body partly professional, but chiefly amateur, which has given a series of excellent People's Concerts during the season, under the conductorship of Mr. W. B. Sewell.

On the 20th ult. Mr. S. Midgley gave the second of his Classical Chamber Concerts. Sterndale Bennett's Pianoforte Trio in A (Op. 26) and Brahms's Trio in C minor (Op. 101), with the same composer's first set of Liebeslieder (Op. 52), were the chief features of a highly interesting programme. Mr. J. Dunn was the violinist, Mr. C. Fuchs the violoncellist; the Concert-giver taking the pianoforte part. On the 21st ult. Madame Albani's Concert Party appeared at St. George's Hall.

At Huddersfield the long and varied series of Subscription Concerts came to an end on March 21, when the London Military Band supplied the programme. The Dewsbury Choral Society gave a Concert on March 23, Sir Joseph Barnby's Leeds Psalm "The Lord is King" being conducted by the composer. Dr. C. H. Lloyd's refined and musicianly Cantata "Hero and Leander" also formed part of the programme. The principal vocalists were Miss Thudichum, Miss Sarah Berry, and Mr. W. Riley. Under the honorary conductorship of Mr. G. H. Hirst, this Society has, during the past season, made distinct progress. On March 21 the Ilkley Vocal Society gave a Miscellaneous Concert under Mr. Broughton's direction, a Bach Chorale, Mendelssohn's 115th Psalm, and Schumann's "New Year's Song" forming the chief features of the programme. The Wakefield Orchestral Society, an almost exclusively local organisation, gave a Concert on the 21st ult., under the direction of Dr. Bullen. The programme included Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony.

The Middlesbrough Musical Union, under the energetic and able conductorship of Mr. Kilburn, has been doing much good work during the past season. After giving Berlioz's "Faust," and a miscellaneous Concert, in which Mr. and Mrs. Henschel took part, the Society ended the season, on the 19th ult., with a miscellaneous Concert; Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" forming the first part of the programme and Dr. Parry's Choral Ode, "The Glories of our Blood and State," being included in the miscellaneous portion. The principal vocalists were Miss Esther Palliser, Miss Amy Martin, Messrs. O'Mara and Max Eugene.

MUSIC IN AMERICA.

(From our own Correspondent.)

New York, April 11, 1893.

The month has been more than usually full of novelties, thanks to the progressive spirit of Mr. Walter Damrosch and Mr. R. H. Warren, who represent the young element among our resident directors.

On Thursday evening, the 30th ult., at Madison Square Concert Hall, occurred the first annual Laureate Concert, under the conditions announced by the National Conservatory of Music, and directed by Dr. Dvorák. The programme embraced a "Rural Symphony," four movements by Henry Schoenfeld, of Chicago; Pianoforte Concerto in A minor by Joshua Phippen, conducted by Dr. Dvorák; Suite for strings, Frederick Bullard, of Boston; and a Cantata, entitled "The Dream King and his love," by H. W. Parker. The result, while not satisfactory as illustrating the best work of native composers, showed the wisdom and artistic aim of the Conservatory as well as the helpful influence of Dr. Dvorák's residence among us, and gave promise of richer results in the near future. The one composition of distinct excellence was the Cantata of Mr. Parker, performed under the direction of the composer. The work emphasised the previously acquired reputation of Mr. Parker in respect of clear thought, intelligently worked out with musicianly skill.

On Thursday, the 6th inst., at the Music Hall, was performed Dr. Dvorák's noble Cantata the "Spectre's Bride," by the Church Choral Society, under Mr. R. H. Warren, with the assistance of the Symphony Orchestra, Miss Lillian Blauvelt, Mr. J. H. Ricketson, and Mr. Geo. W. Ferguson. Preceding the Cantata the distinguished composer conducted his own "Husitzka" Overture, with a vigour and spirit rarely witnessed, bringing out in a wonderful way the great beauty and significance of this picturesque work. In the performance of the Cantata the forces engaged were scarcely adequate to the acoustic requirements of the Music Hall, but the intelligence and enthusiasm of the singers was undeniable and received prompt recognition from the distinguished audience gathered to listen. It is to be hoped that the singular beauty of this work will induce choral directors generally to attempt the conquest of the unmistakable difficulties which it presents, in the assurance that it will amply repay the most assiduous study. Mr. Warren's commendable ambition ought to excite the generous emulation of other conductors, and lead to a general knowledge of this strikingly beautiful composition.

The Oratorio of Edgar Tinel, "St. Francis of Assisi," had its first performance in this country on Saturday evening, the 18th ult., under Mr. Damrosch. The soloists were Madame De Vere Sapio, and Messrs. Galassi, Rieger, Keyser, and Bushnell, the latter of whom scored the success of the evening by a flawless rendition of the unaccompanied "Watchman's Song." The work, already well known in Europe, abounds in striking themes of a pure, almost severe mould, unrelieved except by the brilliant colouring of the orchestration. The chorus as a rule was very efficient, and the entire performance added greatly to the well-earned reputation of the distinguished director.

An additional proof of Mr. Damrosch's energy was given on Saturday, the 8th inst., in the production, in oratorio form, of Saint-Säens's Opera "Samson and Delilah," which afforded occasion for the début of a promising young contralto, Miss Mary Louisa Cary. This young lady possesses an exceptionally rich voice, of wide range and fair cultivation. We shall doubtless hear of her in the near future under improved conditions. The success of the Concert was very great.

The Handel and Haydn Society, of Boston, gave Bach's "St. Matthew" Passion on the evening of Good Friday, with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and as soloists Miss Franklin, Mrs. Alves, Messrs. Heinrich Meyn, Max Heinrich, and William Dennison. The work was not given in its entirety, the mind of our century being neither devout nor patient enough for the stupendous work; but the result was eminently satisfactory. The impressive numbers "I will stay there beside thee," "Commit thy ways, oh pilgrims!" were sung in a manner befitting the time, and elicited much praise. Space forbids more than a bare mention of several admirable performances of Sir John Stainer's "Crucifixion" given during Passion-tide, notably, as evincing a high standard of excellence in choir work, those of Calvary Church (Mr. Clement R. Gale), the Heavenly Rest (Mr. W. H. Hall), and St. Michael's (Mr. W. H. Wilkinson).

The Easter music in the various churches was more than usually elaborate this year, with the customary preponderance of Handel. Mr. Myles B. Foster's new anthem, "As it began to dawn," had a foremost place in numerous choir lists, and was received with general favour; notable too was the prominence given to the compositions of Mr. H. W. Parker, whose industry and ability were duly rewarded by favourable, even enthusiastic receptions.

On Low Sunday, the 9th inst., a fine performance of Stainer's "Daughter of Jairus" was given at St. James's Church, under Mr. A. S. Baker. The soloists, Mr. E. C. Lowne (tenor) and Mr. Wilfred Walters (bass), sang with the skill and feeling so characteristic of these careful musicians; Mr. Lowne's singing of the beautiful solo "My hope is in the everlasting" being especially effective, while the boy choir was rather above the standard of excellence which we always look for at St. James's.

Miss Marian Veltrino gave a Lecture on "Scientific Voice Production," at her studio, 167, New Bond Street, on the 17th ult. Aided by a very pleasant delivery and popular treatment of her subject, the lady was able not only to enlist the interest of the audience in the various aspects—physiological, intellectual, and artistic of a science, the importance of which is as yet but imperfectly appreciated by the majority; but also to convey the distinct impression of her being as earnest and competent a teacher of the specialty as she has been a successful one. Miss Veltrino, who does not claim any particular originality for her system, which is the result rather of a careful study of the best scientific authorities, combined with practical experience, illustrated her discourse by a number of diagrams and vocal examples. The Lecture was well attended. On the 24th ult. Miss Veltrino, in association with Miss Mary Rosslyn, gave an Evening Concert at Portman Rooms, Baker Street, before a numerous audience. Both ladies met with a very favourable reception, Miss Rosslyn rendering with good effect the air "O mio Fernando" and other vocal numbers, Miss Veltrino being especially successful in Gounod's charming "Serenade," with M. Elkan Kosman playing the obbligato violin part. The Concert-givers were assisted by a number of well-known artists, including, in addition to the excellent violinist just-mentioned, Miss Lilly von Kornatzki (pianist), Messrs. Sydney Brooks (violoncello), Ben Davies, Bantock Pierpoint, and others, all of whom contributed to the success of the evening.

It is not often that a suburban professor of music places such a programme before his audience as that provided by Dr. H. Walmisley Little and his pianoforte pupils at the South London Institute of Music on the 6th ult. The space at our command is unfortunately too limited to allow of a detailed account of this highly interesting Concert, and we must content ourselves by stating that the programme included the names of Schumann, Scarlatti, Liszt, Mendelssohn, Raff, Moszkowski, and Dvorák; the Andante and Variations of the first-named, the Allegro brillante of Mendelssohn, both for pianoforte duet, and the Slavonic Dances of the great Bohemian composer arranged for eight hands, being perhaps the most acceptable portions. Miss Segrott, the holder of last year's senior pianoforte Scholarship at the South London Institute; Miss Thorne, the present possessor; and Miss Grace Wood greatly distinguished themselves; as did also Messrs. F. W. Holloway and Charles May. Mr. Frank Swinford and Master Percy Knight sang some good songs, and Mr. T. E. Gatehouse, both in his violin solos and associated with Dr. Little in Kücken's Duo in A minor for violin and pianoforte, pleasantly diversified the programme. The playing of the students, without exception, showed all-round excellence.

The Misses Schidrowitz and Zagury gave a highly successful Morning Concert, at Steinway Hall, on the 14th ult. These ladies have acquired an enviable reputation as duettists, and the justice of the encomiums awarded them elsewhere was demonstrated on this occasion by their smooth and neat rendering of a number from "Les Diamants de la Couronne," of Rossini's "La Pesca," and of other pieces. They were also heard in solos. The sympathetic soprano voice of Miss Schidrowitz was employed with considerable taste in Dessauer's bolero "Le Retour des Promis," and Miss Zagury's sweet, if not powerful, mezzo-soprano did justice to Rubinstein's "Sehnsucht." Mr. Eugène Oudin stirred the crowded audience to enthusiasm by his singing of Gounod's "Medjé" and Massenet's "Pensée d'Automne," with "When I gaze upon the lily" as an extra piece. Among others taking part were Mdlle. Jeanne Douste, who, with Mr. W. H. Squire, opened the programme with an Introduction and Polonaise by Chopin, for pianoforte and violoncello; Messrs. Ben Davies, Tivadar Nachèz, and Lawrence Kellie.

The Paddington Choral Association gave its second Concert of the season on the 11th ult., at Kensington Town Hall, when an interesting programme had been provided, including, as a principal feature, Barnett's ever-welcome Cantata "The Ancient Mariner." In the execution of this, as well as of some minor choral numbers, the newly-formed choir rendered an excellent account of itself, comprising, as it evidently does, many musician-like amateurs, with fresh and well-cultivated voices. The solo vocalists were Miss Minnie Robinson, Madame Alice Sampson, Mr. Charles Strong, Mr. Daniel Price, and Master Sydney Lovett (soprano soloist of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate), all of whom contributed to the evening's success. Mr. H. W. Richards, the Organist of Christ Church, met with well-deserved applause in his rendering, at the pianoforte, of pieces by Chopin; Mr. Ernest Cooper ably presiding at the organ, and Mr. W. Alcock being an efficient accompanist. With a force like the Paddington Choir under his command, Mr. George G. Beale, the zealous Conductor of the Society, should be encouraged to undertake some more ambitious work at no distant date.

Miss Agnes Janson's Concert at St. James's Hall, on the 22nd ult., had the recommendation of a superior programme, as well as of the talents of several favourite artists. One of the most interesting features was Mr. Henschel's set of five Quartets (Op. 51), upon which the stamp of public approval in the Metropolis had previously been indelibly impressed. The felicitous manner in which the spirit of these Northern poems has been caught by the composer was again warmly recognised by a large audience, and the interpretation by Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, Miss Agnes Janson, and Mr. Shakespeare (with Mr. Henry Bird at the pianoforte) was as telling as could be wished. The popular Swedish contralto for her solo essays sang with much refinement the Serenata from Massenet's "Il Re di Lahore," Saint-Säens's "Romance," and pieces by Grieg and Beyer. Miss Esther Palliser selected Mr. Henschel's buoyant air "Spring," and Mr. J. Robertson also sang. Instrumental solos were rendered by Herr Benno Schönberger, Mr. Emile Sauret, and Mr. Albert, the two former of whom joined in Beethoven's Sonata in G major (Op. 96).

At the Hampstead Conservatoire, on the 15th ult., Sir Augustus Harris arranged a Costume Recital of "Faust," similar to the series presented under his direction at Covent Garden Theatre a few months back. The platform was decorated with plants and shrubs, the orchestra being in front in the body of the hall. Though suffering from a cold, Miss Esther Palliser, as Marguerite, sang with her wonted spirit until the end of the fourth act, when, owing to her loss of voice, the Recital compulsorily came to a close. Signor Giannini (Faust), Mdlle. Guercia (Siebel), M. Castelmary (Mephistopheles), and Signor Pignalosa (Valentine) completed the cast, and Herr Feld conducted. It must be confessed that here, as also in the Recitals at Covent Garden, a very small amount of stage management, in competent hands, might have made this form of representation far more acceptable. As it was, there were many unpardonable absurdities.

Miss Annie V. Mukle, for her Concert at St. Martin's Town Hall, on the 14th ult., was fortunate in enlisting the services of such an artistic vocalist as Mrs. Henschel, who, with her husband's lullaby, "Shouggie Shou," and other morceaux, afforded great delight to the assemblage. With the exception of Mr. Ferdinand Webster, the remaining contributors were instrumentalists. The Concert-giver, a pianist possessing a refined style, elicited much applause for her rendering of the Finale of Chopin's Sonata in B minor and another piece, and later joined Mr. E. Hambleton (violoncello) in the same composer's Polonaise in C. Mr. Val Marriott, in Wieniawski's Andante and Rondo for violin, and Mr. Haydn Waud in a double bass Air with Variations, by W. Richardson, manifested their ability, and promise was apparent in Miss May Mukle's execution of a Violoncello Sonata by Marcello.

Bach's "St. Matthew" Passion Music was given in St. Paul's Cathedral, according to custom, on Tuesday evening in Holy Week, and, if possible, the noble choral portions, sustained by an augmented vocal body, proved even more imposing than on preceding occasions. The delivery of the passage in the revised version (adopted a few years ago) beginning "The lightnings and thunders of hell" and of the unanimous shout "Barabbas" could scarcely have been exceeded in overwhelming force; whilst the more tender strains, both solo and choral, again quickened the devotional impulses of the listeners thronging the vast area. This matchless composition was preceded by Sir John Stainer's beautiful setting of the "Miserere." Dr. Martin conducted, Mr. F. Walker was at the pianoforte for the recitatives, Mr. W. Hodge played the large organ, and Mr. Herbert Hodge officiated at the supplementary instrument.

Mr. Harry E. Warner gave a very successful Concert at the Castle Assembly Rooms, Richmond, on the 12th ult., when his Cantata for female voices, "The Golden Valley," was performed for the first time. The solos were sung by Madame Clara Samuell, Miss Selina Quick, and Madame Marian McKenzie. All the numbers were well received. The second part of the programme included a setting by Mr. Alfred T. Hare of Schiller's "Ode to Joy," in the interpretation of which Mr. Dan Price was worthily associated with Mesdames Samuell and McKenzie. Miscellaneous vocal and instrumental pieces were contributed by Miss A. Dinelli, Miss F. Hudson, and Messrs. A. Gurney, H. E. Warner, and H. H. Brousil. There was a competent chorus and stringed orchestra of eighty performers, led by Miss Dinelli and ably conducted by the composers of the two chief works given.

At the Concert given by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carver at Steinway Hall, on the 10th ult., some decidedly amateurish performances alternated with others worthy of all but unqualified praise. Of the latter, Miss Gwladys Wood's refined and expressive singing of some artistic songs in English, German, and French, and the finished violin playing of Miss Bessie Poole and Mr. T. J. Milne, deserve especial mention. Miss Annie Swinfen's bright soprano and Mr. Arthur Strugnell's stentorian bass were heard to much advantage in a number of ballads; but Mr. Kelson Trueman's ultra-sentimental style, and the absence of all sense of rhythm in his singing, were hardly compensated for by the display of an agreeable tenor voice. The Concert-givers' share in the programme was so extremely modest as to call for no critical remark.

The sixth and last of the present series of the Clapham Philharmonic Concerts took place on the 13th ult. at the Assembly Rooms. The Messrs. Hann played Beethoven's second String Quartet and Dvorák's masterly and powerful Pianoforte Quintet in A (Op. 81). The performances of these works, and more especially of the difficult Quintet, though on the whole very creditable, were somewhat lacking in smoothness and finish, and the balance of tone was frequently unsatisfactory. Messrs. Sidney, Lewis, and W. C. Hann played pianoforte Studies by Schütt and Rubinstein, violin pieces by Vieuxtemps and Wieniawski, and some trifles for the violoncello by the perennial Popper respectively, and the capital choir, under Mr. Walter Mackway, sang several part-songs and madrigals.

The professors and students of St. Leonard's College, Amhurst Park, gave an excellent Concert at the Assembly Rooms, in aid of the "Liberator Fund," on the 6th ult. Schumann's Quartet in E flat for pianoforte and strings and other instrumental works were given by Messrs. A. and W. Laubach, Anderton, and Hambleton. Mrs. Hamilton Robinson sang most artistically, and was joined by her pupil, Miss C. Ranken, in the duet from Boïto's "Mefistofele." Songs and other pieces were contributed by Mr. W. Paull, Miss Bridges, and Miss Jackson. "The Forest Flower," a new Cantata by Mr. Edmund Rogers, was performed for the first time in London with excellent effect by Mrs. Hamilton Robinson's Choral Class, and very favourably received.

An excellent rendering of Handel's "Messiah" was given on Good Friday evening at the Wesleyan Chapel, Oakley Place, Old Kent Road, under the direction of the Organist, Mr. T. Manger, to an audience that completely filled the large building. The principals were Madame E. Squire, Miss Jeanie Rankin, and Messrs. Branscombe and Dan Price, of Westminster Abbey, who gave much pleasure by their artistic performance. The singing, by a well-trained choir, was highly commendable; and the accompaniments, played by an admirable band consisting of members of the Crystal Palace orchestra and a few others, with Mr. H. Wiley Lawrence as principal, merited much approval.

On the 11th ult. the West Middlesex Choral Society, a newly-formed body, gave its first Concert at the Central Hall, Acton, under the direction of Mr. A. C. Praeger. Handel's "Messiah" was the work performed, the soloists being Miss Margaret Hoare, Miss Minnie Chamberlain, Mr. William Green, and Mr. Robert Newman. The chorus, which numbered about ninety, sang with great care and precision, the firmness of attack being particularly noticeable. The accompaniments were carefully played by a band of fifty, chiefly composed of members of the local orchestral Society, assisted by a few professional players. There was a large and appreciative audience, and over 200 persons were unable to gain admission.

Gounod's "Redemption" was given at St. John the Evangelist, Waterloo Road, on the evening of Good Friday, in place of the evening service, the devotional nature of both the libretto and the music rendering it peculiarly appropriate to the occasion. The exacting solo music was well sung by Miss Gertrude Izard, Miss Florence Brook, Miss Molson, Master Willoughby, Mr. Gilbert Denis, Mr. Blair, Mr. H. Gordon, and Mr. Frederick Winton. The chorus (the Oratorio choir of the Church) was everywhere prompt in attack, although without a conductor; and the accompaniments were given, as usual, by Mr. Henry J. B. Dart, Organist and Choirmaster to the Church.

Señor Albeniz's opera "The Magic Ring," at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, has not undergone much alteration, musically, since it was produced at the Lyric under the title "The Magic Opal." Revision of the text, amalgamation of two female characters into one, and a process of general brightening have, however, had the effect of causing the composer's tuneful strains to be heard to increased advantage, and of evoking the desire that something more serious in subject from his pen may soon be offered on the operatic stage. The cast is strengthened by the appearance of Mr. Norman Salmond as the bandit chief.

A very successful Recital (which on account of the music associated with it may be noticed in these columns) was given by Mrs. Turnbull and Mr. d'Arcy Clayton on the 18th ult. at the British Schools, Kentish Town Road. The lady sustained her reputation in every way, particularly in Alfred Austin's "In the month when sings the Cuckoo," many of her recitations being enhanced by appropriate musical accompaniments; and Mr. Clayton displayed his fine voice to great advantage in several songs, especially in Sullivan's "Sailor's Grave" and Clay's "I'll sing thee songs of Araby," for which latter he was deservedly encored.

At St. Stephen's, South Kensington, during Lent and Eastertide, most successful performances have been given of Spohr's "Calvary" on Sunday afternoons; Rossini's "Stabat Mater," in Latin, with orchestra, on Friday evenings; and Gounod's "Messe Solennelle," "St. Cecilia," and selections from "The Messiah," on Easter Day and Low Sunday. In the second-named work the solos were admirably rendered by Miss F. Seccombe-Bennett, Mrs. Hamilton Robinson, Mr. E. Justin Bryant, and Mr. Albert Reakes; the Organist being Mr. Warren Tear, and the Conductor, Mr. Hamilton Robinson.

On the 5th ult. the New Southgate and Friern Barnet Choral Society gave a Concert, calling it "An Evening with Sir Arthur Sullivan." "On Shore and Sea" was given with full orchestral accompaniment, followed by selections from "Iolanthe," "Mikado," "Yeoman of the Guard," "Ruddigore," "Gondoliers," and "Ivanhoe." The vocalists were Madame Stanesby, Miss Rina Robinson, Mr. John Probert, Mr. James Blackney, and Mr. Thomas Seadon. The pianoforte accompaniments were played by Miss Ada Bartlett; the Conductor was Mr. William Horsey.

On Monday, the 17th ult., a Concert was given by Miss Wigley, at the Eyre Arms Assembly Rooms, the programme of which contained many classic pieces of interest, chiefly rendered by the Concert-giver's pupils. Several well-known artists assisted: among others, Mrs. Norman Salmond and Madame Clara Samuell. Much interest was excited by the appearance of Miss Vivienne Ambrose, who, though still a student, already uses her fine contralto voice with dramatic distinction.

On Good Friday a performance of "The Messiah" was given at Christ Church, Westminster Bridge Road. The soloists were Miss Edith Luke, Miss Lancaster, Mr. Frederick Williams, and Mr. Robert Hilton. The accompaniments were played on organ and pianoforte by Mr. F. N. Abernethy and Mr. J. P. Attwater respectively, and the choruses were sung by the united choirs of Christ Church and the South London Temperance Society. Mr. J. R. Griffiths, Organist of the Church, conducted.

The pupils of Mr. Algernon Lindo gave their annual Matinée at Steinway Hall on the 13th ult., when satisfactory evidence was forthcoming of good work done and promise afforded of more to be accomplished in the future. That the effects of nervousness were in several cases apparent goes without saying—also that criticism under such circumstances is less needed than encouragement. To this, so abundantly given by the audience, we willingly add our mite.

At the forthcoming Exhibition to be opened on the 13th inst. at Earl's Court it is intended to make music a special feature. The band of H.M.'s Grenadier Guards (Conductor, Lieut. Dan Godfrey) has been engaged for the whole season, and five other bands of the highest class will perform daily in the building and grounds. Mr. H. C. Tonking will also give two Organ Recitals daily throughout the entire run of the Exhibition.

On the 9th ult., at St. Silas's, Penton St., after evening service the Choral Society in connection with the church gave a capital rendering of "Athalie," under the direction of Mr. W. C. Huse, its energetic choirmaster and director. The solos were well sung by Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. Huse, and Mrs. Glover. It is hoped that this performance will be the first of a series. Mr. Atherton presided at the organ and the Rev. Mr. Brooks acted as reader.

A Concert was given on the 11th ult., at Steinway Hall, by Herr Moritz Adler, a blind pianist, who was assisted by Miss Marianne Eissler, Madame Selma, and Miss Isabel Rayner. Herr Adler played with great skill and taste, a delicate touch being not the least of his accomplishments. Miss Eissler's efforts were welcome as usual, and Miss Rayner gave artistic renderings of Chaminade's "Aubade" and Brahms's "Wiegenlied."

At the annual meeting on behalf of Wesleyan Methodist Education, on the 12th ult., the students of the Westminster and Southlands Training Colleges gave the first public performance of Dr. Duncan's anthem "Abide with me." The choir of 250 voices sang with excellent feeling and expression, the parts were well sustained, and the general appropriateness and effectiveness of the music were much appreciated.

As considerable interest was shown in the Janko keyboard when its capabilities were exhibited with so much ability by Mr. Ames at the last Conference of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, some of our readers may like to know that the invention can be seen during the present month at Messrs. George Rogers and Son's, 60, Berners Street.

On Good Friday evening Vinning's new Cantata, "The Song of the Passion," was performed at St. Andrew's, Thornhill Square, before a crowded congregation. The principal part—that of the Narrator—was efficiently taken by Mr. Gilbert Thorne, the other solos being given by members of the choir. Mr. H. J. Marchment, the Organist of the Church, conducted.

Large audiences have attended the Albert Hall Sunday Afternoon Organ Recitals, the players at which have been Messrs. H. L. Balfour, W. S. Hoyte, and H. C. Tonking. On March 26 a Melodie Religieuse by Berthold Tours was played by Mr. Carrodus and Mr. Tonking, and the former also contributed Bach's celebrated Chaconne.

At St. Columba's (Church of Scotland), Pont Street, Stainer's "Crucifixion" was sung on the afternoon of Good Friday. All the solos were undertaken by members of the choir, and the Deputy-Organist, Mr. T. W. Lardner, played the accompaniments.

The latter part of "Elijah" will be given at the Guards' Chapel, Wellington Barracks, under the direction of Mr. Richard Lemaire, the Precentor of the Chapel, on Sunday, the 14th inst., at 6 p.m. There will be a complete orchestra and chorus. No tickets are required for admission.

An Organ Recital was given at St. Luke's Church, Battersea, on the 19th ult., by Miss Lilian Goldsack, in aid of the fund for building a free Accident Ward to Bolingbroke Hospital. Selections from Mendelssohn's "Lobgesang" were sung by members of the choir.

The members of the Regent's Park Sacred Harmonic Society have presented a bâton to Mr. Frederick A. Jewson, in recognition of his services as their hon. Conductor.

Mr. C. Bechstein has made a specially designed pianoforte by command of the German Emperor, for use on his Majesty's new yacht Hohenzollern.

REVIEWS.

The Parish Choir Book. Nos. 102-126.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first two numbers of this series are simple chant settings of the Benedicite, by Hugh Blair and W. Hughes respectively, the former composer favouring the double and the latter the single form, both adopting the usual 3-2 measure. Both settings are pleasing, and Mr. Blair's chants are extremely melodious. The next four numbers consist of the Te Deum set to single chants by J. Varley Roberts. In each example changes are made at the sixteenth, nineteenth, twentieth, and twenty-ninth verses. It is almost invidious to give the preference to any of the examples, but there is, perhaps, more variety in No. 105 than the others, a very fine chant being allotted to the nineteenth verse. No. 108, Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in C, by T. F. Walmisley, is a bright, vigorous, and broadly diatonic setting of the evening Canticles, full throughout, and contains plenty of interesting work for all the voices. The same composer's Te Deum in C, No. 109, is similar in every respect. No. 110 is another version of the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, by Charles W. Smith, simple, but energetic and cheerful. No. 111 consists of some tasteful and essentially modern organ accompaniments for the Apostles' Creed in B flat, by J. W. Elliott, the reciting note for the choir being F. The Benedictus qui venit and the Agnus Dei are now frequently sung during the Communion Service in the Church of England, and a setting in F of the former and in C minor of the latter, by Dr. G. C. Martin, No. 112, should command acceptance. The Agnus Dei is appropriately sad and deeply expressive. More elaborate and ambitious than any of the foregoing is No. 113, Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in A, by John E. West. No solo voices are required, but there is much independent writing for each section of the choir, with bold harmonic progressions, and the accompaniment, though not by any means aggressive, greatly aids the effect. In No. 114 we have another setting of the Benedictus and Agnus Dei in C, by J. Baptiste Calkin, the former very bright and vigorous and the latter quiet and unpretentious. Further settings of these sentences will be found in the next four numbers. No. 115, in E, by Dr. Garrett, is quiet, unpretentious, and church-like; No. 116, in F, by Sir John Stainer, is more modern in phraseology, and the flowing and independent accompaniment considerably enhances the effect; No. 117, in E, by Sir George Elvey, is simple, but pleasing and expressive, a soprano soloist being required in the Agnus Dei; and No. 118, in E flat and G, by Berthold Tours, is extremely melodious and rather Spohr-like in its harmonies. The late Sir F. A. G. Ouseley's chant setting of the Te Deum in D, No. 119, is chiefly noteworthy for breadth and simplicity, and is, therefore, within the means of any choir. Though written for voices in four parts, the composer indicates that it may be sung in unison. No. 120 is a Jubilate in C, by T. F. Walmisley, and possesses similar characteristics to the settings of other portions of the Liturgy by the same composer mentioned above. More need not be said in its favour. No. 121 is a setting of the Benedictus, by Dr. F. J. Read, Organist of Chichester Cathedral. It is written in D for four voices in harmony, and is noteworthy for church-like dignity and a vein of expressive melody in the treble part, never degenerating into mere commonplace tunefulness. The next four numbers are also settings of the same Canticle by Dr. J. Varley Roberts, of Magdalen College and St. Giles's, Oxford, but all these are in single chant-form, four or five chants being allotted to each setting. With the exception of the final chant, most of them have the peculiarity of beginning in one key and ending in another. This certainly gives variety, and may please those who still entertain conscientious objections to double chants. The last of this interesting series at present under notice is a Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, by E. H. Turpin, written partly in unison, but mainly in four-part harmony. It is very simple, the most noteworthy portion being the opening of the first "Gloria Patri," which is bold and striking.

Original Compositions for the Organ. Nos. 172-178.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first three of the present instalment of this rapidly growing publication consist of Nos. 3, 4, and 5 of the series of five sketches by H. W. Parker, the first and second of which have been already noticed. No. 3, Scherzo, justifies its title, though the term might perhaps be regarded as too light for an organ piece. It consists of a bright movement in D minor, 3-4 measure, with an alternative section or trio in B flat, smoother and more flowing in character.

Though perhaps scarcely suitable as a church voluntary, the piece would prove very effective in a recital programme, and it is quite easy. The fourth of the set, "Pastoral Interlude," is, on the other hand, a quiet flowing sketch in 6-8 measure, such as might have emanated from the pen of the late Henry Smart. The last is a Nocturne in A flat, with an alternative section in B flat minor, the phrasing of which is noteworthy for elegance and melodic expressiveness, the general style recalling that of Léfèbure-Wély in his slow movements. Mr. Parker possesses remarkable versatility as an organ composer, and it is difficult to say in which character of piece he principally excels. No. 175 is a work of far more ambitious calibre, being a grand Sonata in D (No. 4), by Otto Dienel (Op. 32). This opens with an extended introduction Adagio, leading to an Allegro non tanto, written in strict symphonic form, with an elaborate working-out of the effective subject-matter, and characterised by much energy throughout. The middle movement is a Pastorale in G minor, bright, but not too trivial for church use. The final Allegro is rather more laboured than the first movement, but is equally vigorous and, on the whole, worthily concludes a fine and effective Sonata. No. 176, Fantasia in F, by E. Silas (Op. 118), opens with an Andante in F minor somewhat in the manner of an improvisation leading to an Allegro con spirito in A flat. After more changes of time and key the original motive returns, and renewed use is made of the subsequent matter, the brilliant conclusion being in the tonic major. The piece is elaborate and certainly not easy, but it is symmetrical and very effective, all the details showing that the composer possesses an intimate knowledge of the resources of his instrument. The penultimate number at present consists of two sketches by F. Wesley Martin, quiet and easy little pieces of two pages each, excellently adapted for opening or middle voluntaries. No. 178, Tempo di Minuetto, by H. A. Wheeldon, is an appropriately dignified piece, the principal section being mainly for full organ, while the trio is for swell and choir, in excellent contrast.

Novello's Octavo Anthems. Nos. 407-413.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

Since our last notice new issues of this series have appeared in rapid succession, and some of them may now be dealt with, others being reserved for review at the earliest opportunity. No. 407, "The Lord is my Light," by C. Warwick Jordan, is for general use. It consists of three moderately brief movements, a simple and dignified chorus in A, a solo in F for either treble or tenor, and a final chorus in the original key, all written in a broad diatonic style, and presenting no difficulty whatever, either to choir or organist. No. 408, "Lighten our darkness," by George Rayleigh Vicars, is, of course, a setting of the third Evening Collect, and is appropriately simple and devotional in character, four-part harmony being maintained throughout, and as the organ part is not independent, the anthem would probably be more effective if it were given without accompaniment. No. 409, "Lift up your heads," by S. Coleridge Taylor, is described as a short festival anthem, and is in one brief choral movement, jubilant but solid and church-like, the writing being perfectly straightforward, and presenting no special characteristics on which it is needful to dwell. Harvest-tide is yet some months distant, but it is not too soon to draw attention to the next four numbers, which are all more or less suitable for gathering-in festivals. "Sing we merrily to God," by the Rev. E. V. Hall, commences with a vigorous, but not elaborate chorus, after which comes a soprano solo, the anthem concluding with a partial reprise of the opening chorus with a Coda, hymn-like in character. Sir Joseph Barnby's setting of the hymn "Lord of the Harvest" opens with a cheerful, but somewhat quaint chorus in 3-4 measure, in which the voices answer one another with capital effect, and a return of this in a considerably modified form brings the anthem to an end, the intervening section being a melodious movement in which the vocal part-writing—marked to be sung as a quartet, semi-chorus, or by the whole choir—is noteworthy for musicianly and independent treatment. "Honour the Lord with thy substance," by Sir John Stainer, is for tenor and bass solos and chorus, and is in four brief movements, all suitably cheerful, but unpretentious. The peroration is dignified and impressive. The last for the present is "The fost'ring Earth," by John L. Hopkins, described as a harvest chorus and strophic in construction. It is brightly written, and though quite suitable for church purposes, it would be equally effective as an unaccompanied part-song in the concert-room.

Methodist Free Church Hymns, with Tunes. Harmonies revised and edited by Battison Haynes.
[Andrew Crombie.]

This handsome volume is a veritable encyclopædia of Congregational music. Of the tunes separately we have already spoken in these columns, on the occasion of their publication a few months ago. In the volume now under notice nearly a thousand hymns, selected with the greatest care by the committee appointed for the purpose in 1884, have been included. These comprise old favourites, as a matter of course; but also a large number of modern poems, some taken from other collections and some written expressly for this one. In every case poetical and spiritual qualifications have been adopted as the passport to admission—a rule more often honoured in the breach than the observance by compilers of former collections. In the matter of indices, and names and dates of authors and composers, the book is singularly complete, and most of the hymns are also accompanied by expression marks calculated to secure a unanimity of rendering for which musical persons certainly will be grateful. The last 100 pages of the volume—there are close upon 1,000 altogether—contain a selection of Psalms, canticles, and "ancient hymns of the church," with a large number of chants to which they may be sung. These are prefaced by an explanatory note in which complete directions for "pointing" are given, with examples in music type. The clearness of the type and convenient size of the volume are not the least of its many merits.

Novello's Part-Song Book. Second Series. Nos. 627-638.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

In these numbers of a voluminous series of secular part-music we have some interesting, though, for the most part, brief and unpretentious compositions. The last portion of this remark does not apply to "If I love, will you doom me to die," No. 4 of a set of four part-songs, founded on canzonets by William Jackson, of Exeter, by Mr. F. Corder. In this we find some bright and clever imitative writing, and chromatic passages which will certainly be found excellent for practice by voices unaccompanied. The next is a somewhat elaborate composition—namely, an ancient song of the Dorian people of the Island of Rhodes, originally sung by boys carrying a swallow from house to house in the early spring. The present setting of the music is for soprano solo, chorus, and orchestra, by Arthur M. Goodhart, who directs that the solo should be sung by a boy when possible. The original Greek text is given together with an English version, and the piece is in one extended movement, chiefly in 12-8 measure. In the character of the thematic material, and in the general phraseology, alike of the voice parts and the accompaniment, there is a curious suggestion of the graceful and elegant style of the late Goring Thomas. Whether the resemblance would be equally noticeable in performance cannot be said, but, at any rate, it is safe to recommend the piece as being remarkably pleasing and of no great difficulty. It is needless to linger over No. 629, "Serenade," by C. A. Macirone, or Nos. 630 and 631, "The Fairy Lover" and "Love's adieu," by A. Wellesley Batson; but it may be said that all three are very bright and tuneful little pieces within the means of any singing classes in which there are a few efficient voices to each part. Of similar calibre, but more sedate, is No. 632, "Love wakes and weeps," by W. Noel Johnson; and No. 633, "The Despairing Lover," is a remarkably dainty and piquant little part-song by A. W. Batson. The same composer is responsible for the next two numbers, "Love's Inconstancy" and "Cephalus and Procris." Both these are somewhat more extended pieces, but perfectly clear in structure and delightfully English, as befit settings of verses by Campbell and T. Moore respectively. No. 636 is a clever arrangement by H. Leslie of a quaint old French part-song for four voices, "Ladye fair, thou hast my life," dating from 1579. No. 637 is another setting of the sixteenth century verses "Love me little, love me long," by King Hall. It is bright and piquant until the closing bars, the words "So to thee, farewell," being treated in appropriately sentimental fashion. No. 638, "Echoes," by Oliver King, is a refined and charming little composition, partaking of the nature of modern German part-songs of the better class.

Beethoven's Symphonies in their Ideal Significance. Explained by Ernst von Elterlein. Translated from the German by Francis Weber. [W. Reeves.]

This little volume may be cordially recommended to those who, having only a bowing acquaintance with Beethoven's "Immortal Nine," desire greater intimacy with the sublimities and beauties of these astonishing products of human genius. To such, some clue to their poetic basis is undoubtedly calculated to hasten the desired result. Music in its function as a language of emotion is not intelligible to every one, even of those most susceptible to the charms of "ordered sound"; and as the Symphonies of Beethoven have at least as much meaning as beauty, it is clear that any competent attempt to elucidate this is to be welcomed. The work under notice has the merit of not trying to prove too much; it is suggestive rather than explanatory—calculated rather to educate than to instruct. It is not so much that the reader is supplied with an explanation as that he is encouraged to seek one, and shown how to set about it. One chapter of the book—Herr Nohl's article on Beethoven's Tenth Symphony—is reprinted from The Musical Times of 1876; the rest has been Englished with evident care and conspicuous success.

Concert-Overtures in C, E minor, F sharp minor, D minor, A, and C sharp minor. Full scores. Composed by Madame Marie Moody. [Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The mere fact of writing six Overtures for grand orchestra speaks trumpet-tongued in favour of the composer's high aims, and also of her industry. The first, in C, is written, indeed, for a very large orchestra, one which includes three trombones and tuba. The music is clear in form and vigorous. The style of the music reminds one of the Haydn-Mozart period, and in these days of storm and stress is by no means unwelcome. No. 2, in E minor, opens with an Andante maestoso. The mood is a sad one, but it soon gives place to a fierce Allegro agitato. The way in which the closing bars of the introductory movement foreshadow the principal theme of this Allegro is quite Beethovenish. In the middle section this theme and the one in the orthodox relative major key, which, by the way, forms a marked contrast, undergo considerable development. The third Overture, in the unusual key of F sharp minor, is chiefly noticeable for its bold theme with the reiterated C's for horns (Fate, as it were, knocking at the door). No. 4 bears the superscription "King Lear." It opens in dramatic mood with an Andante, in (as befits the subject) the gloomy key of D minor, but the Overture proper is in the key of D major. As abstract music it is not without interest, but has not the wildness and mysticism which one naturally expects of a tone-poem based on Shakespeare's great drama; the gentle second subject, however, has a Cordelia character about it. No. 5 contains some solid writing, and now and again reminds one of Beethoven. The last, in C sharp minor, is entitled "The Dying Warrior" ("Der Sterbende Krieger"), and the music throughout is expressive; dying groans and the sounds of fierce fight are heard.

Short Anthems. Nos. 44, 45, and 46.
[Novello, Ewer and Co.]

The first of these is a choral setting of Psalm xcvii., verse 10, "O ye that love the Lord," by S. Coleridge Taylor. It is certainly not difficult or elaborate, but is distinctly modern in feeling as regards the harmonic progressions, and the composer's melodic phrases are elegant and expressive, the whole being characterised by thorough musicianship. No. 45, "Ponder my words, O Lord," by Arnold D. Culley, is still more brief and unpretentious. It is pleasing and written with perfect smoothness in ordinary four-part harmony, and makes no strain on the capacity of the humblest choir. Rather more varied and of larger dimensions is No. 46, "Jesu, who from Thy Father's throne," by F. Cunningham Woods, suitable for the Feast of the Circumcision or Christmastide. The words are taken from St. Luke's Gospel and from a hymn in the "Ancient Book of Devotion" (1701). It commences with some richly harmonised phrases for voices unaccompanied, alternately with others for organ alone, leading without break into a short soprano solo with choral response. Then the first movement is resumed and the whole comes to a quiet close, the accompaniment being withdrawn save for a dominant and tonic pedal. Within its limits this is a remarkably effective anthem.

The World of Music. By Anna, Comtesse de Brémont. Three vols. [W. Gibbings.]

These dainty little volumes, devoted respectively to "Great Composers," "Great Singers," and "Great Virtuosi," contain biographical notices of about fifty musical celebrities. The articles, fairly accurate as regards facts, are sympathetically written, and show critical acumen in excess of that usually associated with works of the kind. The list of names includes, inter alia, those of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Gluck, Handel, Mozart, Schumann, Schubert, and Wagner; Braham, Catalani, Garcia, Grisi, Lablache, Jenny Lind, Malibran, Ronconi, Schröder-Devrient, and Tietjens; Ole Bull, Buxtehude, Clementi, Hummel, Liszt, Moscheles, Paganini, Spohr, and Thalberg, and lacks, therefore—albeit living musicians are excluded—neither comprehensiveness nor variety.

Six Songs. Poems by Robert Bridges. Music by Hamish MacCunn. [R. Cocks and Co.]

These fine songs are in every way worthy the reputation of their author and composer. The poetical spirit which pervades Mr. Bridges' words has in each case been admirably caught, and songs of exceptional merit and beauty are the result. No. 1, "My bed and pillow are cold," has a wild despairing melody and a finely written accompaniment; No. 2, "Fire of Heaven," is full of passion and is splendidly harmonised; No. 3, "The Idle Life," is a bass song with a lazy rhythm well in keeping with the words; the title of No. 4 is "Angel Spirits of Sleep"; in No. 5, "Crown Winter with green," a quaint jollity prevails; and No. 6, "The Pedlar's Song," is piquant and effective; but all may be cordially recommended.

FOREIGN NOTES.

The "Beethoven House" Society, in Bonn, announces a series of performances of chamber music similar to those given in that town in 1890, to take place from the 10th to the 14th inst., the proceeds of which are to benefit the fund of the Institution. Amongst the artists engaged in the performances will be HH. Joachim, Carl Reinecke, E d'Albert, and Fräulein Leisinger. The Beethoven Museum connected with the Institution is to be officially opened on this occasion.

The Richard Wagner Museum, in Vienna, has just received a very interesting addition in the shape of the pianoforte formerly in the possession of Theodor Weinlig, the whilom Cantor of the Leipzig Thomas-Schule. It was on this instrument the future Bayreuth master received the instruction of this excellent musician, who, in Wagner's own words, possessed the gift of teaching counterpoint both thoroughly and in a most pleasant way.

The special performances of Wagnerian Operas announced at the Munich Court Theatre are to be given as follows:—"Die Feen" (August 13 and 27, September 10); "Der fliegende Holländer" (August 15, September 12); "Die Meistersinger" (August 17, September 21); "Der Ring des Nibelungen" (August 20 to 25, and September 3 to 8); "Tristan und Isolde" (August 29, September 17); "Tannhäuser" (September 1, 14, and 19). The series will conclude with a third complete representation of the "Nibelungen" Tetralogy, on September 24, 25, 27, and 29.

Anton Rubinstein is engaged upon a new Oratorio, to be entitled "Christus," for which Herr Bulthaupt, of Bremen, has furnished the libretto. The work, which the composer hopes to complete during the coming summer, will occupy two evenings in performance, and is to be produced for the first time by the Vienna Sing-Akademie.

A new opera, "Debora," the libretto of which is founded upon one of Mosenthal's novels, the composer being Herr J. B. Förster, was recently brought out with great success at the National Theatre, Prague, an excellent performance, it is said, contributing not a little towards this result.

At the annual Concert of the choristers of the Berlin Opera, given at that Institution on March 30 last, Anton Rubinstein conducted a performance of his Symphony in F major, and received a most flattering ovation from the audience. The first performance here of the Russian composer's ballet "Die Rebe," together with that of his one-act comic opera "Unter Räubern," was announced to take place some time last month.

The excellent Berlin Dom-Chor, or Cathedral Choir, has just celebrated, by a Concert performance and otherwise, the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation. Organised under the auspices of Mendelssohn and other eminent musicians, and definitely instituted on March 21, 1843, under the direction first of Grell, and later on of W. Dehn and F. Hertzberg, the Dom-Chor soon became justly famous, and to this day occupies a prominent position amongst the musical institutions of the German capital, under the present direction of Herr Albert Becker.

The Hamburg Philharmonic Society, after a more or less flourishing career extending over sixty-seven years, has just been dissolved. It is supposed that the orchestral Concerts established of recent years in the ancient Free Town, under the direction of Dr. von Bülow, had, as indeed they could scarcely fail to do, seriously compromised the interests of the older Institution.

A number of musical compositions by the ill-fated Sultan Mourad V., including, it is said, some very interesting songs, are shortly to be published at Constantinople.

Complete success attended the first performance, last month, at the Dresden Royal Opera, of an operatic work entitled "Zwei Komponisten," the music by Herr Hagen, one of the orchestral conductors at the Institution referred to. The libretto deals with an episode in the life of the composer Grétry.

In celebration of the sixtieth birthday of Johannes Brahms, a grand Concert is to be given on the 7th inst. in the Austrian capital, in which all the Viennese musical societies will take part.

A new opera upon a patriotic subject, "The deliverance of Leyden," the libretto by M. Van der Ven, the music by M. Van den Linden, met with a most favourable reception on its first performance last month at Amsterdam.

At the Imperial Opera, Vienna, the fiftieth performance of M. Massenet's opera "Manon" has recently been recorded.

Peter Cornelius's posthumous opera "Gunlöd," with the completed score by Herr Eduard Lassen, has just been produced for the first time at the Court Theatre of Mannheim, where it met with a very favourable reception.

"Schach dem König" (Check to the King) is the title of a new grand opera by Herr Ignaz Brüll, the successful composer of "Das goldene Kreuz," which is to be shortly brought out at the Royal Opera at Munich.

Weber's ever-green "Freischütz" has just been revived, with immense success, at the Berlin Royal Opera. The work has been entirely re-mounted, in accordance with modern requirements. Its first performance here was given seventy-two years ago.

The annual performance of Bach's "St. Matthew" Passion Music at St. Thomas's Church, Leipzig, took place on Good Friday last, under the direction of Professor Carl Reinecke. The solo parts were excellently interpreted by Fräulein B. Martini, Fräulein Helene Jordan, and HH. Dierich, Schelper, and Leideritz.

At one of the recent Subscription Concerts of the Court Orchestra at Meiningen, a Symphony in A major by the young Scottish composer, Mr. Frederic Lamond, was performed with much success, under the composer's direction.

A new opera, after the pattern of "Cavalleria Rusticana," entitled "Der Hochzeitmorgen," the music by Felix von Kaskel, has met with a most favourable reception on its recent first performance at the Hamburg Stadt-Theater.

Dr. Ludwig Rottenberg, of the Theatre at Brünn, has been appointed orchestral director at the Frankfurt Stadt-Theater, in succession to the late Otto Dessoff.

A new Mass by the veteran Viennese composer, Herr Anton Bruckner, has just been performed by the Vienna Philharmonic Society. The work produced a deep impression and is highly spoken of by the press.

A very successful first performance of Smetana's opera "Die verkaufte Braut," in the German version of the work by Herr Max Kalbeck, took place last month at the Theater an der Wien, Vienna. The interesting work by the deceased Czech composer is also to be shortly brought out at the Theater Unter den Linden, in Berlin, under the auspices of Herr Baumann, the Director of the Brünn Theatre.

A performance took place on the 9th ult. at the Berlin Sing-Akademie, before a private audience, of an attempted sequel or second part of "Die Zauberflöte," the subject immortalised by Mozart. The libretto as well as the music of the venture are from the pen of a medical man, Dr. Rintel, a grandson of Zelter, who made his musical studies under Dehn and Grell, in Berlin. The work is described as an able and musicianlike production, but devoid of real interest, and it met with little more than a succès d'estime.

It is announced in German papers that Herr Felix Weingartner, whose engagement as orchestral conductor with the Berlin Royal Opera expires in 1896, will at the end of that period become the successor of Herr Levi at the Munich Hof-Theater, upon the retirement of the latter from a post which he has occupied with so much distinction for a number of years.

Herr Felix Weingartner conducted two highly successful Orchestral Concerts at the La Scala, of Milan, last month, at the invitation of the Quartet Society of that place.

The Berlin journal Der Klavierlehrer has just opened a prize competition for the best essay on the somewhat curious question: "Can women become pianoforte tuners?" Whether the subject is to be treated from the point of view of expediency or of general ability is, however, not quite clear.

The monument erected to Friedrich Schneider, the distinguished organist, and composer of the once famous Oratorio "Das Weltgericht," is to be unveiled on Whitsunday next, at Dessau.

Gluck's "Orphée" has been revived with great success at the Théâtre de la Monnaie, Brussels. The work had not been performed here since 1808.

At the Teatro Regio, Turin, a most successful first performance took place recently of a new three-act opera, "Irma," by the Portuguese composer, Alfredo Keil.

Signor Leoncavallo is said to have completed a new opera, the libretto of which is founded upon Murger's well-known "La vie de la Bohême," but the date and locality of its première have not yet been settled. The same composer's "I Pagliacci" has just met with enormous success at the Royal Opera, Buda-Pesth.

The first performance in Rome of Signor Verdi's "Falstaff" took place on the 15th ult., at the Costanzi Theatre, amidst scenes of indescribable enthusiasm on the part of a crowded audience, including the King and Queen of Italy. After the termination of the second act the veteran Maëstro was seen to be in the King's box, the monarch advancing to receive him. The demonstration then became so overwhelming that the King stepped to the front of the box and, holding Verdi's hand, presented him to the people, amidst enthusiastic acclamations. A marble tablet, with a Latin inscription commemorative of the production of Verdi's latest work in Rome, will be inserted in the walls of the Costanzi Theatre.

Pietro Mascagni has directed a letter to Count Hochberg, the artistic director of the Berlin Royal Opera, thanking him in the warmest terms for the excellent way in which his new opera "I Rantzau" had been put upon the stage of that Institution, and expressing his hope of soon being able to bring out another new operatic work, under similar auspices, in the German capital.

"Festa a Marina" (by Signor Benvenuto Coronaro), the successful opera in the third prize competition instituted by Signor Sonzogno, was brought out lately at the Theatre Fenice, of Venice, but met with a very cool reception. The score of the work is described as not deficient in melodiousness, but wanting in originality.

At Lemberg, in Galicia, an Opera-house is in course of construction which is to be devoted exclusively to the works of Polish composers. The house will be opened next year, and meanwhile a competition for a new opera is to be set on foot by the directors of the Institution amongst Polish composers, there being as yet no superabundance of operatic masterpieces by composers of that nationality.

The first performance took place last month, at Graz, of an opera, "Helfrid," by the young Bohemian composer Sigmund von Hausegger, who is also the author of the book. The opera is constructed upon the lines of the modern music-drama, and is said to be the work of a gifted musician, not wanting in originality. It met with a highly favourable reception.

The first performance in the French language of Wagner's "Tristan und Isolde," somewhat pompously announced as a "création en français" of the work, took place on March 22, at the Theatre in Monte Carlo, under the direction of M. Günzburg. The Guide Musical, in a detailed notice of the performance, describes it as an utter failure, and altogether unworthy of the work represented.

At a recent sale of the collection of autographs of the late Count Paar some interesting musical numbers were included and realised high prices. Amongst them may be mentioned three letters by Beethoven, which fetched 310, 289, and 200 marks respectively; a letter written by Leopold Mozart, announcing the birth of his son Wolfgang, for which 260 marks were paid; and a letter by Weber, directed to F. Kind, and referring to the successful first performance of "Der Freischütz," which realised 505 marks. Similarly good prices were paid for letters by Mozart, Schubert, and Wagner.

M. Gounod is stated to be actively engaged upon the completion of his new opera "Charlotte Corday," which is to be brought out next year at the Paris Grand Opéra.

M. Gailhard, formerly at the head of the management of the Paris Grand Opéra, has again been appointed a director of that Institution, in association with M. Bertrand, and in the room of M. Campo Casso. The appointment has caused considerable dissatisfaction in musical circles of the capital, where it is looked upon as little calculated to advance the artistic interests of the Académie Nationale de l'Opéra.

The first performance at the Paris Opéra of Wagner's "Die Walküre," with M. van Dyck in the part of Siegmund, is to take place in the first week of the present month.

At the Paris Opéra Comique the long-expected première of "Kassya," the posthumous opera by the late Léo Delibes, the libretto by MM. Meilhac and Ph. Gilles, founded upon a novel by Sacher-Masoch, took place on March 24. The work is in four acts, the orchestration having been skilfully completed by M. Massenet, and the performance was a very successful one, with Madame de Nuovino, MM. Gibert and Soulacroix in the principal parts. The favourable impression produced by "Kassya" on the occasion in question has been fully maintained in subsequent performances of the work.

The Association Artistique of Angers, an Institution which has rendered excellent service to musical art in France, has ceased to exist owing to the discontinuance of the small annual subvention hitherto granted it by the Municipality. The Society, which has been in existence sixteen years, gave its 443rd and last Concert on March 26.

The proposed tax upon pianofortes, sanctioned recently by the French Chamber of Deputies, has been very wisely abandoned by the members of the Senate.

All those who appreciate the great Tetralogy of the Bayreuth master will approve of the proceedings contemplated at the Paris Opéra, where portions of the "Rheingold" are to be given in concert form, accompanied by an explanatory Lecture of M. Catulle Mendés, on the eve of the first production of "Die Walküre" and of subsequent performances of that work. The vocal interpreters of the "Rheingold" portion will be MM. Renand, Fournets, and Vaguet; Mdlles. Richard, Bosman, and Mercy.

Mdlle. Janotha is writing a new biography of Chopin, in collaboration with the Princess Marceline Czartoryska, Chopin's pupil and friend. Mdlle. Janotha, assisted by the Countess Valda Gleichen, Signor Sgambati, and others, gave a most successful Concert last month in Rome, in the presence of the Queen of Italy, for the benefit of the Academy of St. Cecilia.

M. Michel Brenet, the well-known Belgian musical author, residing in Paris, has just published a very interesting essay, entitled "Jean de Ockeghem, maître de chapelle des rois Charles VII. et Louis XI.," which throws some new light upon the artistic career of one of the greatest musicians of the Flemish school, who flourished during the fifteenth century.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A CORRECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MUSICAL TIMES."

Sir,—In your issue of March 1 I am held responsible, in a quotation from "A musical contemporary," for the following statement:

"The opera overture has no longer a raison d'être in the scheme of dramatic music."

As a matter of fact, no remark bearing even a semblance to the above meaning has ever been made by me. My only reference to the opera overture is to be found in the fourth of a series of Lectures on "The Orchestra" (given at the Royal Institution), and, oddly enough, this Lecture will be published, by special request of the Editor, in the first number of the New Quarterly Musical Review.

Believe me, Sir, very faithfully yours,

Royal Academy of Music, A. C. Mackenzie.
April 14, 1893.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

 Notices of concerts, and other information supplied by our friends in the country, must be forwarded as early as possible after the occurrence; otherwise they cannot be inserted. Our correspondents must specifically denote the date of each concert, for without such date no notice can be taken of the performance.

Our correspondents will oblige by writing all names as clearly as possible, as we cannot be responsible for any mistakes that may occur.

Correspondents are informed that their names and addresses must accompany all communications.

We cannot undertake to return offered contributions; the authors, therefore, will do well to retain copies.

Notice is sent to all subscribers whose payment (in advance) is exhausted. The paper will be discontinued where the Subscription is not renewed. We again remind those who are disappointed in obtaining back numbers that, although the music is always kept in stock, only a sufficient quantity of the rest of the paper is printed to supply the current sale.

Henry Parker (Ipswich).—H. C. Lincoln, the organ builder, was born in 1789 and died in 1864.

New York.—"The Law of Copyright," by Edward Cutler, Q.C. (price 3s. 6d.), will give the information you require. It is published by Cassell and Co.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF COUNTRY NEWS.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for any opinions expressed in this summary, as all the notices are either collated from the local papers or supplied to us by correspondents.

Aberdeen.—Miss Christina Brumleu (violinist) gave a Concert in the Ball Room, Music Hall Buildings, on the 5th ult. Her pieces were received with hearty expressions of approbation, and she was several times recalled. The principal vocalist was Miss Norris Adams, and Mr. Ernest Brumleu acted as pianist and accompanist.

Abergavenny.—An Eisteddfod was held here on the 3rd ult., when thousands of visitors from all parts flocked to the town. The prizes given were for choral (male and mixed voices), quartet, and solo singing; brass band and violin and pianoforte solo playing. The usual enthusiasm was shown and much musical talent revealed; but it was a pity that nothing better had been chosen for the pianoforte solo competitors to play than Sydney Smith's "Harpe Æolienne." The vocal selections were on a much higher level. Mr. Riseley (of Bristol) was among the adjudicators.

ARBROATH.—On the 5th ult. the Choral Union gave its second Concert for the season before a large audience in the New Public Hall, the work selected being Haydn's Seasons. The vocalists were Miss Emily Davies, Mr. Iver McKay, and Mr. Dan Price. Mr. John Hartley presided at the organ with taste and ability, while the choir was under the efficient bâton of Mr. George Neale. The Concert was highly creditable both to the Conductor and to the Society.

BARNSTAPLE.—Under the able direction of Dr. H. J. Edwards one of the most successful Concerts ever held here was given on the 10th ult., in the Music Hall. The works performed were Dr. Edwards's Motet for soprano, chorus, and orchestra, "Praise to the Holiest," Stanford's Revenge, and Dr. C. H. Lloyd's Hero and Leander. The soloists were Miss Clara Leighton and Mr. Dan Price, and there was an efficient orchestra and chorus and a most enthusiastic audience.

BIGGLESWADE.—Stainer's Crucifixion was sung at the Parish Church by the choir on March 29. The soloists were the Rev. E. C. Alwyn Foster, Rev. R. S. Bagshaw, and Mr. F. Bonfield. Mr. J. G. Cooper presided at the organ.

BISHOP'S STORTFORD.—A very creditable performance of Mendelssohn's Athalie was given by the Choral Society here on the 5th ult., aided by an efficient little orchestra led by Mr. T. E. Gatehouse. The choruses were sung with spirit, under the careful direction of Mr. Philip Sharpe. The chief solo parts were sung with admirable dramatic effect by Miss Ethel Winn and Madame Florence Winn, while Mr. Charles Fry, who has so many times officiated as reciter in this work, was responsible for the delivery of the verses. A miscellaneous selection, in which the above-named artists all took part, formed the second part of the programme, Mr. Gatehouse winning special favour with his violin solos.

BODMIN.—An admirable rendering of Cowen's St. John's Eve was given in the New Public Rooms, by the Bodmin Choral Society, under the able direction of Mr. C. E. Juleff, Organist of the Parish Church. The soloists were Miss Laura Lyon, Madame Carr, Mr. Dean Trotter, and Mr. W. C. Hutchings. The Rev. C. H. Townsend proved an efficient accompanist, and Mr. R. Besley contributed two admirable flute solos. The choruses were rendered with exceptional precision, due light and shade being observed.

BRIGHTON.—The Sacred Harmonic Society gave The Messiah on Good Friday evening, at the Dome, the principal artists being Miss Kate Erskine, Miss Edith Hands, Mr. J. Gawthrop, and Mr. Frank Ward; Mr. Starnes was at the organ, and Mr. R. Taylor conducted. The Dome was packed by an appreciative audience, and an excellent performance was given.

BROADSTAIRS.—A performance of Handel's Judas Maccabæus was given by the Broadstairs and St. Peter's Choral Society in St. Mary's Home, Broadstairs, on Monday, the 10th ult. The principals were Miss Florence Monk (soprano), Miss Helen Saunders (contralto), Mr. T. Oldroyd (tenor), and Mr. Alfred B. Osmond (bass). A small but very efficient orchestra was employed for the occasion. Mr. Harold B. Osmond conducted, and Messrs. Donald Lott and T. Russe presided at the pianoforte and harmonium respectively.

BROCKLEY.—At St. Peter's Church, Gaul's "Passion" Music was sung for the third time on Wednesday in Passion Week, and Sir John Stainer's Crucifixion for the fourth time on Good Friday evening, by the regular choir of the church, which numbered fifty voices. Dr. C. J. Frost, the Organist and Choirmaster, accompanied on the organ. The services were much appreciated, and the congregation joined heartily in the hymns.——The third Concert of the present season was given on Tuesday, the 11th ult., by the St. Peter's Choral Society, when John Francis Barnett's Cantata The Ancient Mariner was performed. It was most favourably received, several numbers being re-demanded. The principals were Miss Annie Swinfen, Miss Susetta Fenn, Mr. James Leyland, and Mr. R. E. Miles. Dr. C. J. Frost conducted and Mr. J. Curran accompanied at the pianoforte.

CARDIFF.—The third Concert of the season given by the Musical Society, on the 20th ult., was a conspicuous success. Sir Joseph Barnby conducted an admirable performance of his Rebekah, and fine renderings were given, under the Hon. Conductor of the Society, Mr. T. E. Aylward, of Stanford's Revenge, the Figaro and Jubilee Overtures of Mozart and Weber, and the Finale of Mendelssohn's Lorelei. The soloists were Miss Medora Henson, Mr. Henry Piercy, and Mr. Andrew Black. An enthusiastic audience showed that the efforts of those concerned had not been thrown away.

CHEPSTOW.—Two sacred Concerts were given in the Parish Church on Wednesday, 12th ult., by the Chepstow Choral Society, with full band and organ accompaniment. The works selected were Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise and Haydn's Creation (Parts I. and II.), the soloists being Miss Beatrice Gough and Miss A. Dewdney, and Messrs. Oldroyd and Holliday. The band and chorus discharged their duties in a very efficient manner, as did also Mr. A. E. Kingsford, the Organist of the Parish Church, who presided at the organ on both occasions, and Mr. E. G. R. Richards, the Conductor of the Society. It is a matter for regret that the performances were not better attended, as the admission throughout the day was free.

CHIGWELL.—An exceedingly impressive rendering of Stainer's Crucifixion was given, under the conductorship of Mr. Henry Riding, in the Parish Church on March 27. The voices, numbering 100 in all, were selected from the local church choirs, and included Mr. Riding's Ladies' Choir and some members of the Loughton Choral Society. Mr. E. Cuthbert Nunn was the Organist, and the solos were excellently sung by Messrs. H. Clinch, Charles Ackerman, and H. E. Grout.

COCKERMOUTH.—A fine performance of Handel's Acis and Galatea formed the first part of an excellent Concert given in the large Drill Hall, under the conductorship of Mr. P. T. Freeman, of Keswick, on the 19th ult. The second part was miscellaneous. The chorus consisted of 200 voices, being the Keswick and Cockermouth Societies united. The principals were Miss Jennie Sadler, Mr. Tom Buckland, Mr. Joseph Hunter, and Mr. H. Rickard. The band consisted chiefly of members of Sir Charles Hallé's orchestra, ably led by Mr. F. W. Schofield. Miss H. M. Freeman presided at the pianoforte.

DEMERARA.—The fine organ, built by Messrs. Bevington and Sons, of London, for the New Cathedral, was opened on Wednesday evening, March 22, by Mr. G. W. Nusum, the Organist. The instrument, a three-manual, contains forty-three stops, and is on a combined system of tracker and vacuum-pneumatic. The vocalists were Mrs Wight and Mr. Bye; Mr. Hemery played a solo on the violoncello in his usual finished style. Gounod's "Jesu, word of God incarnate" (unaccompanied) was exceedingly well rendered by the Cathedral choir, and one of the pieces on the programme was a March, written for the occasion by the Organist. The Recital was a decided success.

DENBIGH.—The members of the Philharmonic Society gave their last Concert of the season in the Drill Hall on the 20th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. Felix C. Watkins (St. Asaph). The works given were Mendelssohn's Hear my Prayer and As the hart pants. Miss Lucie Jones (of Liverpool) took the solos, which were sung with great feeling and expression.

DOVER.—The second Concert of the newly-formed Choral Union took place on Thursday, the 6th ult. The principals were Miss Nancy McIntosh, Miss Dora Barnard, Mr. C. W. Fredericks, and Mr. Henry Sunman. The band and chorus, which numbered upwards of 100 performers, was conducted by Mr. H. J. Taylor, Bennett's May Queen and a miscellaneous selection forming the programme. The Concert was a thorough success in every way.

DUDLEY.—The last of the series of six Sunday Afternoon Musical Services, for extra expenses incurred by the choir, took place on the 16th ult., when nearly the whole of the first and second parts of Handel's Messiah was given by an augmented choir, assisted by some brass instruments. The principal vocalists were Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Bird, Mr. J. H. Round, and Mr. W. H. Smith. Mr. W. Stansfield presided at the organ with conspicuous ability, and Mr. G. H. Mainwaring conducted. The congregation was a very large one, and the collection amounted to nearly £10.

ERITH.—Mr. Richard Lemaire gave his annual evening Concert at the Public Hall, on the 10th ult. The artists were Madame Isabel George, Madame Marian McKenzie, and Mr. Franklin Clive. Mrs. Jocelyn Thomson and Mr. Dawson Milward appeared in a humorous Sketch; and the latter gentleman also gave two recitations. Captain Barlow, R.A., gave two excellent songs; and Mr. Edwin H. Lemaire, of Holy Trinity, Chelsea, acted as accompanist conjointly with the bénéficiaire. There was a large and fashionable audience.

EVESHAM.—The Choral Society, under the management of Miss Myra Taylor and Miss Gill Smith, gave its fourth Concert, in the Town Hall, on the 5th ult. The programme consisted of Parts 1 and 2 of Haydn's Creation and a miscellaneous selection. The soloists were Miss Gill Smith (soprano), Mr. Hamlyn Crimp (tenor), Mr. Fritz Manton (bass). Instrumentalists: Mrs. Leslie Sherwood (pianoforte) and Mr. A. W. Smith (organ). Miss Myra Taylor conducted. Conductor, soloists, chorus, and accompanists alike did their work admirably, and had the satisfaction of performing to an overflowing audience, whose hearty appreciation was ungrudgingly given.

GREAT BERKHAMPSTEAD.—The Church Choral Society performed Lee Williams's Last Night at Bethany in the Parish Church in Holy Week. The Society also gave a Concert in aid of the Mechanics' Institute on the 12th ult., the programme including Aspa's "Gipsies"; Tartini's "Il Trillo del Diavolo" (Rev. C. J. Langley); Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata (Mr. F. Whatmoor and Rev. C. J. Langley); songs by Spohr, Sterndale Bennett, M. V. White, &c. Mr. F. Whatmoor acted as accompanist.——Mr. Frank Gatward, for eleven years the Organist and Director of the Parish Church Choir, was presented with a handsome bâton and a purse from the choir and congregation, on the eve of his departure for Halifax Cathedral, Canada; also with a despatch box in Russia leather, suitably inscribed, from the members of the Hemel-Hempstead Choral Society, of which Mr. Gatward had been Conductor for five years.

IPSWICH.—On March 27 a Concert was given in the Lecture Hall by Miss A. L. Poole, who played in excellent style Chopin's Ballade in A flat and "Rhapsodie Hongroise" by Liszt. She was assisted by the Misses Lee, Harvey, and Jennie Podd; Messrs. Wigg, Hindes, London, Rice, and Bicker. Miss Sleightholme played Handel's Sonata in A for violin, and Mr. G. F. Abbott gave two flute solos. Miss Poole accompanied most efficiently.

KESWICK.—A capital performance of Handel's Acis and Galatea and a miscellaneous selection was given in the Drill Hall, on Thursday evening, the 20th ult., by the Choral Society, assisted by a few select voices from the Cockermouth Society, numbering 120. The principals were Miss Sadler, Mr. T. Buckland, Mr. J. Hunter, and Mr. H. Rickard. The band consisted for the most part of members of Sir Charles Hallé's orchestra, ably led by Mr. F. W. Schofield. Miss H. M. Freeman presided at the pianoforte and Mr. P. T. Freeman was the Conductor.

LIVERPOOL.—The Committee of the Welsh Presbyterian Church, Princes' Road, having decided upon the admission into the Church of an organ, a fine instrument has been designed by Mr. W. A. Roberts (of Liverpool), and Messrs. Norman Bros. and Beard (of Norwich) have been selected to build it.

LONGWOOD.—The new organ at the Parish Church was inaugurated, on the 6th ult., by Mr. J. H. Pearson. Pieces by Mendelssohn, Merkel, Morandi, Smart, and Turpin were performed with much skill and taste, and the capabilities of the new instrument admirably shown.

Martock.—The Choral Society gave its last Concert of the season on Thursday, the 6th ult., when Gaul's Holy City formed the first part of the programme. The soloists were Mrs. Kitchen, Miss Southcombe, Mr. Ross, and Mr. Southcombe. Miss Sylvester presided at the pianoforte, and Mr. G. H. F. Sharpe at the organ. Mr. C. W. Drew conducted. The second part consisted of a miscellaneous selection, including "Crossing the bar" (Kelling), "In Native worth" (Haydn), "Lord, at all times" (Mendelssohn), "Arm, arm, ye brave" (Handel), and "Fix'd in His everlasting seat" (Handel).

Milford Haven.—On the evening of Maundy Thursday, Stainer's Crucifixion was given in St. Catherine's Church. Miss Johnson presided at the organ and brought out with telling effect the several passages in which the accompaniment is especially prominent. The bass and tenor solos were admirably taken by members of the choir and the choruses were rendered with great precision, every attention being given to light and shade. The services at this church on Easter Day were of the usual festal character, the anthem being "Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us," by Goss.

Newry.—A Concert was given by the Choral Society, at the Town Hall, on the 11th ult., under the conductorship of Mr. Barry M. Gilholy. The performance included a Trio by Sullivan, choruses from The Messiah, The Redemption, Naaman, and The Hymn of Praise, and pianoforte and vocal soli. In addition to local talent the Society was assisted by Mr. Rennie, Mr. Victor Sylvester, and Mrs. Mary Smith. The Rev. Mr. McClintock gave a finished interpretation on the pianoforte of selections from Beethoven, Liszt, Gluck, and Schubert. The hall was crowded and each piece much applauded.

Norwich.—A very fine performance of the first and second parts of Gounod's Redemption took place in the Cathedral on the 20th ult., under the conductorship of Dr. Bates, who had under his bâton a force of 200 voices and a band numbering fifty performers. The chorus consisted of the following Church choirs: St. Michael Coslany and St. Saviour, Norwich; St. Mary-le-Tower and St. Matthew, Ipswich; St. Nicholas and St. Margaret, Lynn; Downham Market, Beccles, and Woodbridge. The solos were sung by members of the Cathedral choir and Mr. Smith, of Peterborough Cathedral; while the instrumentalists were drawn from Norwich and the neighbourhood. A short but eloquent address by the Very Reverend the Dean preceded the Oratorio, which was listened to by a congregation which filled every available part of the building.

Oundle.—A very successful Concert was given by the Choral Society on the 7th ult. Smart's Bride of Dunkerron was given, followed by a miscellaneous programme. Mr. Borrows, Mr. J. J. Simpson, and Mr. J. B. Smith were the solo vocalists. Mr. W. H. Squire contributed violoncello solos. The hon. Conductor, Mr. Clement M. Spurling, directed the Concert with ability.

Ramsgate.—An Orchestral Concert was given on the 4th ult., at St. George's Hall. Beethoven's Symphony in C, Meyerbeer's "Coronation" March, the Overture to Semiramide, and other pieces were well played. Mrs. Henniker, Miss Foxcroft, and Mr. Walter North sang, and Miss Bertha Henniker showed great promise in her violin solos. Mr. P. Vincent Henniker conducted, and deserves cordial praise for his ability and energy.

Rhyl.—The Choral Society gave a Concert in the Grand Pavilion, on Thursday, the 6th ult. The programme consisted of Mendelssohn's 95th Psalm and the Hymn of Praise. The soloists were Miss Gosnell, Miss Townshend, and Mr. Greenwood (Chester Cathedral), who sang their parts admirably, and the performance reflected great credit upon the Conductor, Mr. Felix Watkins (St. Asaph).

Ryde.—The Choral Union, founded in 1874 by Miss Margaret Fowles, its present Conductor, gave an excellent performance of "Elijah," on the 6th ult. The soloists were Madame Emily Spada, Miss Ethel Bevans, Mr. Philip Newbury, and Mr. Charles Copland. The additional parts in the quartets, &c., were taken by members of the Society. The chorus had evidently been well trained, and sang with much expression. The orchestra, unfortunately, was not complete, most of the wind parts being played on an American organ—otherwise it did fairly well. To Miss Fowles as a conductor, and more especially as a choir trainer, much praise is due.

Shrewsbury.—The Orchestral Society's Concert, which took place, under the direction of Mr. W. C. Hay, in the Music Hall, on the 11th ult., in the presence of a large audience, was a great success. The programme included Haydn's "Clock" Symphony, which was admirably performed; Hans Sitt's Concerto for violin (Op. 32), well played by Mr. Hubert Salt; Edward German's Dances from Henry VIII, and Auber's Overture to Marco Spada. Mr. Byolin was the vocalist.

St. Albans, Cheetwood, Manchester.—A most successful performance of Locke's celebrated music to Macbeth (with scenic effects), was given on the 11th and 12th ult., by Mr. Yardley and friends. Mr. Cunnington's bass voice was heard to advantage in the music allotted to Hecate, and Miss Carrie Locke as the First Witch, both vocally and dramatically, delighted the audience. The choruses of the Witches were ably rendered by a number of ladies and gentlemen, under the conductorship of Mr. D. H. Hallett, Organist and Choirmaster of the Church.

Stamford.—A Concert was held in the Corn Exchange, on the 6th ult., when the members of the Stamford, Oakham, Bourn, and Ketton Musical Societies (united) performed The Messiah before a large and appreciative audience. Miss Monk (soprano, who was much liked at a Concert here last year), Miss Eleanor Rees, Mr. Banks (Hereford Cathedral), and Mr. Grice were the soloists. The choruses were, on the whole, very well rendered. The orchestra (about forty) deserves a special word for the way in which it accompanied the solos. Mr. Haydon Hare conducted, and Mr. Allan Rippon was leader.

Suva, Fiji Islands.—On January 12 Gilbert and Sullivan's Opera H.M.S. Pinafore was performed here before a crowded and appreciative audience, the performance being honoured by the presence of His Excellency the Administrator. Mr. A. Griffiths as Dead-eye, Mr. McOwen as the Captain, Mr. R. Griffiths as the Boatswain, Mr. Scott as the First Lord, Mr. Martin as Ralph Rackstraw, Miss Money as Josephine, Mrs. Collet as Hebe, and, above all, Mrs. Stuart as Buttercup were all deservedly well received. Mr. F. J. Barnett's scene representing the ship was much admired. The whole was under the direction of Mr. Wilfred Collet. Mr. Ralph accompanied the Opera on the pianoforte.

Swaffham, Norfolk.—Mr. Newman H. Athoe, Organist of the Parish Church, gave his Annual Concert in the Assembly Rooms on the 6th ult. The soloists, Miss A. M. Smith (harp), Miss Ellen Childs, Mr. John Bartlett, Mr. J. J. Armes, Mr. Highe, and Mr. Athoe, were all well received. A male-voice quartet contributed "The Chapel" (Kreutzer) and "Departure" (Franz Abt) in a thoroughly praiseworthy manner, and a select choir of twenty voices gave "Lullaby of Life" (Leslie) and "Good night, beloved" (Pinsuti) with great precision.

Trent College, Notts.—A very successful Organ Recital was given by Mr. George H. Fox on March 28, in the College Chapel. The composers drawn upon were Salomé, Guilmant, Lemmens, Saint-Saëns, Gounod, and Dr. Rea.

Wimborne.—The Choral Society gave a highly successful Concert at the Victoria Hall, before a large audience, on the 6th ult. The programme consisted of Mendelssohn's Lauda Sion, Cowen's popular Cantata The Rose Maiden, and instrumental and vocal selections of a high class. The principal vocalists were Miss Elsie Mackenzie, Mr. T. Lloyd, and Mr. T. D. Joyce. Mr. Lloyd took the place, at very short notice, of Mr. McWilliam. The quartets were rendered very creditably by the Misses Legge, Messrs. C. P. Turle and F. Hoff (bass). Mr. Whitehead-Smith conducted with ability, and Mr. Alfred Foley, an able violinist, acted as leader. Mr. J. T. Randall efficiently accompanied upon the pianoforte.

Worcester.—On the 18th ult. the Festival Choral Society gave a Concert, the interest of which centred in Mr. Edward Elgar's new Cantata The Black Knight, then given for the first time, and received with great enthusiasm by a large audience. The work is a setting of Longfellow's translation of Uhland's weird poem, and reveals qualities in the composer which are bound to bring him rapidly to the front. His themes are striking and picturesque, and his command of the means whereby they can be made the most of is very considerable. The result is a work displaying power, charm, and musicianship in a high degree. Its orchestration also is excellent, and abounds in judiciously contrasted effects. Chorus and orchestra did their best for this the most ambitious work of the clever composer (who is a local man) and a performance of exceptional merit was the result. The remainder of the Concert, conducted by Mr. Blair, contained several classical works, but was so long that portions had to be omitted.

Worthing.—A successful Vocal and Dramatic Recital was given at the Literary Institute, on the 19th ult., by Miss Aubrey and Mr. W. J. Denniss. Miss Denniss and Mr. A. Fisher contributed pianoforte solos at the commencement of each part.

Wrexham.—On the 10th ult. the Musical Society gave its last Concert of the season. The programme consisted of Macfarren's May Day (solo, Madame Clara Samuell) and Stanford's Revenge, Weber's Oberon Overture, Mendelssohn's Pianoforte Concerto in G minor (played by Mr. C. Morton Bailey), Handel's Violin Sonata in E (Mr. Carl Courvoisier), and songs by Madame Samuell. Mr. Courvoisier led an excellent band, and Mr. C. Morton Bailey conducted. The accompanist was Mr. G. A. Barnes, who also conducted the Concerto.

Organ Appointments.—Mr. Harry J. Dickinson, Organist and Choirmaster to Kirkcudbright Parish Church.—Mr. A. J. Hawkins, Organist and Musical Director to the City Temple.—Mr. Francis Gardner Highe, to Parish Church, Castle-Acre.—Mr. A. G. Iggulden, Organist and Choirmaster to Hawarden Parish Church.—Mr. Frederick G. Shinn, Organist and Choirmaster to Sydenham Parish Church.—Mr. R. Henderson Johnston, Organist and Choirmaster to St. Paul's Church (Anglican), Ipswich, Queensland.

Choir Appointments.—Mr. Charles Griffiths (Alto), to Allhallows', Barking.—Mr. A. Barclay Jones (Musical Director), to the Oratory, Brompton.—Mr. R. Leaman (Choirmaster), to the Parish Church, Castle-Acre.—Mr. James Kent (Leading Tenor), to St. Paul's Church, Park Lane, Tottenham.—Mr. Walter W. Sadler (Tenor), to St. Peter's Church, Cranley Gardens.—Mr. Lyon Ferrand (Tenor), to St. Peter's, Belsize Square.—Mr. Ernest Wood (Conductor), to the Royal Metropolitan Liedertafel, Melbourne.

MISS LOUISE GLOVER (Soprano)
(Pupil of Signor Randegger).
For Concerts, Oratorios, &c., 28, Aynhoe Road, West Kensington.

MR. THOS. KEMPTON (Bass)
(Vicar-Choral, St. Paul's Cathedral).
MASTER SYDNEY LOVETT (Soprano)
For Concerts, Festival Services, Oratorios, &c.
"Master Lovett is possessed of a singularly sweet soprano voice," &c.—Vide Daily Telegraph, April 12, 1893.
For press notices, terms, &c., address 55, Petherton Road, Highbury New Park, N.

THOROUGHLY trained Contralto Vocalist, to increase her Clientèle, will give her services in London and suburbs in Oratorio, Concerts, At Homes, &c., for expenses only. Address, Concert, 24, Glengarry Road, East Dulwich Grove, S.E.

DURING THE LAST MONTH.

Published by NOVELLO, EWER & CO.

DVOŘÁK, ANTONÍN.—Mass in D. For Solo Voices (or small chorus), Chorus, and Orchestra. The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the Full Score by BERTHOLD TOURS. Paper cover, 2s. 6d.

ELGAR, EDWARD.—"The Black Knight" ("Der Schwarze Ritter"). Cantata for Chorus and Orchestra. The poem by UHLAND (translated by LONGFELLOW). Paper cover, 2s.

STANFORD, CHARLES VILLIERS.—"East to West." An Ode by ALGERNON CHARLES SWINBURNE. Set to music for Chorus and Orchestra. The pianoforte arrangement by the COMPOSER. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

SACHS, ED.—"Water Lilies" ("Wasserlilien"). A Fairy Song. By FELICIA HEMANS. Deutsche Uebertragung von L. KLEIN. Paper cover, 1s.

WAGNER, RICHARD.—"Lohengrin." A Romantic Opera, in Three Acts. Edited by BERTHOLD TOURS, and translated into English by NATALIA MACFARREN. Act I. Paper cover, 1s. 6d.

GERMAN, EDWARD.—Overture to the Music to "Henry VIII." First Violin, 1s.; Second Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 1s.

—— Prelude to Act II. (Intermezzo Funèbre). From the Music to "Henry VIII." First Violin, 6d.; Second Violin, 6d.; Viola, 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 6d.

PARRY, C. HUBERT H.—"Job." First Violin, 3s.; Second Violin, 2s. 6d.; Viola, 2s. 6d.; Violoncello and Bass, 4s.

THE SCHOOL MUSIC REVIEW, No. 11. "Our Ship at Sea." Junior Song (with Action). By H. ELLIOT BUTTON. "Over Rock and over Weed." School Song, in two parts. By W. W. PEARSON. "'Tis Hum Drum." School Round (with Action). By Dr. HARRINGTON. Studies in Time and Tune combined (Tonic Sol-fa), and Studies in Reading Keys (Staff Notation). By W. G. MCNAUGHT. Price 1½d.

DOCKER, F. A. W.—(in G). Benedictus. 3d.

MARKS, J. CHRISTOPHER, Junr.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 128. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

MARSDEN, GEORGE.—Church Music. No. 1. The Offertory Sentences. Paper cover, 1s.

PAGE, ARTHUR—(in F). The Office for the Holy Communion. Paper cover, 1s.

TOURS, BERTHOLD G.—(in D). Magnificat and Nunc dimittis. (No. 135. Novello's Parish Choir Book.) 4d.

WHEELER, GEORGE D. CHETWYND—(in D). Service for the Holy Communion. 6d.

CLARE, EDWYN A.—"And when the day of Pentecost." Anthem for Whitsuntide. 3d.

DUNSTAN, R.—"Abide with me." Anthem for Four Voices. (No. 424. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

FIELD, J. T.—"Hail! gladdening light." Anthem for Tenor Solo and Chorus. (No. 427. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 2d.

JORDAN, C. WARWICK.—"Virgin Born." Easy Anthem for Soli and Chorus. 4d.

MARKS, J. CHRISTOPHER, Junr.—"The day is past and over." Anthem for Soprano and Tenor Soli and Chorus. (No. 421. Novello's Octavo Anthems.) 3d.

BLISS, W. H.—The Communicant's Choral Card. 1d. On card, 1½d.

BARRY, MAURICE.—Pater Noster. For Festal Seasons. For Four Voices. 2d.

CAMPBELL, JOHN E.—An Evening Hymn. On card, 1d.

DE LISLE, E.—Vesper Hymn. On card, 1d.

HODSON, HENRY EDWARD.—"O saving Victim." Short Motet for Quartet and Chorus. 2d.

ARMSTRONG, J.—"March of the Men of Ulster." The Words written by J. B. DEAN. 6d.

CALKIN, J. BAPTISTE.—"Echoes." A Four-part Song. The Words written by ADELAIDE ANNE PROCTER. (No. 255. The Orpheus.) 2d.

DURING THE LAST MONTH—continued.

CHINNER, W. B.—"The Golden Land." Solo and Chorus. The Words written by G. F. CHINNER. 3d.

FOSTER, MYLES B.—"The Willow and its Lesson." (No. 280. Novello's Octavo Edition of Trios, Quartets &c., for Female Voices.) 2d.

HARRISON, S. A.—"True Blue yet." A loyal Chorus. 3d.

ILIFFE, FREDERICK.—"Come, fairies, trip it." A Four-part Song. (No. 668. Novello's Part-Song Book.) 3d.

HEAP, C. SWINNERTON.—"The Battle of Stirling." Song. The Words written by WILLIAM SINCLAIR. No. 1, in C, 2s.; No. 2, in E flat, 2s.

FLETCHER, CHARLOTTE.—"The Last Loäd Hoäm." Song. From "The Promise of May," by ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. 2s.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS for the ORGAN.—

		s.	d.
No. 177. Two Sketches	G. F. WESLEY MARTIN	1	0
„ 178. Tempo di Menuetto	H. A. WHEELDON	1	0

CALKIN, GEORGE.—Transcriptions from the Works of FELIX MENDELSSOHN BARTHOLDY. For the Organ. Book 7. 2s.

NOVELLO'S PUBLICATIONS in the TONIC SOL-FA NOTATION. Translated by W. G. MCNAUGHT.

No. 786. Blest be the Man	HANDEL	1d.
„ 788. Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F	E. J. HOPKINS	2d.
„ 792. To Thee, Cherubim and Seraphim ..	HANDEL	1d.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

NEW SERIES OF MODERN METHODS.

NO. 1.—WALTER MACFARREN'S PIANOFORTE METHOD. Paper cover, 3s. net; cloth, 4s. 6d. net; post-free.

NO. 2.—OTTO PEINIGER'S VIOLIN METHOD. Paper cover, 3s. 6d. net; cloth, 5s. net; post-free.

NO. 5.—DR. H. KEETON'S CHURCH and CATHEDRAL CHORISTERS' SINGING METHOD. Paper cover, 2s. net; cloth, 3s. net; post-free.

NO. 6.—CHARLES WEBB'S TONIC SOL-FA CLASS-SINGING METHOD. Limp cloth, 2s. net; post-free.

Other Methods in preparation.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S LIST of GLEES, &c., containing a choice Selection, by the most eminent Composers, of Two and Three-part Songs for equal voices and Songs for Classes in unison; many numbers in Tonic Sol-fa Notation. Just Published, arranged by JAS. BATCHELDER for Alto, two Tenors, and Bass, "The Anchor's Weighed," "The Men of Harlech," "Ye Banks and Braes."

IMPORTANT TO CHORAL SOCIETIES.

F. H. COWEN'S favourite CANTATA for FEMALE VOICES, "THE FAIRIES' SPRING" (An Elfin Legend). Price 2s. 6d. net; Tonic Sol-fa Edition, 1s. net.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S new Edition of STANDARD CLASSICAL PIECES. List on application.

ALSO

CLASSICAL MUSIC (new Series) selected, fingered, and edited by ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER, Professor at the Royal Academy of Music. List on application.

THE CANDIDATES' PRACTICAL SCALE and ARPEGGIO HANDBOOKS. Specially arranged for the use of Students preparing for the Examinations (Pianoforte) of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music.

By GRAHAM P. MOORE

(Member of the Examining Staff of the Associated Board).

Compiled in strict accordance with the Syllabus of the Associated Board, and each Book containing full directions as to the requirements of the Examiners. Issued in four Books, each Book being complete in itself, and containing only those scales required by Candidates for their respective Examinations.

Book 1, 1s. net; Book 2, 1s. 6d. net; Book 3, 1s. 6d. net; Book 4, in two Parts, each 2s. net.

Full particulars on application.

ORGAN MUSIC.—BEST'S HANDEL CHORUSES. BEST'S COLLECTION of ORGAN COMPOSITIONS. New Compositions and Arrangements. Detailed Lists on application.

ROBERT COCKS & CO.'S New and Standard Publications.

—CONTINUED.

COMPLETE SCALE and ARPEGGIO TUTOR. By ADOLPHE SCHLOESSER. Containing all the Scales and Arpeggi required by Pupils preparing for the Metropolitan, Local, and other Examinations, including the Associated Board of the R.A.M. and R.C.M. Engraved in bold style, and printed on best paper, giving clear directions how to practise.

Part 1. Scales. 33 pages .. .. 5s.
„ 2. Arpeggios. 45 pages .. .. 5s.
Complete .. .. 8s.

THE HISTORY and CONSTRUCTION of the ORGAN. By Dr. E. J. HOPKINS and Dr. E. F. RIMBAULT. This famous Work, complete, 1 Vol., 636 pp., reduced to 21s. net. Also, in five parts, 5s. each.

VIOLIN and VIOLONCELLO MUSIC.—New Compositions by MAUDE VALÉRIE WHITE, TIVADAR NACHÈZ, DAVID POPPER, LEO STERN, and other well-known Authors. Lists on application.

SPOHR'S GREAT VIOLIN SCHOOL. Translated by JOHN BISHOP. The only version approved by SPOHR. Handsomely bound, cloth, gilt, 15s. net. Patronized and adopted by the Royal Academy of Music. Note.—In ordering, specify R. C. and Co.'s Edition.

NEW SONGS by HAMISH MACCUNN. Six Settings of Poems by ROBERT BRIDGES:—

No. 1. My bed and pillow are cold .. .. Shorter Poems III. 10.
„ 2. Fire of heaven, whose starry arrow .. „ „ IV. 16.
„ 3. The idle life .. .. „ „ IV. 17.
„ 4. Angel spirits of sleep .. .. .. „ „ IV. 18.
„ 5. Crown Winter with green .. .. „ „ IV. 26.
„ 6. Pedlar's Song .. .. .. From "Achilles in Scyros."

Price 2s. net each.

CROSSING THE BAR. LAWRENCE KELLIE'S Popular Setting of TENNYSON'S Words. ARRANGED AS AN ANTHEM by EDWIN H. LEMARE. Price 6d.

THE BENEDICITE.—Set to music by EDWIN H. LEMARE (in B flat), price 3d. net; and ARTHUR E. GODFREY (in C), price 3d. net. THE PATER NOSTER. Composed for the celebration of the Holy Communion, by EDWIN H. LEMARE. Price 3d. net. THREE KYRIES, and A SEVENFOLD AMEN. By ARTHUR E. GODFREY. Price 3d. net.

6, NEW BURLINGTON ST., LONDON, W.

MESSRS. BARTH & BLACK

CONCERT AGENTS

A MUSICAL AGENCY UNDER PROFESSIONAL DIRECTION.

Messrs. BARTH and BLACK are Agents for—

THE LADY VOCAL QUARTET,
THE WALENN STRING QUARTET,
THE CELIA MALE VOICE QUARTET,

AND

THE ENGLISH OPERA SINGERS

(Operatic Concert Party under the direction of Mr. BROUGHTON BLACK).

Concerts arranged. Tours booked. Vocal and Instrumental Soloists of the highest class provided for every description of Concerts and Musical Performances. A Full Orchestra furnished at short notice. Special Parties for Oratorios, Operas, and Costume Recitals. Artists carefully selected for At Homes, Garden Parties, &c.

BARTH and BLACK, 2, Oxford Mansions, Oxford Street, W.

MR. JOHN REDDING (Principal Baritone, J. W. Turner's English Opera Company) disengaged from June 16 until July 22. Was specially engaged by Madame Adelina Patti for her Neath Concert last August. All communications respecting Oratorio or Ballad Concerts for next season to be addressed to 20, Algernon Road, Birmingham.

MR. ARNOLD BIRCH, Music Studio, 57, Regent Street, W.—LESSONS in VOICE PRODUCTION.—Master BUTTERFIELD may be engaged for Church Festivals, &c. A Book of new Kyries, Chants, and Hymn Tunes, 6d.; Technical Exercises for Pianoforte, 3s. By ARNOLD BIRCH.

ZITHER, MANDOLINE, and VIOLIN LESSONS given by Herr HENKE, at his own or pupils' residence. Terms moderate. Great selection of Zithers and Zither music always in stock. Zither strings at 3d. each; or, 2s. 9d. per doz. Address, 36, Oxford Street, W.

CONTENTS.

	Page
The Music of "Falstaff"	265
Some Old Programmes	267
From my Study	268
Music and Manners	270
Thomas Wingham	270
Occasional Notes	272
Facts, Rumours, and Remarks	273
Drury Lane Opera	277
Royal Choral Society	277
Philharmonic Society	277
Crystal Palace Concerts	278
Royal Artillery Band	278
M. Sauret's Concert	278
Madame Frickenhaus's Concert	278
Miss Dora Bright's Concerts	279
Royal Academy of Music	279
Festival in Winchester Cathedral	279
A Westmorland Eisteddfod	279
The Tonic Sol-fa Composition Club	280
Musical Association	280
Obituary	280
Music in Bristol	281
„ Dublin	282
„ Edinburgh and East of Scotland	282
„ Glasgow	283
„ Liverpool	283
„ Manchester	284
„ Sheffield and District	284
„ Wilts and Hants	291
„ Yorkshire	291
„ America	292
Evening Anthem—"Crossing the Bar." Rev. H. H. Woodward	285
General News (London)	292
Reviews	295
Foreign Notes	297
Correspondence	299
Answers to Correspondents	299
General News (Country)	299
List of Music published during the last Month	302

THE MUSICAL TIMES.

SCALE OF TERMS FOR ADVERTISEMENTS.

	£	s.	d.
Two Lines	0	3	0
Three Lines	0	3	4
For every additional Line	0	0	10
Half a Column	2	0	0
A Column	4	0	0
A Page	7	10	0

Special Pages (Cover, &c.) by arrangement.

A remittance should be sent with each Advertisement.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

To ensure insertion Advertisements should reach the Office

NOT LATER THAN THE

TWENTY-SECOND

OF EACH MONTH.

ORGANIST for St. Peter's, Regent Square. Communicant. Choral celebrations. £20 a year to commence. Vicar, 1A, Russell Square, W.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER WANTED, for St. Martin's Church, Haverfordwest, South Wales. Choral Celebrations and Catholic Services. Must be an efficient trainer. Good field for first-class Teacher. Stipend, £40. Apply, Vicar.

THE ORGANIST and PRECENTOR of MUSIC for Church of the English Embassy, Moscow, who has passed the practical part of the F.C.O., desires RE-ENGAGEMENT either in England or abroad. Address, G. Tomling, English Church, Moscow; or, College of Organists, Hart Street, Bloomsbury, W.C.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER desires APPOINTMENT, London or Country; at present holding appointment as Organist and Choirmaster of a West-End Church. Excellent references. Has had the honour of giving private Organ Recitals before the Court. W. F., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER seeks APPOINTMENT. Can Tune. Excellent testimonials. Twelve years present post. A. Burton, Organist, Egerton, Kent

WANTED, Ladies and Gentlemen (gratuitously), as SOLOISTS, for special Sunday Evening Musical Services at a well-known South London Church. Organist, 35, Oakley Road, Canonbury, N.

ACCOMPANIST (Lady) desires ENGAGEMENTS. Experienced. Good reader. Concerts, At Homes, &c., or for Private Practice. A. T., 2, Penn Road Villas, Camden Road, N.

THE ORGANIST and CHOIRMASTER (F.C.O., L.R.A.M.) of a well-known London Church will shortly be open to accept a similar APPOINTMENT. Communicant. Excellent testimonials and references. Address, H. H., Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

AN ORGANIST is open to DEPUTISE during the Summer, in or near London. Address, F. R. S., 10, Cosmo Place, W.C.

MANAGER REQUIRED, for a PIANOFORTE and MUSIC BUSINESS on the South Coast. Apply, giving experience, and enclosing testimonials and carte, to Viola, Messrs. Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

WANTED, for town and country work, a thoroughly efficient PIANOFORTE TUNER, who understands American Organs and Harmoniums. Must be steady and trustworthy. Apply, stating age, salary required, with references and photo, to J. Bentley, Beethoven House, Nantwich.

PIANO TUNER and REGULATOR.—A thoroughly good FINE TUNER WANTED, for Town work. Also good Tuner for Country work. Characters must bear strictest investigation. Send photo and fullest particulars, Duck, Son and Pinker, Bath.

PIANOFORTE TUNER open to ENGAGEMENT. Experienced. Good references. Thorney, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TUNER, RENOVATOR, and REPAIRER.—Pianos, American Organs, Harmoniums, and Small Goods Repairer. Gentlemanly, steady, and reliable. Seeks Engagement soon. Married; aged 37. Address, Tuner, 29, Robinson Street, West Hartlepool.

AN ASSISTANT.—Young Man seeks SITUATION in Music Warehouse. Well educated; fair pianist; good appearance: good reference. E. W., Wood View, Weston-super-Mare.

TUNERS, REPAIRERS, &c., requiring Tuning Hammers, Kits (guaranteed), or TOOLS of any description. Reeds, Fittings, Materials. Please send for my complete Price List. Karl Wagenhaus, 2, City Road, Hulme, Manchester.

TUNER and REPAIRER of Pianofortes, American Organs, and Harmoniums, wants SITUATION. Aged 21. Address, A. H. Bailey, 31, Bridewell Street, Devizes.

TO ORGANISTS, CHOIRMASTERS, and others. Messrs. DENHAM and CO., by their Method, print Anthems, Services, and every description of Music, from twelve copies and upwards, at a trifling cost. Specimens and scale of charges free. Denham and Co., 28, Fenchurch Street, London. Est. 1872.

ORGAN for SALE (Second-hand). 5 stops. In handsome carved walnut case. R. Cope, 21, Jardin Street, Camberwell, S.E.

ORGANS.—Several New and Second-hand in Stock up to £500. Also Organs returned from Hire. 6 stops, blown by foot, 144 pipes, for small Churches, £30. W. Beales and Co., Organ Builders, Limes Road, Croydon.

CC ORGAN for SALE and HIRE, on easy terms of payment. Price very low. 3 manuals, 30 stops, 2 on pedals, 3 reeds. Apply, G. T., 23, Brunswick Street, Poplar.

BROADWOOD Short Drawing-room iron GRAND PIANO, in elegant walnut case. 7 octaves; full trichord. Tone, touch, and condition as new. A bargain, 60 guineas; cost 165 guineas. View at Mr. Fieldwick's, Organist, St. John's, Cromer House, Putney (near Railway Station).

GENUINE LUPOT VIOLIN, in fine condition. Price £80. Apply, Hart and Son, Wardour Street, London, W.

PIANOFORTE and SMALL GOODS BUSINESS (good Tuning connection) for DISPOSAL. Large Midland manufacturing town. Splendid opportunity for pushing man. Strictest investigation. Bargain, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

TO PROFESSORS of MUSIC.—Good TEACHING CONNECTION for SALE in the Eastern counties Organist's post might also be obtained. Address, Widow, Novello, Ewer and Co., 1, Berners Street, W.

COMPOSERS and CONDUCTORS may have their WORKS SCORED for large or small orchestra, by an experienced Musician. Address, Conductor, 26, Hatfield Street, New Cross.

Music published in best style at exceptionally low rates, and inserted in London publisher's catalogue.

TO MUSICAL STUDENTS.—BOARD and RESIDENCE. A thoroughly comfortable home is offered, at moderate and inclusive terms, with every facility for practice. Easy walking distance to Academy. References. 18, Ampthill Square, N.W.

TO CHORAL SOCIETIES, CHOIRS, &c.—For One Shilling we send (free) sample parcel of effective ANTHEMS, GLEES, all seasons. The Orpheus Music Publishing Company, 26, Moorfields, London, E.C. Write for lists.

AMATEURS and THEIR MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.—See May Musical Opinion and Music Trade Review. Also 200 columns of Musical Literature and Advertisements. Price 2d. Order at Book or Musicsellers; at Smith and Son's Railway Stalls; or (by post, 3½d.) at 150, Holborn Bars, London, E.C.

COUNTERPOINT. By J. H. Lewis, Mus.D., D.C.L. In the Press; will shortly be ready. In cloth, 3s. 6d. net. First list of subscribers (2s. 6d. Post-free) will be published next month. Address, the Author, Silvermead, Twickenham, S.W.

PREVENT US, O LORD.—A Short Anthem for Special and General Use. By John A. Metcalfe. Price Threepence. Copies from the Composer, Gainsborough, Yorkshire; or, London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

THE

ELEMENTS OF MUSIC

BY

GEORGE L. ALLAN.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

BOEKELMAN'S EDITION

OF

BACH'S FUGUES

Printed in Colours.

In this Edition the essential parts of each Fugue—viz., Subject, Answer, Counter-subject, Episodes, &c., are each printed in a distinct colour, with a view to helping the Student to a clear understanding of the structure and form of the composition.

Book I. contains—

Vol. 1.	Fugue 3, C sharp major.	Vol. 1.	Fugue 10, E minor.
„ 1.	Fugue 4, C sharp minor.	„ 2.	Fugue 7, E flat.

Book II. contains—

Vol. 1.	Fugue 1, in C.	Vol. 1.	Fugue 21, in B flat.
„ 1.	Fugue 7, in E flat.	„ 1.	Fugue 22, in B flat minor.

Price Two Shillings net each Fugue.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.
Sole Agents for Great Britain and the Colonies.

THE

MUSIC MASTER'S REGISTER

AND

PUPIL'S RECORD

BY

ARTHUR T. AKEROYD.

SAVES TIME FOR THE MASTER.
SAVES TIME FOR THE PUPIL.
SAVES TIME FOR THE PARENTS.

Will be found equally useful to Elementary and Advanced Pupils.
Will be found equally useful to Pianists, Vocalists, Organists, and Violinists.
Will be found equally useful for a course of Ten, Twelve, or Thirteen Lessons.
The Method is simplicity itself and shows at a glance the progress made by the Pupil at any period of the Term.
CLOTH CARDS, 3s. PER DOZEN.
Usual terms to the Profession.
London: Musical News Office, 130, Fleet Street.
London: Weekes and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.

ANTHEMS for WHITSUNTIDE.

And all the people saw	J. Stainer	6d.
And when the day of Pentecost	Charles W. Smith	3d.
*As pants the hart	Spohr	1½d.
*Come, Holy Ghost	T. Attwood	1½d.
Come, Holy Ghost	J. L. Hatton	3d.
Come, Holy Ghost	George Elvey	4d.
*God came from Teman	C. Steggall	4d.
*God is a Spirit	W. S. Bennett	6d.
Grieve not the Holy Spirit	J. Stainer	3d.
Holy Spirit, come, O come (Ad spiritum Sanctum)	G. C. Martin	1½d.
I was in the Spirit	Blow	6d.
If ye love Me	C. S. Heap	1½d.
*If ye love Me	W. H. Monk	1½d.
*If ye love Me	Tallis	1½d.
*If ye love Me	R. P. Stewart	1½d.
In my Father's House	J. Maude Crament	3d.
It shall come to pass	G. Garrett	6d.
*Let not your heart be troubled	H. G. Trembath	3d.
*O Holy Ghost, into our minds	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
*Oh! for a closer walk with God	Myles B. Foster	1½d.
Praised be the Lord daily	J. B. Calkin	1½d.
There is no condemnation	H. S. Irons	3d.
When God of old came down from Heaven	Rev. E. V. Hall	3d.
We will rejoice	Croft	4d.

TRINITYTIDE.

Beloved, let us love one another	Gerard F. Cobb	1½d.
Beloved, if God so loved us	J. Barnby	1½d.
*Blessed is the man	John Goss	4d.
Blessing and Glory	Boyce	1½d.
*God so loved the world	Matthew Kingston	1½d.
Grant, O Lord	Mozart	1½d.
*Holy, holy, holy	Crotch	3d.
How goodly are Thy tents	F. Ouseley	1½d.
How lovely are Thy dwellings	Spohr	1½d.
*I am Alpha and Omega	J. Stainer	1½d.
I beheld, and lo!	Blow	6d.
I know that the Lord is great	F. Ouseley	1½d.
*In humble faith	G. Garrett	1½d.
*In Jewry is God known	J. Clarke-Whitfeld	1½d.
In sweet consent	E. H. Thorne	3d.
In the fear of the Lord	J. V. Roberts	3d.
I saw the Lord	J. Stainer	6d.
I will magnify	J. Shaw	3d.
I will sing of Thy power	Greene	4d.
*I will sing of Thy power	A. Sullivan	1½d.
I will sing unto the Lord	H. Wareing	3d.
*Lord, we pray Thee	J. V. Roberts	1½d.
O Father blest	J. Barnby	3d.
*O taste and see	J. Goss	3d.
*O taste and see	A. Sullivan	1½d.
O taste and see	A. H. Mann	3d.
*Stand up and bless	J. Goss	4d.
*The Lord is my Shepherd	G. A. Macfarren	1½d.
The Lord is my Shepherd	J. Shaw	3d.
The Lord will comfort Zion	H. Hiles	6d.
Thou shalt show me the path of life	Alan Gray	1½d.
Whatsoever is born of God	H. Oakeley	3d.

Anthems marked thus * may be had in Tonic Sol-fa, 1d. to 2d. each.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE

OFFICE FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION

(Including Benedictus qui venit and Agnus Dei)

Set to music in the key of A flat

BY

BASIL HARWOOD.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

FOR WHITSUNTIDE OR GENERAL USE.

O GOD, MY SOUL THIRSTETH. Anthem. By F. R. GREENISH, Mus.D., Oxon. 6th Thousand. Price 3d.

Popular everywhere. Perfectly easy. Expressive solo for Treble or Tenor. Sung at the Bedford (1888) and Launceston (1891) Choral Association Festivals.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in D. Price 3d. Bright in style, very melodious throughout, and free from difficulty. Composed for the re-opening of St. Mary's, Haverfordwest, 1889.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Third Thousand.

VESPER HYMN. To be sung after Evensong. Words and music by George Kett. "A very charming hymn-tune."—Sir John Stainer. On card. Price One Penny.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Words alone, for congregational use, One Shilling per hundred, of the Author, 100, Gordon Road, Nunhead, S.E.

ANTHEM or MOTET for Chorus, &c., and Orchestra or Organ, THE GLORY OF LEBANON. Composed by Sir Herbert Oakeley for the recent Eighth Centenary of the Consecration of Winchester Cathedral. Price 1s. 6d. net. Orchestral Score and Parts may be had from the Composer.

London: Schott and Co.; or from the Composer, Dover.

POPULAR FESTIVAL ANTHEMS

BY

E. A. SYDENHAM.

THE LORD IS MY LIGHT	(Tonic Sol-fa, 1½d.)	3d.
GREAT IS THE LORD	(Ditto 1½d.)	3d.
O GIVE THANKS	(Ditto 1½d.)	3d.
SING UNTO THE LORD	(Ditto 1½d.)	3d.

The above Anthems are especially suitable for Church Festivals.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

CHURCH MUSIC

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

ANTHEMS.

Easter.—"If we believe."	Four voices	4d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.
Whitsunday.—"If ye love Me."	Four voices	3d.
" "I will magnify Thee"	"	3d.
" " "	Tonic Sol-fa	1½d.

SERVICES.

Te Deum laudamus in E.	Chant form	3d.
Benedictus and Jubilate in E	"	3d.
	Tonic Sol-fa.
Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F		1½d.
" " "	A	1½d.
" " "	E	1½d.

HYMNS.

Sing to the Lord. With words	1d.
Twenty-four Original Hymn Tunes	6d.
Twelve Original Hymn Tunes	3d.
Amen (on Card)	1d.

ORGAN.

Twelve Short and Easy Pieces for the Organ	net 2s. 0d.
Ave Maria	" 1s. 6d.
Largo in E flat	" 1s. 0d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

COMPOSITIONS by VINCENT MORGAN.

O LORD, HAVE MERCY—Anthem for Baritone Solo and Chorus, suitable for Festival or general use. Price Sixpence.

"A charming Anthem with several beautiful climaxes."

PRAISE WAITETH FOR THEE, O GOD. Full Anthem. Price Threepence.

"It is thoroughly singable, devotional, and effective."

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Ready this day.

ALEXANDRE GUILMANT

COMMUNION SERVICE in E flat

(3me MESSE, Op. 11)

For Four Voices, Solos and Chorus, with Orchestra or Organ.

THE ENGLISH ADAPTATION BY

THOMAS ADAMS, Organist, St. Alban's, Holborn,

AND

The Rev. JAMES BADEN POWELL, M.A., Precentor, St. Paul's, Knightsbridge.

Vocal score. Price 5s. net.
Vocal parts. Each 6d. net.
Orchestral score } are in the Press.
Orchestral parts }

Schott and Co., 159, Regent Street, London, W.

MASS in C

FOR SOLO VOICES, CHORUS & ORCHESTRA

BY

ELIZ. A. NUNN.

Price Two Shillings.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

NEW TUNES (Seven) for Sunday School Festivals and Anniversaries. Music, 7s. per 100; words, 2s Special title-page free for quantities. Send stamp for sample to Sunday School Union, 1, Piccadilly, Manchester.

ANTHEM for WHITSUNTIDE.—"I will greatly rejoice in the Lord." Music by Benjamin Congreve. Price 3d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published. Inscribed to Sir George Elvey, Mus. Doc.

VESPER HYMN and FINAL AMEN. To be sung, kneeling, after the Blessing. Price 1d.; to be had of the Composer, H. R. Couldrey, Trinity Place, Windsor; or,

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

New Whitsunday Anthems, &c.

BY

EDWYN A. CLARE.

These compositions are effective and not difficult.

AND WHEN THE DAY OF PENTECOST 3rd thousand .. .. 3d.

THE EYES OF ALL. 17th 1,000. (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. 3d.
Sung by 1,500 Voices at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

THE LORD REIGNETH. New. (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. 3d.
PRAISE THE LORD, O JERUSALEM. 10th 1,000 .. .. .. 3d.
Sung by 400 Voices at Doncaster.

Two easy Anthems, suitable for any Festival or special service.

MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN D. 5th 1,000 .. .. .. 4d.
Full of vigour and flowing melody.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

WHITSUNDAY ANTHEMS, &c.

BY CALEB SIMPER.

Interesting, attractive, popular, easy, melodious, and effective.

LET NOT YOUR HEART BE TROUBLED. 9th edition .. .. .. 3d.
DAY OF PENTECOST. 11th 1,000. IF YE LOVE ME. 7th 1,000 each 3d.
WHAT SHALL I RENDER. 5th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. .. 4d.
FEAR NOT, O LAND. 24th 1,000 (Sol-fa, 2d.) .. .. 3d.
GIVE GLORY. 11th Edition. O HOW AMIABLE. New .. each 3d.
NEW EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN G (Sol-fa, 4d.) .. 4d.
NEW TE DEUM IN G. 6th edition .. .. 4d.
NEW MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN G. 5th edition .. 4d.
TE DEUM IN F. 21st edition .. .. 3d.
MAGNIFICAT AND NUNC DIMITTIS IN F. 45th edition .. .. 4d.
EASY HOLY COMMUNION SERVICE IN E FLAT. 7th 1,000 .. .. 4d.

London: WEEKES and Co., 14, Hanover Street, Regent Street, W.
Chicago, U.S.A.: CLAYTON F. SUMMY, 174, Wabash Avenue.

Just Published.

NEW ANTHEM.

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD

FOR FOUR VOICES

BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, MUS.D., CANTAB.

Price Threepence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

COMPOSITIONS

BY

T. MEE PATTISON.

CANTATAS.	Staff. s. d.	Sol-fa. s. d.
The Ancient Mariner	2 6	0 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
The Lay of the Last Minstrel	2 6
Do. do. (Choruses only)	1 0
May Day	1 0	0 6
The Miracles of Christ (Sacred)	1 0	0 6
ANTHEMS, &c.
All Thy works praise Thee (Harvest)	0 3	0 1½
Thou visitest the earth (Harvest)	0 2
I know that my Redeemer liveth (Easter)	0 3
There were shepherds (Christmas)	0 2
Thirteen Offertory Sentences	0 4
Six Kyries	0 2
Te Deum laudamus (in F)	0 3

ORIGINAL ORGAN COMPOSITIONS.

Fifteen Introductory and Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 3s. 6d.
Five Concluding Voluntaries .. .. 1s. 6d.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

SOLEMN TE DEUM in D, by FRANK ADLAM (Organist of St. Thomas's, Regent Street), for Dedication and Harvest Festivals, Choral gatherings, and general use. Price Threepence. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co. Send 1d. stamp for specimen, to COMPOSER, 13, Ampthill Square, N.W.

SIX SETTINGS OF THE KYRIE ELEISON

COMPOSED BY

P. TOTTENHAM LUCAS, B.A.

"They are all good, quiet, devotional, with smooth four-part harmonic progressions, eminently suitable for the solemn response to the Commandments."—Church Musician.

"Will be useful to organists, as they are musicianly, tuneful, and appropriate."—Musical Standard.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Price Twopence. Specimen copy sent Post-free by the COMPOSER, Rhossili Rectory, Swansea.

THE BRISTOL TUNE BOOK

EDITION 1891.

Containing 905 Tunes and Chants.

NOW READY.

THIRD SERIES, including Supplement 1881, containing 190 Tunes and 118 varieties of metre.

A COMPANION TO ALL HYMN BOOKS.

EDITION 1881.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 9.	Limp Cloth	4 0	No. 11.	Small Edition ..	3 0
„ 10.	Cloth Boards, red edges	5 0	„ 12.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 0

THIRD SERIES.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 13.	Limp Cloth ..	2 0	No. 16.	Tonic Sol-fa, limp cloth	1 6
„ 15.	Small Edition, limp cloth	1 6

COMPLETE EDITION, 1891.

		s. d.			s. d.
No. 17.	Limp Cloth ..	5 0	No. 19.	Small Edition ..	3 6
„ 18.	Cloth Boards, red edges	6 0	„ 20.	Tonic Sol-fa ..	3 6

Communications and enquiries as to copyright, and also as to supplying at reduced prices, may be addressed to the Bristol Publishers.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.
Bristol: W. AND F. MORGAN, Clare Street.
And all Booksellers and Musicsellers.

Price 3s. 6d., cloth, red edges.

THE TUNE BOOK, with the additional Tunes as used at ST. ALBAN'S, HOLBORN, containing nearly 270 Tunes, for Long, Common, Short, and Peculiar Metres; together with several Gregorian Hymns and Antiphons; the Eight Gregorian Tones; the Music of the Reproaches; the Seven Last Words; and Litany Tunes, &c. London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

FOR MALE VOICE CHOIR.—THE NATIONAL ANTHEM, price 4d.; JUBILEE ODE, price 6d. net. By GEORGE RISELEY.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Twenty-third Edition.

JOULE'S COLLECTION OF 527 CHANTS, 57 RESPONSES, &c. Reduced price, 4s. 6d., paper cover; 6s., limp cloth; separate vocal parts, 2s. each.—Tonic Sol-fa Notation, Score, 1s. 6d.

The Chants are selected with due reference to the position of the Reciting-note.

THE PSALTER, PROPER PSALMS, HYMNS, and CANTICLES. Pointed for Chanting by B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Large type, price 2s. 6d. This Psalter, having been collated with the Sealed Books, is free from the errors contained in all other pointed Psalters, through printing from the incorrect copies commonly sold by the Stationers.

Tenth Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 18mo, price 1s.; in cloth, 1s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

JOULE'S DIRECTORIUM CHORI ANGLICANUM. 4to, in cloth, elegant, price 7s. 6d.

Seventh Edition.

THE ORDER FOR THE HOLY COMMUNION. Harmonised on a Monotone in a very simple manner for Parochial use. By B. ST. J. B. JOULE. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Third Thousand.

MAGNIFICAT and NUNC DIMITTIS in E flat, by WILLIAM S. VINNING, Mus. Bac., Cantab. Price 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

THE

GREAT DAY OF THE LORD

SACRED CANTATA

MUSIC BY W. CLARK AINLEY,
Mus. Bac., Cantab.

SUITABLE FOR CONCERT-ROOM OR CHURCH.

Price, in paper cover, 2s.; in paper boards, 3s.; in scarlet cloth, gilt, 4s.
London: HART and Co., 22, Paternoster Row, E.C.
Leeds: ARCHIBALD RAMSDEN.
Huddersfield: WOOD and MARSHALL.

PERFORMED AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

MASS IN D

FOR SOLO VOICES (OR SMALL CHORUS), CHORUS, AND ORCHESTRA

BY

ANTONÍN DVOŘÁK.

The Pianoforte Accompaniment arranged from the Full Score by

BERTHOLD TOURS.

PRICE TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

Full Score and Orchestral Parts, MS.

TIMES.

The most remarkable sections of the Mass in D are the Kyrie, with its well-contrasted "Christe eleison" for solo quartet or small choir; the curiously dogmatic opening of the Credo, in which an alto solo, originally designed for four voices in unison, seems to usurp some of the functions of the priest; and the beautiful Agnus Dei, with its striking close in which a theme of four descending quavers is treated with much success. The effect of this passage is greatly heightened by the division of the soprano choir into three for a short time.

DAILY TELEGRAPH.

There are no serious difficulties for executants to surmount, while the expression of the music is so plain and direct that it can be felt and appreciated by all. For the result last named it may be that we have to thank the conditions under which the work was written. The unfettered Dvorák, as a composer of sacred music, appears in the Birmingham Requiem, with which simplicity is not even on speaking terms. Here, on the other hand, comparative simplicity was essential, and in the result we have that which will rank as an exemplification of high art in a form generally attractive. . . . We welcome this Mass with peculiar pleasure. It is a most useful work, and will be everywhere a pleader, eloquent and intelligible, not only for the solemnities of religion, but for the beauty and sufficiency of pure art.

STANDARD.

Naturally, the Mass is not planned on the same extensive scale as the "Stabat Mater" and the Requiem, being, indeed, studiously non-pretentious throughout, and occupying less than an hour in performance; but it is in no sense unworthy of the gifted Bohemian composer. . . . There are many passages of marked originality and beauty, the composer being invariably at his best when he is concerned with the most mysterious dogmas of the Catholic Church.

DAILY NEWS.

The Mass is perhaps hardly so characteristic of its composer as his larger sacred compositions; but, on the other hand, being written for a comparatively small church, it is more concise, and presents fewer choral difficulties. It is therefore likely to become popular with ordinary choirs, the more especially as, if desirable, the services of expensive soloists may be dispensed with altogether, their parts being sung by a semi-chorus. Some portions of the music are more or less conventional, but this cannot be said of the setting of the Nicene Creed, parts of which are almost secular in character, while frequently—at the "Crucifixus," for example—the master-touch is obvious.

DAILY CHRONICLE.

The Mass in D is concise and free from commonplace motives and effects tending to detract from its religious object. . . . The final Agnus Dei peacefully brings to a close a work that is marked by sincere devotional feeling rather than by power, and as executive difficulties are throughout absent, there is nothing to stand in the way of its adoption by choral associations with limited means. Taken as a whole, the work is certainly worthy of Dvorák.

GLOBE.

The new work was heartily welcomed, and proved worthy of its able composer, by whom it was last year re-written, so far as concerned the instrumentation. It cannot be said that the Mass presents any novel features, but the score contains many passages worthy of praise. The music is always in character with the words to which it is attached, and the Credo (notably the "Incarnatus" section) and the Agnus Dei may rank among the best efforts of the gifted composer.

SUNDAY TIMES.

The Mass, which is its composer's Opus 86, bears evidence throughout of an endeavour to avoid technical difficulties such as might place it beyond the reach of an executive body of limited resources. This is unusual with Dvorák, and it may explain in a measure the absence of certain features that characterise his choral writing as a rule. The progressions are comparatively simple; sudden modulations are rare; the development of the subjects is seldom extended to half Dvorák's usual length, and certain portions of the setting are treated with a brevity which for him is altogether remarkable. Hence a work which a child could follow with ease on first hearing. But it is not on that account less interesting, nor, we may add, is it less charged with the individuality of style and the beauty and appropriateness of sentiment that Dvorák has taught us to look for in all his religious works, from the "Stabat Mater" downwards. . . . The charm of the whole is irresistible, and we think that the latest is destined to be among the most popular of the choral works that have emanated from the pen of the Bohemian genius.

ATHENÆUM.

Having regard to the special object for which it was composed, it is not surprising to find the Mass concise, unpretentious, and far less arduous for the executants than the "Stabat Mater" or the Requiem; but it is not less characteristic of Dvorák, several of the simplest passages being remarkable as displaying alike his musical idiosyncrasies and his religious fervour.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

SPRING SONGS

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

A. P. GRAVES

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

A. C. MACKENZIE

(Op. 44).

CONTENTS.

The first rose.
Hope.
Spring's Secrets.
Spring is not dead.
April weather.
A May Song.
Summer at last.

Price Two Shillings and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

JUST PUBLISHED.

PROGRESSIVE STUDIES

FOR THE VOICE

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

IN TWO PARTS.

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (LOW VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (LOW VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (HIGH VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (HIGH VOICE).

PART I.—STUDIES IN SUSTAINED SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).
PART II.—STUDIES IN FLORID SINGING (MEDIUM VOICE).

PRICE FOUR SHILLINGS EACH PART.

LONDON & NEW YORK: NOVELLO, EWER AND CO.

Just Published.

ASK WHAT THOU WILT

SONG

THE WORDS WRITTEN BY

M. C. GILLINGTON

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

HARVEY LÖHR.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

CROSSING THE BAR. Song. Compass, D flat to E flat. Composed by VYVYAN WALLIS POPHAM. Price 2s. net. REID BROS., 436, Oxford Street, W.

JUST PUBLISHED.—The two Final Songs in LORD TENNYSON'S PRINCESS: "Now sleeps the crimson petal" and the Shepherd's Idyll, "Come down, O maid," the latter with Flute obbligato. Also the "Bugle" Song (new edition). Composed by Sir HERBERT OAKELEY.
London: SCHOTT and Co., 159, Regent Street.

Just Published.

SHOUGGIE SHOU, MY BAIRNIE

A MITHER'S SANG

The Words written by J. WILSON M'LAREN

THE MUSIC COMPOSED BY

G. HENSCHEL.

Price Two Shillings net.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

NEW MUSIC by T. E. SPINNEY. Words by AMY THORN. THE SINGER, NOT THE SONG. Price 2s. net. (One of the prettiest songs of the day.)
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Just Published.

FIFTEEN VOCALISES

A SEQUEL TO THE

TWENTY-FIVE LESSONS FOR THE MEDIUM PART OF THE VOICE

BY

J. CONCONE.

Edited, with Marks of Expression and Phrasing, by ALBERTO RANDEGGER.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

IMMENSE SUCCESS.

HOME SCENES

BY

JOHN FRANCIS BARNETT.

NINE NEW ORIGINAL PIECES FOR THE PIANO.

CONTENTS:

WELCOME HOME
GRANDFATHER'S LEGEND
THE OLD VIOLIN
CHILDREN'S DANCE
CRICKET ON THE HEARTH.
FIRESIDE TALE
FALLING SHADOWS
CRADLE SONG
MERRY MAKING.

Review—"Some of the most melodious and pleasing pieces we have seen." May be obtained of all musicsellers. Price 3s.
PATEY AND WILLIS, 44, Great Marlborough Street, London, W.

MARCH OF THE MEN OF ULSTER

UNIONIST CHORUS.

SET TO MUSIC BY

J. ARMSTRONG.

Price Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

HUMOROUS PART-SONGS, by ALFRED ALLEN.
Dickory, dickory, dock .. .. 4d.
Tom, Tom, the Piper's son .. .. .. 3d.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

GILL'S EASY VOLUNTARIES.—"Messiah," "Judas," "Elijah," "Creation," "St. Paul." 1s. each set of twenty Voluntaries.
London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

ALL VIOLINISTS should send a Post Card to ALPHONSE CARY, Clapham Junction, S.W., for a copy of his new ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST, which contains many novelties and much useful information.

FOR SALE, a large Quantity of ORATORIOS, Operas, Bound Music, and Musical Literature. Write for List. Mr. Herbert N. Green, The Chesnuts, Brighton Rd., Sutton, Surrey.

Just Published.

SONGS

WITH PIANOFORTE ACCOMPANIMENT

COMPOSED BY

W. A. MOZART.

THE ENGLISH VERSION BY THE REV. J. TROUTBECK, D.D.

CONTENTS

The Enchanter.
The Violet.
Parting and Meeting.
When evening falls.
To Chloe.
Unhappy Love.
Longing for the Spring.
The oncoming of Spring.
Children at play.
Cupid awakened.
Uncertainty.
Happy friendship.
Why climb.
Worldless woe.
To Loneliness.
Arete.
The Little Spinner.
Life's Journey.
Contentment.

Price One Shilling and Sixpence.

London and New York: NOVELLO, EWER and Co.

Select Compositions from the Great Masters

ARRANGED FOR THE ORGAN

BY

ARTHUR HENRY BROWN.

No.		No.
1	Wedding March .. .. .. Mendelssohn	2	March from "Tannhäuser" .. .. .. Wagner
3	Marches from "Scipio" and Occasional Overture Handel	4	Coronation March from "Le Prophète" Meyerbeer
5	Dead March in "Saul," and See the conquering Handel	6	Andantino from 11th Grand Symphony .. Haydn Waft her, angels, from "Jephtha" .. .. Handel
7	As pants the hart, from "The Crucifixion" Louis Spohr Where'er you walk, from "Semele" .. Handel	8	My heart ever faithful ("Mein gläubiges Herze frohlocke") .. .. Bach
9	Andantino from 5th, and Andante from 4th Sonatas Pleyel	10	The Hero's March .. .. .. Mendelssohn
11	Quis est homo, from "Stabat Mater" .. Rossini	12	Air et chœur, from "La Dame Blanche" Boieldieu
13	Grande Marche héroique, in C .. F. Schubert	14	Grande Marche héroique in D .. F. Schubert
15	Overture, "Berenice" .. .. Handel	16	Overture, "Sosarmes" .. .. .. Handel
17	Overture, "Alcina" .. .. Handel	18	Gavotte, from Overture "Otho" .. .. Handel
19	La Carità .. .. Rossini	20	Angels ever bright, and Pious orgies .. Handel
21	Ave Maria .. .. Schubert	22	Aria (circa A.D. 1700) .. .. .. Antonio Lotti
23	My soul thirsteth for God, Aria from 42nd Psalm Mendelssohn	24	Gloria in excelsis, from Mass in G .. .. Weber
25	Fac ut portem, from "Stabat Mater" .. Rossini	26	Pièta signore, from Oratorio "San Giovanni Battista" .. ..Stradella
27	Overture to "Julius Cæsar" .. .. .. Handel	28	Serenade .. .. F. Schubert
29	Aria (1765) .. .. Gluck	30	Aria from "Alcina" .. .. Handel
31	Aria from "Artaserse" (1730) .. Leonardo Vinci	32	Cantata .. .. Alessandro Scarlatti
33	Aria (1769) .. .. Gluck	34	Aria (1784) .. .. .. Domenico Cimarosa
35	Diedi il core (Aria) .. .. Handel	36	Siciliana .. .. Long
37	Andante .. .. Long Adagio .. .. Keeble	38	Aria (1763) .. .. Padre Martini
39	Kyrie eleison, from Mass in G .. ..Schubert	40	Aria (1767) .. .. Gluck
41	Sanctus and Hosanna, from Mass, Op. 43 .. André	42	Last Chorus from "Mount of Olives" Beethoven
43	He shall feed His flock, from "Messiah" .. Handel	44	Quoniam tu solus (1788) .. Vincenzo Righini
45	Hallelujah Chorus, from "Messiah" .. Handel	46	Turn Thy face, Then shall I teach, I will magnify Thee, from Anthems J. Weldon
47	The heavens are telling, from "Creation".. Haydn	48	Andante and Allegretto from Violin Sonata in A major .. .. Handel
49	Slow movement, from Symphony (36) .. Haydn	50	Andante con Variazioni from the Notturno, Op. 34 Louis Spohr
51	Wie nahte mir der Schlummer C. M. von Weber Aria .. ..Comte de St. Germain	52	Marche solennelle, Op. 40 .. .. F. Schuber
53	Adagio from the Notturno, Op. 34 .. Louis Spohr	54	Ave Maria, from the Evening Service, Book 7 Cherubini
55	Overture to "Samson" and Minuet (1742).. Handel	56	The arm of the Lord .. .. Haydn
57	Deh lascia o core, from "Astianatte" (1727) Giovanni Buononcini	58	Gloria in excelsis, from Mass No. 2, in G ..Schubert
59	Il pensier sta negli oggetti, Aria (1792) .. Haydn	60	Gloria in excelsis, from Twelfth Mass .. Mozart
61	How lovely are the messengers .. Mendelssohn	62	Notturno .. .. F. Kalkbrenner
63	Che farò senza Euridice .. .. Gluck	64	Aria in A flat .. .. Louis Spohr
65	Cujus animam .. .. Rossini	66	Air and Gavotte from Orchestral Suite J. S. Bach
67	Aria .. .. Antonio Sacchini	68	Aria in B flat, and Adagio in B minor Louis Spohr
69	Valli profonde .. .. .. Marco da Gagliano	70	Mia speranza .. .. Giuseppe Sarti
71	Aria .. .. Baldassero Galuppi	72	Duetto .. .. Mendelssohn Padre perdona (Aria) .. .. .. Adolfo Hasse
73	Adagio patetico .. .. .. J. B. Cramer Cavatina in G minor .. .. .. Louis Spohr	74	Gloria in excelsis, from First Mass .. .. Haydn
75	Aria .. .. Marcantonio Cesti	76	Agnus Dei, from First Mass .. .. .. Mozart
77	Kyrie eleison, from Twelfth Mass .. .. Mozart	78	Vivace from Symphony in B flat .. .. Haydn
79	He was despised, and Comfort ye, My people Handel	80	I know that my Redeemer liveth .. .. Handel
81	Aria .. .. Antonio Sacchini	82	Neapolitan Air.. .. .. Author unknown
83	Mi restano le lagrime, from "Alcina" .. Handel	84	Andante from Sonatina .. .. .. Clementi Piangerò la sorte, "Giulio Cesare" .. Handel
85	With verdure clad .. .. Haydn	86	The marvellous work .. .. Haydn
87	O lovely peace .. .. Handel	88	Rentrée de la procession .. Alexandre Leprévost
89	Offertoire in C .. .. .. Alexandre Leprévost	90	Larghetto in A flat .. .. Alexandre Leprévost
91	Communion in B flat .. .. Alexandre Leprévost	92	Offertoire, or Sortie, in E flat Alexandre Leprévost
93	Voluntary in G major .. .. .. John Stanley	94	Voluntary in G minor.. .. .. John Stanley
95	Voluntary in D minor .. .. .. John Stanley	96	O Lord, remember, "Last Judgment" Louis Spohr
97	Andante (grand septuor) .. .. J. N. Hummel	98	On song's bright pinions .. .. Mendelssohn
99	Ja es soll mir Wonne schaffen .. Louis Spohr	100	Lang mögen die Theuren leben .. Louis Spohr
101	Marche Funèbre, from Sonata, Op. 35 .. Chopin	102	O rest in the Lord (Aria), and For the mountains shall depart, "Elijah" .. Mendelssohn
103	Adagio, from the Quartet, Op. 125, No. 1 F. Schubert	104	Thou shalt bring them in, "Israel in Egypt" Handel
105	Ja, hoffe, from "Faust" .. .. Louis Spohr	106	Stille noch dies Wuth verlangen .. Louis Spohr
107	March in "Samson" .. .. Handel	108	Barcarolle, Op. 135 .. .. .. Louis Spohr
109	I waited for the Lord, from "Hymn of Praise" Mendelssohn

PRICE THREE SHILLINGS EACH.

EDWIN ASHDOWN, LIMITED,

NEW YORK: 1 AND 3, UNION SQUARE.

LONDON: HANOVER SQUARE.

TORONTO: 68, KING STREET WEST.

Just Published.

AWAKE, PUT ON THY STRENGTH

NEW ANTHEM

BY

F. R. GREENISH, Mus.D., Oxon.

Price 4d. Tonic Sol-fa, 2d.

Composed for the Annual Festival of the Haverfordwest District Musical Association, 1893.

A most effective composition. Perfectly easy, yet full of variety, and extremely melodious throughout. The striking subject given to the tenors at the words "Thy watchmen shall lift up the voice"; the expressive soprano melody "For the Lord hath comforted," and the fine chorale, with its re-appearance for the voices in unison, in the final movement, are alone sufficient to ensure its popularity.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

DR. SPARK'S NEW WORKS

Including THE GRAND MARCH, composed in celebration of Leeds having been made a City. This piece is equally available for the Organ, Pianoforte, or Harmonium, and has been arranged effectively for a Brass Band or Mixed Orchestra. There is a photo of Leeds Town Hall on the title page. Published price, Four Shillings; can be obtained for Two at the principal Music Shops, or direct of the Composer.

NEW ANTHEM, "O Lord our Governour," set to the words of the Eighth Psalm—"Easy, melodious, and effective." Price 4d.

NEW TOCCATA for the ORGAN, with Pedal Obbligato. Composed for and performed by a Glasgow Organist. Price 3s.

POPULAR WHITSUNTIDE ANTHEM, "Now join we all in Chorus." Price 3d.

Three Sets of new "AMEN" CARDS for four voices. 1d. each.

Any of these works can be obtained from Dr. Spark, Newton Park, Leeds, but the order must be accompanied with the price (with the usual discount to the Profession and Trade) either in stamps or postal order.

NEW ORGAN MUSIC.

Just Published.

THREE SHORT PIECES:—

No. 1. Larghetto in A flat major.
„ 2. Allegretto Pastorale in A major.
„ 3. Andante con moto in F major.

Price Two Shillings net.

ALSO

"MINUETTO."

One Shilling and Sixpence net.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD BUNNETT, Mus.D., Cantab.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co

Just Published.

WATER-LILIES

(Wasserlilien)

A FAIRY SONG

BY

FELICIA HEMANS

Deutsche Uebertragung von L. Klein.

SET TO MUSIC BY

ED. SACHS.

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Just Published.

TWELVE EASY VOLUNTARIES

FOR THE

HARMONIUM

COMPOSED BY

MAX OESTEN.

(Op. 186.)

Price One Shilling.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THE TRAINING OF MEN'S VOICES, and the Secret of Voice-Production. By E. Davidson Palmer, Mus. Bac., Oxon. Third Edition. Price 6d. Post-free from the Author, 2, Highwood Road, Upper Holloway, N.; or, from the Publisher, Joseph Williams, 24, Berners Street, W.

TIME.—A Short Treatise on TIME, by Frank Manly, I.S.M. Dedicated to Sir Joseph Barnby. Patronised by the leading Members of the Musical Profession. Testimonials from Sir William Cusins, Professor Bridge, Mr. Sims Reeves, &c. Price 6d. London: F. Pitman, 20, Paternoster Row, E.C.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON BOY CHOIR TRAINING. By G. Edward Stubbs, M.A., Organist and Choirmaster of St. Agnes Chapel, Trinity Parish, New York.

Sixth Edition.

A useful treatise on the vocal training of Chorister Boys embodying the views of standard writers on the voice.

Although strictly scientific the book deals with the subject in a plain and practical way, and will be found of value to all who are entrusted with the training of boys' voices. It is highly endorsed by leading Clergymen and Choirmasters both in England and America. Price 3s. 6d. net.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

Second enlarged edition, with 38 illustrations. Price, in gilt cloth, 4s. net. (Stiff paper exhausted.)

WRIST AND FINGER GYMNASTICS

For STUDENTS of the PIANOFORTE, VIOLIN, ORGAN, and other instruments. By A. Leffler Arnim, author of "Health Maps."

Twenty minutes' daily practice of these exercises will reduce by two-thirds the usual necessary hours of mechanical practice. In addition to which the passive exercises assist in the cultivation of a refined and delicate touch.

Sir Chas. Hallé says: ". . . . I have no hesitation in saying that I think it most exhaustive and useful."

Mr. Arthur O'Leary says: ". . . . I am confident the exercises you recommend are likely to have the best results."

Signor Papini says: ". . . . Invaluable to anyone studying the violin or any other instrument requiring flexibility of the fingers."

NO INSTRUMENT WHATEVER REQUIRED.

Post-free from the Author, 2, Hinde Street, W.

HARMONY UNRAVELLED; or, the Neutra in Music. By Josef Varge. Three notes to a key, three keys to the scale; one chord, one name; like chords, like effects. 1s.; cloth, 1s. 6d.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

SUITE

FROM THE MUSIC TO SHAKESPEARE'S

HENRY VIII.

Composed for the production of the Play at the Lyceum Theatre, January, 1892,

By EDWARD GERMAN.

PIANOFORTE DUET.

Price Five Shillings net.

CONTENTS.

1. Overture.
2. Prelude to Act II. Intermezzo funèbre.
3. Prelude to Act III. Allegretto in G minor.
4. Prelude to Act IV. March in D.
5. Prelude to Act V. Thanksgiving Hymn.
6. Three Dances:—

I. Morris Dance. II. Shepherds' Dance. III. Torch Dance.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

THREE DANCES

FROM THE MUSIC TO HENRY VIII.

COMPOSED BY

EDWARD GERMAN.

Arranged for the Pianoforte by the Composer.

Price Two Shillings.

String Parts, 4s. Wind Parts, 7s. 6d.

Arrangement for Violin and Pianoforte, 3s.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

In the Press.

CANTATA

SET TO ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON'S POEM

CROSSING THE BAR

For Full Orchestra, Chorus, and Pianoforte

By ALFRED HARBOROUGH.

Vocal Score, with the Orchestral Score arranged for two performers on the Pianoforte, 2s. 6d.; String Parts, 5s.; Wind Parts in the Press.

Full Score on application to the Publishers.

London and New York: Novello, Ewer and Co.

ORIGINAL COMPOSITIONS FOR THE ORGAN.

No.			s.	d.
1.	Two Introductory Voluntaries	George J. Bennett	1	0
2.	Three Andantes	Hamilton Clarke	2	0
3.	Postlude (Christmas)	G. M. Garrett	1	6
4.	Andante con moto	G. M. Garrett	1	0
5.	Interlude for Advent	Oliver King	1	0
6.	Prelude for Lent, Op. 10, No. 2 / Fantasia on a Theme by Hermann Goetz, Op. 20	Oliver King	1	0
7.	Three Pieces: (a) Baptism, (b) Wedding, (c) Burial	A. C. Mackenzie (each)	1	0
8.	Voluntary for Christmas	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
9.	Voluntary	F. A. G. Ouseley	1	0
10.	Short Voluntary for a Time of Sorrow	Ridley Prentice	0	6
11.	Short Voluntary for Lent	B. Luard Selby	1	0
12.	Postlude in C minor	C. Steggall	1	0
13.	Concluding Voluntary or Fantasia (Lent)	C. E. Stephens	1	0
14.	Three Canons	W. G. Wood	2	0
15.	Allegretto	C. H. Lloyd	1	0
16.	Allegretto in D	B. Luard Selby	1	0
17.	Three Pieces: No. 1, Allegretto moderato; No. 2, Andante con moto; No. 3, Processional March	H. M. Higgs	2	6
18.	Andante in G	Herbert W. Wareing	1	0
19.	Andante in A and Minuet in A	C. Harford Lloyd	1	6
20.	Allegro ma non troppo	Oscar Wagner	1	0
21.	Processional Wedding March	Henry R. Bird	1	0
22.	Rêverie	B. Luard Selby	1	0
23.	Three Pieces in F, D, and G	B. Luard Selby	1	6
24.	Marche Sérieuse	B. Luard Selby	1	0
25.	Six Miniatures	Oscar Wagner	2	6
26.	Three Preludes	John E. West	1	0
